

VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY IN MADDUX MURDER

TOWN COUNCIL IS GIVEN BIG VOTE

Tuesday's Election Developed No Great Opposition To Ticket.

ALL FIVE PRESENT MEMBERS ARE REELECTED

Harry P. Davis, Now Mayor of Manassas, Likely To Be Continued As Such.

Indicative of their confidence in the administration of Mayor Harry P. Davis, and members of the town council, voters of Manassas on Tuesday rolled up a handsome majority for the present members, returning them to office for another two years.

While the members of the council just reelected were the only candidates who filed their names with the clerk of the court for certification to the county electoral board and whose names therefore were the only ones to appear upon the official ballot, a mild contest developed at the last minute and many names were written into the ballot at the poles.

It was generally understood several weeks back that a group of citizens opposed to the present council would organize and place the names of candidates in the field to supplant councilmen whose names appeared on the ballot, but no such organization was perfected and few voters knew that there was any plan to overthrow any of the present council members, nor were there any active candidates in the field.

"The vote on Tuesday should hearten the council members in their effort to give the town a business administration," said a citizen yesterday, and it is believed will inspire them to carry forward a progressive policy following a better road in which to live.

How They Voted.
The vote on Tuesday was tabulated as follows, the first five names being the "regular" ticket, and the only ones printed on the ballot, while all other names were written in and printed names scratched.

James E. Bradford, 129; Edgar G. Parrish, 193; Harry P. Davis, 182; Bruce Whitmore, 165; D. J. Arrington, 175.

E. R. Conner, 56; C. E. Nash, 38; J. H. Burke, 46; W. E. Trusler, 10; A. A. Hooff, 1; T. E. Diddle, 8; C. E. Fisher, 2; R. M. Jenkins, 3; O. E. Newman, 2; C. R. C. Johnson, 3; J. C. Parrish, 2; G. Walker Merchant, 1; J. H. Steele, 1; Harvey Garrett, 1; Richard S. Hynson, 1; W. F. Hibbs, 1; George B. MacDonald, 1.

J. L. GORRELL DIES SUDDENLY

Funeral Here Yesterday And Interment In Catlett Cemetery.

J. L. Gorrell died suddenly on Tuesday at his home here. Mr. Gorrell was born in Harford County, Md., in 1842, and had been in Prince William County for many years, coming to Manassas about 9 years ago.

The deceased was a well known Confederate soldier and during the war was one of General Lee's body guards.

The funeral rites were conducted yesterday, services being held at the home with Rev. George Hasel, Rev. Westwood Hutchison and Rev. Lawson, conducting, while interment was in the cemetery at Catlett where Rev. Marsh, Mark and Burgess, three old friends of the deceased, officiated.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Phoebe T. Gorrell; four daughters and one son, Marion, Monroe, Va.; Mrs. Jennie Funkhouser, Belle Meade, N. J.; Mrs. Ella Edmonston, Washington; Mrs. Bertha Modena, Washington; and Henry Gorrell, Plainfield, N. J., and twelve grand children and ten great grand children.

IMPORTANT FIRE MEETING.

There will be an important meeting of the Fire Department of Manassas on Monday, June 17, at 8 p. m., in the council chambers. Members are urged to attend.

TORNADO RELIEF FUND CONTINUES TO GROW

Week's Advance Is Small, But Hope Is Expressed That Week Will Show Big Gain.

The relief fund for the storm sufferers in Nokesville and vicinity is nearing the $1,000 mark, according to announcement yesterday by G. Raymond Ratcliffe, treasurer of the tornado relief fund of Prince William Chapter, American Red Cross, who advised that contributions continue to come in.

The goal set by the American Red Cross and announced by Mrs. W. L. Lloyd, president of the Prince William Chapter, was $3,000, so that it behooves those who have in mind doing something toward raising this amount to send in their subscriptions at once.

"There never has been a more worthy cause or one that should make a greater appeal to the people of Prince William," said a Red Cross worker yesterday. "These people who need temporary assistance in getting on their feet in the restoration of their homes and getting together the utensils necessary for keeping the home going from day to day, are our friends and neighbors. Don't put off sending in your contribution another minute."

D. M. CHICHESTER IS UNOPPOSED

No Other Candidate Files For Democratic Primary. Opposition Expected In Fall.

There will be no contest for the nomination of a Democratic candidate for House of Delegates from the district composed of Prince William and Stafford counties in the August primary election this year. The time limit for entry into primary expired last Thursday night and Dan M. Chichester, who represented the district in the last session of the General Assembly was the only Democrat to file declaration of candidacy. He will therefore be declared the Democratic nominee without opposition.

Opposition Expected In Fall.
There are strong rumors that the Republican party may nominate a candidate to oppose him in the fall election, and according to local Republican leaders, it is considered almost certain that E. E. Fisher, chairman of the Stafford County Republican Committee, will be their choice.

Under his leadership the G. O. P. has made considerable gains in Stafford, and it is generally thought that he would make the strongest candidate that the Republicans could select.

Chichester Gains In Favor.
It is the consensus of opinion that Chichester will be a hard man to beat, regardless of who may oppose him in the November election. He will undoubtedly have the solid support of the Democrats of Prince William as he is popular with both the regular and Anti-Smith wings of the party.

Two years ago he piled up a remarkable majority in this county, and in Stafford he received one of the largest votes ever given a Democrat. He is better known and more popular now than then, and the work accomplished by him at the last session of the legislature will make him a stronger candidate than before, according to party leaders.

FRESH AIR PLAN IS MAKING PROGRESS

Homes For Tenement Children Are Being Procured. Meeting Held.

A meeting of the committee of the Tribune Fresh Air fund for this county was held in the director's room of the National Bank of Manassas last week, with Mrs. T. J. Broadus, chairman, presiding.

Many of the preliminary plans for caring for the tenement children of New York for two weeks during the summer were discussed and active efforts to procure homes for a number of these children were started. Several residents of the county have already made application to Mrs. Broadus for children and it is believed that many more than were cared for last year will be able to come to Prince William homes.

For information regarding the plan of the Fresh Air Fund committee at once with Mrs. T. J. Broadus, chairman, or any of the following members of the committee: Mrs. J. P. Leachman, Rev. A. Stuart Gibson, Mrs. E. Swaveley, Mrs. Raymond J. Davis, Miss Loretta McGill, Mrs. Walter L. Saunders, Mr. O. D. Waters and Maj. F. W. Patterson.

REPUBLICAN CALL FOR CONVENTION

County Chairman Trusler Sets Date For June 22 At Manassas.

Republican voters of Prince William County will hold a convention in Manassas Saturday, June 22, according to announcement yesterday by the county chairman of the Republican party.

The convention was called for 10 o'clock and delegates and alternate delegates will be held in Richmond on Wednesday, June 26. It is believed that important matters of policy will also be discussed by the county organization and it is certain that the chairman of the committee, who is in close touch with the activities and plans of the State committee as well as the National organization, will have interesting information on party matters.

GRANT AVENUE TO BE PAVED SOON

Council Votes For Paving of Section of This Attractive Avenue.

At a meeting of the Town Council on Monday night it was voted to pave Grant Avenue on both sides from Lee Avenue to just beyond the Robert Smith place, work to begin at the earliest possible moment.

In authorizing this paving work it is understood that residents on either side of Grant Avenue will contribute one-half of the cost of the construction of the street and work will begin immediately after one-third of the sum pledged has been placed in the hands of the town treasurer.

The work will be done under the direction of W. F. Cooke, town manager, who has already prepared and submitted a survey with estimated cost of the work, and according to that office, construction will begin within a couple of weeks.

The proposed improvement is one of the most badly needed in the corporate limits of the town, but without the 100 per cent cooperation of the residents along the right of way it could not have been done for several years. It is the general opinion that the paving should have begun at Center Street and continued through, but the response of property holders in that block, which is sparsely settled, was not spontaneous.

It has been proposed that while this work on Grant Avenue is being done it would be well to carry it on the block on Lee Avenue between Grant and West street and down the latter street as far as Porter avenue. It is believed that West street residents are ready to pledge 50 per cent of the cost of work on that street and plans are on foot to interest the residents on Lee street in the project.

THE NIFTY SHOP MAKES WHOOPEE

M. H. S. Glee Club Gives Operetta Under Auspices of Manassas Kiwanis Club.

Despite the threatening weather a good crowd of Kiwanians and their friends turned out on Wednesday night to witness the performance of the Manassas Glee Club in a two-part entertainment given in the school auditorium for the benefit of the underprivileged child fund of Manassas Kiwanis.

While "The Nifty Shop", a one-act operetta, directed by Miss Catherine Weir, was the main offering of the evening, part one, which consisted of "Child's Idea of Mamma and Papa", in dialogue, done by "Dib and Dab", and an ensemble chorus of charming girls singing popular airs, contributed a large share to the evening's enjoyment.

"The Nifty Shop", as done by the members of the cast, is one of the finest things produced around these parts by a local organization, and not only reflects great credit on the cast for their earnest work in preparation for production, but upon the direction of the operetta by Miss Weir.

Mrs. Compton was the accompanist for part one and was splendidly assisted by the Manassas High School orchestra, while director Weir was at the piano for the rendition of the operetta.

JURY ACQUITTAL IN MURDER CASE

Willie Davis and Richard Davis, Exonerated of Blame In Maddux Death.

OTHER INDICTMENTS ARE NOLLE PROSSED

Jury Returned With Acquittal Verdict After Deliberating 45 Minutes.

With the acquittal yesterday of Willie Davis and Richard Davis, under trial for the murder in January of William Maddux, near Joplin, this county, a case which has held the attention of the public since April, at which time the men were indicted, came to an end.

Indicted with the two men acquitted yesterday were Coleman and John Davis, and Caton Carney, but the cases against them were nolle prossed following the acquittal yesterday of the other two men.

At the time of the death of William Maddux in January a doctor's certificate was given showing that death resulted from natural causes. Neighbors of the dead man stated that the death was the result of a fight or general mix up following a drinking party in which Maddux and the five men accused took part. Witnesses appearing before the grand jury in April told of the fight and an indictment resulted.

Confusion among the witnesses and inability of the state to prove that either of the two men on trial had been involved in a fight, despite the testimony in April before the grand jury, led to an acquittal. The jury had deliberated on the case for but 45 minutes. Commonwealth's Attorney Thomas H. Lion, the prosecutor, while Charles Henry Smith, of Alexandria, represented the accused.

The jury bringing in the acquittal verdict was composed of the following men: A. R. Rust, foreman; H. C. Teel, A. C. Hart, J. T. Bean, R. A. Pearson, E. P. Davis, Charles H. Keyser, A. H. Breeden, George H. Ayres, R. T. Ellis, O. W. Hedrick, and J. E. Marshall.

STUDENT CAST IN SHAKESPEARE

Out Door Setting To Feature Final Production.

As their final presentation for the current year, the Swaveley Players will produce Shakespeare's comedy, "Twelfth Night", on Friday night, according to the Swaveley Sentinel. The production will introduce a new form of dramatics at the school—the open air plan. The stage will be set in Mrs. Swaveley's spacious garden.

Casting has been extremely apt—indeed, unusually so. All the characters, while now familiar, are exceptionally capable. Leroy Bowers as Sir Toby Belch, a tremendous inebriate, and John Lindsey Ritchey as Sir Andrew Aguecheek, a long lean fop, promise to furnish real comedy. Wit will be assured by John Allen, as Feste, the jester, and by Edward Baggs, as the sharp tongued little maid Maria. The complete cast is as follows:

Feste John Allen
Maria Edward Baggs
Olivia Francis Cunningham
Malavio Charles Garrison
Sir Toby Belch J. Leroy Bowers
Sir Andrew Aguecheek John Ritchey
Rabian Daniel Carr

NEWS OF WEEK IN OLD VIRGINIA

Legion Gets Gadsby's Tavern.

Alexander, June 12—The process of removing paint from historic Gadsby's Tavern proves a bigger task than expected. There are, it is said 12 coats of paint on this historic edifice, located at 132 North Royal Street. The task is about half completed and it is expected that it will require five or six more days before the job is finished. This will be the future home of the local post of the American Legion. After the building is restored it will be opened to tourists.

New W. and L. Coach.

Lynchburg, June 12—William E. ("Bus") Malone of this city, football and baseball star at Lynchburg College and an amateur boxer of note in the state, announced here that he has been appointed boxing instructor at Washington and Lee University. It is planned to have the chapel completed and ready for service early in the coming fall. It will be erected on the same ground as the one burned, but set further back from the road.

Monroe Letters to U. of Va.

Charlottesville, June 12—Four autograph letters of President Monroe have recently been added to the manuscript collection in the new Virginia room of the university library. They are the gift of W. O. Watson, of Charlottesville, son of the late Judge Egbert Reed Watson. The letters were written by President Monroe to Judge Watson during the years 1829 to 1831. At that time Judge Watson was a student in the university and President Monroe was a member of the board of visitors.

Military School Ratings.

Staunton, June 12—Staunton Military Academy again an honor list military school.

A telegram from the war department, received Tuesday, notified academy officials that the institution had again been placed with schools deserving this distinction.

The Staunton school has won this honor in every year since 1912, that year included, with the exception of 1919.

Augusta Military Academy at Ft. Defiance and Fishburne Military school at Waynesboro have also won the war department's honor rating, thus giving the county a prestige in the matter of its military schools which probably is not equalled in the United States.

Merchants Ask Convention.

Petersburg, June 12—The Petersburg Chamber of Commerce, extended an invitation to the Virginia Retail Merchants Association to hold its 1930 convention in Petersburg. The invitation was addressed to W. T. Wade, Jr., of Clifton Forge, president of the association, which meets in Roanoke June 17 and 18.

Young Deavers found the fledgling on the ground and remarked to several companions that he was going to restore it to the nest. Just a foot from

ALUMNI BANQUET COLORFUL AFFAIR

Members of Alumni Get Out Issue of "Yellow Jacket". Large Guest List.

Brilliant quips and sharp sallies marked the annual banquet of the Alumni Association of Manassas High School, held in Parish Hall on Saturday night.

Miniature facsimiles of "The Yellow Jacket", the school paper, bearing the name of each guest were used as place cards, and within the attractive cover was the program.

The peak in lavish entertainment and program of commencement week was reached at this banquet. With gorgeous floral decorations and the attractive costumes of the ladies of the alumni, as well as the charming appearance to the girl graduates, the scene was a colorful one.

Hospital Head Quits.

Farmville, June 12—Miss Frances Cleave, who has been superintendent of the Southside Community Hospital here since its establishment, 18 months ago, has resigned.

The Southside Hospital, the first unit of rural hospitals established under the provisions of the commonwealth fund of New York serves nine counties in Southside Virginia.

Newspaper Suit Dropped.

Richmond, June 12—John Stewart Bryan, Richmond publisher, has withdrawn the suit for $500,000 libel brought against the Times-Dispatch Publishing Company and Basil Manly as the result of an article published under Manly's byline in the Richmond Times-Dispatch on May 11. Mr. Bryan said the suit was withdrawn on proper explanation of erroneous and misleading statements by the Times-Dispatch. The story on which the suit was based was on the Federal Trade Commission inquiry into the financing of newspaper purchases by the International Paper and Power Company.

Liquor Permit Denied Druggist.

Luray, June 13—Page county circuit court gave the whole of Thursday and part of Friday to the application of McKim and Huffman, Luray druggists, for license to dispense ardent spirits on physicians' prescriptions, which application was denied by the judge.

Five physicians testified in favor of the application. Fully 20 citizens of the town testified against. Several of the ministers of the community were summoned, each testified against the application.

Hooff and Mr. O. D. Waters, while numerous sub-committees cared for other details of the affair.

Miss Sarah Donohoe, president of the Alumni Association, presided as editor-in-chief of reportorial staff of the Yellow Jacket, and not only contributed a delightful editorial on "The Alumni Association," but saw to it that the historians, the society editor, the fashion editor, the editor on poetry, the sports editor, the circulation manager, business manager and advertising manager, read their contributions to the special edition or explained the intricate working of their particular departments.

JUDICIOUS JUNE JOTTINGS

June is the month of greatest plant growth. Weeds likewise will make their greatest inroads on the garden and farm crops. Warfare on weeds now will not only conserve the moisture for the use of the growing plants later in the summer, but will prevent many weeds from maturing seed for next year's propagation. Weeds also furnish protection for plant lice and other insect and disease enemies of crops.

The striped cucumber and melon beetle may be controlled with applications of dust composed of one part calcium arsenate and nine parts hydrated lime. For small plantings any small hand duster will prove satisfactory. If no other method is available, a can with a few nail holes punched in the bottom will serve as a duster to apply to poison.

The Mexican bean beetle continues to exact a heavy toll of both garden and field beans. Reports from various sections of the country indicate the attack is extremely heavy this year. Growers should be on the alert to discover this pest as soon as it appears. Control depends largely on destroying the beetles before they have become numerous and before extensive damage has been done. Disting with calcium arsenate at the rate of one pound of calcium arsenate to nine parts hydrated lime will prove effective. Calcium arsenate used as a spray should be mixed at the rate of two pounds of calcium arsenate and four pounds of hydrated lime mixed with fifty gallons of water. Whether spray or dust is used, it is necessary that poison be applied to under surfaces of the bean leaves, as the beetle feeds exclusively on the under surface of the leaf. Continual inspection and spraying or dusting when necessary will enable the bean grower reduce losses from the Mexican bean beetle to a negligible mark.

Roasting ears continue to be the American table delicacy with little loss of reputation as summer's gift extraordinary. The production of wormless corn is possible by spraying the silks of each ear when they first appear through the husks with an application of arsenate of lead mixed at the rate of five tablespoonfuls (level) to a gallon of water. A small hand atomizer spray may be used. A second application should be given in about two weeks, giving the old silks an application along with the new ones. This may seem a laborious process for a large acreage, but the production of fine, wormless ears is well worth the labor and material.

Lawns should receive plenty of water during the dry season, but this does not imply a slight watering every evening. Unless the soil is wet to a depth equal to the grass roots, the roots have a tendency to turn toward the surface in quest of the light applications of water. Thus, when dry weather comes later in the summer the small roots that have been attracted near the surface will be killed or injured by the heat. A thorough watering once or twice a week is preferable to light applications nightly.

receive their annual pruning during June. Besides the stems that were removed with blooms, there should be several superfluous branches and twigs requiring removal.

Sweet peas may be kept blooming throughout the summer by removing some of the lateral growths and keeping the earth gathered up around the roots and well mulched with lawn clippings. Sweet peas will need plenty of moisture and an occasional application of manure water to pass through the summer months with the profusion of blooms possible for the careful grower.

It is not too late to plant some of the early varieties of gladioli for late blooming. They will prove a treat in late September and early October if frosts are delayed. At least four leaves should be left on the gladiolus stalk to insure proper maturity of the corms. There are several annuals that may be planted yet to provide autumn blooms.

Early varieties of sweet corn may be planted every ten days to two weeks up until after the Fourth of July for late supplies of roasting ears and late canning corn.

Protect the bumblebee. Every nest that is destroyed keeps Nature from maturing many bushels of red clover seed. The bumblebee is necessary for successful red clover growing.

Keep plenty of fresh, clean water before the poultry flock during June. Remember that 65 per cent of an egg and 55 per cent of the hen's body is composed of water. Hot weather brings additional demands for plenty of water for the laying birds. The health of the pullet may also be endangered by lack of drinking water.

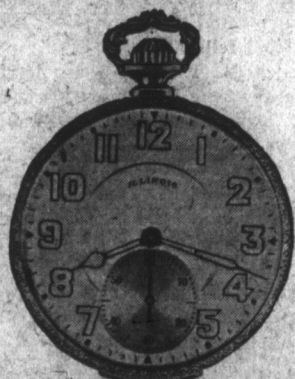

War on weeds with the hoe; war on insects with the sprayer. Two important tasks for June.

CONFEDERATE MEMORIAL AT HICKORY GROVE

(Contributed)

Celebration of the birthday of Jefferson Davis was held on Tuesday, June 4, and will be long remembered for pleasure and interest. There was a good attendance, with suitable music and reading, and also welcome refreshments.

The meeting, before closing, took the form of a tribute to our oldest and much valued member, Mrs. Ludwell Hutchison, sr., or as we often call her "Miss Fannie".

Mrs. Hutchison is one of our few charter members left to us, and has always been most loyally helpful to the society. There was much sentiment indicated on both sides, and there were also several small gifts in part recognition of the debt we owe her. A poem read by Miss A. M. Ewell, historian of the Eighth Virginia Regiment Chapter, follows:

"Only One Who Remembers."
I think of those long past days,

With glimmers of recollections,
A shimmering as through haze;
Though I was still but a baby
At the close of those troubled years
I think I remember a little
Of the glory and the tears.

But with her there is no mistaking,
For she was one of the girls,
Who would draw the gaze of the Yankees,
With their blooming cheeks and their curls;

And she was one who could flout them
And scornfully "make a face",
As courting such admiration
No better than disgrace.

That she was a loyal maiden,
We may be very sure;
Not one to smile on a foe man
Or even his gaze endure;
But there were other glances
When Johnnie Reb came by.
Ah, who can doubt she remembers,
The flash of his proud young eye?

Ah, who can doubt she remembers,
The sound of the long drum beat?
The shrill sweet notes of the bugle,
The tramp of the marching feet.

When the boys in gray were passing?
What though they are boys no more,
And most of them gone beyond us,
Clean gone to that other shore,
Such scenes are never forgotten,
They live in the heart for aye.

And wake to set it beating
When we are old and gray.
And we, though a few years younger,
Are proud to have with us yet
One who indeed remembers,
Because she cannot forget.

THE CRIME COMMISSION.

President Hoover's selection of members for his commission to study crime and our antiquated law machinery insures a scientific and impartial survey. Every member is distinguished in an important field of endeavor and their vocations run from the president of Ratcliffe College to a former Secretary of War.

The commission, in a two years' study, will undoubtedly bring some amazing facts to light. The President said: "Every student of our law enforcement mechanism knows full well that it is in need of vigorous reorganization; that its procedure unduly favors the criminal; that our judiciary needs to be strengthened; that the method of assembling our juries needs revision; that justice must be more swift and sure."

For many years the statute books have grown steadily more weighty with a burden of laws. Red tape abounds on every hand. A clever lawyer, apparently, can find a technicality to fit any case. Many famous trials seem to be contests in oratory and evasion, rather than surveys of facts. As a result, the criminal has prospered.

The ten men and one woman whom Mr. Hoover has selected represent every section of the United States. They are extraordinarily well fitted to cope with the difficult task ahead. Every citizen who is interested in preserving individual liberty and constitutional rights, and punishing criminals, will wish them success.

A STRANGE PHENOMENON.

We have seen a strange phenomenon in the United States the past few months in efforts that have been made to curb individual buying of securities on the ground that this was necessary to prevent the public being injured by inflated market values.

It is a ticklish undertaking to try to tell certain individuals or certain banks that they cannot borrow or loan money on certain transactions which some other individual or bank feels is overpriced.

Marriage might be said to be as much of a lottery as stock buying and yet what authority dares check the practice or choose the partners in the transaction?

Government protection of an investor against fraud is one thing. Paternalism which tells an individual what he can do with his money is quite a different thing.

The present inclination of the public to buy stocks and bonds in our industrial enterprises is as commendable as was its inclination to buy only land and mortgages a few years back, and it is bringing more growth and prosperity to the country.

IS HEFLIN TO PASS?

Announcement by John H. Bankhead that next year he will oppose Thomas J. Heflin for nomination to the United States Senate is interesting political news far beyond the bounds of Alabama, says the Richmond Times-Dispatch. Heflin, of course, is not a national figure in the sense that he is a man of weight and influence in the Democratic party or in the government, but by reason of the fact that he is a real disturber of the peace, a self-styled, blatant "defender of the faith", he has attracted attention from one end of the country to the other. Every citizen who reads the newspapers knows who the Alabama Senator is.

Nor is Bankhead himself unknown. Although the prospective candidate has been little in politics, the name suggests at once that he is from one of the most distinguished families of Alabama. Senator Bankhead was his father, and it is his father's toga, now worn by Heflin, to which the son aspires. A brother is a distinguished member of the House of Representatives. So while the citizen who will oppose Heflin is not in his own right recognized as a promising statesman, he at least comes from a household which has served ably and patriotically the American people.

Heflin is one of the most uninspiring figures the country has seen in its public life in this generation. He is reminiscent of Jeff Davis, of Arkansas, and Vardaman, of Mississippi. There is nothing in his record to place him at any appreciable height above the level of a disturbing factor. He may possess innate ability, but he employs it almost exclusively in stirring up religious hatreds. The fundamental principles upon which the republic was founded apparently mean nothing to him.

Of late the country at large has wondered if Heflin really was representative of Alabama. In recalling such men as Pettus, Bankhead, Morgan and Underwood, it could not believe he was. Perhaps he rode into power on one of those inexplicable political waves which most communities experience now and then. We shall see next year. Bankhead at least represents the best traditions of Alabama. It would certainly be worth while to experiment with his statesmanship by placing on him Heflin's senatorial toga.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR JUNE 16, 1929.

The International Sunday School Lesson for June 16 is "Judah Taken Captive"—Kings 25:1-21.
By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

Thoughtless tourists in Jerusalem regard only as a "sight" the Friday spectacle of Jews at prayer by the Western Wall, or "the Wailing Place", as it is familiarly known. Few sense the drama of the scene. Nor do they perceive the present significance of it being but one-time visitors. Those of us who have been going to the Wall for the Friday prayers, at intervals across a long stretch of years, discern a real meaning in the changing scene.

Before the war only a small group of venerable eastern European Jews, some of them professionally employed for the service, could be seen musing before the few tiers of huge yellowed limestone blocks which are all that survive of the glory of Solomon's Temple. Nails have been driven into the cracks between the stones, and names and pious phrases in Hebrew have been painted on the surface. In those days there was ample room in the narrow street which runs along the wall for all who wanted to come.

Now crowds throng the spot every Friday. Jews from every nation under heaven may be found there. The professional prayers are submerged in the multitude, and their voices are lost in the general murmur of psalms and prayers. I have seen an alert English-speaking mother and father, dressed in the latest New York fashion, lead their two small sons up to the stones to kiss these memorials of departed glory. I have beheld a stately, beautiful woman, in oriental garb, who might have posed for a portrait of Rebecca or Hannah, kiss the wall in the fervor of tragic grief and religious ardor. A hundred evidences of the quickened concern of Jews for their nation and for their faith may be witnessed weekly at this little bit of thoroughfare which is the Hebrew Via Dolorosa. All commemorate the event which is the present Sunday School Lesson, the final fall of Judah and the destruction of Jerusalem by the soldiers of Nebuchadnezzar.

Many empires have fallen, and many nations have perished; but none's end has so continuously impressed the mind of the western world as the collapse of Judah, the destruction of Jerusalem, and the captivity of the Jews, in 586 B. C. That event was logical and inevitable, but none the less tragic. It marked the end of an era, the break-down of history's greatest experiment.

True, the kingdom was only God's second-best thought for the Jews. He had offered them a theocracy; but they had preferred a monarchy, in order to fall in with the fashions of the neighboring nations. About five hundred years before Nebuchadnezzar's troops ravaged and razed Jerusalem, the Jewish people had their first acclaimed giant Saul as their first king. The interval had witnessed greatness and glory in the nation, as well as sorrow and suffering and shame, according as the people had been true or recreant to Jehovah.

Pictured in strong colors, beyond any man's mistaking, the history of the Jews is an example of the relation of political prosperity to the personal character of the people. As the day's Golden Text recalls, in a familiar passage from one of the Hebrew Wisdom Books, "Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people." The Jews had failed in loyalty to God; and as an inevitable consequence, in loyalty to righteousness and justice and good will; and so they came upon disaster. To the very end, the leaders were heedless of the clear call of the prophets of the Most High. Even with Nebuchadnezzar's legions hammering at their gates, they were flouting and punishing the Prophet Jeremiah.

Too late the king and his courtiers but he makes some otherwise serious situations appear so ludicrous that it makes one laugh to think that they are considered serious. Will should have a place in Hoover's Cabinet, where he can keep people from becoming too concerned about their greatness.

So That's It.

New York Times—In fairness to Mr. Graustein, of the International Paper & Power Co., it has been suggested that he may be an ardent comic-strip fan and bought newspapers right and left in order to miss nothing.

tried to flee down the way of the Arabah. They were captured on the Jericho plain, and tortured or executed, while the destruction of the city proceeded. Once too often the explicit will of Jehovah had been disregarded.

Morality And Greatness.

All sorts of folk will study this Lesson; and every one will read on its very surface the teaching that apart from righteousness there is no permanent prosperity. Individual morals are not an academic matter, to which the state may remain indifferent. There is no guarantee of national greatness and permanence so sure as the integrity and religion of the average citizen. The bulwarks of personal character in ancient Judah collapsed before ever the walls of Jerusalem were battered down. Every great statesman throughout history has perceived the truth, so clearly stated by Washington in his Farewell Address, that private morality and public welfare cannot be permanently dissociated. The mother, the Sunday School teacher, the preacher, who is shaping young life into godliness is doing a fundamental work of patriotism.

It has been my lot to stand upon most of the famous ruined capitals of the world, an experience conducive to philosophy. Again and again of an evening I have walked out from Jerusalem to the overlooking slopes of the Mount of Olives, to muse upon the meaningful city and its message. Always these thoughts were linked with one's homeland, and the call of the past to a present patriotism which shall be fundamentally religious, and rooted in righteousness. May I again quote the crusading lines of William Blake, adapted:—

"I will not cease from mental flight,
Nor shall my sword sleep in my hand,

Till we have built Jerusalem,
In this our green and pleasant land."

Gone is the temporal political identity of Judah; but a spiritual Judah is growing, which is the hope of all nations in all lands. For a people with the Law of Jehovah written on their hearts, there are no Chaldean hordes to be feared.

Trudging The Bitter Road.
Worse than the destruction of the capital city of Judah was yet to befall the Jews. For all the fit people of the nation were carried off into captivity, only the poor and wretched and ineffective being left behind to till the fields. At least twenty-five thousand Jewish captives, after all the horrors of a victorious siege, were led over the bitter road to Babylon, along which their father Abraham had once so hopefully journeyed, in a reverse direction. On all the earth's surface there is no highway so fraught with memories as that which leads across the desert from Syria to the Tigris and Euphrates Valley, and so down to lower Mesopotamia.

That exile of the Jews has long been a familiar figure of ultimate suffering and sorrow and shame. We may say that such a horror is not possible in our own day; but we are mistaken. The Armenians and Assyrians, who, during the war, were driven over the same route, suffered in greater numbers than the Jews. The "exchange of populations", as we euphemistically call the League of Nations post-war plan for the exile of all Christians from Turkey and of all Moslems from Greece, was a worse horror than the fate of the Jews. I saw it for myself. War and unrighteousness bear the same fruit in all ages.

So Judah's fate is a challenge to think in terms of nations; and to think of the relationship of righteousness to national prosperity. The force which destroyed the Kingdom of Judah was less the armies of Babylon than the sins of the people themselves. And after this exile, the Jews never again reverted to idolatry. Their bitter lesson had been learned.

Government by Force.

Florida Times-Union—Tampa Tribune says the firing squad seems to be the branch of Government now in charge of prohibition enforcement.

Seems Incredible.

San Francisco Chronicle—Our forefathers must have been great guys. They could make up their minds without a nation-wide survey.

IMPORTANT FIRE MEETING.

There will be an important meeting of the Fire Department of Manassas on Monday, June 17, at 8 p. m., in the council chambers. Members are urged to attend.

Newspaper Advertising More Productive Than Direct Circularizing

By a united effort in the use of good descriptive store-news advertising regularly in the local newspapers the merchants of any community could, within a very short time, discourage mail-order buying entirely.

Every local retailer should be able to hold his own in the way of effective copy simply by looking over the different catalog supplements of the mail-order houses for the current month, and then arrange his advertising so as to counteract the trade pulling power of the "leaders" which the catalog houses are offering.

No merchant would need to worry about the mail-order house or his big competitor in a neighboring city or town if he but devoted proper time to his advertising, which is just as important to the success of his own business as is direct-mail advertising to the catalog house—the most vital part of their business.

It is really astonishing to note the large number of retail merchants in business today who fail to understand or realize how vitally necessary newspaper advertising is to successful merchandising and this, no doubt, accounts for the enormous increase each year of mail-order sales.

Store-news advertising should be made just as interesting as is possible to make it, with attractive illustrations, so that the people of the town and country will enjoy looking over the new merchandise offerings each day and visit the store more often.

Hundreds of live merchants located in small towns, by the use of interesting store-news advertising—which always carries a cordial invitation for patronage—are drawing trade not merely from their own trade territory but from other nearby towns as well.

This is accomplished simply by advertising regularly and in giving each customer such exceptional service that they will look for the store-news bulletin every day or week, and buying at such a store will have become not a convenience but a real pleasure.

Intensive and continuous advertising in the home newspaper is a great deal more effective in promoting sales and in founding a staple business than direct-mail circularizing, for the reason newspaper advertising constantly secures new patrons which are absolutely essential in building and maintaining any kind of business.

Years of service in MODEL T FORDS

THE Model T was so strongly and sturdily built that it is still rendering reliable, economical service to motorists in every section of the country. Millions of these cars can be put in shape for two, three and five more years of use at very small cost.

So that you may have this work done economically and satisfactorily, the Ford Motor Company is still devoting a considerable section of its plants to the manufacture of Model T parts. It will continue to do so as long as they are needed by Model T owners. The following list gives the approximate labor charges for reconditioning the Model T Ford:

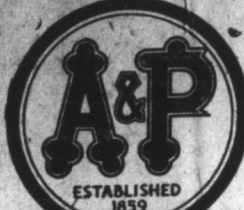

Engine
Tune motor (including replacement of commutator case, break and vibrator points if necessary)	$1.00
Grind valves and clean carbon	$3.75 to 4.00
Overhaul carburetor	1.50
Re-line detachable car transmission bands	1.50
Install new pistons or connecting rods	6.00
Tighten all main bearings	6.00
Overhaul motor and transmission	$20.00 to 25.00
Rear System
Replace rear axle assembly	2.50
Install universal joint	3.00
Re-line brake shoes	1.50
Replace rear axle shaft, drive shaft pinion, or drive gear	7.50
Overhaul complete rear axle assembly	$5.75 to 7.00
Rebush spring and perches	1.75
Oil and graphite springs	3.00
Front System
Overhaul front axle	$4.00 to 5.00
Rebush spindle bodies and arms (both sides)	2.50
Replace or straighten spindle connecting rod	.75
Tighten radius rod or steering ball cap	.60
Tighten all sockets and joints of front end	1.50
Replace front spring tie bolt or new leaf	2.50
Straighten front axle	3.00
Chassis
Replace rear fender	1.75
Overhaul steering gear	3.50
Repair muffler	1.00
Overhaul radiator	7.50
Repaint Coupe	25.00
Repaint Sedan	25.00
Repaint Touring Car	20.00
Reupholster Runabout	3.00
Reupholster Touring Car	15.00
Replace top deck (Coupe or Sedan)	4.00
Overhaul starting motor	3.00
Overhaul generator	2.60

These prices are approximate and are for labor only, because the need and number of new parts depend on the condition of each car. The charge for these parts is low, however, because of the established Ford policy of manufacturing and selling at a small margin of profit.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear parents, mother, who departed this life one year ago, June 15, 1928, and father, seven months ago, November 6, 1928.

One year has passed, dear mother, Since you left me for the other shore. And seven months have passed, Since father went to join you there. And left me all alone.

God saw your sufferings here on earth Were more than you could bear. And took you from this "world of wilderness and woe", To a better home, I hope.

Some may think that I'm not lonely, When at times they see me smile. Little do they know the heartaches That I suffer all the while.

Parents dear, you are not forgotten, And never will you be. 'Till God sees fit to sign my passport, So I can go to thee.

By their daughter.

M. H. S. STUDENTS WIN MORE HONORS

Prizes Outside of School Fall in Way of Several Pupils.

In addition to the prizes annually given to Manassas High School pupils, two others of special interest were awarded this year; one of $20.00 to Miss Gertrude Buckley from the American Chemical Society. The American Chemical Society awards six prizes annually in each of the American states for the six best essays offered on chemical themes by high school students.

In connection with this it is of interest to note that the Chemical Society also offers yearly six prizes of $500 each in the whole of the United States to college students presenting chemical themes. Miss Elvire Conner, of the Fredericksburg State Teachers College, and a graduate of Manassas High School in 1925 recently won one of these national prizes.

The other special prize was the silver trophy cup won by the Manassas shorthand team, Misses Ledman, Ayres and House, at the State Shorthand and Typing Contest held for the last two years in Fredericksburg.

Miss Emma Ellen Ledman's shorthand paper was perfect, the best that has been given at this annual contest, at which teams from all the city schools in the state contested. Miss Ledman also won four or five medals for herself at this contest.

It is also of special interest to learn that Miss Anna Blough was awarded the Bridgewater College Scholarship, amounting to tuition for one-half year; while Miss Hazel Lunsford won the scholarship to Strayers Business College, Washington.

POLLARD TALKS ON SHORT BALLAD

Makes Clear Position And Says
Will of People Should Always Prevail.

John Garland Pollard, of Williamsburg, candidate for Governor, today made clear his position on the whole short ballot question.

Mr. Pollard's statement, in the form of a letter made public at Farmville today by J. Taylor Thompson, former member of the General Assembly, reviews the entire issue.

Mr. Thompson asked Mr. Pollard what he thought about the short ballot question, and Mr. Pollard answered him in detail.

Mr. Pollard's statement follows: "Hon. J. Taylor Thompson, Farmville, Va.

"Dear Mr. Thompson:

"I have your kind letter of March 25th in which you show interest in my attitude on the so-called short ballot. Your inquiry is a fair one, and I shall try to answer it frankly.

"The people at the polls on June 19th in dealing with this matter decided two distinct propositions.

"First, that the incoming governor should appoint, subject to the confirmation of both branches of the assembly, the superintendent of public instruction, the commissioner of agriculture and the treasurer.

"Second, that in 1932 and thereafter the manner of the selection of these officers should be determined by the general assembly.

"Much is being said about the first proposition, but little has been said concerning the second, which is far more important, for it freed the constitution of a provision which tied the hands of the representatives of the people in determining from time to time as experience might suggest how these officers should be selected, a right which the general assembly always exercised in the case of other State officers of equal importance.

"THE NEXT GOVERNOR, NO MATTER WHO HE MAY BE, MUST OBEY THE MANDATE OF THE PEOPLE AND APPOINT THESE OFFICERS SUBJECT, HOWEVER, TO REJECTION BY THE NEXT GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

"The following General Assembly elected in 1931, may decide how these officers shall be chosen. Those who advocated these amendments to the constitution stated on the stump and through the press over and over again that the appointment of these officers was a mere temporary experiment and that if the people so desired they could, through their representatives, change the method of selection.

"I myself, in advocating the experiment, joined in emphasizing this feature, and I could not now, even if I were so disposed put any obstacle in the way of free expression of the will of the voters exercised through their representatives. IF, THEREFORE, THE PEOPLE ELECT A LEGISLATURE IN 1931 FAVORABLE TO THE ELECTION OF THESE OFFICERS BY THE PEOPLE, I SHALL CONSIDER IT AS A SOLEMN REFERENCE ON THE QUESTION AND WOULD SIGN THE BILL.

"I could not do otherwise in view of the position I had already taken before I was a candidate for governor, nor in view of my conception of the proper exercise of executive discretion in such matters.

"In a matter of this kind involving the question of procedure rather than a principle, I presume every legislator will be governed by the will of his constituency. Surely I could never ask him to be governed otherwise.

"I have in mind a very definite program for the progress of this State and desire to confine myself to real problems. I see no reason, therefore, why I should turn aside to discuss a question which will be solved the same way no matter who is governor.

"Incidentally I might mention a significant fact, which seems to have been overlooked by many; that is, the amended constitution, WHILE GIVING TEMPORARILY TO THE NEXT GOVERNOR THE APPOINTMENT OF THE THREE OFFICERS MENTIONED, TOOK AWAY FROM HIM PERMANENTLY THREE APPOINTMENTS OF EQUAL DIGNITY AND GREATER EMOLUMENT, NAMELY, THE MEMBERS OF THE CORPORATION COMMISSION, AND THAT UNDER THE RECENT REORGANIZATION OF THE GOVERNMENT THE GOVERNOR MAKES FIFTY-ONE LESS APPOINTMENTS THAN FORMERLY.

"Yet we find some good, but uninformed Democrats, insisting that the governor's appointing power has been increased under the present Democratic administration. The spreading of such misinformation not only endangers party harmony, but gives aid and comfort to the enemy.

"Inasmuch as the candidates up to this time have issued no formal platform and some seem to be interested in my attitude on this question, you are at liberty to make this letter public if you so desire.

Cordially yours,
JOHN GARLAND POLLARD.

PARTY VICTORY IS PREDICTED

Pollard Manager Sees Victory
For Party No Matter Who Is Nominee.

Richmond, June 12—The return to the Democratic party of less than a fourth of those who bolted to vote for Hoover will insure a Democratic majority of 40,000, T. McCall Frazier, campaign manager for John Garland Pollard, one of the three candidates for the Democratic nomination, said this week. Mr. Frazier's attention was called to an article in several State papers to the effect that Dr. Pollard is the only Democratic candidate who can win in the general election. This isn't true, Mr. Frazier said, declaring that "I want to be definitely understood that no one officially connected with Mr. Pollard's campaign has or will at any time be guilty of stating that he is the only Democrat who can win next November."

Mr. Frazier said that the Pollard supporters would work for whoever got the nomination. Referring again to the published statement, he said: "I am confident that the enthusiastic Pollard supporter responsible for this article did not stop to consider the probable interpretation that would be placed upon his statement or he would not have written the article."

"I know that the Pollard forces will support the nominee of the Demo-

Music In Schools.

Mr. Domingo Caino was the guest speaker yesterday at the meeting of the Woman's Club of Manassas giving a delightful and highly instructive talk on art.

Mrs. R. S. Illingworth reported giving two demonstrations to parent teachers' association and to Kiwanis Club in connection with plan for music in county schools, and several plans were discussed for raising funds for placing music in the schools.

The club went on record as favoring music in the schools and voted to give its active support to the proposition.

An additional $10 was voted to the tornado relief fund of the Prince William Chapter, American Red Cross the money coming from the Garden Club section of the club and from proceeds of the recent flower show.

GRADUATES HEAR FINAL SERMON

Rev. Churchill Gibson Gives Inspirational Address To
M. H. S. Class.

Stressing the fact that the truest way to increase a blessing was to share it; and to use these gifts not just once in a while, or now and then, but all the time, Rev. Churchill Gibson, rector of St. James's Church, Richmond, preached the sermon to the graduating class of the Manassas High School, on Sunday night in Trinity Episcopal Church.

The program opened with the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers", sung as a processional by the church choir, as the graduating class filed down the aisle to the front seats which had been reserved for them, followed by Miss Eugenia Osbourn, principal of the school, and members of the faculty, who were seated back of them.

The service was sweet in its simplicity and the sermon to the graduates teemed with sound advice to those of the graduating class, as well as to the throng of eager listeners, and commanded the closest attention throughout its gripping delivery.
