WORN BIBLE RECALLS PATRIOTIC WAR SCENE

ON BATTLEFIELD OF MANASSAS

—Northern Border Rebel Story and New Verse by John B. Payne.

A Younger soldier lying dying on the Manassas battlefield, while his comrades were rushing around him for the return of a worn Bible found by another soldier, called to mind the following incident:

Stevensburg, Va., March 20, 1871.
Mr. D. A. Arrington.

Mr. Arrington:

It was on the 21st of March, 1862, that the battle of Manassas was fought. It was the second battle of the war, and the regiment I belonged to, the 1st Alabama, was the first to reach the village of Manassas, and engaged the enemy there, and immediately afterward was driven back on the front of the division. The enemy after having driven us back, came up in our rear and gave us a hot reception as we were getting our ranks in order to make another attack, and it was in this engagement that my old Bible was lost. I thought it fitting that I should return the copy of it to you, as it was the first book I ever owned. I trust that it will do you some good, and I hope that it may be used as a memento of the war.

D. W. Martin.

A. A. Head of Manassas District.
