

TOP DRESSING GRASS WITH NITRATE OF SODA

A fertilizer top dressing demonstration on a second year's growth of orchard-grass was conducted by M. B. Leach, manager of the "Lawn Farm", at Greenwich, in cooperation with the County Agent and the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau.

Three acres which were top dressed last spring with 167 pounds of Chilean Nitrate of Soda and 200 pounds of Acid Phosphate per acre yielded 24.33 bushels of orchard grass seed per acre. A one-acre plot receiving 200 pounds of Acid Phosphate yielded 13 bushels. Seven acres remaining unfertilized, made the same yield per acre as the plot that was top dressed with Acid Phosphate only.

Since the original fertility and other conditions of the three plots was very uniform, the results would indicate an increased yield of 11.33 bushels of orchard grass seed per acre due to the application of 167 pounds of Nitrate of Soda.

PASTURE HINTS—HOW'S YOURS?

To some persons a pasture is a fenced in portion of the earth's surface on which grass doesn't grow.

The ideal pasture for a dairy herd contains grasses and one or more legumes, begins its growth early in the spring, grows luxuriantly throughout the spring and early summer, continues to furnish feed abundantly during the late summer and early fall, and does not stop growing until heavy frost and snow drive the cattle into winter quarters.

An old Quaker sold a cow that he claimed gave five gallons of rich milk every day. When the buyer claimed that the cow did not do this, the Quaker replied: "Thee should have bought my pasture too."

On many dairy farms the cattle roam worthless pastures on wornout soils. Such pastures furnish a fair athletic field for the cows and very little more.

Some farmers say that cows fatten up on summer pasture after having wintered at a straw stack. Sam Jones says that it takes his cow all winter to recover from the effect of scanty summer pasture.

Some dairy farmers center their attention on field crops, forgetting that pasture is one of the most important of all crops on the dairy farm. Let us give more time and attention to the improvement of pastures for the herds on test in dairy-herd improvement associations.

SCRUB BULL IS HALED TO COURT

Placed on Trial for Hindering Development and Prosperity of Dairy Industry.

Indicted for robbery, larceny, and a few other such charges, Scrub Bull went on trial for his life at Laurel, Mississippi, recently. It seems that for some time people had suspicions that Mr. Bull was hindering the right and lawful development of the dairy industry, thereby "maliciously and wilfully lowering production and decreasing profits in the dairy business," says the Bulletin of the American Bankers Association Agricultural Commission in commenting on the case.

This, it says, was the first trial of its kind ever held in that section and was attended by several hundred people. The jury, representing every vocation within the boundaries of the Laurel trade territory, rendered a unanimous verdict of "guilty." The death sentence was pronounced, "but during the night, before the sentence could be carried out, friends of the convict secretly spirited him away and he has not been seen since."

The arraignment came during the Milk Products Show sponsored by the banks of Laurel. People attending the show had the opportunity of also attending the bull's "trial" and went away firmly convinced of the seriousness of lax and out-of-date methods in the pursuit of dairying. The purposes of both the Milk Products Show and the trial were threefold, namely: to develop public sentiment for more and better Jerseys; to foster a more cooperative spirit for dairying and livestock growing, and to promote tick eradication.

The banks of Laurel entered into a cooperative arrangement in their efforts for fostering agricultural development and successful farming in the community, offering $2,165 as premiums to the outstanding farm workers throughout the territory during 1929. An instructive booklet has been issued, showing the agricultural activity of the banks, together with announcements of contests for farmers, exhibits in the bank lobbies and prizes offered.

17, according to Department of Agriculture statistics.

The cabbage, string beans and sweet potato shipments for the period were larger here than from any other State.

The report shows: Cabbage shipments from Virginia for four weeks ended August 17, 1929, 105 cars; for four weeks ended August 18, 1928, 126 cars; for season up to August 17, 1929, 565; for season to August 18, 1928, 374.

String beans: Eighteen cars for four weeks this year, against one for corresponding period last year; 583 cars this season against 458 last season.

Sweet potatoes: 236 cars for four weeks this year, against 140 cars last year, and 282 cars this season, against 220 cars last season.

Apples: 72 cars for four weeks this year, against 118 cars for last year's four weeks, and 326 cars this season, against 365 cars last season. Virginia's rank, fourth.

Watermelons: 110 cars for four weeks this year, against 107 cars last year, and 190 cars this season, against 160 cars last season. Virginia's rank, fourth.

Peaches: 85 cars for four weeks this year, against 43 cars last year, and 460 cars this season, against 45 last season. Virginia's rank, sixth.

Potatoes (white): 83 cars for four weeks this year, against 919 last year, and 20,819 this season, against 25,717 last season. Virginia's rank, thirteenth.

NURSES ARE AWARDED RED CROSS MEDALS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—The International Committee of the Red Cross at Geneva, Switzerland, has awarded the Florence Nightingale medal to Miss Julia C. Etimson, superintendent of the U. S. Army nurse corps and dean of the Army School of Nursing, and to Miss Carrie M. Hall, superintendent of nurses of the Peter Bent Bingham Hospital at Boston, Mass., in recognition of their services as directors of nursing to the American Red Cross in France during the World War. The Nightingale medal is the highest recognition of outstanding work in nursing made by the International Red Cross.

STRICKEN IN PULPIT MINISTER HAS A STROKE

Hampton, Sept. 4.—Just as he concluded his morning sermon Sunday, the Rev. F. W. Siffman, pastor of the Fox Hill Methodist Church, was stricken with an attack of paralysis and fell unconscious in his pulpit. He was still in a serious condition Monday night, his physician reported. Mr. Siffman had just finished his sermon and had started to announce the closing hymn when he suddenly reeled and fell to the floor. Members of the congregation rushed to his aid and summoned a physician.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear husband and father, James W. Nalls, who died eight years ago today, September 6, 1921.

Today recalls the memory. Of our dear one laid to rest; And those who still remember Are those who loved him best.

God took him from our home, His firm, true heart is still; The hands that always gave us help, Now lie in death's cold chill.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last, Life's weary trials and sufferings past. Loving thoughts, true and tender, Just to show we'll always remember. By his devoted Wife and Children.

YOUTH--AND THE NEW LEADERSHIP

By CRAIG B. HAZLEWOOD
President American Bankers Association

LEADERSHIP is a picturesque word. With it, one pictures Hannibal fighting his way through the passes of the Alps—Napoleon in his campaigns—or Washington holding together his half-frozen army by the sheer magnetism of his character at Valley Forge. But I visualize something that holds a more astounding spectacle in many respects than any of these. It is the onrush of our business life. Our economic progress plunges ahead at a rate unheard of in the history of the nations of the world and every industrial and financial leader is daily brought face to face with new and perplexing problems requiring the highest courage and intelligence for their solution.

Ninety billions a year, they tell us, this country is now producing in new wealth. The rate of increase is even more staggering than the amount. It is difficult to say where it may lead us in even ten or fifteen years.

We are moving exceptionally fast. Our economic and industrial structure is placing before us problems of greater and greater magnitude. Few men can see far ahead. Few are in complete control, for this is a changing world, as even the most inexperienced business man will readily testify. Our methods of adjusting ourselves rapidly to economic changes and of cooperating are far from perfect.

What an opportunity the leadership of five, ten or fifteen years from now presents! What an adventure it will be! What responsibilities it will lay upon the broadest shoulders that may be found! This is the challenge to leadership as I see it. In the hands of the young men must rest the responsibility for this leadership.

Boys Who Reached the Pinnacles

Business is full of the romance of youngsters whose chief characteristic was working hard and keeping at it. There was a green farmer boy who decided he would rather stand behind a counter than follow a plow. He seemed so obviously lacking in sales ability that for a time no merchant would hire him. He failed in his first position, and in his second his salary was reduced. He even agreed that he was a misfit—but he stuck. Out of his first five stores, I believe, three failed. But he persisted and worked hard. And that boy, Frank W. Woolworth, became the greatest retail merchant in the world with a store in every city of eight thousand or more population in this country.

There was another lad who clerked in a grocery store sixteen hours a day and studied mathematics in his odd moments. He became interested in the doings of the steel plant whose employees traded at this store. He began to study steel and sought a position in the plant. He carried a surveyor's chain and drove stakes. At night he studied mathematics and engineering. He did not despair. He could not be diverted. He kept the pressure on for seven years. And that boy, Charles Schwab, mastered the iron industry and became one of the country's great industrial leaders.

There was a lad who sold papers on a train. When he grew up, several million men and a score of billions of dollars of capital were given profitable employment through his inventions. Even in middle life, Thomas Edison continued to work twenty hours a day, if necessary to achieve his purpose.

Leadership is not play. Leadership offers countless positions of varying opportunity, of which the highest pinnacles will mean almost unbearable responsibility in the new era. There will be men with the fire and iron to qualify even for these places. Such men must have had the very finest preparation and the most grueling tests. Their reward will be the attainment of these highest pinnacles of achievement, and the rendering of an immeasurable service to their times.

Plenty of Pretty Girls To Be Seen at Annual Virginia State Fair

RICHMOND—All records for pretty girls, both in number and degree of loveliness, are to be broken at the 24th annual Virginia State Fair this year, it is said. For instead of the usual vaudeville acts of the past with an attractive damsel performing here and there, the entire John Robinson Circus has been engaged and, as all circus-goers know, this famous entertainment enterprise has in its great staff of bareback riders, aerialists, wild animal performers and dancers, just as beautiful artists as are to be found on Broadway.

Miss Mae Daye, daring aerialist, pictured above, is one of the beauties who appear in the magnificent aerial ballet. Other prominent artists include the Flying Wards; the Nelson Troupe of high-wire performers direct-from Europe; La Mott's Arabs; Aerial Kelleys; Kimball Girls; Rowland Sisters; Hollis Duo; Reno McCree Troupe and Rudy Rudyoff Family.

The new Midway will also have its quota of beauties, taking part in "Realization," Gean Nardreau's All-Native Hawaiian Revue, and other feature attractions of the Melville Reiss Shows, which come to the Virginia Fair for the first time. More than a dozen big riding devices will also be seen along the Midway, including some brand-new thrillers.

John Robinson's wild animal menagerie said to be the largest and most diversified on tour, as well as the complete three-ring circus performance, will be presented each afternoon and evening before the grandstand throughout Fair Week, from October 7 to 12. New low admission prices to the grounds will be in force this year, and railroads and bus lines will offer special round-trip rates to Richmond.

Manassas visitor last Friday on business, connected with the board.

Miss Eunice Anderson was a weekend visitor to the home of Mrs. Ella

Maxfield, of Hoadly.

Mr. G. M. Ratcliffe, who has been ill for several weeks, is understood to be showing marked improvement.

Use of left over foods in an economical and attractive way is covered in a very interesting manner in "Food Handling in the Home", a special souvenir booklet published by Frigidaire Corporation for general circulation in connection with the national food preservation campaign being conducted this month by the refrigeration industry.

Salads, soups, stews and other vegetable combinations in almost limitless variety may be made from left over foods which have been kept fresh and tasty. Bouillon, orange juices and vegetables held at a temperature of 42 degrees can be kept from ten to fifteen days, it is pointed out.

A feature of the booklet is an authoritative article from the Christian Science Monitor on points to consider in selection of a mechanical refrigerator. Another chapter of unusual interest sets forth a large number of recipes covering the preparation of desserts and salads to be frozen in an electric refrigerator.

The booklet contains also the complete rules covering a $25,000 national idea contest for an essay on "Why 50 Degrees is the Danger Point." Dealers who are distributing the booklet are ready to aid any one interested in the national contest by providing them with all the information needed to participate in the competition.
