VIRGINIA LEADS IN COWS ON TEST

Cows On Test Climbs From 6,276 to 12,204 Last Year.

A recent report issued by the Bureau of Dairying, Washington, shows that Virginia still holds first place among the southern states in the percentage of cows on test in dairy herd improvement associations. According to this report 3.2 per cent of the milk cows in this state are now on test. North Carolina comes second with 1.3 per cent of her cows on test, and Oklahoma is a close third with 1.2 per cent cows on test.

During the past five years the number of dairy herd improvement associations in Virginia has increased from 14 to 20, and the number of cows on test has increased from 6,276 to 12,204. The motto of the members of these herd improvement associations is: "Don't Starve A Good Cow Nor Let A Poor Cow Starve You."

The cows in the herd improvement associations in Virginia last year produced an average of 7,104 pounds of milk and 294.5 pounds of butterfat, whereas the production of the average cow in the state was less than 150 pounds of butterfat.

As a result of herd improvement association work, 77 purebred bulls were purchased and 1,706 unprofitable cows sold.

EGG IS KEYSTONE OF ALL COOKING

Eggs Can Be Easily Prepared
And Make Appetizing Dishes.

Eggs can be cooked in hundreds of ways in a short time with a minimum of advance preparation. As has been said "You can eat em raw, boiled, fried or scrambled—poached, steamed, shirred or scalloped!"

They make exceedingly attractive dishes, delightfully appetizing and extremely nourishing. In fact, whether the average housewife appreciates it or not, the egg is the backbone of her cooking practices. For breakfast, dinner or supper eggs may be prepared in a great variety of ever-changing and attractive dishes ranging all the way from simple boiling, scrambling or shirring through the scalloped eggs and the souffles and ending in the delightful omelets. In cooking most any household dish, eggs play an important part.

As the United States becomes more thickly populated, as we become older in years of experience, we will have to pattern our agricultural and food supply more nearly after conditions that are now prevailing in the intensely populated countries of Continental Europe. History shows us that in all civilized countries, as the population becomes massed together in large urban centers, as the proportion of farmers and producers of food stuffs decrease, as the land area available for live stock production diminishes, a nation must look more and more to the small animal unit as the source of their food supply.

The hen, in view of her adaptation to intensive conditions, has won a most prominent place in European agriculture and the egg has come to fill a most important part of the daily diet of the European. His per capita consumption of eggs in many countries is far ahead of that in the United States and is constantly on the increase.

Every good housewife will serve eggs in one way or another at least once a day during National Egg Week, May 1st to the 7th.

Kenosha, Wis., April 10—Factory shipments in March of 15,384 new Nash "400" Series cars brought an increase in Nash manufacturing and sales records of 44 per cent over the month a year ago, according to announcement made today by sales department officials of the Nash Motors Company.

"Much Water Goeth by the Mill-Wheel That the Miller Knoweth Not of"

"Much water goeth by the mill-wheel that the miller knoweth not of." Likewise, with the non-advertising merchant, much business gets by his store that he knoweth not of.

A good hen lays an egg every day, and every day "tells the world" about it. The farmer appreciates and seeks the hen who advertises, because he knows where to find a perfectly good egg and appreciates the service.

The farmer also appreciates and seeks the store that is constantly advertising good merchandise, because he is benefited and knows where to find good goods.

Store-news bulletins should be worded so as to impress the farmer that you are more anxious to give him value and service, than to merely sell goods.

Get the spirit in advertising, place yourself in the consumers' position, study his desires and needs, appeal to him from his point of view; study the type of customer you wish to reach—the farmer, the artisan, the business man, the professional man, are all distinct types.

This appeal to the human side, or "perspective" manner of advertising can soon be acquired by a little practice and application. This is modern advertising and is the science or secret that the large mailorder concerns employ to secure the business.

There is constant daily-need for merchandise; therefore a constant daily need to advertise.

The millions and hundreds of millions of dollars that get by the merchants of the country each year through mail-order buying, is like the water that leaks by the mill-wheel. This lost business should be furnishing power and energy for the upbuilding of our communities and for promoting the progress and prosperity of our smaller cities, towns and villages.

For The Vegetarian

IT'S a long time since vegetarians have had to vegetate in the country to get their vegetables. Nearly all kinds of these succulent foods are now available ready prepared in cans. But it was not until some fourteen hundred years after Nebuchadnezzar was turned out to grass "like the king" that the Frenchman Nicholas Appert, discovered the process which has enabled vegetarians to become city dwellers.

At the present time there are thirty or forty different kinds of vegetables canned, several combinations and varieties of many of them, and more kinds are being added to the canned menu every year. Some of the principal vegetables which are universally and always available in canned form in this country are artichokes, asparagus, beans, beets, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, corn, hominy, kale, lentils, mushrooms, okra, olives, onions, peas, peppers, pickles, pimientos, potatoes, pumpkin, sauerkraut, spinach, squash, tomatoes, turnips and wholewheat.

A Healthy Diet

Not only can the city dweller get all of the canned vegetables he wants, but he has the assurance of scientists that they are equal in nutritive qualities and superior in vitamin content to fresh vegetables cooked in open receptacles by the usual home methods. This is because canned vegetables are processed in hermetically sealed containers, and the oxygen which attacks their vitamin content is excluded.

TOWN MANAGER SAVES MONEY.

In these days of mounting expenses of living and constant demands upon both the public and private purse, it is as necessary for the success of a municipality that its affairs be conducted on a sound business basis and administered from the viewpoint of a good business man as it is necessary for any private enterprise. For, after all, the town, the city, or the municipality is only a business of a larger scale, requiring the same methods and giving the same profits when needless expenditures are avoided as does the private business.

Although the town manager, Mr. W. F. Cocke, has been in office less than a year, he has accomplished many things for the good of the town despite the handicap of meager funds with which to carry forward work and improvements.

The average cost per month for operating the electric power and light plant of the Town of Manassas for 1928 was $2,082.26. The average cost per month for operating this plant for the three months ended March 31st, this year, was $1,539.70, making an average monthly saving in 1929 of $542.56. At this rate the annual saving will amount to $6,500; more than twice the salary paid the town manager.

In the past years the water department showed an annual deficit which has to be charged against the light department. Since January 1, of the current year, the cost of pumping water has been reduced 60 per cent. It is understood that if plans now being made for further improvement at the pumping station are found practicable the cost of pumping water will be further reduced. If this be true the deficit will finally be wiped out and the town enabled to lower the cost of water to the citizens. Here's hoping. In the mean time keep your eye on the town manager. He is doing things.

SOUTHERN BUSINESS GROWS.

Today there are millions who, being possessed of all the means of information at our command, do not know the tremendous steps the South is making toward her goal of industry supremacy; do not realize the awe-inspiring power still unexploited, still untouched. It seems almost impossible that this should be so; that people who call themselves modern and who live in a world of modern miracles and modern means of knowledge, should go uninformed concerning so great an economic movement, change, renaissance, beneath their very noses.

"For the New South is coming into a power that is startling in scope, in its vastness," says Arthur Coleman in the April issue of Holland's, the Magazine of the South. "It would be startling in a purely industrial and commercial section. Much more amazing is it, then in a region which the people of a nation have come to regard as purely agricultural. One expects other and more commercialized sections of the United States to show gains and growth in industry. And that is why it is so unexpected to learn that, in six years, the annual value of manufactured products in the South increased $567,000,000; while manufactured products values in the remainder of the country, during those same six years, decreased $279,509,000."

The industries of the country are learning that the South offers advantages in such abandon and of such quality as can be found in no other one section of any country. They are discovering that many southern mills can pay a dividend on the annual cost of heating similar establishments in some portions of the country. They are discovering that wages for competent labor are 25 to 40 per cent cheaper than in more congested sections, and that the labor itself is of a higher class. "And the fact that southern taxes are not oppressive," concludes the Coleman article, "is very welcome knowledge to northern industries who are finding it more and more difficult to compete with contemporary institutions in this territory."

What contribution has Manassas made toward this spectacular industrial growth?

POPULAR BELIEF SHATTERED.

Another popular American belief has been all gummed up and stuck in the discard. For 10 these many years the public has assumed that gum chewing originated in this country, but now none other than a leading gum manufacturer declares it's all wrong.

Christopher Columbus himself brought the gum-chewing habit to America in 1492, according to Otto Schnering, president of a company making a popular brand of gum, in a recent address.

"Columbus, in an appeal for funds to finance his expedition, it appears, requested 'as much gold as can be supplied, spices, cotton and chewing gum, also as much aloeswood and as many slaves for the navy as their majesties will wish to demand.'"

Gum chewing was a common form of mastication in the fifteenth century, betel leaves and nuts being used. America, however, doubtless can take credit for the successful exploitation of chicle gum in the world's markets. More than $100,000,000 was spent for chewing gum in this country last year, or ninety cents per capita.

A clean town is a better place in which to live than one that is unsanitary and unsightly. And the best community advertising is the appearance of being "cleaned-up, painted-up and planted-up."

Press CommentSo That's Why.

Atlanta Constitution—The reason Mexican soldiers are always in fighting trim is that their wives accompany them on their marches.

Turn About.

Springfield Union—The Chicago woman who shot at a policeman in mistake for her husband has apologized to the officer for her little error, and now it seems to us that the officer, in all decency and politeness, ought to apologize to her for looking like her husband.

How About Them?

Philadelphia Inquirer—An editor complains that women don't play politics fairly. They won't try to elect candidates on their records as public servants, he says, but drag in prejudices and personalities. Well, he didn't for a moment expect that a Constitutional amendment would change human nature in a decade, did he.

Who Wouldn't?

Ohio State Journal—The average salary of clergymen throughout the United States, a comprehensive survey reveals, is $735, and our pastor says he is beginning to come around to the eminent college professor's view that what this country needs are bigger and better cuss-words.

Marriage Mergers.

Lewis County Herald—One of our sardonic bachelor friends says that marriage is one merger in which few people ever make any money.

Happy Days Ahead.

Houston Post-Dispatch—It will be summer now in a day or two and those who have frozen in the rumble seat will merely sizzle.

Jones-Stalker.

New York Evening World—Senator Jones, of Washington, insists that the law now commonly known by his name alone should be called the Jones-Stalker law, as Representative Stalker, of the Elmira (N. Dad's Quandary.

"How's the family?" inquired Jenks of Bing, his happily married friend from the other side of town.
"Well, my children are at a difficult age just now."
"Difficult? Why, they've all passed the measles and teething age, haven't they?"
"Long ago. But you don't know a father's troubles. My children are at the age where if I use slang my wife says I'm setting a bad example. And if I speak correctly, the kids think I'm a back number. Which would you do?"—Kansas City Star.

Tip for Wives.

"I always encourage my husband to recline in an easy chair and put his feet on top of the radiator."
"Why so?"
"When he goes to bed, there is usually a dollar or so in small change left in the chair."

Successful Party.

Oboe—Joe is a self-made man, is he not?
Sax—Yes, except for the alterations made by his wife and mother-in-law.

Serve Soup in Cups

THE Biblical reference to "blind guides, which strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel" (Matthew, xxiii, 24) is paralleled by the more modern problem of housewife who will not serve soup because she has no soup plates. No one could reasonably ask her or her family to swallow camels—but why not serve the soup in cups?

Arthur Brisbane, famous editor, is responsible for this brilliant suggestion. He recently wrote: "I consider good soup to be the most important item of food on the whole list, and I suggest that housewives be reminded that for children, and for all purposes, the cup is the simplest, most easily handled receptacle for soup."

Every Household Has Them

"Every household has coffee cups or tea cups. They can be pushed aside on the table after the soup is finished, and the rest of the meal can go on, the plate on which the cup rested being the dinner plate. "I think it would be a good thing to let people realize that soup of itself, with bread added, in the soup, or vegetables, potatoes, or other things in the soup, constitutes a complete meal."

All Sorts of Soups

And what a variety of soups are available, already prepared—in cans. There are asparagus and beef soups, beef bouillon, chicken soup, clam broth, clam chowder, consommé, Julienne, mulligatawny, mutton broth, okra, onion, oxtail, oyster, pea, pepper pot purées of beans and celery, plain soup stock, tomato cream, tomato purée, tomato-okra, green turtle, mock turtle, vegetable soup and vermicelli. Just get a can and fill your cups.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR APRIL 14, 1929.

The International Sunday School Lesson for April 14 is "Hezekiah Leads His People Back To God"—II Chronicles 30:1-27.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

On the morning after the inauguration of President Hoover, The New York World reported, in a first-page article, that a religious mood had pervaded the occasion and the capital. That opinion was confirmed by a multitude of us who were present. A sense of something epochal, the beginning of a new era, even of a crisis, was abroad; and it solemnized the feelings of the people. Whenever a nation grows serious, its thoughts turn to God.

Real statesmanship is concerned with the springs and causes of national life. Politicians may handle events and episodes as they arise; but a profounder wisdom is required to deal with the fundamental concerns of a country's character. When the great war came, it sent Canada and the United States throbbing to the churches. I shall never forget a service held by Winnipeg women which I looked in upon one day in 1917. All the mottoes which link "God and Country" are based upon a true understanding of human nature. Hezekiah was playing upon the oldest, surest and deepest chords of Jewish life when, in a dark time of emergency, he called all the people to a revival of the Passover at Jerusalem.

Sounding The Old Slogans.

Men may differ about the tariff and immigration and industrial remedies and national defense and clashing jurisdictions, but they all agree when called back to the ancient loyalties to God and to Country.

Hezekiah did not discuss the division between Judah and Israel; or the many-sided bitterness of the Assyrian oppression; or the disintegrating domestic problems; he set forth the common heritage which made all Jews one people, and the history and Providence which were symbolized by the Passover. On this great theme there could be no disagreement. The King's call stirred the heart hunger of all thoughtful patriots throughout the desolated Land of Promise.

In every human breast there is a chord which vibrates in response to the name of God. Even the most recreant and prodigal soul knows himself to belong to God. Homesickness for heaven is a universal malady. And in their deepest understanding, all men perceive that things can be made right only when people get right with God. The myriads who last month thronged the special Lenten meetings throughout the land were but an earnest of whither the hearts of mankind will turn whenever they hear one clear call to come back to God. Older than all the text-books is the profound philosophy which seeks solution of life's perplexities, and relief from its burdens, by the search for the Eternal.

Old Remedies For New Times.

It keeps an alert man busy to maintain even a catalogue knowledge of the new notions, new sciences, new theories, which arise almost daily in our modern times. One is constrained to caution by recalling how many of these a mature person has seen arrive with a fanfare of trumpets, and depart unnoticed into the discard of oblivion. Throughout all changes and innovations, however, the old stabilities have persisted.

Foolish men write and speak voluniously nowadays about the passing of religion! Some of the accessories and accretions of religion may be falling into disuse, but the great reality itself, which is the soul of man seeking its Creator, was never so manifest as now. Even unspiritual men of affairs are perceiving that the Hezekiah way, the invoking of the oldest remedies in the newest times, is the most practical way out.

When people get back to God they get back to sanity and proportion and order and unselfishness and common helpfulness. In the midst of the exposure of Philadelphia's shame in her police department, the mayor cried out for an old-fashioned revival of religion, to purge the city and to restore the moral stabilities. It is the fundamental faith of millions that what our world needs today, before all else and including all else, is a return to the living God. This is the old remedy for the ills of the new times. Whosoever is promoting vital religion, be he a parent in the home, a teacher in the school, an editor of a newspaper, a preacher in the pulpit or an official in a public office, is functioning most effectively as a patriot.

Will The Jews Come Back?

Anew, in this present time, the Jew has become a problem. All Jewish leaders recognize and discuss this. Many of them acclaim Zionism as the sovereign remedy for the ills of their people. A few others advocate, and a greater number practice, amalgamation with the gentiles. But all students of the Jewish problem know that the answer is the same as that found by Hezekiah—a return to religion. The religion of the American Jew is common knowledge. For the most part, he is entirely outside of synagogue relations. He is losing his most priceless racial heritage, which is the consciousness of loyalty to Jehovah.

A revival of religion in all Jewry would solve the Jewish question. It might restore this still virile people to a place of religious leadership in the world; for it would surely lead them on to an acceptance of their own Messiah, once rejected. Pride of past would become purpose for the present. Spiritual idealism would overlap old barriers. God would once again be recognized as king.

Hezekiah invoked all the venerable inspirations and memories that were enwrapped in the Jews' great memorial feast of the Passover. Every aspect of the feast was inwrought with historic and religious memorials, and calculated to arouse patriotism and piety. The king's call to "turn again!" set the blood to racing faster in every true Hebrew heart.

The Nature Of God.

Everybody does some thinking. Even the most thoughtless young person has periods, unsuspected by critical elders, when he gives thought to the supreme mysteries of personality and destiny and the Deity. This is the greatest truth about mortal, that he is able to think about the Infinite. And what a man thinks about God determines the character of all the rest of his thinking, and of all his conduct.

As he called the far-flung and forlorn and faithless Jews back to Jerusalem for a keeping of the Passover, Hezekiah reminded them of the glorious truth that "the Lord your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn His face away from you, if ye return unto Him". It was as a patient, forgiving Father that the king portrayed God—the conception which breaks the stubborn wills of the wandering, and calls them home to forgiveness. However bad man may be, God is always good.

It was a historic celebration to which the dilapidated streets of poor old Jerusalem resounded, in response to King Hezekiah's call. A spirit of religious ecstasy and patriotic fervor swept over the celebrants. Hearts were deeply moved by the restoration of the rites of the sacred feast. After seven days of joyfulness, another seven days were added. The king's bounty was matched by the liberality of the worshippers. New purposes flamed in all hearts. It was a real revival of religion.

Then the aroused nation went out to effect a religious reformation, destroying idolatry throughout the land. The final proof of a revival is, does it clean up things? Goodness must be synonymous with godliness. A purified community follows God-quickened hearts. That is why the shortest cut to national reform is a revival of true religion, which puts God upon His throne.

BAILEY IS NAMED SANITARY CHEMIST

Will Be Connected With Virginia Stream Survey Under Committee On Stream Pollution.

Harry A. Bailey, of Minneapolis, has been appointed sanitary chemist on stream surveys in Virginia, according to announcement by A. Willis Robertson, chairman of the State committee on stream pollution. Mr. Bailey will report for duty on May 1.

Mr. Bailey was selected from a list of applicants by reason of his peculiar qualification for the important work to be assumed by him. He is a graduate of the University of Kansas. He served for one year as city chemist at Lawrence, Kansas, after which he took charge of the laboratory at the University of Minnesota, maintained by the United States Health Service in connection with the stream pollution investigations of the Mississippi River. Since October, 1927, he has served on the engineering staff of the Metropolitan Drainage Commission of Minneapolis and St. Paul, which body was created for the purpose of ascertaining the pollution of the Mississippi River by the sewage and industrial wastes from the twin cities.

STOP

Borrowing Money From Your Friends

In the first place, no one likes to lend money for which he has worked hard, and which he, perhaps, needs for his own use. Then again, it weakens your business and social prestige, and is about as injurious a habit a young man can possibly cultivate.

Instead of borrowing, use a little judgment, and each month deposit with this safe bank a part of your income. It may come a bit hard at first, but you'll very soon see the wisdom and enjoy the benefit of it.

Dear Sir:

The advancement in State organization and the modification of a number of laws that have prevented large business concerns from entering the State due to an unusual high tax on incorporation is a progressive means of increasing the business of all industries in the State.

In view of changed economic conditions all over the State as well as all over the country, there are many local laws in the county that should be changed, repealed or modified.

Road and School Problems.

There is no greater problem confronting the citizens of this county than the better road movement and our rural school system.

For years this county has floundered in mud in most of its districts and the people have grumbled and mumbled at long distances but have not presented any suggestion that would relieve those conditions.

The fact is not so much that we have no money for this work but what we have is not economically and progressively used. The direction of road funds through the present system of our supervisors coming into office every four years or more is as obsolete as the name the word implies.

It is not my motive to condemn the office holders, but the system under which so many of us are content to struggle along without offering some suggestion that might clarify matters.

Suggests Road Engineers.

The entire county system of roads should be under a competent road engineer, and all funds for road purposes under the engineer's direction. The functions of the supervisor should be that of directing where or on what roads he desires his allotment of road tax and gas tax spent. The supervisor receives no compensation for building roads in his district, therefore, why do we expect to have roads?

CENTRAL MUTUAL TELEPHONE CO., Inc.

Filed March 8th, 1929.

Effective May 1st, 1929.

It would require a very generous and high public-spirited citizen to contribute eight months each year for four years or the full term of the supervisors office to building roads for his county without compensation.

It is true that we have a county superintendent of roads, but not all of the districts avail themselves of his services, therefore, unless we have some law that makes it compulsory for each district to use his experience conditions will not improve.

More Salary For Teachers.

Roads and schools are very closely correlative as without good roads it is almost impossible for small children to reach the rural schools.

The consolidation of schools is a very progressive idea and cannot be accomplished on a very extensive scale without much improvement in roads. The compensation of teachers is too low, and to meet this condition the school tax should be increased far above the five cent tax recently approved by the supervisors. The minimum salary for teachers who are graduates of a recognized college for training of teachers should not be less than $1,500 per year.

HAYMARKET

The Seniors of the Haymarket High School are busy rehearsing their play, "Bashful Mr. Bobbs," a farce-comedy in three acts, which will be presented at the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening, April 24. The play is being directed and produced by Mrs. Meade. The Good Housekeeping Club will meet with Mrs. T. Otis Latham on Thursday afternoon, April 25.

The offering at St. Paul's Episcopal Church on Easter Sunday was about $200. Of this amount $142, which included the Sunday School offering, was applied to the nation-wide pledge of Church program.

THE RECORD BREAKING NEW NASH "400"

All these features.. All this extra equipment
... at no extra cost!

The new features and equipment of the Nash "400" have added hundreds of dollars of actual, visible worth to this famous motor car.

They have added an incalculable measure of enjoyment to Nash ownership.

Yet they have added nothing to Nash price.

At no extra cost, you have the Twin Ignition motor, the year's outstanding motor-improvement (more power, more speed, less gasoline).

You have costly car interior finishes, Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubrication, Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers, bumpers front and rear, even a spare tire lock.

Equipment: which other dealers (not Nash dealers) charge extra for, at retail prices, is included in every Nash "400" model, as it comes from the factory, at no extra cost.
