This edition represents the revised second printing of The Manassas City Cemetery book.

Every effort was made to maintain the information verbatim, as was provided in the first publication. Allowances have been made for submitted corrections and additions. All changes are documented in the back pages of this edition. A map of the Confederate section of the Cemetery has also been added.

The original information was abstracted, as-is, from the City records and cemetery grave markers, including varied spellings and sometimes inconsistent dates. It was not considered proper to correct those discrepancies.

The book would not be possible were it not for the many hours of work by willing volunteers. We would like to provide some special recognition and thanks to the following people:

Nancy McKenzie for the original suggestion to pursue the project.

Gordon Olson for his extensive computer database work, which helped make the first printing a success.

Mr. Darren Wheeling for the art work.

Ann Helene McGinley Olson, a past President of the Prince William County Genealogical Society and a leader of the Day-Lite Group. Ann provided help and encouragement during every phase of the project. Because of her continued personal efforts, we want to thank Ann for making this second printing possible.

Herbert Plummer for taking command of the volunteers and directing the project.

For their work recording the data from the City of Manassas records: Olive Helsel, Mary-Ann Mehlhorn, Jean McKay, Rosa Farquhar, Herbert Plummer, and Ann Olson.

For on-site cemetery data collection: Rosa Farquhar, Herbert Plummer, Olive Helsel, Ann Olson, Denison Miner, Verlinda Miner, and Beth Hendrix.

Many thanks to the people at Manassas City Hall, who were so helpful and accommodating to our researchers. We also want to thank the Manassas City Airport Manager's Office, which now has jurisdiction over the Cemetery and its records. Much of the revision information was provided by Ms. Beverly Freeman of this office.

Thanks to Ms. Laura Peak, from the Manassas Museum, for sharing information she personally collected from the Confederate Cemetery.

Finally, thanks to Jeffrey M. Poulin for his help with the first printing and for providing both the Introduction and the History texts.

Introduction

This book had its genesis at the February 19, 1988 meeting of the Day-Lite Group of the Prince William County Genealogical Society. In accordance with the charter of the parent society to promote, educate and facilitate genealogical study in the Prince William area, this smaller group was looking for a project that their eight members could accomplish.

Nancy McKenzie, a member, suggested producing an abstract of records for the Manassas Cemetery. She had previous knowledge that the records were not contained in a single, organized setting and felt that ordering the information was within the group's capabilities.

The Day-Lite Group agreed with the assessment. It not only fit within their guidelines, it would provide services and a product of value in other areas.

First, the abstract would make available, for the first time, the information in city records. It had never been published previously and, of course, official records are not open to casual research and do not help the non-resident researcher. The effort would provide a working tool for genealogical study.

Second, the project would help the City of Manassas by providing a single, comprehensive source of information compiled from the disparate and inconsistent records and formats compiled over the past century and a quarter.

Finally, the Day-Lite Group hoped the book would bring notice to the historical significance of one of the few official Confederate cemeteries. While long-time residents are generally aware of this site, there is nothing to indicate its existence or importance to the huge influx of new residents. In addition, the text would provide a historical context as to how and why the cemetery, civil and Confederate, was established.

The Group began by obtaining permission from the City of Manassas to examine and publish the information. The City Hall staff was very helpful in assembling the resource documents. This assistance was necessary and greatly appreciated.

The initial obstacle was simply to assemble the information that existed in the City records. This was more difficult than might be expected because the various Clerks, over the course of one hundred and twenty-three years, had recorded the information in the way each felt was best, with little attention given to previous systems. There had been some efforts to convert earlier records to the format of the day, but the Clerks never had time to finish the task with the result that there were a large number of duplicate records to reconcile. Almost all the records were handwritten and, as is typical, the ink on the older records was faded, making the reading and photocopying difficult.

After the City records were exhausted, the Group members began on-site work in the cemetery to record all the gravestones possible. This effort presented its own challenges. Some of the stones had simply sunk into the ground leaving little or no trace of ever having been erected. Other stones were worn and weathered so as to be difficult to read. In some cases the stones were tipped over by tree roots or were totally obscured by hundred year old shrubbery. In addition, there had been some vandalism in recent years in which stones were defaced or moved.

Some problems were overcome by pulling back branches or by crawling beneath the overgrowth. Worn inscriptions were clarified by the shaving cream method in which shaving cream is spread over the stone's surface and the excess scraped away with a flat edge. The cream that remains in the recesses delineates the inscriptions, making them easier to read. Also, the shaving cream had no effect on the stones, washing away with the first rain. The result of these efforts provided as complete a record as physically exists on the site.

Having assembled all available information, the data were transcribed into a standard, comprehensive format that would facilitate entry on a computer. The computer program, written by Gordon Olson specifically for this project, allowed for careful review and proofing by denoting any empty fields. The programming also permitted the data to be sorted so as to provide the index that is the key to finding individual entries in this book.

The Day-Lite Group hopes that the information provided here will help the researcher interested in the Manassas area and that this publication will encourage others to make the same effort in their communities. Genealogy is the search for information, often obscure. The dissemination of any new information enriched the entire activity. The Group members believe that this book will help to achieve that goal.

A Brief History of the Manassas and Confederate Cemeteries

By Jeffrey M. Poulin

The information provided by established cemeteries takes on great importance as a source of genealogical data. As was not uncommon in the rural South, burials were often held on family property and wooden markers erected. However, such markers seldom survive the many years of weathering and gravesites become overgrown so as to be unrecognizable. Over the years properties change hands, can be paved over or be lost to families in other ways. (As an example, several roads that were used by residents and Civil War troops now lie under housing developments and all evidence of them is obliterated visually and from living memory.) In addition, people move away taking family records with them and breaking the string of family legends. Thus, cemetery records provide some continuity for the genealogical researcher.

The record of ownership of cemetery land is probably incomplete. The information presented is what could be documented from City of Manassas records. Those records, which predate the incorporation of the municipality, were disrupted by the Civil War and the Federal administration of the area that followed Second Manassas. There were no court records in the County from March 6, 1862 to July 31, 1865. Prior to that, some records were destroyed or removed from the court house by troops on both sides of the conflict. (One of those records has reportedly turned up in New York state.) In addition ownership of plots has been included in wills which may not be filed in the Manassas area. Thus the complete record would require assiduous research beyond most people or groups.

I. Manassas Cemetery

The present boundaries of the Manassas Cemetery evolved over the course of six decades and were influenced by earlier events.

1852 - The Orange and Alexandria railroad was opened through Prince William County. The railroad tracks cut off a corner of the property of Sanford Thurman. This part of the property was already bounded on one side by a long established public road. This left a roughly triangular area of several acres separated from the bulk of Thurman's land.

June 11, 1858 - William Sanford Fewell receives from Sanford Thurman's will land which includes the present cemetery.

1866 - The earliest known burial on the property, that of William T. Weir.

November 2, 1867 - There is a one acre deed of gift from William Sanford Fewell to the Ladies Memorial Association of Manassas to establish the Confederate Cemetery which is now situated on the overall cemetery.

1873 - The town of Manassas is incorporated.

1874 - The Town of Manassas acquires some of the present day cemetery land. The means of acquisition was not specified.

March 15, 1875 - The remaining cemetery property is sold by William Sanford Fewell to W. W. Davis.

July 22, 1876 - W. W. Davis sells part of the property to George W. Hixson and Benjamin D. Merchant.

1878 - Benjamin D. Merchant deeds his portion to George W. Hixson.

September 6, 1881 - A deed from W. W. Davis to George W. Hixson for the remainder of the cemetery land.

December 2, 1916 - A deed from George W. Hixson to the Town of Manassas for most of the current cemetery land.

July 24 1917 - A deed from George W. Hixson to the Town of Manassas for a small additional parcel that completes the present day cemetery boundaries.

The cemetery is now owned and maintained by the City of Manassas, except for the Confederate parcel which is owned by the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

II. Confederate Cemetery

The exigencies of the Civil War did not always permit a formal burial for the fallen soldiers. Due to lack of time and resources, they were often buried on the farm land on which the battles were fought. Certainly this happened in the Manassas campaigns.

With the war ended and agricultural activity again on the rise, these impromptu burials caused a problem. Some the graves were known. Others were only discovered by plowing and digging over the shallow gravesites. Even if the bodies had been reinterred deeper, it was, at the very least, disrespectful to farm over such sites.

To help solve this problem, and to give these honored dead a proper resting place. Civil War Veteran William Sanford Fewell donated an acre of his land as a burial site for the often unknown soldiers. (When possible, families had reclaimed the bodies of known family members for reburial in their own areas. However, this still left many bodies where the only this know, based on location or uniform markings, was that they were Confederate soldiers.) The Ladies Memorial Association of Manassas had been founded six months earlier for the purpose of caring the for Confederate dead and to see that their graves were remembered.

The following text is quoted from the May 19, 1911 Manassas Journal newspaper story describing the history and activities of the Ladies Memorial Association.

The Ladies memorial Association of Manassas was organized May 25th, 1867, with Mrs. Sarah Fewell, President; Mrs. Hannah Lindsay, Recording Secretary; Mrs. B. D. Merchant, Corresponding Secretary; Miss Sallie Johnson, Treasurer and Miss Mollie Weedon, sub-Treasurer. The object of the Society was to care for the Confederate dead and to instruct the rising generation as to the sacred duty of remembering and caring for the graves of the loved and lost. Miss Mary Lipscomb paid the first dollar into the treasury of the Association and became an annual member thereof. The first of July following, pupils of Clover Hill School, taught by Mrs. Hannah Lindsay, gave an entertainment and turned the proceeds, amounting to $30.00 into the treasury of the Association. By this act of Benevolence

the scholars, whose names follow, were made life members of the Association:

Misses:	Masters:
Annie M. Johnson	Howison Hooe
Eliza Corbett	George Weedon
Virginia Merchant	Joseph Johnson
Maggie Foley	Willie Merchant
Isabelle Corbett	John Fitzgerald
Sallie Cannon	Charley Brawner
Mary Foley	Michael Fizgeral
Fannie Fewell	Earnest Lindsay
Martha Warren
Rebecca Mankie

The same month there were added to the life membership of the Association:

Mesdames:
Emily Johnson	Josie Brawner; and
Jane Merchant	Mr. B. D. Merchant
Elmina Cockrell	Judge Charles E. Sinclair

Colonel W. S. Fewell donated to the Association one acre of land to be used as a Confederate Cemetery and the same was plowed and laid out into four squares, separated by two wide avenues. Mr. Johnson Cockrell, Col. Fewell, Dr. Carter Berkley, Lewis Butler, F. A. Weedon and William C. Merchant constituted, at its inception, the Advisory Board of the Association.

At the first regular meeting of the Association a letter of thanks from General Robert E. Lee for making him a honorary member was read by the secretary.

The cemetery lot was enclosed with a paling fence, the following year and 250 bodies of the Confederate dead, who died in adjacent farm houses and hospital, reinterred within the enclosure. No bodies from the Bull Run battle fields were brought to this cemetery as they were cared for by the Groveton Association.

During the summer of this year the young people of Manassas and vicinity formed a dramatic club known as the Memorial Aid Society and after series of entertainments given in Manassas, Dumfries and Occoquan, the sum of $63.35 was turned into the Treasury of the Association.

The member of the Aid Society who were not connected with the Association as lifemembers were:

Dr. J. W. Hornbaker	Misses:
R. M. Waters	Annie Weir
W. H. Whittington	Cattie Hickerson
J. R. Brawner	Bertie Weir
George W. Johnson;	Lizzie Weir
and	Mary Weir

These parties were also made life members.

Under the supervision of Charles H. Weedon, head boards for the graves were painted white with name and regiment to which the deceased belonged, if known painted in black letters thereon. A great number of graves however, were marked "Unknown".

A large circular mount was built in the cemetery, which was terraced and flowers planted in a circular bed by ladies of the Association.

Among the donations of shade trees were six white pines by Mr. Moses Hixson, a gray-haired father who had lost a son in the Confederate Army, who brought them in his arms and planted them with his hands. One of these trees is still standing as a monument to his memory.

Up to this period the Association had expended $626.16 which funds had been raised by entertainment, membership fees, private subscriptions and by a dinner given by a number of Gentlemen on the anniversary of the battle of Bull Run July 21, 1868.

In 1873, a bill, introduced by George C. Round, who fought in the Federal Army, was passed by the State Legislature, naming Hannah L. Johnson, Harriet Hixson, Sallie E. Johnson, Josie S. T. Brawner, Mollie H. Weedon and the life members of the Association, as a body corporate, under the title of the Confederated Memorial Association.

During the year 1874, the officers of the Association found the fences and arches over the gateways were fast going to decay. In april of this year, the Association was approached with a proposition from the Town Council of Manassas for control of the cemetery in connection with a Citizen's Cemetery, then being laid out and adjoining that held by the Association, which proposition was unanimously rejected.

May 25th, 1897; found the cemetery without enclosure. Subscriptions from different sections of the state and abroad enabled the Association to partly enclose the lot with a stone wall.

During this year the following members were added to the Association:

Messrs.
E.E. Meredith	T.M. Houchens
W.E. Lipscomb	C.L. Hynson
R.W. Merchant	G.G. Galleher
J.B.T. Thornton	H.F. Lynn
W.C. Merchant	W.W. Thornton
J.J. Cockrell	F.A. Weedon; and
J.R. Tillett	Mesdames:
Dr. C.C. Barbour	C.H. Whittington
John C. Weems	W.E. Lipscomb
Lucian A. Larkin	I. Wilkins
Henry N. Brawner	Maggie Barbour
Lewis Butler	T.S. Read
W.C. Fewell	J.C. Weems
W.C. Fewell	Augusta Hornbaker;
W.H. Francis	and Misses:
J.J. Davies	Inez White
Thruston Wolfe	Ella Broders

On March 2, 1887, it was decided that instead of completing the stone wall around the cemetery, that all the bodies then buried in the cemetery, together with such others of the Confederate dead, as could be located in the neighborhood, be placed in one common grave and a monument to be erected thereon. To aid the Association in this object an appropriation of $1,000.00 was made by the state legislature. With this magnificent appropriation, together with funds already accumulated through different sources, the Association succeeded in the erection of a brown stone monument, 75 feet high, set on each of its four sides, eight feet from the base, with white marble tablets, upon which proper inscription should be made.

A committee consisting of Lucian A. Larkin, Jr., and R.W. Merchant was appointed to formulate and submit to Gov. Fitzhugh Lee for his approval, an appropriate inscription for the monument, commemorative of those who slept beneath the shaft. The one submitted by R. W. Merchant, and which is now inscribed upon the monument, was recommended by Governor Lee and adopted by the Association.

On August 31, 1889 the monument was unveiled in the presence of a large audience. Hon. John W. Daniel was the orator of the occasion and was introduced by J.B.T. Thornton, now Judge of the Circuit Court of Prince William County.

The Association has, within the past three years, placed upon the monument a bronze statue of a Confederate Soldier "AT REST", which is not only typical of those who sleep beneath the shaft, but adds much to the appearance of the Memorial, placed by loving heart and hands over them.

The Association has labored hard in pursuit of its laudable object, in the face of difficulties and a great lack of funds to carry such object to a successful attainment, and though much is yet to be accomplished before its goal of ambition is reached, affection and devotion for the South or Southern Cause will be a perpetual stimulus towards further efforts in behalf of properly caring for the last resting place of her dead Heroes placed in its care.

This inscription on the East side of the monument
at top, Virginia Seal
Sic Semper Tyrannis

Dedicated by the Ladies Memorial Association of Manassas, on August 30, 1889, to the heroes of Virginia and her sister States, who yielded their lives on July 18 and 21, 1861 and August 28 - 29 - 30, 1862, in defense of the Confederate Cause.
