NEWS BULLETIN

The Board held its annual meeting today. A large number of important resolutions were passed which will be printed in full next week.

J. Lindsay Dawson was continued as chairman.

A resolution was passed to co-operate with the Federal Government insofar as possible in connection with the Choppawamsic Recreation Project which will involve the purchase of from seven to ten thousand acres in the Independent Hill area and forms a part of the nation-wide plan to encourage farming and to improve waste lands.

PROGRESS ON NATIONAL MILITARY PARK

During the year 1934 more progress was made in the building of the Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania National Military Park than in any year since a local group conceived the idea in 1886, only to see their plans frustrated by the failure of Congress to endorse.

J. CARL KINCHELOE.

Widely known and popular young business man and sportsman who joined the Manassas Kiwanis Club at the beginning of this year.

MANASSAS CHAPTER MEETS WITH MRS. V. V. GILLUM

On Tuesday afternoon a well-attended and interesting meeting of the Manassas Chapter, U. D. C., was held at the home of Mrs. V. V. Gillum, the president, Mrs. Lons, presiding. The guests were cordially welcomed by Mrs. Gillum and Mrs. Guthrie, hostesses.

Miss Nollie Nelson reported seven Christmas baskets sent to veterans or their families.

Mrs. Marsteller, chairman of the program committee for the annual Lee and Jackson anniversary memorial exercises, has secured the co-operation of the high school and the children of the Confederacy Chapter. These memorial exercises are to be held in the high school auditorium the afternoon of Jan. 24, instead of the 16th.

The objectives for the Virginia Division Chapters, sent by Mrs. Nottingham, for the year 1935, were read by Mrs. Byrd, also a letter of greeting to the chapter from Mrs. Nottingham, Division president, was read.

Mrs. Lons spoke of her appreciation of the chapter's co-operation in the tea held last month in the home of Mrs. Guy Allen. A vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Allen for her splendid hospitality.

Mrs. Kincheloe, chairman of the finance committee, announced a food sale to be held the latter part of the month. Mrs. Ashford has done splendid work in visiting prospective members. Mrs. W. A. Newman was elected historian, in place of Mrs. Thornton, resigned.

When the Battlefield Museum is completed, a valuable book will be presented to it, through the chapter, by Mr. Eppa Hunton, the 4th. This news came to the chapter through Mrs. Marsteller.

Mrs. C. M. Larkin read an able article in The Southern magazine, written by the ex-historian general, Mrs. John Huske Anderson, on the "War Between the States"—not "Civil War." The following are some extracts from it:

"It was not a Civil War, as it was not fought between two parties within the same government."

"It was not a War of Secession, for the Southern States seceded without a thought of war."

"It was not a War of Rebellion, for Sovereign Independent States, co-equal, cannot rebel against each other."

"It was a War Between the States, because twenty-two non-seceding States made war upon eleven seceding States."

"We find a war time reference to the conflict of 1861 to 65, in a case of the Supreme Court of the United States, Vol. 67 Page 673, as a War Between the Northern and Southern States."

"In the words of Miss Rutherford, a past historian U. D. C.: 'Our friends from the North do not object to the truth of history, provided we are fair and just. Whatever is done let it be done in the spirit of truth and peace and love and good will. Today we stand and desire to stand, a reunite people, all sections at peace and united.' This sentiment finds an echo in the heart of every true Daughter of the Confederacy."

During the social hour, lovely refreshments were served, carrying out the chapter's colors.

HALL SEES NEED OF STATE SURVEY

New Parks Chief Outlines Plan at C. of C. Dinner.

Making his first public utterance since his appointment at Governor Peery's hands, Chairman Wilbur C. Hall, at a meeting of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, pleaded for co-operation in developing the resources of Virginia.

"Our task," he said, "is to acquaint America with our shrines and show places, so that Virginia will reap an even richer harvest of tourist dollars and those who come and see will be more impressed with the glories of Virginia's past, which will tend to an appreciation of the possibilities of the future."

Tourist traffic is competitive, Mr. Hall said, in urging establishment of a central tourist bureau which would map out and suggest trips that the tourist might not think of alone. By such methods, the speaker said, tourist travel in Virginia might be prolonged.

Water power, geology and forest activities were reviewed by the speaker, who referred to them as "potential sources of inestimable wealth."

"We may well be thinking of the advantages of an economic survey in Virginia as affording opportunities for industrial expansion. Those agencies which would benefit from the coming of new industries might well afford to finance in part the cost of a modern economy survey of Virginia, and in so doing would thereby make available an economic and profitable development of these latent resources."

"I hope that we fully appreciate our system of State parks now in the process of development. The vision that we have is that this system shall constitute a chain of parks, a system of recreational centers, where people may go on week-ends with their families and get back where nature is untouched by modern civilization; starting with the Chesterfield development, thence to Westmoreland Park, thence to the Seashore Park at Virginia Beach, thence to the Staunton River Park in Halifax, thence to Fairstone Park in Patrick County, thence to Hungry Mother at Marion, in Smyth County, and thence to Douthat Park at Clifton Forge."

Mr. Hall said a new day has dawned which bespeaks the progress of Virginia, after he had termed the record of Virginia in recent years "an inspiration to those interested in sound government policies." He spiritedness, pointing out that "the urged placing emphasis on public right of the individual to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness has been merged into that of the individual to shape his life, his liberty and his happiness."

The speaker said the commission which he heads will "view Virginia as a whole and develop every section of Virginia in co-operation with the National Resources Board and the State Planning Board." He paid tribute to the work of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce.

WOMANS CLUB HOLDS EXHIBIT

Local Art and Handicraft Shows Considerable Talent.

The regular monthly meeting of the Manassas Woman's Club was held on Wednesday of this week, with a good attendance, in spite of the inclement weather and sickness among the members of the club.

The Rev. Mr. Kesner of the U. B. Church spoke briefly on the fourth phase of the club collect, "May we never be hasty in judgment, and always generous." His remarks and scripture references did much to impress on those present the deep meaning and significance of these few lines.

Reports of sections and committees were interesting and showed the usual progress, with well attended meetings by both the Garden and Music-Literature Sections. Mrs. Guthrie, chairman of Garden section, reported that Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Lyon were the successful contestants in the recent contest for outdoor Christmas decorations, sponsored by the Garden Section.

The matter of club support and helping finance the candidacy of Mrs. J. L. B. Buck, at present State director of Virginia, for office of corresponding secretary of National Federation of Woman's Clubs, was presented, and a contribution made to the campaign fund.

The program committee then presented a most interesting and tastefully arranged exhibit of "Local Art and Handicraft," which was most enlightening as to local talent along these lines.

Outstanding among the many beautiful quilts were: a quilt made by the mother of the Rev. Mr. Miller in 1861 as a part of her trousseau, a beautiful hard woven bed spread over 100 years old made by Mrs. J. F. Leachman was also a valuable addition to this group, which included a number of more recent quilts, several made by Mrs. E. May Dogan. Mrs. Dogan also exhibited some very lovely hooked rugs, as did Miss Kate Zerbe, whose large hooked rug in taupe and rose, stood out among the many in this class.

Hand painted china, the work of the exhibitors, Mrs. Eli Swavely and Mrs. V. V. Gillum, showed considerable talent and was greatly admired.

Mr. Jack Ratcliffe's ship model and drawings added quite a touch to this type of handicraft and were cleverly executed.

Among the hand woven linens Mrs. Ayleene Guthrie's hand woven scarfs were outstanding, both for the beauty of their weaving and the artistic colorings of the woven borders.

In the antique class, Mrs. William Cocke showed a purse belonging to Stonewall Jackson, said to have been carried by him during the war, and a letter from Robert E. Lee.

Beautifully embroidered and crocheted articles showed great skill and rare artistic taste of the exhibitors.

Mrs. A. S. Gibson with an able corps of assistants dispersed refreshments during the social hour.

SERIOUS SHOOTING

AT WATERFALL

This morning the Sheriff's office was notified that there was a colored man by the name of Tom Stokes in one of the Washington hospitals who had been shot by another colored man by the name of Bridges, near Waterfall.

Immediately upon that call, the deputy sheriff, Preston Smith, was called at Waterfall to arrest young Bridges. This he proceeded to do and brought the man to Manassas and locked him up.

It seems that there was a party at Lawrence Williams' last night where much drinking took place. Just how the shooting occurred is not known as yet.

Bridges came to Deputy Sheriff Smith's home some time in the night but was so thoroughly intoxicated that Deputy Smith could not get a reasonable conversation from him and told him to go home, but he was still there this morning.

As soon as the call was gotten Deputy Sheriff Smith arrested him and lodged him in jail. The hearing will be held on January 17 at 10:00 o'clock, waiting the developments of Tom Stokes who is now in the hospital.

CATHARPIN

Mrs. Cordelia Swart of Sudley was a caller at the E. N. Pattie home one day last week, calling upon the "shut-ins," Mrs. Pattie and her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Wilkins, who is domiciled for the present in the home of her daughter in Catharpin. Mrs. Swart is ever faithful in visiting among her friends and all are glad to welcome her among them.

A good congregation was Sudley's portion last Sunday morning when the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Sapp, preached an excellent sermon. Sudley is becoming accustomed to some mighty good sermons these days.

Gordon and Wayne Pattie, young sons of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Pattie, had the happy experience of spending the week-end with their sister, Mrs. Raymond Briggs of Washington.

An event of local interest was a birthday celebration at the home of Mrs. Bertie Riley Caton when she and her twin brother, Robert Riley, observed this milestone in their lives by partaking of a special dinner on Sunday evening last to which their neighbors and friends, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Pattie, were honored guests. Mrs. Caton, long a valued and loved resident of this community, together with her brother, has the best wishes of the neighborhood for many returns of the occasion.

Mrs. Audrey McIntosh Munday, formerly of this neighborhood, is reported in poor health at the present time and is now at the home of her husband's parents in Washington undergoing treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Pattie and daughter, Eula Elaine, of Stone House, were New Year's guests of the former's parents at Belle Farm. Mr. R. A. Collins, who has been complaining for the last fortnight of not being as well as he would like to be, is feeling much better and able to be about again.

Mrs. Brower continues to slowly improve but is not yet able to sit up for any length of time. The doctor is now able to call on his patients.

Mrs. Gussie Lynn Webb, who has been spending the holidays with her mother in Catharpin, returned to Chicago last Friday where she is employed by the Government in one of its alphabetical activities. As we are accustomed to think of it, Chicago is a long ways off, yet Mrs. Webb, with some other friends transferred at the same time, made the trip from Chicago to Washington in a little over twenty-five hours in one of Henry's Model "A" touring cars. This shows just what can be done when one wants to get home bad enough to make the try. Mrs. Webb said the city is well named the "windy city," and is "as cold as the mischief."

To people living out in the country some of the city statistics sound appalling and very hard to understand. Just recently a published report shows that Washington stands second among ten other cities of like size in regard to the number of murders committed during the past year; in fact more people were murdered in the capital city in one year than were killed during the World War from the District of Columbia soldier quota. It sounds odd, too, to hear that no woman would dare go out alone on the streets of Chicago at night, yet it is all too true. So we have now come to the conclusion that if people valued safety, comfort, contentment and peace of mind, they should move to Catharpin and be at rest. The only thing that bothers us here is that when a holiday of some kind comes around we forget ourselves and overeat. That's the trouble with many of our complainers just now but we don't like to acknowledge it.

Mr. and Mrs. George Carey, accompanied by Mrs. Lester Anderson and young son, spent Thursday of last week with Mrs. Carey's sister in Faulkner, Md.

Prof. and Mrs. Sydney T. Lawler and sister, Miss Mildred Lawler, called at the Carey home for a few hours on Saturday of last week.

Mr. George Carey was the "guest of honor" at his own birthday dinner given by Mrs. Carey last Sunday at their home near Catharpin. A number of invited guests were present, among them Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Shackelford and children from Haymarket, Va.

The many friends of Mrs. Frank Lee Hoffman, of Detroit, will be glad to learn that she is slowly improving.

Well, we are again engaged in our annual or "seasonal" job of complaining about the roads. As we think of them in terms of today, some of them are pretty bad, but we must remember that things are either good or bad only by comparison. The same abusive adjectives are used against the roads of today that were used 20 years ago, yet a comparison between the two periods could hardly be made when travel conditions are under consideration. At that time there was no Lee Highway and no automobiles to speak of. Roads could get knee deep and no one would know it unless he had to go some place. For the most part he stayed at home and let the world get along as best it could until nature provided a way for him to get out in the spring. Now, however, we can think only in terms of concrete highways and, of course, everything else is simply bad, although cars are moving every day. If we can be patient for another 20 years, no doubt many of our reasons for complaint today shall be removed. Such is history.

DECLARATION OF COMMERCIAL POLICY FOR NEW YEAR

In a seven-point program unanimously adopted at its recent first annual meeting the Southern States Industrial Council pledged itself to work untiringly during the next several months for:

1. Retention of wage differentials under the NRA.
2. To keep Southern labor free.
3. To resist "every unjust encroachment by government upon the established rights of private capital and individual initiative."
4. To remove discriminatory freight rates.
5. To "arouse the South to a full consciousness of its own potentialities."
6. To insist that in the consideration of NRA codes the states, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, and that part of West Virginia lying south of a line drawn from Ravenswood on the Ohio River to Minnehaha Springs on the southeastern boundary be regarded as a "distinct and homogeneous economic unit."
7. To bring about "whatever may be judged to be necessary to the relief and prosperity of the cotton industry."

In its declaration of policy in regard to keeping Southern labor free, the council declared that Section 7-a of the National Recovery Act "has been undoubtedly the breeder of more industrial conflict than was ever caused by any other one thing" and advocated that the section be entirely abolished or so reformed as to make it constructive rather than destructive.

"We propose to defend with all our strength the right of our Southern labor to manage its own affairs and to remain at peace with those at whose hands it enjoys its opportunities to work. We maintain that the right to work is as sacred as the right to strike," the council declared. "We shall resolutely oppose anything that tends to impair the freedom of contract between groups and individuals and will recognize no limitation of it or any unusual interpretation of it which has not been approved by the Supreme Court of the United States," it was declared.

While insisting that wage differentials must be retained, the council declared, "We shall continue to urge that all employers in the South establish and maintain within their own plants the highest standards of wage rates which they can pay with justice to all concerned."

Asserting that one of the most prevalent popular delusions is the idea that anything which the government produces and distributes to its citizens at prices or rates below those charged by private enterprise is a real saving to the citizens, the council declared that "as a rule, the excess of taxes to cover the hidden costs in the industrial and business activities of the government is considerably larger than the imaginary saving in the prices or rates for commodities thus produced and distributed."

It was pointed out that the government's continued activities in the field of private business are in direct conflict with assurances written into the NRA's declaration of policy.

In conclusion, the council declared that its aim is "to meet the requirements of a vigorous leadership in ascertaining what the South needs and thinks, and in presenting courageously its just claims to all who are not impervious to the light of understanding."

BANG'S DISEASE

The Agent is receiving frequent requests in regard to testing cattle for Bang's Disease, formerly called abortion. A request was sent to our State Veterinarian, Dr. H. C. Givens, for a brief description of the law and the following reply was received:

"Practicing veterinarians in all sections of the State are paid by the Federal Government to draw blood samples from the herds of cattle whose owners have signed the Federal agreement, with the costs of such testing paid by the Federal Government. On these two tests the owners are paid indemnity at the rate of not to exceed $20 per head for grade and $50 for purebred animals. The owner gets the salvage. In no case can the salvage and indemnity be paid for the same animal."

There have been several herds of cattle tested under this plan in Fairfax County and no doubt many more will be tested. Any cattle owner who will contact Dr. B. L. Poole, Herndon; Dr. Jesse Hayes, Alexandria, or Dr. H. E. Piekeral, Manassas, can get detailed information from any of them.

If the Agent can be of any assistance to you, do not hesitate to call on him.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a precious heritage to them in later years.

GOD IS MERCIFUL: Thou art a God ready to pardon, gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness.—Nehemiah 9:17.

PATIENCE

In retrospect, events may seem to have moved swiftly enough, and we may think also that other men make quick progress toward success, but it is rarely that our own fate and fortunes unfold at the pace we would choose. Our ambition lays out a hopeful course, which we are confident we can follow: our eyes have already seen the desired destination and, therefore, our heart and hopes outstrip the slow passage of events.

Interruptions and disappointments, irksome, trivial and beyond our anticipation and control, arise daily to check and prolong our labors, and it needs no less patience than endurance to weather such small storms and accidents.

But the passage of time in itself contributes to real achievement, and for this we may forgive the delays that prevent us from too headlong a course. Time permits us to mature in orderly fashion to the scale of our own ambitions; time leaves our enthusiasm with judgment and our self-confidence with proper humility; time teaches proportion and shows us where our best work belongs. This is a slow alchemy but necessary to ourselves and the work to which we are dedicated.

True patience is not merely a dull endurance of the hazards of fortune. It is rather the habit of turning to some account the changes and chances that lie in our path, so that when our high opportunity comes we may be ready for it.—Winchester Star.

V. P. S. CO. ANNOUNCES
FURTHER RATE REDUCTION
EFFECTIVE JANUARY 1, 1935

The Virginia Public Service Company announced last week that the second step of the $77,000 rate reduction to residential lighting consumers announced in September, 1934, will become effective for service rendered in January and reflected in meter readings made on and after February 1, 1935. The first step of the reduction was effective with the bills mailed in October, 1934. Further reductions are scheduled for April and September, 1935, it was stated by A. L. Jameson, local manager of the company.

The second change in the residential rate schedule presents the opportunity for immediate and future savings on all increased use of electric current in the home. The latest changes enable the smaller domestic users to earn a lower rate per unit with greater use. All current-consuming devices in the home can now be used at a lower cost per kilowatt hour, according to Mr. Jameson.

While the minimum charge of $1.00 per month, which permits the customer to use 10 kilowatt hours remains the same, the other steps in the rate structure are considerably reduced. Under the new rates a consumer is placed in a position to earn a rate as low as 2c per kilowatt hour.

The reductions scheduled for April and September, 1935, Mr. Jameson said, will also be so designed as to further decrease the cost with greater use by all residential consumers, large and small.

The late Pied Piper of Hamelin had a comparatively simple job when it came to directing a few score rats for his famous personal appearance act some centuries ago.

In the motion picture studios of today, Mr. Piper would find himself considerably at a loss—for he would probably be requested to handle a couple of bears or an anaconda or a flock of kangaroos, and his flute might not prove equal to the job.

His modern counterpart, however, has spent some 22 years in supplying every sort of animal for screen purposes, and has developed a profitable business.

L. F. Comport is the man Hollywood directors turn to when livestock is needed in a scene, and most of the animals you see in pictures today are inhabitants of Comport's menagerie.

Any time you need a husky 400-pound bear as a household pet, you can rent him from Mr. Comport for a mere $50 a day. Pack burros list at a daily rental of $2.54, raccoons at $10, and a trick mule for the kiddies to experiment on will cost you $25.

Atmosphere dogs, meaning canines whose ancestry is in doubt, are available at $2.50 per diem. Chickens and rabbits can be obtained at a rental of 25c apiece, and they bring their own lunch to boot—or Mr. Comport does.

Many of Comport's specimens performed during the making of "Caravan," Erik Charell's enchanting musical spectacle, playing at the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Monday, with Charles Boyer, Loretta Young and Jean Parker.

With the European countryside as his setting, Charell needed plenty of livestock, as well as a big brown bear, and truckloads of cows, sheep, ducks, geese and swans rode to the studio daily in style to play their roles.

Chevrolet Dealers Announce New Car Features

Master De Luxe models, strongly emphasizing beauty and style, and New Standard models, featuring high-powered performance with economy, are announced by Chevrolet.

Master De Luxe body models include sedan, coach, business coupe with luggage compartment, sport coupe with rumble seat, sport sedan, and town sedan. In addition to the coach, business coupe, phaeton, and sport roadster, which comprised the Standard line last year, the 1935 New Standard line includes a full sized four-door sedan and a sedan delivery car for light commercial uses.

The 1935 New Standard has been given virtually the same performance ability as the Master De Luxe which, however, departs distinctly from previous Chevrolets in striking advances in design of body and trim. The engines, incorporating many improvements over the 1934 Master motor, are of the same size and design in both models, while in the chassis the chief difference is the presence in the Master De Luxe of Chevrolet enclosed knee-action suspension, now entering its second year improved in construction and operation.

Mechanically, the two models have in common numerous important improvements in construction and design. Both engines have an original system of high pressure jets supplying oil to connecting rod bearings, and electro-plated pistons, heavier crankshafts, and other new features that contribute to better performance, smoothness, and economy. In both chassis, newly designed clutches, more effective braking systems, stiffer frames, and other advances in design give greater ease of operation, increased durability, and a better ride.

Master De Luxe Appearance
Visually, the new Master De Luxe retains only the characteristic outlines of the radiator, and the familiar trade-mark on hub caps and radiator emblem, to indicate that it is of Chevrolet origin. The V-radiator itself is narrower and more sloping, the unit fenders are highly contoured in their streamlining, while the windshield not only slopes back steeply but also is slightly V-shaper, causing all the forepart of the car to flow smoothly into the body, which is the utmost in smoothness. By utilizing the newly developed all-steel roof construction, Chevrolet has attained a sleekness formerly impossible, its highly crowned roof sweeping from the windshield to the streamlined, graceful rear end in a continuous curve, an effect heightened by the absence of roof panels and moldings and by the continuity of body color over the entire top.

Every detail of the car is new, starting with the front bumper and including the radiator grill, the ornament that supplants the radiator filler-cap (now under the hood), the horizontal hood louvers, the running-board pattern, streamlined door handles, spare tire mountings (concealed in some models), tail lamp, and rear bumper. Aside from appearance, there are important improvements in body comfort and spaciousness, and especially in the ride. The wheelbase of the new Master De Luxe is increased to 113 inches, and an even greater increase in body space has been gained by moving the engine forward. The appearance of great length has been enhanced by lowering the floor level, dropping it one inch nearer the ground by lowering the chassis side rails.

The Master De Luxe sport and town sedans have integral trunks embodied in the rear panels, with compartments for the spare wheel. In the three sedans, pressed steel wheels with short rounded spokes are equipment. Wire wheels with large hub caps are used on the other models.

New Standard Improvements
In the lower priced line of New Standard models, larger bodies, a new engine with 23 per cent more horsepower, an improved chassis frame, and numerous other new features give improved performance, still better economy, and increased comfort and safety.

Bodies are generally improved in spaciousness and comfort, and possess many new convenience and appearance features. The newly added four-door sedan has the same dimensions as the coach, which is 3 1-4 inches longer than the 1934 models and provides 2 1-2 more leg-room in the rear compartment. The closed models all have flat floors in the rear compartment, the ridge formerly existing in front of the seat having been eliminated. The driver's seat, in all closed models, is equipped with finger-tip control for quick adjustment.

Redesigned dials, behind concave glass that eliminates reflections and promotes visibility, are mounted in an improved instrument board having walnut-grained panels.

The main chassis changes are the result of a comprehensive revision of design to effect a marked increase in performance ability. To attain greater acceleration, higher speed, and better hill-climbing, Chevrolet has adopted for the New Standard line the larger "Blue Flame" engine of the same displacement (206.8 cu. in.) and compression ratio (5.45 to 1) as used in the 1934 Master models, but incorporating many new features contributing to better performance throughout its speed range. To match the gain in engine power and car speed with the necessary increase in braking ability, the cable-controlled braking system also has been improved in strength and stiffness to an even greater degree than would have been required merely to keep pace with the increase in the loads imposed upon it by both the engine and the brakes.

Improvements Common to Both Chassis Models

In both engines, crankshaft has been redesigned and now weighs 69 pounds, or 5 1-2 more than last year's Master. Counter-weighting has been increased 80 per cent, and the harmonic balancer has been given an additional spring in each bank and larger drive pins.

The cushion balance principal of engine mounting, improved in detail, is now applied to both models, utilizing five rubber supports—two at the front of the engine on the frame cross-member, one at the rear of the transmission on a special frame cross-member, and two widely separate side supports or stabilizers bracketed to the clutch housing and bearing on frame brackets.

New Oiling System

Both Chevrolet engines have a new system of lubrication to serve the crank-pin bearings of the connecting rods. At low speeds, lubrication is effected by oil picked up from troughs by connecting rod dippers. As the engine speed picks up, the oil pump forces high-pressure jets of oil to flow constantly from six nozzles, one in each oil trough, directed upward so that the streams are in the paths of the connecting rod dippers as they approach and pass bottom dead center. These dippers thus receive oil during a prolonged period of each revolution, instead of only momentarily. The high velocity of the dipper against the stream of oil, added to the velocity of the oil jets, builds up a tremendous pressure that insures a copious supply of oil to the bearing.

Electro-Plated Pistons

An important contribution to smooth engine performance, newly adopted by Chevrolet, is the use of electro-plated pistons, in combination with redesigned piston skirts which provide greater bearing area. The pistons are plated to a thickness of .001 inch. The use of plating considerably shortens the period for the proper breaking-in of the engine. As the piston wears in, the tin fills up any minute irregularities in the surface of the piston and cylinder walls. The ultimate result is an ideally smooth surface on both piston and bore with resultant improvement in performance.

In the cooling systems, water pump capacity has been increased, forcing the water to flow faster through the nozzles in the cylinder-head.

Brake and Clutch Actions Better

Two major changes directly improving the certainty and ease of control, with a reduction in the effort required of the driver, are the new brake and clutch designs.

The adoption for both models of brake-lining material possessing a higher degree of friction, and in the New Standard the use of wider brake drums and shoes, having 16 2-3 per cent greater effective braking area, permits the cars to be stopped in a shorter distance or with less pedal pressure.

In both clutches, smoother operation is procured through the adoption of a new waved driven plate that eliminates chatter even at light driving load applications.

Body Structure

Greater strength, durability, and safety are provided in the Master De Luxe bodies, built by Fisher. The framework consists of wood braced by steel, around which are closely fitted and welded five panels, each a single stamping of seamless steel. There are two side panels, and one each for the cowl, the rear, and the roof. The front structure of each body frame, to which the cowl panel is welded, consists of an inner cowl, instrument panel, the front pillars, and the windshield header panel, strongly braced, and welded to form a unit. The under body or floor is a single stamping curved and ribbed, extending from the front end, which is bent upward to form the toe-board, to the extreme rear.

The entire roof and all large panels are insulated by padding of deadener felt, cemented in place, as protection against heat, cold and sound.

Master Body De Luxe Style Features
Master bodies, distinguished for the originality of their ensemble design, contain many noteworthy individual features. Windows have gracefully rounded corners to harmonize with the streamlining. Doors extend lower below the floor, giving an appearance of fleetness, and are reshaped with rounded corners at the top. The belt molding is carried from the hood into the car, broadening on the doors, then tapering toward the rear. The windshield is sloped sharply and V-shaped, giving improved vision and reducing wind resistance and noise. Its center metal strip is chromium-plated outside and grained inside to match the interior trim. The windshield wiper is mounted below the glass, lying snug along the lower edge of the windshield when not in use, and sweeping an arc of 180 degrees when operating; its motor, concealed under the instrument board, at the center, is arranged to serve a second wiper covering the right windshield panel. Fisher no-draft ventilation is continued in all models. The remote control door handle in the front doors is at the front of the arm rest, and is reshaped to prevent its catching in clothing.

DEFINITE SETTLEMENT SOUGHT

Milk Control Law Urged by Dealers.

Definite settlement of the controversy over the milk control law recently held invalid probably will be delayed until March, it was strongly indicated as many briefs in support of Attorney-General Staples' petition for a rehearing were submitted to the State Supreme Court at the opening session of its January term.

Staples' petition was filed with the court in mid-December. About nine supporting briefs were submitted by attorneys representing milk co-operatives in the Richmond, Norfolk, Charlottesville, Staunton, Waynesboro, Roanoke and other major milk marketing areas in Virginia. At least four of them, it was said, will have to be printed in accordance with the rules of the court.

The printing is expected to be finished by the end of the week, but after that it will take time for the court to give careful scrutiny to them, although not one is anything like so long and detailed as the attorney-general's petition.

Officials of the milk control commission, which ceased to function officially after the court's adverse decision on the State milk law in November, admitted that the best they could hope for under the circumstances was that the tribunal would grant the rehearing at this term and then put the case on the special docket for argument during the March term.

The whole milk industry in Virginia has been in a state of uncertainty since the milk control law passed by the 1934 General Assembly was declared unconstitutional in November. The law provided for a commission which was to regulate milk standards in the interest of public health and fix prices as a means of stabilizing the market in a basic necessity.

The State's highest court, however, by a 4-2 decision, took the position that the Legislature actually attempted to make the milk business "profitable" and so held the law invalid on the ground that it was not in the public interest.

In his petition for a rehearing Staples vigorously opposed this decision, citing in support of his own stand United States Supreme Court opinions upholding similar milk-control laws in other States, notably in New York.

He contended that conditions resulting from the depression had clothed the milk industry "with a public interest." He argued that from time immemorial it has been recognized that a government has the right to protect itself as well as its citizens, and that under the circumstances it was proper for the Virginia government to fix milk standards, and regulate prices in the interest of public health and peace.

The court was plainly taken by surprise by the number of briefs filed in the case this week. The briefs were not offered as an enlargement or improvement on the contentions of the attorney-general, but merely in support of them. The fact that they came from every section of the State made it obvious that their sponsors regard some sort of regulation for the milk industry in Virginia as a matter of vital importance to the public as to the persons engaged in the business.

THRILLING ZANE GREY
FILM STIRRING STORY OF CONQUEST OF WEST

One of the most stirring epic adventures in the history of the conquest of the West comes to the screen of the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Wednesday, in the thrilling Paramount filmization of Zane Grey's "Wagon Wheels," featuring Randolph Scott, Gail Patrick, Monte Blue and Raymond Hatton.

Adapted from the well-known novel, "Fighting Caravans" by Zane Grey, the picture is a stirring account of the famous trip by the covered wagon caravan from Independence, Mo., to Oregon in 1844, when the sturdy, adventurous American pioneers first went out to homestead the new country.

It shows in a thrilling, dramatic style how they overcame the handicaps imposed by Nature, conquered the Indians who blocked their path and in their human fashion even found time to indulge in romance.

At the opening of the picture the frontier scouts, headed by Scott, Hatton and Olin Howland, are preparing to guide the caravan across the country, when it is joined by a lovely widow, Gail Patrick, and her little boy, fleeing from her husband's parents.

In the wagon train is a half-breed renegade Indian, played by Monte Blue, who hopes to prevent the pioneers from reaching their goal. His attentions to Miss Patrick are welcome, but they are viewed suspiciously by Scott, who has come to like the girl himself.

Before half the journey is accomplished the pioneers lose many of their number to the Indians who are being secretly stirred up by Blue. As they descend the western slope of the Rockies, however, and seem within striking distance of the promised land, the Indians, with Blue leading them, strike in what seems to be a crushing onslaught.

The hard-pressed pioneers are about to give up their fight, when Scott, by a clever ruse, turns the tide of battle and the Indians flee, leaving the pioneers to pursue their peaceful way. Needless to say, he wins the girl's love and her little son is promised a new father.

The natural scenery of the Rockies and the forest backgrounds, all filmed in their natural settings, are among the most impressive and beautiful ever brought to the screen. And the dramatic scenes, including the fights with the Indians, are so capably directed and handled that it is not difficult to believe they are real.

There is a great deal of wholesome comedy furnished by the romance between Jan Duggan who was seen with W. C. Fields in "The Old-Fashioned Way," and Olin Howland, a middle-aged lover, and by that sturdy little chap, four-year-old Billy Lee, who is the latest of the juvenile film discoveries.

SEN. BYRD URGES
NEW JUDGESHIP

Creation of Office Held Necessary to Expedite Work.

Creation of a new Federal Judgeship to help relieve the volume of cases in the District Court for the Eastern district of Virginia again will be urged on Congress during the present session by the entire congressional delegation from this State, it was announced Wednesday in Washington.

Representative Montague, now in Richmond, offered the measure calling for appointment of an additional judge at the last session but failed to get a vote on the measure when the Department of Justice, which approved new judges for New York and California, did not encourage the Virginia effort.

Nevertheless, Senator Byrd says that he again will ask the department to make a favorable report, directing their attention to congestion of the heavy docket handled by Judge Luther B. Way of Norfolk, due in part to several large bankruptcy litigations.

At the last session, the House Judiciary Committee reported the Montague measure favorably despite the department's failure to act. Representative Montague is ranking member of the committee and similar favorable action is expected at this session.

Creation of the new judgeship was urged last May 1 by the Richmond Bar Association, acting through a committee headed by Thomas B. Gay.

Mr. Gay's group has cited before Federal officials statistical data showing that Judge Way, who holds sessions in Norfolk, Richmond and Alexandria, has been crowded with criminal cases, actions in admiralty and equity in addition to receiverships such as that for the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company.
