In the ten years ending 1920 freight traffic on the Southern Railway System more than doubled. This was a very much larger gain than was shown by the railroads of the country as a whole. The South was growing faster than the rest of the country.

The Southern had to meet the test, but we had provided for such a demand. In these ten years we had expended $104,000,000 of new capital to increase the carrying capacity of our lines.

Our double-track had been increased from 443 to 1,021 miles; yard tracks and sidings from 2,786 to 3,351 miles; the tractive power of our locomotives had been increased 40 per cent; our average freight trainload had mounted from 274 to 500 tons, a notable gain in operating efficiency. efficiency.

Of the $104,000,000 expended for addi-tions and betterments, $21,000,000 only was obtained by the sale of new securi-ties. The other $83,000,000 was taken from earnings and used in the improve-ment of the properties.

The upbuilding of the Southern Railway System tc.keep pace with the South has been planned with an understanding of the transportation needs of the South by men bred in the traditions of the South to know its problems

The Southern serves the South, and it will serve the greater South of the future.

It was in the city of Norfolk, Va., at the Main street station, not many months ago, there was gathered a happy and care-free crowd, filled happy and care-free crowd, filed with laughter and happy because they were expecting some loved ones. Somewhere between the city of Righ-mond and Norfolk, the Cannon Ball was thundering its way along on an-other one of those record-breaking runs, and in a few minutes the gates were thrown open and this crowd was allowed to go down on the platform, and in a few minutes the Pride of the Norfolk and Western came into sight. This crowd of happy people was to be thrilled with an act that's scarcely ever performed by man. Someone at the lower end of that platform had the lower end of that platform had left the gates open, and a rosy-cheek-ed little fellow of a few years came along, drawing behind him a dilapi-dated express wagon; a few more steps and he was directly in front of the angles and that growt who had the engine, and that crowd who had been filled with mirth and laughter a few minutes before, turned their deafened their ears, closed their eyes and shrieked in horror. The Juniors had a very interesting part with songs and vells. We also had a play known as 'Virginia, the Mother of States," in vells in which all the members in scho ol, as well as some others, took part. In the afternoon we played games and had races in which three of our members won. We all had a very nice time and expect to have another "May day" in 1924.

We held a district fair October 19, but it was such a rainy day that people could not get there. Our club exhibits were very good. We cleared that day $5. The club children in the dis-trict had one of the best exhibits ever

We sent one of our club members to the county short course; also our president and secretary to the state president and secretary to the state short course at Blacksburg, where they spent a very profitable week. Two of our club boys went on a camping trip to White's Ferry in Loudour county. They were to have stayed a week; rain broke up the camp and they had to return Friday. They gave
