

SEVERAL KILLED WHEN STORM HITS MANASSAS HIGH TAKES BIG HONORS

Nokesville Damaged, But No Serious Injuries to People.

WEAVERSVILLE WIPED OUT AS TWISTER STRIKES

Prince William Red Cross Active In Relief Work.

The cyclonic winds which raked seven Southern States and sections of the Middle West on Thursday last took a large toll of property on the edge of Nokesville, and in the neighboring county of Fauquier the entire settlement of Weaversville, on the outskirts of Catlett, consisting of eight properties, was completely destroyed, while four people were killed and several severely injured.

The general havoc wrought by the storm had been so fully described and illustrated in the daily papers that there is little use of going into detail in this account. At Nokesville the following properties were damaged:

Nokesville Damage.
Home of O. L. Marsteller, windows, chimney and roof damaged and two outbuildings demolished; A. K. Graybill place, damage to stables, orchard and outbuildings; E. S. Hooker, house unroofed and walls and floors, collapsed in places. Furniture and fixtures ruined, silo down, three out-houses, barn and other buildings demolished; E. E. Hale, part of house unroofed, large barn destroyed and some livestock killed. M. B. Spitzer, house unroofed and damage to grounds; Carl Swartz, automobile ruined; N. N. Free, barns, fences and timber down; Norville Anderson, colored, house, belonging to E. S. Hooker demolished and furniture and clothing blown away or destroyed. F. W. May, house belonging to E. S. Hooker, wrecked, chickens and other stock gone; Alphonse Armstrong, residence, six out-houses and two automobiles completely destroyed, furniture and clothing wrecked and blown away, practically a total loss.

At Bristow, the home of Zeno Spindle was carried away and contents of house ruined.

Weaversville Demolished.
At Catlett, in the neighboring county, eight homes were completely wrecked and property damage was total in most instances. The dead are Charles I. Allen and his twin daughters, Myra and Emma, while Mrs. Allen is in a precarious condition in the hospital at Warrenton; Peter Laws was killed. Luther Allen suffered a broken leg and injured hand, Henry Allen, broken arm and severe cuts. Mrs. Laws serious head wounds and internal injuries; Tom Jackson, colored, cut about head, while other occupants of the homes wrecked were injured, though not seriously, and many had miraculous escapes.

Rescue Parties On Scene.
Doctors from Warrenton hurried to the scene and Doctors McBryde, Marsteller and Williams, went from Manassas, while Mrs. Delaney, the popular nurse, also made the trip. Volunteers hurried to the scene in automobiles, but owing to the condition of the road were unable to get on the scene in time to be of much assistance.

NOTICE!

Beginning May 18th, rubbish will be collected by the Town truck on Saturday of each week.

Hereafter no rubbish will be handled unless it has been placed at the front of the property, in plain view of the street and not more than twenty feet away from the parking line for vehicles.

All rubbish for collection must be contained in boxes or barrels which can be readily dumped into the truck. These containers will be set back into the respective yards after being emptied into truck.

As truck will start out at seven a. m., it will be necessary to have all rubbish, to be moved, set out as above, before that time.

As the collection will be made systematically until further notice no request to the Town Manager will be necessary after this date.

Wm. F. COCKE,
Town Manager.

Miss Emma Ledman Wins Three Firsts and School Takes Team Prize In State Contest.

Miss Emma Ellen Ledman, of the Manassas High School, was the big gun in the Virginia State shorthand and typewriting contest held at State Teachers College, Fredericksburg, last Saturday, capturing first prize in three events.

The team from the High School entered in the event for shorthand, dictation at 90 words per minute, captured the State championship with an average of 99 per cent. The team consisted of Miss Emma Ellen Ledman, Miss Asenath Ayres and Miss Elva House, and a silver cup was awarded for the team, while Miss Ledman won a gold medal for a 100 per cent performance, and Miss Ayres captured a silver medal with an average of 99.5 per cent.

In the open class C typing contest open for any typist, Miss Ledman won the first prize for high school students, and captured second place in the whole contest, for which she received a silver medal and a small cup.

The accuracy contest with entries from 17 cities of the State went to Miss Ledman for which she received a gold medal from the State and a gold medal from the Underwood Typewriter Company.

In Class A typing, for students beginning not earlier than September, 1928, Miss Lucy Athey placed third and was presented a bronze medal.

The cups, medals and other things captured by the little band taken to Fredericksburg by Miss Willlette Myers, head of the school commercial department, are on exhibition in the window of the store of Dr. C. R. C. Johnson.

FACULTY CAST IN 'MEET THE WIFE'

Female Impersonations To Be Unique Feature of Sparkling Comedy.

The men of the faculty of Swavely School will establish a daring precedent by presenting the modern comedy "Meet the Wife", according to the Swavely Sentinel. The play will be given two nights, May 17 and 18, in Baker Gymnasium. Both of these performances will be open to the students, the townspeople, and their friends. The curtain will rise at 8:15 o'clock.

The cast has been excellently chosen. Each man will have a part fitted to his abilities, indeed, it seems as if the play were written for our faculty. It is certain that lively entertainment is in store, for the theme of the play is decidedly humorous, and the "ladies" of the cast are not "females" at all.

CAST.

Gertrude Lennox Robert S. Illingworth
Harvey Lennox Frank Sigman
Victor Staunton Harvey Kline
Gregory Brown Osborne B. Tabor
Philip Lord Noel Gill
Doris Bellamy H. Gendell Reeves
Alice Domingo Caino
William Welton P. Farrow

The coaching and stage work are being done by the members of the cast under the direct supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Illingworth. That it will be superior need not be emphasized.

RABIES SCARE NOT SUBSIDING

C. L. Reading, County Game Warden, Reports Nineteen Dogs Destroyed.

Of a total of 19 dogs killed by the game warden suspected of having rabies, 14 of them had been bitten by a dog known to be mad, while of the total three of the canines destroyed were known to have rabies, according to C. L. Reading, game warden of Prince William County.

The quarantine placed on dogs by the Board of Supervisors is still in full force and effect, and precautions will be taken for another thirty days. Dogs in Manassas are under close quarantine, and several were destroyed this week when their actions became far from normal.

RED CROSS ISSUES CALL.

Prince William Chapter, American Red Cross, is asking the people of the County for $3,000, for use in relief work in connection with the havoc wrought by the storm last Thursday within the limits of the county.

Contributions should be sent promptly to G. Raymond Ratcliffe, temporary chairman, Disaster Committee, Manassas, Virginia.

RED CROSS CALLS WOMAN'S CLUB FOR RELIEF FUND HAS LIVE MEETING

Mrs. W. L. Lloyd, Head of Prince William Chapter, Organizes Committee.

STORM VICTIMS NEED MONETARY ASSISTANCE

Send Funds to G. R. Ratcliffe, Peoples National Bank, Manassas.

Relief measures are being taken by the Prince William Chapter, American Red Cross, for the storm victims of Prince William County and much has already been accomplished in this direction.

Mrs. W. L. Lloyd, president of the County Red Cross Chapter, with officials from the national headquarters of the parent organization, have been busy since last Friday morning visiting the communities stricken and making a survey of the conditions in each family effected by the ravages of the twister which hit Nokesville and Bristow on last Thursday night. Of course national workers are also co-operating with the local chapters in such counties and much is being done to relieve the situation in the Catlett vicinity.

Money Needed At Once.
The thing most needed now to enable the Prince William Red Cross chapter to carry forward its relief plans is money, and to this end an appeal has been sent out for $3,000. At a meeting of the local chapter on Tuesday a relief committee was appointed to raise at least $3,000 to carry out plans devised following a thorough investigation of the situation.

The disaster committee has for its membership Mrs. W. L. Lloyd, Rev. J. R. Cook, Mrs. Carvel Hall, Mr. T. E. Dillake, Mrs. E. C. Spitzer, and G. Raymond Ratcliffe, is the acting treasurer.

The American Red Cross has already given $300 to the local chapter and the Woman's Club of Manassas yesterday contributed $25 to the fund. Contributions are needed at once, and should be forwarded to G. Raymond Ratcliffe, care People's National Bank, Manassas.

Property Is Wrecked.
There is great rejoicing over the fact that none of the people of this county were seriously injured. However, the property loss to those around Nokesville and Bristow is terrific in most instances total, and it is to relieve the immediate necessities of some of these families that the call for funds has been issued.

The National organization has been hard hit during the fiscal year with demands for relief funds and the treasury is not able to stand a much further drain until another roll call, without a general call for funds. During the fiscal year the American Red Cross has appropriated more than $750,000 for relief in states visited by storms including Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Wyoming, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Florida, Iowa, Montana, Arkansas, Tennessee, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Texas, West Virginia and New Hampshire.

The call for $3,000 is for the needs of the people of our own county, many of them our friends, and the response to the appeal of Prince William Chapter, should be spontaneous and prompt.

Lutheran Aid Meeting Tuesday.
The Ladies' Aid Society of Bethel Evangelical Lutheran Church will meet at the home of Mrs. J. H. Rexrode on Tuesday, May 14, at 2:30 p. m.

Send your storm relief check right now to G. R. Ratcliffe, Manassas.

W. F. Cocke, Guest Speaker, Talks On Town Necessities. Contribution To Relief Fund

The regular meeting of the Woman's Club of Manassas was held yesterday resulting in the transaction of much important business.

While all of the things done were of importance, perhaps the outstanding action was the voting of a contribution of $25 to the Prince William Chapter, American Red Cross, for use in relief work in connection with the storm damage at Nokesville and near Bristow. This amount will go to help make up the $3,000 fund which the local Red Cross is endeavoring to raise.

Contribution To Library.
The club also authorized a contribution of $25 to be used by Mrs. C. R. C. Johnson, librarian, in the purchase of books for the High School library which is also used by the community. A similar donation was made last year.

Mr. W. F. Cocke, town manager, was the guest speaker of the afternoon, and by request talked on what he believed were the most urgent necessities of the town and community. Sanitation was placed first (and pure water next). Mr. Cocke stressed the fact that the town water was pure and of fine quality, but declared that the supply was not ample. Lights and sewerage was pointed out as highly important in the development of a town followed by sidewalks, good streets and numerous other things.

Community House Important.
The speaker pointed out the advantages of a Community house and a play ground for the children, and expressed the hope that these things might soon be added to the attractions of the community.

The civic committee, Mrs. A. A. Hooff, chairman, were asked to look into the present condition of the sprinkler formerly used on the streets with a view to having it repaired and placed back in commission.

The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. R. S. Hynson, Mrs. R. S. Illingworth, Mrs. C. R. C. Johnson, Mrs. L. F. Hough and Mrs. F. R. Hynson.

PURE BRED HORSES ARE IN GOOD DEMAND

W. B. Bullock and H. F. Lynn Report Selling Percherons. Both Members of Society.

Purebred draft horses are now strongly in demand for work and breeding purposes. Among the recent Prince William County transactions are the sales of a stallion and a pair of mares. W. B. Bullock, of Manassas, sold the stallion to S. F. McClure, of Spotswood, and Henry F. Lynn, of Haymarket, sold the mares to Roger Elgin of The Plains.

Lomond 190221 is the name and number under which the stallion sold by Mr. Bullock is registered, and Mr. Lynn sold the mares registered as Jalame 149033 and Dragolena 146297.

The Percheron organization encourages good breeding and has issued pedigree certificates to two-thirds of the registered draft horses in the United States. Both Mr. Bullock and Mr. Lynn are members of the society.

SANITARY LAW ADOPTED BY TOWN

Teeth Put In Ordinance To Compel Sanitation.

BIG FORWARD STEP IN TOWN BETTERMENT

W. F. Cocke, Town Manager, Urges Cooperation In Important Health Measures.

The town council of Manassas took a decided forward step on Monday night when they passed by a unanimous vote, an ordinance recommended by the State Board of Health, which will enable the town authorities to enforce strict sanitation within the corporate limits and also in the County for a distance of one-half mile beyond such limits.

This ordinance, based upon a state law, prohibits the leasing of any dwelling which is not provided with either sewerage or sanitary dry closets. The latter must be of approved design and thoroughly fly proof. In cases where property not meeting these requirements is already rented, the owner is required to put same in satisfactory condition within 30 days and should the owner fail to do so the tenant shall make the necessary improvements and deduct the cost from the rent.

Not Too Drastic.
While this may appear drastic, the initial cost need not be great enough to embarrass the owner of even the cheapest property and it is obvious that if the property is not worth this small outlay it must be unfit for human habitation in a thickly settled community.

The passage of this ordinance is a part of the campaign which the Town proposes to wage against the two great health enemies, flies and mosquitoes, and the ills which they disseminate. With pure drinking water and protection against these insect pests the health of the community is protected from malaria and typhoid.

Penalties To Aid Enforcement.

W. F. Cocke, town manager, and the police force will be glad to cooperate and assist in securing 100 per cent sanitized community, and if the full benefit of this work is to be realized within the present season no time must be lost and every one must do their part to see that the work is thorough and no one person is allowed to jeopardize the balance of the community by reason of indifference or disobedience to this commendable law.

The penalty of the new ordinance for failure to comply with the requirements is sufficiently heavy to act as an inducement should any one be found indifferent to their own and the public welfare.

Seay, supervising game warden for the Blue Ridge district, secured a conviction this week against Spencer Combs, 18, for dynamiting fish in Big Black Creek, above Mountain Grave. He was fined $50 and costs. Hite was caught throwing fish out of the creek. A warrant was issued against his companion, an older man, who escaped, and his arrest is expected.

Crowd Hears Music Clubs.

Strasburg, May 8.—A crowd estimated at 2,500 from all parts of the Shenandoah Valley, witnessed the second annual concert of valley music clubs held at Battlefield Crystal Caverns here Monday. The event opened the observance of National Music Week, which will close in this section with a program at Harrisonburg next Sunday. The afternoon's service was under the direction of the Rev. F. A. Brown of Woodstock.

Skeleton of Indian Found.

Luray, May 8.—The perfect skeleton of an Indian, surrounded by stone articles of ancient design, was unearthed in the barnyard of the farm of W. T. Brubaker, 5 miles from Luray. The head of the skeleton was buried 3 feet below the surface, and, when unearthed, burst into fragments of bones. A perfect set of teeth were shown and two pipes of stone were by it. The Indian is believed to be one of the Massanutten tribe which roamed the mountain by that name and which harassed the settlers in this valley at intervals during the days of the eighteenth century.

Petersburg Minister Resigns.

Petersburg, May 9.—The Rev. Roger W. Grant, who for the past seven years has been pastor of the Colonial Heights Baptist Church, has resigned that charge to become pastor of the First Baptist Church at South Hill, Macklenburg County. The resignation was tendered after the morning services yesterday and came as a surprise to the congregation.

The Rev. Mr. Grant will enter on his new pastorate June 1 next. While pastor of the Colonial Heights church he was influential in the building of a new church and parsonage, and there has been a large increase in the church membership. He came to the Colonial Heights Church from Danville.

Destruction of Liquor Delayed.

Danville, May 9.—Action by Judge Henry C. Leigh in the corporation court on the threatened destruction of 36 quarts of liquor was deferred on Monday until May 18 in order to give the attorney general an opportunity to be heard on the legal question.

Counsel for the estate of B. H. Custer, to whom the liquor was deeded as a fee for legal services, today filed a petition asking that the whisky be turned over to the estate. Chief of Police Marin has deferred the pouring out of the liquor until after a judicial decision.

Since that time he has been practicing law in Loudoun County and is a leader in civic and political affairs in Northern Virginia.

He is the examiner of records for the twenty-sixth judicial circuit, comprising the counties of Fauquier, Loudoun and Rappahannock, and is the attorney member of the Virginia State Board of Accountancy.

He is a member of the Virginia State Bar and American Bar Association, the American Legion, Acca Temple, Shrine, and the Phi Delta Phi and Phi Kappa Phi Fraternities.

NOKESVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS.

Everyone at our school is busy preparing and looking forward to the May Day exercises, which take place in Manassas, Friday, May 10th.

Several games, both basketball and baseball, have taken place between our teams and the teams of neighboring schools and communities. The first baseball game was played at Greenwich with the Greenwich Rookies and Nokesville, on Friday, April 27th. South Greenwich was victorious with the score of 8 to 7.

On the following Wednesday, May 1, Calverton Girl's Basketball team visited our school. Even though Calverton won the game, the local girls played the best brand of ball they have played this year. We hope that this means a winning team in the near future.

On Friday, May 3, our boys went to Haymarket to bring back the first victory of the season. It took some time for Haymarket's "whistle chicken" to get warmed up, even though the boys were working hard from start to finish to get it to cluck. It began to chirp towards the latter part of the game. The final count was 12 to 11.

GRADE CROSSINGS SLOWLY ELIMINATED

Sixty-Six Railway Crossings In Virginia Eliminated Since 1917.

Special to The Manassas Journal
Virginia eliminated three railroad grade crossings during 1928, bringing the total eliminated by the State since 1917 to sixty-six, the United States Bureau of Public Roads announced in Washington last week.

The bureau, in its campaign of education among the States, which is conducted very cautiously and indirectly in order to avoid stepping on the toes of any individual State, keeps close tab on State cooperation in the better-roads program. It is able to do this in Virginia and other States by reason of the Federal government's share, by annual appropriations supplementing State funds, in the burden of construction and upkeep.

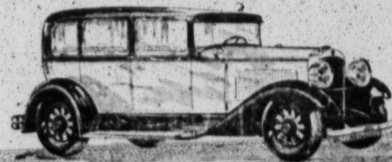

Virginia's cooperation in the better-roads program is evidently regarded as satisfactory, for the bureau declares that 390 railroad grade crossings were eliminated in the United States in 1928, either by means of underpasses or overpasses, or by relocation of highways.

Of the 390 crossings eliminated last year, 107 were grade separations and 283 were excluded by relocation of highways.

According to the bureau's figures, Federal-aid highways system with covering the period from 1917 to December 31, 1928, a total of 4,291 crossings have been eliminated on the Federal aid. Of these, 947 were through grade separations and 3,344 through relocation of highways.

NASH '400'

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

Delivered Fully Equipped Nothing More To Buy!

Compare

delivered, fully-equipped prices

See why Nash is lower!

ON the basis of quality, the Nash "400" should cost more than other cars in its competitive field. It actually costs less!

Nash engineers—one of the industry's outstanding engineering organizations—have created a finer motor car. They have developed the high-compression, 7-bearing motor to its highest point of perfection and power. The exclusive Nash outboard mounting of hydraulic shock absorbers doubles their effectiveness and creates supreme riding ease. And here is the "world's easiest driving control," in this new and finer motor car.

These are but a few of many "400" features of superiority. Why, then, is the Nash "400" lower priced?

Here is the explanation. Every Nash "400" is now factory-equipped with the accessories, purchased at factory savings and included in the factory price of the car. Bumpers, shock absorbers, spare tire lock and tire cover come with the car and are not added later as "extras," at retail prices. You will find some dealers (not Nash dealers) charging as much as $50 or $60 extra for bumpers alone.

Compare the delivered, fully equipped price of any Nash "400" with the delivered, fully equipped price of competitive cars. You'll see the saving!

The Haymarket Grade school baseball team showed a fine brand of ball on Saturday when the team of Linton Hall went down to defeat before them to the tune of 26 to 2. BRIDAL SHOWER FOR MISS RUTH BIBB

Alexandria Hostess Fetes Manassas Girl. Many Guests From District, Maryland, Virginia.

Miss Ruth Bibb was tendered a bridal shower last night by about 50 friends at the home of Mrs. Norman Evans, in Cottage Park. The home was decorated with a pink and white color scheme and large baskets of snowballs, sprays of bridal wreath, and other spring flowers were used throughout the rooms, with white paper wedding bells and large ferns. Miss Bibb's wedding to Mr. Purvis Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Reynolds, will be an event of June. As the guest of honor entered the living room with Mr. Reynolds, a shower of confetti fell from a large wedding bell above the doorway. After being ushered to chairs which were decorated with pink and white crepe paper, a mock wedding ceremony was performed for the guests by several children, as Mrs. F. E. Ludwig played the wedding music and Miss Gretta Ludwig sang. The "bride," little Clara Uron, wore white with a long net veil and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley; the groom, Master Mitchell Hancock, wore a black suit with tiny vest and long trousers; Barbara Uron wore blue and white as maid of honor, and Baby Nancy Roberts, ring bearer, wore white and carried a white satin pillow with the wedding ring. Master Anthony Hancock, in a white satin suit, assisted the bridal party. After the "ceremony" Ida May Uron, dressed in pink, entered pushing a decorated wheel barrow covered with pink and white crepe paper and filled to overflowing with surprise gifts for the guests of honor.

MANASSAS PIRATES SMOTHERED BY GREENWICH

The South Greenwich baseball team walked away with its Saturday game with the Manassas Pirates snowing them under with an avalanche of hits to pile up 12 runs to 1 for the Pirates.

The Pirates were so mild in their attack as to lead some of their following to suggest a change of name. Hopkins pitching six innings for the Greenwich boys, held the subdued Pirates to 2 hits, while Gum, who pitched three innings, allowed but 1 hit.

RAISING THE TARIFF WALL

There was a time when the Republican Party boasted that it stood for "the free breakfast table" for the working man. Later it discovered that there was dynamite in such a slogan, and with the Fordney-McCumber bill in 1922 it sought to make this familiar phrase obsolete. The new Tariff Bill made public yesterday goes its predecessor one better in this respect. It increases the duty 100 per cent on beef, 75 per cent on lamb, 100 per cent on milk, 233 per cent on pork, 40 per cent on cheese, 36 per cent on Cuban sugar, 67 per cent on corn, and so on.

The specific duty on raw wool is advanced 3 cents per pound, regardless of quality, thus discriminating further against the cheaper grades and over-taxing low-priced clothing, says The New York World. Mr. Grundy and his Pennsylvania industries were not neglected; pig iron, aluminum and other metals have received further favorable treatment. And the New England textile mills, which have been suffering depression under the highest protection they have ever had, get further tariff medicine in allopathic doses. While the new bill is concerned mainly with duties on raw materials, it imposes compensating duties on manufactured products whenever the tariff is advanced on the raw product.

Canada, Cuba and Argentina, our three best customers in the Western Hemisphere, will bear the brunt of these higher rates. It is doubtful if Canadian meat and dairy products will be able to scale the higher wall erected against them. Argentina will feel the restrictions on wool, corn and meats. The Ways and Means Committee at least had the good judgment to resist the pressure for restrictions on sugar from the Philippines, but the higher rate on Cuban sugar will be a blow to the industry in that island, where it is already greatly depressed.

And all this has happened within six months after Mr. Hoover's tour of Latin America on a mission of good will.

PUBLIC VS. PRIVATE ECONOMY.

Government is the business in which every citizen is a stockholder.

If the business is run efficiently and economically, the citizen profits. If not, he loses money.

It is unfortunate that as a rule governmental units are far from being fully efficient. Waste, duplication of effort and old-time methods are an unnamed but important item on the tax bill.

If the stockholders and directors of industrial corporations were as lax as the average citizen is when it comes to government, most of our greatest industrial organizations would be bankrupt.

From the beginning of society, taxes have always been an outstanding subject for discussion. But few people are willing to study the administration of government, check up on the efficiency of employees and elected officials, investigate bond issues and debts, and express themselves clearly on matters which make up our tax burden.

Local governments have grown steadily more costly. The tax rate soars. And it will continue to soar until the taxpayers check public expenditures as carefully as they do private expenditures.

MORE SINNED AGAINST THAN SINNING.

Stock exchanges are more sinned against than sinning.

The fact that there is speculation in stocks has no more bearing on the merit of stock exchanges than has speculation in potatoes, land or newspapers a bearing on the real value of those properties. The exchanges aid industrial progress, social welfare and prosperity by providing a central democratic market place where anyone may buy or sell recognized securities through a responsible member of an exchange.

They have helped decentralize wealth and given the person of moderate means an opportunity to share in corporate undertakings. Under older financial systems when a few persons of great wealth controlled an industry, this was impossible.

The stock exchange has made for more honest business. By investigation all securities that apply for listing, and preparing exhaustive reports for the information of prospective investors, it strikes a decisive blow at the dishonest manipulator, or the fly-by-night company.

The wise investor now places his orders through investment bankers or brokers who are members of the large exchanges, known that because of frequent audits and continued supervision they can have no business ethics but the highest.

Press Comment

Worst Yet To Come.

The Washington Post—Following three months' operation 500 pounds of dirt have been removed from the House floor, and the House has been discussing only routine matters.

Arkansas Gazette—Free speech is one of those things that existed before the days of telephone bills.

Louisville Courier-Journal—A Brooklyn wife-beater has been sentenced to kiss his wife every morning for six months. One out of five women probably would prefer the beating.

Ohio State Journal—A director of the New York Life Insurance Co. gets $50 every time he attends a meeting and Director Coolidge impresses us as a man who would be faithful to every duty.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
FOR MAY 12, 1929.

"The International Sunday School Lesson for May 12, is, 'The Early Ministry of Jeremiah'—Jeremiah 1:6-10; 26; 8-15.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

Great prophets appear in great times. His background is always part of the explanation of a man with a mighty message. It was when their world seemed to be chafing about messengers of truth appeared. To understand the men, we must know somewhat of their environment. As we take up the study of Jeremiah, the weeping prophet, we need to recall the conditions of his day.

Only Herodotus tells the tragic tale of how there swept down clear to Egypt from what is now Russia the hordes of Scythians, devastating everything before them. Their savagery was like that of the later racial intrusions from the region which we now know as Russia, those of Ghengis Khan and Tamerlane. As the relentless Scythian conquerors marched through the passes of the Caucasus, laying waste Armenia and Syria and the coastline of Phoenicia and Philistia, it seemed as if the very end of all ordered life had come. Terror filled the hearts of the people of Judea, who were on the edge of the devastating on-sweep of the horde.

More than one thoughtful student will perceive a parallel between those conditions and what is true of today. All of the Near and Middle East is in flux and ferment and fear. Russia is poised above these little nations, ready to unleash legions of a new sort, for a conquest as great as that of the Scythians.

Crash and Crisis.

Nor was the Scythian terror all. Assyria's power was cracking, and Egypt seized upon this opportunity for gaining the mastery of the world. Pharaoh Necho led his armies up the Big Road, which ran from Shur, in Egypt, through mid-Sinai to Beer-sheba and Hebron; and also to Jerusalem, Samaria and the father North and East. He meant to trip conclusions with the new power of Babylon, which was supplanting Assyria.

Despite the warnings of the prophets, good King Josiah aligned himself with Assyria against Egypt, and tried to stay Pharaoh Necho's progress. So Judah and Egypt clashed in battle at Megiddo—Armageddon—and King Josiah was killed and his army defeated. Necho deposed Josiah's son Jehoahaz, and sent him in chains to Egypt, and nominated Jehoiakim to reign in conquered Judah, the country paying a huge tribute to the while.

This battle was but an incident of the greater war which followed between Pharaoh Necho and King Nebuchadnezzar. The two armies came together in the year 605 B. C. at the old Hittite city of Carchemish, on the Euphrates River, amidst the ruins of which city two young Englishmen, T. E. Lawrence, later to be known as "Lawrence of Arabia," and Leonard C. Woolley, now Woolley of Ur of the Chaldees, were working as archaeologists when called into the world war, and this was one of the decisive battles of history, for the destiny of the world was at stake. Nebuchadnezzar won, and so established Babylon as mistress of the known world. He pushed Pharaoh Necho clear to the borders of Egypt, whence he was suddenly called home to Babylon by the death of his father. It was a tumultuous and tremendous time, and it brought Jeremiah, the prophet, to the fore in Judah.

Prophets As Statesmen.

I know a preacher-author who is perhaps the most popular of all speakers at conferences upon the spiritual life. His characteristic adjective is "Quiet," and his addresses are soft-spoken and gentle. Yet he really knows more about international politics than any other clergyman of my acquaintance. His judgments are clear and incisive and far-sighted. Incongruous? Not at all. It has ever been true that the greatest prophets have also been statesmen. The foreigners who have the best understanding of political affairs in mission lands are the missionaries. A sense of national responsibility seems to burden every mighty messenger of God.

This was notably true of the Prophet Jeremiah. He shrank from his high calling, like the sensitive spirit that he was; but once he was sure that he had been summoned by Jehovah, he became a trumpet voice of patriotic as well as of religious counsel. In the confusion and clamor of his day, he perceived the only true course of Judah to pursue, and proclaimed it, winning thereby the enmity of court and of politicians.

Telling Unwelcome Truths.

In the ferment of his history-making time, Jeremiah was called to his high, hard mission. This prophet, who was no court preacher, no flatterer of the mighty, but a fearless messenger of the mind of the Lord, quickly became important, although not popular. More powerful than any political organization is the outspoken word of manifest truth. People are swayed by their moral and religious convictions. To this day, greatest power belongs to the public man who will declare, without fear or favor, without trimming or trucking, what he believes to be right. Many a tyranny has been overthrown by the brave words of a courageous prophet.

A chapter of liberty was given to Jeremiah in the words of our Lesson, "And the Lord said unto me, Behold, I have put my words in thy mouth. See, I have this day set thee over the nations and over the kingdoms, to root out, and to pull down, and to destroy, and to throw down, to build, and to plant."

This said that sturdy soul from Anathoth passed his mantle on, across the centuries, to the Apostles of Jesus, who cried, in the face of the threats of the secular arm, "We must obey God rather than men." His only concern about his message was not its acceptability, but its truth. Once he knew the will of the Lord, he spoke forth freely, recklessly, indiscreetly, dangerously.

Naturally, he incurred opposition. He was rebuked and derided. He was haled before priests and princes and politicians. His words were flouted and destroyed. He was put in the public stocks. He was thrust into prison after prison, even into the deep, dark, dank inner dungeon, such as later held the Apostle Paul in Rome.

But anywhere was a pulpit for Jeremiah. His voice rang out in unequivocal condemnation of the unpatriotic policy of the politicians. Nothing mattered to him so long as his message had a hearing. Unpopular to the end, a prophet-statesman whom time vindicated and God honored.

REMEMBER MOTHER WITH ALL HOMAGE.

(By RUTH CALHOUN.)

Mother: How every heart thrills to the memories that names brings to us! Mother, whose great, tender love would shield us from life's hardships and trials, and give us only of the fruits of success. Hers is the only real, wholly selfless love this earth knows—the sacred love, comparable to that of our heavenly Father.

Like flowers, mothers are with us for only a little while, shedding their fragrance and beauty over the lives of their children and fading all too quickly. Let us do all within our power to make mother's life a joy while we may.

So we pause in the midst of the bustle of our twentieth century lives to pay tribute to all Motherhood. We have been given one day of each year—the second Sunday in May—to devote to our mothers an expression of our love and appreciation for them.

The future of the individual depends upon Mother; the fate of our country rests on its motherhood; even as "The hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world." The success of the greatest men and women of the world has known is attributed by them to their mothers, and as a result their tribute to "Mother" breathes the same spirit of devotion.

Every Kiwanian should be proud to say: "All that I am my mother made me," and how proud that mother would be to hear these words from her child.

Mother's day was originated by Miss Ann Jarvis, of Philadelphia, a former resident of Taylor County, W. Va. She lost her mother in 1906, and the following year appealed to some of her friends to join with her in observing the anniversary of her mother's death. As a result of this appeal plans were made for carrying out her idea of celebrating Mother's Day annually.

The response to her appeal was so general, that on May 10, 1908, the City of Philadelphia, where she then resided, issued a proclamation to observe Mother's Day. In 1912, the Governor of Texas proclaimed the observance of Mother's Day, and at the time issued pardons to a number of prisoners so that they could spend their freedom with their mothers.

Interest in the movement continued to grow, and on May 10, 1913, Congress passed a resolution making Mother's Day the second Sunday in May, a national event. The first national Mother's Day proclamation was issued by President Woodrow Wilson, May 8, 1914, and now this day is celebrated in one way or another throughout the civilized world.

Those who are blessed with mothers, as well as those to whom "Mother" is but a sweet and shining memory of yesterday, should join in tribute to Motherhood, for Mother is always with us, a guiding star along the Path of Life. In honor of her day, wear a flower. If you can go to see her, do so. If not, send her a message of love. She will appreciate both the message and the thought.

AGE IMPROVES FLAVOR OF BREAD

Bread, like the wheat berry from which it is made goes through three stages. The wheat berry is first green, then ripe, and then decays.

Bread for about 12 hours after baking is green. After this stage it becomes ripe and much more palatable and digestible. The period through which bread remains ripe depends entirely upon the quality of the loaf.

CREAM QUALITY BREAD is made from the purest of ingredients and will remain ripe four or five days before entering the last stage, which is stale.

ROSE DISEASES AND INSECTS.

There has been developed so large a variety of roses adaptable to such varying degrees of climate and soil that few homes, city or rural, need pass the spring and summer without these beautiful and attractive flowers in profusion about the premises.

In addition to a soil containing an abundant supply of humus and plant food, well drained and protected from sudden hard winds, roses will thrive if furnished sufficient protection from certain diseases and insects that attack them. Many people make the mistake of planting the rose in a poorly drained location, in soil lacking many needed food elements, unprotected from disease and insects, permitting the bushes to struggle from one year to another with no other attention than an occasional pruning that consist of cutting them off level with the ground. Such culture produces few roses.

Rose bushes, like all other plants, susceptible to many diseases. Parasitic organisms may attack any portion of the plant—roots, stems, leaves or blossoms. The presence of disease is usually revealed by discoloration of the leaves, the failure of the buds to develop normally, or the death of portions of the stems. To avoid or control these attacking agencies it is necessary to afford the rose bush certain protection and assistance.

Powdery mildew is recognized by a white coating that appears on the leaves soon after they unfold. While death to the plant rarely results, yet the spread of the infection usually restricts the development of the plant and renders the foliage unattractive. Since black spot requires almost the same treatment for control, it will be discussed before remedy is advised.

Black spot is caused by an organism that lives within the leaf tissue and spreads rapidly, sometimes causing the bush to become defoliated. It is recognized by its name, black spots appearing in various portions of the leaf. Free circulation of air through rose bushes aids in controlling black spot. Sanitation and health are also important requisites. It is important that dead leaves and branches of affected bushes be destroyed.

A dusting of a mixture composed of nine parts powdered sulphur and one part dry arsenate of lead will control both powdery mildew and black spot. Powdered sulphur advised in this mixture is not what is commonly known as flowers of sulphur, but a finely ground dusting sulphur. The arsenate of lead will not only aid in causing the dust to adhere to the leaves and stems, but will cause death to all leaf chewing insects. Applications of this treatment should begin soon after the first leaves appear and continued throughout the season every 10 days.

Rose rust can be recognized by the appearance on the leaves of small, orange-colored pustules. It is controlled by spraying with a 4-4-50 Bordeaux mixture.

There are several stem cankers that effect roses. Space will not permit detailed description. They are generally controlled by pruning out and burning the effected portions, and avoided by sanitation in fall and spring culture.

Rose aphids may be controlled by dusting or spraying with nicotine sulphate. These pests must be killed with a contact poison. Rose beetles are difficult to exterminate. They are a long legged, yellowish-brown beetle that usually appear in great numbers during June, and do considerable damage. They also attack grapes. Repeated applications of arsenate of lead, one pound to ten gallons of water or Bordeaux mixture may be used on hardy plants of all kinds. Autumn sanitation is important in control.

The rose slug, two kinds, that eats or skeletonizes the leaves, multiplies rapidly. The bristly slug, when young feeds on the under surface of the leaf, but when mature, it eats the entire leaf tissue. The European feeds on the upper surface of the leaf for its entire feeding period. They may be controlled by spraying with arsenate of lead, also by nicotine sulphate treatment.

There are several other insect pests that attack the rose, including rose bud worm, curculio, leafhopper, leaf tyer, scale, stem borers, stem girdler, stem sawfly, weevil, and rose coiled worm.

In planning protection against rose injury from insects it is necessary to follow practice of using arsenate of lead to control all leaf-eating insects, and nicotine sulphate for control of sap-sucking insects.

There are few lawn and garden plants that bring a greater reward in blooms for the care and labor they demand than roses. But it is also true that few other blooming plants require greater sanitation to protect their pests from continuing the propagation from one year to another in the leaves and dead branches that remain in the autumn and winter.

There is a certain delight in making things grow. This is even true in the most humble of vegetables. But especially is the regard of triumph phant degrees when the rose is the object of the effort.

But the liability of insect and disease attack renders the work and reward doubly interesting. Therefore, persons who desire to grow roses, either for their beauty in the lawn or for their commercial value, should acquaint themselves with the causes and remedies of the insects and diseases that assail them.

W. C. T. U. INSTITUTE
HELD LAST FRIDAY

Miss Shaner Institute Leader Gave Talk and Other Interesting Papers Read.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union held their institute on Friday at the Presbyterian Church. Following the devotional service Miss Shaner, the Institute leader, was introduced. Several interesting papers were read and a Union signal demonstration was given after which subscriptions were taken for the official organ of the W. C. T. U., also for the children's paper.

Each of the ministers present was invited to the front and introduced to the audience each giving a few words of greeting. The laymen present were also asked to come forward and after introductions they also gave short talks. The Bi-County president and visitors from Remington and Charlottesville Unions also gave short talks.

During the afternoon session talks were given by Rev. Westwood Hutchinson on "Our Community Before Prohibition"; by Rev. W. A. Hall, on "Our Community Since Prohibition"; and by Rev. George Hasel on "Give Prohibition Its Chance."

Miss Shaner, the Institute leader, gave an address at the Baptist Church at night. Several members were added to the Manassas Union.
