As to Mr. Bryan's qualifications to fill the office of secretary of state there are widely-varying opinions. The New York World says: "We believe that his attitude towards foreign questions i the attitude of a vest majority of the American people, and we o serve that the opposition to his appointment comes chiefly from people who want the state department to remain a subsidiary Wall street corporation." The New York Sun asks if Mr. Bryan's friends "find in his calculated views and leisurely observations the qualifications for the great office of secretary of state? It is more likely that the judicious would discover in them evidence of his unfitness." The Columbia (S. C.) State pays him a high tribute thus: "Desirous of having Mr. Bryan secretary of state we are entirely when he grows up. That is a middle-aged man's ambition Mr. Bryan will be a friend of the Wilson administration." The New York American rips him fore and aft and warns Mr. Wilson "that Mr. Bryon will be an active candidate to succeed him and marriage. as it has assailed and sought to destroy every candidate named for Mr. Taft only $5,000 a year. AGAIN-GOOD ROADS

It is peculiarly human that about this time of year every one begins to talk, think and dream of good roads and then when spring really comes and the dirt roads become fairly dry and easily passable the subject is forgotten and the result is no good roads are built. Manassas and Prince William county are, we regret to say, falling behind their neighbors in this most important work. Culpeper and Fauquier counties have each bonded themselves for more than $100,000 for roads, and it they find it a good investment surely it will prove so for Prince William. It is an indisputable fact that wherever there is a good macadamized road there will be found the best improved, best cultivated, most valuable farms. Such roads the effort to raise more crops and makes the farm so much more As Inauguration Day draws nearer the great dailies become salable that it gets into the hands of the farmer who is in earnest more and more excited over Mr. Wilson's probable cabinet.
