

LADIES SING
FOR KIWANISAmos and Andy Put On a Breezy Silhouette.

The Kiwanis Club was delightfully entertained last Friday evening by a series of songs given by the Woman's Club, of Manassas, with Mrs. Illingworth, leading, and Mrs. Leachman, at the piano. The skill and execution indicated quite a bit of care and training which the ladies are having in their musical work.

The musical alphabet was one of the big hits, along with the classical music. One of the town's leading legal lights remarked that never before had the letters of our language fallen quite so pleasantly upon his ears.

Previous to this, Fred Hynson staged Amos and Andy, with the aid of his faithful radio and two expert understudies. The only trouble with this number is that Amos wagged his jaw when it should have been Andy, and Andy waved his hands when it should have been Amos, or which ever way it was. It was good, however, and the club enjoyed it.

"Bob" Hutchison staged a late entrance to the dinner (about six minutes), explaining that he brought Ted Diddle up from the lower part of the county in 30 minutes. Bob performed with his usual ability, choosing as his only victim, Charley Alpaugh, who acted as spokesman for the Club in thanking the members of the fair sex who had made the evening such a success.

During the dinner Dr. Marsteller spoke on the road situation in Gainesville District, urging more unanimity of action and frankness toward the people of that district in order to promote mutual good will. His talk was well received by those present.

President Hutchison announced that the Board meeting Friday evening, April 4th, at 5:30.

SWANK WINS
AT ORATORYPrince William Oratorical Contest Won By Nokesville
High Student.

Ray Ralston Swank, of Brentsville District High School, for a second time, came out winner in the national oratorical contest being sponsored by daily newspapers over the country. In this area it is the Washington Star.

Swank had the star position on the program, and he used his advantage ably. Apparently there was little trouble for the judges to decide. Henry Corbin was chosen second.

All of the speeches were rendered better perfect. Comments made in the audience were to the effect that Lloyd Davis, of Haymarket, used the most flowery language; Eloise Compton, the most original of the group; Henry Corbin, of Swavely, the easiest to follow in line of thought, and Ray Swank of Nokesville, the most effective orator.

Professor Illingworth, of Swavely, presided, and the Manassas High Orchestra gave two selections before the speaking began. During the interim while the judges were reaching a decision, Miss Dorothy Beachley rendered a very charming violin solo, with Miss Catherine Weir at the piano.

The auditorium of the local high school was well filled. The crowd that came over from Nokesville must have encouraged Mr. Swank greatly, as he certainly reflected great credit on his community.

HAYMARKET HIGH
BOWS TO SWAVELYPractice Game Proves Thriller.
Herrell Stars On Mound.

The Haymarket High School baseball team journeyed to Manassas on Friday last and played a practice game with the Swavely School.

Although they took the short end of a 6-5 score they put up a brave fight.

The score at the beginning of the seventh inning was 6-0 in favor of Swavely. Haymarket made five runs in this inning by collecting two hits and four base on balls off of Allan, the third Swavely pitcher. Swavely called the game after this because it was their dinner hour.

Each team gathered eight hits. Daleney and Keet hold the batting honors for Swavely, while Lightner and Herrell made their war clubs ring for Haymarket.

Herrell did the flinging for Haymarket and was credited with eight strikeouts.

Completing Arrangements
For A "Rip Roaring"
Event.

The M. H. S. Agriculture Department is hard at work preparing for their annual minstrel show. This year they are going to present the "Cotton Blossom Minstrels". They are planning to have a larger and better show than ever before. There will be a variety of comedy and plenty of music.

Mr. C. W. Boyles has charge of the show, and from the past performances he has presented, we know this year's show will be a success. Mrs. Compton will have charge of the musical part of the show, and she promises some snappy tunes.

Mr. George Wood, who is known for his ability to "rattle the bones" and play the harmonica, has promised to take part.

Mr. Thomas Andrews will play the trombone, saxophone, piano and banjo. The Greenwich orchestra will also be present to play some snappy string music. The well-known Carter Brothers will be present to entertain.

As for the boys who will take part in the Crossfire and Sketches, the people know them by past performances.

Everybody save their dimes and nickels and be ready to attend the show of the season.

The date set for the play is Saturday, May 3rd, and the place is the Manassas High School Auditorium.

The proceeds from the show will be used to buy new desks and chairs for the classroom and to finance the annual judging trip to Blacksburg.

We will be expecting the friends of the department and their friends to be present at the greatest, most comical, most musical, and largest minstrel show ever presented by the Manassas High School Agricultural Department.

COUNCIL MEETS
AT MANASSASCity Authorities Receive Offer
To Purchase Its Public
Utilities.

The Town Council of Manassas held its regular monthly meeting on Monday night and transacted a large volume of routine business which included enactment of the annual tax and license ordinances.

Of particular public interest was a bona-fide offer to purchase the electric lighting plant and water system of Manassas for a consideration of $100,000.00. The communication is herewith published in full.

TO THE HONORABLE MAYOR
AND TOWN COUNCIL OF MANASSAS, VA.

Gentlemen:

The undersigned company, having only quite recently purchased from the town the outside lines, and having carried out, or caused to be carried out the transaction, it believes, satisfactorily, and after thoroughly considering the proposition to follow, has determined to make the town a proposition which it hopes you will give the serious consideration which it believes its respectable and fair offer includes. The proposition is as follows:

The company desires to purchase the franchise and all property rights of the electric property, and the franchise and all property rights of the water supply, and agrees to offer to pay to the town of Manassas, in cash, the sum of $100,000.00 when the legalities have been perfected and a mutual contract entered into and to take over and operate these utilities on or before October 1st, 1930, at or before which time the full amount is to be paid.

As an evidence of the good faith of this offer, the company agrees that if it is accepted, it will include in the contract of purchase to guarantee a reduction in both the lighting and power rate, and that never, at any time in the future, will it apply for nor ask of the town officials, or the State authorities, for an increase in rates, that it will guarantee a power supply of at least five times the present supply and will maintain arrangements and or connections that on ninety days' notice it will be prepared to supply the town up to any or all demands, should its requirements be such at any time within a period of thirty years, which would be the term of the franchise asked for.

The company will further guarantee to the town a rate for street lighting that will not be in excess of its present cost, and in fact, will guarantee a saving below the average cost to the town of the last two years of operation. The company will also guarantee to the town that the rates for water to the consumer will be at least five per cent less the first year and a reasonable reduction for the years following, providing this franchise is also based on a thirty-year term. In both instances applying to water and to electric current service will be continuous and maintained at both voltage and pressure that meet the requirements of the town and any and all laws or codes as provided by the State of Virginia.

It is very respectfully requested that this matter be acted upon as promptly as possible, taking into consideration the advantages and saving that this proposition will give to the town, its consumers and taxpayers.

Respectfully submitted,

C. W. ALPAUGH.

FIRES MENACE
LARGE ACREAGEFire Fighters From Many Sections Called On For Aid In Serious Situation.

During the early part of the week, fires raged over several thousand acres of Fairfax County. A strong wind blowing made the fight very difficult.

One fire started in the Merrifield section and swept eastward. A large number of fire departments and hundreds of volunteer workers finally subdued the blaze. Another threatened Lorton and Fort Humphreys. Several hours after it was thought extinguished, the breezes fanned it into action, and the exhausted workers from the reservation were again called on.

J. L. Money, of Dranesville, has been constantly warning the people of Fairfax County that this is the dangerous season, but there is always someone or something who carelessly or in ignorance makes trouble and damage for hundreds. Let us hope that with the showers of Thursday morning that this danger is over.

SCHOOL BOARD
ELECTS TEACHERSWants General Hunton's Picture
To Be In Confederate
Uniform.

The county school board met Wednesday with a full attendance.

Superintendent Haydon reported on the recent conference of division superintendents in Richmond, describing the changes in the school laws and the division of state funds.

Hon. Thomas H. Lion appeared before the Board to learn its sentiment with regard to a picture which the family of General Hunton is preparing to present to the county. The question that the family desires is the general opinion as to whether the picture shall show the General in uniform or civilian attire. The Board was unanimous that the picture show the Confederate uniform.

All teachers in service (that is all those who filed for reappointment on or before April 1st), were re-elected for another year. Some new clauses for next year's contracts were discussed.

Arrangements were made to have W. I. Dixon, of the State Architect's office, visit the county to get a preliminary survey of the site of the new Haymarket High School.

IMPORTANCE OF PASTURE IMPROVEMENT AND ECONOMY OF USING FERTILIZERS OF HIGHER ANALYSES

At a meeting of Catharpin farmers last Thursday evening, W. H. Byrne, Extension Agronomist, V. P. I., emphasized the importance of improving pastures in this section. Mr. Byrne in his discussion said that 16 per cent Acid Phosphate used as a top dressing in the spring had made remarkable improvement in permanent pastures in the state, both east and west of the ridge. The results obtained by Mr. Bonham, of Chilhowie, Va., were cited.

Briefly, Mr. Bonham's experience has been as follows: He has been top dressing each spring with about 300 pounds of acid phosphate for the last five years. Last year he topdressed three hundred acres and he is topdressing that much or more this spring. He is not using lime, however, I believe it advisable that lime be used in addition to acid phosphate in your section. Since fertilizing his pastures in this way Mr. Bonham is carrying one beef steer to two acres where before topdressing he could not carry more than one steer to each 5½ acres. Where he used to get 300 pounds of gain per steer per year he is now getting 450 pounds of gain and his grazing season has been increased from six to eight months.

LABORERS' PSALM.

Hoover is my Shepherd, and I am in want;

He maketh me to lie down on park benches;

He leadeth me beside great need,

He restoreth my doubt in the Republican Party;

He leadeth me in the paths of destruction for his party's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the Valley of the Shadow of Starvation

I do fear evil for thou art against me;

Thy politicians and profiteers they frighten me,

Thou preparest a reduction in my salary before me, in the Presence of mine enemies, Thou annointest my income with taxes;

My expenses runneth over my income. Surely unemployment and poverty will follow me all the days of the Republican Administration, and I shall dwell in a rented house forever.—Ex. Note—Brought in by a Brentsville subscriber.

THIRTY FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST
 If parents will have their children memorize a Bible selection each week, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.

TRANSFORMED, NOT CONFORMED.—And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God.—Romans 12:2.

PRAYER:

I trust Thee, Lord, for Thou only canst renew my mind and transform me.

A LOSS TO PRINCE WILLIAM COUNTY.

Next Monday in Manassas Howard W. Smith will open his last term of court as Judge of the Sixteenth Judicial Circuit of Virginia. It is with regret that we make this announcement.

For a number of years Judge Smith presided over the Corporation Court of Alexandria with distinction and his more recent career as Circuit Judge has been particularly meritorious. He has dispensed justice without fear or favor, clearing up crowded dockets, and presiding on the bench in a manner not only inspiring respect and esteem for the man but also veneration for the majesty of the law.

For calmness, equanimity and perseverance Judge Smith has few peers and he retires leaving a record that is equalled by few and surpassed by none.

IMPROVED Fordson Agricultural Tractor

More Power—Easier Starting

The improved Fordson develops 30 brake horsepower at 1000 revolutions per minute—the recommended engine speed. This represents an increase of 27.5 per cent over the former model—thus providing ample power for any farm need. This additional power was made possible by increasing the engine displacement and redesigning the cylinder head. Many other improvements have been made in the Fordson power plant, such as changing the ignition, cooling and lubrication systems, the transmission, the crankshaft, the air washer.

Of particular interest is the installation of a high tension magneto which, together with the new hot spot manifold, makes the Fordson very easy to start. This manifold and the new carburetor is for gasoline fuel only. A kerosene vaporizer system is furnished optionally.

These and many other changes have been incorporated. The same high quality of materials and close limits of accuracy have been maintained. The short wheelbase, the enclosed construction, the simplicity and compactness of design which have always characterized the Fordson, are still evident throughout the tractor. These are attained by the use of the frameless or unit construction. The housings act not only as frame and load-carrying members but enclose the working parts as well.

The fewer parts make for reliability and ease of adjustment. The accuracy with which parts are made facilitates repair work when necessary. Parts are interchangeable and no adjustment is needed when replacing them. Thus, efficiency, economy and reliability are characteristics of the Fordson tractor in a more marked degree than ever before.

10,000 MEXICAN QUAIL BEING DISTRIBUTED THROUGH STATE

Richmond, Va., March 29.—The 10,000 bird shipment of Mexican quail, which birds are to be distributed throughout Virginia, was begun March 20th and will be continued until the entire consignment has arrived. The birds are being shipped in lots of 750 each. Each bird has an aluminum band fitted around one of its legs on which is stamped its serial number. Each sportsman killing one of these birds next year is requested to mail back to the state department of game the tiny band taken from the leg of the bird.

The birds, says Major Robertson, chairman of the commission on game and inland fisheries, are to be released in each of the one hundred counties in Virginia. They are being shipped to Virginia from a point in Texas. After their long journey the birds, cramped in crates, should be released as quickly as possible by game wardens receiving them at their points of destination here.

GLORIA BRISCOE.

The folks at home would not have recognized her by that name, for there she was known as Gladys Briscoe, but then neither would they have recognized her with the extreme boyish bob that she was sporting and the carmine lips and the big flat pearl earrings that almost covered the tiny lower lobe of her much-exposed ears. The blouse was new, too, sort of a bored, languid stroll. When Gloria had renamed herself she had overlooked the frailty of human nature to nicknames and nicknames and nicknames, so she was slightly taken aback when all the men down at the office began calling her Gloria B. It sounded like an exclamation, not exactly of approval. In fact, by a certain inflection of the voice there could be a little derision put into it, thus: Gloria B. I. Sometimes she wondered whether she was putting the ultra stuff across or whether there were still little ear-marks of the country girl peeping out around the edges of her camouflage. But, anyhow, she was enjoying her freedom and the big life and the occasional cigarettes that made her head ache but added the finishing touch to this new Gloria—to this magnificent butterfly to whom Gladys had been only the grubby worm.

It was with gnawing impatience that she waited for her first vacation when she might go back home and dazzle her girlhood friends with this new apparition at which the Gladys of a year before had not even hinted a promise. It was along in August when she finally got away from the hot, sweltering city, Jack Desmond, her "steady," had promised to run down for a weekend at least, and she was speeding home ahead of him to put the place in order and instruct her family as to what to do—what to eat, and how to do, say, wear—and eat!

It was a trying time for old man Briscoe and his wife, Mrs. Briscoe was not permitted to wear her comely old gingham dresses even in the kitchen in the mornings. Every time she said with pleasant interest: "Well, I do know!" she was glared at by her daughter. The old man's easy chair on the front porch—the one that sagged on one side and had the cowhide seat in it—had been whisked away and his field-weary limbs were forced to seek repose in strange, un-fitting chairs that refused to yield to his contour. But the thing that nearly killed Gloria was that her parents could not or would not remember not to call her Gladys.

"Seems like you been Gladys so long I can't get accustomed to nothing else," Mrs. Briscoe would apologize, mopping her flushed face on her apron. Gloria sighed in despair. It was hopeless. Maybe she had better wire Jack not to come, make up some excuse and keep him away somehow. After they were married—if they ever did marry—he could adjust himself to the crudeness of his parents-in-law as best he could. Anyway, once married he couldn't get away so easily, but now—why, they weren't even engaged. It would be too great a risk to have him see them now. Yet, somehow because she loved him so much she could not bring herself to forego the pleasure of seeing him.

So he arrived as they had planned on the 6:30 Saturday afternoon, bringing with him a huge box of candy and greeting Gloria with a smile that made her heart jump for joy. Together they walked the short distance from the station to the inviting old country home in the cool quiet of a perfect summer evening. As they approached he stopped and faced the girl.

"Gloria, I don't know—how to do the square thing," he said hesitatingly. "I like you just a lot—in fact I—I love you, but I'm never going to ask you to marry me; I know we couldn't be happy together. My folks are just plain country people and you'd be ashamed of 'em and I wouldn't stand for that a minute. You're so different. I had no business letting myself fall for you. Up to the last minute I fought for the courage to call this visit off, but I wanted to come so badly I couldn't." Suddenly he raised his head as if a load had dropped from his shoulders. "I feel better now—we understand," he said after a moment.

Then Gloria put a hand on his arm and swallowed her pride as she spoke. "Jack, I'm only veneer. It isn't on very thick at that. It wouldn't be hard to scrape off. You'll feel better yet when you see dad in his old blue shirt with his suspenders holding him together, as he puts it. So we've both got parents that aren't too stylish."

Then Jack did something that quite shocked the neighbors who were all discreetly peeping out their windows to see Gladys' new city beau. He swept her slender little figure into his arms and kissed the boyish bob, and the pearl earrings, even the carmine lips. Yes, he did, right then and there.

"But I'm a hateful little mix, Jack. It was I who was—s-s-s—a-fraid of what you'd think of my parents and that I forgot my loyalty to them and was almost ashamed to have you see them. And they're so fine, too. I ought to be killed."

But Jack did not agree with her. He only thought that she was even leveler than ever when in a penitent mood—one in which he had never seen her before.

MARKERS SOON TO COVER STATE

History To Be Made Easy For Tourists By Use of Guide Books Free To Everyone.

The conservation and development commission is approaching the end of its efforts to place historical markers in all the counties of the state, by next spring there will be markers of this nature in every county. Some time will be necessary for the completion of the system, as there are many points yet to be considered, but by then the markers will extend over the entire Commonwealth.

Nothing done in Virginia during the last decade has attracted more attention than the historical markers. Throughout the country has arisen a chorus of approval, a feeling that in marking its historical places Virginia has performed a long-needed task and conferred a benefit on the country as a whole. While approving and even enthusiastic comments have come from every section of the Union, the most appreciative come from the largest states of the north, those with a fine historical and cultural background of their own.

New Jersey last summer sent representative to Virginia to study the marking system. Later a member of the Massachusetts historical commission visited Richmond, went over the battlefields, and viewed the markers with the result that the Bay State will in all probability erect a number of markers of the same type commemorating its own noteworthy historical events.

A member of a historical commission from Ohio was also in Richmond for several days and left with the idea of introducing the system in his own state. Recently, Louisiana, Florida and New York have investigated the Virginia system with great interest. The city of Atlanta has adopted markers of the same kind, and similar markers are being made for South Carolina. It is possible that in the next few years the Virginia historical system will be adopted all over the land.

Many leading newspapers of the country have voiced their approval of the Virginia markers. There is a wide appreciation of the fact that, in this bustling age, the general public does not have the time, or does not find the time, to read history, and yet desires to know something about it. By the Virginia system of marking historical spots, and issuing a guide book to accompany the markers, information may be obtained without study and as a pleasant accompaniment to an outing.

Another advantage of the system is that it teaches history where the historical events have occurred. One passes through famous battlefields and reads of the positions of the different armies and the various episodes of the battles as he moves along. Birth places and residences of the great men of the country cannot be missed now, since they are marked. One sees where Washington, Henry, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Marshall, Lee, and others were born or lived, or have their graves. One can trace the spread of settlements in early days along the creeks and rivers as he moves south from Washington or east toward Newport News and Norfolk.

The early churches of all denominations are marked. Famous homes, which were once the haunts of beauty and fashion, can be easily found now; they were formerly inaccessible to visitors without information. In a word, the historic treasures of Virginia are being unlocked, so that strangers from everywhere may appreciate them. And they are being appreciated. Many people are coming to Virginia from other states because of their desire to see spots they have always heard of and which are now being made accessible by the conservation and development commission. In fact, the commission is making the work of the history division one of the most important activities of the state.

KIWANIS BENEFIT.

Some time in April Dr. Eli Swavely of Swavely School, will deliver an illustrated lecture at the High School Auditorium on the "Marvels of Modern Photography." Among other marvels he will show photographs made without any lens, photographs made without light and photographs of objects which are invisible.

"Short Order" Suppers For Unexpected Guests

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heins Company

SUPPER is a pleasantly informal meal at which to entertain. And in these days of small homes, where elaborate cooking is difficult, supper gatherings are growing in popularity.

When guests drop in unexpectedly, the warmth of your welcome is not lessened one bit by knowledge that pantry shelves are well stocked with prepared foods, that at your finger tips is a supply of dainties equal to any emergency. It is well, however, to keep close at hand one or two attractive menus that can be prepared quickly, in their entirety, from this food reserve. And the first two menus in the group below will prove invaluable when "short order" suppers are demanded.

I.
Escalloped Tuna Fish with Sweet Gherkins
Buttered Toast or Crunchy Rolls
Olives and Celery
Package Cheese

Toasted Crackers
Coffee, Tea or Chocolate

II.
Cream of Tomato Soup Crackers
Boston Baked Beans in Individual Pots

Boston Brown Bread or Whole Wheat Sandwiches
Slices of Sweet Dill Pickle
Fruit Preserve Shortcake
Coffee

Other supper menus you will find delightful and suitable for informal suppers are:

III.
Emergency Chicken Salad (made with canned chicken)
Hot Rolls or Egg Sandwiches
Apple Pie
Coffee

IV.
Oysters en brochette
Creamed Potatoes

Tomato Ketchup
Whole Wheat Muffins
Fruit Ice
Small cakes
Coffee

Escalloped Tuna Fish with Sweet Gherkins—Melt 3 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, and blend thoroughly with 4 tablespoons flour. Add 2 cups milk, and cook until thickened. Season with salt, pepper and a bit of onion juice. Add 1 cup tuna fish from which the oil has been rinsed (place fish in a sieve and pour very hot water over it). Add ¼ cup chopped Sweet Gherkins, and pour into a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and brown in a hot oven.

Oysters En Brochette—Drain the liquor from three dozen oysters. Cut three dozen pieces of sliced breakfast bacon, each the size of an oyster. Place an oyster on a skewer, then a piece of bacon, and then another oyster until the skewer is filled. Broil before a clear flame until the edges of the oysters begin to curl. Place in a hot dish, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Garnish with stuffed Spanish Olives and serve with Tomato Ketchup.

Emergency Chicken Salad—Cut a can of chicken meat into cubes. Add an equal amount of celery and ¼ cup of sliced Stuffed Spanish Olives. Then add a few drops of onion juice, and salt and pepper to season. Moisten with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Chill thoroughly, and place in deep nests of lettuce. Garnish with slices of hard-cooked egg and Sweet Gherkins.
