

RESENTS PLEDGE
BREAKING IDEAProminent Grange Worker
Critiques Position Taken by CandidateMr. Thomas R. Keith,
Fairfax, Va.

My dear Mr. Keith:

Some days ago I received a copy of your announcement with the enclosures, and while I do not generally feel constrained to reply to such communications, in this case I do and Mr. King's letter to Judge Smith is largely responsible.

I agree, with you, that we should uphold the principles of Mason, Jefferson and Henry, but nowhere, in my study of their lives and work, can I find any justification for breaking one's promise, once given, to a definite undertaking. Having heard of you all my life and known, as I thought, your reputation, I was therefore very disagreeably surprised to receive the suggestion that, not knowing of your intention to run for Congress at the time we promised any other candidate, we would be fully justified in breaking that promise to vote for you. As I said before that is not according to Jeffersonian policy as I read it, and I am thoroughly ashamed of Mr. King for being what, in Jefferson's day would have been termed, "a turncoat."

I have been very favorably impressed with your restraint from "muddling" and your innuendo, so delicately directed at Judge Smith with regard to his coming out sooner than the required sixty days does not affect me, since I consider that Mr. Moore was just as definitely resigned sixty minutes after his resignation was made public as he will be sixty years from now and both Reife and feel that in voting for Mr. Smith and encouraging the voters of our district to do so we will be sending a most able successor to Mr. Moore, to Congress. I regret that the presence of other guests prevented my going into this fully, when you called.

With regard to the Prohibition question, it would be utterly useless for any of the candidates to promise a radical reform in that direction, as, after all, they only have one voice in the settlement of this vital question. Prohibition that actually prohibits will never come in this country without education. When these United States stand appalled at the ruinous situation they have allowed themselves to fall into and agree on some workable scheme for remedying it, when the parents of the country realize what a menace the current brand of liquor is to their children and their children's children and that they are not competent to deal with the drinking, petting and sex problems of the present day unless guided and governed by the ones who know and love them best, then we shall reach a saner view and administration of the law.

Who can truthfully say that the Eighteenth Amendment has made us a law-breaking nation? Do you actually know anyone in your large circle of acquaintances, who is doing anything much less everything to uphold it? I have a large circle, myself and outside of a few of the older men and women I do not know one who has tried it sufficiently to see whether it will succeed or not.

I am not a prude, I assure you, nor am I in favor of the present sad state of affairs, but when every dance you attend is unchaperoned and every other house, almost, on a street, a "speakeasy," which the laws already made no matter how full of flaws they may be, are defied by the very men making them as flagrantly as by the young people, why expect the law makers and law enforcers from the Senate to the Sheriff, to do for you and your children what you are not willing to do yourself.

As for the farmer, while I think all of the candidates are perfectly sincere in their interest in his problems, no legislation enacted can be of any use to him until he realizes that every other successful industry in this country is working and gaining proper recognition through organization and that, until he organizes, while he may be one of the most important factors in life to his own way of thinking, as he (expressed vulgarly, I grant you) "a pain in the neck" to Congress, until he asserts himself, in such number and so closely allied as to be the recognized power in this country that he should be.

I am not convinced enough to think that you will read all of this, but I do hope that I have succeeded in placing a different viewpoint before you. I regret that you entered this race, for while I feel sure that Judge Smith will win. ## Judge Smith Makes Radio Address

Don't Throw Your Vote Away

(EDITORIAL)

Next Tuesday is election day in the Democratic primary for Congress.

As usual a goodly number of people will throw their votes away by casting them for a candidate with no chance of election. By doing so the voter often helps the candidate he is most anxious to defeat. There is no reason for throwing your vote away in this election because it is now obvious that the contest is between Smith and Ball. Neither Mackey, Keith or DeJarnette have the slightest chance of receiving the nomination and this is perfectly apparent to all who have watched the situation in the different counties.

We believe that the vast majority of the voters of this county would rather have Judge Smith represent them in Congress than Ball, and in deciding whom they shall vote for they may be certain that Smith or Ball is going to be our next Congressman.

Use your best judgment, but don't throw your vote away.

JUDGE SMITH REPLIES
TO SENATOR BALLStatement Issued by Candidate For Congress on Wednesday, July 30.

"I observed in the papers this morning that State Senator Ball takes issue with my criticism that he was the one Virginia Senator, out of thirty-six, to vote for the amendment to the Federal Constitution proposed in 1926 to take from the State and give to the Federal Government the right to control labor of persons under eighteen. He challenges me to debate the subject with him, knowing at the time by my radio address and other public statements that I have adopted a definite policy not to engage in joint discussions in the campaign for the reasons I have stated that 'joint debates and public discussions in Democratic primaries lead to party discord and bitterness, resulting in mudslinging and personalities.' Having been previously advised of my attitude, he has felt perfectly safe in issuing a challenge for joint debate. So far as his vote on that amendment is concerned there is nothing to debate about. He voted for it as shown on page 19 of the Virginia State Journal of 1926, and the other thirty-five members of the Virginia Senate voted against it.

It was useless for him to get mad about it, and equally useless for him to attempt to justify it, because every sensible man and woman knows that if the measure had the slightest merit Ball would not have been the only State Senator in Virginia to have recognized it.

He has cited his legislative record as being in his favor in this campaign. I have merely shown it up for what it is. He charges that his vote has been misrepresented and a "false atmosphere" has been created, but he makes no further attempt, as far as I can see, from his statement to answer it, and that is for the simple reason that there is no answer he can make.

The amendment that he of all the Virginia Senators alone voted for is "That Congress shall have power to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under eighteen years of age." As a lawyer, he knows perfectly well that this clause in the Federal Constitution would give the Federal Government absolute and unlimited power to control and prevent all work of boys and girls under eighteen years of age, whether black or white. He knows there is no way he can answer. He knows that the public disclosure of his record on this measure has destroyed him with the farmers of this district, and he attempts to answer it by saying I have misrepresented his position. He undertakes to justify his vote by the statement that child labor is not being adequately regulated "in many factory centers of the country" and says "I believe when these conditions have arisen in some of our States and the States themselves have refused to act, it is time for the Federal Government to step in and act." This statement shows he is still of the same opinion he was in 1926, namely, that he favors further invasion of States' rights by the Federal Government, and believes that the United States should be given power to adopt regulations in the various States and take from us the right of local self-government. If unsatisfactory factory conditions exist in other States, it is for those States to handle, but Virginia does not want to yield any more of the rights preserved to her in the Constitution for the purpose of attempting to regulate police conditions in other States.

Ball attempts to muddy the water further by referring to the decision of the Supreme Court on some Federal law dealing with child labor. It has nothing to do with the fact that he was the one member of the Virginia Senate to vote to take from Virginia the power of local self-government in this proposition. Every informed person knows that the amendment would have given to the Federal Government absolute power to prohibit all labor on the farms, in the kitchen, and elsewhere of every person under eighteen if Congress chose to enact such a legislation. Ball also knows it, and I challenge him to stop trying to muddy the waters, and answer the charge logically and sensibly if he is able to do so.

He refers in his statement to 'my controlled newspapers.' I do not own or control directly or indirectly any newspaper anywhere or any interest therein, and I have no doubt that he knows it. The newspaper that printed Ball's record and to which he evidently refers is the Fauquier Democrat, owned by Mr. Harrison Nesbitt of Warrenton, Virginia. That paper, like most other papers in the district, is supporting me in this campaign. It may be that they think I am more closely in touch with the interest of the farmers in the rural sections than the other candidates, and for that reason best fitted to represent their views, but it is certain that they are not 'controlled.'

MORE LYING!

It has been reported to us that certain ones are circulating the story that the Journal is owned by Howard W. Smith. This is another of the tricky lies that are being broadcast. It would seem that there are those who consider the aim of this campaign to lie about and vilify Smith. He owns no share in this paper.

OUTLINES VIEWS ON IMPORTANT ISSUES

Candidacy Based on Record of Public Service.

When I announced myself a candidate for Congress no other candidates were in the field. It was necessary for me then to determine whether I should make a speaking campaign or a campaign by going around amongst the people whom I aspired to represent, making their acquaintance and opening the channels of personal contact in order that they might feel free to come to me with their problems and other troubles should I become their representative. Feeling that the people would prefer to determine my qualifications by personal contact, I chose the latter course. I was further actuated by the conviction that joint debates and public discussions in Democratic primaries lead to party discord and bitterness, resulting in mudslinging and personalities.

The Democratic Party has been the instrumentality of government in this Commonwealth since the dark and ominous days of reconstruction. It has been so because it furnished the people efficient, clean and honest government, and if the Party is to continue preeminent in the State in the future as in the past her candidates for office must be selected upon this basis, and this basis alone.

In my announcement for Congress, I stated that I would seek the nomination upon my record as a public servant, as a farmer, and as a business man, and that I would do so with charity towards all and malice towards none. I have pursued this policy unwaveringly, and shall do so to the conclusion of the campaign. My enemies in their desperate efforts to reduce my lead—apparent to every informed person in the district—have resorted to abuse, vilification, slander and libel.

In my announcement, I invited the public servant, my character and my electorate to inspect my record as a integrity in the County of Fauquier, where I was born and reared, and in the City of Alexandria, where I have lived for a quarter of a century, and in the counties of Fairfax, Arlington and Prince William that comprised my Judicial Circuit. Upon the result of such inspection I was then content to rest my candidacy. Upon that I am now content to rest my candidacy. The fair-minded people of this district will not ignore my record and reputation at home and form their conclusions from the libelous attacks made upon me by an irresponsible newspaper published in a distant part of the district. Remember this is the same newspaper that in the last State election for governor supported the Republican ticket. And in that desperate effort to wrest from the Democratic Party the control of the old Commonwealth, where democracy was born, this same newspaper used the same methods of vilification to destroy the political party that Thomas Jefferson conceived and gave to the Nation.

Farming
My opponents have sought to divert public attention from the issue in which the material welfare of the people of this district is most concerned, that is, relief for the deplorable situation now confronting the farming industry. I was born and reared on a farm, and have been engaged in practical farming all my life. For many years I have actively operated my farm in Fauquier County, and engaged in cattle raising and dairy farming, and a member of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association. The farming industry is the basis of our national prosperity. When the farmer is prosperous, the Country is prosperous, but he cannot be made to prosper with kind words or futile promises. The vast surplus crops result in the sale of the farmers' crops at less than the cost of production. This condition brings distress not only to the farmer, but to all business. The interest of the farmer has been damaged by the enactment of too much legislation for the protection of large industries and great combinations of capital. This caused the farmer to pay more for what he has to buy, and receive less for what he has to sell. I pledge to the farmers and dairymen my constant and untiring efforts to better their condition.

Tariff

On top of all the burdens the farmer must bear has been heaped the burden of the recent Republican Tariff Bill, conceived and designed in the interest of the great manufacturers and combinations of wealth, and with utter indifference to the welfare of agriculture.

I favor a law that would prevent speculation in the future grain markets. The grain market is manipulated by speculative purchases and sales rather than by the law of supply and demand. Last year while I was threshing wheat the price varied 20 cents a bushel, a variation of over 15 per cent in three days. This loss to myself and millions of farmers was not due to over-production, but to the fact that people who never raised a bushel of wheat were gambling in the wheat pit of Chicago upon the sweat of the farmers' brow. State Senator Ball boasts that he is the only candidate with legislative experience. I challenge him to explain to the farmers his vote on the Constitutional Amendment to take from Virginia and give to the Federal government the right to control labor of persons under eighteen. This amendment was submitted in 1926 to the Virginia legislature. The effect of that amendment was to give the United States Government absolute police power to control and prevent labor by all persons under eighteen. It would prevent the struggling farmer in Virginia from having the aid of his growing boys to help with the work on the farm. His sons under eighteen could not work in the field, milk the cows, or cut wood without the consent of a United Bureau in Washington. The colored youth of the Commonwealth would be idle and a burden and menace to society. You, Mr. Farmer, could not hire a colored boy under eighteen. You, Mrs. Housewife, could not have a girl in your kitchen under eighteen. Is it conceivable that a candidate aspiring to represent you in the National Legislature could be so indifferent to the farming interest as to approve such a measure? And yet Senator Ball did so when this proposal came before the Virginia Senate. Thirty-five voted against it and Senator Ball was the one man to vote for it. I charge him in this respect with utter ignorance of and indifference to conditions prevailing in the rural districts. Such a vote was utterly at variance with the fundamental principles upon which the Union was based, and opened the door to other invasions that would eventually deprive the States of all powers of self-government and centralize police regulations of local affairs under Federal control.

I have for many years advocated not only restrictive immigration, but selective immigration. Immigrants should be selected from those classes of labor wherein there is a shortage, and not from the classes that come into competition with our own citizens. I favor an immigration law that works both ways. One that not only lets them in, but one that throws them out.

An enormous percentage of crime is committed by foreigners. Those who do not conform to our laws should be promptly and unceremoniously deported. I believe that the labor situation on American farms would be alleviated by proper immigration laws. A certain proportion of this restrictive allotment should be of persons who would be required to work upon the farms for a period of years. Such a method if properly pursued would in a large measure relieve the shortage of farm labor.

I believe the future welfare of our Country depends upon fair and liberal treatment of labor, which produces the wealth of the Country. If elected to Congress, I shall give careful study and sympathetic consideration to all measures coming before

VOTE FOR CR ANDAL MACKEY FOR CONGRESS

THE ONLY EX-SERVICE MAN IN THE RACE

He has been candid and honest in expressing his convictions. Don't vote for straddlers of the Eighteenth Amendment who talk of the wets and dries getting together. Those who favor and those who oppose the Eighteenth Amendment are entitled to honest, outspoken expressions. CANDOR IS THE COURAGE OF THE SOUL.

The repeal of the Volstead Law will restore State rights to Virginia. She has a better prohibition law than the Volstead Law. She prosecuted 21,706 prohibition cases last year while the United States prosecuted but 346. The Eighteenth Amendment if modified would enable Congress to establish a liquor control and dispensary system as in Sweden where drunkenness was reduced 55 per cent in four years and the bootlegger is unknown. Crandal Mackey will vote for the repeal or modification of the Volstead Law and the Eighteenth Amendment. Light wines and beer will not get rid of the bootlegger. He does not deal in them. Crandal Mackey stands for Temperance vs. PROHIBITION. For the DISPENSARY vs. POCKET FLASKS. For HOME vs. THE NIGHT CLUB, the ROADHOUSE, the SPEAKEASY. He stands for LESS BLOOD, LESS LAWS, LESS PRISONS. Back of crime the bootlegger. Back of the bootlegger, NATIONAL PROHIBITION. National Prohibition is mingling Church and State. It violates the moral law expressed by Paul the Apostle: "If righteousness come by the law then Christ is dead in vain."

Crandal Mackey opposes the Power Trust, and Chain Store. He has the only plan for relief of the farmer, namely: Immediate reduction of the tariff on commodities used by farmers, a bounty to save the farmer from loss on export of surplus crops, the purchase of surplus grain and cotton by the Farm Board as now, and unemployment insurance as in Germany. Crandal Mackey is a PROGRESSIVE. While Commonwealth's Attorney closed all saloons and had all licenses denied in Arlington County.

From this Quartette of Evils our Country is now suffering. The time honored and comprehensive Code of Political Principles laid down by Thomas Jefferson will go far toward removing them.

Let us apply these principles to these modern problems as Jefferson applied them to the problems of his day.

Let us do away with makeshifts and camouflage and experiments and get back to Jeffersonian Democracy!

TO THE VOTERS OF THE EIGHTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Don't throw away your votes on Keith if you believe in State Rights, Temperance and the modification of the Eighteenth Amendment. The votes he gets can only have the effect of weakening the cause for which State Rights, Temperance and Modification stand. He has not the support of an elective official in his county or of any of the fifteen newspapers in the Eighth District, the majority of which are supporting me and all but four are friendly to my candidacy. Don't hamstring the cause which you believe by throwing away your votes. In my County of Arlington, Smith has the support of one elective officer, Ball has three and I have four, Keith has none, and none in his own County. A vote for Keith is a vote for the Power Trust that is fleecing the people of the Eighth District nine hundred per cent profit. Use your head. Don't throw your vote away.

DON'T send a man to Congress who is not Congressional size.

DON'T send to the greatest legislative body in the world a man who would have no influence in that body.

nation in the Eighth District who has said a single word in favor of the dry cause in this campaign. This is especially true of the public meetings in which my wet opponents have attacked the present laws very vigorously and I alone have defended them.

I am not the candidate of any boss, faction or organization, and if elected will be free from the domination of any man or set of men but will take office and serve my term with an eye single to serving the highest interest of all of the people—with charity, sympathy and conscientious effort.

DON'T send to Congress a man of no value to the District.

DON'T send to Congress a man who is not aggressive and a fighter for the Eighth District.

You know the kind of man you need in Congress—Vote for him.

I will vote in my County of King George for Crandal Mackey as the only candidate who measures up to the above qualifications. I am a practical farmer and want a man in Congress who can present forcibly to that body the cause of the farmer. I am a lawyer and can size up a lawyer.

REPLY OF FRANK L. BALL TO ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE (POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.)

July 12th, 1930.

Rev. David Hepburn, Supt., Anti-Saloon League of Virginia, Richmond, Virginia.

My dear Sir:

I have your letter of the 11th instant asking me regarding my attitude on prohibition legislation to come before the National Congress. It has always been my custom in all campaigns to state publicly my position on public matters and to answer all inquiries as direct as I can find language to express myself. I therefore beg to submit the following statement which will cover all of the questions asked in your letter.

1st: I am now and have always been a total abstainer and if elected will personally obey and respect the eighteenth amendment and the enforcement laws enacted thereunder both state and national.

2nd: I am now and have always been politically dry and have supported dry legislation during my period of service in the legislature. I shall continue this policy in my public relations and duties and will support the eighteenth amendment and the enforcement laws enacted thereunder and will support such amendments looking to strengthening the weak spots as in my judgment will give added strength to the whole structure.

3rd: I have always supported the dry laws because of personal convictions and not because of political expediency; have had a dry plank in every platform on which I have sought public office; and am the only candidate for the congressional nomi-

Finest Lilies

SCIENTIFIC methods of raising water lilies are producing finer plants in the United States than can be found anywhere else in the world.

A few years back, no one considered pond lilies of sufficient importance to spend any time on, but that enterprising Polish woman, Helena Rubinstein, discovered that water lily juice has a curious and beneficial effect on the skin.

Experiments proved that the juice must be fresh and as water lilies are seasonal, it seemed impossible to make any commercial use of her discovery. However, the United States is blessed with a variety of temperatures and by purchasing lakes and ponds in various sections, she was able to keep a continuous supply of the fresh flowers.

Hundreds of people are employed in their care and carloads of the fragile flowers are shipped in refrigerated cars to her laboratories in New York and Canada every year.

The Housewife's Duty

To her home, not to her grocer

The housewife was not put on earth to support grocers. She owes no grocer a living. She does owe herself and her family the greatest amount of the best food her money can buy. Her only duty when buying food is to her home.

The honest grocer asks no favors. He does not expect charity. He is willing to be judged by the amount of good food he gives for the consumer's dollar.

A & P is a grocer who has already been judged by many consumers. After seventy years in business, it enjoys the patronage of over 5,000,000 thrifty housewives.

So large a following of critical shoppers is the result of a single simple fact—that the public buys where it obtains the most for its money.

Meeting the Needs of Millions of People

The low-priced automobile has brought greater opportunity and added hours of recreation to millions of men and women.

BECAUSE the automobile is such an important factor in the lives and prosperity of so many people, the purpose of the Ford Motor Company is something more than the mere manufacture of a motor car.

There is no service in simply setting up a machine or a plant and letting it turn out goods. The service extends into every detail of the business—design, production, the wages paid and the selling price. All are a part of the plan.

The Ford Motor Company looks upon itself as charged with making an automobile that will meet the needs of millions of people and to provide it at a low price. That is its mission. That is its duty and its obligation to the public.

The search for better ways of doing things is never-ending. There is ceaseless, untiring effort to find new methods and new machines that will save steps and time in manufacturing. The Ford plants are, in reality, a great mechanical university, dedicated to the advancement of industry. Many manufacturers come to see and share the progress made.

The greatest progress comes by never standing still. Today's methods, however successful, can never be taken as wholly right. They represent simply the best efforts of the moment. Tomorrow must bring an improvement in the methods of the day before. Hard work usually finds the way.

Once it was thought impossible to cast gray iron by the endless chain method. All precedent was against it and every previous experiment had failed. But fair prices to the public demanded that wasteful methods be eliminated. Finally the way was found.

A better way of making axle shafts saved thirty-six million dollars in four years. A new method of cutting crankshafts reduced the cost by $500,000 a year. The perfection of a new machine saved a similar amount on such a little thing as one bolt. Then electric welding was developed to make many bolts unnecessary and to increase structural strength.

Just a little while ago, an endless chain conveyor almost four miles long was installed at the Rouge plant. This conveyor has a daily capacity of 300,000 parts weighing more than 2,000,000 pounds. By substituting the tireless, unvarying machine for tasks formerly done by hand, it has made the day's work easier for thousands of workers and saved time and money in the manufacture of the car.

All of these things are done in the interest of the public—so that the benefits of reliable, economical transportation may be placed within the means of every one.

In many respects this is and has been a remarkable campaign both in the number of candidates and in the diversity of their views and methods. On the one hand we have a man who has been honored many times by his District, a man of the highest principles who, in spite of what has been and is, happening, clings to the fetish that the Federal Prohibition law can be enforced and declares for its continuance when the unbiased mind cannot help but see that it is worse, and not in any sense "a vast improvement over the old days of the licensed saloon" as this man has said. All honor to you sir, who see the evil in BOTH these monstrosities and declare against them both. On the other hand we have the "Wet" who not only declares for whiskey but knows the exact amount each man can or should absorb. What a farce!

Hoping to see you elected by the handsome plurality your discerning and wise platform deserves, I am,
Most sincerely yours,

Bond Bids Held Up Pending Further Possible Litigation.

Judge McCarthy refused to grant the injunction which was carried to Richmond and heard by Judge Louis Epps, of the Supreme Court, on Monday of this week. He also refused to grant the injunction. Just what further steps may be taken, if any, is a matter of conjecture.

The school work at Thoroughfare was also awarded to the Mottley Company at a figure of $2,000. The contract on this has not yet been finally let.

The revised bids will allow funds for the purchase of land.

At this meeting, Messrs. D. E. Ho-

The Board approved the project and voted to assist them to the extent of $1,500, if it can be legally done. The Board also appointed a committee to assist located the gymnasium, and this committee has already functioned.

That the congressional nomination ing it by about 30,000.

Under the caption in big headline letters, "Wets Picked To Win Va. Vote Contest," the Times of recent date had the following to say:

"Just across the placid Potomac, in its weight against him to support a Congressional district that boasts of his dry 'rivals.'"

The Times survey of the political situation in the eighth was made before the Anti-Saloon League made its pronouncement on Virginia candidates in which it classed Judge Smith as "unsatisfactory." That changes the complexion of things in the district and makes the race, so far as the prohibition question is concerned, one

There are five candidates for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the eighth district of Virginia. Three of them are wet and two are dry. The District Democratic nomination on August 5 is equivalent to election. Hence the fervor of the fight

The principal contest is conceded to be between Thomas R. Keith, a Fairfax attorney, in favor of State's rights in dealing with the prohibition problem; and his two dry opponents, State Senator Frank Roll, of Arlington, and George W. DeJarnette, of Alexandria. DeJarnette's position is to strengthen Ball is obvious, but according to reports from a number of different sources in the Eighth, it will not hurt Keith and may help him. DeJarnette and Mackey will not benefit in any way from it.

State Senator Frank Hall, of Arlington, and Judge Howard W. Smith, who resigned a seat on the circuit bench to make this race. The other candidates, Crandall Mackey and E. H. DeJarnette, both dead, are considered to have only outside chances. The drys have always been supreme in the district. Virginia itself has been dry for many years, long before national prohibition. In 1923 the as objectionable as either Mr. Mackey or Mr. Dearnette. The latter has been outspoken in his attacks on the dry regime, which he has been featuring in his talks, and Mr. DeJarnette, while personally a dry, made opposition to the prohibition laws, his first and his chief platform plank.

On the other hand Mr. Keith, though outspokenly opposed to the present prohibition laws, has merely made that issue one of a number of important planks in his platform. This, while satisfactory to the wets, has not resulted in offending the dries in the ranks of whom the Fairfax attorney has some very staunch friends.

Asks Congressional Candidate to Make Known Prohibition Views.—Speaks Over Radio.

The Free Lance Star July 29.

Speaking over the radio, Hon. Thomas R. Keith, one of the five candidates for the congressional nomination in the Eighth District, vigorously denied the assertion that he had entered the race in order to weaken the candidacy of Judge Smith and called upon the latter to come out in the open and tell the voters how he stood on the question of prohibition. Mr. Keith spoke in part, as follows:

"When I first announced myself, a great many of the supporters of Judge Smith took it upon themselves to say that I had come into the contest merely to advance the candidacy of Senator Ball, but I am glad to be able to state that this untruthful propaganda has found no lodgment with the voters of the District and the obvious falsity of the suggestion has become entirely clear during the progress of the campaign. Senator Ball's views are diametrically opposed to my own in regard to the principal issue of this campaign and I do not believe that position he takes up on this issue will be approved by a sufficient number of voters to win the nomination on August 8th.

"In the beginning of his campaign, Judge Smith was currently reported as holding the same views as Senator Ball, but where he now stands is not apparently known. It is stated, however, that he is about to make a radio address and then he will have an opportunity to tell what his position is. They are entitled to be informed, and I have no idea that they will fail to place their condemnation on any candidate who declines to inform them. I do not believe that Judge Smith will deny that some time before my announcement he sent word to me by a friend that in the event I did enter the campaign he would like to debate the prohibition question with me inasmuch as he regarded the sentiment of the District as militantly dry, but since then he has been militantly silent.

In answering the recent questionnaire of the Anti-Saloon League, he said that if elected his oath of office will oblige him to support the Eighteenth Amendment and the laws enacted for the enforcement thereof so long as the amendment and the laws are in effect. That is an answer which any honest candidate is compelled to make. But if he intends to deal frankly with the voters he must take a much longer step forward, and this I now invite him to do. I invite him in his radio address to answer categorically the question whether the present prohibition policy has his approval. If, without side-stepping or equivocation, he answers this question "yes" or "no" he will clear up the existing doubt as to where he stands."
