

PWC - Historic Sites
(Rockledge - Occoquan)

Prince William Public Library
Manassas, Va.

3
bout that
redoing
o improv-
pearance.
two dogs
the right
ong with

feet wide
sited on
The rear
ey.

ent, which
blessing
Commis-
the work
e shell of
ure.
ate maxi-
pace, plus
on of resi-
rcial use,
rear por-
with five
ace, plus
le.

r space is
a gain of feet over

ilities and
plumbing

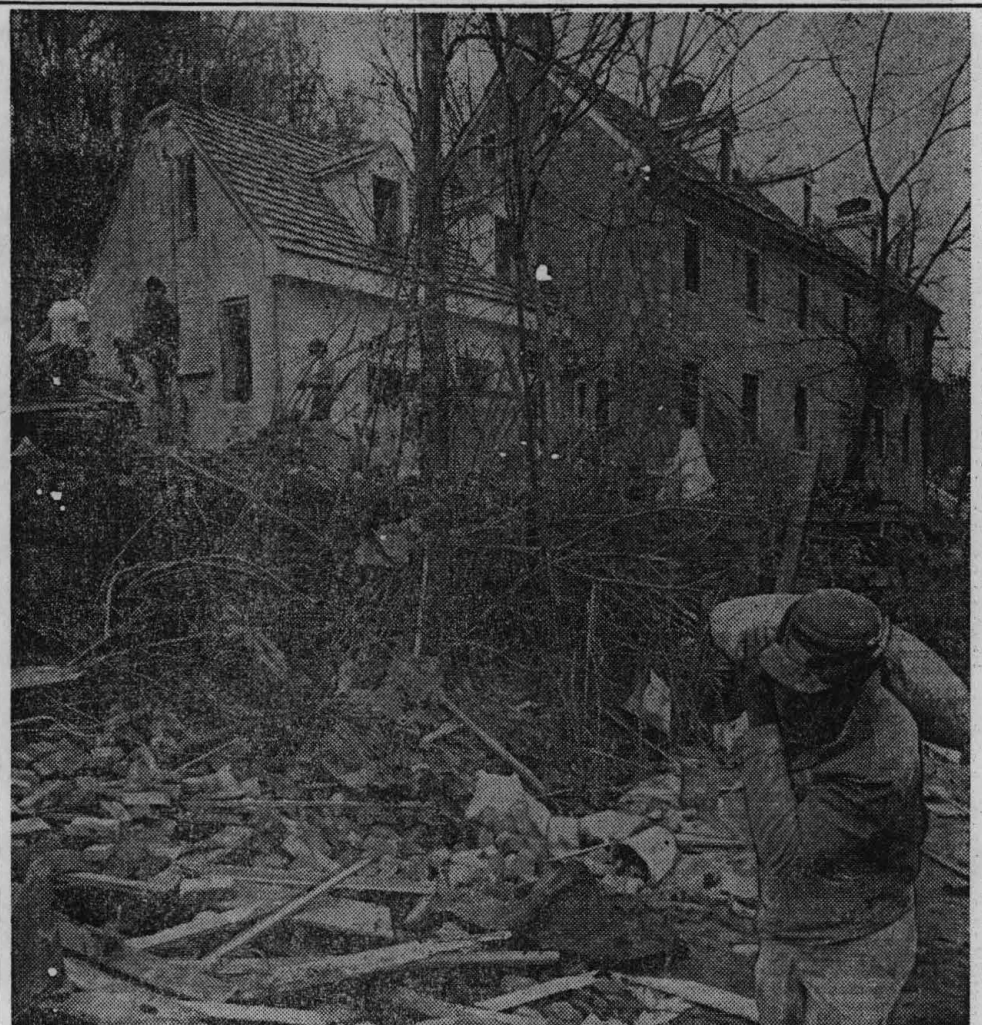

90, Col. 1

t?
ter

ite. The
cted into
o all sorts
asionally
may ad-
tile . . .
ittle.

may insist
drain tile
ent perim-
l construc-
is the last
omeowner
e a water
stop-gap
e a metal
vall floor
atch the
ese meas-

E31, Col. 1

Restoration

Rockledge, a 20-year-old home in Occoquan, Va., is being completely restored by owner Donald Sonner, who plans to live there soon. A restaurateur in Occoquan, Sonner has been living over his business place. The 11-room Rockledge was designed and built by William Buckland, who did Gunston Hall. Top photo shows the estimated $100,000 restoration work under way and photo at right shows Sonner, his own superintendent, in a doorway around which the old walls were gunited by D. J. Swimming Pools Inc. The site is near a rock quarry and the old house sits on a ledge of rock.

Photos by Doug Chevalier
—The Washington Post

