HUERTA MUST GO.

With his back to the wall and with the end staring him in the face, the man who calls himself President of Mexico waits with arrogant insolance the action of the United States. Huerta knows that his days as Provisional President are numbered, and that his political career is about over. With characteristic stubbornness, out in the underbrush Doc Cooke is sardonically gnawing a gu however: he refusas to move a point from his original arrogant stand drop. and defies the United States to force him to apologize.

tween himself and the United States Huerta believes that the Mexican people will become a solid political mass behind him, and that the menace of an outside fee will, draw all lines together. It may have that effect, but it is hardly probable that Huerta will be called upon to lead his people. The Mexican people should have about enough of Huerta.

Based upon treachery, crime and bloodshed, the Huerta admin istration has had a stormy, abhorrent life. With the murder of Madero it began a succession of loathsome acts which would not have days called for more exensive quenchers. been countenanced in any country in the world except Mexico. Debauches have marked Huerta's residence in the national palace, and such orgies as Nero may have held have marked his ruin. He has miquilpam. President Wilson, in his interview Tuesday stated that the Uni ed States will not make war upon Mexico. It would, however make war upon Huerta, and in so doing will carry out the plans the President has formulated to the letter. Patience has been exhausted, and Huerta must go. - Lynchburg Adance.

hibition in North Carolina. This is what the governor says in a vourself. letter to a gentleman in Richmond:

"Yours of March 24th received. Replying I will say that prohibition has been of immense benefit to North Carolina. 'In many districts it has brought peace and properity where lawlessness prevailed. WHAT ANSWER

by tearing the president down. Let no democrat in congress think vertising doesn't jerk—it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but that a divided democracy can command popular confidence at the polls. When the November elections are held, every democrat in Mr. Wanamaker says means simply this presistency wise in ad the north will have to stand or fall by his party's record. No man | vertising! - John Wanamaker. will be judged by himself alone. He will be judged by what his party has done and what it has left undone. The success that the democratic party has thus far achieved has been brought about by The Secret of Health harmony of action under the leadership of the president. There may be democrats in congress who believe they are better fitted for such leadership than Woodrow Wilson. There may be democrats in congress who think that if the party could be pursuaded to mutiny against the president, their opportunity of leadership would come next. If so, they are living in a fool's paradise. If the democratic party cannot command public confidence under Wilson's leadership, it cannot command popular confidence under anybody's leadershin. If it cannot maintain harmony of action under his leadership, it cannot maintain harmony of action under anybody's leadership. If it cannot win under him, it cannot win at all. That applies to 1916 no less than 1914. Every democrat who is fighting the president for the profit of the coastwise-shipping monopoly is fighting for democratic defeat and for democratic disaster.—New
