FIRE RAGING IN BRISTOW, THREATENS COMMUNITY

FIRE IN BRISTOW

As we go to press word comes of the destruction by fire of the Joe Collins' store and residence in Bristow. The Warrenton Fire Department is on the scene, as is the volunteer department of Manassas. It is believed that the fire is now under control and that its spread to other buildings has been checked.

VA. TAX RETURNS DUE JUNE FIRST

To Avoid Penalty Returns of Intangibles And Individual Income Must Be Filed.

Richmond, May 23—June first is the last day on which State tax returns of intangible personal property and individual income may be filed without penalty, according to State Tax Commissioner C. H. Morrisett. The tax forms have been in the hands of the local commissioners of the revenue since the first of the year and any person liable to file these returns who has not received a form should apply to the local commissioner of the revenue for the same. The commissioners of the revenue try to distribute these forms, but the failure on the part of a commissioner to deliver a form to a taxpayer does not relieve the taxpayer of the obligation to file a return.

After June first no officer is authorized to receive a State tax return without extending the penalty imposed by the law. Taxpayers have had approximately five months within which to file State tax returns for this year.

The law provides that all State tax returns, after having been received by the commissioners of the revenue, must be by that officer forwarded to the Department of Taxation in Richmond for examination and audit. The Department also checks these returns against the information lists which it acquires, which lists contain the names of persons who should file returns. All delinquents are then called upon to file returns in order that the tax burden may be equalized. Delinquents are assessed with the penalties prescribed by law.

The Department of Taxation has in its files the record of salaries paid by corporations, associations, partnerships, and individuals and also a record of all persons who have filed Federal returns. This information is used to trace delinquents.

The State Tax Commissioner again called attention to the fact that the test of the liability of a taxpayer for the filing of a State income tax return is gross income and not net income. The fact that the taxpayer does not have an income tax to pay does not relieve him of the liability of filing a return, provided his or her gross income exceeds $1,000 in the case of a single person and $2,000 in the case of a married person living with husband or wife.

EYES OF INVESTOR TURN TO VIRGINIA

State Ranks Third In Ratio of Taxation To Estimated True Wealth.

VIRGINIA IN POSITION TO LIQUIDATE DEBT

Local Taxes In 1927 Totaled $4,372,083,000, or 1.32 of True Wealth Distributable By States.

Richmond, May 22—Figuring the relative burden imposed by the various states in direct ratio to the estimated true wealth of the people of those states, Virginia is found to rank third among all the forty-eight commonwealths, Arkansas and Delaware alone being placed ahead of her. West Virginia ranks fourteenth, Maryland eighteenth, North Carolina thirty-first and Kentucky thirty-third, with Florida at the extreme bottom of the list.

The above computation of taxes and of estimated wealth are taken from figures supplied by the National Industrial Conference Board for the year 1927. According to these estimates the wealth of the entire country for the year given was placed at $336,275,000,000, of which total sum of $330,199,000,000 was distributable by states. Local taxes collected in 1927 amounted to $4,372,083,000, or 1.32 per cent of the true wealth distributable by states.

Local taxes collected in Virginia for 1927 were a little in excess of $40,000,000, which was seventy-eight hundredths of one per cent of the estimated true wealth of its people. For the same year North Carolina, with aggregate local taxes approximately $60,000,000, showed a ratio of taxation to the true wealth of its people of 1.21 per cent. A similar ratio for Arkansas, which stood at the top of the list of states, was seventy hundredths of one per cent, while that of Florida, which ranked at the extreme bottom of the entire list, was 2.82 per cent.

Changed Laws Helpful.

Effective 1927 the state tax on land and tangible personal property was repealed, saving the taxpayers $1,600,000.

Beginning this year Virginia demands no tax from her residents upon shares of stock owned by them in nonresident corporations. The tax on bonds of political subdivisions of the state has been repealed.

The tax on capital in business has been reduced in Virginia to seventy-five cents on the one hundred dollars. The tax on the capital stock of state and national banks in Virginia has been reduced ten per cent.

Owing largely to equitable taxation the eyes of large investors have been turned to Virginia, with the result that approximately $150,000,000 of outside capital has only recently located within the state. There is at present $275,000,000 construction work in progress in Virginia.

Virginia finds herself in position today to liquidate her entire state debt, and ranks third in a list of all the states in the ratio of taxes to the true wealth of the people.

The pooler has the privilege of setting the lowest price that he will consider for his wool and all bids not coming up to this figure may be rejected. ### PROTECT YOUR CHILD FROM DIPHTHERIA

In order to cooperate with the Board of Health in protecting the children of Prince William County against diphtheria, the doctors of the county will give toxin-antitoxin for $2, if parents will bring their children during regular office hours.

"Diphtheria causes the death of many children," said Miss Ruby Ryman, county nurse, yesterday. "Three doses of toxin antitoxin protects most children for life. All children should be given this protection."

Since the fall months seem to be the period when the disease gets to be most prevalent the treatment should be given in the spring. Ordinarily it takes about five months to get the protection.

POLLARD TALKS OF POLICIES

Declares That He Is Not Candidate of Any Faction or Special Interest.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

"I here repeat what I said in my initial statement. I favor a larger appropriation from the State treasury for the equalization of educational opportunities throughout the State. There are some of our less wealthy communities which cannot afford to give to their children first class instruction, even though they tax themselves to the very limit. Here the State should step in and supplement the local funds to the end that every child in Virginia may have a fair opportunity for an education. The justice of this may be readily seen when we remember that perhaps fifty per cent of the children educated in sections where the taxable values are low, spend their adult lives in the centers of wealth and that their lack of early training reflects itself in all parts of the State.

If I am elected Governor there is nothing to which I shall give more earnest attention than the selection of the State Board of Education. No mere political consideration will have a feather's weight with me. I am proud of the progress of our school system, but I am convinced that we need to introduce into its administration, more business principles to the end that we may get even better results for the money expended. The administration of the schools has its business as well as its technical aspects. I would, therefore, call to service of the Board the very best business as well as professional talent, which the State affords.

NEW INDUSTRIES

The hospitality of a State to new industries is reflected not only in the laws but in the attitude of its chief executive. The Governor, in co-operation with civic bodies, can do much in bringing new industries to the State. These industries increase taxable values, furnish employment for our people and a better market for the products of the farm. They enable us to get better roads and schools without increasing the tax burden on our citizens. I would, therefore, use my best efforts to continue the work so successfully begun and which, according to estimates, will increase our revenue by about two millions of dollars a year.

ROADS

The pay-as-you-go plan has demonstrated its wisdom. Our State road system must be enlarged until linked to the county systems, the remotest section is put in easy access to our markets. Nothing can contribute more effectually to the happiness and prosperity both of country and the city, and especially will it help the farmers to live more comfortable lives and serve to equalize opportunities.

AGRICULTURE

The agricultural interests, always accepted as of fundamental importance, must be fostered and encouraged as never before, for the farmer, under present conditions, is not receiving his just share of the prosperity of the State. The relief of this condition is a nation-wide and world-wide problem, but no State can neglect performing its part in the solving of this great problem. The General Assembly of Virginia has wisely created a commission for the purpose of making recommendations to the coming General Assembly. I shall study the result of the Commission's investigation with the deepest interest and I shall give my support to all measures which promise relief.

Mr. Pollard, in closing his address stated that from time to time he would make known his views in regard to other subjects of interest to the people of the State. He pledged to his audience that in presenting his position on any and all issues they might rest assured that they would not be burdened with a mass of meaningless words.

Halifax, Va.—John Garland Pollard, candidate for Governor, made the first speech of his campaign here before a large assemblage of citizens from this and adjoining counties. He was introduced by Senator M. B. Booker who reviewed Mr. Pollard's long public career beginning with his services in the Constitutional Convention of 1901-1902.

Mr. Pollard made no reference to his opponents except to say that he had the kindest personal feeling for both of them and would say nothing during his campaign to mar the pleasant relationship which exists between them. He said that any one of the three candidates nominated in the primary would be triumphantly elected in November. "Virginia," said he, "is at heart Democratic and I have an abiding faith that the good sense of the voters will not permit a repudiation of our party now in the zenith of its accomplishment for the public good. I do not claim to be a prophet; I cannot tell you who your nominee will be, that is for you to decide; but one thing I know, that as God gives me strength, I shall be found as of old, loyally supporting the nominee who ever he may be, for I think now, as I have ever thought, that the interests of Virginia can best be served by and through the Democratic party."

"I am the candidate of no section, of no faction, of no special interests. I see no reason why any class, because of their occupation or place of residence should engage in a contest for supremacy in State government. All have their just claims and all are entitled to the utmost consideration, but our interests are not antagonistic. We are mutually dependent. One of the brightest signs of the times is the fading away of sectionalism in Virginia and we be to the man who revives it."

Mr. Pollard declared that he would not permit himself to be drawn aside to discuss issues now settled. "I have a definite program of progress," said he, "and I have no time to nurse resentments. I leave that to those who enjoy such pastime. As for myself, I am looking forward to progress, not backward to things that are dead."

Mr. Pollard then launched into a discussion of the policies for which he had already declared in his original announcement and in the literature sent out from his headquarters.

TAX REDUCTION

"After carefully considering the condition of the treasury, I have come to the conclusion that taxes can and should be materially reduced. A large and growing surplus has been built up. The coming of new industries to the State, wise administration of the tax laws and the increased efficiency of our government, has contributed to this happy result. I shall not allow my desire to be elected to cause me to make any promise impossible of fulfillment. I am, therefore, carefully considering what reductions can be made without crippling the building and extension of the road system and without interfering with the improvement of our public schools and the other activities of the State so vital to the public welfare."

CHURCH TO BENEFIT BY INSURANCE PLAN

Under the plan of Martin L. Davey of Ohio a new plant for disciple Church of Kent, will be erected in honor of his father, who was the founder of tree surgery. The church will be called the John Davey Memorial Church of Christ.

Mr. Davey has taken out a $50,000 five year endowment policy in favor of the church.

If Davey should die tomorrow the face amount is payable immediately to the church. If he lives five years $50,000.00 accumulates in cash and is payable then to the church. As he is only forty-five his life expectancy far outruns the policy.

The proceeds will be used to build a new church building. The rest of the congregation is to make the amount of the policy, and construction is to begin as soon as the cash value of the policy is big enough to permit a loan to be made against it.

MAY DAY RIOTS.

The May Day riots which cost a number of lives in Berlin and caused a lesser amount of violence, both verbal and physical, in other great European capitals, were conspicuously lacking in America.

The communists, if they were casting hopeful eyes at American workers, must be sadly disappointed. Our workers cannot be distinguished from any other American class—industrial, capitalistic, professional or social. They understand that violence and sabotage undermine employment and prosperity in which they share.

May Day in this country was nothing more than the First of May.

A RECORD OF IMPROVEMENT.

During the eight years since the return of the railroads to private hands following the federal control period that ended in 1920, improvements have been made in every important phase of operation.

Freight traffic has increased five per cent and freight speed between terminals 19 per cent. This improved service was achieved with 16 per cent fewer train-miles.

During the same period the revenue derived by the railroads per ton-mile has declined over 15 per cent; if freight rates in 1927 had been the same as those in 1921, the public would have had to pay 800 million dollars additional for transportation.

The improvement made in accident reduction is well known. Freight car shortages have practically disappeared. Comfort, safety and speed have all increased.

This fine record of service has had a beneficial effect on our industrial and social life. Transportation is the life-blood of commerce, progress and prosperity.

The railroads' tax burden and drastic legislation has made it impossible for the lines, during a single year since 1920, to earn the "fair return" of 5 1/4 per cent permitted by the Transportation Act. Such a condition is disheartening to the railroads and must have a deleterious influence on plans for future progress.

AN EDUCATED PERSON.

A University of Chicago professor recently propounded twelve questions to one of his classes, adding his personal opinion that anyone answering them in the affirmative constituted an educated person. The list deserves serious scrutiny. How do his queries impress you?

1—Has education given you sympathy with all good causes and made you eager to espouse them?

2—Has it made you public-spirited?

3—Has it made you brother to the weak?

4—Have you learned how to make friends and how to keep them? Do you know what it is to be a friend yourself?

5—Can you look an honest man or pure woman straight in the eye?

6—Do you see anything to love in a little child?

7—Will a lonely dog follow you in the street?

8—Can you be high-minded and happy in the meaner drudgeries of life?

9—Are you good for anything to yourself? Can you be happy alone?

10—Can you look out on the world and see anything but dollars and cents?

11—Can you look into a mud puddle by the wayside and see the clear sky? Can you see anything in the puddle but mud?

What's your answer, men? University Club "Toreador".

Press Comment

Not a Bad Idea.

Los Angeles Times—Automobiles are still strange creatures in some sections of China and the rules governing their movements are rather strict. Right in the shadow of Peking there is a stretch where a speed of fifteen miles an hour is the limit. According to the story of an observer those who exceed this rate are likely to have their heads cut off and exhibited on posts along the road. It must have a depressing effect upon a motorist to suddenly come upon the blood-dripping head of some guy who had but recently passed.

Make Up, Brother.

Philadelphia Inquirer—College professor who says "women will be rulers of the next generation," is already quite a number of generations behind the times.

All In Good Fun.

Urbana Democrat—A Champaign County farmer says he hasn't so many amusements as the city man, but he gets quite a kick out of the city man's efforts to solve the farm problem.

Louisville Times—Nowadays the maraschino cherry probably feels greatly humiliated by the stuff with which it is forced to associate.

Who?

Atlanta Constitution—Congress is now engaged in framing a new tariff bill, but we know who will be framed.

Figures Lie.

The Washington Post—A New York humanitarian has worked out a budget under which two persons can get married for a total expenditure of $75. But it isn't the initial cost of marriage—it's the upkeep.

Heaven Forbid.

The Fader.

Detroit News—Next to a 10-cent carnation, nothing fades any faster, when she starts, than a lady politician who took an outstanding part in the campaign.

Cheer For Critic.

The Washington Post—A court decision to the effect that "Abie's Irish Rose" is "old stuff," no doubt will make the New York dramatic critics who said it wouldn't run a week feel a whole lot better.

NOKESVILLE BIBLE CLASS IN SESSION

Monthly Meeting Held At Residence of C. M. Summers, Good Program.

The Nokesville Bible Class held its regular meeting last week in the residence of Mr. C. M. Summers, when a regular program was carried out after which routine business was cared for.

The program opened with the singing of the hymn "Washed in the Blood of the Lamb," followed by scripture reading by Mrs. C. M. Summers, prayer by Mrs. M. J. Sheppard, roll call and reading of the minutes. The sick committee reported that three visits were made during the month. Upon motion it was decided to assist Rev. Luther F. Miller in the organization of a Sunday School at Bristow. Votes of sympathy were made on behalf of the storm stricken friends of the community, and each of them will receive a letter from the Bible Class.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mr. M. J. Sheppard, and the leader will be Mr. Michaelson.

A meeting of the Belle Haven Baptist Church Cemetery Fence committee will be held May 30, at 2 p. m.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR MAY 26, 1929.

The International Sunday School Lesson for May 26 is, "God's Law in the Heart"—Jeremiah 31:29-34; John 1:17.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

"One ship drives east, another drives west
While the selfsame breezes blow,
It's the set of the sail, and not the gale
That guides them where they go.

"Like the winds of the seas are the waves of fate"
As we voyage along through life;
It's the set of the soul that decides the goal
And not the winds of strife."

Law-observance is coming to be the primary concern of all citizens who are big and brave enough to look on life with their own eyes and to do their own thinking. Many articles are being written and speeches made concerning measures to diminish crime. Yet the core of the whole subject is in the promise of the Prophet Jeremiah, "After those days, saith the Lord, I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts." Law-observance is fundamentally a matter of the heart's inclination; "It's the set of the soul that decides the goal." Not policemen or judges or prison-bars are the final factor in obedience to law, but only the state of the spirit. "Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life."

Because the hearts of most people are sound, and rightly inclined, civilization is possible. They observe the law simply because they are that kind of folk. In the depths of their being, Christian nations have a loyalty to God and to the common good which makes law-observance natural and easy. Their outward actions are right because their inward motives are not wrong. Obedience to civil statutes is no problem with them because they are primarily true to the higher law, written in their hearts. The strength of society, its saving salt, are these sturdy spirits who can say, "Thy word have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against Thee."

Getting Down To Bed Rock.

President Hoover recently startled and stirred the world by his Associated Press address upon law-observance and the prevalence of crime and the too-frequent immunity of the criminal. This was a brave, forthright utterance, which went all the way in making clear that the basic criminal is the citizen who thinks he can make choice among the laws he is to obey. Frankly the President pointed out that this state of mind—which furnishes the bootlegger, the gangster and the grafter with their means of livelihood—imperils the continuance of civilization.

Law must rule in the individual life if it is to be sovereign in the State. There are no exempt classes. And the surest, swiftest way to enthroned all law is to establish a master allegiance in the individual heart. Jeremiah pointed out this path before ever the President did. We do not need a code if we have the right spirit. When the law is written in the hearts of the people there will be no question about the observance of the statutes; has put into verse the truth of the of the state of Sinai. W. B. Rands flaming holiness of Jehvohav:

"One Lord there is, all lords above,
His name is Truth, His name is Love,
His name is Beauty, it is Light,
His will is Everlasting Right.
But ah! to Wrong, what is His name?
This Lord is a consuming flame
To every wrong beneath the sun:
He is one Lord, the Holy One.

"Lord of the everlasting Name,
Truth, Beauty, Light, Consuming flame!
Shall I not lift my heart to Thee,
And ask Thee, Lord, to rule in me?"

"If I be ruled in otherwise,
My lot is cast with all that dies;
With things that harm, and things that hate,
And roam by night, and miss the gate—
The happy gate which leads to where
Love is like sunshine in the air,
And love and law are both the same,
Named with an everlasting Name."

Oil In Fire-Extinguishers.

Imagine a building or a town ablaze, with all the fire-extinguishers filled with kerosene, instead of chemicals or water. That is the case in many American communities where the police are allied with the criminal element. Startling stories have of late come out concerning guardians of the public safety who were themselves professional thieves and murderers. The situation is scarce, and warrants the strong speech of President Hoover.

Remedial measures of many sorts are proposed. More efficacious than any of them, though, is the Jeremiah cure: the establishment of God's law in the human heart. Sincere Christians neither commit nor condone crime. The most direct and economical method of wiping out lawlessness is to increase the number of vital Christians. Give youth the glow and interest and enthusiasm of Christian activity and allegiance and there will straightway be no problem of the "younger generation". It is right to investigate and purge all law-enforcement agencies, but the one and only comprehensive way to dry up the swollen river of crime is to turn potential criminals into active Christians.

"This Way Out!"

Society is bogged in the mire, and in peril. There is only one way out. Let us not befog our minds with fantastic futilities and sterile sophistication. Deliverance cannot come, except by the old, old and oft-tried method which Jeremiah proclaimed, six hundred years before Jesus came to expound and expand and exemplify the same truth. The heart of the individual human being is our only hope.

Wrong units cannot be combined to make a right whole. Only righteous men and women can constitute a righteous society. That is as plain as A B C. If the will to do, wrong predominates among the people, no amount of lawmaking will cause them to do right. If, on the other hand, the desire to do right is prevalent, the laws will not be required.

Give us a generation of converted youth, loving God and their fellow men, and all of our perils will pass. Then will follow, as the day follows night, a passion of Christian patriotism which will view lawlessness with intolerance. The Christian conception of pure love and happy homes will prevail. All that hurts humanity—whether it be liquor, drugs, greed or war—will be cast out. Society will be changed by the ennobling of its constituent parts. Illuminated and redeemed individuals will illuminate and redeem the world. Followers of Christ will lead the world into a Christian order. Other than this, there is no way out.

The Ultimate Factor.

Mostly, the Hebrew prophets dealt with national problems. But all of them flashed forth at times this Lesson's truth that religion is a personal transaction of the individual with God. When the human heart becomes a tablet upon which is written the Divine will, then the goal of the Scriptures is reached. Jeremiah is calling us back, in the passage under study, to a truth which our times are beclouding. All we are needing is for the single soul to come to terms with God.

Consistency In Merchandise - - - Persistency in Advertising

How often we have heard and how often we have realized by observation the excellence of that terse and admirable quotation "Consistency Thou Art a Jewel".

Consistency in your conscientious business conduct creates that confidence which gives prestige and standing. Persistency in advertising directs and impresses the buying public that you are constantly studying their wants and have the interests of prospective customers ever in mind and merit their patronage.

The mariner who is doubtful of his course cannot place absolute reliance in the spasmodic signal flash of the sky rocket (useful and attractive though it may be) but he watches for that penetrating shaft of light—sweeping the waters at regular intervals from the dependable lighthouse.

It is by persistent, reliable and frequent advertising you build business character, which holds the attention and guides the undecided customer to a safe haven of merchandising.

Don't consider your subscription or the advertising you carry with your home newspaper as a contribution or as an obligation you owe as a business man or citizen of the community.

Don't place the publisher of your local paper in the position of an object of charity, but advertise in every issue of your home newspaper to get results—to quickly build your business as every successful merchant is doing.

Advertise as persistently as the big mail-order houses do throughout your trade territory and you'll get results, too.

No country on earth affords such splendid opportunities for business expansion as is offered in this enterprising country with its efficient hard-working newspaper publishers who want to earn their money by stimulating and promoting the business of their respective communities.

By consistent merchandising you are establishing a structure of solid business character—but this is not sufficient to build or increase your business. You must provide a well-paved, attractive, clean and interesting thoroughfare by the use of persistent advertising. (Copyrighted By National Buy-At-Home Movement) will be made through committees appointed by the subordinate masters in each of the granges. The winning essays will be forwarded to the state masters who in similar manner will select the best state essay; these will be sent to the Master of the National Grange who, through a committee, will choose the six national winners. The winner of the first national prize will be given a trip with all expenses paid to the National Grange Sessions to be held at Seattle, Washington; this autumn. The other five will be cash prizes. In each of the thirty states where granges exist the best essay will be awarded a cash prize, and the writers of the next three in each state will receive bronze medals. The prizes are being donated by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The Highway Education Board which is experienced in educational work of this sort is cooperating with the National Grange in the enterprise. The competition will close on July 4, next, by which date, it was announced, all essays must be in the hands of the subordinate lecturers of the various granges. Detailed instructions, with posters illustrating the purpose of the contest, have been sent to the masters of all subordinate granges.

UNITED BRETHREN NAME NEW BISHOPS

General Conference in Session At Lancaster With Large Attendance.

Lancaster, Pa., May 21—Two pastors were elevated to the position of Bishops in the United Brethren in Christ denomination by the election of Rev. G. D. Batdorf, Ph.D., of Dayton, Ohio, and Rev. Ira D. Warner, D. D., of Akron, Ohio.

The new bishops were stationed as follows: Bishop G. D. Batdorf succeeds Bishop Bell, of the East Area, who voluntarily retired, with headquarters at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and Bishop Ira D. Warner succeeding the late Bishop W. H. Washinger, of the Pacific Area with headquarters at Portland, Oregon.

The United Brethren denomination was born in the barn at the Otterbein-Boehm "Great Meeting" in 1766 when Phillip William Otterbein, a distinguished missionary of the German Reformed Church to America, and Martin Boehm, a zealous Mennonite minister, met for the first time. This meeting took place following unique personal religious awakenings and experiences of these two Christian leaders when they clasped hands and Otterbein declared, in the German language "Wir Sind Bruder". (We are Brethren). This was the real beginning of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ.

The followers of Otterbein and Boehm, in order to conserve the results of these early evangelistic efforts, organized, through necessity and not design, the United Brethren denomination—the first church founded in the United States which is not an offshoot of another denomination.

The first General Conference was held in Mt. Pleasant, Pennsylvania, in 1815. Since then General Conferences have been held at regular intervals.

S. S. CONVENTION AT WYTHEVILLE

Virginia Council of Religious Education Announces Program For June 19 to 21

The Virginia Council of Religious Education has issued an attractive eight-page folder announcing the annual convention to be held at Wytheville, June 19-21, 1929. The folder carries photographs of the principal out of state speakers, a copy of the tentative program, and all necessary information concerning registration and entertainment.

An unusual feature this year will be the convention music. Mr. Homer Rodeheaver will have charge of the music and will lead the singing at all of the general sessions.

Mr. Rodeheaver has served for eighteen years as song leader in the evangelistic campaigns conducted by Mr. W. A. Sunday in every part of America. He has directed the largest choruses and the largest congregations that have ever gathered consecutively for religious meetings. He has sung to more people than any man living today, and has probably persuaded more people to sing than any other song leader. He has made phonograph records for all the large companies and more of his gospel songs have been sold on records than of any other man who has ever made records.

Mr. B. D. Ackley, internationally known as a pianist and composer, will serve as pianist throughout the convention. He is the author of about one thousand hymns and many of his hymns are found in all of the leading hymn books. It will indeed be a rare opportunity to be under the leadership of Mr. Rodeheaver and Mr. Ackley during the convention.

Prominent Leaders.

Among the out of state program leaders are Dr. Robert M. Hopkins, New York City, General Secretary of the World's Sunday School Association; Rev. Charles D. Bulls, Nashville, Tenn., Associate Editor, Sunday School Publications, Methodist Episcopal Church, South; Dr. D. W. Kurtz, Long Beach, California, and Dr. Leander S. Keyser, Springfield, Ohio, professor of Systematic Theology, Wittenburg College.

WOODLAWN

School will close on Thursday, May 30. There will be a picnic dinner, league meeting, a program with recitations, songs and music and speaking.

Special speakers will be Dr. C. R. C. Johnson; Mrs. W. L. Lloyd, who will talk on Banner League work; Miss Ruby Ryman, county nurse, speaking on "Health", and Mr. Earhart, talking on community work. Following the picnic dinner there will be a base ball game, while the ladies will give a demonstration of making flowers. All are invited to come and bring a basket.

PLOWING AND PLANTING DELAYED BY FREQUENT RAINS

Farm work and crop growth were retarded during the latter part of April by unfavorable weather conditions, according to the May report of the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service. Plowing and planting were delayed by frequent rains in practically all parts of the State except in the extreme East and Southwest. The season is much earlier than last year and slightly earlier than usual. Fruit trees bloomed about ten days earlier than usual, but escaped severe frost damage, although there was considerable injury in parts of the Southwest and in low locations in other sections. All crops made favorable progress during the first part of April, but growth was retarded by cool, wet weather during the latter part of the month. Truck crops are considerably earlier than last year and carlot shipments to May 1st were much larger than in 1928. The condition of hay and pastures is unusually good.

Mechanical Refrigeration Grows.

A most surprising increase of public interest in electric refrigeration was manifest in the number of visitors in showrooms throughout the country during Frigidaire Cold Control Week, according to Hynson & Bradford, local representatives. Thousands of people took advantage of the opportunity to learn more about mechanical refrigeration for the household and to familiarize themselves with the newest Frigidaire feature, which permits the user to obtain any required temperature for ice and dessert making.

"General warm-weather prevailing early this spring had something to do with the unusually early demand. But the introduction of the Frigidaire cold control, with its six freezing speeds, which cuts the time of ice making almost in half, has we believe contributed even more to present phenomenal conditions," they added.

FAIRFAX FIRE FIGHTERS WILL HAVE BENEFIT

A benefit for the Volunteer Fire Department of Fairfax will be held on Saturday, June 1, when the Woman's Auxiliary of the Fire company will serve lunches and conduct a food sale in connection with the Confederate Memorial Day exercises there.

PROTECTING THE POTATO CROP.

The potato has its full share of insect pests and diseases. To obtain a maximum yield, the grower must protect the crop against these ravages.

Besides the insect damages of the Colorado beetle, the old-fashioned potato beetle or blister beetle, the flea beetle, cutworm, potatoes are attacked by the following diseases: Early blight, late blight, Fusarium blight, Rhizoctonia scab, verticillium wilt, mosaic, leaf roll and common scab.

The last six diseases named are controlled only through the use of clean, disease-free seed. In the case of verticillium wilt it is often necessary to rotate crops to keep the soil clean. Common scab is controlled by disinfecting the seed before planting and avoiding soils known to produce scabby potatoes. The losses from these diseases emphasize the necessity of using only certified seed. It is more than significant that almost all the record potato growers for the past several years have produced their record crops from certified seed. Its use is insurance against these diseases.

In the control of the Colorado beetle it is necessary to use sprays containing arsenical poisons. Arsenate of lead or calcium arsenate are the recommended materials to add to the Bordeaux mixture sprays for this purpose. Early potatoes should be sprayed with Bordeaux mixture to which two pounds of arsenate of lead or one pound of calcium arsenate has been added to each 50 gallons of spray. The first application should be made as soon as the first flea beetles or potato bugs appear. Repeat the treatment in ten days if a second application is necessary to kill all the beetles. After potatoes are about eight inches high they should be sprayed with Bordeaux mixture at intervals of eight to ten days, depending on the amount of rainfall. Usually seven or eight applications will protect the plants properly until they are mature. This schedule should be followed on both early and late varieties.

The flea beetle is more difficult to control than the Colorado or common potato beetle, as it eats less foliage, and hence is not so easily poisoned. Keeping the foliage well covered with Bordeaux mixture with arsenical poison included serves as a repellent to this pest.

The plant louse and potato leafhopper, on account of the manner in which they obtain their food from the plant—by sucking the juices—can not be destroyed by applying poison to the foliage. The only effective method of control is an application of a contact insecticide, such as nicotine sulphate or kerosene emulsion. The former is recommended, and should be applied at the rate of one pint of nicotine sulphate (40 per cent nicotine) to 100 gallons of water. Particular care should be taken to spray the under side of the leaves.

The potato leafhopper is a comparatively new pest, but is now rather widely scattered throughout the eastern half of the United States. The nicotine sulphate applications in connection with the use of Bordeaux mixture will serve to repel this enemy.

It is noticeable that successful growers of the big potato yields are heavy and consistent sprayers. Strong vigorous plants are obtained only by the use of good seed plus a program of thorough spraying. Sprays to be effective must be applied to quantities sufficient to cover the vines completely. This will require about 75 gallons per acre when the potatoes are only a few inches high, but at least 150 gallons per acre will be needed when the vines are nearing mature growth.

Bordeaux mixture may be made at home as follows: Dissolve five pounds of copper sulphate in 20 gallons of water. Slake five pounds of unslaked lime in water and dilute to 20 gallons. Pour the copper sulphate and lime solutions together, stirring thoroughly. Add water to make 50 gallons. This makes what is known commonly as 5-5-50 Bordeaux mixture.

Where Paris green is used as an arsenical poison it should be used at the rate of 8 to 12 ounces with two pounds of slaked lime and water to make 50 gallons.

Potato spraying is a matter that must be determined and adjusted to the season and the locality. The safe rule is to spray often enough to keep the foliage well covered with fungicide as long as there is any apparent danger. But it is also well to remember that thorough and timely spraying is just as important on the small garden plot of potatoes as on the largest field.

On a wide series of test plots last year it was found that the yield of No. 1 potatoes was increased on an average from 56 to 136 bushels per acre by spraying for protection against hopperburn and late blight, the two most common diseases.

Potato growing has arrived at that stage of commercial production where price competition and profit margins render the maximum yield necessary for profitable continuance. This mark can not be reached if diseases and insects are permitted to exact their annual toll. Spraying is the only available preventive means.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving remembrance of my cousin, Wallace Garrison, who departed this life May 21, 1927.

The blow was hard, the shock severe, I never thought his death so near. Only those who have lost can tell, The pain of parting without saying farewell.

As we loved him so, we miss him,
In our memory he is always near,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
By his cousin,
THRESA.
