CLEAN SWEEP OF VIRGINIA FOR POLLARD

JOHN GARLAND POLLARD HAS BEEN ACTIVE IN STATE POLITICS

Governor-Elect Was Youngest Member of Constitutional Convention And Served One Term As Attorney General of Virginia.

Richmond, Nov. 5.—The career of John Garland Pollard presents him in the role of lawyer, law writer, benefactor of underprivileged children, newspaper owner, war worker, Government attorney and college professor.

The story of his early life is that of struggle with an insidious disease. For fourteen years, between the ages of 13 and 27, he suffered from the effects of an intestinal infection and was a semi-invalid. This, however, did not keep him from carrying on his education in the Richmond public schools, at Richmond College and, finally, at the law school of Columbia University, now George Washington University, Washington, D. C.

Began Law Practice At 21.

His health forced him to abandon his academic course at Richmond College in his senior year and prevented him from receiving an academic degree. Nevertheless, he went to Washington, pursued his law course and returned to Richmond to practice law in 1893, when he was 21 years old.

His first law case involved a woman charged with poisoning her sweet heart by giving a fatal dose of salts in a glass of beer. As Pollard tells the story, the charge was based on the discovery of a broken package of salts among the woman's effects, and the young lawyer countered with a defense that an insufficient amount of salts had been removed from the package to constitute a fatal dose. He says, also, that he drank his first and only glass of beer in demonstrating to the jury that the quantity of salts taken from the package could be drunk in brew without ill effect.

Owned Paper For While.

Soon afterward he became attorney for the Richmond State, since discontinued. The paper passed to the ownership of Stilson Hutchins, who told Pollard one day that the State was his if he could meet the pay roll.

This Pollard did, and a short time after sold the paper with its Associated Press franchise to Joseph Bryan, publisher of the Richmond Times and the Richmond Leader.

Prior to the Constitutional Convention of 1900, of which Pollard was one of the youngest members, he had spent some time in Boston and in the public library there reading of constitutions and their history, acquiring a fund of information for his part in the work of revamping the Virginia Constitution.

Devoted Time To Two Tasks.

His service in the convention was devoted principally to organization of the Board of Education, since he was a member of the Committee on Education, and to the establishment of a library board under the Education Board.

In 1904 he published his annotated code of Virginia and later was appointed chairman of the Virginia Commission on Uniform Laws, which represented the State in a national conference for the standardization of certain laws in the States of the Union.

Dr. Pollard served as Attorney-General of Virginia during the administration of Henry Carter Stuart as Governor, 1913-17, his term being featured by the clean-up of race-track gambling and the establishment of law and order in Hopewell.

Defeated by Westmoreland Davis.

As his work as Attorney-General was ending he entered the Democratic primary of 1917 as a candidate for Governor, running behind Westmoreland Davis, who was elected. J. Taylor Ellyson was the third man in the primary race.

The National Government sent Dr. Pollard to France in 1918 to explain to the men along the front in Alsace-Lorraine the vast preparations being made by the United States for victory over the Central Powers. In this phase of work he spoke more than seventy times.

His next service was to return to Virginia to recruit one hundred men and sixty girls for Y. M. C. A. work

MISS JENNIE DUNN CALLED BY DEATH

Died On October 30 At Nephew's Home In Buckland.

(By A Friend.)

The grim reaper has taken from our midst one of our most highly respected friends, Miss Jennie Dunn. Ill only for a few hours, she passed away on Wednesday, October 30, at the home of her nephew, Mr. Robert Payne, in Buckland.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. T. Phillips, of the Methodist Church, of which the deceased was a member. A large concourse of friends from Gainesville and the county paid their last tribute of respect, and the many beautiful flowers bore silent testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

OFFICER KILLS COLORED MAN

R. M. Weir Shoots Willie Porter Who Attacked Him With Razor, Resisting Arrest.

Robert M. Weir, the popular commissioner of revenue of Prince William County, on Sunday night, while acting as a special officer at Manassas, shot Willie Porter, colored, who died instantly.

Mr. Weir, who was at the Southern Railway Depot about 10 o'clock, heard that two negroes were lurking in the rear of the station and one of them was wielding a razor. Weir at once went to the spot indicated where he found that one of the combatants, George Berry by name, colored, had scurried to safety, but that Porter was still in a fighting mood and proved stubborn about surrendering his weapon.

Weir Is Slashed.

Calling to Porter to throw down his razor the officer approached him but met with a torrent of abuse and a warning that he would be cut if he touched him. Procuring a stick Weir attempted to knock the razor out of Porter's hand, but lost the stick while striking at him. Weir was slashed on the coat in two places and other cuts were inflicted on his vest and at this point he fired the shot which ended Porter's turbulent career, as the victim went down the officer received a nasty cut on the leg.

At the hearing before Mayor Harry P. Davis, on Monday night, all witnesses completely exonerated the officer of any blame in the matter, and all seemed of the opinion that without shooting when he did Weir would have been mortally wounded. The Mayor ruled that the shooting was done in self defense and fully justifiable, an opinion which met with the hearty approval of those in the crowded council chambers, white and colored alike.

Witnesses appearing, all of whom testified favorable to Weir, were H. Elmer Metz, William McIntosh and the following colored citizens, Joe Foster, Wesley Buchanan, John Chapman and Vincent "Bub" Johnson. (Contributed.)

GOVERNOR-ELECT.

JOHN GARLAND POLLARD

PRINCE WILLIAM CRUSHES BROWN

Runs True To Form And Helps With 501 Majority.

DAN M. CHICHESTER POLLS HANDSOME VOTE

Republicans Given Big Setback As County Gives Democratic Standard Bearers Vote of Confidence.

Quiet Prince William County people who want their state wisely administered in every way and who did not believe the contention of the Republicans that Virginia is run by a "machine" that disregards individual ers, marched to the polls on Tuesday and cast their ballots for John Garland Pollard, Democratic candidate for Governor of the Commonwealth, and today are chuckling quietly over the emphatic declaration by the voters that Prince William is not prepared to change its politics.

Pollard Majority 501.

Pollard received 913 votes in the eighteen precincts against 412 for the Republican-anti-Smith coalition candidate, Dr. William Mosely Brown, giving a majority of 501 to Dr. Pollard, as compared to a majority of 9 for Governor Smith for president last November.

The prediction that many of the voters of Prince William would remain away from the polls proved to be nothing but Republican-anti-Smith pre-election campaign talk for there were but 230 fewer votes cast in the county than were polled in the presidential election. Manassas, which gave a 14 majority for Hoover in the presidential election, fully redeemed itself on Tuesday by casting 309 votes for Dr. Pollard as against 137 for Dr. Brown, a majority for the Democratic candidate of 172.

Action Is Rebuked.

Among the greatest upsets from the Republican view point were Nokesville, which is normally Republican, with a majority for Brown of but 10 votes; Aden, another so-called Republican stronghold, which gave a Democratic majority of 2 votes; Wellington, with a tie vote of 2' for each candidate; Dumfries, confidently claimed by the Republican leaders, but gave Dr. Pollard a majority of 12, and Quantico where voters cast 40 for Pollard and 26 for Brown.

The Gainesville district, Coles district and others, which always have been Democratic strongholds, came to the front as usual and contributed a handsome total toward the convincing majority for the Democratic standard bearer.

FAIRFAX COUNTY RETURNS

Fairfax, Nov. 6.—L. L. Freeman, of Vienna, Republican, was yesterday elected to represent Fairfax County in the next House of Delegates by a majority over his Democratic opponent, M. D. Hall, of Burke, which amounted to 235, according to preliminary returns last night. Fairfax County also gave a majority of 244 to John Mosely Brown for governor. Calmon Jones, coalition candidate for lieutenant governor, received a majority of only 27 and Charles Berkeley, coalition candidate for attorney general, beat the incumbent, John R. Saunders, by 99 votes locally.

POLLARD'S LEAD MOUNTS TO 70,000

With Few Precincts Still To Be Heard From Majority Reaches Landslide Proportions.

LEGISLATIVE VICTORY IS OVERWHELMING

Vote Shows No Longer Any Doubt of Continued Solid South.

From Richmond Times Dispatch.

The overwhelming Democratic lead in the Virginia election Tuesday increased all during yesterday until, with only thirty-three out of the 1,683 precincts in the State missing, John Garland Pollard led his opponent, Dr. William Mosely Brown, Coalitionist, by the unexpectedly large majority of 69,780. The figures were: Pollard, 168,137; Brown, 98,357, while complete returns showed ninety-two of the hundred seats in the House of Delegates safely Democratic and the four seats in the State Senate filled by the voters Tuesday went to Democrats.

Significance Discussed.

The probable significance of the Democratic landslide was the subject yesterday of considerable comment in and out of Virginia. Governor Harry F. Byrd, chief backer of the Pollard candidacy, said the size of the majority can only be accounted for "by the fact that independents and many broad-minded Republicans refused to follow the Republican leadership in their program of obstruction." Others argued that the result was a repudiation of "Raskobism" and other such issues; but the Governor-elect declared in a statement that the verdict was neither approval nor disapproval of any national matter, since, he argued, no national issue was involved. In a separate statement, the successful candidate expressed gratitude for the "expression of confidence." To Senator Claude A. Swanson the victory "indicates that the South will return to the Democratic party."

Veterans Surprised.

The total vote of more than 375,000 was a surprise to veteran politicians, who thought the total would be from 240,000 to 250,000—or much more below the Hoover-Smith total of approximately 305,000. Particularly was this opinion held when it was learned that in certain places registration was reported not quite so high as in 1928.

More far-reaching speculation touched on the congressional fight next year. Senator Carter Glass, who in addresses appeared to be the pet abomination of the coalitionists, seemed more firmly entrenched. He said: "The election tells its own story. Nothing that I could say would add to it."

Democratic Party Resists.

"Virginia, in ordinary circumstances is overwhelmingly Democratic. The election Tuesday demonstrates the fact that the large body of those

Church Schools Grow.

Alexandria, Nov. 7.—The five church schools in the Episcopal Diocese of Virginia last year granted reductions in board and tuition charges amounting to more than $20,000, in order to take in children whose parents could not afford the full rate, according to a statement made in a folder entitled, "Open the Door of Opportunity," prepared for use in the present annual fall campaign. These schools—St. Catherine's and St. Christopher's, in Richmond; St. Anne's, Charlottesville; St. Margaret's, Tapahannock, and Christ Church Middlesex—are declared by the folder, to be gaining a firmer footing each year, having an increased attendance, embraced reputation, more adequate physical equipment and more ample provision for scholarship and reductions.

Game Sanctuary Established.

Harrisonburg, Nov. 6.—A 1,000-acre game sanctuary has been established in the Shenandoah mountains, of Northwest Rockingham, near the West Virginia line, by Game Warden Wade Fawley, in an effort to replenish the stock of deer, wild turkeys, pheasants and other game, which formerly frequented the region.

The board has appointed Mrs. Leon Mangum of Franklin Park superintendent of public welfare, with the approval of the State Board of Public Welfare, which was represented at the meeting by Paul Blandford, of Richmond. Mrs. Mangum will also act as secretary of the board and will submit monthly reports to Richmond. Meetings of the board will for the present be on call of the chairman or superintendent.

This meeting of the board, Dr.

White added, will be held at Winchester on the day preceding the meeting of the Virginia Baptist General Association in that city.

Road Surface Treated.

Richmond, Nov. 6.—The State Highway Department yesterday reported the completion of approximately 900 miles of road surface treatment during the current road work season. Weather conditions for this work were particularly good and the many projects progressed rapidly, according to a statement by J. J. Forrer, maintenance engineer of the department.

About 300 miles of highway were given surface treatment for the first time, the report states, and some 600 miles of road was resurfaced from May to October 1. This leaves about ninety miles of roadway included in this year's surfacing program to be completed as the weather permits.

Big Ship Contracts.

Newport News, Nov. 7.—Two of the largest passenger and freight vessels ever built in an American shipyard, exceeding in length and breadth the liner Pennsylvania, largest commercial vessel ever built in America, will be constructed at the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company for the Dollar Lines, following the signing of loan and construction contracts in Washington.

The two huge liners, plans for which already are in hand and the award of contracts for which had been anticipated since last spring, according to shipyard officials, are to be 630 feet long, as against 613, approximately, for the Pennsylvania, and a beam of 81 feet, one foot greater than that of that big vessel, which was recently completed here for the International Mercantile Marine's Panama-Pacific Lines.

The vessels are to cost approximately $7,000,000 each, according to shipyard officials. The Dollar interests yesterday received authorization from Chairman T. B. O'Connor, of the Shipping Board, for loans aggregating $5,287,500 for each ship, three-fourths of the contract price.

DUMFRIES DEGREE TEAM HAS PARTY

Mrs. Eastman Keys Entertained Degree Team of Virginia Dare Rebekah Lodge.

Mrs. Eastman Keys, Degree Director, entertained the Degree team of Virginia Dare Rebekah Lodge No. 66, at a dinner in her home on Tuesday, October 22. The team consists of Madames Lottie Young, Myrtle Keys, Annie Cline, Janie Abel, Mayme Sison, Alice Tharp, Lena Leverman, Mollie Garrison, Mary Williams, Bertha Garrison, Katie Keys, Misses Lilian Williams, Mary Agnes Love, Lucy Lewis, Dorothy White, Ella Morris, Mabel Lewis. Mr. Carlton Garrison, musician. Other guests were Miss Catherine Keys, Mr. Elvan Keys and Mr. Eastman Keys.

The dinner was an elaborate one and gracefully served. The place cards and favors were Hallowe'en tokens. The decorations were beautiful, the Hallowe'en color and spirit carried out very effectively over the entire first floor. Spooky faces and lights met one at every turn.

The entertainment committee broke the wait between courses with well timed riddles, this caused much laughter and was shared by all. After the dinner the guests all took part in an hour and a half of games and music.

This team put on the Rebekah Degree at the recent Northern Virginia Odd Fellows Association at Warren, Va. Mrs. Keys being not only the Director but also one on the team.

Singing Over the Radio.

Many have wondered why singing over the radio is so largely unsatisfactory, while the piano, the violin, and even a symphony orchestra, ordinarily, come over quite successfully when static does not interfere. The New York World offers an explanation which, whether altogether satisfying or not, is at least interesting. As to why opera singers fail to show ground for their celebrity when they sing over the radio the World more or less jocularly observes:

"These formally tutored voices do not go well on the air. Their voluminous head resonance gets all tangled up with the static, their lusty high tones blast on the microphone; their deep low tones lead the listeners to think that somebody is monkeying with the bull fiddle. Moreover, they find it difficult to learn that a microphone is neither a telephone receiver nor a phonograph recording apparatus. They stand too close to it; they fail to step from it on high notes, they sing so loudly that sometimes it is necessary to place them ten feet away from it, with a handpainted Japanese screen in front of them. The results are often so painful that the announcer has to give his mixer a few quick turns, dissolving them out, and the latter then tell the customers how much they have enjoyed the selection."

If there is such difficulty in putting an operatic star successfully on the air, there must be difficulty even in the case of the ordinary carefully trained studio singer, and this helps to explain why vocal music over the radio is so much less effective and pleasing than instrumental music.

EXTENSION WORKER FEELS ENCOURAGEMENT

Dr. B. L. Hummel, Community Organization Specialist, Finds A Wholesome Response.

Speaking of his first year's work as community organization specialist, Virginia extension division, Dr. B. L. Hummel says:

"During the fifteen years that I have spent doing organization work with the farm people of three different states, I have not found as wholesome and encouraging a response anywhere as from the farm people of Virginia. The pride which Virginia people have in the illustrious accomplishments of her early settlers and honored statesmen is translated into a willingness on the part of outstanding men and women in all parts of the state to accept positions of responsibility and work for the good of the community, the state, or the nation."

"Not only is there a willingness to serve and an appreciation of the need of group action, but there are an un-

MORE EGGS WHEN PRICES ARE HIGH.

Every poultryman, whether the commercial grower with thousands of chickens or the small amateur backyard owner, would like to have eggs to market in the fall and winter when prices are high. The average American hen, true to nature, without energetic compulsion on the part of her owner, will do exactly opposite and produce most eggs when prices are lowest. This, of course, is why prices are low—most poultry owners permitting the hen to produce eggs when natural instead of meeting the opposing seasonal forces by the required scientific processes of winter egg production.

Fall and winter eggs are not the result of luck, so-called. They are the rewards of careful planning, knowledge and equipment. The hen is a machine. The feed she receives is fuel. The eggs she lays is the power produced by the fuel. But an engine to furnish power when needed must not only be a good engine, with proper fuel placed beneath its boiler in proper quantities, but it must be properly located and protected, its parts kept free from rust and other decaying and disturbing materials. The operator must have a complete knowledge of the machine, its maximum power and the proper balance of fuel and care to attain and maintain that power.

Winter quarters of laying hens, both old birds and pullets, must be clean. All old litter should be removed and the entire house sprayed inside with a strong antiseptic solution to destroy worm eggs and other parasites which may remain from last year's flock. The roosts should be given a free coating of wood preservative. A general spraying of the entire interior with whitewash will be beneficial, especially if the poultry house is an old one. Clean litter should then be provided. This may be straw, shavings or peat litter. Many poultrymen prefer the latter because of its lasting qualities and tendencies to reduce dampness.

It is urgent that the poultry flock be kept comfortable during the winter months. This requires repair of all roof leaks, perhaps insulation of the walls; and above all, proper ventilation. If the poultry house walls are properly covered with good insulating material there will be a natural flow of fresh air into the building if a few well located ventilation controls are installed. And sunshine should not be omitted from the winter requirements of the laying hens. Progressive poultrymen have found that ordinary window glass shuts out certain rays of the sun that are required by the hen. A glass substitute material should be used, one that will give the flock the full benefit of the sun's rays.

But even with these building advantages there are many long periods in winter when there is little sunshine. Here is where the proper feeding will serve as a substitute for sunshine. Codliver oil will provide the health the birds otherwise would receive from the sun. It should be fed in the evening grain ration at the rate of three to five tablespoonsfuls daily to each 100 birds.

A worm treatment should be administered if there are any indications of infestation among old hens or pullets. The capsule method has made this treatment simple. Vaccination will insure the flock against colds and other seasonal dangers. Leading poultrymen are recommending use of vaccine as a preventive, rather than a cure. Most of these suggestions should be followed when the birds are brought in from the range, but are urged here for those who perhaps have neglected these steps to guard the health of the flock.

Plenty of feeding space would be provided for the hens. Lack of hopper space often is the cause of decreased egg production. There should be one foot of hopper space for every seven hens. Plenty of fresh water should also be kept before the flock. The change from outside existence to the more even temperatures of the poultry house makes a heavier water consumption necessary.

If hens are expected to produce large numbers of eggs they must of necessity consume large quantities of food, more fuel to produce more power. As the days shorten into winter the hen will find this impossible

EDGAR W. CORNWELL DIES IN ALEXANDRIA HOSPITAL

Death Came On Friday Night And Body Brought To Manassas For Burial On Sunday.

Mr. E. W. Cornwell, of Alexandria died in the Alexandria Hospital on Friday, November 1, of Bright's disease. The remains were brought to Manassas and burial was in the local cemetery on Sunday. He was 62 years of age.

Lice can be controlled easily. Decreased egg production due to lice is largely attributable to neglect or carelessness of the owner. Blackleaf 40, a compound nicotine sulphate preparation, applied to the roosts in a thin stream from a small oil can about a half hour before the birds go to roost, will not only kill the lice on the roosting boards, but the heat from the birds will cause the nicotine vapors to penetrate the feathers, killing all body lice.

Well bred stock, proper housing, sanitation, and scientific feeding are steps to winter egg production. Not at all impossible of attainment.

I. ADVERTISING PAYS

advertising pays. Experience the business world confirms this fact. All advertising pays, but advertisements are much more effective of direct results than others.

Just as one man may be a more effective salesman than the average one well dressed and well prepared advertisement will produce returns far excess of those generally received in indifferent advertising.

Let those who doubt the efficacy of advertising make a list of the items every day use that they purchase. Ninety-nine out of every hundred will be a nationally known item, whose reputation has been established by interink.

Advertising pays in two ways. First it may bring the buyers directly to the seller in response to the advertiser's message. Second, it may make a favorable impression in the unconscious mind that is translated into action when the need for the commodity or service arises.

It is this indirect result that many manufacturers and business leaders find most valuable of all. But of course where the advertiser's message can be made of such interest and convincing that the buyer rushes immediately to the seller, then indeed a double job has been accomplished that makes the purchase of printer's ink the greatest of all investments.—Oconto, Wisconsin, Reporter.

NEWS OF WEEK IN OLD VIRGINIA

Church Schools Grow.

Alexandria, Nov. 7.—The five church schools in the Episcopal Diocese of Virginia last year granted reductions in board and tuition charges amounting to more than $20,000, in order to take in children whose parents could not afford the full rate, according to a statement made in a folder entitled, "Open the Door of Opportunity," prepared for use in the present annual fall campaign. These schools—St. Catherine's and St. Christopher's, in Richmond; St. Anne's, Charlottesville; St. Margaret's, Tapahannock, and Christ Church Middlesex—are declared by the folder, to be gaining a firmer footing each year, having an increased attendance, embraced reputation, more adequate physical equipment and more ample provision for scholarship and reductions.

Game Sanctuary Established.

Harrisonburg, Nov. 6.—A 1,000-acre game sanctuary has been established in the Shenandoah mountains, of Northwest Rockingham, near the West Virginia line, by Game Warden Wade Fawley, in an effort to replenish the stock of deer, wild turkeys, pheasants and other game, which formerly frequented the region.

Welfare Worker Appointed.

Fairfax, Nov. 7.—The Fairfax County Welfare Board held its organization meeting last week in the supervisor's room at the courthouse on call of Juvenile Judge Abner C. Ritchie. R. R. Buckley, of Fairfax, was unanimously elected chairman of the board, all members being in attendance except Mrs. Russell Lynn and Dr. Ernest Robey, of Herndon.

The board has appointed Mrs. Leon Mangum of Franklin Park superintendent of public welfare, with the approval of the State Board of Public Welfare, which was represented at the meeting by Paul Blandford, of Richmond. Mrs. Mangum will also act as secretary of the board and will submit monthly reports to Richmond. Meetings of the board will be present on call of the chairman or superintendent.

Library Association Elects.

Lynchburg, Nov. 6.—Thomas Parker Ayers, of Richmond, was elected president of the Virginia Library Association in convention here. Other officers are:

Vice-presidents, Miss Theresa D. Hodges, of Petersburg, and Miss Blanche Pritchard McCuin, Washington and Lee University, secretary-treasurer; Miss Mary Louise Dinwiddie, of University of Virginia Library.

W. & L. Alumni Officer.

Lexington, Nov. 7.—Miss Mary A. Barclay, of Lexington, for many years an administrative assistant of the Washington and Lee University Alumni Association, has been named as temporary alumni secretary, succeeding William A. Bell, who has resigned because of illness.

Miss Barclay will act as alumni secretary pending action by the alumni association in electing a new secretary. This election will take place on November 16, home-coming day.

Mr. Bell took charge of the alumni office at the opening of the school term this year, succeeding Vernon E. Kemp.

Baptist Board Meeting.

Winchester, Nov. 6.—A meeting of the Virginia Baptist board of missions and education has been called for the afternoon of Monday, November 11, at 3 o'clock, at the Baptist Church in Winchester, it was announced by Dr. G. T. Waite, executive secretary of the board.

This meeting of the board, Dr.

White added, will be held at Winches- ter on the day preceding the meeting of the Virginia Baptist General Association in that city.

Road Surface Treated.

Richmond, Nov. 6.—The State Highway Department yesterday reported the completion of approximately 900 miles of road surface treatment during the current road work season. Weather conditions for this work were particularly good and the many projects progressed rapidly, according to a statement by J. J. Forrer, maintenance engineer of the department.

About 300 miles of highway were given surface treatment for the first time, the report states, and some 600 miles of road was resurfaced from May to October 1. This leaves about ninety miles of roadway included in this year's surfacing program to be completed as the weather permits.

Big Ship Contracts.

Newport News, Nov. 7.—Two of the largest passenger and freight vessels ever built in an American shipyard, exceeding in length and breadth the liner Pennsylvania, largest commercial vessel ever built in America, will be constructed at the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company for the Dollar Lines, following the signing of loan and construction contracts in Washington.

The two huge liners, plans for which already are in hand and the award of contracts for which had been anticipated since last spring, according to shipyard officials, are to be 630 feet long, as against 613, approximately, for the Pennsylvania, and a beam of 81 feet, one foot greater than that of that big vessel, which was recently completed here for the International Mercantile Marine's Panama-Pacific Lines.

The vessels are to cost approximately $7,000,000 each, according to shipyard officials. The Dollar interests yesterday received authorization from Chairman T. B. O'Connor, of the Shipping Board, for loans aggregating $5,287,500 for each ship, three-fourths of the contract price.

DUMFRIES DEGREE TEAM HAS PARTY

Mrs. Eastman Keys Entertained Degree Team of Virginia Dare Rebekah Lodge.

Mrs. Eastman Keys, Degree Director, entertained the Degree team of Virginia Dare Rebekah Lodge No. 66, at a dinner in her home on Tuesday, October 22. The team consists of Mesdames Lottie Young, Myrtle Keys, Annie Cline, Janie Abel, Mayme Sisson, Alice Tharp, Lena Leverman, Mollie Garrison, Mary Williams, Bertha Garrison, Katie Keys, Misses Lillian Williams, Mary Agnes Love, Lucy Lewis, Dorothy White, Ella Morris, Mabel Lewis, Mr. Carlton Garrison, musician. Other guests were Miss Catherine Keys, Mr. Elvan Keys and Mr. Eastman Keys.

The dinner was an elaborate one and gracefully served. The place cards and favors were Hallowe'en tokens. The decorations were beautiful, the Hallowe'en color and spirit carried over very effectively over the entire first floor. Spooky faces and lights met one at every turn.

The entertainment committee broke the wait between courses with well timed riddles, this caused much laughter and was shared by all. After the dinner the guests all took part in an hour and a half of games and music. This team put on the Rebekah Degree at the recent Northern Virginia Odd Fellows Association at Warrenton, Va. Mrs. Keys being not only the Director but also one on the team.

Singing Over the Radio.

Many have wondered why singing over the radio is so largely unsatisfactory, while the piano, the violin, and even a symphony orchestra, ordinarily, come over quite successfully when static does not interfere. The New York World offers an explanation which, whether altogether satisfying or not, is at least interesting. As to why opera singers fail to show ground for their celebrity when they sing over the radio the World more or less jocularly observes:

"These formally tutored voices do not go well on the air. Their voluminous head resonance gets all tangled up with the static, their rusty high tones blast on the microphone; their deep low tones lead the listeners to think that somebody is monkeying with the bull fiddle. Moreover, they find it difficult to learn that a microphone is neither a telephone receiver nor a phonograph recording apparatus. They stand too close to it, they fail to step from it on high notes, they sing so loudly that sometimes it is necessary to place them ten feet away from it, with a handpainted Japanese screen in front of them. The results are often so painful that the announcer has to give his mixer a few quick turns, dissolving them out, and the latter then tell the customers how much they have enjoyed the selection."

If there is such difficulty in putting an operatic star successfully on the air, there must be difficulty even in the case of the ordinary carefully trained studio singer, and this helps to explain why vocal music over the radio is so much less effective and pleasing than instrumental music.

EXTENSION WORKER FEELS ENCOURAGEMENT

D. B. L. Hummel, Community Organization Specialist, Finds A Wholesome Response.

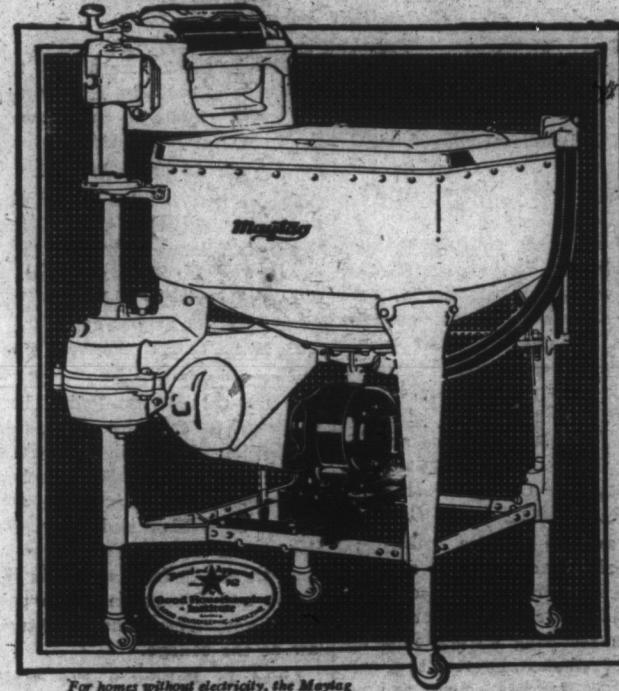

Speaking of his first year's work as community organization specialist, Virginia extension division, Dr. B. L. Hummel says:

"During the fifteen years that I have spent doing organization work with the farm people of three different states, I have not found as wholesome and encouraging a response anywhere as from the farm people of Virginia. The pride which Virginia people have in the illustrious accomplishments of her early settlers and honored statesmen is translated into a willingness on the part of outstanding men and women in all parts of the state to accept positions of responsibility and work for the good of the community, the state, or the nation.

"Not only is there a willingness to serve and an appreciation of the need of group action, but there are an unusual number of men and women who know how to take charge of a group meeting and preside in a masterly way, directing discussion and leading the group into constructive deliberation. Virginia farms may not be as productive as those in more favored sections of the country and the rate of earning and spending may not be so high, but if our farm people really know the value of working together and are willing and able to pull together better times are ahead. The farm problem will be solved when farm people solve it, and the nation is waiting for leadership in rural affairs. Cannot and will not Virginia farm people with their splendid heritage of the true meaning of citizenship lead out in establishing an adequate and satisfying type of rural community life?"

MORE EGGS WHEN PRICES ARE HIGH.

Every poultryman, whether the commercial grower with thousands of chickens or the small amateur back-yard owner, would like to have eggs to market in the fall and winter when prices are high. The average American hen, true to nature, without energetic compulsion on the part of her owner, will do exactly opposite and produce most eggs when prices are lowest. This, of course, is why prices are low—most poultry owners permitting the hen to produce eggs when natural instead of meeting the opposing seasonal forces by the required scientific processes of winter egg production.

Fall and winter eggs are not the result of luck, so-called. They are the rewards of careful planning, knowledge and equipment. The hen is a machine. The feed she receives is fuel. The eggs she lays is the power produced by the fuel. But an engine to furnish power when needed must not only be a good engine, with proper fuel placed beneath its boiler in proper quantities, but it must be properly located and protected, its parts kept free from rust and other decaying and disturbing materials. The operator must have a complete knowledge of the machine, its maximum power and the proper balance of fuel and care to attain and maintain that power.

Winter quarters of laying hens, both old birds and pullets, must be clean. All old litter should be removed and the entire house sprayed inside with a strong antiseptic solution to destroy worm eggs and other parasites which may remain from last year's flock. The roosts should be given a free coating of wood preservative. A general spraying of the entire interior with whitewash will be beneficial, especially if the poultry house is an old one. Clean litter should then be provided. This may be straw, shavings or peat litter. Many poultrymen prefer the latter because of its lasting qualities and tendencies to reduce dampness.

It is urgent that the poultry flock be kept comfortable during the winter months. This requires repair of all roof leaks, perhaps insulation of the walls; and above all, proper ventilation. If the poultry house walls are properly covered with good insulating material there will be a natural flow of fresh air into the building if a few well located ventilation controls are installed. And sunshine should not be omitted from the winter requirements of the laying hens. Progressive poultrymen have found that ordinary window glass shuts out certain rays of the sun that are required by the hen. A glass substitute material should be used, one that will give the flock the full benefit of the sun's rays.

But even with these building advantages there are many long periods in winter when there is little sunshine. Here is where the proper feeding will serve as a substitute for sunshine. Codliver oil will provide the health the birds otherwise would receive from the sun. It should be fed in the evening grain ration at the rate of three to five tablespoonsfuls daily to each 100 birds.

A worm treatment should be administered if there are any indications of infestation among old hens or pullets. The capsule method has made this treatment simple. Vaccination will insure the flock against colds and other seasonal dangers. Leading poultrymen are recommending use of vaccine as a preventive, rather than a cure. Most of these suggestions should be followed when the birds are brought in from the range, but are urged here for those who perhaps have neglected these steps to guard the health of the flock.

Plenty of feeding space would be provided for the hens. Lack of hopper space often is the cause of decreased egg production. There should be one foot of hopper space for every seven hens. Plenty of fresh water should also be kept before the flock. The change from outside existence to the more even temperatures of the poultry house makes a heavier water consumption necessary.

If hens are expected to produce large numbers of eggs they must of necessity consume large quantities of food, more fuel to produce more power. As the days shorten into winter the hen will find this impossible

WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN?

The more than 70,000 majority which the people of Virginia gave to Dr. John Garland Pollard on Tuesday, the largest majority in recent gubernatorial history, is a complete endorsement of the manner in which the affairs of the state have been handled under Democratic administration. It may also be considered as a stinging rebuke to Henry W. Anderson, Bascom Slemp, a well known church bishop, and of course, to Dr. William Moseley Brown, not alone for their campaign of abuse and unconstructive criticism, but also for their effrontery in thinking that Virginia was with in hailing distance of being Republican.

This people of the Old Dominion also showed in no uncertain terms, that they are in thorough accord with the program of Progress inaugurated during the term of Governor Harry F. Byrd.

John Garland Pollard, Governor-elect, we salute you.

THE PEOPLE'S GOVERNOR.

John Garland Pollard has been elected by a vast majority, and all who voted for him must be conceded their right to cheer and celebrate. But our concern is for the approximately 100,000 men and women of Virginia who voted for William Moseley Brown. These people were sincere in their advocacy of their candidate. It is our purpose to remind them today that Pollard is their Governor; that he will represent in office, not merely those who voted for him, but the entire electorate.

There were bitter words exchanged during the campaign. With the exception of the presidential election last fall, no political fight since reconstruction days has been so bitterly contested. The heat generated was responsible for the miserable failure of every political prognosticator. The most generous estimate fixed by the most reckless campaign prophet was a majority of 45,000. No one dreamed that Brown would be snowed under by such a vast and indisputable majority.

The crushing nature of Brown's defeat is truly a hopeful sign. We have no desire to humiliate the beaten foe, but honesty dictates the assertion that Brown undertook, throughout his entire campaign, to appeal to prejudice and ignorance, rather than to reason and logic. The enormity of his failure is a vindication of popular government, and it should be a lesson to the candidates of the future.

It is apparent that Virginians resent what they recognize to be affronts to their intelligence. They have rebuked the Lexington psychologist as they have no other political figure of this generation. He having disappeared from the scene, those who voted for him should turn now to John Garland Pollard, who is as truly their Governor as he is the executive of the 170,000 or more Democrats who voted for him.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

INTELLIGENCE IN CRIME REFORM.

The interest being taken in our growing criminality by scientists, statesmen, industrialists and leaders in all fields of endeavor is a hopeful sign.

In the past, most crime investigations have been left to professional reformers, many of them fanatical. As a result a vast number of theories have appeared and disappeared with the criminal still flourishing.

With our "crime future" in the hands of men proven practical and successful there is some hope for relief. There is small place for sentiment in crime suppression.

It is notable that a great army of experts has commented unfavorably on our super-abundance of laws destined to curb crime. It seems to be a proven fact that more laws make more crime.

The first move in any genuine crime reform must be to clear the decks of the red tape and legal technicalities that now make a trial a duel of legal phrases rather than a discussion of fact. The criminal can not be deterred by prohibitory legislation alone. It must become apparent that crime is unprofitable and that offenders will be quickly punished.

We have had our fill of anti-this-and-that laws. The United States needs a simple, effective legal code that will punish and prevent crime without working a hardship on the good citizen.

NO LABOR PARTY.

President Green of the American Federation of Labor, said, in a recent address, that the workers of the United States have no intention of forming a labor party.

This will come as a hard blow to many who have visioned a socialist government, to be created by labor. But it is eminently logical. American labor, under our broad two party system, has fared too well to need any party entirely its own.

So long as men are paid high wages for short hours of work, live under good conditions and occupy an enviable position in the social scale, it will be difficult to arouse dissension among American workers. The American wage and living standards have made strikes obsolete in most industries. What disputes arise are settled amicably in a manner fair to all, by boards of arbitration. Capital and Labor are partners in the job of advancing our civilization.

It is a mistake to think of labor as a separate entity, apart from the rest of our citizens. An American labor party would find no place to fill.

Richmond Times-Dispatch — An American woman, a pipe smoker, has attained the venerable age of 104 years. This may not mean anything, but it appears to be good billboard stuff, at any rate.

Step On It.

One of the real novelties in the "new" traffic rules promulgated by the State authorities is that which empowers officers to get after "road mopes," says the Boston Transcript. In the early days of motoring and, in fact, until within the last few years, the main effort of the police has been to stop over-speeding. Maximum speed limits were designated, with this end in view, but the regulations never took account of the slow poke; the wheezy flitter that could go only fifteen or paterfamilias and the brood who ambled along at a snail's pace to enjoy the scenery. Both had their rights on the highways, but such is the evolution of motor traffic, they must now get off to one side or seek the less traveled roads. The law prescribes no minimum rate of speed, and hitherto the police had no authority to speed up the slackers. Now they

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
FOR NOVEMBER 10, 1929.

The International Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 10 is "Some Teachings of the Bible: World Peace Through Mutual Understanding"—Isaiah 2:2-4; Acts 17:22-28; John 4:20, 21.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

Peace has of late "made" the first pages of the newspapers; even crowding out the war news from China, Russia, Afghanistan and elsewhere. For the first time in history a large and possibly determinative body of public opinion, on both sides of the Atlantic, is contemplating a warless world as a realizable possibility. It even seems as if the fundamental psychology of public opinion on the subject may be undergoing a change.

This is news, big news. For it embodies one of the goals of the ages. Prophets without number, throughout the centuries, have proclaimed this day, and died without seeing its sunrise. It really has come to pass that reasonable, informed and practical men are contemplating the actual outlawy of war among civilized nations. A peace mind is being created to supplant the old war mind. Down into the thinking of the average man and woman has penetrated this sublime and sensible conception of a time when nations shall study war no more.

Where The Grass Roots Grow.

Not all who are shouting "Peace! Peace!" have thought the subject through. Some superficially suppose that a fashion for peace may be created by popular favor, like the fashion of bobbed hair or short skirts. Anything so easily voted in will be quite as easily voted out.

What the world wants is permanent peace, and not a temporary truce.

Therefore we have to get back to the ideas of the old Book which has an interesting habit of proving itself to be wiser than the newest philosophers. The Bible ideal of peace is pillars on the two principles of righteousness and good will. When the army of heaven—"the heavenly host," the Sabbath—swept down over the Bethlehem hills on the first Christmas eve, and smote the incredulous eyes of the wondering shepherds with a new song, it was "Peace on earth among men of good will."

Even the most modern and sophisticated political analyst cannot imagine it; and while it may be a question of nice judgment as to who is driving too slowly, the leisurely motorist may find it safe to "step on it" when the officer tells him to do so and do his arguing afterward.

Equal Rights.

Indianapolis Star—Virginia ministers have asked their conference for permission to smoke. Maybe they feel lonesome at meetings of the ladies' aid society.

Useful Pests Wanted.

San Francisco Chronicle—Heaven knows best, but it would be nice if some of these imported insect pests liked dandelions.

At Home Everywhere.

Richmond News Leader—You are under no obligation to transport a hitch-hiker. He's just as useful where he is as any place else.

Simple.

Macon Telegraph—The United States Department of Agriculture has issued a bulletin entitled, "How to Make Wet Cellars Dry". We know that one. Throw a week-end party.

Poser.

Detroit News—The fellow who used to ask, "Who is the other senator from Idaho?" has thought up one even harder: "Who is either senator from Delaware?"

Wonder What For.

Washington Evening Star—The Internal Revenue Building is to have a roof garden. The connection between roof gardens and internal revenue is always a close one.

Sanscrit Puzzle.

Boston Globe—Adding the so-called debenture plan to the tariff bill has put the whole legislation in a tangle, so runs a dispatch from Washington, but to a casual observer the tariff has never been in anything else.

Unheralded Heroines.

Detroit Free Press—Maybe, as Mr. Ford says, women are not mechanically minded, but we have known women who have had to drive nails and put up stoves while their husbands stood by helpless.

that must be righted. Some nations are still oppressed and exploited. Injustices, international as well as social, are flagrant. Now nobody in his senses wants a peace which will perpetuate these by the maintenance of the status quo among nations. If peace is to be permanent, and Christian, it must provide a way to right wrongs and establish justice. So we must look to the Bible, rather than to the parliamentarians and technicians, to show us the way to peace. Otherwise we shall be crying "Peace! Peace!" when there is no peace.

So it is less by conferences and courts and agreements that world peace is to be assured than by a return to the explicit teachings of Scripture and to the kingship of Christ. The Prince of Peace is the bringer of real peace. When all men seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness they will find themselves in possession of both inward spiritual peace and outward political peace.

Preachers and Peace.

Real work for peace must go deep into these abiding sources. Peace talk has become almost a cult among many preachers; who talk pacts and treaties and courts and conferences, with an exhilarating sense of having entered the ranks of statesmanship. Most of the sermons of this sort that I have heard have been superficial and ill-proportioned, a manifest rehashing of recent editorials and books. Real statesmanship on the part of preachers and teachers would be to stress and maintain the true foundations of peace, which are spiritual. A man is doing more for the peace cause when he interprets the ageless truths of Divine teaching upon the relation of man to man, and of man to God, than when he is proclaiming easy generalizations concerning a warless world.

Where The Grass Roots Grow.

Not all who are shouting "Peace! Peace!" have thought the subject through. Some superficially suppose that a fashion for peace may be created by popular favor, like the fashion of bobbed hair or short skirts. Anything so easily voted in will be quite as easily voted out.

A Man of Good Will.

Recently I sat for two hours vis-a-vis with Ramsay MacDonald, at the luncheon given him in Washington by the Overseas Writers. His face is that of the typical northern Scot,—rugged, keen and tinged with sternness and melancholy. When he speaks of the things which his heart holds dearest, it becomes clear that he bears on his soul the Christian cross of vicariousness. His passion and his purpose are the pursuit of amelioration of the lot of mankind. Like most of his associates in the British Labor Party, he got his public training as a speaker for Christ, in the churches and on the street corners. He was a salvationist—an evangelist—before ever he was a politician. His Christian convictions drove him and his fellows into politics.

Thus he came to America and Canada radiating genuine good will, of the Scriptural sort. No word-juggler he; no artful contriver; no subtle diplomatist. Because his simple sincerity and dauntless good will were manifest to all who looked, men and women on two continents have supported him, as he has swept the world forward to a new effort to realize the old Bible aims of "Peace on earth among men of good will". Details of procedure are easily mastered when the animating spirit is such as this.

Wanted: Statesmen of Peace.

We need Ramsay MacDonald to awaken us afresh to this old fashioned truth, which makes the music of Christmaseide. Too long have the relations of nations been left to sophisticated and suspicious professionals. These old-style diplomats, who know every one of the knots into which red tape may be tied, and who are masters of the game of subtlety and secrecy and subterfuge, must give way, one of these days, to simpler and more sincere men, who know their countrymen's hearts, who are really representative, and who seek to bind nations together by strong, human ties.

Old diplomacy was expert in knowing which corner of a calling card to turn down upon the appropriate occasion; and expert in the fine arts of balancing a teacup and a sandwich and a bit of pastry, while at the same time looking soulfully into the eyes of some highly-placed social figure. For centuries the world has been cursed with these professional diplomats, who seldom represent the real mind or spirit or character of their nations. World peace and world welfare doubtless would be prospered were all of the foreign offices of the great nations to be completely stripped of their present professional personnel, and manned anew by men from out of civil life. For the last citadel to be captured by the new and benevolent spirit of world peace will be the foreign offices, war offices and admiralties of the various nations.

SOLID SOUTH SEEN BY SWANSON

Says Democratic Victory In Virginia Indicates Normal Conditions Prevail.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Senator Swanson, one of the Democratic leaders in Virginia, issued a statement today asserting the Democratic victory in Virginia "indicates that the entire South will return to the Democratic party by large majorities."

"The result of the election just held in Virginia," he said, "very clearly indicates that under normal political conditions and issues Virginia is overwhelmingly Democratic. The result in this election insures that in the election to be held next year Virginia will by a very large majority elect a Democratic Senator and Democratic Representative from every congressional district in the State. The majority in the State and in every congressional district will next year exceed the majorities given in this election."

"The result of this election means that in the future there will be but two parties in Virginia, Democratic and Republican."

"This election also indicates that the entire South will return to the Democratic party by large majorities, especially if the wise and liberal policy adopted in Virginia is pursued in other Southern States, and all Democrats invited to return and again affiliate with the party, irrespective of the difference of last year." —By Associated Press.

Lowest Figure Reached In This Federal Reserve District Since November, 1920.

Business failures in the Fifth Federal Reserve District in September, 1929, totaled 70, "the lowest for any month since November, 1920," says William W. Hoxton, chairman and Federal Reserve agent, in his monthly review of business and agricultural conditions.

The business failures figure for September, 1929, was 40 per cent less than 119 failures in September, 1928. "Liabilities involved in the September ern history have contributed prizes this year. They are:

The Susan Stuart Campbell prize of $25 offered in memory of their mother, Mrs. Susan Stuart Campbell, by her sons, Stuart Bland Campbell and Fitzgerald Campbell, upon the subject, "Southwestern Virginia's Contribution to the Confederate Cause."

The Janet Randolph prize of $20 offered by Major Streater on the subject, "The Supreme Courts of the Confederate States—Why Was One Never Organized?"

The Virginia Division prize of $20, on the subject, "Causes Contributing to the Overthrow of the Confederacy."

The M. L. Harrison prize of $25 is offered for essay upon the subject, "Virginia's War Governors, '61, '65."

The Wythe Grey Chapter, Wytheville, $10 prize upon the subject "The Work on the Confederate Congress."

A $10 prize is given to the chapter in the State reporting the greatest amount of historical work done in the schools. This prize is given in memory of Mrs. C. G. Blakely, by her daughter.

Virginia Banner—This prize is offered by Miss Annie V. Mann, of Petersburg, first vice-president of the Virginia Division in memory of those who gave their lives in defense of Petersburg, and will be awarded to the chapter doing the best all around historical work.

1929, insolvencies totaled $1,111,141, the lowest figure for any month since September, 1923, and 58 per cent below $2,650,752 reported for September 1928," says the review. "Total failures in the Fifth District in the third quarter of this year numbered 290, with liabilities aggregating $6,262,056 compared with 355 failures and liabilities totaling $7,035,907 in the third quarter of 1928."

Concerning employment, it is stated in the review: "No developments of importance took place during the past month in the employment field. Indications are that practically all labor groups are seasonally employed, with der construction."

plenty of workers available to supply all needs, but not sufficient surplus at any point to be troublesome. South Carolina is preparing to begin work on a $65,000,000 road building program, which should give employment to many unskilled workmen in that State for several years. One of the leading tobacco companies is beginning the erection of an additional factory in Richmond, which will require a large number of additional women workers when completed and will give employment to a considerable number of building trades people while under construction."

DORAN SAYS PUBLIC
DRINKING REDUCED

Commissioner Tells College
Group Prohibition Act Is Bearing Fruit.

"There is less public drinking today than before the prohibition law was enacted," Dr. James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner, on Saturday told delegates from eighteen colleges in Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia at the closing session of a two-day prohibition conference at Johns Hopkins University.

After declaring "rum row has been abolished, foreign bases either destroyed or well on the way to destruction and international rum smuggling almost driven from the high seas and with forces now concentrated on land borders," Dr. Doran said: "I believe if we examine the ten years' record of enforcement we will conclude we are not dealing with the fall of man, but will feel cause for optimism."

Referring to the bill proposed by Senator Sheppard, making the purchaser equally guilty with the seller, the commissioner said he had "no fixed opinion."

"Of course, the purchaser is ethically as guilty as the seller, but whether it is wise to add a special crime to the calendar is open to grave question. The real question to be settled is whether it is necessary in the administration of the law."

Dr. Doran characterized the present status of enforcement of the Volstead law with the statement, "more talk than whisky".

DUMFRIES

The Woman's Missionary Society met on Tuesday with a particularly fine number of members attending. Arrangements were perfected for the Week of Prayer services which will be conducted in the Methodist Church on November 17, 18, and 19.

An oyster supper will be held on Saturday, November 16, the time and place to be announced next week.

The "Kill the Fly" campaign is in full swing here, and a League meeting was held on Monday night when Dr. Malcolm Hill, of Milwaukee, whose campaigning against the Filthy Fly has speeded up the "Kill the Fly" movement, spoke on the danger of the little pest. More than 75 people gathered for the meeting. Miss Ruby Ryman, the county nurse, whose work in the county among the sick as well as in the interest of sanitation, is attracting outside attention, was present and spoke briefly as did Miss Mary Bell, home demonstration agent.

Miss Lillian Hammond, teacher of the Minnieville School, has been visiting at the home of Mrs. D. C. Cline.

Mrs. Cline, who is a member of the School Board, attended the meeting of that body on Wednesday in Manassas.

A POLITICAL SUPERSTITION.

If Governor Smith had been elected President, and if a Democratic Congress had been discussing a tariff bill, and if then such an unprecedented crash in the stock market as we have been witnessing had occurred, it requires very little imagination to know what would have been said or shouted, all over the country, says The New York Times. That hopelessly incompetent Democratic party! When will this nation learn that it cannot be trusted even for a single term in the Presidency? Before its first year of office is out, it has inflicted financial losses greater than those of the World War. Anyhow, we have learned our lesson. Never again! The business and industry of the United States are safe only in the hands of the Republican party.

That would have been fallacious and unfair. It would be just as fallacious and unfair now for Democrats to hold President Hoover and his Administration responsible for the unparalleled break in stocks. Its causes and course have been well understood by trained economists and financiers, and have little or nothing to do with politics. But that fact has not in the past prevented an extremely partisan use of every setback in the markets.

It was so used in 1913 against President Wilson. He was subjected to ridicule for saying that the slight depression in the stock market was "psychological." But only yesterday a spokesman for President Hoover declared at Washington that the great trouble during the past week has been due to "mob psychology".

Let one explanation balance the other. Let one political charge cancel the other. But let it not be forgotten in the future that the worst crash in the history of Wall Street took place in the first year of a Republican President who, together with Republican tariff in the making, was held up to the country as the sure guarantee of continued and ever mounting prosperity. One thing that should have been forever wiped out, along with millions of private accounts, by the stock market disaster, is the old tradition, or superstition, that Republican rule always spells prosperity, and Democratic only calamity.

RED CROSS EXPENDS EIGHT MILLIONS FOR RELIEF IN DISASTER

Year Just Closed Put Heavy Task on Society—120 Calls for Help Were Met.

An unusually large number of disasters in the United States and its insular possessions have required assistance from the American Red Cross during the year just closed. The organization sent emergency relief workers to the scenes of 120 tornadoes, floods, fires and other types of catastrophes and expended $8,020,000 in relief and rehabilitation of the victims.

Calls for aid came from eleven other nations in which earthquakes, floods and other problems caused distress to large populations, and the Red Cross sent $76,500 to help in relieving the suffering.

The catastrophe causing the greatest loss of life and most widespread devastation was the West Indies hurricane of September, 1928, in which more than 2,000 lives were lost in Florida, Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands. A relief fund of $6,883,725.62 was contributed by the public, following a proclamation by the President of the United States, to which the Red Cross added $50,000 from its own treasury, and the society was enabled to give relief to more than 700,000 persons.

In the early Spring, river floods in the southeastern states cost a heavy loss to many persons, 76,000 inhabitants being affected in four states. The Red Cross assisted 4,383 families, approximately 28,000 persons, with food, clothing, temporary housing, feed for stock and seed for replanting.

In all, thirty-eight states were visited by calamities during the year, affecting 664 counties. Twenty-eight counties were devastated twice by storms, fires and floods.

Red Cross expended $484,000 from its treasury in giving relief in these disasters, and at one time had as many as 120 disaster relief workers, nurses and other representatives in the field.

Funds for this relief work are obtained in the annual roll call for members, which occurs from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to 28. Only once a year—during this period of Roll Call—does the Red Cross ask public support to carry on its many activities.

SUPREME COURT TO REVIEW CASES

150 Cases To Come Up Among Them. Appeal of Club Wo- men In Goshen Pass Case.

More than 150 cases have been docketed for review by the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, which will convene its November term today.

Chief among these of interest to Virginia at large is the appeal of the Garden Clubs of Virginia against the Virginia Public Service Company. The service company projected a power dam at Goshen Pass, which it was claimed by the clubs would ruin the natural beauty of the Pass, long since hallowed by the writings of Mathew Fontaine Maury.

Clubs Take Appeal.

The litigation was brought to the attention of the State Corporation Commission, which passed the matter without a decision on the ground that under the State act, it was without jurisdiction. The clubs brought the case on appeal to the Supreme Court.

Another case of wide interest is that of the Chilton Malting Company versus the Commonwealth of Virginia. In this case the City Circuit Court of Richmond gave the malting company judgment for the value of quantity of malt seized and confiscated by State prohibition inspectors. The malt was seized, while in transit by the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

In the trial court it was held that as the malt was seized, while in transit in interstate commerce, the Commonwealth was not within its rights in the confiscation.

First Cases Scheduled.

The Calverton boys were leading at the end of first half 4-3, but Nokesville five, determined to win, seemed to take on new strength, and at the end were leading 12-8. The score was as follows:

WINTER IS CRITICAL TIME FOR SHEEP

During the summer and early fall permanent pastures usually furnish an abundance of feed for sheep. It is the late fall and winter that is the critical time, says L. I. Case, extension animal husbandman. At this time, unless extra feed is provided, the ewe flock usually lose weight. This is most serious as it results in a weakened lamb crop.

Pregnant ewes should gain from 15 to 20 pounds from the breeding season to lambing time. When pasture fails to furnish sufficient feed, supplementary feeding should be started. Clover and alfalfa hays are excellent, as they furnish the protein and minerals so necessary for the development of the unborn lambs. Bright corn stover is relished by sheep and furnishes variety, but it should not be depended upon for the sole roughage.

If legume hay is available, grain feeding need not be started until about one month before lambing time. Suggested Rations for Pregnant Ewes Legume, 2½ lbs.; Corn Silage, 2 lbs.; Corn, 2 parts; Bran, 2 parts, ½ lb.; Oil Meal, 1 part; Corn Stover, free choice.

Corn, 1 part; Oats, 1 part, ½ lb.; Bran, 1 part; Legume Hay, 2 lbs.; Corn Stover, 2 lbs.

Shelter should be provided for sheep in bad weather. It is a grievous mistake to let the fleeces get soaking wet in winter time for they take a long time to dry out and colds and pneumonia often results.

- have you driven
a Chevrolet Six?

Have you felt the thrill of its six-cylinder performance—so smooth, quiet and vibrationless that you almost forget there's a motor?

Have you known the satisfaction of its six-cylinder reserve power—ready to shoot you ahead at the traffic light, to carry you over the steepest hills, or to speed you along the highway?

And do you know that anyone who can afford any car can own a Chevrolet Six?

If you have never driven a six-cylinder car, it is impossible for you to form any idea of Chevrolet performance from your imagination alone.

Smoothness! No rumble in the body—no tremble in the steering wheel—no vibration to loosen windows and doors!

Flexibility! Power that flows in a silken stream—and never a trace of "lugging"!

Quiet! Hardly a whisper from the motor. You can drive it for hours without the slightest noise fatigue! But why try to tell you the story when only a ride can give you the facts? Come in. There's a car waiting for you . . . Now!

FOOD AS A FINE ART

THE best hotels in the world are in the United States. In no other country are there so many strictly modern hosteries offering every comfort, convenience and luxury, and so great a variety of delicious foods. One of the circumstances that makes this possible is revealed in a recent article in the Western Canner and Packer, of San Francisco, Calif., in the form of an interview with Curt C. Rawak, Purchasing Agent for two of the city's finest hotels.

"We probably have a little different problem here," he said, in part to that magazine's representative, "than you have come across before. We, as you know, are in the catering business, and we serve a high class of trade. Our problem is not so much that of buying large quantities for economy as it is to buy what we can sell.... We have to give our patrons what they want, regardless of cost. If a patron wants an alligator pie in January, it's our business to get it for him, if it is to be had, and of course, we charge the customer accordingly."

Many Prefer Canned Foods

"That is the peculiar angle of buying for the trade we serve. We buy a great deal of fresh stuff, both fruits and vegetables, simply because our patrons call for it. That doesn't mean that we are not big users of canned foods. In fact many people prefer canned to fresh stuff. That is particularly true of asparagus."

"About the system I use in buying . . . I always buy by specification. Although I have complete confidence in what the canners say about their products, there is nevertheless another side of the story. It's up to me to select from a dozen or more fancy packs the one that will suit my purpose best."

"You can see from the samples I have over there that I am getting ready to contract for my year's supply of tomatoes. I open the cans and empty them into a colander and let them drain for two minutes. I then weigh what's left in order to determine the number of servings in each and I usually select the one which gives me the greatest number of servings. Of course, I take color into consideration, too...."

Public Eats Most Scientifically

Rawak went on to say that he had noticed a growing tendency among the people of today to select their menus with a great deal of care. He is of the opinion that they eat more scientifically in these days of enlightenment than they ever did before. In proof of this contention he pointed out that nowadays people know the science of proteins and carbohydrates.

"That is one reason why we have an all-year-round demand for canned commodities," he said. "People can now have spinach for Thanksgiving or asparagus for Christmas by a simple twist of the can opener. It is truly remarkable how the canning industry has made possible a balanced menu for all the months of the year."

He then told how many cases of tomatoes and asparagus he expects to buy this year, and stated that he sold more than three times as much of the latter canned as fresh. He told about the number of cases of peas and stringless beans he expects to purchase, and something about this patrons' preferences in canned fruits. Peeled apricots, he said, have always been favorably received by his customers, both as a breakfast fruit and in pies.

Some Unusual Recipes

But it's one thing to know that wealthy hotel patrons enjoy canned foods, and quite another to know how to use them like a highly paid chef. So here are two tested recipes, the flavor of which will make you think you're dining at the swellest of hotels:

Scotch Woodcock: Make a sauce of four tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour, two cups milk, the juice from a can of asparagus tips, one teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Add four hard-cooked eggs, chopped, and the asparagus tips cut in one-inch pieces. Add one chopped pimiento and serve on toast. This will serve eight people.

Tomato Rabbit with Eggs: Stew three cups of canned tomatoes, one-fourth teaspoon soda, one and one-half teaspoons salt, and one-fourth teaspoon pepper five minutes. Press through a sieve. Add three tablespoons flour and three tablespoons cold water smoothed together and stir until it thickens. Add one and one-half cups grated cheese and stir till melted. Slice hard-cooked eggs over buttered toast and pour over the sauce. This, too, serves eight people.

If you have difficulty with the fountains freezing a few minutes after they are filled, you will need to provide a heater. The cost of running a small heater would be more than offset by the better production you would get from the flock and the labor you would save in caring for the fountains.

KEEP THE DRINKING WATER FROM FREEZING

An egg contains a large amount of water, and the hen's body is likewise largely composed of water. The hen should drink approximately twice as much water, by weight, as she eats feed. 100 hens that are laying will consume about 4 gallons of water per day.

The proper supply of water needs more careful attention than it is ordinarily given, particularly during the winter months. The lack of water frequently is more detrimental than the cold weather.

NOKESVILLE

The 4-H Club party scheduled to be given at Woodmen Hall on Friday night has been postponed until Friday, November 15, at 7:30 p. m.

The Junior and Grammar League of the Brentsville District High School gave a delightful entertainment on Friday night which was enjoyed by one of the largest crowds ever to enter the new school building. The receipts of $50 will be used by the Leagues in purchasing equipment for class rooms.

The Oyster Supper given on Tuesday night in Woodmen Hall under the auspices of the Modern Woodmen of America was largely attended and many remained to hear the election returns and enjoy an entertainment.

The musical which is sponsored by Mrs. V. W. Zirkle and proved such a delight in Nokesville will be repeated in Centerville on Friday night.

A number of Nokesville people motored to Manassas on Tuesday night to follow the State-wide election returns sent by special wire to Cocke Pharmacy through the courtesy of the Richmond Times-Dispatch and the Central Mutual Telephone Co.

The flag presentation to the Brentsville District High School, Nokesville, large crowd went to his assistance but a barn and contents were destroyed. The building contained 700 bushels of wheat, 50 barrels of corn and many other things of value. By heroic efforts the cow barn was saved. Mr. Glaettli, who is a hospitable and public spirited citizen, has the sympathy of many friends. Several years ago his residence, formerly the home of Mrs. W. W. Stearnes, was burned.

The school faculty held an oyster supper in the school building last week which was well attended.—Fauquier Democrat.
