

MR. R. H. DAVIDSON

This Friday evening, the Kiwanis Club will have as a speaker, Robert H. Davidson, of Washington, editor and poet. Mr. Davidson is assistant editor of The Transmitter, employees magazine of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies. The subject of his talk will be "Community Service." He will recite a number of his poems, one of which is expected to be dedicated to the Manassas Kiwanis Club.

SENIORS ENJOY KIWANIS DINNER

Banquet is County Affair for First Time

For the first time in the history of the Club, Manassas Kiwanis had to sing down the elements on Friday evening when Dick Haydon was right in the midst of a most entertaining program. But they succeeded as they usually do, and only the thought of windows left open at home or in the auto rave cause for worry.

With the exception of Occoquan the high school seniors were present en masse. Occoquan had a partial representation. Only one member of The Kiwanis Club was absent.

Miss Dorothy Hoyt, of Occoquan, gave a charming monologue on "Jemima." Mr. Ray Swank followed with his declamation on "Disarmament and International Arbitration." The Haymarket group with Bennie Terrell at the piano, sang two charming love ditties.

On behalf of Manassas and the schools as a whole, Miss Sylvia Showalter recited the following: "I am sure I voice the sentiment of all the Senior present in acknowledging the hospitality of the Kiwanians. What a satisfaction it is to us, after struggling through our four years in high school to realize that the community appreciates the fact that we have reached the goal we sought and honors us upon an occasion such as this."

As we exchange the activities of high school with its carefree life for the more serious responsibilities of citizenship, we know that we shall be the communities in which we live. We are young and inexperienced in the ways of the world with which you are so familiar, yet in our efforts to become worthwhile citizens, surely we could choose no higher aims than those set by your club, one of which is improving the status of the underprivileged child by equalizing opportunities.

We appreciate the honor you have bestowed upon the Seniors of Prince William by bringing them together upon this occasion, thus uniting more closely those upon the threshold of a new life. So in behalf of the members of the graduating classes from the four high schools in this County, I wish to thank you."

The parish hall was packed with the party group and the crowd was raked with good food served by the Episcopal ladies. Prior to beginning festivities, Rev. A. S. Gibson gave a brief invocation.

And another Kiwanis-High School banquet has passed very pleasantly into history.

BASEBALL!

The High School team will play the Town of Manassas, Tuesday afternoon, 3 o'clock on the local lot.

This is a benefit for the road by the Court house and school.

Everybody out! The High School lads say they can't be licked!

JEFFERSON DAVIS MEMORIAL SERVICE

There will be a memorial service on Wednesday, June 3, at 3 o'clock p. m. in the High School Auditorium. The program is in the hands of a committee from the Manassas chapter, U. D. C. and the Ladies Memorial association.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

This case is set for Tuesday or Wednesday.

Gen. Smedley Butler will answer a suit for ejectment filed by Bruce McIntosh, administrator for the estate of Dr. Hugh Hutchison. It is stated that this is a test case which if won will cost the U. S. many thousands of dollars.

There are a large number of continuances and fugitives at large.

LOCAL TRACTOR DEMONSTRATION AROUSED INTEREST

The J. I. Case Company, through its Harrisburg, Pa., Branch, has been host to a number of interested farmers, bankers and dealers in a series of Tractor Demonstrations held recently on local farms. These demonstrations were held on the farms of Johnson Brothers, M. W. Thomasson, Portner Farms, C. C. Lynn. At each farm a group of about ten of the neighbors were invited to witness the demonstrations.

The special motorized demonstration caravan, which had drawn no little amount of attention while it was parked in front of Cornwell Supply Co's place of business, was driven out to the farm of Johnson Brothers at 9 o'clock, where the invited guests were assembled and waiting.

The modern machinery carried by this special demonstrating crew consisted of the New Case "CC" Tractor and Equipment to go with it, adaptable and used in this territory. This tractor is of the type commonly termed the general purpose or cultivating tractor. It can be changed from a three wheel type to a four wheel type, and the rear wheels can be changed to work in a wide variety of conditions and widths of rows.

At the opening of the demonstration, C. N. Parkinson, assistant branch manager of the Case headquarters at Syracuse, N. Y., gave a brief but intensely interesting talk on the advantages and the individuality of the Case "CC" Tractor and its equipment. He brought out, in a clear and forceful manner, the great importance of reducing the cost of crop production, and the part Case machinery plays in that far reaching program.

"By the use of modern farming equipment," said Mr. Parkinson, "farmers can do more and better work, raise better crops easier and with less work and still do it cheaper. By thus reducing the cost of crop production, the profit to which the farmer is rightly entitled, is increased in direct proportion. Thus the farmer makes more money, with less work and greater comfort to himself and family."

The tractor was then put through its paces by one of the Case servicemen in the demonstration caravan crew. After it had made a few rounds of the field, each farmer present was given an opportunity to get on the "iron horse" and drive it, to get the "feel" or "hang of it," and to clearly demonstrate how very easy

OLD GRAVE STONE IS DISCOVERED

E. R. Conner Finds Confederate Marker on his Farm

A few days ago, while gathering suitable stones for gate posts on his farm, Mr. E. D. Conner of Manassas found a tombstone bearing the data "O. C. Archbell, Co. I., 4th N. C. Infantry, July 1861."

Mr. Conner at once had Mrs. C. A. Sinclair, president of the Manassas chapter, U. D. C., notified. Mrs. Sinclair, in turn, petitioned Mr. Tyler, clerk of the Court, to give resting place to the tombstone until she could communicate with the President of the North Carolina Division, U. D. C., to locate relatives of the soldier, if such are available; otherwise return it to the North Carolina State president, as it has been separated from the grave of the soldier.

Town Sergeant, Herring assisted by Mr. William Linthicum, (both gentlemen descended from Confederate soldiers), wrapped the stone in the Confederate flag and carried it to Mr. Tyler who received it. Photographs of the incident were made for the Confederate Museum. Mrs. Bob Weir, with much difficulty, made out the inscription.

Mrs. Sinclair expressed appreciation of the loyalty and devotion to the Southern cause by those assisting in placing the slab in temporary care.

EASTERN STAR NOTES

The officers of the Eastern Star Chapter at this place were installed by Mrs. Keyes, of Washington, D. C., on March 26.

Worthy matron May L. Smith, worthy patron, J. L. Bushong, associate matron Daisy Baker; associate patron, A. S. Wilfong, secretary Gladys Bushong; treasurer Viola D. Proffitt, conductress Irene L. Haydon, associate conductress Bessie G. Wenrich, chaplain Lula J. Broadus, marshal Nina Wade Dalton, organist Ida Mae Newman, Adah Ada M. Sigman, Ruth Margaret Broadus, Esther Evelyn Browning, Martha Beulah Stauff, Eleta Bettie Hutchison, Warder Ella Bibb and sentinel G. D. Baker.

The chapter closed one of the most successful years.

At the regular meeting in May, our representatives brought back from the Grand Chapter in Richmond splendid reports of the work being done throughout the State of Va.

Wimodausis Chapter spent quite an enjoyable evening at Trinity Chapter, Washington, recently. The occasion was the seventh anniversary of Trinity. Quite a nice program was given, and those who journeyed there from here felt well repaid.

Our chapter was well represented at Mary Washington Chapter Clarion on May 22, when an evening was held in honor of Mrs. Cosdon, Grand conductress of the State of Virginia.

Our Worthy Matron, May L. Smith is at this time in Mexico. While absent from our midst, she expects to visit some chapters, and she will no doubt have much of interest for us upon her return.

At the close of our meetings, the entertainment committee have been putting on quite a bit of fun. They have not only been giving us some of their splendid talent, but have been using "brain teasers" on us also.

Our next regular meeting will be held June 16 at 8 p. m.

IMPROVING CENTRE STREET

The Town Street Department has been busy this week taking out the uneven places on our main business thoroughfare.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Don't forget this is the last week you have in which to file your State Income report and return of Intangible Personal Property with the Commissioner of Revenue of your County. After June 1, a minimum penalty of $2.00 will be imposed by the Department of Taxation for failure to file.

LIBRARY HOURS

The summer schedule of the Library, beginning June 5, will be Friday from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

The tractor was to operate. All of the farmers who did drive it were loud in their praise of the tractor, the ease of handling, and the high grade work which it did. The tractor worked at Portner Farms and C. C. Lynn Farm with a "CC" Cultivator, an implement built especially for the purpose and for this tractor.

CONGRESSMAN SMITH KEEPS IN CLOSE TOUCH WITH DAIRY INTERESTS

A hearing of interest to dairymen throughout Virginia occurred in the office of Corporation Counsel Bride on Thursday afternoon. City Health Officer Fowler had requested a warrant issued against a representative of the S. M. A. Corporation for violation of the Act of Congress, which prevented shipments of milk or cream in the District of Columbia without a permit from the Health Office. It seems that the S. M. A. Corporation has invented a process of canning sweet cream in such a manner that it can be kept indefinitely in any temperature. This product has been put on the market in the City of Washington, and was being sold in grocery stores without any inspection from the District Health Office or complying with the regulations requiring a permit for the shipment of milk products into this city.

Dr. Fowler initiated the prosecution because the Health Office of Washington retains a very high standard for dairy products, and he was unwilling to permit such products to be sold in the District unless subject to the inspections and regulations required by law.

The Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association objected to the introduction of the product into Washington for the same reason, and for the further reason that it would permit the cheaper Western cream, which is not subject to the rigid regulations of the Virginia and Maryland producers, to be brought in competition with their products.

Representative Howard W. Smith, of the Eighth District, also appeared at the hearing in the interest of dairy men of Virginia. Since assuming office, Judge Smith has been keeping in close touch with all matters pertaining to the Washington milk market. He is seen at all meetings pertaining to this subject, as is Representative David J. Lewis, member of Congress from the Sixth Maryland District, the two cooperating in all matters affecting the dairy industry.

Dairy farmers in Mr. Smith's district are keenly appreciative of his alert and constant watch over all that pertains to their business interests. A farmer himself, he knows just what legislation will help farmers.

REPORT OF DROUGHT RELIEF CHAIRMAN

I thought the people of Prince William County would like to know just how much money has been loaned from the Drouth Relief Fund. The total amount loaned in this County is approximately $15,628.20 of this amount.

Manassas District	$ 4557.00
Brentsville District	4983.90
Gainesville District	5071.70
Coles District	665.60
Bamfries District	200.00
Occoquan District	150.00

Total $15,628.20

This I think is a good showing as hard as our section was hit by the drouth. We were entitled to a greater amount if more of our people had wanted to borrow. Our County now looks prosperous and I think more every borrower will pay Uncle Sam what he owes by November 30 if our season continues good. The Agriculture Department head, Mr. Montgomery, who was once our County Agent, Mr. Shackelford of Charlottesville and other such good men pass on loans. All loans that was considered worthy was given their most careful consideration. I take pleasure in thanking Mr. Warburton and all the other gentlemen connected with the Agriculture Department for their hearty cooperation and assistance given whenever it was needed in securing our loans.

E. R. CONNER.

TEMPLE SCHOOL TO PRESENT PROGRAMS

The Temple School will present two attractive programs next week to which the patrons and friends of the school are most cordially invited. The first will be given in the Recital Hall of the Temple School at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, June 5. This program will be given by the pupils of the piano, kindergarden and French classes.

The second program will be given at the High School Auditorium on Tuesday evening June 9, at 8 o'clock. This program will be given by the pupils of Miss Bouldin and Mr. Kaspar and will consist of dancing and music. In addition to the work of the pupils Mr. Kaspar will contribute a group of violin selections and will bring with him a singer and a boy violinist from Washington.

The school will close for the summer vacation on June 12 and will reopen with an increased enrollment in September. The playgrounds are having many new attractions added, among which are a miniature baseball diamond, a race track and a tennis court.

REFRIGERATION EFFICIENCY

By KATHERINE G. CORNELL
Director of the Kelvinator
Domestic Institute

"FIRST plan your work, then work your plan," said some wise person. And his advice is good in every undertaking, whether it be the building of a battleship or the correct use of an electric refrigerator.

A working understanding of the mechanics of the refrigerator will make it a much simpler matter to get the very best results. First, one should learn all one can of its construction, and study its insulation to see whether it may easily be kept clean and immaculate; whether its doors close securely and quietly, and whether the corners in the food chambers are rounded so that no bits of food or unpleasant odors may be harbored there.

Dry Cold Air Best

The type of atmosphere and the temperature of the inside of the refrigerator are of tremendous importance also. A dry-cold atmosphere is preferable to a moist-cold atmosphere, for the reason that moist air, unless it is very cold (45 to 50 degrees F.) will engender mold; and mold is the first step toward the formation of bacteria and decay.

Delicate berries; fragile, green vegetables; meat, milk, and eggs all require dry-cold air for their safe-keeping. Cooked foods also require the dry-cold atmosphere of the electric refrigerator if they are to retain their nutritional qualities and their flavors.

Proper storing of foods is the next step toward complete refrigerator efficiency. And when we remember that cold air drops, while warm air rises, we have the key to the entire situation. Therefore, all the more perishable products such as milk, butter, meat, milk desserts, and soups should be placed on the lowest shelf.

Remove the wrapping paper from the meat and place it in a covered container. Keep butter and milk also in covered receptacles.

On the next to the bottom shelf store cooked foods and the leftovers, always closely covered. Also the fruit desserts that are being chilled or congealed.

Fish on Top Shelf

Lettuce, celery, and other fragile vegetables; the salad dressing, eggs, etc., come next. And on the highest shelf should be placed the cheese, fruit, melons, fish and any strongly flavored food.

Store berries, cherries and sim-lar fruits in ventilated containers; and do not wash them until just before using them. Wrap pie dough or cookie dough in waxed paper and place on the top shelf of the refrigerator all ready to roll out when needed.

Air Circulation Important

It is well to leave a space between the food containers and the walls of the refrigerator to allow free circulation of air. It is the circulation of cold air in the refrigerator that preserves food.

You will save electric current in operating the refrigerator by opening the door into the food chamber only when necessary. Get all the foods ready to place on the shelves at one time; and when preparing a meal, take out the butter, milk, salad and fruit at one opening of the refrigerator door.

Equaling 16 years of actual use with no Measurable Wear

The NORGE ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR with the ROLLATOR

Norge has a simple, powerful and compact refrigerating mechanism, the Rollator.

One of these mechanical units was started running in 1927 in an open room in the Norge factory. Operating day and night continuously, except for yearly 24 hour inspections and checking by micrometer gauge, this unit has equalled 16 years of normal service in the home.

This Marathon mechanism shows no measurable wear, is actually operating $\frac{1}{4}$ of one per cent more efficiently than when started and it gives every indication of going right on performing as satisfactorily for years and years.

Quality as lasting and performance as assured, is built into every part of the Norge.

Only Norge has the Rollator... so, see the Norge before you buy! It is manufactured by Norge Corporation, Detroit, a Division of Borg-Warner, originators of free wheeling. Every American car made today contains products of Borg-Warner Corporation.

Simplest refrigerating mechanism, the Norge Rollator has only three moving parts... it's just a roller slowly revolving in a permanent bath of protective oil.

NORGE WITH ROLLATOR

A KITCHEN GOD

DID you know that the Chinese have a God of the Kitchen? His name is Tao Chun, and he is generally worshipped all over China twice a month, at the time of the New and Full Moon. But he sits in his temple all the time, and is supposed to impart his culinary art in some magical fashion to the chefs throughout the year.

There is really but little difference between American and Chinese food except in the way it is cooked or the seasoning used. A study of their diet will disclose that the Chinese use spinach, onions, celery, cabbage, carrots, turnips, peas, beans, chestnuts, bamboo shoots, bean sprouts and many other tubular roots; also fish, shrimps, crabs and pork, pigeons, and various kinds of fowl.

They Come in Cans
Almost all of these products which the Chinese skillfully combine into such delicious and delicate dishes can be obtained in this country in cans. Not only that, but some of them have been combined for you into made dishes all ready to heat and serve. Bean sprouts, bamboo shoots, water chestnuts, chow mein noodles and chop suey are all obtainable in cans, and Soy Sauce comes in bottles.

A Chinese bill-of-fare sounds something like a dog fight. If you assume that the dog fight takes place in a barnyard, the sam-bance is practically complete. Just try saying this rapidly: "Yacamein, warmein, young chow warmein, chow hang sai, moo goo hai, wo far hai cain, bar low sang hai, lat chow gai, hung yen guy pan, bark toy guy, lan far chow mein, chop suey, chow dan, egg for young, egg sub gum, ha foo young dan."

A Chinese Menu

In order to simplify the bewildering possibilities suggested above we're outlining a Chinese menu for an evening party, and adding the recipes so that it will all be plain sailing. There is nothing more attractive than an evening party with Chinese lanterns, screens, hangings and fans for decorations, and perhaps even a whiff of incense burned in your best Ming Bowl. Here's the menu, calculated to serve eight.

Chinese Shrimp Omelet
Sprout Salad
Pineapple Slices with Preserved Kumquats
Rice Cakes
Sesamum-Seed Candy
Tea

Chinese Shrimp Omelet: Fry one cup of celery and one cup of onions, both sliced thin, in one-fourth cup cooking oil until golden in color. Shred the contents of two 5-ounce cans of shrimps rather finely, and add and cook a little longer. Beat four eggs well, add the shrimps and vegetables, and drop by spoonfuls in hot fat in a skillet, patting out into round cakes. Brown well, turn and brown on other side. Serve with rice and Soy Sauce.

Sprout Salad: Drain two cups canned sprouts and chill thoroughly. Arrange on lettuce and sprinkle over one-half cup grated raw carrot and four tablespoons minced chives. Dress with French dressing. Remove the sections of two oranges with a knife, leaving on none of the white fibre, and place two or three sections on each salad.

Pineapple Slices with Preserved Kumquats: Cut large slices of canned pineapple in three uniform segments and arrange on a glass dessert plate, inserting a sprig of fresh mint between the segments. In the center hole place a preserved kumquat, and pour over some of the kumquat syrup. Serve very cold.

Another Chinese Dish
In order to give you a chance to vary this menu, here is another Chinese recipe which can be substituted for the first dish.

Chow Mein: Empty a can of chow mein noodles into a pie tin and warm in oven a few minutes. Bring lard or cooking oil in skillet almost to boiling point. Fry one-half pound lean pork cut in pieces with tablespoon Soy Sauce alone until done, stirring constantly. Next add two cups celery cut to same size as meat, one cup dry onions cut in small pieces, and a little soupstock or juice from a can of bean sprouts. Add one tablespoon brown sauce and one tablespoon Soy Sauce, and cover over to cook till vegetables are done. Add the sprouts and heat thoroughly. Mix flour and water as for gravy, and add to thicken. Mold the noodles on a platter or plates and cover with chop suey. Decorate with lettuce and sliced boiled eggs, sprinkle with chopped nuts and serve while hot with Soy Sauce as a condiment.

An Unusual Dessert

WOULD you like to know a peach of a dessert in which peaches are used in an unusual way? It's an elaborate cake, but the very first taste will convince you that it was well worth all the trouble you took.

Here it is

Peach Croissant: Make a sponge of one yeast cake, one-fourth cup warm water, one teaspoon sugar, one-third cup evaporated milk, one-third cup hot water and one cup flour. Cover, and let rise till very light. Add four beaten eggs, two-thirds cup butter, one-half cup sugar, two teaspoons salt and about three and one-half cups flour to make dough. Knead well, and let rise till double in bulk in a greased bowl, covered. Cut down, knead slightly, and pat or roll out into a thin rectangle. Brush with butter and spread one cup of chopped, well-drained canned peaches and two-thirds cup chopped vacuum packed walnuts along the center. Sprinkle with brown sugar, and bring the long sides of the rectangle together in the middle, pinching well. Place roll in a greased pan in the shape of a crescent or half moon. Brush with butter, and let rise till double in size. Bake in moderate, 350 degrees, oven for about twenty minutes. Facts and Figures on Your Telephone

By EDWIN F. HILL

Startling statements make news. It will be startling to many people to know that the number of owners of American Telephone and Telegraph Company stock exceed the population of all but eleven of the larger cities of the United States.

There are now about 880,000 stockholders of this company. On December 31, 1930, according to the annual report, there were 567,694 stockholders of record, which was an increase during the past five years of 205,694. Last year's gain in stockholders exceeded the total gain for the preceding three years.

The average number of shares held by a stockholder is 32 with no single individual holding as much as one per cent of the total amount of stock outstanding. Of the total number of stockholders more than 100,000 are Bell System employees with an average holding of about ten shares each. During the year 313,020 shares of this company's stock were issued to Bell System employees, upon completion of installment payments extending over a period of about three and one-half years. At the end of 1930 payments were being made under this plan on about 1,640,000 shares.

In 1930 the number of stockholders of this company were increased 97,893. During the year 2,579,407 shares of stock were offered to stockholders of record May 23, and 2,061,897 shares were issued in exchange for convertible bonds. This resulted in an average number of shares outstanding of 15,856,696, as compared with 13,113,746 in 1929.

MONTHLY REPORT OF HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT FOR APRIL

Names of communities in which Home Demonstration Agent worked: Hayfield, Dumfries, Cherry Hill, Quantico, Haymarket, Manassas, Bethel, Occoquan Catharpin, Aden, Greenwich Nokesville, Independent Hill, Bristow Buckhall, Purcell, Hoadly, Woodbridge, Wodobine and Woodlawn; no girls' clubs met 24, no women's groups met 5, no other meetings attended 4, no homes visited 7, no miles travelled 772, and no letters written 185.

The 4-H Clothing groups took up the cutting and fitting of simple dresses at their April meetings. The girls are being encouraged to earn own money for the dresses which are not to exceed one dollar in cost. The girls in two of the Clothing groups are using feed sack material to make their dresses. These are being trimmed prettily with gay print materials.

Plans have been completed for demonstration gardens in Buckhall, Purcell, and Bristow communities; making seven 4-H demonstration gardens in the county. We were fortunate in having an assortment, containing 13 varieties of seeds, furnished the demonstrators by a commercial firm. The instructional program for garden work will be built around these gardens.

Buckhall, Purcell, and Bristow groups have recently organized for regular instructional meetings. With the addition of these there are now sixteen organized 4-H Clubs in county working under the supervision of the Home Demonstration Agent.

The Home Demonstration Groups took up the discussion of "The Well Planned Kitchen" at the April meetings. In connection with the home management program a "Kitchen Convenience Campaign" has been launched. Any person in the county is eligible to enter and all are invited to join in improving arrangements and equipment of kitchens.

Miss Bess M. Hodsden, Poultry specialist, was in the county two days during the month and worked with the members of the "Poultry Improvement Contest." Contestants, as well as other egg producers, are being urged to keep up volume of eggs; indications are that prices will be very much better in late summer and early fall. A county meeting is being held each month for the benefit of poultry keepers. Mr. M. C. Kilpatrick from the State Poultry Federation is assisting with the work of that group and good program are being provided monthly.

N. Y. Physician Tells

Of Sargon's Powers

Dr. G. H. Warburton, Graduate Famous Bellevue Hospital Medical College, New York, was so convinced of the great good in Sargon that he recently declared:

"It is not what we eat that counts, but what we assimilate. Sargon helps us get more good out of our food, thus aiding the natural building up of enduring strength, firmer flesh, calmer nerves, improved brain power and a sense of physical well-being. You eat with a keen peaceful soundness and wake up with a feeling of renewed strength and energy"

While those who actually benefit from the use of Sargon marvel at the results of this triumphant compound, only the trained physicians who have been retained to examine the formula can understand why Sargon is now considered one of the great outstanding health giving remedies of the age.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize a Bible selection each week, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.

If thou return to the Almighty, thou shalt be built up, thou shalt put away inquiry far from thy tabernacles. Job 22: 23.

THE MANASSAS AIRPORT

On Monday night of this week a group of interested citizens conferred with the Town Council of Manassas relative to the establishment of a local airport.

Briefly the plans to purchase an approved site and lease it to the town, which will have the right to buy the land at cost plus interest and taxes. A fund is available from the State with which to condition the run ways.

It is absolutely essential, in the light of the rapid development of commercial aviation, that all progressive and consequential municipalities provide themselves with adequate airport facilities. An airport will soon become as essential to the community as its railroad station, and the citizens who have taken the initiative on this important matter are to be congratulated upon their enterprise.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

The Journal learns with regret that our charming little principal at Bennett will not officiate in that capacity next term.

However as a matron of the community we shall welcome her for she has endeared herself to every one.

JACKSON'S DEATH

Sixty-eight years ago, May 10 1863, Stonewall Jackson died in an out-house on the Chandler Farm at Guinea Station. At the height of his career, when his genius had flamed into triumph at Chancellorsville in one of the greatest strategic military movements in history, he rode through a gap in the picket lines, and returning with his staff found the gap closed and Lane's North Carolina brigade poured a volley almost in the faces of the General's party. The wounds necessitated the amputation of his arm at a hospital on the Dempsey farm at the hill above Wilderness Run, but it was pneumonia that caused his death, eight days later.

He was a strange figure, a stern man who loved little children, a General who did not spare his men, but who rose at night to lay a coat over a sleeping subordinate. The South loved him, the world admires him. The little house at Guinea where he died sixty-eight years ago will not be forgotten in many hundred years.—Fredricksburg Free Lance-Star.

Results of Wise Leadership

As a means of illustrating the wise leadership of the Democratic party in Virginia during the past eight years and the considerable credit for which can be attributed to that sound leadership, a comparison of the administration of the affairs of Virginia with the present troubled conditions in other Southern states should not be considered bad taste.

In defining conditions in several states in the South—as given in condensed form by the Tidewater News—we find that North Carolina has a total state and local bonded debt of $534,526,401, and from no less an authority than Governor Gardner himself, it is said that every tax dollar in North Carolina is worth only sixty cents, because forty cents of each dollar must go to pay interest and sinking fund charges on bonded indebtedness.

In South Carolina, the legislature of that state is looking for a loan of from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 to relieve the state treasury, and enable its various agencies to function properly.

In Alabama, the General Assembly is wrestling in an attempt to adjust a state deficit of from $15,000,000 to $17,000,000.

Mississippi is in no better condition because in that state, local banks have refused to further honor state warrants, and the sum of at least $5,000,000 must be immediately provided to enable its government to operate.

Tennessee has been so unfortunate as to lose $6,000,000 in state funds through unsecured banks, while widespread charges of corruption in state affairs are making the situation in that commonwealth deplorable.

Our sister state, West Virginia, also burdened with a heavy bonded debt, has serious tax problems to adjust, and the citizens of that state last year paid Governor Byrd and Virginia the high compliment of adopting the Byrd reorganization program as the best available means of solving their financial problems. The chairman of the committee selected to study and make recommendations on the question was also a Virginian, Hon. D. J. Strother, a native of Rappahannock.

—The Virginia Star.

Making the Most of Things

There are hundreds of people who are trying to solve the present situation and tell us the way out. Some of them, no doubt, are prophets, and some the sons of prophets, and some the seventh son of a seventh son.

We are making no claim to either, but our diagnosis of the case is that too few of us are willing to put out the necessary work. There are men among us who, in times as bad as these, have survived by putting in fifteen to eighteen hours of hard work, a day, and kept it up for years. Prosperity has softened our young men and they fuss and stew if they have ten good hours work for a few days. Work and plenty of it is the great man builder and the sooner we recognize it, the sooner times will improve. Worrying over the work to be done and trying to avoid it, has killed ten times as many men and women as hard work.

This is a trying time, but there is nothing impossible about it—nothing to compare with what our grandparents had to contend with after the War Between the States, and nothing more than the men who began their careers in the depression of 1892 to 1894, were up against. Let's stop griping and growling and make the most of things.

There are men now who are giving up their place in the procession to men who are no more intelligent or efficient; but who are more willing to work. Twenty years from now, they will wonder why they were outstripped. Don't get the idea that a good excuse is all that is necessary. It is not.

Nothing takes the place of standing up and doing our very best and then some. Few good jobs are done by men who are complaining and finding fault, and little pleasure comes to them in the half-way attempt they make; but the joy of seeing things fall in line after a hard battle is worth a lot. Soldiers can not keep step with wailing or crying, but a song puts new life in the march.

Let's throw despair away and take up the Trumpet of Determination and blow the battle charge and sing as we make the charge! — Chatham Tribune-Enterprise.

Editor Journal:

It may interest you to mention in the Journal that General Dunlap, whose death occurred in France last week, was formerly stationed at Quantico. As Colonel Dunlap, he took an active interest in the war time or early post-war work of the Prince William Red Cross Chapter, serving as an officer of its Quantico branch.

And in this connection it might be added that General Doyen, another Marine commander who interested himself in the wartime Red Cross activities of Prince William county, and whose wife was identified with the Quantico branch in an official capacity, has also passed on.

Sincerely,

Mary Larkin McKibbin,

(Mrs. A. C.)

Wartime Secretary, of Pr. Wm. Ch. 7528 Melrose Ave. St. Louis, Mo.

CHEVROLET SOLD AT BOTH POLES

Two Chevrolet agencies are maintained at almost opposite ends of the earth, one in the shadow of the north pole, the other in the distant region of the Antarctic.

Up in the sub-Arctic, 69 parallels of latitude remote from the equator, where daylight is hardly more than imaginary and the reindeer is still the chief means of transportation, A. S. Anco sells Chevrolets, in Horstad, Norway. It is almost the outpost of civilization. Fewer than six hamlets are nearer than Horstad to the North Pole.

More than 8500 miles to the south, practically at the tip of South America, V. Camelio operates the southernmost automobile dealership, at Porvenir, in what has been called the bleakest spot on the globe, the eternally gale-lashed island of Terra del Fuego. Porvenir rests on the 57th parallel of latitude and is practically within the Antarctic circle. With a single exception it is the most southerly town in the world. Camelio operates another automobile agency across the stormy Straights of Magellan, at Magallenes, formerly Punta Arenas, famed in maritime tales and history and a veritable haven to sailors navigating the nearby seas, the stormiest known anywhere.

Thus, points out M. D. Douglas, general parts and service manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, the automobile has circled the earth with a band more than 8500-miles wide, and adds: "The automobile in a generation has penetrated and gone beyond the regions of the reindeer on the north and the llama on the south, the hardest beasts existing. It would be interesting to know how many cars operate in these remote sections. We would like to know their period of usefulness each year and something of the vicissitudes of automobile ownership and driving at the top and bottom of the globe."

Telephone Company Teaches
Employees Proper Food Use

There's an art in cooking. Miss Margaret Harbin, right, instructress, tells Miss Margaret Wood the correct way to make bran muffins.

Knowing that good health demands proper food, rest and recreation, young women employees of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company at Washington, D. C., have recently organized nutrition classes as post-graduate work of the general health course. About 1,500 women employees have graduated in health course work.

The nutrition course includes general information on what to eat, when to eat, and the proper selection and preparation of foods. The classes are directed by Miss Margaret Harbin, an employment supervisor of the traffic and operating department. The purpose of the course, she states, is to instruct young women forming the classes in the preparation and serving of well-balanced meals and eating at regular meal hours.

This course has been built around one day's food as a whole rather than around any specific food. One meal in itself, according to Miss Harbin, balanced from a nutrition standpoint will not compensate for inadequacies at the other two meals of the day.

In the elementary course in nutrition, simple food preparation is given with the idea that those participating must know, not only how to select food properly, but how to prepare it so that the nutritive properties are conserved to the fullest extent.

Twelve lessons of one and one-fourth hours each are necessary to complete the course. The classes are held one day each week on the employee's own time. Each lesson is a unit in itself, and is built around the discussion of one specific group of foods—such as vegetables, eggs, fruits or milk. The lesson includes a brief statement of the nutritive values of that particular food. For instance, if vegetables are the subject, there is a discussion of why they should be eaten and what they contribute to the daily diet.

STANDARD RATING SCALE for Electric Refrigeration

- Is the refrigerator manufactured by a reliable company with proper experience in the electric refrigeration field?
- Has it plenty of food and shelf space?
- Is the cabinet itself well designed, sturdily built and properly insulated?
- Is there provision for the freezing of an adequate supply of ice cubes? (Quantity of ice rather than number of cubes, which may be of large or small size, should be taken into consideration.)
- Will the refrigerator constantly maintain a proper temperature for the preservation of foods?
- Can the freezing of ice cubes and drawers be speeded up when the need arises?
- Can this extra freezing speed for ice cubes be had without affecting the temperature on the food shelves? (Too low a temperature on the shelves will, of course, injure food.)
- Is there a place to keep ice cream, meat, fish, game, "quick-frozen" foods or extra ice cubes indefinitely at a below freezing temperature?
- Are there various temperatures (a. extra fast freezing; b. fast freezing; c. below freezing for storage; and d. normal food preservation temperature) automatically maintained without any attention from the owner?
- Does the refrigerating unit operate often or infrequently? (The fewer "stops" and "starts" the longer the unit will last and the less it costs to run.)
- How long will the cooling unit continue to cool the refrigerator even though the current is shut off? (Refrigeration should continue for 10 or 12 hours.)
- Can the back parts of all shelves, even the lowest, be reached without kneeling or sitting down?
- Has provision been made for keeping vegetables fresh and crisp?
- Can the refrigerator top be used to "set" things down for a moment while the contents of the cabinet are being re-arranged?
- Will the refrigerator add to the attractiveness of the kitchen?
- Has the experience of users over a long period of years proved the refrigerator long-lived and dependable?

Sweets "K. O." Spinach In Colgate Diet Experiments

"Human Guinea Pigs" Swallow Toy
Balloons To Aid Science
In Food Facts Quest

HAMILTON, N. Y., (Special) — You can take or leave your spinach but when it comes to a slice of cake, or after-dinner candy, don't leave it.

This advice comes direct from the psychological laboratories of Colgate University where ten students have been swallowing toy balloons for the past seven months as part of a series of experiments to determine whether we should eat the things we like.

Records obtained by the balloon method, according to Dr. Donald A. Laird, director of the laboratories, emphasize the importance of sweet foods in the diet. Dr. Laird even goes a step further. He concludes that two desserts, instead of one, will go a long way toward setting up a perfect digestive process, and will aid in the digestion of heavier foods such as meats, vegetables, and other dishes.

"Some months ago," Dr. Laird said, "we undertook an investigation to discover whether the psychology and physiology of eating were not of equal importance in the field of nutrition."

"Much has been said and written on the physiological side about the vitamins and proteins, but from the psychological angle, the natural, perhaps unconscious, revulsion of feeling that accompanies the enforced eating of foods we do not really care for but eat because 'they are good for us,' there has been little done in the way of investigation."

Sweets Aid Digestion

"Tests were made on a picked group of Colgate students who were employed to act as 'human guinea pigs' and records were obtained of the flow of saliva, emotional reactions as indicated by breathing, stomach contractions and the flow of gastric juices."

"Test meals were fed to the students and analyses made of the contents of the stomach at frequent intervals. Delicate instruments recorded accurately the digestive reactions of the subjects during the tests."

"The data obtained from the measurement of the gastric juices is perhaps the most sensational because it can be more easily translated into conclusions of benefit to everyone. Salty tastes, it was found, stimulate to a slight degree the gastric flow, while bitter or sour tastes have no effect. Sweet tastes are by far the greatest stimulators of these juices, a plentiful supply of which is essential to good digestion." Dr. Laird said that chocolate bar was found to have the most marked effect.

Using a chart to illustrate his point, Dr. Laird explained how the gastric flow begins as soon as the first taste of food reaches the mouth, increasing steadily until within about one hour after dinner

Twelve feet of stomach-contraction records, made as part of the diet tests, are given a shellac bath by two laboratory assistants.

it reaches its peak, diminishing rapidly after that time.

"From this record," Dr. Laird continued, "we learned that between one and two hours after eating a normal dinner, the natural flow of gastric juices reaches a vanishing point. But unfortunately for ourselves, all the food in the stomach

Dr. Laird, with an assistant, is shown above giving a student one of the "taste tests."

The results, he stated, were immediately obvious.

"From this it is logical to conclude," he said, "that a second dessert taken about one hour after dinner in the form of a few pieces of candy, some sweet cakes, in fact, anything that is sweet, is not only a pleasant afterthought to the dinner, but is really a valuable aid to good digestion."

Investigation to Continue

Dr. Laird was assisted in his experiments by Cameron Farquhar and Fletcher C. Waller on stomach contractions, Wayne G. Benedict, Jr. on flow of saliva, and Francis I. Tomlins on gastric secretions, this latter phase being under the supervision of Byron S. West, M.D. Altogether about ten students doing advanced work in the laboratory were engaged in gathering data from the "human guinea pigs."

The investigation, Dr. Laird stated, will be continued in an effort to unearth further data to substantiate his theory that sherberts, desserts, or the candy dish are just as essential to good health and digestion, as spinach and other vitamin-heavy foods because of the favorable psychological reaction which results.

POULTRY

BIG ESSENTIAL
FOR HEN FLOCK

Violet Rays Foes of Rickets and Other Ills.

Violet rays in direct sunshine aid in the assimilation of calcium and are foes of rickets and other ills to which flesh is heir.

While this is a familiar story to many poultry keepers it is not generally known that not all sunlight has equal value—that in fact, winter sunshine in northern latitudes has few or no violet rays, the factor that cures or prevents the rickets.

Discussing the practice of some poultry men of shooting their flocks at this time of year into bright sunshine, Frederick B. Hutt, poultry specialist of the agricultural extension service of the University of Minnesota, says:

"This may be of value to stock kept for breeding but does not give the birds much if any more of the anti-rickets factor than they were getting inside the hen house. Experiments have shown that in latitudes even farther south than Minnesota the amount of ultra violet rays of the most valuable wave length is too small in winter to be of much importance. After the first of March the value of the sunlight increases rapidly and by April and May it has a rickets banishing potency about eight times as great as in January."

"The merits of various glass substitutes have been widely advertised the last few years. While it is quite true that many of these will transmit, when new, more ultra violet rays than window glass the fact remains that even the best of them cannot transmit such rays when there are none to transmit. Neither will the breeding flock get its full requirement of the valuable factor if turned outdoors on the brightest days in February."

"But an ample supply of this factor is a prime essential if good hatcheries are to be obtained in the early spring. The only safe plan is to feed a good brand of cod liver oil at the rate of 2 per cent in the mash. By April 1, at which time the sun is again giving full value for the money, feeding of the oil may be safely discontinued."

R. S. HYNSON SECOND HIGH PRODUCING HERD IN VIRGINIA FOR APRIL

The summary of all testing associations in the state for April showed that the herd of R. S. Hynson, Manassas, ranked second among herds on test for the month of April. This herd produced an average of 1,071 pounds of milk and 46.1 pounds of butterfat per cow for the thirty days following closely that of the Endless Caverns herd which produced 1158 pounds of milk and 48.5 pounds of butterfat per cow. Mr. Hynson had 39 cows on test however while the Endless Cavern farm had only nine.

THE GREAT AIR PAGEANT

Picture if you can the humming, the buzzing and the whirring that will be heard over the National Capital on Saturday, May 30. On that day at one time six hundred and seventy-two airplanes will be in Washington skies taking part in the spectacular maneuvering necessary to try the ability of the Army Air Corps as the air defender of the nation's shores. For this is a duty that has fallen to the Army as a result of recent conferences of military air leaders.

The Greater National Capital Committee, organized to intensify interest in Washington and its historic environs, has issued a statement saying that "never has there been a more opportune time for a visit in Washington. For a week beginning Sunday, May 24 the great airplane force will be up and down the Atlantic coast. During that time it will be assumed for testing purposes that the country is in a state of war. But the grand finale will take place in the sky amphitheater of the nation's capital. All who are in Washington that day will observe a spectacle unequalled in the history of the United States. It is of interest that this greatest of all-air pageants may be witnessed with the minimum of inconvenience. The Traffic Bureau of the Washington police has given assurance that the gigantic display may be seen with equal satisfaction from any part of the city. There will therefore be no reason for crowding or for traffic jams. But in order to be doubly sure of convenience and the maximum of safety Washington and Bolling Field traffic officials are holding conferences to work out the best general traffic regulations for the day."

A great deal has been printed about the coming epochal event. The following essential facts are briefly presented for the purpose of clarifying the minds of those who have been too busy to follow the detailed plans in the newspapers:

"On May 30 the U. S. Army will concentrate over Washington the greatest air force ever seen in this country—672 planes in the air at the same time.

"Even in close formation the Army of the Skies will represent a column stretching a distance of more than twenty miles.

"The maneuvers will call into existence every available plane except training planes which are useless in time of war.

"Pursuit squadrons, those essential units in battle, will come from Michigan and California; observation units, the eyes of the army, will come from New York and from every National Guard Division area in the country; bombardment squadrons, the heavy artillery of the heavens, will arrive from Virginia, and from the Pacific Coast; attack planes from Texas and cargo and transport planes from many army posts.

"The combat ceiling of pursuit planes two years ago was 21,000 feet. Today these planes can climb and fight to a distance of 30,000 feet. Two years ago their high speed was 165 miles an hour. Today it is 195 miles an hour.

"This great air force known as the First Air Division will have 205 pursuit planes; 355 observation planes; 51 attack planes; 36 bombardment planes, and 45 transport and cargo planes. The personnel is 740 officers and 631 enlisted men.

"The division will be commanded by Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, America's first military airplane pilot.

"Are the aerial defenses of the nation sufficient to withstand the fiery ordeal of a national emergency? The answer should be known when the maneuvers have been finished?

Not only will those who come to Washington May 30 see the most magnificent exhibition of its kind in history but also they will, if the hopes of army leaders are fulfilled, gain the conviction that it is to the skies they must look for future safety."

Says the Greater National Capital Committee, concluding its statement, "Never has there been such a chance to enjoy the capital. Washington always beautiful has attractions that are peculiar to Springtime. The parks, pleasure grounds and gardens are verdant with vari-colored flowers and the wide avenues are lined with banks of green foliage. A visit to Washington on May 30 will mean a day of wonder, excitement and pleasure."

OCOQUAN HIGH GETS SECOND ATHLETIC BANNER

The Occoquan High School received its second Athletic banner of the season when it won the baseball championship of the County.

The championship was decided when the Occoquan team met and defeated the Nokesville boys at Occoquan for the last game of the season.

On the evening of May 15 a banquet was given in the High School Auditorium for the boys and girls who had taken part in the various sports—soccer, basketball, and baseball. There were about thirty-five present, including members of the faculty, and Mr. R. P. McCullum, baseball coach.

Everyone enjoyed the fine dinner, after which we were favored by speeches from the members of the team and Faculty, and also a few musical selections.

Occoquan received her first banner last fall by winning the soccer championship of the County.

We feel that the organization of Athletic league in the County has met with great success. It has created community interest, brought schools and communities close together and helped to develop sportsmanship of the highest type.

Telephone Communication Essential to U. S. Army

Communication, which plays such an important part in the business and social affairs of the world, is also of great importance in the armies of the world, both in peace and war. In the United States Army, communication systems are maintained on a high plane, and the equipment is equivalent to that serving many large cities.

Major General George S. Gibbs, chief signal officer of the Army, in a recent issue of the Military Engineer, Journal of the Society of American Military Engineers, dedicated to the national defense, states that telephone systems varying in size from twelve position switchboards, serving 1,500 lines down to switchboards of one position serving 100 lines or less, are located in about 175 posts, camps and military stations. Annually, he says, the Army spends about $200,000 for construction work of telephone plant. Included in the peace-time establishments of the regular Army and National Guard is fixed equipment consisting of 9,000 field telephones, and 1,500 field telephone switchboards and other equipment.

Commercial communication companies such as the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Western Union Telegraph Company, Radio Corporation of America and other organizations, General Gibbs says, co-operate with the government to the fullest extent in maintaining Signal Corps equipment and service to a high degree of efficiency.

Reference is made in the article to the expansion given the Signal Corps by the communication companies during the war. In this per-

Major General George S. Gibbs

Special, General Gibbs says: "In the World War the Signal Corps operated printing telegraph between Chamonix, Paris, London, and Tours before it was in general use in the United States. This result was due to the patriotic support given to the Signal Corps by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Western Electric Company."

In time of war the Signal Corps equipment is increased to meet the demands made on it by the necessarily increased forces.

Bankers Point Out Hazards of Unsound Practices and Help Farmers to Avoid Them

WAYS in which bankers may discourage unsound farm practices are described by President F. D. Farrell of the Kansas State Agricultural College in the American Bankers Association Journal. He says:

"In Kansas in connection with the importation of dairy cattle, a large shipment of very inferior animals came into a county to be sold at auction to local farmers. The county agricultural agent informed the bankers that the cattle would be a detriment to the community. The bankers refused to finance the purchase of the cattle and the sale was abandoned. The cattle were shipped to another county. The county agent and the bankers there did as was done in the first instance and the second county escaped."

"A year ago creamery promoters began trying to capitalize the Kansas farmers' desire to improve his markets by inducing communities of farmers to purchase creamery plants before production and local conditions justified them. Informed of this by the State Agricultural College, the bankers association sent warnings to every bank in the state, leading many to refuse to support the creamery promoters until the college approved the plant for the community concerned. This saved many communities loss from the premature establishment of plants."

"A third way bankers can discourage unsound practices is to refuse to finance farmers who wish to pyramid their enterprises, a temptation difficult to resist. This is illustrated among farmers who buy cattle for feeding purposes."

If it's worth while, you'll find it somewhere in the ad columns.

Bertha Patten, chairman 4-H Club, reports sewing the following vegetables from her patch of green: lettuce, spinach, mustard, and kale. Pete Durrizter, Purcell 4-H Club, has lettuce in his garden large enough to eat. Other members of Purcell Club are making fine progress with their gardens.

Woodlawn 4-H Club will meet Tuesday, June 2, at the school building. Buckhall 4-H Club will meet Wednesday, June 3, at 9:30 o'clock at Edith Reid's garden. Edith has her garden in good condition and all club members are urged to be present for meeting.

Haymarket 4-H Club will meet Wednesday, June 3, at 2 o'clock at the home of Virginia Gaines, in Gainesville. All club members are urged to be present.

Purcell 4-H Club will meet Thursday, June 4, at 9:30 o'clock at George Reid's garden. All club members are invited to attend.

Bethel 4-H Club will meet Thursday, June 4, at 2 o'clock at the home of Lois Davis, Hoadley. Members of Occoquan Club living near Lois are invited to attend that meeting.

Bristow 4-H Club will meet Friday June 5, at 9 o'clock at Frank Venables garden.

Greenwich 4-H Club will meet Friday, June 5, at 2 o'clock at the school building. After the club meeting the group will go out for Bacon Bat and Marshmallow Roast.
