For Midsummer —
LYONS VELVET HATS

If history is to be believed, women at one time wore straw hats in summer, and velvet hats in winter. Woman is a creature of fashion and by no means depends upon the weather man to tell her what to wear.

In winter she wears hats of straw or lace—summer, by the sea, she dons the chaplet of velvet.

Because it is becoming almost always, and because it seems so perfect, the French and the English wear the expensiveity of lovely woman’s hats, and applied her to her own head through the weather on 100 degrees in the shade.

These new models are in large, medium, and small chaplets. The veil is divided into three pieces and trimmed with lace and tulle. The trimming is of fine port, in fancy effects.
