VIRGINIA FARMERS' INSTITUTE

WEDNESDAY SESSION

W. H. BOROUGH, Jr., Agricultural High School

After the session of the Virginia Farmers' Institute in Manassas on Tuesday and many farmers from Prince William and adjoining counties were in attendance. On Feb. 26 was devoted to raising and hog raising and was indeed a very able speaker.

of the State Dairy Commission's office. The presence of Prof. W. Harris at the last session was impossible to ignore. Harris' talk dealt with the growth of the dairy industry in Virginia, the various possibilities of the phase of farming, the dairymen present and the present situation concerning the butter market. He spoke at some length up the worm and told the institute not to fear foreign competition in the butter market. His talk was inspiring and instructive.

W. M. BROWN, Field Agent, Southern Railway Co.

"Hog Raising for Profit" was the title of the address given by Mr. Brown. He told of the importance of raising hogs in the growth of the industry. He introduced his subject by stating that the hog was the most profitable animal for raising. He outlined the various methods of raising hogs and finished his talk by giving several rotations in temporary hog pens.

W. B. DOAK, County Agent

His speech was indeed an address and the occasion was enjoyable by all present.

W. M. BROWN, Field Agent, Southern Railway Co.

Prof. Gabel's speech was most instructive. He told of the various organizations through which the farmer can get the necessary information and urged the farmers to join the necessary organizations.

THE PASSING OF MISS J. E. LARKIN

PNEUMONIA THE CAUSE OF DEATH

A Member of One of the Oldest Families in the County—Funeral Services From Home and Interment in "Larkinton."

After an illness of about four weeks, Miss Josephine E. Larkin passed away at the home of her niece, Mrs. C. M. Larkin, during the early morning hours of last Tuesday. Several weeks ago Miss Larkin contracted bronchial pneumonia and for many days was in a critical condition. Slowly improvement became apparent and two weeks ago some hope was held for her recovery. Following this, complications set in, and she grew rapidly worse until death came last Tuesday, which removes from our midst a life which has been spent in Prince William county.

Miss Larkin was in her sixty-eighth year. She was born at "Larkinton," the family home near Wellington, where her early girlhood was spent. Later she came into possession of the adjoining farm lands which is now known as "Green Hill," and where she remained for years and carried on business of farming. She was a successful business woman, and her well-known home was the seat of hospitality and welcome. Much to the regret of her many friends in the vicinity in which she lived, Miss Larkin moved to Manassas last fall, and since that time had made her home with Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Larkin.

She has a great number of life long and true friends in all parts of the county, who mourn the death of a true and loving friend and neighbor. She also leaves a long line of nieces and nephews, her near relatives, a number of which reside in Manassas.

Miss Larkin was a member of one of Prince William's oldest families, and before her death was the only surviving member of the immediate family of William and Elizabeth Larkin.

The funeral was held this morning at 10:30 o'clock, from the home, the services being conducted by Rev. H. L. Quarles, pastor of the Baptist church, of which church Miss Larkin was a member, and interment was made in "Larkinton," the family burying ground near Wellington.

If interested write W. M. Brown, Field Agent, Department Farm Improvement Work, Southern Railway Company, of Manassas, Va.

The business men of Manassas are asked to assist us in this work by offering small prizes.

The rules are as follows:

- RULES
1. In connection with the demonstration work in Prince William county, W. M. Brown has arranged for a Farmers' Five Acre Corn Contest for 1914.
  2. Any farmer or farmer boy residing in said county shall be eligible to enter this contest and compete for all prizes which are offered.
  3. The acreage of corn to be grown shall consist of five acres.
  4. Any amount and any quality of fertilizer and any method of growing the corn may be used.
  5. Any variety of corn may be planted. We suggest that some standard bred corn seed be obtained for this plot of ground.
  6. Each farmer or boy wishing to enter this contest should register his name with W. M. Brown, Manassas, Va., not later than April 1.
  7. Each farmer shall furnish an itemized statement of the cost of producing his five acres of corn, also show cost of producing each bushel of corn.
  8. The land and corn shall be measured by W. M. Brown together with one disinterested person who lives in the neighborhood where the farmer is located.
  9. The reports shall be made to the committee at the Annual Corn Show to be held in Manassas at some date this fall.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM WINS INITIAL DEBATE

AGAINST THE UPPERVILLE TEAM

Both Sides Handled Subject Well—Large and Enthusiastic Crowd Attends Entertainment.

"That Compulsory Education in Virginia is Necessary for the Efficiency of Public Schools," was the subject of the debate in the initial struggle of the Manassas High School team against the debating team of Upperville High School last Tuesday night.

The visitors took the affirmative and the local school the negative by choice. Both sides handled their parts well, bringing forth strong arguments from every angle, which caused indision on the part of the judges. The papers of both negative and affirmative were not without their strong merits and all points of view were warmly discussed. A large crowd attended the entertainment which was a very enjoyable one.

Roswell Round and Herman Steele represented the local institution and will enter competition against other high schools of the state at the big debating contest at the University of Virginia which will be held in April at which time the winner will be awarded with a silver cup.

The judges, consisting of R. A. Hutchison, Rev. Burkes and Rev. E. A. Roads, after much deliberation gave the victory to the negative side.

W. H. HOWE KILLED BY TRAIN

Mr. W. H. Howe, a young man connected with the signal corps of the Southern Railway, was struck by train No. 35 yesterday and received injuries from which he died shortly after. The injured man was operating a steam drill two miles this side of Catlett, when the fast southbound train approached unheeded, and before he could move had struck him about the upper part of the body. He was slightly cut and bruised, and his skull was fractured. No. 35 was stopped and the injured man carried to Catlett and upon the arrival of No. 10 was returned to Manassas where for several weeks he had been living. The remains were removed to the undertaking establishment of G. D. Baker and will later be shipped to his home in Indianapolis.

SOUTHERN'S SPECIAL AGRICULTURAL TRAIN

GREETED BY INTERESTED FARMERS

Good Crowd Attends Lectures and Look at Exhibits—Over 200 Products From One Virginia Farm Shown.

By W. M. BROWN, Field Agent, Southern Railway Company.

A large crowd of interested farmers greeted the Agricultural Special Train here last Saturday to see the exhibits and hear the lectures. The train was run over the lines of the Southern Railway by the railway system and under the supervision of Commissioner Koener for the purpose of instructing the farmers as to the best methods of producing better crops.

Those who were present enjoyed a treat in seeing the exhibit, car full of products, which were grown by Mr. A. R. Bellwood, of South Richmond, Va. There were over two hundred different products all grown on one farm. These products were the very best and many of them have taken state prizes and various county prizes. Mr. Bellwood just recently won the world's championship prize on alfalfa at the National Corn Show at Dallas, Texas, for the best bale of alfalfa hay. The great number of products shown by Mr. Bellwood proves to us that we can grow a greater variety of farm products than can most any other in the world. The splendid specimens shown also show to our farmers just what can be accomplished by the proper selection and care of plants.

Mr. W. D. Zinn, of Phillippi, W. Va., gave a very interesting address on the care of the soil, and how to get the best results from fertilization and cultivation. Mr. Zinn is himself one of the most progressive and prosperous farmers of his native state, and his suggestions were well received and will be of great value to our farmers.

Mr. A. R. Bellwood spoke on growing alfalfa, and gave the farmers some valuable suggestions with regard to this crop. Mr. Rice, Assistant Dairy and Poultry agent for the Southern Railway Company, gave some valuable suggestions as to the best methods for handling the dairy cows.

HISTORY OF STATE AGRICULTURE

THEIR GREAT VALUE

Opinions of Prof. Burton, Director of Manassas School Round, at Request of M

The following correspondence regarding the Agricultural Schools of the State interest to all our readers.

RICHMOND, VA., Feb. 26, 1914.
MR. GEO. C. ROUND.

Dear Sir:—Please once, the history of agricultural schools of the State mean as to how they fared, where they came from, how our land was raised by the what our building cost much it costs to send this school, where boards at home; also me how the school is and how much more from other counties school.

It seems that many do not want us to have unless we give as much. Your prompt attention matter will be greatly appreciated.
Yours very truly,

MANASSAS, VA., Feb. 26, 1914.
HON. C. J. MEETZ, HOUSE OF DELEGATES, RICHMOND, VA.

Dear Sir:—In response to your enquiries of February, I give the history of agricultural High Schools of the State to the best of my information.

In the Act appropriating revenue, approved 1908, is the following: "Not to exceed $20,000, to be devoted to the establishment of agricultural departments of Agricultural Extension and Training, in at least one school in each Congressional District of the State, to be under such rules and regulations as the State Board of Agriculture and the President of the College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts and Sciences may prescribe." Under the above act, Hon. J. D. Eggleston, then Director of Public Instruction, Mr. Charles G. Maples, then Commissioner of Agriculture, came to Manassas in 1908 and made the following report on behalf of the Agricultural Schools of the State: "It was agreed that a Agricultural High School for Congressional District No. 1, established here in Manassas School District, Prince William County, was the necessary building
