CHARITY BALL HUGE SUCCESS

Woman's Club Realizes Handsome Sum For Crippled Children's Hospital.

Fulfilling all predictions the Charity Ball given on Monday night under the auspices of the Woman's Club of Manassas, was one of the most successful as well as one of the most attractive ever held in Prince William County.

That people of the county were in sympathy with the cause for which the ball was given was evidenced by the size of the crowd which turned out to either dance to the entrancing music or to enjoy the spectacular effect produced by the magnificent decorations and to survey the gorgeous costumes of the charming guests who were here from all sections of the county as well as from adjoining counties and from Alexandria and Washington.

Great credit is due Mrs. E. Swavelly, president of the club, and the members of the various committees for the magnificence of the affair as well as for its unusual success and it is a fitting tribute that their efforts were rewarded with such splendid results.

WINFIELD HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

High Wind and Distance From Fire Apparatus a Big Handicap.

The residence of C. S. Winfield, near Blandford Bridge, with its contents, was completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin on Monday morning.

Members of the family and neighbors did what they could to save the house, but the headway which the fire had made before discovery and the lack of fire-fighting apparatus made it impossible to do more than confine the fire to the residence. The building and contents was a total loss.

HEALTH OFFICERS CONSIDER RABIES

Considerable Rabies In State Though Situation Not Alarming. Disease Is Discussed.

Richmond, Va., April 4—While there is at present considerable rabies in the State, the situation is not alarming. Nevertheless, with a view toward preparedness, Dr. Ennon C. Williams, State Health Commissioner, Monday morning held a conference with M. D. Hart, Executive Secretary of the Department of Game and Inland Fisheries, and Dr. H. C. Givens, State Veterinarian, at which time methods for controlling the disease were discussed.

Health Department reports show that, although the first three months of 1929 show more positive diagnosis of rabies than were shown in 1928 for the first quarter of the year, still there are less this year than for the like periods of 1924, 1925, 1926 and 1927. There was more rabies in the State during 1928 than in any other years, 232 positive heads having been examined at the State laboratory. In 1927, there were only 175 positive heads and in 1928, 112. The health authorities are now combining with the game department and the State veterinarian with the hope that 1929 will still give a record no worse than the one of 1928.

As a result of the conference, it was decided that boards of supervisors of all counties be asked to pass ordinances, effective when in the judgment of the local boards of health it should be necessary to enforce, providing for the muzzling or tying-up of dogs in any vicinity from which a report of a mad dog has been received or from which a positively diagnosed head has been reported by a laboratory of the State Health Department. It was agreed that the tying-up or muzzling period should be for sixty days after the presence of a rabid dog had been reported and that the ordinance should apply to all dogs in the vicinity which had reported the mad dog.

This is the first time that the Game Department, the Veterinary Department and the Health Department have combined to put their field forces behind an effort to control rabies; but they are working in thorough accord toward that end, and optimism is expressed over the results to be anticipated.

TWO VACANCIES ON STATE BOARD

Terms of E. C. Glass and F. S. Watson On State Board of Education Have Expired.

The terms of two members of the State Board of Education have expired and their positions are vacant pending a decision as to how the membership of the board may be completed.

E. C. Glass, Lynchburg, and F. B. Watson, Pittsylvania, are the members whose terms are expiring.

The next meeting of the board is in May. At the March meeting no action was taken upon the pending vacancies.

Confusion as to how the board should be appointed has resulted from conflicting constructions of the old and the new constitutional provisions as to the board.

The tangle will be straightened out before or during the May session, it was announced today.

During the month fourteen unprofitable cows were sold for beef, reported Mr. Brady, who also said, "This is a good time to sell poor producing cows for beef, while prices are high and stock in good condition. This also will give more pasture for the good producers this summer or give you an opportunity to purchase some good producers."

WOMAN'S CLUB WILL MEET IN ALEXANDRIA

Members Will Go To District Meeting As Guests of the Cameron Club.

The regular April meeting of the Woman's Club of Manassas, scheduled to be held here on Wednesday, April 10, will be held instead at the George Mason Hotel, in Alexandria, at 12 o'clock noon, on the same day.

This is brought about by the fact that the Fourth District of Women's clubs, in which the local club is listed, will meet in Alexandria for a round table discussion of club work, and the Cameron Club, of Alexandria, has extended an invitation to Mrs. E. Swavelly, president of the Manassas Club, to bring its membership to Alexandria on that day. There will be a luncheon served at 12 o'clock for which there will be a small charge.

It is urged that all members who expect to go notify Mrs. George Hasel at the earliest possible moment, so that arrangements for automobiles may be made well in advance and the hotel notified of the number of luncheons to provide.

On April 19, there will be a called meeting of the Manassas Club at which time Mrs. R. S. Illingworth will give a talk on music and offer some suggestions for club work along musical lines. Details of this meeting will be announced later.

NOKESVILLE BIBLE CLASS

An interesting meeting of the Nokesville Bible Class was held last week. M. J. Shepherd, vice president of the class, presided in the absence of the president, due to illness. The scripture reading was by Rev. Bell, after which the regular business session was held. The election of officers for the ensuing year which was scheduled for this meeting was postponed.

The class decided to give a program at Bristow the time to be fixed later. The report of the sick committee showed that eleven visits had been made. The next meeting will be held at the home of J. W. Wright, on Wednesday, April 10. An interesting scripture contest preceded the serving of refreshments. This contest was conducted by the class teacher, F. L. Foster, and the questions were taken from the last chapters of Acts. The ladies were pronounced the winners.

Mr. Shenk is an American by birth. He was instructed by Sir Henry Wood, conductor of the Queen's Hall orchestra, in London, and studied phonetics and singing in Dresden and Berlin. NEWS OF WEEK IN OLD VIRGINIA

Virginia Births Decline.

Richmond, April 4—Apprehension in regard to the downward trend in the Virginia birth rate was expressed yesterday by Dr. W. A. Plecker, State Registrar of Vital Statistics, who reported 55,338 births registered for 1928, against 57,330 for 1927.

A decline has been noted since 1921, it was said, but the department thought that, by the close of 1927, the decline would end.

The decline has been noted, Dr. Plecker said, chiefly among the well-to-do classes. A similar state of affairs has been noted in other sections of the country, where the so-called undesirables continue to have many children, while the upper classes do not.

Dr. Plecker advocates extension of the scope of the sterilization law, as has been done recently in California.

Work On Jefferson Highway.

Monterey, April 3—A shipment of two dozen mules from St. Louis, Mo., purchased by the Virginia highway authorities for service on the Jefferson Highway on Back Creek, was unloaded at Clover Lick, W. Va., a few days ago by representatives from the State camp.

The force at the new camp is reported ready for active operations, the right of way on the slope of the mountain from the West Virginia state line having been cleared of the heavy timber with which it was covered, the distance being something over three miles, and the heaviest right of way clearing to be done on the remainder of the route.

Officers Installed.

Fairfax, April 4—New elected and appointed officers of Herndon Chapter, Order Eastern Star, were duly installed at the meeting of the council last week by Mrs. Mary Cheatham, of Washington, grand lecturer of the District, as follows: Mrs. Mary E. Middleton, worthy matron; William Middleton, worthy patron; Harvey E. Hanes, associate patron; Mrs. Eudora Armfield, conductor; Mrs. Emma Beckenridge, associate conductor; Mrs. Kate Kirk, treasurer; Miss Marjorie Reed, secretary; Mrs. Lydia Tait Andrews, chaplain; Mrs. Mate Lewis Bradley, Adah; Miss Rebecca Middleton, Ruth; Mrs. Louis Ferguson, Esther; Mrs. Inez Groff, Martha; Mrs. Lavinia Harrison, Electa; Mrs. Lotie Meyer, warder; Julian D. Thompson, sentinel; Mrs. Minnie Mathews, Marshal, and Miss May Brockman, organist.

State Highway Map.

Richmond, April 4—The new Virginia State highway map, showing the recent additions and roads taken into the system under the Vaughan act, now is being distributed free on application to the Department of Highways, Richmond.

In addition to showing the kind of surface on roads, present construction projects, Federal highway numbers, airports, railroads and so on, the map also shows connections in surrounding States.

On the back of the map detailed items show the routes in and out of the cities as well as photographs and information on points of historic interest throughout the State.

Rats Bother Farmers.

Byrdton, April 3—At least one source of the plague of rats, which, defying all efforts at eradication, has harried Northern Neck farmers for a year or more, has been discovered. Farmers of this place, burying broom-sedge pastures this week, discovered them to be overrun with rats bedded beneath the grass tufts. By belting the fields with fire, numbers of the rats were suffocated in their burrows.

McIntyre Boosted For Judge.

Warrenton, April 3—At a meeting of the Fauquier County Bar Association, held here last week, Major Robert A. McIntyre, a practicing attorney for the past 25 years, was unanimously indorsed by them to fill the vacancy created in the 26th judicial circuit by the death of Judge George Latham Fletcher. The indorsement will be forwarded to Governor Byrd.

Deer For State.

Alexandria, April 3—Thirty white-tail deer have been ordered by the Virginia state commission of game and inland fisheries from the Pizgah national forest through the United States forest service, it was learned today. The 30 deer is the full quota allowed Virginia.

SLIGHT DECLINE IN MILK OUTPUT

Average Production of Milk Per Cow In 1928 Less Than In 1927.

Richmond, March 28—The average production of milk per cow during 1928 was 4,600 pounds, according to reports from six hundred farmers to the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service. The average on the same farms for 1927 was 4,724 pounds. The slight decline in production was probably due to poor pastures during the spring and early summer. Another probable cause for the lower production was the fact that many farmers were induced by high prices to sell some of their best cows. Approximately 10,000 cows were shipped to northern states during the past year.

The average production for all cows in the State is probably between 3,000 and 3,500 pounds, which is considerably less than the figure mentioned above. Many cows are not fed properly to secure the maximum production of milk and there are also many scrub cows which are naturally poor producers.

Milk production varies considerably from month to month. The lowest production is during the months of January and February. As pastures improve production gradually increases until the peak is usually reached in June, then there is little change during July and August until the fall decline commences in September. The average monthly production per cow during 1928 on the farms reporting was as follows:

January, 324 pounds; February, 320;

March, 347; April, 346; May, 423; June, 441; July, 451; August, 452; September, 411; October, 392; November, 353, and December, 332.

VSS OPEN FORMULA FERTILIZER

The VSS has been working with the Virginia Agricultural College and has approval on the 1929 Spring formulas.

The plant needs of every principal crop in VSS territory are met by the nine open formula fertilizers mixed. You are asked to co-operate on service by placing your order with your VSS Distributor now.

The approved open formula assures the buyer of the proper proportion of the higher-priced sources of ammonia.

The 100-pound bags have been enthusiastically received. Practically every farmer would rather have his fertilizer in hundred-pound bags. Heretofore he has been paying a premium of $1.25 per ton for this convenient size bag. The VSS has made it available without extra cost, and the bags are returnable at 5c each to the consumer.

ATTENTION!

STOP US IF YOU'VE HEARD THIS ONE: A MAN WAS BRAGGING ABOUT GETTING A LIFE PARTNER AT A BARGAIN. HE SAID:

"She was 43, marked down to 22!"

Maybe she was a good wife at that. But when you come right down to brass tacks, "Bargain business" doesn't go as a permanent proposition.

You've got to sell QUALITY above everything else. The day of "cheap shoddy" is going. Our standards of living have gone up. That means our standards of buying, also. And that, in turn, brings us back to QUALITY.

Before there can be QUALITY SELLING to the public, there must be QUALITY BUYING by the merchant. Our customers buy on our recommendations.

The Manassas Journal's Complete Agricultural Service

By DAN VAN GORDER

Questions of lawns, gardens and general farming are discussed in this department each week. Address all inquiries to The Manassas Journal Information Bureau, Van Gorder News Service, Manassas, Virginia.

PROTECTING SHADE TREES

With the advent of shade tree foliage come scores of insects to affect the trees. It is necessary to afford the trees some measure of protection else the insects will inflict damages from which the trees will be irreparably injured, or at least marred to an extent that will detract from their natural beauty and usefulness.

Healthy appearance is essential in shade trees. A defoliated tree not only clashes with the general atmosphere of orderliness about the home but the agencies that bring about the loss of foliage usually use the infected tree as a protection from which they attack other neighboring trees.

Trees along streets or highways or in lawns are not in their natural habitat. By nature they belong to the dense forests where the loose, rich soil retains the vast water supplies that enable them to maintain a maximum of health; and too, there they are afforded the cooperative protection of other trees against the attacks of insects and disease.

Brought to the strange environment of the city street or the highway the tree loses a majority of the benefits of food and protection that it enjoyed in its native surrounding. Undernourished and open to the attacks of insects and disease, it requires the artificial assistance of man to aid it to withstand these ravages. Denied this aid, its chance of surviving and retaining its health and beauty is reduced to a minimum. The moisture restricted soils, deficient plant food, leaking gas mains, mutilation by improper pruning, untreated wounds, are a few of the agencies that war against the shade tree. Add to these the scores of insects found in all climates, and the owner can see a few of the responsibilities that shade tree care involves.

Shade tree insects are roughly divided into three classes—borers, leaf chews and sap suckers. To combat these various pests a knowledge of their feeding habits is necessary and the means to distinguish them. Taking the elm, linden and maples, which are our predominant trees for shade purposes, the following insect groups are most destructive—

Elm

Leaf chews—Elm leaf beetle, bagworm, spiny elm caterpillar, fall webworm, forest tent caterpillar, white-marked tussock moth, and large elm sawfly.

Borers—Elm borer, leopard moth, and twig girdler.

Sap suckers—Oyster-shell scale, wooly elm bark aphid, European elm scale, and gall aphid.

Linden

Leaf chews—Bagworm, forest tent caterpillar, white-marked tussock moth, and large elm sawfly.

Borers—Linden borer, and twig girdler.

Sap suckers—Oyster-shell scale.

Maple

Leaf chews—Bagworm, forest tent caterpillar, white-marked tussock moth, and green striped maple worm. Borers—Sugar maple borer, leopard moth, carpenter worm, and maple and oak twig pruner.

Sap suckers—(Aphis) wooly maple and alder aphid, Norway maple aphid, and gall insects and mites. (Scale insects) oyster-shell scale, cottony maple scale, gloomy scale, and terrapin scale.

For control of insects on shade trees two kinds of poisons must be used,—stomach poisons for insects that bite and chew their food, and contact poisons for those that suck their food from the leaves, twigs and limbs. In spraying, this distinction of feeding habits of the insect must be made before the proper poison can be chosen to combat the pest.

The standard poisons for killing chewing insects are arsenate of lead, calcium arsenate, Bordeaux mixture and other arsenical poisons. The standard contact poisons are lime-sulphur, miscible oils, kerosene emulsion and nicotine sulphate. These are used against all sap sucking insects, scales, aphids, plant lice, etc.

A vital and important principle of successful control of shade tree insects is wholesale destruction. Prompt and thorough spraying is essential. The earlier in the life of the insect it is killed, the more quickly it is killed and the less harm it shall have accomplished. Thoroughness in spraying means covering completely the insect's food or covering the insect, depending on its feeding habits.

These are remedies after the tree is attacked. Another and even more important phase of shade tree care is the maintenance of the tree's health so that the attacks of insects and disease will not prove fatal to the tree. This involves careful and prompt treatment of all tree wounds and feeding where the tree is not receiving proper food supplies. Properly cared for trees seldom fall victims to the inroads of insects and disease.

Many tree owners at this time of the year are approached by salesmen representing highly advertised materials for tree invigoration and insect control. Many cure-all preparations are advised for injection under the bark. Suffice it here to warn that all such treatments are wholly without merit in controlling insects, and often are decidedly injurious to trees so treated.

There are no short cuts to successful shade tree growing. Continual care and protection are the only methods.

The amount realized was $66. Mrs.
Paul Warner sprung a surprise and her side won—amid much laughing and fun.

Another feature of the Monday

HELPFUL TOURIST'S BOOK

ISSUED BY STATE AGENCY

Virginia, "The Beckoning Land," is the title of a new and attractive booklet just issued by the State Conservation and Development Commission for the guidance of tourists. The cover, in four colors, represents a typical Virginia colonial town home. The contents of the book, which has forty 9 by 12 pages, folded to 9 by 4 pocket size, is illustrated with fifteen plates of groups of illustrations, including a front page pen sketch of representative Virginia historical scenes in color. The different plates feature such things as scenic beauty, natural wonders, highways, historical places and monuments, notable personages, old gardens, old churches, sports and recreation, play days and pageants and sentimental aspects of the state.

In a pocket is a new relief and highway map of the state in four colors on which is represented nearly 800 points of tourist interest. On the back of this map are eighteen trip tours through the state from one to twelve days in length.

At the commission office, it was stated that the booklet is intended as an introduction of the tourist to Virginia. It is used to answer inquiries and follow up the advertising being run by the commission in 24 leading magazines and newspapers this spring.
Naturally, it can not tell the full story, and the different communities of the state are encouraged to get out their own local booklets of points of interest to the visitor in their region. In fact, localities, as well as the state, may well have two booklets, it is suggested by the commission; one on places of tourist interest and one on industrial aspects. The commission recently issued a 40-page booklet entitled "Industrial Virginia," which gives an industrial bird's-eye view of the state. Both booklets are distributed free.

GUBERNATORIAL CAMPAIGN.

John Garland Pollard, Lieutenant-Governor Junius E. West and former State Senator G. Walter Mapp, all of Tidewater Virginia, are the candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. The campaign between them, so far as can now be seen, says the Bristol Herald Courier, will develop but one issue, and that issue is the respective qualifications of the candidates.

The people of Virginia, in a referendum election held last June, decided that the next Governor should appoint the State Treasurer, the Commissioner of Agriculture and the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and that in 1932 or at any session thereafter the General Assembly should decide how these same officers are to be selected. The next Governor, whether he be Pollard, West, Mapp or another, must make these appointments. Neither of the candidates now offering for the gubernatorial nomination would veto a bill making these three State officers again elective by the people. So there is no issue on the "short ballot."

All three of the candidates are dry and each contributed to the success of the prohibition movement in Virginia and the Nation. So there is no issue on prohibition.

All three of the Candidates spoke for former Governor Alfred E. Smith in the recent Presidential campaign and voted for him at the election. So there is no Smith or anti-Smith issue.

Unless some new issue or issues should arise the Democrats of Virginia will have to answer just one question in selecting a candidate for Governor: Which of the three men is by training and experience best qualified for the office to which he aspires?

The Governor is the State's Chief Executive, charged with the execution of the laws. The supreme law is the Constitution of the State, which John Garland Pollard helped to make. The statutes enacted in pursuance of the Constitution were compiled and annotated in Pollard's Code. The same Pollard, as Attorney-General of the State, acquired knowledge of the practical application of these laws in the operation of the Government, for he was the legal adviser of the Governor and every department of the State and knows their problems.

Mr. Pollard has twice, as a member of official commissions, made a thorough study of the affairs of the State in all of its departments and has made recommendations for their improvement, many of which were adopted. For seven years he has been professor of Virginia Government in the College of William and Mary and has taught three thousand young Virginians in the fundamental principles and duties of citizenship.

There could not be better preparation for the important tasks of the Governorship. Compare Mr. Pollard's training and experience for this position with those of the other aspirants. That is what you would do if you were hiring a man in your own business. Why not apply the same principle in "hiring" your Governor?

AN ELECTRICAL AGE.

The people of the United States use as much electricity as all the rest of the world combined. We have almost five times the generating capacity of any other nation.

The amazing part of our electrical development is that it has been mainly accomplished in less than a generation. Since 1912 the population of the country has increased but 25 per cent; yet generation of electricity has increased 615 per cent, the number of people living in electrically wired homes, 470 per cent, and the number of customers receiving service, 510 per cent.

In other words, electrical consumption has increased 20 times faster than the population. In the past seven years electricity has been extended for the first time to 9,000,000 new homes, the increase averaging well over a million homes yearly.

The result of this unprecedented development is seen in more efficient industry and in more comfortable homes with their labor-saving devices. In 25 years electrification of urban America has been made almost complete.

Now the greatest remaining field is rural electrification. As swiftly as is possible the advantages of electricity that are enjoyed by city dwellers are being brought to the farms and the smallest villages. What has been accomplished for industry and the city home is being accomplished for agriculture and the farm home.

Press Comment"Who's Got the Button?"

Baltimore Sun—Coatless Men will renew the fight for favor in New York next summer under the auspices of the League for Sensible Clothing, and their official uniform is to be a blouse, with trousers supported by buttons. Blouses, of course, are not without precedent. Soldiers and sailors wear them on occasion with fine effect. But buttons? The casual manner in which belts are utterly omitted from the program leads to the suspicion that the sponsors of the movement have learned not to place any dependence on them in an emergency; and men of that design are to be pitied rather than imitated. Their warmth is inherent.

The International Sunday School Lesson for April 7 is, "The Ministry of Isaiah"—Isaiah 6:1-8; 20:1-2; 38:1-5.

By WILLIAM P. ELLIS.

Pity the people who spend their days in reading modern books and in listening to up-to-date philosophical discussions. Most of them are missing the great truths of the times. Behind and beneath all the clack and clatter of our day's professional debate upon morals and religion and sociology there is sweeping an immense tide of popular concern about God and the soul of man.

In a recent article, the Archbishop of York says: "There is a great movement in the religious world today, especially perhaps in Germany, toward the reassertion of the unutterable majesty of God. That He is, is the one ultimate truth; of all else we can only say that for His pleasure they are, and were created. His sovereign will is the source of all existence and of all value. Our duty is to recognize His will and obey it."

The Vision That Makes Prophets. That is the Great Idea which made Isaiah the greatest of all prophets. He caught a glimpse of the ineffable majesty and might of God. From that truth of God's being, and sovereignty derived all of his message to his times.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

and to the succeeding world.

Here is a truth to grasp by the handle. Professional thinkers and teachers are all going mad over the notion of the supremacy and divinity of human personality. Modern education is being recast to the conception that the teacher's one work is to give the pupil's personality a chance to develop. Liberty is supplanting law in the new theory of pedagogy. The Ten Commandments are not as important, according to the prevailing fashion, as the whims and impulses of the child.

Against this cult there is a deep revolt among men and women who do real thinking in the light of their experience of actual life. They know themselves and they know human nature. Therefore they are clamoring for more of authority in all realms of life, and especially in the department of ethics and of spiritual experience.

This unleashed individualism which has of late been popular has produced anarchy and misery in many spheres. It has crowded our courts with criminals, our schools with melancholy experimentists, our social circles with inciters and supporters of bootleggers, the business world with a cult of "get-rich-quick-regardless" and our supposedly intellectual circles with irresponsible freaks.

Concerned and scared, the average man and woman are turning yearningly toward God and the Moral Law. A sense of His authority, of His right and of His will, is bringing us toward the Isaiah mood of awe for the holiness of the Sovereign Jehovah. In that direction alone lies rescue from moral disaster. We have been cultivating the enlarged ego; worshipping the perpendicular pronoun; crying "Great is Man!" Now, we need to fall prostrate before the sublime majesty of the Lord Most High, and cry "Holy! Holy! Holy!"

Human Cockiness vs. Divine Right.

Something of a sense of humor creeps into a contemplation of the cockiness of modern teachers and the humility of great Isaiah. This increases as we survey the content of the contrasted messages. The Hebrew prophet is still a trumpet voice of the ages, and his words are today fertilizing the minds of mankind; whereas our too-vocal professors would like us to forget what they said yesterday; as we obligingly do. There is hope and courage and cheer and inspiration in the utterances of the son of Amoz; results which no one claims for the "new" philosophies of our day.

Isaiah was overwhelmed by a consciousness of his own unworthiness, crying "Woe is me, for I am undone!" Every man who beholds the holiness of God is bowed down into deepest humility by the sense of his own unfitness. Thus he is made ready to become a herald of the Divine Right of the Deity to order human life and to require obedience. Only the lowly may serve the Most High God. Every true prophet knows himself, not as able, but as enabled. The fire of his purged lips is from a heavenly altar. Spiritual vision sees first of all the greatness and glory of Jehovah.

Any religious experience which does not eventuate in duty done is unlikely to be valid. "Here am I, send me!" is the cry of the servant who has seen the King. To become His messenger, His word-carrier, His errand-runner thenceforth is the whole of life's mission. Would we have a revival of religion? It can come—aye, we may say it is coming, along the way indicated by the Arch-bishop of York—only by a conviction of the character and greatness of God.

What Makes a Prophet?

A prophet is one who speaks forth the highest truth he knows. A few evenings ago a group of men were gathered at dinner, to hear an address by a famous psychologist, who, in the somewhat technical terms of a schoolman, talked about the six sides of human life and their consequences upon conduct, especially in youth. Like many modern scientific presentations, it was wholly materialistic and fatalistic and depressing. After perfunctory expressions of pleasure, the gathering was about to break up, when one man asked, "Professor, what place do you accord to religion in influencing character?"

"None," replied the psychologist magisterially; "up to twelve years of age a child has no experience of religion, and it does not affect his character at all."

"Let me tell you a story," continued his questioner. "When I was ten years of age, I met with a dreadful accident"—and he gave the details, and by all the laws of probability, I should have died in that remote field and my bones have been picked by the crows and the turkey buzzards and insects. But I prayed God to send some one that way, and I promised Him that if I was found, and recovered, I would live only for Him. After five hours, a person who had never crossed that field before, and did not know why he crossed it that time, found me, and brought help. Several times before they got me home, they stopped the wagon to let me die in quiet. The physician at first did not attempt to treat my wounds, because I was dying. I alone knew that I would not die, and that God and I had a compact. Because of that childhood experience, my life since has been spent in Christian service.

"Now what do you say about that?" Because he is an honest scientist, the professor admitted the evidence as wholly valid, but attributed it some, what to precocity! He could not quite forego his generalization.

However, the discussion was on; other men came forward with their views, and before the evening was over the psychologist's mechanistic views had been obscured by a great body of reality. Yet had not one man spoken forth the truth that was in him, the evening would have counted against the supreme reality. Whoever witnesses to his deepest experience and highest conviction is a prophet.

A Real Man in Terrible Times.

As in most Bible messages, there is a geographical and historical aspect to this Lesson. It befell in the tragic times of Hezekiah, when Assyria and Egypt were contending for world supremacy across the little bridge country of Judea. The Bible record is corroborated by the monuments. The story is written in stone, as well as on parchment. It was a real historic tragedy which engrossed Isaiah.

What complicated the problem, and brought ultimate disaster, was that the Jews counted largely upon Egypt and Assyria as factors, and upon their own favored position, but left God out of the account. They did not see that the morals and religion of the people had anything to do with national destiny; whereas these really were the determinative factors. No problem, yesterday, today, or tomorrow, is ever solved aright unless God is taken into the reckoning.

MANASSAS, VIRGINIA

FOR ECONOMICAL

TRANSPORTATION

Ten Reasons why 300,000 careful buyers have chosen the New Chevrolet Six since January 1st

Ever since the date of its introduction, the new Chevrolet Six has swept triumphantly on to greater and greater heights of popularity. Value for value and price for price—buyers have compared it with other cars in the low-price field. And the result has been an overwhelming public preference—over 300,000 buyers since January 1st. And everywhere the enthusiasm is constantly increasing—for the new Chevrolet Six combines, as does no other car in the world, those ten great fundamental factors which careful buyers are now demanding in the cars they buy.

6-Cylinder Smoothness

Due to the finer inherent balance of its six-cylinder valve-in-head motor, the new Chevrolet provides that smooth, quiet, flexible performance which is the distinguishing characteristic of the truly fine automobile. At every speed, the power is delivered easily, freely and without annoying vibration. You can ride and drive for hours without annoying rumble or noise fatigue—every mile a delight for both driver and passengers.

6-Cylinder Getaway

And in sheer brilliance of performance, as well as in smoothness and quietness of operation, the new Chevrolet Six is a revelation. An automatic acceleration pump results in remarkably fast acceleration whenever the accelerator is suddenly depressed. And a new high-compression, non-detonating cylinder head eliminates every trace of "lugging"—even when you have occasion to accelerate swiftly in high gear.

6-Cylinder Speed

Naturally, Chevrolet's powerful six-cylinder valve-in-head motor might be expected to provide speed in abundance. But even more important than the speed of the new Chevrolet Six is the smooth, quiet, restful comfort you experience at every point on the speedometer. You can open the throttle wide with a feeling of complete security—and you come to the end of a full day's drive entirely free from the weariness caused by engine noise and body rumble.

6-Cylinder Power

The great reserve power of the new Chevrolet Six is a constant delight. The steepest hills are taken with ease. Heavy roads are negotiated without the necessity for frequent gear-shifting. And even at the higher speeds, there is always that feeling of confidence which comes from the knowledge that additional power is at hand . . . instantly available for whatever need may arise.

Modern Safety Features

The new Chevrolet Six is equipped with every modern safety and convenience feature—typified by a full ball bearing steering mechanism, non-locking 4-wheel brakes with separate emergency brake, foot controlled adjustable two-beam headlights, automatic fuel pump, theft-proof Electrolock, electric motor temperature indicator, and Fisher VV windshield and adjustable driver's seat in all closed models. As a result, it is one of the easiest and safest cars in the world to handle.

Better Than 20 Miles Per Gallon

The marvelous performance of the Chevrolet Six would be considered exceptional in any automobile. But in the new Chevrolet it is nothing short of sensational—for here it is combined with operating economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline. As a result, those who can afford to own any automobile can afford to own and operate a Chevrolet Six!

Exceptional Riding Comfort

Another vital factor that has influenced hundreds of thousands in their selection of the new Chevrolet Six is its exceptional riding comfort. Built on a wheelbase of 107 inches . . . offering the deep-cushioned luxury of bodies by Fisher . . . and with the entire upper structure cradled on four long semi-elliptic shock absorber springs—it travels the roughest highways with amazing comfort. And its balance on turns and curves is equally exceptional—for the rigid frame and the long springs reduce sidesway to the minimum.

Beautiful Fisher Bodies

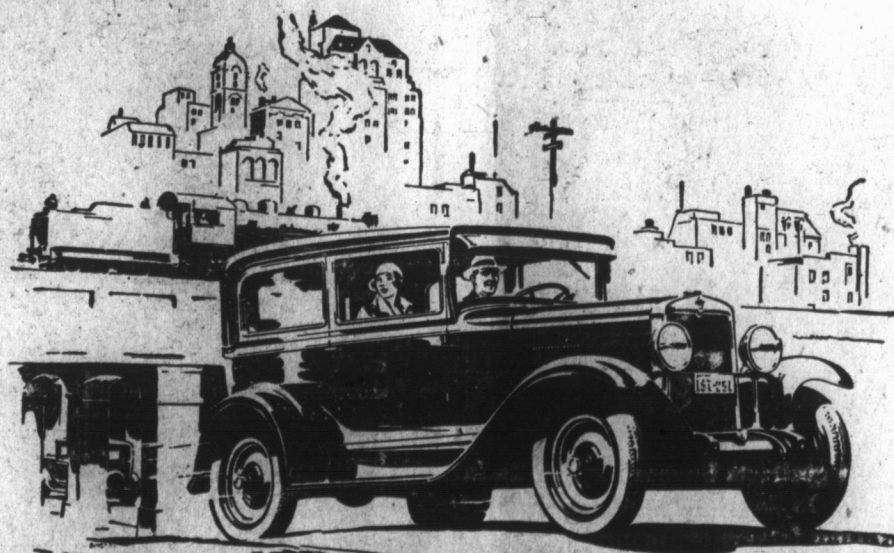

The marvelous bodies on the Chevrolet Six reveal, as never before, the matchless artistry that has made the Fisher name renowned throughout the world for excellence in coachcraft. Longer, lower and roomier . . . finished in attractive, long-lasting colors . . . and upholstered in rich deep-tufted fabrics that give to the interiors an air of custom elegance—they introduce into the low-price field an entirely new measure of style and distinction.

Proved Dependability

Before the new Chevrolet Six was presented to the public, it had been tested for more than a million miles on the roads of the General Motors Proving Ground. Never did a new motor car go into the hands of its owners more thoroughly proved in every detail. And now, reports of its performance on the highways of the nation pay glowing tribute to its endurance and dependability.

Amazingly Low Prices

Many people do not realize that this marvelous new six-cylinder Chevrolet is actually offered in the price range of the four. Compare total delivered prices as well as factory prices when determining automobile values. You will find Chevrolet delivered prices include the lowest handling and financing charges available.

COMMUNITY MOURNS
LOSS OF A. J. McMICHAEL

Old and Revered Citizen Died On March 20, Was Active In Civics and Church Work.

In the sudden death of Alexander James McMichael at his home near Nokesville, on March 20, the community has lost one of its oldest and best beloved citizens.

Mr. McMichael was born in Carnegie, Pa., on March 21, 1851, and moved to Virginia in 1897. He married Miss Mattie Ewing, of his native town in 1878. He was a faithful member of the Greenwich Presbyterian Church and was an elder for many years. His character was a beautiful one, modest, unassuming, gentle, forbearing, loving, forgetful of self in his desire to minister to others. No one could know him and not love him.

He lived with a pleasant smile on his face, a cheerful word always on his lips. In all the relationships of life as devoted husband, wise and loving father and affectionate brother, and a faithful friend, he won the love and respect of a wide family circle, and the esteem of many friends.

"His memory will long be cheerished with sorrow, but also with chastened joy; with sorrow because we shall see his face no more; with joy that he being delivered from the burden of the flesh is in joy and felicity."

He was laid to rest beside his beloved wife, who died 8 years ago, in the beautiful old church yard at Greenwich which was so dear to his heart in life. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. John House; three sons, Ewing, Earle and Laurence McMichael, and 19 living grand children, all of Nokesville.
