

ENGINEER ELECTED TO NATIONAL BODY

George L. Rosenberger Has Had Wide Experience over Much of U. S.

George L. Rosenberger, formerly of Manassas, Electrical Engineer, Superintendent of Construction, Virginia Public Service Company, has been elected to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Mr. Rosenberger was recommended for this honor by James Carlyle Stephens, Electrical Engineer of Norfolk, associated with the Institute since 1908; Alvan M. Bland, Instructor in Electrical Engineering, associated with the Institute since 1916, and Louis Denton Bliss, Fellow of the Institute, President, Bliss Electrical School, Washington, D. C., and author of the standard work, "Theoretical and Practical Electrical Engineering."

Mr. Rosenberger, a native of Virginia, educated in public and private schools of Virginia and the District of Columbia, has had wide experience in electrical engineering over much of the United States. He began his work in the electrical field with the Western Union Telegraph Company, with which company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company he was employed eight years.

Since its beginning Mr. Rosenberger's career has been an interesting one and has included: construction work in southern Colorado, an inter-urban power transmission line through Tennessee, line construction in Connecticut. Mr. Rosenberger was for a time superintendent of the utilities of Manassas.

Mr. Rosenberger is well known for his work in the development of electrical service in Fairfax County, which has been in a large measure responsible for the rapid progress of the county in the past decade. A radio address sponsored by the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce declared in part: "To assure the continued growth of Fairfax County it was evident (1920) that some means must be provided to operate the farms on a more efficient basis. Considering that millions of dollars were tied up in farming property it became a necessity to find a way for an economical management of this property whereby a suitable return could be paid on this large investment. The solution of this problem was made by Mr. George L. Rosenberger who had extensive experience in the operation of electric utilities and had vision to foresee what was necessary for the continued prosperity of rural life."

Mr. Rosenberger has been associated with the Virginia Public Service Company and companies succeeded by it for nine years, now in the capacity of Superintendent of Construction, Alexandria. For the past few weeks the company has been conducting a class of employees of the company in a new plan of educational work, designed to help the employees of the company to become "better employees and better citizens."

LOCAL LEAGUE TO HEAR C. J. HYSLUP

Vocational Guidance to Be Main Topic of Evening.

Mr. C. J. Hyslup, assistant state supervisor of high schools, will speak at the meeting of the Manassas High School Community League next Thursday night, November 19, at 8 o'clock. Mr. Hyslup will speak on the new course in vocational guidance that has been put in the high schools this year by the State Department of Education.

As such a course helps the high school in a very real and deep sense to perform one of its chief functions, it will be of much interest to all parents and others interested in education to hear this discussion of the plans and aims of the new vocational guidance course by Mr. Hyslup who is head of the work and one of the chief experts in the state on the subject.

"THIS MODERN AGE," HIGHLY SOPHISTICATED STORY OF PARIS, COMING TO DIXIE

A highly sophisticated and smart story of Paris is told in "This Modern Age," which brings Joan Crawford to the Dixie Theatre for two days starting Thursday, Nov. 19.

Miss Crawford plays the role of a young woman who has not seen her divorced mother since childhood. They are reunited and react more like friends than mother and daughter, for the ultra-modern parent does the same things her daughter does. When her daughter finally falls in love with the son of conservative Boston aristocrats, it is this ultra freedom of her mother's that breaks up the romance. The lover doesn't want a girl whose mother "runs around." A series of exciting events lead up to the denouement which is capped with a surprise climax.

The picture, which was adapted from the Mildred Cram novel, "Girls Together," gives Miss Crawford opportunities in the "whoopie" type of part with which she has been so successful in the past, although the story obviously has its serious moments. Pauline Frederick, as the mother, is also given a chance for clever acting and the cast also includes Neil Hamilton, who scored with Norma Shearer in "Strangers May Kiss"; Monroe Owsley, recently seen opposite Gloria Swanson in "Indiscreet"; Hobart Bosworth, Emma Dunn, Albert Conti, Adrienne d'Ambricourt and Marcelle Corday. Nicholas Grinde directed.

RED CROSS CELEBRATES 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Workers Have Been Enrolled in Every Section of Our County.

JOHN GARLAND POLLARD

Statement from Hon. John Garland Pollard, Governor of Virginia:

"It is a source of very great pride to me to know that Virginia last year showed the greatest increase in Red Cross membership enrollment of any of the Southern States and that we led all of our sister commonwealths of the south in our contribution to the Special Drought Relief Fund. I hope you will announce as our slogan 'One Hundred Thousand Members in Virginia for the Fiftieth Anniversary Roll Call.' This is a worthy objective, and Virginia will do her duty."

SMILE THAT WINS MAKES DELICIOUS ROMANTIC MIX-UP

In gay Vienna, city of laughter and love, Maurice Chevalier, noble-born and carefree, whiles away the bachelor days with the ladies, especially, Claudette Colbert, girl orchestra leader in a popular cafe. One of his rare calls to duty brings him to attend a visiting king and princess as an officer of the guard. Claudette comes out to witness his dazzling display. Maurice forgets himself, smiles at her, and incurs the displeasure of the princess.

Summoned to the palace to explain why he "laughed at the princess," he makes such a pretty explanation that the dowdy princess, Miriam Hopkins, believes he loves her. She tells her father that he is the man she must marry, and in spite of a struggle, Chevalier is whisked into royal matrimony.

Angered at this usurpation of his personal freedom, Maurice refuses to treat his wife with anything but the most studied formality, much to her chagrin. He continues his love affair with Claudette.

Hearing of the affair, Miriam summons Claudette to the palace where she berates and threatens the girl. Claudette scornfully points to the dowdy and old-fashioned actions and appearance of the princess as an explanation for her husband's lack of interest. Miriam decides to take lessons from Claudette. The result is an up-to-date and beautiful princess.

Having completed the transformation, Claudette leaves the city, bidding Maurice farewell in a note.

Filled with anger at his wife for robbing him of the girl he thinks he loves, Maurice bursts into Miriam's sitting room, only to be met by the greatest surprise of his life—his despised wife has blossomed forth into the most glorious woman he has ever met. From then on, Princess Miriam leads her dashing husband a merry chase.

F. F. A., MANASSAS, VA.

The members of the F. F. A. organization held their first meeting this year, November 5, to elect officers and discuss the date for their annual Father-and-son Banquet, which is to be held on the night of November 24 in the high school auditorium.

The following officers were elected: Allan Ritter, president; Arthur Carter, vice-president; Woodson Brown, secretary-treasurer, and John Waters, reporter.

The Methodist Sunday school will hold a pie social at the Woodmen's Hall on Thursday, Nov. 19, beginning at 8 p. m. Refreshments of all kinds will be served. Everyone is most cordially invited to attend. Come and bring your best girl.

The Ladies Aid of the United Brethren Church at Buckhall will hold an oyster supper in the school house Friday evening, Nov. 20. Everybody welcome.

Plans have been completed and material distributed to Roll Call workers in every section of the county this week for the beginning of one of the most intensive drives for memberships in the American Red Cross which has ever been inaugurated in Prince William County. The quota set by National Headquarters is 650 members, but the chapter is hoping to enroll many more than that as the work as carried on locally requires a much larger budget.

Join with your local representative or by mail sending checks to Miss Loretta McGill, treasurer, Haymarket, Va., or Mrs. George Delaney, Manassas, Va. Individual memberships, $1.00 each contributing $5.00.

RED LETTER DAY CELEBRATION

One of the national W. C. T. U. Red Letter Days was celebrated by the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Nokesville at the Seminary on Sunday night, Nov. 1. The meeting was fairly well attended. Some of our Manassas friends were present. Mr. Murphy from Manassas conducted the opening exercise by reading the 13th chapter of Romans. Mr. G. W. Beam led the opening prayer. The ladies of the Nokesville Union sang several Temperance songs.

We were indeed fortunate to have Mr. C. J. Meetze for the main speaker of the evening. He gave a rousing address on the subject of "Individual Responsibility for Enforcement." He certainly made plain to all the duty and responsibility of every individual citizen.

Mrs. E. C. Spitzer gave a very appealing monologue on the subject of "Tithing." Mrs. Mark, who presided over the meeting, thought it a very opportune time to lift the offering just after this monologue. A splendid offering was received.

Mr. Murphy also gave an address along the line of Temperance Work. He read some very instructive extracts from a book written by Earl L. Douglas. It would surely be enlightening and beneficial to every community to have such meetings more frequently.

The regular monthly meeting of the Nokesville W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. C. C. Herring Wednesday, Nov. 4. This meeting was well attended and was interesting as well as instructive. The December meeting will be held at the Nokesville Club Room on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 2. We shall gladly welcome anyone who wishes to attend.

ANNUAL BAZAAR

The annual turkey and oyster dinner and supper, for the benefit of Grace M. E. Church, will be held in the Assembly Room of the church Thursday, November 19.

A large collection of fancy articles will be on sale, also delicious candy. The public cordially invited to attend.
