VA. REPUBLICANS IN COALITION

Name Same Candidates As Cannon's Forces.

OLD LINE REPUBLICANS NOT PLEASED AT CHOICE

C. Bascomb Slemple and Henry W. Anderson Direct Destinies of Convention.

Richmond, June 26—After hearing Colonel Henry W. Anderson, keynoter, denounce what he designated as the Democratic "oligarchy", members of the Virginia State Republican convention in session last night, nominated Dr. William M. Brown, of Lexington, for Governor; R. Walter Dickenson, of Russell County, for Lieutenant-Governor, and Charles Carter Berkeley, of Newport News, for Attorney-General.

Immediately after he was placed in nomination by C. Bascomb Slemple, Dr. Brown was introduced to the convention and was enthusiastically applauded after he spoke briefly.

Dr. Brown and Captain Berkley were nominated also by the recent Anti-Smith convention in Roanoke and their nomination here last night was part of the coalition agreement worked out by leaders in both groups.

Mr. Dickenson is a life-long Republican and was his party's candidate for Lieutenant-Governor on the ticket with the late Colonel J. Hampton Hoge. He lives at Castlewood, Russell County, where he is a dairyman, cattle raiser, grocer and bank president. He is a member of the State Board of Agriculture and a former State Senator from the district composed of Tazewell, Russell, Dickenson and Buchanan Counties. He said he was politically dry.

Delivers Keynote Address.

In a keynote address of 18,000 words amplifying the party platform subsequently adopted, Colonel Henry W. Anderson last night denounced before the Virginia State Republican convention here what he said was the Democratic "oligarchy" which since 1902 has used the State as a party agency by means of unfair election machinery and had repeatedly disregarded reports on useless offices and inefficiency, all the while increasing taxes in the face of propaganda designed to show that burdens had been lifted from the taxpayer.

Deplores Small Vote.

Colonel Anderson, who in conference with anti-Smith leaders agreed some time ago on Dr. Brown as the coalition candidate, said that the vote in Virginia generally is less than one in eleven of the population. He admitted that Negroes are "effectually disfranchised" and asserted that less than half of the white population of voting age voted in 1928 when a record number of ballots were cast.

C. Bascomb Slemple, nationally prominent Republican, aroused enthusiasm when he placed in nomination for Governor the name of Dr. William M. Brown, Washington and Lee University psychologist, who also was the gubernatorial choice of the recent anti-Smith Democratic convention at Roanoke. Mr. Slemple said that "more was done in 1928 for political liberty, liberty of thought, liberty of conscience in our beloved State, than had occurred in the preceding half century. The result in 1928 in Virginia cannot be considered wholly a Republican victory. . . . As I see Virginia today it is a State of renaissance, politically, historically and traditionally."

Angell Calls Meeting to Order.

A band concert preceded the calling to order of the convention by Chairman Robert H. Angell, of Roanoke, Colonel Anderson, as temporary chairman, delivered the keynote address. Captain John Paul, of Harrisonburg, former Congressman, was chosen permanent chairman.

Earlier there were last-minute conferences between Mr. Slemple and Colonel Anderson. Mr. Slemple and Chairman Angell spent some time greeting the delegates from the great Southwest, where politics is politics. They asked some of the rural brethren if they had brought their boots along and in general everyone was happy to see the brethren dwell in peace and

COUNTY G. O. P. IN CONVENTION

Enthusiasm Marks Republican Meeting Called by Chairman W. E. Trusler.

The machinery of the Republicans of Prince William County, which will be used in an effort to elect a Republican governor in the November election, was set in motion here on Saturday afternoon.

Republicans from every district in the county gathered in Manassas in convention to elect delegates and alternate to the State Republican convention to be held on Wednesday. Sounding the praise of Republicans in the county for the work which they did in the presidential election and by reason of which Prince William County only remained in the Democratic column by a majority of nine votes, William E. Trusler, chairman of the Republican County committee, called upon the convention to put forth even greater effort this fall in order that the county may be placed safely in the Republican column.

Predicting the election of a governor suitable to the Republicans of the county, the chairman voiced the sentiment of the convention when he urged that the delegates going to Richmond vote to endorse Dr. William Mosely Brown, recent choice of the anti-Smith Roanoke convention for governor, and expressed the belief that a coalition of the two parties, Republican and anti-Smith, would result in the election of Brown.

Resolutions were passed bearing on the loss of the county organization by death of S. W. Burdige and A. J. McMichael, and copies of the resolution were ordered sent to the families of the late party members.

The meeting was harmonious and enthusiastic with all members expressing confidence in the outcome of the State election.

The following delegates were elected to attend the Republican State convention in Richmond on June 26: W. E. Trusler, R. E. Newman and C. W. Vaughn, Manassas; Charles Keyser and Winter Owens, Haymarket; Harry Cline, Dumfries; Jack Quick, Quantico, and C. M. Dodson. Alternates named were: J. M. Seese, Nokesville; T. R. Hurst, Atheyville; L. E. Beachley, John Hottle, E. E. Blough, and John Kline, Manassas; J. S. Smith, Bristow, and J. M. Ashby, Waterfall.

At the service on Sunday night the churches of Manassas will unite in a union service and Rev. Lee E. Sheaffer, pastor of the United Brethren Church, who has been conducting the evangelistic services unassisted, will bring the concluding message on "Facing the Crisis".

A petition of the citizens of West Street for the improvement of the roadway was presented to the council in which the property owners agreed to pay one-half of the cost of construction. The council voted to proceed with the work providing the contribution to the plan is shared by 100 per cent of the residents and property owners along the street, and Dr. V. V. Gillum was appointed a committee to arrange plans for the collection of funds and payment into the Town Treasury of one-third of the amount to be contributed prior to the beginning of the work, and the collection of the balance as the work progresses.

TOWN PURCHASES NEW APPARATUS

Buffalo Fire Appliance Ordered Bought Last Night.

MEANS MUCH TO TOWN AND OTHER POINTS

Fire Chief Speiden Expresses Confidence in Equipment and Delight At Its Purchase.

The Town Council last night voted to purchase a piece of fire apparatus from the Buffalo Fire Appliance Co., of Buffalo, N. Y., which will be equipped with a 500-gallon pumper, foam generator for gasoline fires and a 100-gallon booster tank. This equipment is similar to that used in many of the cities and towns of the country and it is believed will serve the purpose of giving Manassas and environs that measure of fire protection which has been lacking for so many years.

Delivery In Sixty Days.

The equipment will be delivered within sixty days and will come on a 30-day trial before being finally accepted. The cost of the apparatus is $6,200, but as the Buffalo people will take the old engine and allow a credit of $1,200, the cost to the Town will be $5,000.

Something more than $2,500 is now in the Town Treasury to the credit of the Fire Company, and this will be used in the part payment, while the amount lacking will be underwritten pending the receipt of money from a ten-cent tax which the citizens asked to be levied to care for purchase of new equipment.

Firemen Are Satisfied.

While the apparatus purchased by the council was not the equipment that committees appointed to look into the matter favored, members of the Manassas Fire Department are elated that after many years of trial and tribulation they will now have modern tools with which to fight fires.

Fire Chief Albert Speiden, last night expressed to the council his satisfaction over their action in bringing the purchase problem, which has been hanging fire for several months, to an end, and promised the full cooperation and support of the recently reorganized fire department in giving the town the best fire fighting organization in the State.

Assistant Chief, Jesse Crosby, whose work in handling the fire department during conflagrations has been outstanding, addressed the council in similar vein.

The vote of the council on purchase was by secret ballot, one vote being for Seagrave equipment, but the choice of the Buffalo was later made unanimous. Councilmen present were Mayor Harry P. Davis, Edgar G. Parrish, D. J. Arrington, M. Bruce Whitmore and J. E. Bradford.

NEWS OF WEEK IN OLD VIRGINIA

Sergeant York to Speak.

Staunton, June 26—Sergeant Alvin C. York, world war hero, will speak at the Massanetta Springs Bible conference August 14, it was announced here recently by the Rev. Dr. William E. Hudson, director of the conference.

Other speakers during the conference include: Dr. John Timothy Stone, Chicago; Dr. George L. Robinson, Chicago; Dr. William Hiram Foulkes, Newark, N. J.; Dr. Robert E. Speer, New York, and Dr. William Evans, of Los Angeles.

Massanetta is located four miles east of Harrisonburg, and the summer religious program there opens July 1 and runs through the middle of August, with the Bible conference as the concluding feature.

Bumper Peach Yield Due.

Winchester, June 27—Peach growers in the vicinity of Timberville, near the Shenandoah-Rockingham county border, estimate they will market approximately 170,800 bushels, or 450 carloads of fruit, of unusually good quality this season, which will set a new record for production in that district.

G. H. Crist, a veteran grower, said the crop will be twice as large as any yet gathered. Higher prices than ordinarily paid are also expected, due to crop reduction in Georgia and other large producing areas. Mayflower peaches, now being marketed, are bringing $2.25 per bushel.

$225,000 Church Ready.

Charlottesville, June 26—The University Baptist Church, erected by the congregation of the High Street Baptist Church, of this city, in cooperation with the Baptist Board of Missions and Education of the State of Virginia, at a cost of $225,000, is now complete with the exception of the installation of special art glass windows, which have been delayed in shipment from a Pennsylvania studio.

Marylanders At Beaches.

Norfolk, June 24—Approximately 300 members of the Southern Maryland Society from Baltimore and its vicinity spent Saturday at Norfolk Beach resorts as part of the program of their eight annual cruise and the largest in their history.

Among the guests of the society on the trip were Senator Tydings, Mayor Broening, of Baltimore; Representative J. Charles Linchicum, Charles F. Good, chief engineer, of Baltimore; David G. McIntosh, president of the Maryland State Senate and State Senators S. Scott Beck, J. Allan Coad, Lansdale G. Sasser and John Parran.

Bell 101 Years Old.

Fredericksburg, June 27—When the bell in the courthouse steeple rings for the September term of court, it will also celebrate the 101st year of its service to the people.

Made by "Revere, Boston, 1928", it was donated to the city by Silas Wood, who wrote "I married a Fredericksburg girl and took away one 'belle', so I am offering you another."

The bell was taken from the old courthouse and placed in the present structure in 1857.

During the battle of Fredericksburg, December 13, 1862, sharpshooters missed the federal signal corps lieutenant who was wig-wagging from the steeple, but rang the bell just above his head three times.

Funeral Directors Elect.

New Port News, June 24—George H. Vehmilya, of Clifton Forge, was named president of the Virginia Funeral Directors' Association at the closing meeting of the 42nd annual convention here Saturday morning. Roanoke was selected as the next convention city. More than 200 members and guests of the association were in attendance.

Other officers named for the coming year were: W. R. Preddy, of Gordonsville, first vice-president; Fred H. King, Norton, second vice-president; Frank W. Townes, Danville, third vice-president; Mrs. Joseph P. Allen, Staunton, treasurer, and Thomas A. Fox, Jr., Danville, secretary.

Four delegates were named to represent the association at the national convention to be held at Atlantic City, N. J., next October, are: W. R. Preddy, Gordonsville; Charles N. Lovins, Hot Springs; Richard Hamrick, Staunton, and W. B. Harrison, Lexington.

Mrs. Wilson Buys Home.

Danville, June 26—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson has purchased Tarover, an old colonial home in Halifax County, about 30 miles from Danville, and intends to make it her summer home, it was learned authoritatively last week.

The two-story rock-built house, a replica of Soldiers' Rest, in Orange County, was built more than 100 years ago by James Bruce, who imported much of the material that went into its making from England.

This included the rock for the exterior as well as handsome marble mantels in many of the 16 rooms.

With the home, noted for its high roof, narrow porch and tall end chimneys, went 200 acres of land cut off from the old Bruce estate.

It is said that when finished it will represent an investment of between $75,000 and $100,000.

Mrs. Wilson's interest in the old place was aroused, it is said, some weeks ago while she was touring Piedmont Virginia, viewing old colonial mansions.

To Drill For Oil.

Newport News, June 27—Unless a lot of good signs fail the people of Mathews County will soon know whether there is oil under their "fertile farms and smiling waters."

So carefully have all plans been made by former Senator Davis Elkins, who has large gas and oil interests in West Virginia and elsewhere, through his representative, Noble Beatty and his Mathews County associates, that it is not thought probable that anything will happen to prevent the beginning of actual drilling operations within the next few days.

A great derrick has been built on the "Phillips Place" within a few feet of the spot where the great gas gusher was discovered several years ago. About 16,000 feet of timber were used in the construction of the derrick which is 112 feet high and 24 feet square at the base.

POLLARD LIKES PAY-AS-YOU-GO

Strongly Endorses This Plan of Road Financing For High- way Improvement.

Harrisonburg, Va.—Upon his arrival here, Dr. Pollard gave out a statement praising the progress Virginia has made in the past few years. He said: "I am proud of the great progress that has been recently made in the efficiency of our State government and in the wonderful industrial development of the commonwealth. Virginia is now attracting the attention of the entire country by her progressive policies. In a single year she has brought into the State new enterprises, investing $200,000,000 in capital, and her industrial output has now reached nearly one billion dollars per annum. Her schools have been improved; her roads have been extended; she is doing more than ever before for the unfortunates in her State hospitals; and she is protecting public health as never before."

Deficit Turned Into Surplus

"The deficit of $1,300,000 has been turned into a surplus of more than $2,000,000, which is rapidly growing. If I am elected governor, the policies which have brought about this happy result will be continued."

"Capital is notoriously timid and it has been induced to come to this State by wise and just changes in our tax laws and by the assurance that the future will not be mortgaged by heavy bond issues."

Wise Policy of Segregation

"The wise policy of segregation of taxation, under which the State has relieved lands and houses of all State taxation and has left it entirely to the local authorities, has not only brought about better feeling between the various sections of the State but has been additional attraction to new enterprises, which increase our taxable values and make it possible to have better roads and schools without increasing the burden of taxation upon the people. These new industries not only give employment to labor, but furnish additional markets to agricultural products."

"Agriculture has not enjoyed its proportional share of the State and nation's prosperity, and I shall await with great interest the report of the present agricultural commission and shall do my utmost to see that measures are adopted which will enable Virginia to participate more effectively in the movement to improve the condition of our agricultural conditions."

BENEFITS OF TUBERCULIN TESTS.

There has developed in certain areas of the United States a rather distinct and sometimes organized opposition to tuberculosis test for milk cows. Strange as it may seem, a large portion of this opposition has been found developing and existing among urban consumers of milk, those whom the precautions are designed to protect.

It is not intended to defend the isolated cases of abuse that may have been imposed by enforced compliance of the tuberculin safeguards demanded by cities and towns and urged by federal and state authorities. Neither is it necessary to recite statistics to show the remarkable benefits that have resulted in thousands of communities where dairy herd owners have voluntarily or by statute adopted this progressive and humanitarian practice. Suffice to say that every pint of milk sold for personal consumption in the United States should be produced from cows shown by capable and supervised tests to be free from tuberculosis.

The federal and various state governments have cooperated financially to provide means and methods for eradication of tuberculosis from dairy cattle. Much of the cost is borne by the government. Under the area testing plan now being favored in many localities where eradication is demanded, the cows of an entire county are tested and the area isolated and protected against importation of any but tested animals. Owners of animals having tuberculosis are jointly remunerated by the state and federal appropriations.

There are some outstanding economic benefits besides the health-guarding duties involved in eradication of tuberculosis from dairy cattle, that justify recounting. And the duties devolving on both the rural producer and the urban consumer can not be over emphasized.

The milk consuming public is awakening to the dangers of using milk from tuberculosis infested dairy herds. So marked is this trend of the public that there are few residential centers where a heavier consumption of milk could not be attained and many where advanced prices could be obtained with concerted advertising efforts by milk producers, using the advantages of tuberculin-free herds as the basis of the appeal to the public. No food article offered to the consuming public today permits so great an appeal as clean, wholesome milk. No single for advertising worth.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture lists ten outstanding benefits accruing to the dairy herd owner from adoption of tuberculosis eradication.

1 Tuberculosis eradication aids in sale of purebred cattle.

2 Cast-off dairy animals bring better prices.

3 Losses from death due to tuberculosis stop after herds are placed under test.

4 Area eradication work promotes the sale of surplus cattle.

5 Area eradication fosters better dairy husbandry.

6 Farmers in the corn belt and adjoining states receive large premiums from swine in modified areas of tested cattle.

7 The eradication work helps to establish better markets for milk.

8 The systematic way in which the work is conducted attracts the interest of bankers and others interested in the cattle industry.

9 The interstate movement of officially tested cattle is facilitated.

10 Testing of cattle promotes control and eradication of avian (principally poultry) tuberculosis.

The dairy, cattle, swine and poultry industries constitute an important cog in our agricultural and economic machine. As indicated in these concise and pertinent benefits cited as following the eradication of tuberculosis from dairy cattle, it should be noted that the swine and poultry industries are immediately effected. Hog and poultry tuberculosis, much of it directly attributable to cattle tuberculosis, is perceptibly curtailed today by eradication from dairy herds.

Every citizen in the United States should be vitally interested in the solution of the so-called farm problem. Into this solution must eventually be incorporated the aid of every citizen. Touching the food, price structure at almost every angle is the necessity of not necessarily higher prices, but primarily more profitable prices. It logically follows that the consumer will seek the most superior product at the most consistent price, with quality paramount.

Two conclusions follow: (1) The awakened realization of the milk consuming public to the dangers of using milk from untested and tuberculosis infested herds is restricting and will continue to restrict the profits of the dairy owners. In this attitude the public is entirely justified. The only criticism that can be directed to the consumer is that he has been and continues to be too lax and lethargic to the dangers of using milk from questionable sources. (2) The dairy herd owner owes an economic duty to himself and a moral duty to the public to offer for sale only milk of a purity that can not be questioned, which can be attained only when the herd is not only accredited, but safeguarded under the area plan of tuberculosis eradication.

The public has no place in its menu today for tuberculin contaminated milk. The dairyman who desires the maximum profits from his industry can not afford to furnish his consumer anything less than the purest milk that precaution and sanitation can produce.

NEED FOR CALM THOUGHT.

At no period in Virginia's history has there been greater need for calm thought, and the calm expression of thought, than there is today. No man should ask or receive office in Virginia as a result of factional politics, or as reward, or as a rebuke to any man, or class of men. Virginia's positions of trust should be given only to the best suited and most desirous of helping Virginia and Virginians as a whole.

The result of the November election will be of far-reaching consequence, not only in Virginia, but throughout the South as a whole.

If there are things both in the national and State Democratic party, that seem objectionable to some Democrats, let us urge that they stay in the party and correct from within rather than that we attack and destroy from without.

The citizens of this State owe a large part of their history and a full measure of their prosperity and greatness to the party they are being urged to desert.

We believe in the principles of Democracy, and believe those principles best suited to the present and future needs, the present and future welfare and happiness of the people of Virginia and of the South. We believe that if the citizenship of Virginia will in even greater numbers than ever subscribe to and endorse those principles; if they will counsel, repair and build from within, rather than criticize and attack from without, Virginia will continue its social, material and moral growth with fresh and renewed vigor.

THE O'FALLON DECISION.

The O'Fallon railroad decision, which was recently handed down by the Supreme Court and holds that reproduction costs must be considered in the making of transportation rates, has been misunderstood in a great many quarters.

It will not raise freight rates two billion dollars a year, as one report stated, or increase the railroads' valuation 10 or 12 billion dollars.

The Supreme Court has not held that reproduction costs must be the sole basis for rate making; it has decided that they must be "considered." As a matter of fact, the valuation law of 1913, of which Senator La Follette was the author, specifically provides for consideration of reproduction costs.

The railroads have never asked for exorbitant rates, and during the last few years they have not even made the fair return allowed by the Transportation Act. That their rate structure will be raised appreciably is not warranted by the facts. The commissions, competition, and public policy would make this impossible.

What the O'Fallon decision should do is to allow the railroads to earn a fair return on a reasonable valuation, so that they may build for the future and provide the high standards of transportation the public demands and considers necessary. If this is the result, the decision will benefit every citizen and industry.

If women had any sense there would be more bachelors.

RAISING TAXES.

What is known as the "Santa Claus theory of government", whereby public funds are used for the benefit of privileged groups, territories or businesses is one of the surest ways to increase the tax burden.

Paternalistic schemes, designed to help the few at the expense of the many, should be as foreign to democratic principles of government as obnoxious class legislation.

It is an obvious fact that burdensome taxes are not the result of expenditures for actual government functions. The tax rate rises in direct proportion to the extent the government branches away from governing into the field of commercial business. Then, waste, inefficiency and bureaucracy creep in.

Under a truly individualistic system, government really governs and keeps out of the business and private lives of its citizens so far as possible. In recent years determined attempts have been made to carry us far afield from this basis democratic principle of government.

Press Comment*What To Do?

Ohio State Journal—One of the great problems now confronting Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh is what in the world to do with that huge oil painting of four life-sized girls and a lot of other scenery that President Gil of Mexico gave her for a wedding present, but maybe she'll have a good big attic and we don't suppose there's much danger of Mexican visitors.

The New Idea.

Baltimore Sun—With all its cultural values, ancient Greek civilization lacked the practical quality of the modern which is shown in the report that a movement is on foot to convert Mount Olympus into a national park of the American type. The idea is that foreign tourists will invade this abode of the ancient gods by the thousands when they are assured that rest houses and dining facilities are adequate. Greece once used to try to propitiate the Olympians with elaborate sacrifices and without much profit; but if it can get tourists to go there, the sacrifice can be omitted and the profit will be sure.

The Biggest Building.

New Orleans Times-Picayune—A building is now going up in Akron, Ohio, so huge that therein fourteen football gridirons might be laid out and played on simultaneously, and all on a single floor. The doors to this structure are so large that when one is thrown open it is as though one were turning aside the entire facade of the big bank skyscraper at Common and Baronne streets. We are even told that because this edifice is a vast hollow it develops cyclonic windstorms in its interior. And what is this mastodon of structures? It is the new factory in which two dirigibles for the United States Navy will be constructed, those and other big gasbag airships.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR JUNE 30, 1929.

The International Sunday School Lesson for June 30 is a Quarterly Review, "Prophecy and Kings of Judah's Decline"—Psalm 130.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

War review books are all the vogue. From both sides of the great conflict, and from all sorts of persons, we are getting "inside" and "uncensored" stories of the war. Hindsight is now to the fore.

In like fashion we have come to a time of review of that tragic section of Judah's history which has been the Sunday School Lesson for the past three months. We are called upon to take a long look and a deep look; and to consider those larger forces, which determine the destinies of nations and of men. The exercise is one that should quicken national consciousness and concern, as well as intensify foresight and faith.

Ups And Downs Of A Nation.

Old Judah, which came to an end in 586 B. C., is a picture of national life. In it, as on a motion picture screen, we may see portrayed the agencies and tendencies which determine a people's destiny. Judah had good kings and bad kings, but mostly bad. She had devout worshippers of Jehovah and debauched devotees of the sensual idols of her neighbors. And throughout she had prophets of the living God, ever calling both rulers and people back to loyalty to Jehovah and to justice.

But in the long run, the tug and drag and drift of heathenism, with its pandering to man's lower nature, was too much for the spirituality of the Jews. They did not want to be a "peculiar people"; they wanted to be popular, and like their neighbors. And so the worship of Baal and Astarte and kindred symbols of sensuality, superseded the high, pure worship of the God of their fathers.

Right here emerges a point that will repay pondering. Along with fleshly idolatry went social injustice. Oppression, fraud, robbery and exploitation of the poor, accompanied these departures from Jehovah-worship into flesh-indulgence. And whenever paganism has prevailed, the same thing has been true. The selfishness which is sensuality cannot be severed from the selfishness which is avarice and cruelty and lawlessness. Perhaps there is a closer connection than has been pointed out, between the day's "crime wave" and the cult of heathen materialism to which so many persons give allegiance.

Our own day's newest problem is thus linked with old Judah's decline, in the proposition that only a faithful allegiance to Jehovah and His law can give a people order and justice and peace and common good will. During the war President Hoover, who was then American food administrator, told a visiting delegation of churchmen that the Church is the only agency that can create a great moral conviction in the hearts of the people. Certainly Judah's story carries the moral that defection from God implies a decline of morality, righteousness, and prosperity.

Is The Freshman Right?

Recently a college freshman, returning from a class in ethics taught by a notorious radical, informed his hostess that of course all the older standards of right and wrong have been discarded by progressive people; and that it may even be ethically correct to take what you need without the owner's consent. (He did not call it stealing; that term had been chucked into the scrapbasket, along with the rest of the Ten Commandments, by his college professor.) To the wise and mature woman in whose home he was a guest the young man was condescendingly compassionate and considerate, for she had not had his advantages!

That freshman has been taught that there is nothing else in heaven or earth so sacred as his own instincts and impulses, his "personality." He has learned to flout authority, to turn his back upon God and the Moral Law and to worship only that "high pillar" which is a perpendicular personal pronoun. He is as "modern" as the renegade people of old Judah, who forsook Jehovah for the idols of self-indulgence. However, there is nobody in his particular college to tell him what a commonplace and conventional fool he is making of himself. If he only knew it—but he doesn't—he could get clear and burning light upon his situation from the writings of Isaiah and Jeremiah, as they dealt with his kind in ancient Judah.

Standards That Stick.

If this backward look at the decline and fall of the Jewish kingdom teaches anything, it surely teaches a truth which is counted very old-foggyish and reactionary by the day's "intelligent" s.e.s.—namely, that the laws of God, given on Sinai, are fixed and permanent and universal standards, which may not safely be violated. The moral code fixed for individuals and for nations by Jehovah is for all men and for all time; it was no temporary expedient in one nation's progress. Violation of that code entails disaster.

High and hard and holy are the laws of God. Low and soft and sensual are the ways of beathen selfishness. Given choice between the two, 30, to put on a special program with the Jews slumped.

But God never lowered his law for the sake of securing conformity. Life must be lifted to the level of the law, not law lowered to the level of life's weakness or baseness. (This is a truth which myriads of the supporters of bootlegdom seem not to sense.) Again and again Judah sank into the slime and slough of idolatry; and often she was led thereto by her kings. The prophets, however, remained true. Theirs was real heroism. In the face of opposition, and at the price of certain unpopularity, they cried aloud the old and changeless law of Jehovah. Again and again the weight of popular opinion submerged them; but it could not silence their word of truth. And in the fall of Jerusalem was written the vindication of the brave men who had dared to be loyal to those sure standards which, when flouted, insure doom.

When Statesmen Show Alarm.

A world crisis existed during the period of Judah's history which millions of Sunday School members have been studying. World empires were in the breaking, and in the making. It was an hour of opportunity for real statesmen—and singularly similar to international conditions as they exist today.

So far as our record goes, the only real statesmen on the horizon were the prophets, like Isaiah and Jeremiah, who measured their time by a few great and simple and changeless principles. This ability to sense and to stand for the essential simplicities of a situation is the surest test of statesmanship. The cunning contrivers and nimble opportunists are politicians, not statesmen. The prophets saw, and said, that if the people would be true to the old verities which were the real characteristics of the nation—those truths which God had explicitly laid down as the peculiar qualities of His chosen people—all would be well. But violation of these removed the very reason for existence of the Jewish commonwealth.

In our own day our greatest leaders are gravely concerned over the widespread departure of people from the basic ideals of democratic self-government. They perceive and proclaim that disregard of constitutional law, and disdain of fundamental ideals of good will and mutual responsibility, threaten nothing less than a subsidence of the foundations of government. A people must be true to their own genius if they are to continue as a nation. The fate of Judah, and a thousand other countries, illustrates that truth.

So, in a sense, this is an alarmist Lesson. It points out the peril of disobedience to basic law, which is heaven-prescribed righteousness. Good citizenship is the Siamese twin of godliness. To cut loose from God is to go adrift into the whirlpool of inevitable shipwreck. Whoever is not true to God, is false to his nation and to himself.

GRADE CROSSING NOT SANCTIONED

State Highway Commission Adopts Policy of Refusing to Sanction New Crossings.

Richmond, June 26—With a view to reducing the accident toll on State highway, the State Highway Commission has adopted a policy of refusing to sanction the construction of new grade crossings in Virginia.

This decision was reached by the commission, according to Henry G. Shirley, commissioner, following the granting last week of permission to the Rust Engineering Company to construct a spur track across the State thoroughfare known as Route 31, near Occoquan.

The grade crossing in this instance was necessary, it was pointed out, because of the proposed erection, nearby of a brick plant with a capacity of 2,000,000 brick a day. In its application for permission to construct the crossing the Rust Engineering Company was supported by officials of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad, by whom, it was testified, that freight charges on the brick transported would mean $50,000 revenue to the road.

CHUCKLES

Groceryman—Pat, do you like apples?

Pat—Shure, sor, Oi wouldn't ate an apple for the world.

Groceryman—Why, how is that?

Pat—Ough! didn't me old mother die of appleplexy?—Richmond Christian Advocate.

A New Game.

"Did you miss that train, sir?" asked the sympathetic onlooker.

Traveller—"No!" I didn't like the looks of it so I chased it out of the station."—Open Road.

How Could He Know?

It is related that Billy Sunday, well-known evangelist, stopped a newsboy in Philadelphia one day and inquired the way to the postoffice.

"Up one block and turn to the right," said the boy.

"You seem a bright little fellow," said Sunday. "Do you know who I am?"

"Nope."

"I'm Billy Sunday, and if you come to my meeting tonight, I'll show you the way to heaven."

"Aw, go on," answered the youngster; "you didn't even know the way to the postoffice."—Exchange.

What Education Does.

"Mose, how come you named your boy Electricity?"

"Well boss, my wife's name is Dinah and ma name's Mose—now ef Dinah-Mose don't produce Electricity, what do they produce?"—Swavely Sentinel.

Dogs and Dogs.

"Is Tommy's new dog a setter, or a pointer?" asked Mrs. Jones.

"He's neither," replied Tommy's mother. "He's an Upsetter and a Disappointer."—Youth's Companion.

The Verdict.

A prominent politician who has a grand oratorical style is generally known by his Christian name, which happens to be Charles.

One day he rose before a crowded meeting and in a forceful and solemn tone began his speech as follows:

"Heaven is my witness, and you, my fellow countrymen, are the jury."

Here came an oratorical pause, and then the silence was suddenly broken by a high-pitched voice ringing down from the gallery:

"You're guilty, Charlie!"—London Answers.

The Answer.

She (discussing new neighbors)—I can't make them out. They've got no car, no piano, no wireless. She's got no jewelry, no furs—He's—They've probably got some money.—Humorist.

Stop, Tickling, Doc!

The Head Surgeon—You think the bullet is lodged somewhere between the fourth and fifth ribs? Have you probed for it?

The Assistant—Not yet. The patient won't permit it. He says he's too ticklish.

A Decisive Battle.

Hobbs—I understand Tom and his wife just had their first quarrel. Was it serious?

Dobbs—Very. He gave in and thus established a precedent.

Remember Him?

Detroit News—Back home there was always a lot of 11 or so who was allowed to play right field on condition that he go after the ball, in case of it dropping into the old lady's sminas.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad, but loving remembrance of my dear brother, William Edward Kinchele, who departed this life June 25, 1916.

In the graveyard, softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
And tried so hard to save.

He is gone, but not forgotten,
And never shall he be;
For we hope some day to meet him,
In the home above with Thee.

Every day brings back sweet memories,
Every day brings back a tear,
Deep within my heart I cherish,
Thoughts of one I loved so dear.

You left us broken hearted,
And all seems dreary there;
Home is not the same, dear brother,
As it was when you were there.
Sleep on, dear brother, and take your rest,

SIMPLIFYING SUMMER

WHAT is this summer going to be like for you—laborious or livable, a period of ease or hard work? That all depends on how you plan it. Here are some hints which will help enable you to while away the long carefree days out on the front porch with the rest of the family rather than painfully perspiring over an inadequate stove in your summer cottage or bungalow.

The first of these hints is to take along plenty of canned foods when you migrate for the summer season. The second is to leave your address with your grocer so that you can renew your supply from a source in which you have confidence.

What to Take Along

The first essential to right living in summer is an adequate milk supply. There may be one or many cows at the place where you elect to stay, but did you know that many farmers themselves are taking advantage of the established safety of dried, evaporated and condensed milk which comes from cows whose health has been tested and certified by Government experts? The great mail order houses are now distributing vast quantities of these products in rural districts. For vegetables that can be quickly prepared for the table, you should, of course, take along some peas, corn, tomatoes and beans. Asparagus, beets, sauerkraut and sweet potatoes are a little more fancy products, but they will add variety to your menu at little cost. Peaches, pineapple, pears and apricots should head the list of the canned fruits with which you provide yourself, but don't forget that apples (including apple sauce), cherries, plums and the various berries in cans will also save you a lot of time and labor.

Finally you should have some fish—salmon, tuna, codfish, mackerel, sardines—for their iodine content, and you'll find that a few cans of meat will not come amiss.

What to Do With It

When you come in hungry from a long hike, a fishing trip or any other appetite producing exercise, it's mighty nice to have a can of Irish stew, sausage, liver with bacon or onions or one of the five different beef dishes on hand ready to heat in a jiffy and to eat more slowly if you're wise.

Or, if the weather seems too warm for meat dishes, you can prepare any of several main courses by combining the vegetables you have brought along with fresh vegetables. Try, for instance, these:

Tomato and Pea Cutlets: Combine one cup of canned peas, drained, with one-half cup of very thick White Sauce and two slightly beaten egg yolks. Drop by spoonfuls into hot, buttered skillet, and fry brown, turning over once. Dip eight slices of ripe tomato in flour and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Sauté in the fat in which the cutlets were cooked. Serve a cutlet on each slice of tomato. This recipe will serve eight unless you happen to be very hungry.

New Potatoes with Stringless Beans: Choose very tiny new potatoes, scrape and boil or steam until tender. Toss with melted butter and finely chopped parsley and pile in center of a hot platter. Heat a can of small stringless beans, drain and season with butter, salt and pepper. Pile in a border around the potatoes. Hard-cook several eggs, cut in halves and dredge cut side with paprika. Insert at intervals in the border of beans.

Of course, it's possible to mix meat and vegetables and thus get a balanced summer menu. Here are a couple of recipes which show how:

Meat and Vegetables

Indian Corn: Dice one green pepper and sauté with two tablespoons butter until brown. Cut the contents of one 4½ ounce can of Vienna sausage in slices, add to pan and sauté a few minutes more. Add one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, a No. 2 can of corn, one-half cup milk and two slightly beaten eggs. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake about thirty minutes in moderate oven (350° F.). This serves six.

Lima Beans Italiane: Dice four slices of bacon and fry to extract fat. Add one chopped onion, one green pepper, cut in rings, and two cups diced celery. Add the juice from a No. 2 can of lima beans, and simmer until the celery and green pepper are tender. Then add two cups of canned tomato pulp and the beans and heat well. Pour in center of platter and surround with one-fourth package of boiled spaghetti. Serve as a main dish with quince jelly. Serves eight.

FORMER MANASSAS BOY LEADS MARKSMEN

Is Champion Shot of Engineers, R. O. T. C. of the Country.

Leo Kasehagen, former Manassas boy, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kasehagen, now of Washington, and former rifle star at Central High School, is the champion marksman of the Engineer Reserve Officers Training Corps of the United States, according to an announcement just made by Maj. Gen. Fred W. Sladen, commanding officer of that division of the R. O. T. C.

Kasehagen was high scorer in individual competition against 179 other high ranking riflemen representing 18 universities and colleges.

Carnegie Tech, where he will enter the senior class next fall, heaped further honors upon its crack marksman by selecting him to captain the team next spring. He led the Carnegie team to its second consecutive championship this year. Precedent was broken in order to honor Kasehagen with the captaincy again. A major letter has also been presented the former Central High School boy, and the honor of bearing the colors for the senior class at recent commencement exercises was also bestowed upon him.

The matches in which Kasehagen won his title were conducted throughout of National by the Society of American Military Engineers. His remarkable accuracy aided his team in winning the title, and should the Carnegie team repeat next year the trophy will become the permanent possession of that university. In 57 matches this season, Kasehagen's team lost but three.

Kasehagen is now in training with the Carnegie R. O. T. C. contingent at Fort Humphreys. He graduated from Central in 1926, and was one of the most consistent riflemen while attending high school there.

harmony together in the conference room.

It was not sufficient to "indorse" the choices of the Anti-Smith Convention. It was early decided to "nominate" Dr. Brown and Captain C. C. Berkeley, of Newport News, coalition choice for Attorney-General. Some delegates said they didn't care to be "the tail of the Cannon kite". Mr. Slemph discussed these mechanics frankly. He admitted that there had been conferences and consultations between leaders of the two organizations in the coalition.—Excerpts from Richmond Times-Dispatch.

MANASSAS GIRL WED AT CHARMING CEREMONY

Miss Ruth Octavia Bibb and William P. Reynolds United in Marriage in Alexandria.

Alexandria, June 26—Picturesque Emmanuel Episcopal Church at Braddock was the scene of an attractive wedding late this afternoon when Miss Ruth Octavia Bibb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Orville Bibb, of Manassas, became the bride of William Purvis Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reynolds. Rev. George Vest, rector of the church, officiated and relatives and friends filled the edifice.

Decorations of tall palms and ferns made a cool green effect. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Francis Drischler, organist, and Miss Gretta Wainwright Ludwig sang appropriate selections.

The bride, who is a brunette of lovely coloring, was a radiant picture as she entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was of bridal lace over white georgette, the skirt having two dainty lace flounces dipping toward the back, and the bodice an exquisite lace bertha carrying out the same graceful lines. She wore a transparent white georgette hat, having a band of white satin hand-made roses across the back. Her slippers were white satin with silk hosiery to match. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and white bride's roses.

Miss Elizabeth Beavers, of Manassas, a cousin, was bridesmaid in pink georgette with hat and accessories to correspond. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of shell-pink roses, with maiden-hair fern and tulle streamers.

Mr. Claude Bibb, brother of the bride, acted as best man for the bridegroom. Ushers were Messrs. Joseph Reynolds, William Violette, Ralph O'Neill and Worth Storke.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents on Cedar street.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds left for a motor trip. They will visit North Carolina, Tennessee, and West Virginia and returning home will reside on Cedar street, Braddock Heights, in a new apartment.
