MANASSAS CLUB IS HONORED

District President Sends Congratulations to President Al.

The main feature of last week's Kiwanis meeting was a very interesting exposition by Col. Bob Hutchison on the recent Kiwanis International Convention at Detroit.

Bob Hutchison gave the boys an entertaining talk, bringing out a surprising amount of detail in such a brief space of time in which he spoke. He gave the thrill to all hands when he announced that Capitol district was awarded the banner for attendance, and reminded them that our own president, Al Hooff, is chairman of attendance in this honor district. This is the first time that the Capitol district has been so recognized.

Town Manager Cocke stressed the excellent showing made by the fire boys in the recent tournament at Orange, and a motion was passed to entertain the entire department in the new future.

Farmers' night will be the next feature for the club, the present date being next Friday night.

HOUSE PASSES RELIEF BILL

Gigantic Appropriation Bill Rewritten to Suit Hoover.

On Wednesday the gigantic 2-billion-dollar relief bill passed the House by a vote of 296 to 46. Having received the Presidential veto on the Garner plan to aid the man at the bottom, Congress has adopted the alternate procedure of helping from the top in the expectation that some money may trickle through to the real sufferers. The bill now goes to conference and it is predicted that it will speedily be passed and that Congress will shortly adjourn.

The leading feature of the gigantic appropriation measure is the increase of the Finance Corporation's capital to three billion, eight hundred million dollars, and a provision of three hundred million dollars to be loaned to States for relief work. Not being able to stem the tide of (continued on financial page)

SUSPENDS ROAD WORK IN COUNTIES HOLDING EXEMPTION ELECTIONS

Fifteen Counties Ordering Byrd Law Exemption. Elections Must Await Results.

There will be practically no road work done by the State in counties in which elections have been ordered to decide whether they will exempt themselves from the Byrd road plan between now and ten days after the elections of August 9, it is stated at the Department of Highways. It is also stated that no gasoline tax distribution will be made during that period, which will mean that the various Boards of Supervisors will be lacking road funds.

Counties whose clerks have officially reported the ordering of road plan exemption elections to be held August 9 are Henrico, Chesterfield, New Kent, York, Warwick, James City, Lunenburg, Nelson, Mecklenburg, Nottoway, Northampton, Arlington, Stafford, Orange and Fairfax.

Figures at the tax department offices show that in every county in which an election has been agitated, except Nottoway, the Byrd road law would eliminate county road levies. These levies bear a ratio of 18.42 to the total local taxation burden. Even in counties in which no road levies are imposed, it is pointed out, such counties if exempted from the Byrd road law would lose their share of the $2.

ROOSEVELT-GARNER CLUB IS ORGANIZED AT APPOMATTOX

Selecting as their battle cry: "We surrendered to Grant but we will not surrender to Hoover," a group of residents of Appomattox have organized what they believe to be the first Roosevelt-Garner Club in Virginia, if not the first in the country.

All members of the club, whose sole object is to buoy up enthusiasm for the Democratic nominees and campaign in any way they can afford, are Appomattox people, who live only a short distance from the Appomattox surrender grounds. This accounts for their slogan.

RECOVERING FROM INJURY

Supervisor C. C. Lynn, who was badly cut in an auto smash-up last week, is recuperating at his home near town. The cuts were so deep and severe that thirty stitches were needed to close them.

MR. RATCLIFFE OPTIMISTIC

On being asked about the immediate business outlook, Mr. G. E. Ratcliffe, vice-president of the Peoples National Bank, Manassas, said: "The people in Virginia are far better off than the people of other sections. My belief is that we will slowly slip around to normal before we are aware of it. When we've been sick and are convalescing, we know that sleep helps a whole lot. What we need now is just to evenly go ahead and sleep a little over the hard times and before we realize it the country will be on its feet. It would seem that the worst is over and that conditions will slowly improve."

ANNUAL BULL RUN GRANGE TOURNAMENT AND FIELD DAY

The date for the annual Bull Run Grange Tournament and Field Day has been definitely set for August 18. Plans for the day include a riding tournament, a baseball game, horse-shoe contests, awarding of citizenship diplomas, speaking, and the tournament.

The tournament will be held on the estate of Mrs. Frantz Peters at Haymarket. Several prominent men have been invited to speak and the arrangements committee is making every effort to obtain the Quantico Marine Band to furnish music for the occasion. An outstanding feature of the morning's program will be the awarding of citizenship diplomas to those successful in the examinations given at the tournament and Manassas prior to the tournament. This part of the program will be in charge of Rev. W. L. Carpenter, chairman of the citizenship committee. On the afternoon program will be the charging of the Knights, the tournament, the coronation of the Queen of the Tournament, a baseball game, horse-shoe contests, and other events. The program will close with the tournament ball at the Masonic Hall on the night of August 18.

Bailey Tyler is general chairman of the committee on arrangements. It is expected that the number of riders in the tournament will be large and the field will be open for those practicing for the event before now and the day of the tournament.

NEW YORK DRIVER FINED FOR STRIKING BULL RUN CHILD

James C. Mulligan of New York City has been fined $25 and costs for reckless driving as a consequence of the accident on June 23 when Cecil Lindbergh Schaeffer, 4 years old, of Bull Run, Va., died from injuries received when struck by a car driven by Mulligan.

Mulligan testified before Trial Judge Paul Brown that the child ran suddenly in front of his machine on the Lee Highway.

STATE EMPLOYEES CUT IN PAY

Tomorrow 10% Curtail Will Take Effect in Salaries.

Tomorrow the employees of the Commonwealth of Virginia will have their pay checks slashed ten per cent in accordance with the salary reductions authorized at the last session of the General Assembly. It is estimated that the cut will save the State around $1,025,000. So far the cut has not been applied to teachers' salaries but it has been stated in Richmond that school teachers will be affected before the year is over. The ten per cent cut has even been applied to Confederate pensions.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

Grain Mixtures and Feeding Suggestions for Dairy Herds on Late Pastures.

To anticipate a need and then prepare for it frequently places a man in any business in a commanding position. Therefore, it is not too early now to prepare for the late summer pasture season and the debilitating effects it has upon many dairy herds. Short pastures, flies and declining milk production are likely to mark the late summer and early fall conditions; and they should be guarded against in every way possible.

Cows in milk should be able to procure as much roughage, preferably pasture, as they need in the least possible time in order to maintain the milk flow. Anything that interferes with the quality and quantity of that roughage such as dry, hot weather will of course decrease the milk flow. Hence the importance of supplementing the pastures with silage, hay or sorghum crops and grain. Although it is usually more economical to feed roughage to lower producing cows in supplementing late, mature pastures; nevertheless some grain is needed to give proper ration balance for high producing cows.

It is advisable to feed an 18 to 20 percent crude protein mixture on late pasture. According to present wholesale feed quotations, cottonseed meal, peanut meal and corn gluten feed are the most economical sources of crude protein, while corn, white hominy feed, standard middlings and wheat bran are the most economical sources of total digestible nutrients. Formulate for Home Mixed Grain Concentrates.

GLASS WOULD OUTLAW SALOON

Virginia Senator Introduces Measure Restoring State Control.

Senator Carter Glass introduced a bill in the Senate yesterday proposing a repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment under a plan which would keep the saloon unconstitutional. States that vote wet would have liquor, but inter-state traffic would be forbidden. To become effective the amendment proposed by Senator Glass would have to be ratified by State conventions within seven years. In introducing the measure, Senator Glass stated that it is designed rather to crystallize sentiment in Congress rather than in the expectation of action previous to the national election in November.

PRINCE WILLIAM BOYS WIN ACADEMIC HONORS AT BRIDGEWATER COLLEGE

The roll of honor students for the second semester of the session of 1931-32, recently released by the Dean of Bridgewater College, includes the names of Chester I. Harley and Orville O. Holler. Mr. Harley was on the honor roll for the first semester also. These young men graduated from the Manassas high school with the class of 1931 and entered the freshman class at Bridgewater College in September of the same year. Chester Harley is a son of S. C. Harley, a farmer of Manassas, and a brother of Reverend Samuel A. Harley who graduated at Bridgewater College with the class of 1928. Orville Holler is a son of Otis O. Holler of Manassas, and a brother of Miss Treva Holler, who was an honor graduate at Bridgewater, standing second in her class when she received her degree in June of this year.

Drenching Lambs.

July and August are normally months of heavy stomach worm infestation. Lambs marketed before July usually escape serious trouble but those kept longer should benefit from treatment. Proper dosage and drenching are particularly important in treating lambs.

Statements such as the following are frequently found in market reports being received, "wide divergence of values between good trimmed lambs and undergrades," "medium grades are being neglected," and "undergrades are meeting a very slow demand." The use of good purchased rams will decrease the number of lambs falling in the lower grades. Such rams may be obtained now at prices in line with those received for market lambs.

Information in regard to securing good purebreds will be furnished or drenching demonstrations given upon request to County Agent.

REPUBLICANS PLAN FIGHT IN SEVENTH

G. O. P. leaders in the Seventh Congressional district have announced that the enlarged Seventh district will place a Republican candidate in the field against the present incumbent, Hon. Harry St. George Tucker.

SOUTHERN WRECK AT HARRISONBURG

Defective Switch Causes Smash-Up Last Friday.

The eastbound Southern train on the Harrisonburg branch ran into a defective switch last Friday morning causing a big locomotive to turn over. The crew escaped with severe injuries. The only passenger on the train escaped unhurt.

When the engine turned over the engineer and fireman were covered with coal and although being badly bruised, the coal prevented possible death from steam escaping from broken pipes. The demolished locomotive passed through Manassas Saturday morning.

VA. HOMEMAKERS TO MEET IN BLACKSBURG

July 26, 27 and 28 Set for Annual Session. Notable Speakers to Be Heard. County Women Urged to Attend.

The annual meeting of the Virginia Homemakers Association, which will be held during the last week of July at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, should be of great interest to rural women all over the state. Some four or five hundred delegates, representing women from fifty-two different counties, will meet together to give in reports from their local groups, discuss their problems and hear the excellent speakers who are to appear on the program.

The first day of the convention will be given almost entirely to business matters, with Mrs. W. R. Turner, of Blackstone, presiding. Mrs. Turner has been president of the organization for the past two years and will close her term of office at this time. Following the business session, Dr. McLeslie Moffett, dean of women at Radford State Teachers College, will talk on the "Rural Family and its Relationships."

On Wednesday and Thursday mornings, the Homemakers will meet in joint sessions with the Institute of Rural Affairs. Among the speakers for these days will be Dr. Karl Taylor, of North Carolina; Dr. Hildegard Kneeland, of the Bureau of Home Economics, Washington, D. C.; and Miss Esther McGinnis, of the American Home Economics Association, also of Washington, and John Temple Graves II, of Birmingham, Ala.

A music contest in which county groups compete is one of the interesting features of the program.

Interesting demonstrations will be given each afternoon of the convention by state clothing, food and home improvement specialists. These demonstrations will deal with all phases of homemaking. Even the personal appearance of the homemaker will not be neglected, for the subject, "The Homemaker Remodels Herself" will be discussed from the angle of personal beauty as well as of health.

In all, the program, this year is to be both interesting and helpful. It is hoped that our county women will avail themselves of the opportunity of attending this meeting.

POLLARD CONSIDERS VIRGINIA FINANCIAL MISMANAGEMENTS

Gov. Pollard has arranged a conference for early next week with T. Coleman Andrews, State auditor of public accounts, to determine what action the State could take in regard to mismanagement and in some cases shortages in the financial affairs of some of the counties.

The conditions in half a dozen or more counties, as reported by Mr. Andrews after audits, have alarmed the Governor.

The Governor said that in view of changes made by the amended constitution and recent statutes a careful investigation would have to be made as to the powers of the State, of the State Board of Education and other government officials to take a hand in remedying such conditions as reported by the auditor.

BAKER FAVORED

Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker is again prominently mentioned for president of the University of Virginia.

WILL EXAMINE AUTO DRIVERS

State Officers Will Visit County.

Under the new law all who operate an automobile will be required to secure an individual license, good for use with any car, regardless of ownership. No fee is required and notaries and others taking affidavits are not allowed to charge for this particular service.

All now driving cars are urged to fill out the required blank and forward it to Richmond. Those not now owning and operating cars but who expect to drive at any time will be examined by state traffic officers.

Manassas will be visited by Sergeant P. L. Thornton, of Culpeper, on July 28. The examination will take place at the town. There will be questions on traffic regulations and notation of physical fitness. Youngsters from 14 to 16 will be granted licenses upon written consent of parents. Those from 16 to 18 do not have to secure parents' permission. Beginners include those who have not yet driven 500 miles and they will be examined.

These licenses, it is stated, will be good until June 30, 1934, unless revoked for violation of motor vehicle laws.

All citizens who have any contact with the steering wheel of an automobile, or expect to, should look into the requirements of this new law, and if necessary present themselves for examination.

SMUDGE POTS NOW USED TO PROTECT SETS FROM FROST

Following the example of orange growers who fight frost with fire, Paramount's Hollywood studio resorted to the same expedient to prevent frost damage to an outside garden setting of flowers, used in one of the scenes of the vivid picturization of the well-known stage drama, "The Broken Wing," which will be at the Dixie theatre next week.

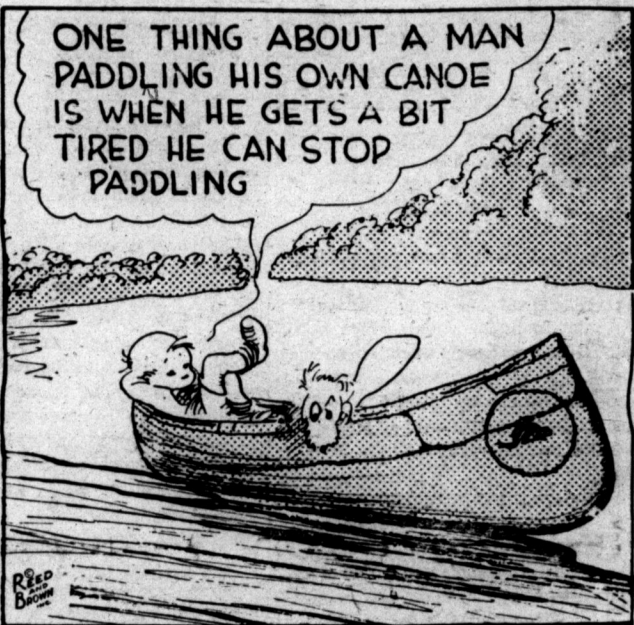

Smudge pots were installed at a ranch, forty miles from Hollywood, and lighted nightly as long as there was danger of frost. The 2670-acre ranch has a much higher elevation than Hollywood, and for that reason grows much colder.

The smudging protected the flowers and shrubs on the hacienda setting used in "The Broken Wing." Strangely enough, cactus, a desert plant that endures almost torrid temperatures, is not easily frost-bitten and needs no protection here.

When Lupe Velez, Leo Carillo, Melvyn Douglas and George Barbier, leading actors in the cast, reported for work one morning at 7:30, the temperature was 18 degrees above zero, which is an average early morning temperature for the time of year.

The original drama was the stage's most ambitious effort to introduce a thrilling airplane crash on the open stage. This thrilling scene was staged a remarkable exhibition of stagecraft and attracted thousands of patrons throughout the country.

America is counting cylinders and

AMERICA PREFERS THE SIX

Since January 1st, buyers have chosen more Chevrolet Sixes than the combined total of all fours and all eights priced below $1000

When buying a low-priced car, do as America is doing: Count cylinders! And you'll say, as America is saying: "SIX! No more. No less!" America counted cylinders and concluded that six is the ideal number for a car of lowest price! No more, because an engine with extra cylinders is bound to cost more for gas, oil and upkeep. No less, because six is the smallest number of cylinders you can have in a car and avoid undesirable effects of inherent vibration.

Free Wheeling, Syncro-Mesh gear-shifting, Fisher bodies—and many other advanced features. Be cylinder-wise! Follow America's lead and make your next low-priced car a six—a Chevrolet Six! Unless you do, you can't expect the smoothness, economy, and lasting satisfaction to which your money rightfully entitles you.

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich. Special equipment extra. Low delivered prices and easy G. M. A. C. terms.

A six, as Chevrolet builds it, is the happy medium between two extremes. No other motor car engine in America today costs so little for gas, oil and upkeep. And it gives you built-in smoothness from 6 miles an hour to 65 or 70.

Because of this smoothness—plus the fact that the whole car is so solidly, ruggedly built—a Chevrolet Six really stands up. It's a good, reliable, economical car the day you buy it... and it keeps on being good, reliable, economical after 5,000—10,000—15,000 miles of driving.

In addition, Chevrolet is a modern car, with

SIX CYLINDERS

NO MORE — NO LESS

For GREATEST ECONOMY and BUILT-IN SMOOTHNESS

With more than six cylinders you sacrifice economy—With less than six cylinders you sacrifice smoothness.

ON STAGE IN PICTURE PLAY

Leo Carillo, stage star for many seasons in "Lombardi, Ltd.," re-enacts his stage role in Paramount's filmization of "The Broken Wing." The picture version of this famous drama comes to the Dixie theatre next Friday, July 22.

As the swaggering bandit who holds captive the aviator forced down near his camp, Carillo joins Lupe Velez and Melvyn Douglas, who have important parts in the cast.

Carillo, who has been dividing his time between the screen and stage, recently closed his engagement in the stage version of "The Broken Wing" at San Francisco, after having played to a long run in Hollywood.

Noted for his work in dialect characterizations, Carillo has been a stage star for many years, his biggest hit having been "Lombardi, Ltd." He recently entered talking films and has just completed the "bad man" role opposite Dolores Del Rio in "The Dove."

I Like The Depression

A friend of ours sent us a newspaper clipping of the following article which is one of the finest bits of depression philosophy that has come to our attention. We are passing it along to you hoping you will get as much of a kick out of it as we did.

"I like the depression. I have time to visit my friends, and make new ones. Two years ago when I went to a neighboring town I always stayed at a hotel. Now I go home with my friends, stay all night and enjoy home cooking. I have even spent the week end with some of the boys who were kind enough to invite me.

It's great to drop into a store and feel that you can spend an hour or two or three or half a day just visiting and not feel that you are wasting valuable time.

Three years ago I was so busy and my wife was so busy that we didn't see much of each other. I never had time to go anywhere with her. If I did go on a party with her, I could never locate her, but since there was always a good looking blonds or a snappy red-head available I didn't worry much about it.

My wife belonged to all the clubs in town. She even joined the young mother's club. We don't have any children but she was studying. And between playing bridge and going to clubs she was never at home.

We got stuck-up and hifalutin. We even took down the old family bed and bought a pair of twin beds—on un-easy payments.

When I would come in at night if my wife was at home she would already be in her bed and I would crawl in mine. If she came in late it was vice versa.

We like the depression. We have come down off our pedestal and are really living at home now. The twin beds have been stored in the garage and the old family affair is being used. We are enjoying life. Instead of taking the hot water bottle to bed these nights she sticks her heels in my back just like she did before Hoover was elected. I like the depression.

I haven't been out to a party in eighteen months. I have even lost my book of telephone numbers. My wife has dropped all the clubs. I am pretty well satisfied with my wife. I think I'll keep her at least until she's 40, and then if I feel like I do now I may trade her for two twenties.

I like the depression. Three years ago I never had time to go to church. I played golf all day Sunday, and besides I was so darned smart there wasn't a preacher in the state who could tell me anything.

Now I'm going to church regularly. Never miss a Sunday.

And if this depression keeps on I may be going to prayer meeting before long."

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST The Word of God BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

THE ONLY SAFE TRUST:—Some trust in chariots, and some in horses; but we will remember the name of the Lord our God.—Psalm 20:7.

DEPRESSION RELIEF

For some months the best minds of the country have been wrestling with the problem of relieving the financial depression which descended first upon the United States and then spread throughout the civilized world.

All kinds of cure-alls have been proposed. The prevailing idea seems to be that because the policies of the Federal Government under the Republican Administration plunged us into the slough, by the same token, Uncle Sam can pull us out.

Acting upon the assumption that Federal aid will do the trick, Congress has been battling for weeks on how to effect the restoration. Democrats say, "Let us help the masses." Republicans reply, "We should aid the classes." The followers of Herbert Hoover would pour the balm in at the top. The Democrats have tried to aid the man in the street. With the Presidential veto in full swing, it has been impossible for the Democratic idea to get a foothold. The Honorable Charles G. Dawes could get eight hundred million dollar for his bank, while the little banks were allowed to fail. The idea at the White House is to give only to "him who hath."

The truth is that the people will have to dig their way out themselves. First they will have to unseat the Administration which has been the patron of stock gambling and big finance, and then with trusted representatives of the people in charge, they will have to work out their salvation through channels of thrift, economy and industry.

THE TIMES WHEN ADVERTISING PAYS

Your business is either going forward or backward. It cannot remain stationary. Let the man who says there is a stagnant middle ground look at his own balance sheets from month to month. No consecutive two tell the same story. Wise men who follow the calling of commerce have found that out. They have discovered also that there are exactly two conditions when advertising is profitable—(1) under the sun of prosperity, (2) in time of economic distress—up grade and down.

On this point Gilbert T. Hughes, president of the Advertising Federation of America, has just announced the result of an interesting study covering the records of 120 corporations over a period of seventeen years. Sixty of these concerns failed to maintain their advertising programs when business began to slow down. A like number, realizing the need of something to raise sales and receipts, increased their space over previous years.

Of the former Mr. Hughes says: "Seventeen years ago every one of the sixty firms in this erratic group was an important national business. Today more than half have lost that position of importance. Many have perished." Of those who placed their faith in the same agency through which business was made to flourish when times were good: "Last year their combined net profits were three times greater than in the comparatively good year of 1915."

Mr. Hughes calls the result of his survey "dramatic testimony to the value of an unbroken advertising policy" that should bring confidence and inspiration to executives who want tangible proof that a courageous program, even in these difficult times, will pay."

The good business man will never confuse investment with expense. Those who curtail their advertising are deliberately narrowing an avenue which common sense and good judgment agree should be broadened.—Charlottesville Progress.

The foregoing editorial very tersely stresses the drastic business need to advertise. Where a merchant, great or small, does not advertise, his business is stagnant. There are a few who are unprogressive enough to believe that they can "get along without it" but these business men, falsely so-called, are few indeed.

Recently, in cutting his budget, a business magnate was asked if he were going to cut his advertising.

"I am cutting my budget," he replied, "not my throat."

States Report Victory in Fight on Bovine TB

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.—WNU Service.)

By completing state-wide tuberculin testing of their cattle and reducing the degree of infection to one-half of 1 per cent, Wisconsin and Ohio have been designated by the United States Department of Agriculture as modified accredited areas. The recognition of these important cattle-breeding and dairy states is a culmination of 13 years' effort during which more than 10,000,000 tuberculin tests were made in Wisconsin and 4,000,000 in Ohio.

Four other states—North Carolina, Maine, Michigan and Indiana—previously freed their herds of this disease. With the addition of Wisconsin and Ohio the tuberculosis-free area of the country is materially increased. Moreover, in the east central region most of the free areas adjoin. Though highly gratified by the rapid progress of bovine-tuberculosis eradication, the co-operating veterinary officials warn that vigilance against the introduction of infection, together with periodic re-testing of herds that have contained reactors, is essential.

Let Live Stock Help

"Let your live stock do the worrying about weed control," is the suggestion of O. H. Nelson, who farms near Kempton, N. D. From solid patches of sow thistle in the 1930 sweet clover field to a clean, weed-free stand of wheat last year is the short story of one field on this farm.

Sheep, horses, and cattle bring profitable returns on Nelson's land by grazing on rotated pastures. During the drought in that section in 1929 the stock grazed the sweet clover pasture closer than usual. Late in the fall the land was plowed and after that followed only the usual spring seed-bed preparation.

Nelson has had other similar experiences in weed control, and believes that with the live stock system of farming, keeping down sow thistle is not such a serious problem.—Successful Farming.

Legumes to Reduce Cost

Facing another lean year in farm returns for 1932, farmers are advised by John Shipper, state extension specialist, to place greater dependence on legume hay to produce their portion feed for live stock feeding. Alfalfa surpasses red clover for western Ohio conditions in larger yield per acre, and also it is 40 per cent richer in protein and minerals. Instead of the common corn wheat-clover rotation he suggests two years of alfalfa following corn and wheat.—Ohio Farmer.

False Economy in Use of Cheap Seeds

Advice Given New Yorkers Applies to All.

(By PROF. E. L. WORTHEN, New York State College of Agriculture.)—WNU Service. Avoid false economy's lure of low prices on alfalfa and clover seed. If necessary, reduce the rate of seeding or the acreage, or both.

By a little better seed bed preparation, the standard rate of seeding for both alfalfa and clover, may be reduced as much as 10, 15, or even 20 per cent. Where clover is seeded on winter wheat, less seed and a light harrowing immediately after seeding may bring as thick a stand as a normal amount of seed. If a mixed seed bed is to be made, get the different seeds and mix them at home.

Make certain that seed is adapted to local conditions for the hardest is none too good for New York's climate. All-red clover seed should be north-grown and either certified or of guaranteed origin. Buy either Grimm, Ontario variegated, or other variegated types of alfalfa and demand either certified seed or a satisfactory guarantee of the source of the seed.

Work Horse Needs and Deserves Proper Care

Correct fitting and proper adjustment of harness is a big step in the elimination of sore shoulders on horses, says the Nebraska College of Agriculture. Cleaning the horse's shoulders following the day's work and again before harnessing in the morning will help prevent sore shoulders.

A properly fitted collar barely allows the flat hand to pass between the collar and the windpipe and permits the finger tips to pass at the side of the neck just above the shoulder points. The harness should fit snugly and be drawn tightly around the collar so that the point of draft will be about one-third of the distance above the shoulder points.

The average farm work horse consumes about 3,000 pounds of grain and 5,000 pounds of roughage yearly. When the horse is doing hard work, the average animal will need approximately 25 bushels of corn or 40 bushels of oats and about a ton of roughage. Hard grains such as wheat, barley, rye, kafir and other small grains may be improved by grinding or rolling.—Nebraska Farmer.

Dosing Wormy Lambs

One of the lamb's worst enemies is the common stomach worm. The animal does not thrive satisfactorily when carrying this parasite, and consequently the farmer loses money. One way to avoid these worms is to change pasture so there will be little danger of the lambs picking up worm eggs deposited on the grass last year by other sheep.

Sheep can be treated for worms with a vermifuge. Some farmers dose each animal with one to four ounces of a 1 per cent copper sulphate solution. This solution is made by dissolving one-fourth pound of copper sulphate in three gallons of water. Ewes receive from two to four ounces, depending on their size, while lambs get one to two ounces. Dose with an ordinary syringe or with the aid of a funnel or small rubber tube. Care should be taken not to lift the sheep's head up, since this may cause strangulation.—Wallace's Farmer.

Clean Ground for Pigs

"I wanted to see whether there was anything to this clean-ground system of raising hogs," said Axel Bergsten of Riley county, Kansas, in Successor Farming. "So a year ago I separated my brood sows into two bunches. One half I left in the lot where I have raised hogs every year and the other half I moved down in the alfalfa field.

"I fixed up an automatic waterer but it didn't work very well, so I had to carry water, but it was worth while. The pigs out on the clean ground grew right away from those fattened in the old lots and at five months of age were from 50 to 75 pounds heavier. Next year every sow I have will farrow on clean ground, as I am fully convinced that it is the only way to raise hogs."

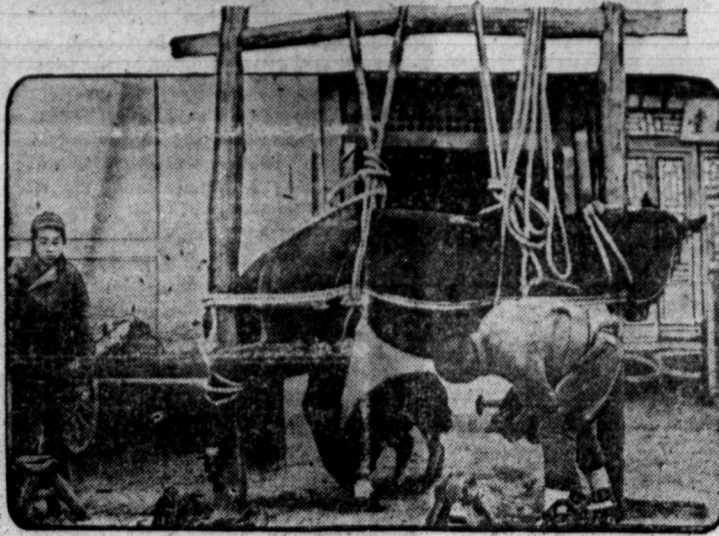

New Hive Queens

New queens will be accepted more readily by old colonies if introduced during the honey flow. The old queen, however, should not be removed until about three weeks prior to the end of the flow or until her bees are no longer of use in the honey flow. The new queen should be introduced and laying about eight weeks before frost. This allows the rearing of young bees for the winter season. Falling queens should be replaced at any time by young, vigorous queens, but care should be exercised to get those of good strains.

Starting Sweet Clover

Sweet clover grew rank along the road by the T. J. Sands farm, Brown county, Kansas, but Mr. Sands couldn't get it started on thin spots in the pasture. Thinking that lack of inoculation might have caused the failure, he hauled a load of dirt from the roadside and threw it down, a shovelful in a place; in the pasture. Plants sprang up wherever the inoculated soil was thrown. In a short time, the whole area was inoculated, and grew clover successfully.—Capper's Farmer.

Tractors Across Asia

Chinese Horsehoers Take No Chances.

(Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)—WNU Service.

After ten months of arduous traveling, thirty members of the Citroen-Haardt Trans-Asiatic expedition have arrived at Peiping, in seven tractor cars.

Twelve of the thirty members of the expedition who arrived at the Chinese city left Beyrouth, Syria, on April 4, 1931. To them the gates of Peiping marked the end of an 8,000-mile journey across Asia.

From withering heat of the deserts of Asia Minor and the plains of north India where the thermometer registers up to 120 degrees above zero, the expedition slowly worked its way over the Himalayan range, across the torrid trails of Sinkiang (Chinese Turkistan) and into Mongolia, where the mercury hovered below zero.

The light tractor cars of the expedition swept across Iraq, Persia, Afghanistan and India with little difficulty. At Srinagar, the members girded themselves for the herculean task of negotiating the passes, to Gilgit mere trails which never before had felt the vibration of a motor. When Gilgit, in the heart of the Himalayan peaks, was reached, the sturdy cars had skirted some of the world's highest peaks, passed through gorges where the road literally hangs to steep cliffs and crossed flimsy bridges which spanned raging streams. Landslides forced route changes and once the dismantling of the cars which were carried by coolies to the clear road a mile beyond.

One pass negotiated by the expedition was nearly three miles above sea level. Beyond Gilgit, the impassable road forced abandonment of the cars. Ponies and yaks carried the leaders of the expedition into Sinkiang where they were met by the second unit of the expedition, composed of heavy tractor cars which had left Peiping when the leaders bade farewell to Beyrouth.

Gilgit trail, once the lair of bandits, was peaceful, and political leaders often feted the expedition leaders. Not until the expedition reached China was it disturbed by marauding tribesmen, who stole their supplies. From day to day the leaders could receive no definite assurance of their safety.

Through Nankow Pass.

Wild mountain ranges hemmed in the old caravan road on the last hundred miles of the trip, and rocky defiles made difficult going for the band-driven cars. In Kaigian, a quaint medieval city known as the Gateway to Mongolia, preparations were made for passing through Nankow pass, a remarkable Thermopylae fifteen miles in length. This great defile drops from the first terrace of mountains to the plains of north China. It was first opened up, according to legend, by deities known as the Five Tiger Ghosts, patrons of artillery, who blew a passage through the rocks with their cannon.

The inner branch of the Great Wall of China crosses the caravan road squarely in the pass but the members of the expedition found that the great wooden gate, which used to be closed at sunset only to reopen at daybreak, has disappeared. The caravan route could not be traveled by ordinary vehicles. Between Nankow pass and Peiping the expedition rolled near China's sacred way, leading to the thirteen tombs of the Ming dynasty, a great roadway lined with gigantic monoliths of men and animals.

Another difficult stretch experienced by the party en route to Peiping was that between Liangchowfu and Ninghsiafu, in China's "Wild West." Because of extremely narrow and hazardous roads, traversed mostly by camels, donkeys and coolies, more than six days were required to make 300 miles. Motor progress was also interrupted by a long ferry trip along the Yellow river.

Arrangements had been made for the deposit at Ninghsiafu of new tractor bands, which serve instead of wheels on the expedition's cars. On arrival, however, it was found that the bands had been taken by brigands while on their way to the city from Peiping. Two camel caravans carrying supplies for the expedition were plundered by rebels in this part of China. The expedition itself was not attacked, and the members were hospitably received by some Chinese officials and by foreign missionaries.

Scientists accompanying the expedition have a unique and comprehensive record of life, customs, occupations, and costumes of tribes and regions which have been little visited since Marco Polo's time. Original plans for the continuation

JOAN BENNETT MADE A STAR AFTER ONE STAGE APPEARANCE

Before she ever gave consideration to becoming a motion picture star, Joan Bennett made her stage debut in New York in "Jarnegan" in which her distinguished father, Richard Bennett, played the leading role. There may have been something significant in the fact that in "Jarnegan" she played the role of a young picture star.

Miss Bennett accepted the role in her father's play without any previous dramatic training, but the tradition of heredity was maintained. Following her first performance, she became an overnight sensation and won the united acclaim of the New York critics.

At the end of the run of her father's play, other producers endeavored to secure Miss Bennett's services for leading roles but, on the advice of her experienced parent, she refused them all.

John W. Considine, jr., Hollywood producer-director, finally induced her to go to Hollywood and play the leading feminine role in "Bulldog Drummond," opposite Ronald Colman. She accepted the suggestion reluctantly, but she has been congratulating herself ever since that she did not refuse. She is now one of the most accomplished and popular leading women in pictures.

Her latest picture is "The Trial of Vivienne Ware," the murder mystery drama, coming to the Dixie theatre next Wednesday.

In "The Trial of Vivienne Ware," Miss Bennett appears as the rich society girl tried on a charge of murdering her former sweetheart.

Federal aid to big business, the Democratic forces in the House forced through a provision compelling the Finance Corporation to publish all loans in an annual report. This provision was adopted by a majority of one vote, Speaker Garner casting the first vote of the session to break the tie.

Democrats were open in their expression of disappointment at the nature of the bill, but felt that it was the best that could be secured in the face of a Presidential veto.

"I hope," said one prominent Congressman, "that hereafter the Finance Corporation will act more judiciously and fairly in the future. It could have saved a number of the thirty-two small banks that failed in Chicago, but when Charles G. Dawes needed money for his bank in Chicago, he got eight hundred million dollars."

Instead of bothering with trick guarantees, phony inducements and special deals, smart car owners ask themselves:

Why buy any SECOND-CHOICE Tire when FIRST-CHOICE costs no more?

Right now you car-owners are "sitting pretty" . . . You can buy more safe, comfortable, trouble-free mileage for a dollar than in any previous summer . . . You don't have to put up with second-choice tires for reasons of economy, because first-choice tires cost you no more! . . . Goodyear Tires—the kind we sell—are first-choice here, throughout the state, throughout the nation, by more than 2 to 1! . . . They outsell all others not because of any trick guarantees, or phony inducements, or special deals, but simply because they give people the biggest money's worth, and people know it! . . . "NIGHT COURT," VIVID DRAMA OF SCANDAL IN JUDGE'S LIFE, COMES TO DIXIE

A powerful drama of circumstances which turned out the home of a happily married young couple into a bedlam of tragedy is told in "Night Court," opening next Monday at the Dixie theatre.

The story, which is based on recent disclosures of political corruption in courts of law, depicts the web of intrigue and injustice which encircles a young taxi driver and his wife when they unwittingly become involved in the "private life" of a well-known night court magistrate.

Because incriminating evidence of the judge's scandal falls into the hands of the chauffeur's wife, she is railroaded to jail on a trumped-up morals charge. The taxi driver, bent on exposing the judge, discovers the latter's implication in a notorious murder charge and uses this information in forcing a confession from the judge relative to his wife's unjust indictment.

Phillips Holmes is featured in the cast as the taxi driver; Walter Huston plays the crooked judge, and Anita Page has the most dramatic role of her career as the frame-up victim. Other prominent players include Lewis Stone, Mary Carlisle, John Miljan, Jean Hersholt, Tully Marshall and Noel Francis. The picture was directed by W. S. Van Dyke, who accomplished such wonders with "Trader Horn" and "Tarzan the Ape Man."

The dramatic material on which the plot is based leaves room for a wide variety of powerful episodes such as the vivid sequence in which the "stool pigeon" forces his entry into the girl's room in order to "frame" her; the gruelling persecution of the taxi driver when he attempts to interfere with court injustice, and the exciting incidents which entail the crooked judge's ultimate downfall.

WHAT THE TREES MEAN TO US

By Blanche McKnight

Those of you who are fortunate enough to live in the Nation's Capital can not fail to forever experience a great delight and civic pride in the many, varied and magnificent trees in the Capitol and White House grounds, public parks and memorial driveways. Since the Capitol grounds, with the possible exception of Lafayette Park and the Botanical Garden, contains more unusual and beautiful trees than any area of its size in the country, we will first take note of some of these interesting trees. At the corner of the Senate Wing stands the majestic Washington Elm, which has won the admiration and praise of many a traveller. This stately old tree often sheltered the First President during the construction of the Capitol Building, and tradition says that Washington often ate his lunch under this tree. At the southeast corner of the House Wing stands another splendid Elm, which is called the Cameron Elm, so called because through the efforts and eloquent oratory of Senator Don Cameron of Pennsylvania the tree was saved from destruction, and a pavement built around its base. There is also a beautiful sugar maple on the Capitol grounds honoring Speaker Champ Clark of Missouri, and another honoring the memory of Senator Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts. Among the outstanding trees attracting attention on the Capitol grounds is a beautiful white birch in the east grounds planted several years ago by the American Forestry Association in honor of the mothers of the nation, and about the same time a similar tree was planted in the White House grounds in honor of the mothers of the Presidents.

At the foot of Capitol Hill, looking due west, is the beautiful Botanic Garden, where the visitor and Washingtonians alike may find many memory trees, such as the Confucius Tree planted in honor of Charles A. Dana, one-time editor of The New York Sun. This tree gnarled and bent like an old-old man, was grown from an acorn that came from a tree growing by the grave of Confucius in China. A beautiful bald cypress stands as a tribute of honor to Edwin Forest, the great tragedian, and there are many other surviving memorial trees to men who gave to their country and to mankind the best that was in them.

Out at the Soldiers' Home in Washington there are two twin cypress trees said to be more than a thousand years old, and beneath the branches of these old trees Thomas Jefferson entertained many of his friends and colleagues. And Baron von Humboldt, the famous German naturalist and explorer, often found a refuge and quiet under these historic old trees.

A tree of great interest in the National Capital is to be found in the center of a tiny Civil War cemetery on Georgia avenue. Under this old tree President Lincoln watched the Battle of Fort Stevens for a while and here many soldiers fell during the battle, and found their last resting place at its roots.

The White House grounds boast of many famous memory trees, for here one finds trees planted by Andrew Jackson, Benjamin Harrison, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson and President Hoover.

And just across the street from the White House is beautiful Lafayette Park, which contains around a hundred different kinds of trees and shrubs, and one exceptionally rare specimen found here is the famous Deodar tree.

Not far from where Connecticut and Florida avenues join together on the grounds of the famous Dean estate, there is an immense and beautiful historic oak known as the "Treaty Oak." This old tree has a fascinating story connected with it and dates back to the early days of Washington, when the old Anacostan Chief, Manacasset, dwelt under this tree. The story goes that many years ago a white woman was taken captive by Manacasset's warriors, and brought to him under this tree. He was so carried away by her beauty that he commanded her to become his squaw. She was most indignant, and flatly refused his heartless demand, whereupon she received a most cruel sentence from the old Chief never to venture beyond the shade of the oak, under pain of death. Later a treaty was entered into and signed for her release under this tree, and hence the name "The Treaty Oak."

If you want to see a picture of serene loveliness and everlasting joy visit Washington during the blossoming of the famous Japanese cherry trees around the Tidal Basin. This blossom ceremony has become a traditional spring rite known throughout the whole nation.

Some one has said that the trees at Mt. Vernon would make a story all by themselves, and it is a fact that no other living things bring us so close to Washington as some of the trees at Mt. Vernon, for they were planted by his own hand, and they were cared for and nurtured by him, and his eyes rested longingly and lovingly upon them. Washington's diary tells of his great love for trees, and he would that he was constantly watching out for trees or shrubs that could be used to beautify his home grounds, and he was also the recipient of many gifts in the shrubbery line. He was a great one for exchanging tree slips with his friends, and today there is a regular grove of friendship of trees at Mt. Vernon. Probably the most famous tree at Mt. Vernon is the magnolia tree planted by Washington himself. Three hemlocks planted by him are still standing, and three gorgeous old box trees still stand as silent sentinels to his memory.

Another outstanding tree at Mt. Vernon is a pecan tree given to Washington by Thomas Jefferson, and planted by him at the side of the mansion. Washington was not only interested in planting and seeing trees grow on his own home grounds, but he was constantly planting trees elsewhere. Once on a surveying trip to Bath, later called Berkeley Springs, W. Va., he planted an American Elm which now bears the inscription; "This tree was planted by George Washington." Then in later years, in his own mother's yard at Fredericksburg he planted thirteen horse chestnut trees which he named for the thirteen states. Only one of these trees now remain as a living tribute to the great man who conferred an honor upon it.

Trees played a major part in the Indian and Revolutionary Wars. The Indian method of warfare in those days was forest warfare, which was so entirely different from the European massed body advance or resistance. When the early settlers of this country first reached our shores, they were unable to successfully combat the Indians due to their method of fighting. However, it was not long before the frontiersmen learned from their red-skinned enemies the art of tree fighting and ambush. That the British soldier was thoroughly ignorant of forest war is poignantly illustrated in the disastrous defeat of General Braddock in 1755. In spite of the warnings of Washington, who was one of his aids, General Braddock marched his army thru the country in a massed body, with gay uniforms and shining arms straight into an ambush of the enemy. The British soldiers were terror-stricken, for while their brave comrades were falling all around, no foe could be seen, and they could only fire wildly at the rocks and trees which hid the savages, and from which the death shots were falling. After General Braddock was mortally wounded Washington rallied the Virginia troops and commanded them to seek the protection of the trees, and it was only by such an act that he was able to save the day and force the English to withdraw. Later in the Revolutionary War it has been said, "that the trees were most friendly to the American cause, and strong allies in the struggle for American Independence," for in battle after battle the influence of this training in fighting among the trees was to be seen in the Continental Army.
