Public Hearing Next Wedne day.

The "Fighting Eighth" has apparently realized its serious danger and delegations are arriving at Richmond every day. Everybody capable of taking official action has appealed for the integrity of the present Eighth. There is a grim battle on, and a desperate one. Much depends on the results in the next ten days.

The whole situation is fraught with serious political hazards, and the tenseness has become almost feverish. It is overshadowing all other phases of legislation. Every angle and every little development is watched with the most careful scrutiny. One interested observer stated, "We got a lot of sympathy but what we have most to fear is what those same sympathetic listeners will do if they are given their orders."

No piece of legislation in recent years has attracted more general attention. It is a matter of moment and the outcome is very much in Advices are to the effect that two more bills will be introduced this week affecting the redistricting of the Congressional Districts of Virginia. One of these was brought in to the committee on Tuesday and the other was expected any day. Other bills will be introduced prior to the general hearing which will be held in the committee rooms of the house committee next Wednesday evening. Owing to the sudden and severe illness nent figure in this contest, the Sentime.

The Wright bill as it is generally known has for its Senate patrons, Conner of the Eighth District and Holland of the Second. It retains the integrity of all Districts but the Seventh and Tenth. The Tenth is th in five directions, Appomattox, Buck-ingham and Cumberland going to the Fourth District; Alleghany, Craig and Botetourt are given to the S Bath, Highland, Rockbridge, Au Amherst and Nelson are given to Seventh, and Fluvanna is given t Eighth. The Eighth is given counties and one city from the Seventh, Charlottesville and the counties of Albemarle, Green, Madison and Rappahannock.

Roughly outlined the plan uses the mountain line as a division, throwing the eastern slope into the Eighth District, working its way down to the river boundaries of Albemarle and

While this bill may not be the one finally adopted, it is certainly the ical and homeg vanced. The last proposal now in the field is to throw the Seventh District in two directions, giving Albemarle to the old Tenth, Louisa from the Eighth to the old Tenth, Stafford and King George to the First, and leaving all the rest of northern Virginia in one immense District. This bill originates in the Tenth, and has its adherents mainly in that area. Not less than six or eight bills will be before the committee before the opening barrage ceases. All of these bills will have some support. The attitude of the delegations of the Fifth and Ninth Districts is eagerly sought after by all as virtually no plan is expected to affect those districts and their delegations should be left free to vote with open minds.

OVER-ONE-EYE HATS DRAW ATTENTION TO

FACIAL FEATURES

Eyes are taking on an alluring quality since the tip-titled, over-oneeye hats have become the vogue While the off-the-forehead hats revealed evebrows of penciled lines and lashes of sweepingly long length, there is the added need of knowing how to go with these one-sided shapes.

Coquettish, flirting eyes set off the small, stiff-brimmed models while a more sophisticated and veiled droop is needed for the hats of dressier pat terns.

Lynn Fontanne, the New York stage star who appears in the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer picture, "The Guards man," showing at the Dixie Theatre, on Wednesday, Feb. 3, wears one of these large-brimmed hats in one scene of the talkie.

Her eyes are dark and mysterious a quality that is enhanced by her black taffeta. Instead of opening them wide she droops the lids in half-closed fashion in a manner that adds in terest to the type of hat. The lids are shaded with a dark brown coloring with a hairline penciling of brown outlining the upper and lower lids.

Instead of resorting to the standardized thin-line eyebrow Miss Fontaine prefers a heavier eyebrow, a style more becoming to her type of beauty. The lashes are darkened with the same brown tone-a color wheih brings out the brown tone of her eyes. Very little makeup is used for the interest is focused to the eyes, only one of which is revealed in this newer type hat shape.

Miss Lenadell Wiggins, national W. C. T. U. speaker, will speak in the school building Friday night at 7:30. Miss Wiggins is a convincing speaker and we hope a large crowd will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. William May had friends from Orkney Springs visiting them Sunday.

Visitors at the Bowman home or Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Felix May and daughter of Brentsville, Mr. Russell May of Quantico, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Kline of Occoquan, Mr. and Mrs. Orran Kline and little son of Manassas.

Miss Theresa Payne, Messrs. Harry Miller and Clifford Dave were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kerlin.

We are very glad that the Berryman children are able to resume their school activities after being under quarantine for some time.

It is gratifying to know that the spirit of Sunday school still continues even though we have no church in which to worship. There were 69 present the past Sunday which is about the average attendance. This is very encouraging. It is true there are many difficult times in people's religious life that we feel like "giving up" but it is only right that we should lay aside all excuses and be all the more faithful in the observance of our religious duties. The following have been selected as the building and soliciting committee for the U. B. Church: Dr. A. L. Maiden, chairman, Mr. L. J. Bowman, sec retary and treasurer, Mr. A. R. Wilkins, Mr. S. G. Whetzel, Mrs. L. J. Bowman, Mr. W. B. Kerlin and Mr.

YEARLY REPORT OF THE BETHLEHEM HOUSEKEEP-ERS' CLUB FOR 1932

Owing to the illness and death of the club's efficient president, Mrs. C. F. M. Lewis, no meetings were held from May to September.

At the May meeting Mrs. Lewis was appointed by a State worker, as a delegate from Prince William county, on the Rural Child Welfare work. She was also chosen from the club to represent the club in the county Bicentennial.

Fifteen dollars was donated to the high school library fund; chief among the books purchased by Mrs. C. R. C. Johnson, librarian, was the Biography ADVANCED REFRIGERATION of Light Horse Henry Lee-the book so much used in preparations for the Bicentennial.

Two dollars and a half was given to Miss Sarah Pitts, the county demonstration agent, for a prize in her 4-H sewing contests, also pieces of prints and feed sacks for use in her sewing classes. A large supply of layettes was made, and kept at Mrs. Ann Spies, to be used by the nurses, over the county as needed.

Clothing was donated for needy chool children. Three needy families in the county were helped with clothing, food, money and wood. Flowers, potted plants and fruit were sent to many homes, fifty dollars and ninety-eight cents being expended during the year for these various purposes.

At the September meeting a short memorial service was held for the members whom death had claimed in st few Mrs. Fannie Johnson and Mrs. Lewis The club's last assessment of five dollars was paid to the Near East Fund.

Funds from the club and donations by the members filled three large Christmas baskets to cheer those needing them. Christmas cards were sent to all prior members living at a distance, by the faithful corresponding secretary, Mrs. Chloe E. Lay Hodge.

The club was organized in 1910, deriving its name from an ancient Old School Baptist Church, near which some of its charter members lived. At that time the membership was limited to twelve. Its motto, chosen by a charter member, is "Live to learn and to perform." Its object at first was purely social and for the exchange of ideas concerning housekeeping; from that beginning it has grown to its present proportions. The officers for 1932 are:

He usually managed to find someone to share his good fortune with, and he made it a point to take as much of the mis fortunes of others on his own shoulders as was possible. He never forgot that there were others. Surely this thought must have been in the mind of Mr. Geo. F. Harrison when he conceived the plan of a joint home for the less fortunate in this section of our Comonwealth. And how he did labor to perfect this plan with the various governing bodies, and with them through the Legisla-A bleached tho't: Cotton Davis ture finally secured the enactment of the law giving certain counties and Perpetual Sons of Rest . . . This beautiful edifice stands out as the first of its kind in this country, from the efforts put forth as stated above, and will ever be a memorial to all who had a part in its construction. The attention of the Prince William County Board of Supervisors was many times called to the very, very sad and neglected condition of these unfortunate people, with no sanitation, no comforts, very few clothes and very little to eat, and that poorly prepared, all in all it was all but a disgraceful place; no one wanted to go there to spend their remaining days, and you never heard of anyone wanting to visit there. Now, what a difference. If one is really in need, what a joy and happiness it must be to have the good fortune of gaining admittance to this place of rest with its steam heat, running water, hot and cold, its spacious halls, large and well ventilated rooms, well kept beds, nicely cooked food and plenty of it, a graduate trained nurse to care for them, and everything in and sanitary condition. How happy and appreciative are the inmates in

This home has now been in Manas sas five years and through the efforts of the very efficient board of directors and excellent management of Mrs. Ayleene R. Guthrie, it is being well kept. In the year of 1931, it was found necessary to make repairs and improvements and the following have been completed: the exterior of the house has been freshened up with a new coat of paint at a cost of $100; the front yard and grounds have been enclosed with concrete curb and gutters at a cost of $190.95; the outbuildings have received a fresh coat of paint at a cost of $100.00. All this has added greatly to the beauty and preservation of the property. Then a herd of stock cattle has been added

This home is economically and well managed and kept and stands as a mark of what our people think of others. He who gives of himself to others will in the last understand to the fullest extent those wonderful words, "In as much as ye did it unto one of the least of these, My Brethren . . .

may be numbered one to the relief of the Mississippi flood sufferers.

When F. R. Hynson, who had promoted the Christmas work among the children, became president for the year 1928, the club launched new acones. This year, the club assisted in the dental clinic for the benefit of underprivileged children; it planted trees as a memorial to those who lost their lives in the World War, and saw success crown its effort to commit the Town of Manassas to the Managerial form of government. Aside from the 150 children in the county to whom the club played the part of Santa Claus, the Children's dered it by the club.

In 1929, under the leadership of its president, T. E. Didlake, the club continued actively its work for the the Christmas work, and its support ate.

Aid was given the victims of the tornado disasters which devastated the neighboring communities. In the meantime, the club was actively promoting those things which interested the county at large, such as railroad and telegraph service; proper advertisement of the county and other matters of general public interest.

For the first time, the matter of Vocational Guidance was considered by

In 1930, with Robt. A. Hutchison president, the most outstanding achievement of the organization was the hospitalization of ninety-seven children of the county. While the club has never claimed the sole credit of this labor of love, and has fully accorded the various organizations of the county full credit for most valuable assistance, both of labor and money, without which the undertaking would have been a failure, the services of Dr. E. H. Marsteller, Dr. C. R. C. Johnson and Prof. Eli Swavely, three outstanding members of the club, made possible that which had been pronounced impossible.

In 1931, the club in recognition of the services of C. R. C. Johnson, elected him president, and under his leadership, the club performed its selfalloted tasks, with conspicuous success, notwithstanding the constant menace of the twin orgres, the drought and depression.

The year of 1932 began with A. A. Hooff as president, and with well-laid plans for a year of community serv-

TO GET INCREASED INCOME FROM DAIRY

Miniature Farm Laboratory Great Help.

Prying into the secrets of milk yields with the helps of miniature ow-testing laboratories may result in increased dairy income, accordi to S. M. Salisbury, professor of animal husbandry at the Ohio State university, who believes that with the help of production and cost records ob-tained in this way it is possible to secure the maximum income from the Herd improvement associations, he says, enable the dairyman to discover slacker cows not paying for their board, increase his income by feed ing ludividual cows according to their roduction records, and to improve his herd by proving sires through the production records of their daughters.

It is good to know that these cows are producing a large and profitable flow, but the real proof of the ability of a sire is obtained by comparing the production of his daughters with that of the dams from which they came. It is possible that a sire might have good producing daughters, yet they may be lower in production than their dams. . The continued use of this sire would lower the production of the herd. It is as well to find the bull that lowers production as it is to discover the one that is capable of increasing it.

If a dairyman has a herd of cows capable of making 300 pounds of fat per year, he has a fair chance of se lecting a sire that will increase the production of his herd. Bulls have been able, on the average, Salisbury points out, to increase the production of daughters over dams until 394 pounds of fat is reached After this point it is increasingly difficult to find a sire that will increase fat production. However, if the dairyman has never kept records on his herd he is in no position to know wheth-er his herd sire has boosted or lowered the producing ability of his to the Summer Feeding Care and feeding of cows during the summer months has a direct bearing on the next winter's production. This is shown by the experience of a Johnson county (Iowa)) herd improvement association membe

He did not feed grain to cows on pasture in the summer of 1929. Then when he took the cows off pasture and started winter feeding, he noticed they were run down in flesh and that their milk production did not come up to what it should. The cows utilized the grain to build up their bodies.

Las' summer the owner fed grain mixture according to production through the pasture season. The ration consisted of 500 pounds of corn concentrate. His cows were in good condition when they came into the winter feed lots and were able to increase production and give normal response to winter feeding and care. -Successful Farming.

Management Counts

That the dairyman himself is the most important "animal" on the dairy farm, is strikingly shown by a study of the cost of producing butterfat, carried on by the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment station and the United States Department of Agriculture in Pine county Minnesota. About 25 herds were included in the study, which extended over a threeyear period, making 77 herd-year rec-

Results of this survey are shown in Minnesota Bulletin 270. To study the effect of management, the dairymen were divided into four groups. Those rated "good" secured 17 per cent more fat from the same seed than did those rated "fair," whereas the group rated 'poor" obtained only 70 per cent as much fat from the same feed as did the "good" group, Differences in qual-ity of management accounted for more differences in production than did all other factors combined.
