MANASSAS, VA., THURSDAY, DEC. 11, 1913.

FOOD GAMBLERS VULTURES "Voracious vultures of the market place" and "plunderbund of food sharks" were characterizations applied to cold storage speculators who corner perishable foodstuffs to boost prices, by Repretihe W. C. T. U. will observe sentative McKellar, of Tennessee, when he spoke Monday, champ-"State Red Letter Day."

ioning his bill for Federal regulation of the cold storage business. Saving that his prosposed legislation was not designed to injure All of the ministers will take par in the program. The subject the cold storage business as such, Mr. McKellar declared: the evening will be 'Prohi

"The drastic features of the bill are only aimed at the corrupt tion." All are cordially invited and dishonest, at the gamblers, at the voracious vultures who stand around in the market places and reap where they have not sown and fatten on other people's food. I do not believe any member this great House will stand up for any such plunderbund of food

The McKellar bill, which will prescribe both prison terms and heavy fines for violation of its provisions, would make it illegal ship adulterated and misbranded food products in interstate co merce, and would limit the periods in which food products may be held in storage without becoming adulterated.

POLITICAL INCONSISTENCY

Certain United States senators are vigorously complaining because of the importunities of persons seeking government jobs. These statesmen should not forget that they have been for years importuning the voters to send them to Washington. These Senators should be pleased to have their constituents call upon them is a relief to the common people. If these office-seekers could not appeal to their senators they would be annoying the man of business with their pleadings. The senators will thus ascertain how the common, everyday man feels when he is being relentlessly pursued by candidates for office. So, why not smile and give all applicants for soft snaps the "glad hand?"

MAIL YOUR PARCELS EARLY

Because of the parcel post, the strain on the postal service v be harder than it has ever been before. The load will be in tons what it has been in pounds, the rush in armies what it has been squads. Though the postoffice department has been making preparations for weeks to care for the holiday business, there is a motel of anxiety throughout the service which indicates that all condemed fear that the strain may reach the breaking point.

The public will be doing the postoffice a good turn by posting its Christmas percels early. But it may prove, it will be doing itself a still better service. For the parcel that gets in early will be the one most certain of reaching its destination in good time.

PARAGRAPHS

Vanity leads most people to extravagance...

A man is never too old to learn, but he may be too obstinate. It is hard for a women to hold her husband's love when she can't even hold her tongue.

Political machines are the organizations of parties to whose principles you do not subscribe.

of not letting on at first that she knows. That fact that we are all born equal probably accounts for our inability to forgive the success of our friends.

Perhaps the time may come when biographers will sometimes write "He was the son of rich, but honest parents."

Women complain that they have been crowded out of history. But this it not true in the case of Eve. She has received as much astention as Old Adam.

Abe Martin says that folks who discuss Mexican politics are mighty careful not t' mention any names. Next t' a fourteen venr o d boy ther haint nothin' as worthless as th' average opinion.

Once more you will have to remove your hat in recognition of the department of agriculture at Washington. By scientific methods it has pulled the puckering string out of the persimmons.
