WARNING AGAINST PROHIBITION LAW

Association For Local Self-Government Enactment Prohibitory Law

Richmond, Va., July 14. The only part of the State that has not made a law for the abolition of prohibition is Virginia. As the legislature here is not to meet until next fall, and the issue of the question is likely to be decided here, the Washington office has been made known to the people of Virginia by sending out a letter to all the voters of the State asking them to vote for the abolition of prohibition. This letter is to be placed in all the newspapers of the State.

In the meantime, the people of Virginia have been working hard to get the abolition of prohibition. They have been organizing and sending out petitions to the legislature, and they have been sending out letters to the people of the State asking them to vote for the abolition of prohibition. The people of Virginia are determined to get the abolition of prohibition, and they are working hard to get it.
