WALTER M'CARTHY APPOINTED JUDGE OF THE 16TH CIRCUIT

First Judge to Be Appointed From Arlington County.

Popular Young Attorney Showed With Congratulations

Walter Turpin McCarthy, of Clarendon, was advised Monday morning by Governor Pollard that he had been selected as the successor to Hon. Howard W. Smith, who resigned last week to pursue his candidacy for nomination in the Democratic primary in August.

The announcement came as something of a surprise to Mr. McCarthy, whose name had not been advanced until the eleventh hour. Word leaked out late Saturday night and Washington papers carried the notice to that effect.

The law offices of Jesse, McCarthy, Phillips and Klinge, of which Mr. McCarthy is a member, were prettily decorated with flowers on Monday, which was also the opening day of court at Clarendon. A steady string of callers deluged the office all day, and the new judge's hands were rather worn by evening, but not his marked good nature.

Judge Coleman, of Fredericksburg, will continue to sit through this term. In all probability, Judge McCarthy will need until the opening of the May term at Fairfax to arrange his affairs before taking over his new duties.

Born in Richmond, on January 28, 1898, Mr. McCarthy is the son of Doctor Edward McCarthy, of that city, and Deborah Anthony, of Buchanan, in Botetourt County. He attended the public schools of Richmond, concluding with John Marshall High School. Coming to Washington, he matriculated at George Washington, graduating from that institution in 1922.

While at college, he became a member of two fraternities, Kappa Sigma and Phi Alpha Delta, an honor fraternity of the law department.

Shortly after leaving college, he passed the Virginia Bar exams and hung out his own shingle for about eight months. In May, 1923, he became the junior partner of Col. C. T. Jesse, Arlington County's first delegate to the General Assembly. He remained with the firm up to the present time. He is also vice president and treasurer of the Real Title Corporation.

Only once before in the history of the Commonwealth has so young an attorney ascended the bench of any circuit. This was the late Judge Keith, of Warrenton.

LIEUT. WALTER HINTON

KIWANIS WILL STUDY PLAN

Committee to Study Engineer's Report.

A well attended meeting of the Club last Friday heard a very complete report of Engineer Schenke on the Highway plan of Prince William County. Mr. Schenke showed that the fourteen year, "pay as you go" plan was based on the same revenues and expenditures as the five-year five-bond issue plan. It was the sense of those present that some further study be made before the Club take any definite action in the matter.

The discussion following Mr. Schenke's talk brought out some decided sentiment in the matter, there being proponents of both plans present.

Supervisor Robertson and Dr. Marshall expressed what was probably the most conservative sentiment in the matter. Mr. Robertson desired to hear more definitely from Mr. Shirley, and Chairman Larkin, of the Board of Supervisors, assured the group that the Board would act as a unit in its deliberations.

According to Mr. Schenke the special levy would rise gradually to 80 cents in 1939 and drop off to a very small amount in 1954, this being the year that the final twenty year bond would expire. Under this plan about 118 miles of road would be put in good condition and maintenance furnished for the entire remainder of the dirt roads of the county.

The Club will have a committee take this matter up with other groups who are now studying the plan.

NOTED AVIATOR TO SPEAK HERE

Lieutenant Hinton, ORC, Will Address Manassas High Tomorrow Afternoon.

Lieutenant Walter C. Hinton, Officers Reserve Corps, and pilot of the NC-4, first plane to fly across the Atlantic (May 31, 1919), will address the Manassas High School on "Aviation as a Vocation," Friday, April 25. At the Kiwanis Club meeting during the evening Dewey Zirklin, of Washington, district chairman of the vocational guidance committee of the Capital Kiwanis District, will talk on the subject of "Vocational Guidance and Placement."

These vocational guidance talks both at the high school and Kiwanis Club, which will also be attended by Lieutenant Hinton, were arranged by R. C. Haydon, division superintendent, Prince William County, Board of Education, and chairman of the Manassas Kiwanis Club vocational guidance committee.

Lieutenant Hinton will tell of his experience in the transatlantic flight in 1919, and in a balloon flight in which he was carried half way to the North Pole after having been in the air twenty-four hours. It took him thirty-one days to reach the nearest railroad using dog sleds as a means of transportation for the return trip. This latter event occurred in 1920. In 1922 he and four other companions made a flight from New York to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. This was the first flight made between North and South America.

Lieutenant Hinton has for several years devoted his time to the teaching of aviation, and is president of the Aviation Institute of the United States.

In recognition of Lieutenant Hinton's achievements in the air, he has received decorations including the award of a medal recently authorized by Congress, which is now being made in the Mint in Philadelphia, and will be presented him by the President. Other countries who have honored him include England, France, Portugal and South America.

CHARITY BALL GREAT SUCCESS

Woman's Club Stages One of the Most Successful Benefits Held at Manassas.

Nearly three hundred devotees of the dance assembled on Monday evening to take in or observe the pretty figures executed on the ball room floor.

The decorating committee had done its work with great nicety. Green and pale yellow streamers and evergreens festooned the walls and banked the stage. A number of toy balloons were used effectively, both in the decorations and as fireworks later in the evening.

The music began about nine thirty, Johnson and O. D. Waters to tempt but it took the artistic steps of Dr. some of the slightly younger gallants into action. Dancing became general at ten o'clock, and continued until well after midnight.

Several feature dances were given, the first being an elimination dance won by Mr. F. E. Griffin, of New York, and Miss Margaret Thorne. They also danced a solo waltz for the crowd after the award was made. Later a prize waltz was called and three couples selected from the crowded floor. These were Hawes Davies, Jr., and partner, Lloyd Cassell, and partner and Mr. Carroll Rice and Mrs. Charmie Sinclair, the last named being declared winners in the final elimination. The lights were partially turned off to give the effect of moonlight.

G. Raymon Ratcliffe, Esq., acted as announcer for the judges.

The profusion of color made the moving mass of dancers almost kaleidoscopic. The great variety of hemlines was the occasion of considerable interest.

Sufficient to say that the affair had the typical generous support of Prince William County, as testified by the presence of so many prominent people from many sections, as well as old residents returning to help in the good cause. The ladies of the Woman's Club are being congratulated on their well-earned success and all good wishes are extended for a continuation of this sort of live community work in the future.

The names of all the committees who took part in this affair were published in The Journal two weeks ago.

Herring), was continued to further ascertain the cost of such proposed construction, and whether the Highway Commission will donate the old bridges.

Popular Telephone Executive Discusses Research in Business.

REVEALS HUMAN ASPECTS OF BIG BUSINESS

Practical Ideas Explained in Address Before Leesburg Rotary Club.

Research in Business was the subject of a talk made before the Rotary Club of Leesburg, Friday, April 18, by Walter B. Clarkson of Washington. Mr. Clarkson who is vice president of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies gave the club members a description of the extent to which research had contributed to the development of the telephone industry. "Research is in a large measure responsible for the fact that today the Bell System is the largest single industry in the world. Last year there was spent more than $500,000,000, which is more than twice as much money as it cost to build the Panama Canal which required ten years to build," said Mr. Clarkson.

"The Bell System has more than $4,000,000,000 invested in telephone plant. It has over 450,000 employees and if we combine the stockholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the parent company, and the associated companies making up the Bell System, it has a total of more than 600,000 owners. What has caused this tremendous growth? Telephone service does not exist today because there was an insistent demand that the people should be provided with it. In fact, for many years the public was so doubtful of the telephone as a utility that it required the utmost sales effort to introduce it. It exists largely because its founders conceived the idea, that if it could be developed along scientific and practical lines, it would grow into a great utility. One of their first efforts was to set apart a unit of the organization solely for the purpose of searching for improvements; not only improvements in the art, but better ways of doing things. This organization was started with a single individual.

One discovery showed the possibility of another, and the work has progressed until this unit has become a subsidiary organization of the Bell System, known as the Bell Telephone Laboratories, now employing more than 5,000 people. These people have nothing to do directly with giving telephone service to the public. Yet they are a very vital part of the entire undertaking, and telephone service today would probably still be in a primitive state if this research organization had not been developed.

"The vision of these early founders has been amply demonstrated in the last few years. Forty-seven years ago, Alexander Graham Bell made a prophecy that the time would come when it would be possible to talk by telephone to any place in the known world. Telephone service was then in its infancy and necessarily a very imperfect service. It took forty-five years to realize this prophecy. It became a reality only two years ago, at least in part, and today you can take your telephone receiver from the hook in Leesburg and in less time than it would have taken you a few years ago to talk to St. Louis or Chicago or Boston, you can be in communication with London, Paris, Berlin or most of the large cities in Europe and a number of South American cities. Service to these distant points today is as good as it was to a reasonably distant city ten years ago.

"Research, however, is not limited to large industries. It is true that in large industries both the demand and opportunities as well cannot do research work, because it may take a very simple form. After all it is merely a concentrated and intensive effort not only to make new discoveries but to find better ways of doing known things. There are few businesses so small that research work in some form or another will not in the end pay substantial dividends in the way of increased efficiency and increased profits.

"The Bell System has concentrated very largely on another activity which is research work in a slightly different form but which we regard as highly important. This is the rela-

EYE CLINICS FOR THE BLIND

State Commission for the Blind Reports Impressive Activities of That Body.

During recent months, says Secretary Watts, the commission has been sponsoring eye-clinics. These clinics are held for the purpose of preventing blindness and conserving sight. Their chief concern is with school children and those of pre-school age, while such assistance as is thought necessary is always extended adults.

Among the most successful clinics held was that at Courtland, in Southampton County. Four trips were made to Courtland. The first trip was on February 26, the second March 9, the third March 26, and the last on April 6. Dr. Bagby, local health officer, asked that a clinic be held in his district, and at once all preliminary surveys incident to the initial examination of the children were made.

On February 26 two of the most eminent ophthalmologists of the state, with their nurse and a competent optician to fit the glasses, began the actual work of refracting 231 children, both white and colored. Among their number were found several requiring prompt hospitalization, 180 refractions were made and glasses prescribed for 137.

Every assistance, says Secretary Watts, has been extended the work of his commission by both local and outside health officers and nurses, and most gratifying results are being achieved. The commission works in co-operation with public school officials by establishing sight-saving classes. Its headquarters is maintained at 1228 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia, to which those already blind or those who have eyesight is falling should be referred.

The commission has a field nurse who travels throughout the state. Where a sufficient number of children is located in any one community to warrant the holding of an eye-clinic some competent eye specialist is secured and a clinical examination is arranged. The ophthalmologists give their services free.

THE TELEPHONE AGE

We are giving to our readers this week a speech made by Walter B. Clarkson, vice president of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, before the Rotary Club of Leesburg, Va.

In a concise and very interesting manner, Mr. Clarkson gives a history of one of the most important utilities in the world. Modestly, but steadily, the telephone company has progressed. Probably no great organization of modern years met with so little encouragement at first. Today the business and social life of the world depend on the telephone. From the magnate of finance in his office in the big marts of the world to the secluded housewife in the remote country districts; from snow plains to tropics; across trackless waters and in the heart of the densest forests, the telephone realizes the dream of Puck and has placed a girdle round the world.

One potent fact, among many that are well worth close study in the management of the telephone company, is that the PERSONAL ELEMENT is dominant. Youth, education, pleasure, comfort, financial opportunity, sickness and old age are taken into account. The individual needs of their vast and varied army of employees are recognized. And this personal relationship of interest, care and courtesy extends to the humblest subscriber to their service. All reasonable needs are carefully studied and reasonably met.

Unvarying development of the human element in a gigantic business where rapid evolution and constant change in methods have been a necessity, and where millions of people are involved, evidences constant vigilance and keen discernment among the promoters as well as inherent ability. Therefore, it should be a source of pride to Prince William County that the Clarkson boys, of Haymarket, have contributed so capably to the advancement of the telephone company and are considered among the most prominent of the able men who have engineered this mammoth enterprise.

tionship between the company and its employees. The importance of this relationship, of course, increases with the size of any industry. The Bell System long ago found out, as no doubt many of you have found out, that the character of any industry or business is largely an expression of the character of the people who run it. When you think you know, with whom you have your contacts, just as when you think of a bank or some other business institution to you. Our employees whom you meet from day to day are the telephone company. We expect them to give you the very best possible service. We expect them to be good citizens, and we expect them to have proper regard for the requirements of the public for telephone service. And we recognize that their welfare and contentment is a thing that is essential to the conduct of our business.

"We do not regard it enough that we pay fair wages regularly. Wages alone in any industry will not establish in the minds of the workers the loyalty and enthusiasm that will command the best that they have in them. The average employee wants closer association with the business he is in than merely that which is expressed by the weekly pay envelope.

We recognize this, and we have adopted measures tending to develop in the mind of the employee the fact that he is an essential part of the organization.

"We recognize the desirability of assuring our workers of continuous employment, and so order our work as to reduce to a minimum the necessity of laying off employees. It almost never happens. We make provision so that employees will not be in need at the time of sickness. To meet we have what we call a Benefit Plan by which wages continue wholly or in part, based on the length of service. We have a Pension Plan under which employees who have served the company long and faithfully can retire in their old age with the assurance that they will not be in want. We have an organization by which employees have a voice in the management of the business. This organization also provides a channel through which any employee at any time may present for the consideration of the management any grievance which he may have. We offer employees the right to subscribe for stock of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company on favorable terms on a deferred payment basis. "We do these things not for benevolent reasons. We do them because it is just ordinary good business. We aim to create in the mind of the employee a feeling of confidence in the company and a desire and enthusiasm to give the best that is in him."

THE EASTER SPIRIT—

is reflected here throughout the year in all our contacts with patrons. It is manifested in our earnest desire to be of the utmost service and a courtesy that never fails. We extend the season's greetings and invite your account.

Feeling Thrifty?..

WANT to cut car costs? Who doesn't, on occasions! We know how it is... so does Goodrich, whose tires we sell.

Goodrich, you see, realizes that all of us like a bargain now and then. But they can't see why a bargain tire can't be a good tire.

So their engineers got together awhile back. Set out to build an outstanding tire at a sensationally low price. A tire that could carry the name Goodrich. A tire that would live up to Goodrich standards on the road.

Result... the Cavalier. Big and husky. Oversize in air cushion. Thicker and tougher in tread. Built to fight off rough roads and high speeds and take its own sweet time about wearing out.

But—built to sell at prices that beat even ordinary tires for real savings.

We've got a full stock of Cavaliers on hand right now. All sizes... including a couple for trucks. And as our contribution to this money-saving party, we're offering them at special prices. Cutting the figures even lower than they usually are.

We want you to see this tire. Want you to look over our prices. Come in... see what we've got... and you'll walk out with a nice saving in your pocket!

BETTER STORAGE SPACE

"A place for everything and everything in its place." Surely we have all heard this old saying.

In the country home it seems more storage space is required than in the town home. In the farmhouse we need storage space for food in the basement because that is a cool place. Have you a nice cool, dark, dry closet in your basement for canned goods? Are there shelves in this closet? Then you also need a storage space for fresh vegetables and fruits and still another bin or stall for storing the fuel. It is much better when these are all quite separate and distant. So in a country home the use of the basement as a storage space is very important.

Then since you do live away from daily access to the market you probably buy larger supplies of food, such as sugar, flour and canned goods. It is very convenient if you have a large closet or storeroom off the kitchen for storage of such supplies. Shelves are needed in such a room.

Going on further into the house we find many homes not provided with a linen closet and mother has to store her linens wherever possible, thus causing many extra steps. This linen closet may open off the hall and should contain both shelves and drawers and then of course, you have a nice roomy clothes closet.

We have learned that housekeeping is made much easier when the houses are convenient and we have storage space for every kind of article. Since the girls and women of Prince William county are both majoring on house furnishings we may expect to find many improvements being made along the line of storage space this year. The campaign is now being launched. It is not too late to take part and get this help for your own home.

Bethel Leading in Better Storage Space Campaign Enrollment.

The better storage campaign which has just been launched in the county is being entered into enthusiastically in various communities. Bethel community has at present the largest number enrolled. Catharpin comes second. Enrollment will continue to be received through May 3rd.

Community enrollments are as follows:

Bethel: Mrs. Geo. Hedges, Mrs. T. Powell Davis, Mrs. M. M. de Nicola, Mrs. C. C. Glascock, Mrs. Eva Fairbank, Mrs. J. Frank Taylor, Mrs. E. W. Thompson, Mrs. Randolph Hedges. Catharpin: Ann Robertson, Bertha Pattie, Hazel Fitzer, Dora Anderson, Mary Anderson.

Richmond, Va., April 23.—Richmond's historic shrines, her famous battlefields over which the tides of ray and blue surged during the War between the States, may be viewed to great advantage by visitors during the celebration of Adventure Days in Virginia, a state-wide historical festival to be observed at the capital the week of April 28-May 3. The Adventure Days committee has made a number of plans to make the historic spots in and nearby the city, specially interesting to visitors during this week.

Chief of these plans is the arrangement for two tours of the battlefields near Richmond to be conducted by Dr. Douglas Freeman, editor of the News Leader and one of the vice-presidents of the Battlefield Park Association, and J. Ambler Johnston, secretary-treasurer of this association. The first of these will be conducted on May 29. The party will leave the City Hall at 2 p. m., and will proceed to Mechanicsville for a tour of the battlefields there. Hence they will go to Gaines' Mill, Second Cold Harbor, White Oak Swamp, Frazer's Farm, Malvern Hill, and Fort Harrison, returning to Richmond at approximately 6 o'clock. A new feature of the tour will be a thorough examination of the works developed and unearthed around Fort Harrison. This historic spot was the first bought by the Battlefield Park Association and recent developments have opened up most interesting fortifications there. The tour is open to all who wish to go and provide their own transportation.

No less interesting to visitors will be the historic shrines of Richmond, many of which will have special programs for Adventure Days week. These may be seen, too, for the first time with the help of trained guides. Under the direction of Dr. Douglas Freeman and Dr. Sidney Negus, of the Medical College of Virginia, a group of students from the Medical College, the University of Richmond and John Marshall High School are being trained to conduct tourists to Richmond's many shrines, and to tell them the history of each. These guides have taken trips over the city with Dr. Freeman and Dr. Negus when the city's history was explained to them. They are to pass an examination before they will be given cards as accredited guides.

Richmond will have a gala week from April 28 to May 3, for during those days, in addition to the many programs of Adventure Days, the historic gardens in and near the city will be open to visitors under the sponsorship of the Garden Club of Virginia and the first three days of the week the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York will give four performances.
