

TOWN TO OPEN
EQUIPMENT BIDSBids On Fire Apparatus Will Be Opened At Meeting On Monday Night.

Bids are being received by the Corporation of Manassas on modern equipment for the Fire Department and these will be opened in the presence of the Town Council on Monday night.

It has been learned that some seven or eight manufacturers or distributors of fire equipment have submitted bids on the specifications sent out by the town manager several weeks ago.

While it is hardly thought that the Council will make an award of a contract on Monday night, it is believed that there will be a free discussion of many of the bids, and it is expected that representatives of the bidding companies will be given an opportunity to say something on behalf of their equipment.

Several representatives have been in town calling on members of the fire department, and some of them have called upon members of the town council with illustrations of apparatus and other data on fire equipment. Several of the council have been making a close study of the numerous types of apparatus in an endeavor to determine which is best suited to the needs of Manassas, and when the time comes to award a contract they will be able to approach the matter intelligently.

DOG QUARANTINE
MUST CONTINUEBoard of Supervisors Extends
Time For Confining Dogs
Thirty Days.

Dogs in the Manassas District which have been confined for thirty days from March 26, by order of the Supervisors of Prince William County, must be continued confined for another thirty days, according to a vote of the Supervisors at Tuesday's meeting. This action of extending the time for another thirty days followed a discussion of the situation with regard to rabies in the county. While it was not believed that there were at this time any mad dogs in the community, it was deemed best, in view of the fact that the mad dog which ran amuck last month covered so much territory to continue the quarantine in the interest of safety.

IMPROVED ROAD
FOR CATLETTRoad From Nokesville to Catlett
To Be Improved.SUPERVISORS VOTE
IMPROVEMENT FUNDSPrince William Citizens Raise $2,200
Which Is Matched by Supervisors.

With the action on Tuesday of the Board of Supervisors of Prince William County in appropriating $2,250 for the purpose of improving the highway leading from Catlett to Nokesville, the machinery was set in motion for the construction of an improved highway on one of the worst stretches of road in the county.

While the action of the supervisors does not make it possible to start work on the highway at once, it is believed that all obstructions now holding up the project will shortly be removed.

Citizens Contribute Funds.

Recently a petition was circulated in the Brentsville district and in the town of Manassas asking that this road work be started, and at the same time residents along the route, in Nokesville and Manassas merchants were asked to subscribe to a fund to be used as a part of the construction cost. Prince William people subscribed $2,250, and residents of Fauquier County subscribed a like amount.

On Tuesday the Board of Supervisors of this county were urged to match the amount subscribed by Prince William, which they did, after a great deal of discussion and considerable opposition.

The Prince William Supervisors in appropriating the $2,250 did so with the proviso that the county and citizens of Fauquier County shall construct that portion of the road as is in that county. It was further provided that $1,125 of the sum appropriated shall be charged to the one-cent gas tax fund, and the other $1,125 to be charged to the Brentsville District Road Fund.

Money Appropriated Conditionally.

None of this money shall be available until Fauquier County shall have made a definite appropriation for the end of the road in that county. However, as it was stated that the neighboring county had promised to make such an appropriation and as the citizens have already subscribed to a special fund, it is not believed that there will be much delay in getting the work started.

Before adjournment of the meeting routine business was transacted which included the examination of certain accounts most of which were approved and warrants were ordered drawn on the County Treasurer, in payment of the same. The miscellaneous bills were ordered paid from the County fund, while work for roads was paid out of the road funds of the districts of Gainesville, Coles, Occoquan and Manassas.

PROPER STEPS
NEEDED TO VOTEPromise To Support Ticket Does
Not Transform Republican
Into Democrat.ATTORNEY GENERAL
ANSWERS MAPP QUERYMapp, a Gubernatorial Candidate,
Asks Whether Former Republicans
Can Vote In Democratic Party.

Former republicans who are willing to pledge themselves to support the nominee in the November election cannot take part in the Democratic primary, according to the ruling of Attorney General Saunders, in response to a query from G. Walter Mapp, gubernatorial candidate.

Colonel Saunders did not say, in his reply to Mr. Mapp, just what constitutes "the proper steps" for any one desirous of joining the Democratic party. His reply to Mr. Mapp, in part, follows:

Section 228 of the Code provides, in part:

"All persons qualified to vote at the election for which the primary is held, and not disqualified by reasons of other requirements in the law of the party to which he belongs, may vote at the primary; except that:

"No person shall vote for the candidate of more than one party;

"No person shall be permitted to vote for the candidates of any party in any primary unless such person is a member of such party and in the last preceding general election, in which such person participated, he or she voted for the nominees of such party; and, upon challenge, such person shall declare on oath that he or she is a member of such party and supported such nominees as hereinbefore required before being permitted to vote."

The law of the party on this subject is found in the plan of organization of the Democratic party in the State of Virginia adopted by the Norfolk convention on June 11, 1924. It provides, in part, as follows:

"No person shall be permitted to vote unless such person is a member of the Democratic party and at the last preceding general election in which such person participated voted for the nominees of the Democratic party; provided, further, that if he did not vote at such general election then upon his declaration that he will support at the ensuing election the nominees of the party, he shall be allowed to vote. When challenged, he shall make his declaration on oath."

A Republican, of course, is not a member of the Democratic party, and, therefore, cannot be permitted to vote in a Democratic primary. I am not sure that I understand just what is meant by the words "former Republicans," as employed in your question. They would seem to indicate that such persons had previously voted the Republican ticket.

There is nothing to prevent a former Republican from becoming a member of the Democratic party, if he takes the proper steps to do so, but, until a former Republican or a former member of any political party becomes a member of the Democratic party, he is not, in my opinion, entitled to vote in a Democratic primary.

If you will be more specific in your question, I shall be glad to further advise you."

BIG STILL TAKEN
BY COUNTY OFFICERSOne Hundred Gallons Whiskey,
A Lot of Mash and Apparatus
Seized by Sheriff.

Headed by Sheriff J. P. Kerlin, officers swooped down on a still in full operation near Nokesville last Friday and seized the still, whiskey stored nearby, and about 500 gallons of mash.

The still was in a section where the land was hilly, and full of underbrush, and when the officers advanced warning was given the illicit manufacturer who scurried in every direction and thwarting the efforts of the officers to overtake them, made a getaway.

This is one of the largest seizures in many months and the sheriff was assisted in his work by Officers M. A. Lynch and W. E. Partlow. The location of the still gave evidence of being one of the chief sources of supply for rum runners operating out of the lower section of the county.

ATHLETIC GUIDE
U. OF VA. RESIGNSD. E. Brown, Graduate Manager of Athletics, Offers Resignation
Which Is Accepted.

The resignation of David Ellis Brown as graduate manager of athletics in the University of Virginia has been tendered the executive board of the athletic association, and has been accepted, it was announced today, says a dispatch in the Washington Evening Star.

Brown took up his duties as graduate manager on May 15, 1922. His resignation is to take effect at the end of his seventh year of service at the middle of next month, but he has been requested by the athletic board to continue in office during the summer until his successor has been appointed.

Bolsters Athletic Scope.

Under the direction of Brown, the scope of athletics at the university has so broadened that there are now more men out for the squads of varsity and first-year teams than were enrolled in the university 20 years ago. During the current season there have been 19 teams in intercollegiate competition, almost double the number that were the Orange and Blue when Brown took office.

Boxing has been developed as an intercollegiate sport, not only at Virginia, but throughout the South, largely due to the activities of Brown. Brown, whose home is in Huntington, W. Va., graduated in geology in June, 1922, a month after he accepted the position he has held for seven years. He has resigned to enter the wholesale coal business. He will maintain headquarters in Charlottesville.

Several Other Changes.

The resignation of Brown comes just at a time when there have been several changes in the athletic staff at the university. Last Fall, Earle Neale, coach of football and baseball since 1923, asked to be released from his contract to become assistant manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. Earl Abell, head coach at College, was named as his successor.

Early this year the athletic council, in co-operation with university authorities, established the position of director of athletics. This has not been filled, but an appointment will probably be made at the next meeting of the board of visitors.

Manassas Kiwanis Club will journey to Bethel School House on Friday evening where they will be the guests of the ladies of the Occoquan District, at a supper and entertainment. The Kiwanis committee on the road project between Manassas and Stone House reported that plans were progressing and the date upon which the citizens of the communities through which the road passes will be called upon to assist in its construction will be announced shortly.

SAUNDERS FIRST
TO FILE CANDIDACYAttorney General Pays Entrance
Fee For Primary Next August.

Attorney General John R. Saunders is the first of the candidates in the Democratic primary of next August to pay his entrance fee to State Treasurer John M. Purcell.

Colonel Saunders paid the fee on Monday. Each candidate must pay an amount equal to 2 per cent of the annual salary, attached to the office he seeks, this being $120 in the attorney general's case.

The only other step needed is for the candidate to file with the chairman of the State Democratic Central Committee a list of 250 qualified voters, together with a receipt from the State treasurer saying that the necessary fee has been paid.

If no opposition develops in the primary, the fee is refunded, or if the candidate withdraws from the race, he gets his money back. If he is opposed in the primary, however, the treasurer keeps the fee, and it goes to the literary fund.

MANASSAS FIRE
DEPARTMENT NEWSInteresting Meeting Held On Monday Night. Department
Making Great Progress.

The Manassas Fire Department held its regular monthly meeting in the Fire House on Monday night with Chief Albert Speiden presiding.

Following the routine business and the reports of special committees on local fire hazards and how best to fight fire in the event of a conflagration in any of these buildings, a discussion of various classes of fire apparatus was held.

During the evening an interesting talk on fire equipment was given by a representative of the American-LaFrance Fire Engine Company, who described the various kinds of pumps in use on engines as well as the types of equipment which numerous manufacturers of standard apparatus made.

The committee which had been working with W. F. Cooke, town manager, in an examination of fire-fighting apparatus in use in the departments in other towns in Virginia explained that the result of their findings would be found embodied in specifications which had been sent out by the Corporation of Manassas calling for bids on equipment.

The tablet, which is 18 by 36 inches, will be erected on the west wall of the Marshall House. The ceremonies incident to the unveiling will take place immediately following the annual memorial exercises at the Confederate Monument at Washington and Prince Streets, which are to be held at 6 o'clock. Teams in the 15-year-old class desiring games with the Manassas Juniors should communicate with Arthur Sinclair, Manassas.

Recall the scene. A New Oakland All-American Six. Making its bow to the public. Setting everyone talking. About its distinctive beauty... about its original design... And now you see it here... there... everywhere you go. Other cars have appeared in bewildering succession.

But the distinction of the All-American continues... unaffected. It's as new and refreshingly different today as it was when introduced... Like a good friend... it grows on you... impressing you more favorably with every passing week. The better you know it the more you will respect the New Oakland All-American Six.

SANITATION IS HEALTH SAVER

The Master Plumber of Today
Is a Sanitary Engineer.

Before the advent of modern plumbing, which in a sense means before the advent of comfort and cleanliness, yellow fever and small pox were frequent callers, and for centuries cholera boldly strode the highways and byways claiming countless victims.

Now all is changed. Where sanitation rules, cholera is no more, and in the past 30 years the death toll from typhoid fever has decreased from 30,000 to 7,000 yearly. Give credit to the science of medicine—indeed, too much praise cannot be given—but bear in mind that the theory and practice of medicine use plumbing and the aid it brings as a primary tool. Modern plumbing, with its scientifically designed drainage systems, sewage disposal plants, and water delivered at the faucet at a wide range of temperature has been the principal factor in making the world a good place to live in.

Statistics prove that in homes into which the water must be carried, the infant mortality rate is appalling—20 per cent, in fact. Contrast that with the showing of dwellings completely equipped with the science of good plumbing where but a per cent of the babies are lost. Seventeen out of every 100 lives are saved to the community through the plumber and his modernizing art.

Verily, good plumbing is a science, art, and trade rolled into one. The master plumber of today is a sanitary engineer, keenly alive to and interested in municipal progress and constantly striving to safeguard the public's interest.

"Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth a new nation," a nation that was to lead the world in all things. Great were our natural resources, but can we attribute all our achievements to this? No! From the founding of this nation, we have led the world in sanitation and through sanitation have come comfort, health, ambition, efficiency and happiness. With these things as a birthright, can any nation fail to go far? In Japan, where everybody takes a bath daily and apologizes for not taking two, progress moves at a rapid pace. In Russia, where millions live their lives practically without bathing, there is stagnation, poverty and misery. It cannot be denied that "where sanitation is a stranger, sickness is a frequent visitor."

People who are sanitary are healthy, and healthy people are sound, safe and sane. "Dirt does not grow out of poverty, poverty grows out of dirt."

Last, but not least, ample and convenient toilet and bathing facilities add more charm to the home than any other feature of the modern building. In addition to protecting health, they represent a profitable monetary investment, enhance sales values, add to rental values, and in every sense fulfill the master plumbers' assertion that "We Make Homes Out of Houses."

NOKESVILLE SALE PROVES SUCCESS

Brentsville District Community
League Sponsors First Surplus Property Sale.

The surplus property sale, held under the auspices of the Brentsville District Community League last Thursday, proved successful in every way, and about $700 worth of machinery, livestock, produce and other things were sold. Will Kerlin gave his services as auctioneer, and practically all sales made were for cash.

This was the first sale of this kind conducted by a community league within the county, and the response of the public to the innovation was such a source of encouragement to those who managed the affair that it is believed that a surplus property sale will become an annual affair in the Brentsville District.

RELIGIOUS SIGNS STIR COMMENT

Mottoes of Warning Are Sent to
H. G. Shirley, State Highway Commissioner.

An envelope, postmarked Petersburg, containing no signature but bearing on the flap the words: "An important question, 'Where will you spend eternity?' was received yesterday by Henry G. Shirley, State highway commissioner. Saturday Mr. Shirley said he wished the Highway Department could do away with the so-called religious signs along Virginia highways.

Pamphlets entitled "Where Will You Spend Eternity?" "Prepare to Meet Your God," "Thou Fool" and "You Are the One" were enclosed in the envelope.

Many Commend Shirley.
All day Sunday Mr. Shirley received telephone calls at his home commending his statement. However, a few protests were also made. The matter was brought up Saturday by the receipt by Mr. Shirley of a letter from an Ohio citizen, protesting against the signs.

A letter was received yesterday from Mrs. Kathryn L. Walden, of Washington, a colonel of the Bethlehem Relief and Welfare Association, commending the Ohio citizen's letter. She said she agreed with the Ohio man and that the signs are disagreeable to the majority of tourists.

PAY YOUR POLL TAX!

Under the Constitution of Virginia, the payment of poll taxes is a prerequisite to voting. Unless a citizen has discharged this obligation to the government, he or she may not participate in any election. Wise or unwise, the provision stands, and must be complied with if a Virginian is to exercise the privilege of the ballot, says the Richmond Times Dispatch.

The law is that, as a prerequisite to voting, the poll tax for the year preceding must have been paid at least six months prior to the general election, whether that be held in June or November. The last day of grace in 1929 is May 5. The citizen who has not qualified in this respect by that time is ineligible for participation either in the primary or the subsequent free-for-all contest.

In order to take part in elections in Virginia, under a new provision of the Constitution, one must have been a resident of the state at least one year, the required length of residence used to be two years. The first voter either the newcomer or the citizen just becoming of age, is asked to produce just one poll-tax receipt—the receipt which shows that he or she has paid for the preceding year; the older citizen, if he or she has resided in Virginia two years, is required to prove that the tax has been paid for this period; all others must be prepared to establish the fact that this obligation has been met for the last three years.

In a democracy no greater duty is laid upon the citizen than that of voting. The government is no better or no worse than it is made by those who live under it. They are responsible for the course it takes. It is their government, to do with as they please through the ballot. It is conceivable that in a democracy the least informed element will rule; that will be the case, certainly, if the higher stratum of society fails to express its will at the polls. Therefore, it becomes the duty of every right-minded citizen, in the interest of good government and the advancement of mankind, to exercise at all times the privilege of the ballot, else democracy itself is likely to fail.

The elections in Virginia this year are of tremendous importance, both from a party and state standpoint. If you are interested in Democracy, you should be prepared to vote; if your interest lies in Republicanism, you should be prepared to vote; if you are concerned with continued good government in Virginia, you should be prepared to vote. See to it at once, in order that there can be no mistake, that the poll-tax requirements are met.

BEWARE OF TIPSTER SHEETS.

In a recent issue of Harper's Magazine, Paul Tomlinson warns prospective investors against tipster sheets. These sheets are circulated as an advisory service under a camouflage of unbiased opinion. They suggest purchase of "sure-shot" stocks. They are not to be confused with investment information sent out by responsible bankers and brokers.

The National Better Business Bureau estimates that tipster sheet circulation is nearly 15 million. They do not deal with the type of stocks listed on the big exchanges, but promote issues which are not known in high class investment circles.

The cure for this evil is knowledge on the part of the investing public. Get-rich-quick schemes defraud thousands of people of millions of dollars a year.

Legitimate brokers and bankers will give anyone scientific market advice. The large exchanges, by investigating stock issues before listing them, and auditing their member brokerage houses, do everything in their power to protect the investor. And the public should turn a cold shoulder to tipster sheets and all the other blandishments of the "sure thing" promoter. Consult your banker.

A WORD TO MERCHANTS.

Henry Ford, General Motors, and the largest advertising specialists in the country have publicly recognized the weekly newspaper as the most intensive advertising medium in existence.

They have determined that weekly newspapers are read by more people than any other type of publication and that it is the home paper that is religiously read by every member of the family.

Analyzing local conditions from this viewpoint, it will be found that The Manassas Journal prints more papers than there are homes in Prince William County, while the city papers go into a very much smaller number of homes in the county. The logical conclusion must be that if you want to reach all the people of Prince William County, use the columns of The Journal.

NEW SIZE BILLS WILL COST LESS

New Bills Will Save Enough Paper Annually to Cover 1,000 Acres.

Washington, April 24.—J. W. Pole, comptroller of the currency, declared in a radio address recently that reduction in the size of paper money which the government expects to put into effect in July will save the government enough paper annually to cover 1,000 acres.

The comptroller said the abbreviated currency will be more artistic than that formerly used, more convenient and more difficult to counterfeit.

"With the present outstanding paper circulation of about $5,000,000,000 for which there must eventually be substituted a like amount of new currency in the reduced size," he said, "it will be realized that the treasury has a gigantic task to perform."

He explained that for a time both sizes of currency will be in use until the larger paper money is retired. New currency in denominations above $20 will not be issued, he said, until later.

Since portraits on all notes of the same denomination will be the same, the comptroller declared this would help prevent counterfeiting. One dollar notes will bear the portrait of Washington, and $10 notes that of Hamilton.

To protest yourself against raised notes or mistakes in denominations you should bear in mind these portraits," he urged.

Referring to the amount of currency printed by the treasury he said the notes printed annually, if laid on top of each other, would make 555 stacks, each as high as the Washington monument.

ACADEMY OF SCIENCE
WILL MEET IN STAUNTON

The seventh annual meeting of the Virginia Academy of Science will be held in Staunton on May 10 and 11, with Staunton Military Academy playing the part of host. This is the first time in the history of the academy that it has held a meeting with a preparatory school. Last year's meeting was held at Williamsburg with the college of William and Mary.

Judging from present indications the Staunton meeting will be one of the best attended and most interesting meetings in the history of the Virginia academy. There are at present 500 members, among whom are found many of this country's most eminent scientists.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR APRIL 28, 1929.

The International Sunday School Lesson for April 28 is, "The Suffering Servant of Jehovah"—Isaiah 53:1-12.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

High on the horizon of lower Mesopotamia rises the ruined ziggurat of ancient Ur of the Chaldees. It is the first sight to greet the eye of the modern traveler approaching across the flat alluvial plain, even as it was the last sight which departing Abraham looked upon, as he journeyed away from Ur, four thousand years ago. Climbing its height, I felt as if that sentinel tower of worship, that man-made mountain, bridged all the history of the world.

In like fashion, as today, I climb another lofty peak, this time of literature, it seems as if the Fifty-third Chapter of the Prophecy of Isaiah, reared five hundred years before the birth of Christ, is the very apex of human thought and spiritual vision; the topmost point reached by all the writers of antiquity. In this masterpiece of literature and of religion, Isaiah rose to nobler heights than any other seer of the ages. This is the peak of prophecy; the pinnacle of precision. In majesty of content and in sheer beauty of form, this greatest passage from the greatest of the Hebrew prophets, is simply matchless.

Let this paenagoric seem exaggerated, let us read the text itself, so much more significant than any comment. The quotation is from the American Revised Version:— "Who hath believed our message? and to whom hath the arm of Jehovah been revealed? For he grew up before him as a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground; he hath no form nor comeliness; and when we see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him. He was despised, and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief; and as one from whom men hide their faces he was despised; and we esteemed him not."

"Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows; yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted. But he was wounded for our transgressions; he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and Jehovah hath laid on him the iniquity of us all."

"He was oppressed, yet when he was afflicted he opened not his mouth; as a lamb that is led to the slaughter, and as a sheep that before its shearers is dumb, so he opened not his mouth. By oppression and judgment he was taken away; and as for his generation, who among them considered that he was cut off out of the land of the living for the transgression of my people to whom the stroke was due? And they made his grave with the wicked, and with a rich man in his death; although he had done no violence, neither was any deceit in his mouth."

"Yet it pleased Jehovah to bruise him; he hath put him to grief; when thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin, he shall see his seed, he shall prolong his days, and the pleasure of Jehovah shall prosper in his hand. He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied; by the knowledge of himself shall my righteous servant justify many; and he shall bear their iniquities. Therefore will I divide him a portion with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the strong; because he poured out his soul unto death, and was numbered with the transgressors; yet he bare the sin of many, and made intercession for the transgressors."

The Tie That Binds Human Hearts. That portrait of the Suffering Servant is, next to the Twenty-third Psalm, the most-thumbed passage in the Old Testament. Two reasons there are for this. It is the clearest and most faithful portrayal of Jesus Christ, the Saviour, to be found in all prophecy. Isaiah's description of the Suffering Servant fits only one character; Jesus the Crucified. Until read in the light of His life and death the passage was hardly understandable.

Second of the reasons for the hold of this portion of Isaiah's prophecy upon human hearts is that it deals with the mystery of grief. In the fellowship of sorrow, all men know their common identity. By the light of these words we perceive how vain was the common expectation of the Messiah as a prince of pride and pomp and power. Such a one might command cold allegiance; but the Man of Sorrows evokes our love and fellowship. Every heart is most easily approached through the avenue of its suffering; and here we find the Saviour bearing our griefs and carrying our sorrows.

There is a heart-sob in almost every line of this peerless passage—"despised," "rejected," "man of sorrows," "acquainted with grief," "wounded," "bruised," "stripes," "oppressed," "afflicted," and so forth. By a wondrous witchery of words the heart-strings of the reader are wrenched. Uncounted tears have fallen upon this chapter from the eyes of readers. "Every heart knoweth its own bitterness"; but here is One who knows the bitterness of all.

So it is this inspired delineation of the Suffering Saviour that is the summit of Old Testament literature. Always and everywhere, men want a friend who understands them; who will bear their griefs and carry their sorrows. To One who pours out His soul unto death for them they will give loving loyalty and discipleship. It is the broken heart of Christ that breaks hearts. "By His knowledge of Himself shall my righteous servant make many righteous," as the marginal reading runs.

Twenty-five hundred years before our modern literature of smug smartness and sophistication began to pour from the presses, great Isaiah sounded this sublime strain of vicarious suffering, which makes our petty postings about personality and "self-expression" seem small and unworthy. He glimpsed the deeper truth that all life reaches its greatest height when it serves and sacrifices in behalf of others. Out of the phenomena of parenthood, of nature, of heroism, of friendship, of the very Divine Nature itself, he plucked this teaching of the greatness of the Sufferer who bears sins and sorrows not His own that He may serve supremely.

That is the eternal Cross-principle of life. No human soul ever attains spiritual greatness without vicariousness. The truest patriot is he who bears on his heart the needs of his nation. The only effective social reformer is the one whose spirit is weighted with the woes of his fellow men. Motherhood is real only when the mother subordinates self to her child. God is most greatly God when He gives His Son to a Cross for the world's salvation.

So the Higher Law of vicariousness, which broods like the Spirit of God over all lesser laws and principles—the Law which penetrates into and reveals the very mystery of the Divine Nature—is the central truth of this message from Israel's foremost prophet. Man lives by noblest rule when he ascends into the selfless realm of service and sacrifice for others. All trifling talk about "personal liberty" shrivels into insignificance in the presence of this redemption truth. Beneath the surge and sob of these sublime words from Israel's ancient seer we can hear the pleading voice of the Victim—Victor Whom they foreshadow, crying "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

TYPHOID FEVER IS EXPENSIVE LUXURY

Richmond, April 25.—On February 8, this year, Governor Roosevelt signed a bill which permits a New York town of about 20,000 inhabitants to issue $350,000 of bonds to pay the damages and costs growing out of a typhoid epidemic in the town last summer. Adding $17,500 to the per capita bonded debt of a city is a high price to pay for neglect.

This is the basis for an argument that Dr. Ennion G. Williams, State Health Commissioner, is using with the governing authorities of incorporated towns in the State. The General Assembly, of 1924, passed an act which gives town authorities the right to sanitize their own area and all territory within a half-mile radius of the town. As Dr. Williams tells the town mayors, that the right to sanitize implies the duty to sanitize, and that failure to perform this duty may subject the town to suits for damages in the event that typhoid fever or other filth-borne disease occurs as the result for failure to sanitize.

The object of this suit is to quiet and establish the joint title of the complainants, Charles C. Lynn and Mary Neville Lynn, to three parcels of land situate at and near Groveton, in Manassas Magisterial District, Prince William County, Virginia, the first containing 50 acres, and having been allotted to Lucinda M. Dogan as a part of her dower, and the second and third containing 35 acres and 12 acres, respectively, and having been allotted to Medora L. Dogan in fee in the division of the real estate of which William Henry Dogan, Sr., died seized in the year 1854; to have the Court declare and decree that the said complainants are the sole owners in fee simple of said three parcels of land and that the defendants are barred to all right to and interest in said three parcels of land and every portion thereof, or, in the event that the Court may consider that the complainants are not entitled to this specific relief, then to have the Court ascertain the respective interests of our complainants and the defendants in said three parcels of land and decree that said three parcels of land be sold and the proceeds of sale divided amongst the parties thereto entitled, and for general relief.

It is therefore ordered that the said defendants, Middleton S. Ennis, Virginia Ennis Hofmann and Otto R. Hofmann, appear here within ten days after due publication hereof, and do what is necessary to protect their interests in this suit. It is further ordered that a copy of this order be published once a week for four successive weeks in the Manassas Journal, a newspaper printed and published in the County of Prince William, Virginia; that a copy be sent by registered mail by the Clerk of this Court, addressed to the said defendants at 5006 Elmer Avenue, Baltimore, Maryland; that copy be posted by the said clerk at the front door of the court house of this County on or before the next succeeding rule day after this order of publication is entered; and that the said Clerk shall certify to this Court that the said copies have been posted and mailed as hereinbefore directed.

22% MORE POWER
5 MILES AN HOUR MORE SPEED

2 EXTRA MILES FROM EVERY GALLON OF GAS

UNTIL you have driven the new Nash "400" with the Twin Ignition motor, you can have no adequate idea of how much pleasure it has added to motoring.

Here are some plain, unvarnished facts and figures which may serve to convince you that you owe yourself a ride in a Twin-Ignition-Motored Nash.

With Twin Ignition instead of single ignition (two spark plugs per cylinder firing simultaneously, instead of one) higher compression is practical, and a much more efficient combustion of the gases is accomplished.

The result is that the identical Nash motor, by actual test, produces 22% more power than with single ignition, 5 miles per hour more speed, and gives you 2 extra miles of travel from every single gallon of gasoline you buy.

In fairness to yourself, don't buy any car today, until you have seen and driven the brilliant new Twin-Ignition-Motored Nash "400."

THINGS OF THE SOIL

The Manassas Journal's Complete Agricultural Service

By DAN VAN GORDER

Questions of lawns, gardens and general farming are discussed in this department each week. Readers of The Manassas Journal are invited to use this new column for the answer to their question and the solution of their problems. Address all inquiries to The Manassas Journal Information Bureau, Van Gorder News Service, Manassas, Virginia.

OUR ANNUAL EROSION BILL

Twenty-one times more plant food is removed from the farms of America each year by erosion than is taken off in crops harvested, states Hugh Hammond Bennett, of the department of agriculture, in a startling report on the crisis of erosion faced by the land owners of this country.

Translating the soil losses from running water into material terms, Mr. Bennett says that two-ton trucks operating night and day passing a given point at the rate of one every second, could remove slightly more than one-ninth of the tremendous amount of rich surface soil that is carried down the rivers of the United States every year. In actual tons this is estimated at 513 million each year.

Two major causes are cited as responsible for this annual drain that is one of the nation's most acute and perhaps least recognized problems. They are: surface cultivation of areas too steep for crop farming; and removal of forests from areas that are unfirm for any other purpose than tree production.

Besides the direct loss resulting from plant food that is carried away from the farms by this process of erosion, the menace of floods is added to the dangers of continued forest removal and cultivation of steep and sloping lands. Soil carried into the river channels creates more shallow basins which overflow easily in periods of heavy rainfall. Then too, the decreased humus supply in the soil of denuded forest land throws the rainfall into the streams instead of holding it in the soil as in former years. No national study of flood problems can be divorced from the American farm problem of increased erosion and mutilated forests.

"This loss," writes Mr. Bennett, "we have failed to stress in our land inventories. We have stressed, and rightly, the unwisdom of soil depletion by continuous cropping, yet we have remained blind to the more serious problem of lost plant food through erosion. In a soil depleted of one or more of the plant food elements essential to plant growth, it is usually possible to supply this in the form of fertilizer. But when soils have been washed away the use of fertilizer is not effective. Measured on the basis of chemical analysis, the value of the phosphorus, potassium, and nitrogen contained in the material washed from the American farms each year would cost something in excess of two billion dollars if purchased at current market prices for the cheapest carriers of these three essential plant foods."

There are three outstanding methods by which this annual loss can be reduced. These are by mechanical means such as terracing, contour plowing and similar farm practices; permanent pasturing or fruit growing and pasturing prove impractical or unprofitable.

Terracing of hill land is becoming more popular each year. Owners are finding that terraces not only conserve the soil from washing, but causes the water supplies to soak into the ground and thereby add to the crop growth. It also retains the humus from leaching into the streams that drain from the soil.

Permanent pastures have been proved throughout centuries among hill farmers of the world as the most practical industry on steep lands. By this method Swiss farmers have been enabled to maintain heavy carrying capacity pastures on the steep mountain sides of their inhospitable lands. Lime applications with added plant food in the form of phosphoric acid or top dressings of stable manure will provide a permanent pasture growth that will not only prove sufficient to check the erosion that would otherwise result, but will furnish one of the most profitable sources of farm income.

Fruit growing is peculiarly adapted to hill regions, and has been the basis of some of our most progressive agriculture in many hill and rolling sections. Slopes that would be endangered by surface cultivation often are found to be superior for fruit production purposes.

With the continued shortage of lumber and other forest products facing the United States, "further delay in forest reclamation is a crime against posterity," says R. Y. Stuart, of the U. S. Forestry Department. Coupled with the economic demand for increasing our forests is the greater necessity of using forests to check our huge annual drain of soils by erosion.

These conditions are not of the future. We are facing them now. It is a situation that commands the interest of every farmer, banker, groceryman, minister, teacher, craftsman, every resident city and rural, in the United States. On the correction of this condition the future success of the American farm largely depends.

Carelessness has been a predominant cause of the problem. Ignorance of the dangers has complicated and hastened the condition. Care and education must be the necessary steps back. In this every newspaper, pulpit and citizen shares a full responsibility.

These observations may be preachings, but regrettably it is remembered that almost all economic progress in this country has been preceded and accompanied with certain amounts of preachings.

What is our soil worth to us? The answer gauges the importance of its conservation.

DISTRICT 'H' CONFERENCE OVER

Many Educators Gather at Leesburg For Conference of Teachers From Seven Counties.

The annual conference of "District H" of the Virginia Educational Association, was held in Leesburg on Friday and Saturday and was largely attended by teachers from the seven counties which make up the group.

The principal address at the general session was made by Harris Hart, state superintendent of public education, who stressed the importance of rural school education. Other key speakers were William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education; Dr. William R. Smith, University of Virginia; Dr. William H. Dudley, of Yale University, and others.

Speakers in the group meetings were Miss Lulu Metz, of the Manassas School, and Miss Ruth Cooke, Prince William rural supervisor, and other teachers from the county took part in various grade discussions.

Miss Osbourn, principal of Manassas High School, and the following teachers attended the sessions: Miss Lulu Metz, Miss Grammar, Miss Halle, Miss Lacy, Miss Johnson, Miss Grace Metz and Mrs. Pullen, while Richard C. Haydon, county superintendent, and Miss Ruth Cooke, rural supervisor, were also present.

SAFETY OF INSANE NOW ASSURED

Credit Is Due To Foresight of Present State Administration.

Virginia's state hospitals for the insane at present house 7,000 patients, according to Frank Bane, state commissioner of public welfare. The great number of the state's insane, the bare fact that they constitute a population as large as that of some of our cities, is sufficiently startling to direct public attention to a problem of magnitude. But even more so is Mr. Bane's accompanying declaration that there are only nineteen doctors and fifteen registered nurses to care for these 7,000 patients.

Mr. Bane believes, perhaps too optimistically, that lunacy will yield to treatment just as easily as tuberculosis, which but a few decades ago was considered an incurable malady. The field simply has not been developed, he says. He thinks that the educational campaign soon to be started by his department's clinic under Dr. Drewry will do much to set the public right in the matter of mental disturbances.

Certainly the situation is one that challenges the best thought of the people of the state. The problem is as old as the human race, but modern scientific research has shown that it is not impossible of solution. In fact, the scientific mind of today is not disposed to admit that there are any impossibilities.

Increasing Interest Manifest.

While progress in the care of the state's mental defectives is still slow, much in this direction has been accomplished, and in recent years governments have shown an increasing interest and solicitude regarding their "houses of sorrow". It is not generally known, but it is a fact, that one of the first things which Governor Byrd did after assuming his present office was to make a careful, personal survey into the situation regarding the state's hospitals for the insane. He found that the buildings at nearly all of these institutions were little more than fire traps, a constant threat of catastrophe.

Insane Hospitals Fireproof.

The governor was startled. He determined that the situation should be remedied at once. Despite his interest in education, he told the heads of the higher institutions of learning that their demands for appropriations would be considered only after the safety of the state's insane was assured. As a result of the governor's efforts, backed by the sentiment of a progressive general assembly, every hospital for the insane in Virginia has been fireproofed. Little has been said of this accomplishment, but it ranks not least among the many things to the credit of the present state administration.—Richmond News Leader.
