The spirit of the day inspired the whole assemblage. College recreations and college ideals received careful consideration, and the class of the year was presented to the company in a unique way and given wholesome advice and encouragement. Thanksgiving and our Republic gave an opportunity for the Professor of Economies and Sociology to call for valiant patriotism and loyalty in stirring and eloquent words.

The Hon. Thos H. Lion filled the place of toestmaster mos admirably in spite of the annoy ance of a severe cold. He called upon Dr. Roop to make a speed in his stead, and the response was an optimistic review of the progress of Eastern College during the few months of her life in her new home.

College songs, heartily sung by all, were interspersed with the speeches. Rousing cheers for the New Eastern and her President, and for those who had made the occasion a success not forgetting the cook-filled the spacious hall

THE DEMOCRAT is one year old today.

The first anniversary of this newspaper, is an event of deeper meaning than mere marking of time. It represents vindication of the cause that THE DEMOCRAT was founded to uphold the sinthe saki or wood alcohol, now, town. cause of the masses against the classes and justification of our advent into the newspaper field of Manassas and Prince William County Within the period of one year we have succeeded in Est times when we are there calling tablishing THE DEMOCRAT upon a foundation so firm, that it now of a Romeo and Juliet scene is a recognized normanent institution of the Tourselle of that with Democratic line is a recognized normanent institution of the Tourselle of that with Democratic line is a recognized normanent institution of the Tourselle of the with Democratic line is a recognized normanent institution of the Tourselle of the rest in the period of one year we have succeeded in Est times when we are there calling on the period of the rest in the period of the is a recognized permanent institution of the Town and County. It is an achievement that has few parallels in newspaper history, for barriers surmounted and difficulties overcome. We have a right to be proud of THE DEMOCRAT.

The past year has been the most eventful in our careers, revealing previous experiences as successive preparatory steps leading to our life's work. Until they find the work they were meant to do, men interpret life as a succession of incidents tossed about by chance, with no ulterior motive. The view is changed when a definite purpose is attained and every atom of ability is directed toward realization. Our life interests are centered in Manassas and Prince William County, and in THE DEMOCRAT we are giving you the very best we are capable of producing with the facilities at our command. THE DEMOCRAT is a commercial proposition only to the mingle her lovely traces with extent of providing us with sustenance, and even so, we shall again in high erescende, pour the individual, amoothing his never permit patronage to even suggest influencing our utterances.

We have made sacrifices to maintain the integrity and preserve the purity of this newspaper and most willingly we will make them again, if need be. There is no power on earth that can compel or conciliate us to deviate from our newspaper standards.

There have been times during the past year when developments appeared providential. On one memorable occasion all seemed lost until the fatal, or was it fateful moment, when relief came from a wholly unexpected source and with no conditions attached.

Every plot against us during the year has failed, bringing disaster

The blinds were drawn over the scene of merrymaking, but we recognized, members of the gang by the riag" in their tones. There was not a Democratic in the ground Noors of them only to the schemers. We have won out when, to others, our downfall appeared inevitable, and well-meaning persons had advised us to yield. Guidance comes always. Its origin and nature are beyond our powers of divination, but we have faith in it just the

THE DEMOCRAT, at the close of its first year, is welcomed into more than 1,800 homes, through "the largest bona fide circulation of any newspaper ever published in Prince William County." It must be admitted that this is a most remarkable record for one year, especially when it is taken into consideration that we have had no organized campaign for subscribers. Additions are being made to our list of subscribers every day and discontinuances are ming. very few and far between. The people are standing by us in our fight against political monopoly.

POLITICAL GANG METHODS

An evidence of methods employed by the political gang was presented last week in The Journal by a lengthy report of Commissioner Vernon E. Ford in the suit of the Supervisors of Prince William County against County Treasurer James E. Herrell. In substance the report is merely a repetition of the document submitted to the Circuit Court at the last July term, when Judge Lewis C. of Alexandria, sitting for Judge J. B. T.
