MANASSAS, VIRGINIA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 10, 1929.

$1.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

MILK CONVENTION AT HARRISONBURG

Annual Meet of State Dairymen's Association On January 17 and 18.

MANY COUNTY HERDS TO BE REPRESENTED

Nine Local Herds To Get the National Dairy Diplomas For 1928.

Many Prince William dairymen will journey to Harrisonburg to attend the twenty-second annual convention of the Virginia State Dairymen's Association, which will be held there January 17 and 18.

The Dairymen's convention, which is held each year at some point in the state for those who are interested in dairying has come to be one of the most important annual gatherings of the year. Many things of interest are taken up at the convention, instructive papers are read and discussions are led by some of the best authorities on dairying in the country. Perhaps the high point of the meeting is the quality cream contest when cream is carefully graded and placed.

Dairymen in the state whose herds have averaged more than 300 pounds of fat for the year just ended will be presented with National Dairy Diplomas. Hard owners in Prince William County who will receive the National Dairy Diploma are: Harley & Kline, with an average of 420.98; J. E. Barrett, 371.08; J. F. Miller, 341.19; Clover Hill Farm, 335.14; P. A. Lewis, 322.14; J. H. Iden, 303.27; W. H. Swank, 301.87; C. N. Rhodes, 309.13, and C. F. M. Lewis, 304.69.

The prizes and certificates to the winners in the 1929 State Quality Cream Contest will be presented by Mr. A. E. Howard, president of the Virginia Dairy Products Association.

The second day will be given over to addresses on the success of co-operating marketing of milk in Maryland and Virginia. Mr. John R. Hutcheson, director of V. P. I. extension service, will talk on "What It Means to Co-Operate". I. W. Heaps, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland State Dairymen's Association, will tell about the "Success of Co-operative Marketing of Milk in Maryland", while F. S. Walker, president of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, will discuss "Our Success as a Co-operative Association."

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

All members of the Fire Department of Manassas are asked to meet with Chief Jesse Crosby and the town manager, at the latter's office in the Fire House, on Friday, January 18, at 7:30 p. m.

Important matters are to come up for discussion affecting a reorganization of the Department, and the purchase of new and modern fire fighting equipment.

EPISCOPAL AUXILIARY MEETING

The Ladies Auxiliary of Trinity Church will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. M. Larkin, on West Street.

TRINITY GUILD MEETING.

The Trinity Guild will meet at the home of Mrs. G. Raymond Ratcliffe, February 5, at 2:30 p. m.

WOODBINE TEACHER DIES WHILE ON VACATION

Miss Evelyn O'Brine, of Appomattox, Died in Lynchburg Hospital.

Miss Evelyn O'Brine, of Appomattox, Va., who was teaching in the Woodbine School, near Canova, died at the Virginia Baptist Hospital of Lynchburg, Sunday morning, January 6, according to word received by Mr. J. M. Russell, trustee of Cole's District.

Miss O'Brine had returned home for the holidays and while there was stricken with the "flu", followed by an attack of appendicitis, which resulted in her death. The community in and around Canova had become devoted to Miss O'Brine, and she was popular, not only as a teacher, but as a friend who was genuinely interested in all of the community activities. Her friends in the community will miss her, and their sympathy goes out to the bereaved family.

R. S. HYNSON NAMED PRESIDENT

R. S. Hynson Re-elected President of the County Branch of Md.-Va. Association.

The annual meeting of the Prince William County branch of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association was held yesterday afternoon in the council chambers at the Town Hall.

John McGill, Jr., presented the annual report in which he outlined the splendid growth of the association last year. Figures showed that the twelve months had been a profitable one for dairymen within the association, and that the earnings had been sufficient to justify the setting aside of a very satisfactory surplus. Many improvements beneficial to the milk dealers were brought about during the year, among them being improved shipping facilities.

Richard S. Hynson, who has guided the destinies of the Prince William branch for several years, was re-elected president; T. B. Flickinger, of Nokesville, was named vice president, while P. A. Lewis, of Manassas, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Mr. Hynson was also re-elected as director from the County branch to the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association.

Following the meeting it was announced that the annual banquet of all dairymen shipping milk to Washington would be held in that city in the near future, the fixed date to be announced later.

PUBLIC WELFARE LINKS UP WORK

Reorganization Program of 1927 Increases Duties of State Welfare Department.

The reorganization program of 1927 greatly increased the duties and responsibilities of the Department of Public Welfare of Virginia. Four hospitals for the insane, two colonies for the epileptic and feeble-minded, the State Penitentiary, the State Farm, State Farm for Defective Misdemeanants, the convict road camps, the four State industrial schools, the Commission for the Blind, all public child-caring work of the State, all educational, statistical and organization service in the public welfare field, all State service with disabled World War veterans, were grouped in this department, thus bringing about coordination and cooperation impossible under the elaborate and loosely connected system which had been in effect since 1902.

On March 1st the Commissioner of Public Welfare took over all duties and responsibilities of the State Hospital Commissioner. Since that time much work has been done toward developing a constructive mental hygiene program for Virginia.

Additional Units Established. Additional public welfare units have been established in Norfolk and Tazewell counties. Goochland county has also set up a public welfare organization. Surveys have been made for the development of welfare units in Alleghany and Smyth counties and in the cities of Bristol and Hampton, and special studies of almshouses, poor relief and local prison administration have been conducted in many localities.

Institutions on High Plane. Few realize the enormous burden of dependents, defectives and delinquents in the State. More than twice as many separate and distinct individuals in State hospitals for the insane as there are beds in all the hospitals for physical diseases in this Commonwealth; nearly 3,000 persons confined in the penitentiary system of Virginia; an additional 2,000 in the local jails; and more than 600 delinquent children in the State industrial schools at a given time, these startling figures indicate that if Virginia is to make substantial progress she must develop an intelligent, constructive, preventive program in order to relieve to some extent the ever-increasing burden of economic loss and human misery occasioned by insanity, mental defect, pauperism and crime.

JAILER PREVENTS PRISONER'S ESCAPE

Hacksaw Is Taken From Mother of Prisoner When Calling On Her Son.

Plans for the attempted escape from jail of Lester Weaver, who is serving a six months' sentence for vagrancy, were frustrated on Monday, when Mrs. Jarmans, wife of the jailer, took a hacksaw from Mrs. Weaver, mother of the boy, who was visiting her son, and brought it into the jail, concealed in a bag of apples and bananas.

Since the recent escape of a desperate criminal from the jail those in charge there have been doubly vigilant and when Mrs. Weaver, who hails from near Bristow, arrived with the bag her actions led Mrs. Jarmans to believe that all was not right. An examination of the bag and its contents revealed the hacksaw.

Mrs. Jarmans at once notified Constable M. A. Lynch, who went to Bristow and placed Mrs. Weaver under arrest, as well as Frank, a son, who was charged with being an accomplice in the effort to free jail prisoners. Mrs. Weaver was tried and given a sentence of 12 months and a fine of $25, while the son was found guilty and sentenced to three months' imprisonment with a fine of $25.00.

WOMAN'S CLUB HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING

Mrs. Branch, State Chairman of Junior Clubs, Is Guest of Honor.

Mrs. L. C. Branch, of Newport News, State chairman of Junior Clubs, was the guest speaker at yesterday's meeting of the Woman's Club of Manassas. Mrs. Branch outlined the work being carried on by the Junior Clubs throughout the State, the club being a part of the Senior Clubs, explained the scheme of organization and urged that such a club be started here.

Following the meeting Mrs. E. Swavely, president, announced that the Woman's Club had decided to give a Charity Ball for the benefit of the Crippled Children's Hospital, Richmond, Va., which will be held on April 1. Committees will be appointed and complete announcement of plans will be made shortly.

After adjournment tea was poured and refreshments served by the following ladies of the club: Mrs. R. J. Adamson, Mrs. J. E. Bradford, Mrs. W. Hill Brown, Mrs. Guy Allen and Mrs. Stuart Bevans.

BEATRICE S. CROSS OPENS GENERAL STORE

Mrs. Beatrice S. Cross has opened a grocery and general merchandise store, in the old Athey store in Atheyville, between Lee avenue and Center street extended, which she will operate on a cash-and-carry basis.

POPULAR CITIZEN DIES SUDDENLY

P. A. Lipscomb, Who Died Suddenly Last Week, Will Be Missed In Community.

The body of Mr. P. A. Lipscomb, who died suddenly on December 30, was taken from the Lipscomb Mausoleum on Monday and was interred in the family lot in Manassas Cemetery, with Rev. George Hasel, pastor of the Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of which Mr. Lipscomb's mother was a charter member, reading the burial service. The funeral service was previously conducted from the Methodist Church, and was largely attended by the host of friends of the deceased from Prince William County.

Mr. Lipscomb was born in June, 1873, the son of Judge William E. and Henrietta Holland Lipscomb, of Manassas. He was unmarried. "Phil" Lipscomb, as he was best known to a large group of friends, will be very much missed in the community, and his sunny disposition and the numerous kindly deeds which he performed during his life will linger long in the memories of his friends.

Surviving Mr. Lipscomb are two sisters, Mrs. Ella Weedon and Mrs. Nettie Garrison, of Denver, Colo., and a brother, Mr. Charles E. Lipscomb, of New York.

CAMPAIGN OPENS FOR SCHOOL FUNDS

The Manassas Industrial School For Colored Youth Launches $5,000 Campaign.

The Manassas Industrial School for Colored Youth is greatly in need of funds at this time for its continued operation, and as a means of raising the money a $5,000 campaign has been launched. Under the plan individuals are asked to give at least $1.00 toward the fund.

The school was founded in 1894 by Jennie Dean, of Catharpin, having had its origin in a Sunday School, and since, has grown steadily in the confidence of the public, and has built up a reputation as a school of influence and usefulness in the community in the educational training of colored youth.

"During the life of the school," said the president yesterday, "it has had many staunch friends who have given generously of their means for the support of the work, but in their passing, we feel keenly the need of new friends to take their places."

While many of the citizens of Prince William County will be solicited by mail and others in person, it is hoped that none will wait until they are approached to send in their contribution. While it is believed that many will contribute substantially there is no limit either up or down to the amount which may be sent in.

MARY A. HAYTH DIES, BURIED AT SPRINGWOOD

Mrs. Hayth Had Host of Friends in Prince William County.

Mrs. Mary A. Hayth died on December 29 at Springwood, Baltimore County, Md., after a long illness. She was born in the vicinity of Manassas, on October 8, 1874, and was the eldest daughter of the late Newton and Annie Sayres, of Nokesville. She was married to George C. Hayth, of Springwood, Va., in 1896. She united with the church in girlhood and was an active worker, Sunday School teacher and organist for 32 years in the Baptist Church at Springwood.

She was dearly loved by the Hayth family, especially by her husband's brothers, and a host of friends in both Botetout and Prince William Counties. She is survived by the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. J. P. Kerlin, Nokesville; Mrs. Minnie Baggett, Alexandria, Va.; Mrs. G. B. Beach and Mrs. Rebecca Herbert, Baltimore, Md.; B. J. Sayres, Akron, Ohio, and R. L. Sayres, Richmond, Va.

STATE ROUTE NO. 18, WILL CLOSE SATURDAY NIGHT

The Virginia State Route No. 18, between Amherst Courthouse and Lovington will be closed between 10 p. m., Saturday, January 12, and 6 p. m., Sunday, January 13, for all through traffic while a new bridge is being installed over Buffalo, according to announcement on Monday by J. C. Albright, district engineer. This will necessitate all through traffic between Lynchburg and Charlottesville, and Lynchburg and Afton detouring by the way of Natural Bridge, Lexington and Staunton.

GEORGE G. TYLER BACK AT COURT HOUSE

Popular Clerk of Circuit Court of Prince William County Much Improved.

George G. Tyler, clerk of the Circuit Court of Prince William County, who underwent a serious operation in the Takoma Park Sanitarium, remaining there for several weeks during convalescence, and who since his return has been recuperating at his home at Haymarket, returned to his duties at the Court House Tuesday.

Mr. Tyler has a wide circle of friends who are rejoicing over his recovery and return to the Court House, while those whose business is largely linked with the Court House were loud in their expressions of gratification over the return of the popular Clerk of the Court.

THOMAS H. LION HEADS LOCAL BANK

Is Elected President of National Bank of Manassas. Other Banks Reelect Officers.

Thomas H. Lion, was elected president of the National Bank of Manassas at the organization meeting of the board of directors following the annual stockholders meeting on Tuesday. Westwood Hutchison, was re-elected vice president and Harry P. Davis, whose able management of the affairs of the institution since 1915, have placed it in the forefront of Virginia financial institutions, was re-elected cashier.

The board of directors is composed of the officers and E. R. Conner, H. W. Herring, R. A. Hutchison, O. C. Hutchison, R. S. Hynson, T. O. Latham, A. S. Robertson, Chas. R. McDonald, C. E. Nash, O. E. Newman and W. Holmes Robertson.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Peoples National Bank was held on Tuesday morning, followed by the organization meeting of the directors. The following officers were reelected: G. M. Ratcliffe, president; C. A. Sinclair, vice president; G. Raymond Ratcliffe, Cashier.

The directors for the ensuing year are G. Raymond Ratcliffe, E. H. Hibbs, A. A. Hoof, Ira E. Cannon, G. M. Ratcliffe, C. A. Sinclair, George D. Baker, and J. J. Conner.

The annual report showed the institution to have enjoyed a year of splendid prosperity under the guidance of G. R. Ratcliffe, cashier, with an increase in deposits, earnings and surplus.

SAM O'SULLIVAN GETS IMPORTANT POST

Left Today To Become County Agent of Fauquier County To Be At Warrenton.

Sam O'Sullivan, the popular assistant agent in Prince William County, has been honored by Fauquier County with an appointment to the office of County Agent, with headquarters in Warrenton.

Mr. O'Sullivan left today to take up his new duties in the adjoining county. Since coming to Prince William he has been active in the work connected with the agricultural, live stock, poultry and dairy interests, as well as in the fast growing boy's club or 4-H work, and his personality as well as his efficiency in matters coming under his sphere of endeavor have made him many friends in the county who, while sorry to see him go, are rejoicing in his being chosen for the more responsible position in our neighboring county.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church will meet with Mrs. M. Bruce Whitmore, Friday, at 2:30 p. m., according to announcement yesterday.

CARTER BUILDING LOST BY FIRE

An Early Morning Blaze On Saturday Results In Almost Total Loss of Building.

Fire in the building on Main Street, owned by Thomas Carter, which was discovered at 2:15 a. m., resulted in the almost total destruction of the building and its contents before it was finally subdued.

The terrifying call of the siren broke out on the air at this early hour bringing the volunteer fire department to the scene of quick order where they found a number of willing workers already on the job, doing what they could to save the structure. While the force worked valiantly they were unable to check the blaze before the almost complete destruction of the contents of the upper floor and the serious damage to goods in the store occupied by R. L. Pearson on the first floor.

The building in which the fire occurred is of frame construction and fell an easy prey to the flames which were whipped by a high wind, causing the firefighters to devote most of their energies to the protection of properties nearby.

TOWN COUNCIL HAS A BUSY SESSION

Manager of Virginia Public Service Corporation Addresses Body.

H. ELMER METZ ENTERS PROTEST ON WIRING

Town Automobile Tags Ready For Distribution. Must Be On Feb. 1.

One of the most interesting meetings held by the Town Council in some time was held on Monday night when many matters of interest to the community were discussed and much business transacted. Mayor Harry P. Davis presided.

M. J. O'Connell, general manager of the northern division of the Virginia Public Service, who was introduced to the Council by C. A. Sinclair, explained why his company had not submitted a bid to furnish current to the town in response to its recent invitation to a number of companies to do so. The chief reason advanced by Mr. O'Connell was that his company was not interested in selling its power to concerns or municipalities for redistribution, but was wholly concerned in the retailing of current to individual consumers. He outlined the system which the company was using in its distribution of electricity in other cities and towns and briefly told of what he believed his company would do should it ever acquire the right to do business within the town limits. While no promise was made that it would be done, it was intimated that the completion of Blansford would be quickly accomplished during which time more than $250,000 would be spent in Prince William, most of which would find circulation here.

Jesse Crosby, chief of the Fire Department, submitted plans and specifications for a new fire house of modern fire apparatus, all of which was left with the council for study.

H. Elmer Metz, took up with the Council the matter of interference which exists in connection with radios in Manassas and which is jeopardizing the investment of approximately $50,000 in equipment by citizens of the town. He offered to assist in running down the causes for the serious condition in radio reception and promised to present a report at the next meeting pointing out where it was believed the causes were located.

A survey of conditions is now being made, and the Virginia Public Service Corporation has placed an expert at the disposal of the town with a view of helping in every way to find the cause of trouble.

The time fixed for the purchase of town automobile tags was fixed at not later than February 1, but they may be procured before that date by application to R. L. Byrd, Town Treasurer.

PROHIBITION BIRTHDAY WILL BE CELEBRATED

The ninth birthday of country wide prohibition, which falls on January 16, will be given due recognition in Manassas, if the plans of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union discussed at yesterday's meeting are carried through.

Under the celebration plan ministers of the local churches will be asked to preach anniversary sermons on Sunday, January 13, while they will also be asked that the bells of all churches be rung for nine minutes beginning at noon Wednesday, January 16.

MR. JAMES A. GOODWIN BURIED LAST WEEK

Died At Home of Mrs. R. J. Prescott And Buried In Manassas Cemetery.

Mr. James A. Goodwin, who had been ill at the home of his sister, Mrs. R. J. Prescott, died on December 31, 1928, and was buried on Sunday, January 2, the service being conducted by the Rev. Lawson, while interment was in the Manassas Cemetery. He was born in 1854, and was the son of the late William E. and Anne F. Goodwin.

Mr. Goodwin is survived by two sisters, Mrs. M. V. Conner and Mrs. R. J. Prescott, of Manassas, and five sons, Howard, of West Virginia; Everett, of Chicago; Ashby, Earl and Wilbur, all of West Virginia.

NEWS OF WEEK IN OLD VIRGINIA

Lynchburg Is Dry.

Lynchburg, Jan. 9.—Weather records here disclose the fact that the last three months were the driest for October, November and December in 50 years. The total rain-fall during the quarter was 2.4 inches as follows: October, .65; November, .97, and December, 1.0 inches. The nearest approach to this recent record was during the same months in 1904, when the total precipitation was 4.19 inches.

The year closed with an excess of precipitation of 1.30 inches, this being the second year in 20, in which there has not been a deficiency in rain ranging from 2.67 in 1912 to 17.03 in 1925.

Orange, Jan. 9.—Ground was broken several days ago preparatory to the erection of the building which is to house Orange's silk manufacturing plant. The combined cost of the building and machinery it is estimated, will cost approximately one quarter million dollars.

Wild Geese Winter.

Heathsville, Jan. 10.—Contrary to the custom of many other years, when they have gone south at the approach of really cold weather, wild geese seem to have decided to make their home here.

At all events many large flocks are reported from creeks near the Potomac and Cram rivers. And they are frequently seen in the adjacent fields feeding, but so far, few have been successful in getting them in any numbers.

Wild ducks are plentiful, and in many instances are being successfully hunted. Just now the mallard seems much of a favorite. A few have made the attempt successfully of taming some of them and raising flocks from them for shipment.

Agricultural Problems Keynote.

Blacksburg, Jan. 9.—Problems of southern agriculturists will be the keynote of speakers at the twenty-second annual convention of the Virginia State Dairymen's Association, which is to be held at Harrisonburg, January 17 and 18, according to the program issued here recently by F. B. Smith, an associate professor of dairy husbandry at Virginia Polytechnic institute.

The success of cooperative marketing will be described by L. W. Heaps, secretary of the Maryland Dairymen's Association, which is considered one of the most successful cooperative associations of dairymen in the East. Dr. G. W. Ryer, editor of the Southern Agriculturist, and formerly head of the department of sociology at Vanderbilt university, will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet.

To Restore Capital Bell.

Richmond, Jan. 10.—Commonwealth chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, proposes to restore the old bell tower in the Capitol square with a bell, electrically operated, to strike the hours. The cost of the work is estimated at $3,500.

The old tower has been without a bell since 1865, and the one to be placed there by the chapter will be of a mild tone, with an electric clock arrangement, which, in addition to striking the hours, will operate dials on the four sides of the tower, so that the time may be read.

Conductor Becomes Lawyer.

Clifton Forge, Jan. 9.—Another lawyer was added to the Clifton Forge bar last week when Captain P. A. McDaniel was granted a license to practice his profession. Mr. McDaniel formerly was a conductor on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway and later was elected general chairman of the Order of Railway Conductors. He will retire from this office in the next few weeks and devote his time exclusively to the practice of law. During his term of office as general chairman he has handled a number of important cases before the various railroad boards and made an enviable record. He passed the state bar examinations some time ago, but deferred practicing on account of his official duties.

Petersburg Ready For Fire.

Petersburg, Jan. 9.—This city was awarded first place among Virginia cities by the National Fire Protection Association in the annual merit competition in "fire prevention week," which was observed last year during the week of October 8.

L. B. Dutrow, director of public safety, received notification of the award from J. Alfred Fleming, chairman of the international committee on fire prevention activity, notifying him of the city's election as the one doing most to prevent fires in the state.

Bible Thief Gets Fine.

Danville, Jan. 9.—Convicted of stealing the 7-pound Bible of Cabell Street Methodist Church, missing for the last six months, Mot. Davidson, 42, was sentenced Saturday to 90 days in jail. The Bible was identified as that given the church 30 years ago. While it bore no inscription, the card of a former pastor was found inserted between its pages.

Davidson denied he stole the Bible, saying he bought it for 10 cents from two boys last summer. He tried to sell it for $1.50. The prospective purchaser became suspicious and called the police.

Will Talk About Governorship.

Williamsburg, Jan. 10.—Dr. J. A. Chandler, president of the College of William and Mary, has announced that at the first 1929 convocation of the students of the college, to be held at a date not yet announced, he will make public reference to the resolution endorsing him as "the most logical candidate for governor of Virginia," presented to him as a Christmas gift by students of the college at the closing for the Christmas vacation.

So far, Dr. Chandler, who has been endorsed for the office by the council of the Virginia Typographical association, and has been urged by a number of his friends to enter the race, has been non-committal, and it is thought here that his utterances, when he replies to the student resolution, may throw some light on his attitude toward becoming a candidate.

LYNCHBURG CITY TAX LOWEST IN VIRGINIA

Readjusted School Levy, However, Is Higher Than That Of Roanoke.

Lynchburg, Va., Jan. 9.—A report of the comparative tax rates of 237 United States and Canadian cities by the Detroit bureau of governmental research for 1928, shows that among six Virginia cities reporting, Lynchburg has the lowest tax rate for general city purposes and the highest for the support of public schools.

In the readjusted tax rate Lynchburg, however, is slightly higher than Roanoke, which has the lowest readjusted rate.

The data secured from the report of C. E. Rightor, chief accountant of the Detroit corporation, is as follows:

	Readjusted Tax rate	City Schools rate
Lynchburg	$13.50	$10.00
Petersburg	8.50	6.47
Portsmouth	17.22	9.28
Roanoke	16.67	8.33
Norfolk	19.40	8.70
Richmond	16.00	7.50

JOSEPH B. SMITH DIES IN COLORADO

Was Former Resident of Prince William County And Has Many Relatives Here.

Joseph B. Smith, aged 72 years, former resident of upper Prince William County, died at his home in Grand Junction, Colo., on December 11, according to word received here this week. His death was caused by pneumonia.

Mr. Smith was the last surviving child of the late James and Ann M. Smith, of Waterfall, his brother, James Philip, having died quite recently, while the other brother, William Randolph, was killed in battle during the Civil War.

The deceased made his home in the west for many years, and is survived by his wife, three sons and two daughters, all of Colorado, and many relatives in Prince William County.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Please take notice that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of Nokesville, will be held at its banking house in the town of Nokesville, Va., on Wednesday, January 16, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing directors and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

NOTED NURSE LAID TO REST AT ARLINGTON

The So-Called "Florence Nightingale" of America Buried On Monday.

Miss Anna C. Maxwell, called the "Florence Nightingale of America", for her nursing service in the Spanish-American War, who died in New York City last week, was buried with full military honors in Arlington National Cemetery on Monday morning.

War Department officials said her body was entitled to burial in Arlington with full military honors because of her war service. Although her age prevented her entry in the service during the World War, she made several inspection trips in France and gave valuable assistance in the training of nurses.

IN MEMORY.

In sad, but loving, remembrance of my dear wife, Mrs. Mamie V. Butler, who departed this life January 10, 1928.

In the graveyard, softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave;
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
And tried so hard to save.

She is gone, but not forgotten,
And never shall she be;
For we hope, some day, to meet her,
In the home above with Thee.

What would I give to hold your hand,
Your dear face just to see;
Your loving smile, your welcome voice
Which meant so much to me.

One long year ago you left us,
To rest in eternal peace;
But my love for you, dear wife,
Will never, never, cease.

Some may think we are not lonely,
When at times they see us smile;
Little do they know the heartaches
That we suffer all the while.

Every day brings back sweet memories,
Every day brings back a tear;
Deep within my heart I cherish,
Thoughts of one I loved so dear.

Relentless death among us comes,
And bitter grief imparts;
It takes loved ones from our homes,
But never from our hearts.

Today recalls sad memories,
Of my dear wife, gone to rest;
And the ones who think of her today,
Are the ones who loved her best.

She was an upright in all her ways,
Devoted and true to the end of her days;
A loving heart and ever so kind;
What a wonderful memory she left behind.

Never shall I cease to love you,
Never shall your memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts forever linger,
Around the spot where you are laid.

Sleep on, dear wife, and take your rest,
God called you home, He thought it best;
He saw your suffering here was great,
And opened wide the golden gate.

By her devoted husband,
HENRY J. BUTLER.

MRS. J. R. PURCELL IS BURIED SUNDAY

Former Resident of This County Died In Wilmington, Del., Last Tuesday.

Mrs. Purcell, widow of the late Major James R. Purcell, died on Thursday, January 3, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wilmer Stradley, in Wilmington, Del., where she had made her home for a number of years.

Her remains were brought to Manassas for burial and the funeral service was conducted on Sunday from the Manassas Baptist Church, with Rev. W. Trainham officiating. Interment was in the family lot at Manassas Cemetery.

Mrs. Purcell was formerly Miss Margaret Jones, of Caroline County, although for many years she was a resident of Prince William County, having lived most of her married life at Hickory Grove and Gainesville, where she was well known and beloved by all. She was a sweet and beautiful character and her cheerfulness as well as her faculty of having a kind word for every one will linger long in the memory of those who knew her.

Surviving are Mrs. Wilmer Stradley, the daughter, of Wilmington, Del.; three sons, William, of Texas; Taylor, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and George, of Atlanta, Ga.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear sister-in-law, Mrs. Mayne Butler, who departed this life one year ago January 19, 1928, near Manassas, Va.

One year ago, dearest Mayne,
Since you left us and went away;
To be with God and His angels,
That was a sad January day.

You left us broken hearted,
And all seems dreary there;
Home is not the same, dear Mayne,
As it was when you were there.

Days of sadness still come o'er me,
Tears of sorrow silent flow;
Memory keeps you ever near me
Though death claimed you one year ago.

Oh, could we open wide the grave
And see your face once more;
To hear your voice is all we crave
As in the days of yore.

I shall never cease to love you,
Though your form is hidden from view.
And some day, I hope to meet you,
Around God's throne in life anew.

Heaven retaineth now our treasure,
Earth alone the casket keeps;
And the sunshine loves to linger,
Where our dear Mayne sleeps.

By her loving sister-in-law,
MRS. JASPER WHETZEL,
Bristow.

INCREASE SHOWN IN CHARTERS

Charters To Domestic Corporations In Virginia Last Year Increased 117.

Charters to domestic corporations in Virginia last year numbered 1,226 as compared to 1,110 for 1927, an increase of 117, according to figures compiled by R. T. Wilson, clerk, of the state corporation commission. Foreign corporations entering the state increased from 162 in 1927, to 205 in 1928.

A decrease of $5,539.50 occurred in the charter fees received by the state, the amount in 1928 being $39,856.30, as compared to $45,395.80 the preceding year. Entrance fees paid by foreign corporations increased from $79,027.60 in 1927, to $92,115.60 in 1928.

Amendments for domestic corporations decreased from 315 in 1927 to 310 in 1928. There were three revivals issued in 1927 to eight in 1928, and ten mergers in 1927 to eight in 1928.

ANOTHER CONFEDERATE
VETERAN ANSWERS ROLL

John Goldsborough White of Near Haymarket Dies As Old Year Ends.

The death of Mr. John Goldsborough White at his home near Haymarket on the evening of December 31st, removes from the Prince William roll call another Confederate soldier who will be greatly missed in the community which has been his home for the past 55 years.

Three times severely wounded in various battles of the Civil War; nine months in a Federal prison; enlistment when only 18 years of age; participation in such battles as Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, Chancellorsville, Cold Harbor, Valley fighting under Jackson and Early; the Wilderness and Petersburg; a record of active service to be marvelled at.

Mr. White was a native of Maryland, born March 29, 1844, the son of Dr. Alward McKell White and Marion Goldsborough White, of near Easton, Talbot County, Maryland. In the year 1872 he was married to Miss Nora Carter, of Haymarket, Va., whose death occurred in the year 1913. Children of this marriage were Winston M. White, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Williams Carter White, who died in 1914; Marion G. White, of Haymarket, Va.; Emmet N. White, of Gary, Ind.; Miss Nora C. White, of Haymarket; John G. White, of Van Buren, Ark.; and Miss Fannie E. White, of Savannah, Ga.

One brother and sister survive Mr. White from a large Eastern Shore family of distinguished connections—Mrs. Sallie Carter, of Baltimore, Md., and Charles E. White, of Denver, Colo.

Participating with the Maryland line in the capture of Culp's Hill at Gettysburg, Mr. White was severely wounded and returned to Virginia in an army ambulance. In the fighting at Cold Harbor (second battle), he was shot in his right arm, and below Petersburg in the Weldon Railway fighting, received a severe scalp wound, being left on the field he was taken prisoner by the Northern troops. He was then taken to Point Lookout prison, and refused exchange.

HEALTH COMMISSIONER
ADVISES ON INFLUENZA

Patient Should Go To Bed Promptly And Get a Physician.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 9.—In a circular letter to all public health nurses in Virginia, Dr. Ennion G. Williams, State Health Commissioner, directs the formation of nursing classes especially in rural sections. He advises that such classes be immediately formed among women and older girls; and says: "By training others to care for the sick, you are multiplying your efficiency and doing more good than by any personal services to the individual sick."

The letter goes on to say: "If flu has not reached your section of the State, it probably will. It is characterized usually by sudden onset, temperature 101-104 the first three days, severe aching, prostration, but with much less tendency to respiratory involvement than the epidemic of 1918. Relapses are common."

"A patient when first taken sick should go to bed promptly and remain there until convalescence is well established. The patient should keep warm but have plenty of fresh air in the room. A person is below par in health for a month after recovery from flu and should sleep an extra hour every night."

"A doctor's services should be secured if possible, but as a nurse in a rural section may be called to attend those who find it impossible to secure the services of a doctor, the following suggestions are made to you in addition to the above:

"Patient should take an even teaspoonful of cooking soda in a cup of hot water every hour for four doses. Take plenty of water, a mild laxative and keep in bed. A light diet should be used with a larger proportion of fresh fruit than usual."

THE FLU.

(By H. L. HENDRICKSON.)

I was tak'n sick the other day,
Kinda fev'ish 'bout the head;
The doctor came to see me,
And he sent me right to bed.

Now, list'n kindly, if you please,
I was surely sick 'tis true;
The doctor says I had that 'zease,
That some folks calls the flu.

When I lay there in the bed,
Seem'd like every jint did ache;
And eben the hair upon my head,
Felt like it gwine to bake.

The doctor might not know his stuff,
When he said I had the flu;
But I ain't a-tryin', now, to bluff,
Just a-talkin' plain to you.

You can call it In'flu'enza,
Or say 'tis just the 'grippe;
You can call it what you please, sir,
That wont ease the pain a-bit.

Now, let me tell you as a friend,
And it's my advice to you:—
Be partic'lar as you can,
Try not to catch the flu.

But if a-sickish you do feel, sir,
And kinda' fev'ish 'bout the head;
You had better see the doctor,
And go right straight to bed.

MANASSAS HIGH SCHOOL
STUDENTS WIN HONORS

Miss Ethel Ritenour and Miss Mavis Hensley won honors last week in the typing class at the Manassas High School. Miss Ritenour wrote for 5 minutes from new matter without an error at a speed of 53.8 words per minute, while Miss Hensley wrote a perfect test for 15 minutes on new matter, but as this is her first session in typing her speed was not so high as the honor student. A boy or girl is considered well fitted for office work who can write 50 words per minute with 100 per cent accuracy.

Simplicity of cooling system is a feature of the new Ford

A COMPLETE water plant is a part of every automobile as it is a part of every modern city.

The purpose of this water plant is to keep the engine cooled to a temperature that will make it efficient in operation. If it were not for this, the cylinder walls would become overheated and the pistons refuse to operate.

The cooling system of the new Ford is particularly interesting because it is so simple and reliable.

When the radiator is full of water, the engine of the new Ford will not overheat under the hardest driving. Yet the water is so regulated that it will not impair engine operation by running too cold in winter.

The cooling surface of the Ford radiator is large, with four rows of tubes set in staggered position so that each receives the full benefit of the incoming air. The fan is of the airplane propeller type and draws air through the radiator at the rapid rate of 850 cubic feet per minute at 1000 revolutions per minute of the motor.

The hot water around the cylinder head is drawn to the radiator to be cooled by a centrifugal water pump of new design.

The entire cooling system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little attention.

The radiator should be kept full, of course, and drained once each month so that sediment will not collect and retard the free passage of water. In cold weather, a reliable anti-freeze solution should be added.

As owner and manager of this important water plant you should also see that the water pump and fan shaft are properly lubricated and the packing around the pump shaft kept in adjustment.

Hose connections may also need replacement after long service. For those little adjustments, it pays to call on the Ford dealer.

He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to do a thorough, competent job at a fair price.

SAFETY AND GOOD ROADS.

There is a strong connection between good roads and safety, according to Charles M. Hayes, President of the Chicago Motor Club.

Poor roads increase all the dangers of motoring, from broken springs to blow-outs. Good roads impose a minimum of strain on the car and when a new road is built, engineers with a scientific understanding of safety, see to it that it is properly marked, that curves are made gradual, hills avoided and few railroad tracks are crossed.

When almost every family owns a motor car and uses it consistently both for business and pleasure, good roads are a social, economic and safety necessity.

In addition to good roads we must now have wider roads. These are being secured at a minimum of expense by building two and three-foot shoulders on each side of narrow pavements and putting a top dressing of asphaltic concrete over the old road surface between the shoulders.

The model road building project for Prince William County, as proposed by Dr. S. M. Johnson, of the Lee Highway Association, if successful, will mean more than safety. It will also mean daily use of roads for county business, easy markets for the farmer and general growth of the county.

Prince William citizens should get their shoulders behind the plan for road building and help get the county "out of the mud."

PUBLIC UTILITIES HELP COMMUNITIES.

Before a public utility can give its utmost in public service it must first be prosperous and a business success, according to Matthew B. Sloan, President of the New York Edison Company.

"What must a public utility do to be a desirable servant and an efficient business?" asks Mr. Sloan. "First, it must recognize its obligations both as a public servant and as a private business. Second, it must live up to them. It must live up to them beyond the measure in which other enterprises live up to their business responsibilities and obligations because it is a public servant."

That our public utilities have amply fulfilled the ideals of such men as Mr. Sloan is evidenced by the part electricity plays in domestic and industrial life today.

It is not a coincidence that our general prosperity and progress had been made almost in direct ratio to the prosperity and progress of our basic industries, of which railroads and electric utilities are two outstanding examples.

Despite the opposite view taken by many people that utilities hold back a community by over charge and poor service, a study of systems throughout the country will show them to be a community benefit. Manassas would do well to think this over.

An advertisement today and no more for a month, does not found a staple business. It's persistent advertising that wins—no matter how small the space.

FREIGHT RATES AND THE FARMER.

The more or less common belief that transportation costs are among the farmer's greatest burdens is erroneous, according to an article in Barron's financial weekly. In recent years a steadily increasing part of the price of farm produce has been attributable to marketing and selling costs. As an example, it takes at the present time 67 cents to market corn flakes which cost but 33 cents to produce.

The rise in distributing costs is not due to charges levied by the railroads. The steady progress in railroad efficiency made it possible for the average rate per ton-mile to drop, between 1921 and 1926, from 1.275 cents to 1.08 cents. Not only has there been this decrease in the absolute cost, but the proportion between transportation charges and total costs is smaller at present than in 1921. When with this is considered the remarkable progress made by the railroads in providing the farmer with improved service and faster shipping of his products, it is clear that the lines have been a help, not a detriment, to agriculture.

Press Comments

Hint to Farmers.

Rochester Democrat-Chronicle — Folks who argue most about farm relief never mention the movies as a solution. That is what they sometimes turn out to be around here, however. Southern California has an ostrich farm, a lion farm, an alligator farm, a goldfish farm, and recently articles of incorporation were filed for a monkey farm. Admission fees paid by sight-seers provide much or most of the revenue of such places, but there are times when the willingness of picture producers to pay well for the birds, beasts and reptiles they need in their films looks as good to the "farmer" as a government subsidy.

Not Always Nuts.

Outdid Louis Philippe.

Concerning the unhappy King Louis Philippe of France, Mr. Ralph Nevill in "Echoes Old and New," tells a good tale.

Revisiting Twickenham, where his old home was, he was accosted by a man who, pulling off his hat, respectfully hoped that his royal highness was well.

"What's your name?" inquired the ex-king. He was told.

"I do not recollect it," said the royal exile. "What were you when I lived here?"

"Please, your royal highness," replied the man, "I kept the Crown—an inn close to the entrance of Orleans house."

"Did you?" said Louis Philippe, smiling grimly. "Well, my good fellow, you did what I was unable to do."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR JANUARY 13, 1929.

The International Sunday School Lesson for January 13 is, "Sin"—I John 1:5-2:6.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

According to the modern vogue, the word "sin" is out of date. Uncomfortable, embarrassing and obstructive, sin of late has been thrown into the discard, along with other old-fogyisms of the Bible. The pompous professors and philosophers who write the modern books and magazine articles, and thrill audiences at women's clubs, have decreed that there really is no such thing as sin. What used to be called so is only the result of muscular and nervous twitching in the physical body, somewhat like the movements of a skinned frog in the hands of a boy. "Behaviourism" has abolished sin. Even before this latest philosophy became popular among the moderns, emancipated thinkers had decreed that what the Bible calls sin should be labelled merely "experience" and "self-expression."

Nevertheless, in spite of all this liberal thinking, it seems easier to get rid of the nomenclature of sin than of the ugly reality itself. Everybody has his own personal inside information that sin is no illusion. He knows that he possesses a worse self, as well as a better; and that he is more prone to slump than to soar. Cloak his deeds as he may with the new catch words, every straight-thinking mortal is aware that sin is a horrible fact, and the greatest obstacle to the attainment of inner peace and of noble character. Every man's own experience assents to the Bible's characterizations of sin.

Whitewash is never used by the Bible's authors. They are disconcertingly frank in dealing with the grim realities of life. From the Garden of Eden to the vision of the Apocalypse, they depict sin as a potent and major factor in human experience.

Sin is as old as Adam, and as new as the latest edition of today's newspaper. We may respectfully—only more or less respectfully—refer our "Everything-is-lovely-and-nothing-is-wrong" school of philosophers to that sentence in the present Lesson which says, "If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us."

What's Wrong With Our Times.

Though the new philosophies bid us discard the rugged little word "sin," they ask us to take on a whole bewildering vocabulary of "complexes," "inhibitions," "repressions," etc. Even while they so patter, certain social evils grow apace.

Uncle Eben.

"Nobody denies," said Uncle Eben, "dat de women kin work jes as well as de men. But dat ain' no 'scuse foh a loafin' husband."—Washington Star.

All There.

"Then we came to the lovely blue sea. Ferdinand stood under a palm and folded his arms."

"Is that all?"

"But I was in the arms that he folded."—Ulk, Berlin.

Regular Solomon.

Little Joan was puzzling over some difficult words in her spelling lesson and naturally turned to her daddy for information. Doc, being an assistant director, is supposed to know everything.

"Daddy," asked Joan, "what is a fiancée?"

"A girl who is going to be married," answered Doc promptly.

"Then what is a fiancé?"

"Oh, that's the fellow who's going to marry her," declared Doc, making sure his wife wasn't within hearing.—Los Angeles Times.

This Rapid Age.

Three-year-old Mary was sitting up on the window sill, putting hand over hand on the curtain pull.

She said, "Mother, I'm getting the milk."

Mother, in a surprised voice, asked, "When did you even see anyone milk a cow?"

Mary, shocked at her mother's seeming ignorance on such matters, said, "I'm not milking. I'm pulling up the dumbwaiter." — From Children, the Magazine for Parents.

BUYING OR SELLING.

Use the classified advertising column of The Journal. It gets results.

How are we to explain our day's ominous crimes, which have created a veritable social stratum of "racketeers" and lawbreakers?

Theft, in its various forms, costs society literally billions of dollars annually.

Human life is losing its sanctity in our progressive civilization; and the profession of homicide seems to be becoming comparatively safe.

Political bribery, and the subordination of police, is a common scandal.

Chastity, for men and women, is no longer everywhere generally regarded as more precious than life.

Divorce multiplies, and in circles where a decade ago it was deemed deep disgrace.

Drunkenness has invaded the ranks of youth in high schools, and the homes of the prosperous. The bootlegger is a criminal with countless partners.

Sin and Crime.

This gloomy catalogue could be continued to great lengths. It paradoxically parallels a wicked conscience concerning major social and industrial evils of our time.

Now what does it all mean?

Surely, the answer is not obscure.

The sense of sin has become dulled. Many persons no longer react instinctively to temptation, as did Joseph in Potiphar's home, with the cry, "How can I do this great wickedness and sin against God?"

For sin has to do with man's conduct in relationship to God; crime concerns his relationship with society. To sin at all is to sin against a loving Father in heaven, who is also the Judge of all the earth.

Even a little thought on this subject shows that sin is an individual matter. It has to do with the single soul's relation to God. By its nature, it brings every sinner face to face with his Lord: it cannot be shifted on to any group or organization or church. All partnerships are dissolved before this reckoning.

"The sins we do two by two, We must pay for one by one."

Are We Too Socially-Minded?

Ours is a socially-minded era. We are proud of the size and scope of our undertakings. The favorite method of dealing with any wrong to be remedied, or any good to be promoted, is to organize a society for the purpose. Some so-called "leaders" are in danger of getting writer's cramp from penning resolutions concerning reform and uplift. During the past generation the churches have become especial victims of this craze for mass-strategy. National and world conferences are almost as frequent as the days in the calendar.

Nevertheless, the Scripture method stakes all on the individual Spirit-filled preacher of righteousness, who will convict individual men and women of their personal sin and of their need of salvation. Despite the tendency of some clergymen to flock into secretariats, with their vague responsibilities, the truth remains clear and outstanding that only as people are saved from their sins, one by one, according to the old Bible program, will our general wrongs be remedied. This is the Gospel's way out for the world. La Zelle Croft has put this truth into homely verse:—

"We urge the social consciousness"

We plead the Union Plan,
But the only way to save the world
Is to do it man by man."

Hopeless, or Helped?

Scolding at sin is as futile as ignoring it. The best and worst of mankind know themselves to be sinners; and that consciousness is clear in the white light of the character of God, who is the embodiment of holiness. It is a sense of God's goodness that makes men penitent for their sin. The sinless Christ thus becomes the sinner's Saviour. A steady look at the pure and wistful Redeemer causes even the holiest mortal to cry, "God be merciful to me a sinner." Divine forgiveness is the one way out from the morass of sin.

Bed-rock revelation is this fathomless truth that "Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners." All that is wrong with human society will be made right when, one by one, people accept the crucified and risen Saviour's pardon and power, and square their lives by Him. The glory of the Gospel is that it alone saves from sin. Better than uninspired pen can portray it is venerable St. John's statement of sin, which is the text of our Lesson:

"This then is the message which we have heard of Him, and declare unto you, that God is light, and in Him is no darkness at all. If we say that we have fellowship with Him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth: But if we walk in the light, as He is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin. If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. If we say that we have not sinned, we make Him a liar, and His word is not in us."

"My little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous: And He is the propitiation for our sins, and not for ours only but also for the sins of the whole world."

FLU is now Epidemic!

Compared with 1918, this epidemic, so far, is mild; and yet, in spite of vastly increased capacity, the Vicks laboratories are once more operating night and day to meet the emergency demand for more and more Vicks VapoRub. Over 375,000 jars are now being produced daily.

How best to use Vicks VapoRub

1. AS A PREVENTIVE

Several times a day, insert Vicks up the nostrils. Also melt a little night and morning in a bowl of boiling water and inhale the steaming medicated vapors. This helps to ward off germ-infection.

2. IF A COLD STARTS

If possible, go home and go to bed. Take a laxative and a hot lemonade. Apply hot, wet towels over throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-covering loose, so that the vapors, released by the body-warmth, may be freely inhaled. At the same time, Vicks also acts through the skin like a poultice.

Repeat this treatment every four hours, eat lightly, and stay in bed until the cold is broken. Complete rest helps the body throw off the cold more quickly.

3. AFTER A FLU ATTACK

Physicians advise that the chief danger in this epidemic is after influenza. Then, more than ever, colds, attacking the weakened system, may lead to bronchitis, sinus-trouble or pneumonia. This is especially true of children or old folks.

Heed even the slightest cold as a danger signal. Vicks is especially valuable here, because it is applied externally, and so can be used freely, as often as needed, without upsetting delicate digestions, as too much "dosing" is so apt to do.

Hayden, an infant over the age of fourteen years; Robert P. Hayden, an infant under the age of fourteen years; Thomas J. Hayden, C. Grenville Hall, H. Thornton Davies, Trustee; Mamie T. Davies, R. Turner Carter, and Herbert F. Little, Defendants.

IN CHANCERY: A bill of complaint having been filed in the above-styled suit by Sarah C. Hall, both in her own right and as Administratrix of the estate of Elizabeth Howell, deceased, the complainant, and an affidavit having been filed by said complainant, as required by law, that the following defendants to the said suit are not residents of the State of Virginia, to-wit: Henry Pearson, Annie Johnson, William Johnson, Maude Meades, John Meades, Rosa Branson, Joseph Branson, Agnes Bedell, Roy Bedell, Walter Pearson, Ray Pearson, Turner Pearson, Annie Pearson, Orra Pearson, Virgie Norton, Frank Norton, Lula Little, Herbert F. Little, Robert V. Taylor, Eleanor Ruth Taylor, Robert P. Hayden, Thomas P. Hayden, Thomas J. Hayden; and application having been made by the said complainant in writing for this order of publication and duly granted by the Clerk of this Court:

The object of the above-styled suit is to have the Circuit Court of Prince William County, Va., ratify and confirm the sale, made April 25, 1927, to one R. Turner Carter for the sum of $1,650.00, of the real estate of which the said Elizabeth Howell died seized and possessed, the same consisting of a parcel of about one-half acre, in said County and State, an acre, situate at Thorough-or, should said sale be not confirmed, then to have said land sold; to permit the said complainant to settle in said suit her accounts as Administratrix, as aforesaid; to pay out the proceeds from the sale of said land the balance due on the debts of the estate of said Elizabeth Howell, deceased, and costs of administering the same, and all valid liens against said land; to have the residue of said proceeds of sale, after paying the costs of said suit, divided amongst those thereto entitled; and for general relief.

It is, therefore, ordered that the above-named defendants appear here within ten days after due publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect their interests in this suit. It is further ordered that a copy of this order be published once a week for four successive weeks in the Manassas Journal, a newspaper printed and published in the said County of Prince William, Virginia; that a copy be sent by registered mail by the Clerk of this Court to each of the above-named non-resident defendants, whose addresses are set out in said affidavit, addressed to them respectively at the addresses given in said affidavit; that a copy be posted by the said Clerk at the front door of the Court-house of this County on or before the next succeeding rule day after this order of publication is entered; and that the said Clerk shall certify to this Court that the said copies have been posted and mailed as hereinbefore directed.

Given under my hand this 19th day of December, 1928.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Julia Mertz, who departed this life February 28, 1928.

Dear mother, just ten months ago, You left us for that Celestial home. Wherever I roam, your spirit seems To linger near. We hope to meet Somewhere in space in the land of Grace.

Your daughter, HILDA MERTZ.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Miss Edith Cudlipp, granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mertz. She departed this life December 7, 1928, at Longview Memorial Hospital, State of Washington, where she was a trained nurse.

No one knew her but to love her. Just as the sun arose over that beautiful Washington height, her soul took flight to that land beyond the stars. We have that blessed hope that we shall meet again in that heavenly land where no sorrow ever mars.

The Manassas Journal's Complete Agricultural Service
By DAN VAN GORDER

Questions of lawns, gardens and general farming are discussed in this department each week. Readers of The Manassas Journal are invited to use this new column for the answer to their question and the solution of their problems. Address all inquiries to The Manassas Journal Information Bureau, Van Gorder News Service, Manassas, Virginia.

BACKYARD POULTRY KEEPING.

The keeping of a small flock of laying hens on a town or village lot or in a city back yard is an important branch of the poultry industry. The principles that make backyard poultry keeping successful will also lift the unprofitable farm flock to a profit making stature. Though the results are small from backyard poultry activities, yet the aggregate over the country as a whole presents a formidable total. There are several benefits accruing from this practice besides the returns in eggs and meat to the small flock owner.

In almost every urban household, no matter how economical the housewife, there are certain amounts of table scraps and kitchen waste which have feeding value, but which, if not fed to fowls or animals, will find its way into the garbage pail.

Poultry is the only class of domestic animals which is suitable for converting this waste material, where it is produced in the city, into wholesome and nutritious food in the form of egg and poultry meat.

Poultry keeping requires experience. Especially is this true where elaborate equipment is adopted and the business is entered on a large scale. The backyard flocks offer a fine opportunity for inexpensive experience in flock management and feeding practices. Many outstanding poultrymen obtained their first practical knowledge of poultry from the small backyard flock.

A hen in her pullet year should produce ten dozen eggs. Thus a flock of 20 hens would in a year produce 200 dozen eggs, which, at the conservative price of 40 cents a dozen, would amount to $80. By utilizing the food scraps of the table, the family obtains eggs of a freshness and quality difficult to find under good marketing conditions, and at a cost but fractional of the prevailing market price.

Objections are frequently raised by neighbors to backyard flocks because of unsanitary conditions produced, and by noise made by crowing roosters. In some cities regulations prevent poultry keeping in the city limits.

Proper care of the roosts and pens will remove all traces of insanitation with any sized flock. In fact, a well-kept flock deserves these kind of surroundings in city or country. Daily cleaning will usually remove these objections.

Owners of small flocks that are kept for egg and meat purposes do not need a male bird. Many people believe a male is needed for egg production in the flock. Roosters with the laying hens are needed only when the eggs are to be used for hatching purposes. Where the eggs are used only for food, it is a serious mistake to keep a male bird with the hens. Fertile eggs thus produced will become unfit for food when exposed to summer temperatures for a few hours. Produce infertile eggs should be the rule of poultrymen, city and rural, who sell or use the eggs for food purposes.

Small flock owners usually desire not only eggs for table use and for cooking, but also an occasional chicken to eat. Because of this reason, one of the general purpose breeds such as Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Rhode Island Red, or Orpington is preferable to the smaller breeds such as the Leghorn. If, however, the desire for egg production outweighs the desire for an occasional fowl for meat, the lighter breeds will be found better, because of less feed required.

A flock of 20 to 25 hens should have a space of not less than 750 square feet.

Two methods of obtaining stock are recommended. The purchase of day-old chicks or pullets nearing the laying age is recommended. In either case the stock should be purchased only from sources where it is known to be pure strain. Most states are now providing accreditation for hatcheries selling pure bred stock, and these furnish an excellent place for the amateur or beginner to obtain day-old chicks or pullets.

A house that provides a floor space of three or four square feet for each bird is ample for the purpose, and fowls are often successfully kept in spaces no greater than two and one-half to three square feet. Houses must be kept dry and free from drafts, but permitting free ventilation. Where older buildings cannot be converted into suitable quarters, it is best to purchase materials and erect a simple practical structure.

Flocks, wherever kept, on backyard sites or as farm flocks, must be continually watched to prevent "boarders" from reducing the profits. Culling is necessary in small or large flocks.

Where conditions justify the installation of electric lights will prove practical and profitable for stimulation of winter laying.

Many small flock owners have found it advisable to sell or eat the older hens at molting time and replace with pullets.

While backyard poultry keeping requires considerable attention and care, yet the recreation that a lover of poultry will obtain, plus the fresh, wholesome eggs from the flock, will well repay the efforts of the village of city poultryman.

Questions Answered.

Q. How is nicotine sulphate treatment applied in ridding laying hens of lice? Do you recommend it in preference to sodium fluoride for this purpose? G. McG., Barnesville, Ohio.

A. Nicotine sulphate for killing lice is highly recommended by many leading poultry authorities. Its superior merits rests on the ease with which it is applied as well as its effectiveness. An application of 40 per cent solution to the roost poles just before the hens go to roosts should be made. It can be applied with a small paint brush or oil can. Sodium fluoride is excellent, although more time and labor are required as each bird must be dusted. Either remedy is recommended as fully effective. Both are used by successful poultrymen.

Q. We have had considerable difficulty growing onions from seed. Would you suggest use of sets or seed for commercial growing? What are best cultivation practices? What is broccoli? Beginner, Bedford, Pa.

A. Plant onion seed as soon as the soil can be worked in spring. Sow thin and then re-set crowded plants as soon as they are large enough to eat as green onions or market as such. Shallow cultivation to keep weeds down is all onions require. Never cultivate deeply. Sets or seed may be used with success. No secret processes, but good seed, properly cultivated. Broccoli is one of the new greens. It is quite easy to grow. Start in cold frame like cauliflower and re-set when plants are about two or three inches high. Broccoli is fast becoming a favorite in many eastern cities.

Read what these leading automobile editors said after seeing and riding in the new Chevrolet Six—

"One of the greatest automobiles I have ever seen. In performance, construction and beauty it is phenomenal. Never saw so much car for the money."
—NORTH BIGBEE
Dallas News

"In appearance, performance and mechanical nicety the new Chevrolet Six presents actual values far beyond its price range."
—HAZEN CONKLIN
New York World

"The new Chevrolet is a triumph for volume production. The car at its price is one of the greatest achievements ever recorded in the automobile industry. Its beauty is a treat; its riding comfort a new delight and its performance a real sensation."
—RAY PRIEST
Detroit Times

"Aside from beauty in body lines and attractiveness in finish, the astounding feature of the new Chevrolet Six is its powerful and flexible motor. One will have to go far to equal the high performance of this new Chevrolet in general road and traffic use."
—LEON J. PINKSON
San Francisco Chronicle

"In speed and acceleration, the new Chevrolet will more than satisfy the average person. In design, Fisher offers costly car appearance. In short, the new car is by far Chevrolet's outstanding achievement."
—EDWARD M. MILLER

SWAVELY NOTES

School reopened on Monday last and all are steadily at work again. We are glad to welcome the new faculty bride, Mrs. Reeves, to our midst.

Mr. and Mrs. Swavely were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Walker, in Washington, on Tuesday.

Yesterday Mrs. Swavely entertained at luncheon in honor of Mrs. L. C. Branch, of Newport News, Va., speaker at the Woman's Club.

Preparations are already under way for the play, "Captain Applejack," to be given at mid-year, February 22.

This evening, in connection with the lecture course, Mr. C. W. Furlong will deliver an illustrated lecture on "Argentine and Adventuring in Patagonia."

CLIFTON

Services were held in the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning, Rev. McLeod conducting.

The Missionary Society and Aid of the church will meet next Thursday night.

Rev. S. Y. Craig, of Rhodesville, has accepted the pastorate of the Baptist pulpit, effective in February.

The Eastern Star met Tuesday night in Masonic Hall.

The stork visited Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mock during the week, leaving a fine daughter.

Mr. Swem Elgin, who has been quite ill with the flu, is rapidly recovering.

Mrs. Anthony Hart is sick at her home on Centerville Road.

Mrs. John Curtis has returned to her home after a week's visit to her son, Mr. Fred Curtis, of Potomac, Va.

A number of school children are absent from school on account of bad colds.

MORE LOCAL BRIEFS.

Midshipman O. Dabney Waters had as his guest for New Years, Midshipman Sherwin, of Windber, Pa.

Cadet Robert Hackett, of U. S. Military Academy, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Arrington during the holidays.

Miss Jane Walter, of Washington, D. C., visited friends in Manassas during the Christmas holidays.

Miss Nancy Waters, of Goucher College, Baltimore, is recovering from an attack of the flu.

METHOD OF RATING TRUCKS IS REVISED

Pontiac, Mich., Jan. 10.—A sensational far-reaching development, affecting the customary method of rating truck capacities, will soon be announced by the General Motors Truck Company, it was learned here today.

Paul W. Seiler, president of the company, indicated to interviewers that an entirely new basis would be established, providing exact knowledge, in advance, as to the most efficient pay-load capacity of any given truck, equipped with any given type of body. "It will clarify the whole situation a truck buyer faces when he comes to invest in new equipment—and will make possible much higher efficiency in the operation of trucks," he said.

CHEVROLET SALES GROW.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 10.—With thousands of the new Chevrolet sixes daily being placed in the hands of owners. Chevrolet Motor Company announced officially here yesterday that production for the first ten and a half months of 1928 equalled 1,200,000 units. This figure, it was said, represented an increase of 180,000 units over 1927, the best previous year.

"As Good As Old Wheat In The Mill"

When you have so thoroughly established the good name of your house and your business, for positive dependability as to gain that supreme confidence of the people of your community: "Jones' store is as good as old wheat in the mill," you have about reached the ultimate in merchandising desires. But the road to that objective is strewn with the wrecks of merchandising efforts.

The greatest asset of any store is not cash, accounts receivable, or merchandise, but being a popular trading center having the goodwill of the entire community. Regular advertising together with fair, honorable treatment quickly builds this greatest of all assets and makes for a steady and increasing business.

Newspaper publicity—obtainable at the least expense—gives your business the greatest tonic—feeds it with the most strengthening food—supports it on the strongest foundation of any of the essentials that enter into present day merchandising.

Advertising works for efficiency, because it draws in trade from the surrounding community and nearby towns. Regular store-news advertising provides the home folks with something to read besides mail-order catalogs.

People are always interested in merchandise offerings and like to read, study and plan on their future purchases. They will always follow the lead of a "live-wire" and will go a greater distance to trade at a store that shows enterprise.

An enterprising merchant is one who is constantly striving to secure a greater volume of business. To secure a greater volume of business he must draw trade from every section of his trade territory. The largest volume or capacity turnover can be secured only by telling the public about the different merchandise offerings and by extending to the town and country folks a cordial invitation to visit the store often.

Persistency in advertising will quickly build for your business its greatest asset.
