STATES' RIGHTS

Although the Federal Government has seemed to be taking Jeffries. more and more authority away from the states, the recent decision Railroad Rate case has given a clearer outline of what rights states dinners they serve down on the farm. have to regulate their affairs than has ever been handed down before. The decision, written by Justice Hughes, is a 35,000 word document and is too involved for the average layman, even Attorney General McReynolds says, that he will have to give it close study before saying just where it draws the lines. But it clearly defined the powers of all state public utilities commissions and says that who will continue to complain of the high cost of living. when such a commission rules on rates, equipment, etc., within the state's borders, there is no appeal unless the rates are confis-

Some eight years ago the legislature of Minnesota passed a two-cent passenger fare law. It went into effect but the railroads rate was confiscatory and the Minnesota courts upheld them. The State's attorney appealed to the Supreme Court and in the meantime a 21-cent rate. went into effect. The decision just handed down will put the two cent rate into effect again and the railroads will have to turn over about $3,000,000-overcharges to the state

This looks like another step in the right direction both as to the as to controlling the great public utilities engaged in intrastate ciency, fast living, gambling, intemperance, abuse of sport and traffic. It places more responsibility upon the state legislatures foolishness." There is a faction or bunch of fadists that call themselves artists, who have discovered or invented a style of drawing that would drive the average man to strong drink. They pretend think there is no such thing as a curved line. That in looking at lines angles and cubes. They draw pictures on this principle and these pictures look like the nightmare of a blockhead or like a mess of toy blocks that some child has spilled out of a box. that was unique in that there was no nominating primary or caucus man they wished to honor with their ballot. There has been much said, of late, about a lack of confidence in a council nominated by a mass-meeting where, it was claimed, things were fixed beforesand, but there is no room for such an obligation in this election because it was a free and open chance to pick the men best suites for the place and in no case did a member of the next council get less than sixty-five per cent of the total vote cast. Now let all the voters get in line, forege knocking, boost and push for prosperity and a Greater Managene.

OUR CITY FATHERS TO BE CONGRATULATED

Last night the Mayor and Town Council adopted an ordinance having for its object the issue of $75,000 of town bonds, the proceeds of which are to be used for the installation of a water, light and sewerage system for the town of Manassas.

The town authorities are to be congratulated for this progressive move. - While all-wise and prudent people dread, the idea of incurring debts, our town has reached such a point that unless we keep abreast of towns of similar importance, they will outstep Manassas.

Manassas, in general appearance and advantages, is the equal of any town in the State of its size, but we have no modand small manufacturers. Had we these modern improvements, those persons who have improved property would find active demand for same, and at better rental values than now prevail. It is hoped that when the Circuit Court, or the Judge thereof, shall order an election, that our citizens will authorize the issuance of the bonds, and if this is done and these improvements installed, there will not be a community of similar size within the same distance of Washington which will premany advantages as Manassas as a place to reside and transact says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky. in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able [1] to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework as well as run a big water mill. I wish every suffering woman would give
