ANNOUNCEMENT

To the Democratic Voters of the Eighth Congressional District of Virginia:

Having decided to enter the contest for the Democratic nomination for Congress, within the time provided by law, I feel that the voters are entitled to an open and candid expression of my views.

Shortly after Mr. Moore declared his position, friends began to discuss with me the matter of going into the contest, but, like most men not engaged in politics as a career, I was inclined to put aside the suggestion and to continue with my work. I do, however, feel a deep interest in certain questions that are involved and becoming convinced that the interest in these questions is widespread, I concluded to become a candidate.

It is said in certain quarters that I am entering too late, but some of those who say this would not have supported me had I announced myself the next day after Mr. Moore withdrew. Sixty days, the time fixed by law, is long enough for the people to satisfy themselves with regard to the merits or demerits of any candidate and it is for them to say on the day of the primary whether I have unduly delayed.

I am and have always been a loyal Democrat. I have served in the ranks, upholding the cause of democracy, and have not sought elective office at the hands of my fellow Democrats, though my friends from time to time have urged me to do so. I believe that our party is needed to stand for the things which brought this nation into existence—to stand for the principles which were advocated by Jefferson, Mason, Henry and a host of other great Virginians. The only danger to our party is in departing from certain principles which are vital, and nothing is more vital than the preservation of the rights of the states. On most questions we should not be required to have the consent of the representatives of states that are remote from us and have no knowledge as to our local situation. If we make mistakes in our state legislation, we can correct them, but once we commit a new power to the Federal government we must have the consent of the representatives of many states before we can change our direction. I furthermore believe that questions that are important should be brought out in the open and discussed in order that the people themselves may take part in deciding them in an intelligent way.

I was born on a farm in Fauquier County where I worked in my early years. Since I have been practicing law, my friends have been largely those who live on the farms and I fully appreciate their problems and difficulties. The improvement of agricultural conditions is one of the overshadowing questions of our day. Individual effort is indispensable, but there are things which the government may do. I favor whatever can properly be done by government action. I am satisfied that the tariff bill just enacted will not only benefit the farmers, but will greatly increase their burdens and is a tragic disregard of the assurances given when the extra session of Congress was called.

The primary obligation of government, according to the doctrine handed down to us by the founders of our party, is regard for the welfare of the mass of the people and this obligation has too often been ignored in dealing with the problems of agriculture and labor. I believe that these great interests should in every way be protected from discrimination and injustice.

I approve the present policy of our government in respect to restriction of foreign immigration, and I favor such further extensions of that policy as may be necessary to meet the ends desired.

Something must be done to counteract the effect of concentration of capital and the conduct of business in relatively few hands. If the present tendency is not checked, then practically all business will, at no distant day, be conducted by gigantic monopolistic corporations, and in proper governmental control and stead of local enterprise and ownership, most people will become employees, with the further result that practically all of the profits will go to the large cities instead of remaining in the rural communities and small towns.

The time has come in this state, and in this country, when a serious effort should be made by the reasonable men on both sides to settle the question of prohibition. I am convinced that the Eighteenth Amendment and the labyrinth of penal laws enacted thereunder have gone too far and that we must find a saner question. I favor the return to the states of the powers in this connection, but I am unalterably opposed to the re-establishment of the saloon and feel assured that this phase of the question may be safeguarded so that all apprehension as to its return may be removed. A state should have the right to remain bone dry if that is the will of its people, but it should also have the right by constructive legislation to establish governmental control similar to that which prevails in a great many countries. These countries first tried the policy of absolute prohibition, but found it unworkable. The provinces of Canada have a number of different plans. We might not wish to adopt any of them, but we should have the right to work out a plan that will suit our people and at the same time strike down the great evils that have come from the illicit sale of liquor. Today all the money from this traffic goes into the pockets of a class, many of whom are desperate criminals. We are subjected to underworld conditions which have reached a climax in Chicago, where organized bands of criminals are a constant menace and deeply entrenched in the politics of the city. Today our only choice seems to be between a reign of terror and a reign of lawbreaking, and, notwithstanding the multiplication of harsh statutes, the illicit traffic continues to spread and the people are becoming more and more restive under governmental methods which savor of Russian terrorism. Mr. Wickersham, the head of the Law Enforcement Commission, admits that the laws enacted have gone too far and that the severity of these laws is defeating the purposes of those who brought about the adoption of the Amendment. Already the laws have gone much further than anyone dreamed was contemplated in the beginning, and the demand is continued for more laws and severer penalties. I repeat that the idea has come when we should get together and make such constitutional and statutory changes as will permit the dispensing of liquor under thereby remove the evils from which we now suffer.

I have faith in the work done by Chambers of Commerce, Community Leagues, and similar organizations, in which for years I have been identified, as every citizen is thereby afforded an opportunity for public service and participation in affairs of vital concern. Such activities lead to self-reliance and inevitably lessen the sphere of governmental action. The disposition to appeal to lawmaking bodies for new laws is a cause of apprehension to many thoughtful people. The mass of these laws at this time, many of them with penalties attached, providing fines and imprisonment, is simply appalling.

I hear it said that my candidacy is allied with some of the candidates in the field, and also hear it said that I have entered merely to defeat one or the other of the candidates. With an entirely clear conscience, I affirm there is no foundation of fact for these statements. I have entered because of the hope that the things for which I stand may be approved and the belief that the people who entertain views similar to mine desire to give expression to those views. With no feeling of personal enmity towards any of the candidates or their friends, I shall devote my time and energies in order to carry to a successful conclusion the campaign now in progress, and trust that the people will concentrate their attention upon the real questions involved and not upon irrelevant matters that simply tend to create friction within the ranks of the Democratic Party.

For many years I have kept in touch with the progress of events and with national and state legislation, and I promise that whatever capacity and experience I possess will be vigorously and earnestly employed in the interest of the public, should I be honored by the people of this District.

Very respectfully,
THOMAS R. KEITH
Fairfax, Virginia.

Mr. Keith's Announcement

With the announcement of the candidacy of Thomas R. Keith, of Fairfax, for the Democratic nomination for Congress on a platform for modification of the prohibition laws, the Eighth District immediately becomes the cynosure of interest in the Virginia congressional races. The professional drays at Richmond may well rub their eyes in looking at the candidacies in the Eighth. Is it possible that the situation has gotten so far out of control that there could be

MANASSAS AND ITS WATER SUPPLY

Town Manager Cooke Relates Progress of the Last Sixteen Years

If a vote were called for to decide which of the two utilities, water or light, are the most essential to modern standards of living it is probable the choice would be about evenly divided. However, as a plentiful supply of pure water is necessary to health as well as comfort the writer must cast his vote in favor of water as the primary necessity of an organized community, generally referred to as a town.

The Town of Manassas has had a municipally owned and operated water supply for a period of about sixteen years. This supply has been, and is still, derived from deep wells the shallowest of which is about three hundred feet in depth.

The original installation of the Manassas water system consisted of one deep well, a seventy five thousand gallon underground reservoir, an eighty thousand gallon metal tank mounted on a tower one hundred and twenty feet in height, and about five and one half miles of water mains ranging from four to eight inches in diameter.

The deep well, included in this original installation and now referred to as Well No. 1, was equipped with a deep well pump which pumped the water from the well into the underground reservoir. A large steam pump, located in the power house, pumped the water from the reservoir into the mains and also into the metal tank mounted on the one hundred and twenty foot tower.

The exact cost of this original installation is not at the present time available neither are the records of the output and the cost of operation of the water system during the early years of its existence. However, it would seem that for a time this one well produced sufficient water to supply the needs of the town.

About 1919 or 1920 it became apparent that an additional water supply must be had and a second well was drilled, now known as Well No. 2, which was located about two hundred feet from Well No. 1. This second well being in close proximity to the first, and of about the same depth, was obviously dependent upon the same underground water course for its flow and in consequence did not materially increase the total water supply as had been anticipated.

Later a third well was drilled, now known as Well No. 3, this also in close proximity to Well No. 1. This third well proved more satisfactory than Well No. 2 but later experiments showed that it drew from Well No. 1, and visa versa.

With the drilling of the second and third wells the method of pumping was changed to the use of an air lift, two electrically driven air compressors being employed to force compressed air into the wells and lift the water into the underground reservoir near the power house. The steam pump was also replaced with an electrically driven centrifugal pump for pumping the water from the reservoir into the mains and into the tank mounted on the steel tower.

This centrifugal pump proved very efficient and much more economical in operation than the steam pump which was first installed for this service. The air lifts, however, while efficient in delivering all the water which the three wells could produce, proved very costly in operation by reason of the excessive amount of electric current required to run the two air compressors.

About 1927 a small single action, deep well pump was installed in Well No. 2 but was not successfully operated until late in 1928 when certain changes were made in the installation which enabled its operation at considerable saving under the cost of operation of the air lift in that particular well. However, the output from Well No. 2 was so small that the saving in the total cost of pumping was immaterial.

While the town had experienced no actual water famine there had been, for several years prior to 1929, water shortage during the summer seasons which caused irritation and anxiety. Therefore, early in the year 1929 it

TEMPLE SCHOOL EXERCISES

The closing exercises of the Temple School of Music were held in the last week in May. On the afternoon of May 29th, the pupils gave a reception to their parents and friends. Those taking part were the piano and Kindergarten pupils and the French class. A very pretty ceremony consisted of the presentation of a gift from the French class and Mrs. Hopkins to the French teacher, Mrs. Hodge. Miss Dixie Marx, of the class, made the presentation.

On Saturday evening, the 31st, the dancing pupils of Miss Bouldin, the voice and violin pupils of Professor Kaspar, and the younger members of the school, under direction of Mrs. M. M. Ellis, were the entertainers. The accompanists were Miss Hopkins, Miss Kaspar and Miss Ratcliffe.

Professor Kaspar, of the Temple faculty, is from the European University and has an international reputation.

Few towns the size of Manassas have such an excellent school as the Temple school which affords facilities equal to those found in the larger cities.

was decided to drill a fourth well at a location sufficiently removed from the three existing wells to insure the tapping of a new underground flow. This fourth well was finally located close by the steel tower and water tank and developed a flow of rather better than fifty gallons per minute and, so far, has shown no indication of diminishing nor of affecting the flow of the three older wells.

Double action deep well pumps, of the overlapping stroke type, were installed in this new well and also in the No. 3 Well at the power house. These pumps have a capacity of fifty gallons per minute and forty gallons per minute respectively and pump the water directly from the wells through the mains into the eighty thousand gallon steel tank mounted on the tower, thus saving the second pumping from the reservoir which had been necessary under the previous installations.

These two deep well pumps have proved adequate for supplying the requirements of the town without the use of wells No. 1 and No. 2. However, Well No. 1 equipped with the air lift, Well No. 2 equipped with the small deep well pump, and the centrifugal pump for putting water from the reservoir into the mains, are kept in working condition as a "standby" and the reservoir is kept filled with water as a reservoir for fire or other emergency.

A comparison of the cost of water to the consumers, in the several towns and cities of Virginia, puts Manassas in a rather small group of municipalities where the cost to the consumer is in excess of forty cents per thousand gallons, the rate in Manassas being sixty cents per thousand gallons.

Up until the installation of the deep well pumps in wells No. 3 and No. 4, as previously described, the cost to the town for the water furnished to the consumers had been more than the rate of sixty cents per thousand gallons as charged. In a report to the Mayor, dated March 29, 1928, Mr. L. P. Houston, City Manager of Fredericksburg, stated that the cost of the water supplied by the Town of Manassas for the previous year had been in excess of seventy cents per thousand gallons and that the cost for electric current alone had been forty eight cents per thousand gallons. However, the drilling of the new well and the installation of the new pumps has reduced the cost of current used for pumping to an average of

HAYMARKET BOY GETS DEGREE

Henry G. Herrell Receives Degree of Bachelor of Laws in Washington

On Friday night, last, Henry G. Herrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Herrell of Haymarket, and recently a graduate of Haymarket High School received his degree of Bachelor of Laws from National University of Washington, D. C. He was the youngest of his class of nearly 300 students and received his degree while yet 19 years of age.

During his Junior year at National he was elected to membership in Phi Beta Gamma Legal Fraternity which exacts high scholarship as a requirement for entrance; and this year he was elected treasurer of this fraternity. He was a member of the Miller Debating Society and in the two interclass debates in which he participated his team was twice victorious. During his Senior Year he was elected to the Associate Editorship of the Docket, the annual yearbook of the University.

The JOURNAL is informed that Herrell intends to begin an active practice of the law as soon as he attains the required age.

Haymarket 4-H Club

Haymarket 4-H Club will meet at the Parish Hall Wednesday, June 25, at 2:30 o'clock. The program for this meeting will be centered around the demonstration contest. The winning team in this contest will represent Haymarket Club at the County contest which will be held early in July.

The Greenwich Home Demonstration Club will meet at the home of Mrs. W. L. Lloyd Thursday, June 26, at 2 o'clock. The topic for consideration at this meeting will be "Refinishing Furniture." All women of that community are urged to attend the meeting.

AN APPRECIATION

One of the largest, if not the largest enterprises ever undertaken in Prince William County is just about completed. The dam across Occoquan run at Blandford Bridge is finished except some minor details. The dam was started over a year ago by C. W. Alpaugh and carried to completion by the Myers Construction Co., for the Virginia Public Service Co. The Myers Construction Co. will finish the clearing of the right of way along Occoquan Run, Broad Run and Cedar Creek this week probably. The water is expected to back up to Brechtsville along these runs and will form a beautiful lake about eight miles long and in some places about one quarter mile wide. The expenditure of such a vast sum of money in the county has been a great help to hundreds of working men in this county. What would we have done this past winter and this spring if this work had not been brought to us. I am sure I am expressing the hearty thanks of all these men to these companies for making this work possible for them.

Many of the men have asked me to express their appreciation of the kind and magnanimous manner in which the Myers Construction Co., has treated them. Mr. Brehm would come along with his snake killing stick laughing and joking with the men. Mr. Hart, the Superintendent of the clearing job, was always a welcome visitor among the men. He always had a smiling face and a cheery word for the men and they all liked him.

Roy Young, the foreman of one of the gangs, is a He-Man—he's a peach—he's dandy—he's everything one could desire as a foreman. The men love him—that's no joke. I have been working for nine weeks in his gang, and I have heard the men remark among themselves time and time again that Roy was the best man they ever worked for. They worked cheerfully and diligently with a desire to please him because they liked him. Roy did not go around like he was boss but just like he was one of them. He is an ideal boss. We all wish him and Mr. Hart, and his brother the jovial little timekeeper, and Mr. Brehm good luck wherever they go.

Santa Claus HAS NOT gone into the Gasoline Business

CAN you imagine poor Saint Nick working on a hot summer's day?

Maybe Santa Claus does give you a break on Christmas and maybe you do get something for nothing then. But the other 364 days Santa Claus can't be found—and you get only what you pay for.

Always remember that there are two decidedly different things—regular gasoline selling at no increase in price and special motor fuels selling at a premium. And remember that The American Oil Company makes both types and can speak without prejudice—without pretending that Santa Claus is on our side.

Let's take "Regular Gas" First

We will not say that you can get something for nothing. Orange American Gas, selling at regular gas price, will not give real special motor fuel performance and we won't say that it will. It is made from the best crudes. It is refined by the most modern methods. It will give you better performance than any other product in its price class—and that's saying a lot. But we can't go any further without roping in Santa Claus.

Now let's consider "Special Motor Fuels"

There never has been a regular-priced gasoline or even a motor fuel, that can deliver performance like that of Amoco-Gas. Until you've used it you don't know what a real special motor fuel is. And one feature that has made Amoco-Gas so popular is that it actually costs less per mile. It gives you more miles to each gallon. It reduces operating expenses by reducing repair bills. And it increases the trade-in value of your car.

Amoco-Gas costs more per gallon—costs less per mile

If you pay regular gasoline price you get regular gasoline performance. If you choose carefully, you get the best buy in that price class, Orange American Gas.

If you want motor fuel performance it will cost you more per gallon. But if you get Amoco-Gas—and get real special motor fuel performance—while it will cost more per gallon, it will cost less per mile.

When someone tells you you can get a special motor fuel at the price of Orange American Gas—or that you can buy a regular gas or a special motor fuel that will give you the same results as Amoco-Gas at a lower price—stick your tongue in your cheek, say "Who are you anyway, Santa Claus?", and keep heading straight for the Amoco-Gas or Orange American Gas pump---and better results.

Facts and Figures on Your Telephone

By EDWIN F. HILL

Open wire telephone lines are now being rapidly replaced by cable. A recent report made by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company shows that there are now more than 11,000,000 miles of toll wire plant in the Bell System of which 74 per cent is in cable. As a basis of comparison, on January 1, 1914—sixteen years ago—there were 2,300,000 miles of long distance wire in the telephone company's plant, of which 72 per cent was open wire.

This great change in the composition of the toll-wire plant has been brought about by technical improvements, including the telephone repeater which has made it possible to give satisfactory transmission over long distances using relatively small gauge wire.

The first important links in toll underground plant of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company were the New York-Philadelphia and Chicago-Milwaukee cables which were placed in service in 1906. Eight years later the Washington-Philadelphia-New York-Boston underground cable was placed in operation.

Washington and Richmond and Petersburg, Va., and Greensboro and Charlotte, N. C., are now connected by aerial cable. Present plans indicate that this cable will soon be extended to Atlanta.

In the past few years most of the large cities of the eastern half of this country have been connected by cable, which insures practically uninterrupted service in time of storm.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST
The Word of God

Bible Thought and Prayer

If parents will have their children memorize a Bible selection each week, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.

THE NEW CREATION—If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.—2 Cor. 5:17.

PRAYER.

"Fling wide the portals of your heart. Make it a temple, set apart."

THE PROPER ATTITUDE

In Mr. Keith's address to the voters of the Eighth District which we publish in this issue of the JOURNAL we note with satisfaction his statement that he has "no feeling of personal enmity." There has been no time in the history of the Democratic party when personal enmity among ourselves would do the party more harm. And the measure of a candidate's loyalty this time will be to some extent gauged by the way in which he sticks to vital issues threatening his party and keeps away from ungentlemanly and unwarrantable vilification.

Let this campaign go down in the history of the "fighting Eighth" as a campaign of gentleman. These who are blackguarding and jack-knifing should be promptly eliminated.

While we take pride in announcing for Howard W. Smith as the man whom we consider best at this time to succeed Mr. Moore, we have long considered Mr. Keith and Mr. Ball among our personal friends and wish to continue them as such. We feel that Mr. DeJarette will ring true as a gentleman also.

After the First Twenty-five Thousand Miles

THE VALUE of sound design, good materials and careful craftsmanship is especially apparent in the new Ford after the first twenty-five thousand miles. Long, continuous service emphasizes its mechanical reliability and economy of operation and up-keep.

As you drive the Ford through many months and years you will develop an increasing pride in its appearance and a growing respect for the substantial worth that has been built into it. From every standpoint—in everything that goes to make a good automobile—you will know that you have made a far-seeing, satisfactory purchase.

Wherever you go, you hear enthusiastic praise of the car and this significant, oft-repeated phrase—"I'm glad I bought a Ford."

A FORD owner in New York tells of a 13,000-mile trip across the United States and back in sixty days and says "the car was extremely economical to operate, comfortable and speedy." A grateful father tells how the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield saved his wife and children from serious injury.

To test tires, a large company drove a new Ford day and night, for an average of 500 miles every twenty-four hours. It was still giving satisfactory service after 105,000 miles.

A Ford car that had fallen into Fernan Lake was submerged for twelve days before being raised. After a new battery and carburetor bowl were installed, it was driven back to Spokane under its own power.

Many police departments have written of the special advantages of the Ford in crowded traffic because of its alert speed, acceleration, and ease of control. An increasing number of fleet owners are also purchasing the Ford because their cost figures have given conclusive proof of its economy of operation and up-keep.

In addition to important triumphs in Germany, France and Italy, the Ford won six out of seven leading places in a contest in Finland, first and second in the Rafaela races in Argentina, first and second in the run from Copenhagen-to-Paris-to-Copenhagen, three gold medals in England, first ranking in the durability test over the tortuous Amancaes road in Peru, and first place in the 1930 reliability run conducted by the Royal Automobile Club of Sweden.

This contest was an exceptionally severe test of endurance and sturdy construction because it was held in the dead of winter and covered 600 miles of steady running over snow-covered country roads and mountainous hills.

Hark the Herald Skeeter's Sing,
"Good bye, Dear Old Spring,
For, what we need is summer heat
So we can feast on bare feet."
This is the season for sockless men and whoopees slightly covering the lower extremities of our dear girls.
Nowander our Skeeters are in a glee—
They are not blind, they can see
And many a poor soul—a Skeeter would like to be To see what the Skeeter must see.

A goodly portion of the lower part of Prince William County, depended upon the accommodating druggist of Fredericksburg, to furnish them a supply of the much needed char-pure.

After the ruling of the ancient old gentlemen of our high tribunal in Washington, the ever accommodating druggist, of the most historic city in America, denies the Volstead victim the right to purchase char-pure, even as a clairfies for the juice of the forbidden fruit. Serpent, do your stuff. There is all ways an eve close by. Just around the corner an Adam is patiently waiting. Jake Clarke thinks he has a touch of gout, having feasted bountifully on Bull Run catfish. His ankles are slightly swollen.
Left big toe Nail, outside corner, has taken a downward curve. Advice gladly welcomed. Mange cure and mustered plasters so far have given him very little relief. His son, Rosey is now able to waddle around.
Rosey's good wife, reports that she can still handle him without resorting to that mighty female weapon, the rolling pin. By the way, the rolling pin I understand, is no longer used to prepare that wonderful slab of wheat dough, that the good book refers to, as the staff of life. Rolling pins are now used for social purposes.
Ask Tou Pee Davis. Dr. Caton, our flat footed Doc, from the northside of Bull Run, is kept busy in Woodbridge. We will soon be in need of names. Talking about Md's, our good old doc Starkweather need a rubbing down with rattlesnake oil.
He walks like a mountain burro after crossing a desert. It is not age, the doc's teeth are good. To the many friends of Doc Hornbaker, we wish it to be generally known that this good old saw bones has purchased himself a speed boat for friendly diversions, and more intimate contact with the waters that makes Bull Run famous. We hope he will keep out of Davy Jones' locker. Altho' we think, the Doc will look with longing eyes upon most any old locker.

Double A. Davis, says, that George Whale Herring, is a good old soul in spite of his fishy name. Sets a fine table. Fills the glasses to the brim with ever sparkling water, and tells witty jokes well edged. Jokey Hampton of Freestone Club, reports that he has lost every durn'd tooth, and is now in line for the toothless age.
At a Negro meeting, some time ago, the Cull'd Parson whooped: "At the last day dar will be 'hailing an' 'nash-ing of teef." One toothless sister in the back pew piped loud and shrill,
"It's aint got no teefs." The parson bellowed, "Den he will play de devil wid yo' alls gums." The perfection of the can opener has ushered in the tin can age, soon nature can relieve us all of our thirty two ivories, in-

ANNOUNCEMENT OF MR. KEITH

three so-called "wet" candidates for Congress in Virginia in one District? How the situation in the Eighth will be explained without reference to the dreaded "change of heart" that the Anti-Saloon League denies, remains to be seen. In addition to Mr. Keith, Orndall Maykey, former Commonwealth's Attorney of Arlington County, who has seen enough of prohibition is running as a modificationist, and E. H. DeJarnette, of Orange, wants to go back to the quart-a-month plan, holding that before prohibition's stringency made this amount per month unavailable, the bootlegger was unknown.

Among the five candidates for Congress in the Eighth District, Mr. Keith stands signally first. The name of Keith has been one to conjure with for generations in Fairfax County, and in fact the roots of the family go back into the soil of the Colony of Virginia where the English Cavaliers founded a new civilization, little understood even today, in certain corners of the United States. Mr. Keith does not represent any "element" of Virginia life—he is the traditional Virginian. If he is elected to Congress from the Eighth on a platform of modification, the regime of prohibition in this State with its entangling political and sectarian alliances, will have received a body blow. One of the leading lawyers of Virginia, Mr. Keith represents the opinion that holds that ten years have given the present prohibition a fair trial, and after looking at some of the governmental spectacles of prohibition, is convinced that modification is demanded in the name of temperance. How wide and significant is that opinion in Virginia? Mr. Keith's candidacy itself offers a convincing answer.—Danville Register, June 10, 1930.

To the Democratic Voters of the Eighth Congressional District:

The question as to who shall succeed Mr. Moore, who has so ably represented us in the Congress of the U. S., is in my humble opinion, a matter of such vital importance that I venture a few suggestions on the subject. The Eighth Congressional District located as it is, adjacent to the Nation's Capital, has perhaps more need for the best possible representation in Congress than any other District. Many matters having far reaching effect upon the present and future welfare of the people of this section of the State must be solved in the near future. In dealing with these important matters, we shall need not only a man of outstanding ability, industry and integrity, but also a man whose career has demonstrated his unselfish interest and leadership in all matters pertaining to the advancement of the people. We shall also undoubtedly need a man whose experience, ability and training will command the respect and confidence of his colleagues in Congress else we can hope to accomplish very little through our representative.

Having lived in Fairfax County since the Civil War, and being deeply interested myself in all matters pertaining to the development of Virginia and particularly that section of Virginia adjacent to the District of Columbia, and having been constantly in touch with Mr. Thomas R. Keith of Fairfax during these many years, and knowing how abundantly he has given in time and thought to the fundamental matters and things in which the people at large are so deeply interested, I have no hesitation in saying that in my judgment Mr. Keith, above all the men that I know in this District, best measures up to the requirements which I think should be possessed by our next Member of Congress.

Hence it is that I take the liberty of urging my friends and neighbors to give this matter very careful and favorable consideration. In fact I believe that you will agree with me that we are exceedingly fortunate in having a man possessing Mr. Keith's qualifications who is willing to become a candidate for Congress.

Incidentally I may remind you that Mr. Keith took an active and leading part in the beginning of the good-road movement in this County at a time when it required able leadership in addition to the donation of valuable time and money. He was largely responsible for securing the road from Chain Bridge to Fairfax and from Tyson's Cross Roads to Falls Church, the first improved roads in the County. He organized the Warrenton-Fairfax Turnpike Company which, due largely to his efforts and ability, became the forerunner of the present Lee Highway and he has consistently been at the front in advocating and pressing every road project in which the County is interested. It was due to his activity and untiring work along with other public spirited citizens that an important extension of the electric light system was constructed through a large section of the County. He has always been deeply interested and helpful in the organization and maintenance of the County Fair. It is well known to the people of Fairfax County that he has taken a great interest in the success of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce. When the abandonment of the trolley line from the Key Bridge running through Falls Church and Vienna to Fairfax was threatened, he, along with others, came to the rescue and was instrumental in devising and putting into effect a plan which thus far has been effective in maintaining the trolley line.

In these and all other similar matters he has fully demonstrated his hearty cooperation with other patriotic citizens and his ability to wisely lead, guide, and accomplish results.

Mr. Keith is so well known in every part of the District that it is unnecessary to say anything further touching his character and ability. The point that I wish to make and urge upon the voters is that we should all realize that it is of the utmost importance and manifestly to our best interest that we should be represented in Congress by the man who is best able to look after our public affairs.

I am satisfied that the electors of Fairfax County will not only vote for the nomination of Mr. Keith, but will wish to pay him the tribute of giving him a splendid majority.

Sincerely yours,
DOUGLASS S. MACKALL

age of rather less than twelve cents per thousand gallons.

While a saving of thirty six cents per thousand gallons in the cost of pumping water may appear to be a radical reduction in the total cost to the town and entitle the consumer to a materially better rate, it must be remembered that the water department had been operated at a loss for a number of years and in consequence had accumulated a large deficit. Furthermore the drilling of Well No. 4 and the installation of the two new pumps entailed a capital outlay of more than six thousand dollars which must be retired.

Another factor of loss to the water department, which still continues to exist, is the excessive leakage from the mains. All water pumped is metered, likewise all water furnished to consumers. Therefore, unless there has been a fire or some other use of water from the fire plugs, the difference between the total water pumped and the total water sold to consumers, is leakage. This leakage in Manassas is exceptionally heavy, ranging from thirty three and one third per cent to more than fifty per cent of the total water pumped.

A great deal of time and labor has been expended in attempting to locate these leaks and as rapidly as found the main is dug up and the leak repaired. However, a leaking main in a slate trench is very difficult to detect as the water will follow the bottom of the trench for a great distance without giving any surface indication.

The blame for the numerous leaks in the water mains must be placed, where it belongs, to faulty and inefficient workmanship at the time when the water system was first installed and it is regrettable that lax supervision at that time should, sixteen years later, be the cause of depriving the water consumers of Manassas of a better water rate to which they are justly entitled.

The average daily consumption of water in Manassas is about thirty seven gallons per capita, or a total consumption of about forty five thousand gallons for each twenty four hours. Due to the excessive leakage above referred to the total water actually pumped will average nearly double that amount.

The four wells described in this paper are adequate for the present needs of the town with a modest safety margin to take care increased consumption. Although more costly to operate than the water systems of some of the neighboring towns, the Manassas water supply has much which can be said to its credit. The water, coming from a depth of over three hundred feet, is exceptionally pure and the quantity is little affected by drought. In fact, a water famine, such as has visited other towns of the State, has never occurred since the water system was installed.

However, it must be borne in mind that Manassas is located in a section of the State which is expected to undergo considerable development, and consequent increase in population, within the next few years. This development will bring a tremendous increase in the demands on water supply. Very little increase in quantity, and no decrease in cost, can be expected from the drilling of additional wells, therefore the town must look to other sources for a more economical and less circumscribed water supply. When this time comes it will be a calamity if the town does not control a source of supply which may be available for development as conditions may demand.

June 18, 1930 WM. F. COOKE, Town Manager.

Housewife or Grocer

Whose interest should come first

A & P, though a grocer itself, votes for the housewife. She has a right to as much good food as her money can buy under the most favorable conditions.

Not everyone takes this view. By some strange reasoning certain people see harm to human welfare in cutting your food bill. A & P cuts your food bill to the minimum. So these people are against A & P.

They are all for raising the standard of living—provided their profits go up the same slope. How the housewife is to pay her part . . . that, they say, is her affair, not the grocer's.

A few misguided persons have taken up the cry, shouting, "Away with low profits!" as loudly as, when it suited their purpose to denounce profiteers, they shouted, "Away with high profits!"

But A & P sticks to its knitting. Its job is the same today as it was seventy years ago . . . to make it easier for more housewives to buy the best food.
