IT WOULDN'T HURT TO TRY ONE SUPPER.

About the best way that the proposed and much needed local chamber of commerce or board of trade could be launched would be at a supper for the business men of Manassas. Such an affair would not need to be at all elaborate. The regular evening meal at the New Prince William hotel, served directly after the closing of the dining room to the general public, most any day, could serve as a splendid get-together opportunity for all in Manassas who should be vitally interested in the organization of a local chamber of commerce.

As we stated a few issues back, the initiative in this matter of getting the business interests cemented closely for their common good and advancement and for the growth of the town as a whole, rests with the business men themselves, and most asuuredly, some one or two of our wide-awake, far-sseing business men has or have an unusual chance to render their fellow business-men signal service in definitely promoting the much-talked-of chamber of commerce for Manassas.

There never has been a time in the history of Manassas when the need for united action on the part of the business interests has been so pressing as it is now. There never has been a time in the affairs of this town when a chamber of commerce had better prospects of really amounting to something than at present. And yet, we are letting the dull winter season slip by—the very time we are most free to do work Mrs. J. S. Wood was a Washingto of this sort—without getting this important organization definitely shopper Saturday.

Are there not one or two local business men who will promote a get-together supper at the New Prince William hotel for the very business Monday. early future? Who knows but what such a gathering might mean, as Mr. John Vetter paid a brief visit it certainly could, a turning point for the better in the affairs of the Washington Saturday, visiting his siscounty seat of Prince William, and be the forerunner of a series of ters, Mrs. J. Cannot we here in Prince William beat a new path in this matter? Do we have to go in the same groove others go in, just because it is easier to accept the present order? Should not our efforts first of all he directed where most vitally needed?

Our schools are full of children who are not getting the righ kind of daily exercise in moderation. For the proper development of the body of the school child, a liberal amount of play is necessary. adapted, of course, to the individual's make-up and mode of life. Too much play or work is as conducive of harmful results and just as surely as where there is not enough. Our children need guidance and adult supervision in their play, and the weak and undeveloped need to be made feel just as welcome in such activities as the skilled and strong.

As things are now, play for the strong and skilled in our schools is more or less well organized and receives liberal encouragement. This is well, where not over-emphasized nor overdone, and it is not our intention to discourage such activities as long as they are entered into the Age with cattle.

The swiftly changing economic conditions are seriously affecting all sections of the country, as everyone who buys or sells well knows. Life nowhere is the same or anywhere near the same as it was before the great world war, and it it useless to expect a complete return of "the good old times." Readjustments are demanded in all walks of life, and the sooner such readjustments are recognized as necessary. no matter how painful, and are properly made, the cooner will the individual and the nation be on the road to a fair degree of prosperity.

There is no denying that the farmer is particularly hard hit, in these times when all types of businesses are "on the slump." The has seen "tough sledding" and has plenty of reason for feeling blue. His immediate future is hazy, as is the future of all classes for tha matter, and it is hard for him to summon the courage necessary to tackle the daily tasks in the way they should be tackled.

But spring will soon be upon us, and the stagnation and inertia of winter past. To each of the then will come the test—whether we will go about our work in the spirit of one who has lost all hope in life, or in the spirit of "I'll do the best I can and hope for the best." Think it over. Plan now with even greater pains than ever be-

The Submarine and The Motor Carrier

"The submarine can sink a battleship but it can't take the hattleship's place.

That is the verdict of our naval authorities. The submarine has its field in naval warfare, and a mighty important field, too, but it's not the field of the capital ship.

The unregulated motor carrier may ruin the electric or steam railway with which it competes, but, having done so, it can not furnish railway service.

This service, regular and dependable in all kinds of weather is provided 365 days in the year. It is furnished on unprofitable as well as profitable routes. It builds up cities and villages and makes country districts accessible. It is one of the great constructive factors in the social and business life of the state.

Neither electric railways nor steam short lines can continue much longer to serve the public in the face of the unfair compatition to which they are now subjected. They realize that motor carriers also furnish a useful public service, but contend that that Bervice, as well as their own, enght to be under State regulation

Dr. John W. Wayland, of Harrisophurg Normal, to Speak Twice Localty.

The chief attraction of the week for citizens of Prince William and Manassas who are interested in beter citizenship and government will be the speaking tomorrow (Friday) of Dr. John W. Wayland, professor of history and social science at the Harrisonburg State Normal School. This speaking will be under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of Prince William county, which will give a luncheon at 12:30 tomorrow at the high school to members of the Auxiliary and other women organizations throughout the county who attend the meeting.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2 e'clock the Auxiliary will hold a short business session, after which Dr. Waytand will address the body and women attending from other organizations throughout the county on "Some Practical Facts'in Government and Law."

In the evening, Dr. Wayland will'adthress the general public at the court house on either "The Progress of Democracy," or "The Making of Citizens." In addition to Dr. Wayland's address fornorrow evening, several local business men are expected to speak in the interests of the organization of a local chamber of commerce. A large crowd. it is hoped, will be present at the evesing meeting, which promises to be. very interesting.

The opportunity to hear Dr. Wayland give an address on a subject of general interest is one that does not fall to the lot of Manassas often, and, for this reason, it is thought he will be greeted by a large audience both in the afternoon and evening.

Group 3, Virginia Bankers' Association, will meet at Manassas on Feb. 22. Representatives from about fifty banks in this district are expected to be in attendance. A banquet, beginning at 2 e'clock in the afternoon, will be held in the dining room at Eastern College.
