WORLD WAR VETS HOLD MEETING

8th District Council Gathers at Manassas. Breckenridge Talks on Rehabilitation.

With well over a hundred members of the American Legion in this district and their friends as guests, Prince William Post, No. 158, acted as host on Thursday night.

After an excellent party through the town at which time the drum and bugle corps of Alexandria and Arlington Posts functioned perfectly, the group filed into the basement of Grace M. E. church where the ladies had prepared a most delicious supper. A charming group of the young ladies acted as waitresses.

Retiring Commander E. G. Parrish introduced Commonwealth's Attorney Thomas H. Lion who briefly welcomed the visiting Legionnaires.

"It is most fitting," said Mr. Lion, "that you should meet on ground hallowed by the blood of heroes of the past." Citing the causes and unusual circumstances surrounding America's entry into the war, Mr. Lion declared "You set an example of what a nation of free people will do when called upon to defend the right."

Following an invitation, Department Vice-Commander Robert Insko installed the new officers, Herbert S. Carpenter, jr., commander; E. G. Parrish, first vice-commander; H. E. Pickeral, second vice-commander; J. Powers Pullen, adjutant; C. W. Fitzwater, finance officer.

Upon being introduced by Past Commander Parrish, Post Commander Carpenter took charge and introduced the following: Gold Star Mother, Mrs. Fannie Corum; county officials, W. F. Coker, town manager of Manassas and Sheriff J. P. Kerlin; Comrades John W. Hagerty, alternate district committeeman, Eighth District; Sydney Weil, chairman of the Eighth District Council; Charles W. Hanger, vice-chairman of the Eighth District and post commander of Arlington Post, No. 138; H. G. Breckenridge, district committeeman (also charter member of Loudoun Post No. 34, Leesburg; 1st vice-commander of Loudoun Post No. 34, Leesburg; post commander of Loudoun Post No. 34, Leesburg; dept. vice-commander of the State of Virginia, and chairman, state rehabilitation committee); F. Clinton Knight, past department commander; Post Commander King of Alexandria Post, No. 24, and Post Commander Hale of Back Keyes Post, No. 28, of Quantico. Mrs. R. B. English, the most efficient child welfare officer of the Virginia Department, was unable to be present, much to the regret of everyone.

Following the general introductions, the new commander made an earnest appeal for extended membership. His remarks are quoted in part as follows:

"Let me read to you the preamble of the Legion's constitution and it will give you a clear, but concise idea of the principles of the American Legion.

"For God and country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one-hundred percent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

"There is no rank in the Legion and no distinction between home service and foreign service. The Legion is an organization of veterans, run by veterans. Each one has a voice. As a nation-wide organization it is not run by a clique. Its affairs are regulated by its constitution and conducted by the entire membership through its officers.

"But why join a Veterans' Society? Perhaps there is a national desire to perpetuate associations formed under the hardships of war. There is a strength in organization. Individually, we may weigh but little, organized our voice and influence will be as far reaching as our organization.

"The American Legion is not militaristic but it does believe in the maintenance of adequate forces for internal and external national defense.

WILL PORTRAY ANCIENT LIFE

"NIGHT'S PASTURE FIELDS," a most beautiful and elaborate pageant that will emphasize the "joy of living" is to be given at the Second Annual Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festival which is being held in Manassas, September 30. This pageant under the capable direction of Miss Beatrix Clark, rural school supervisor, and executed by the school children of Prince William county, will tell the story of milk in music, masque, and pantomime from ages old to present time.

The pageant will be divided into four episodes, the Egyptian, the Grecian, the English and the Piedmont Virginia. In the opening episode, the Egyptian, the Spirit of Beauty, characterized by Miss Mary Lynch of Manassas high school, will enter with the five muses: music, Elizabeth Marsteller poetry, Hazel Gochenour; dance, Mary Coker; sculpture, Lucy Gibson; painting, Jane Lynn. They will take the center of the stage amid song, poetry and dance. When Beauty calls on Egypt for another muse she presents Health, Miss Elizabeth Davies, who enters in the palanquin carried by Ethiopian slaves and is crowned and robed.

In the second episode of the pageant, the Grecian, first herdsman who called themselves Gopatis, Lord of the Cows, enter first upon the stage. Beauty having received a letter from Health inviting her to the Olympic games inquire of the herdsman the way to Greece and she is directed to travel the path of the Gopatis, "a safe and beautiful road on which to travel for it winds through fertile fields into a land-flowing with milk and honey." When she arrives at the games she is welcomed by Helene. At this point participants in the palanquin appropriately dressed in Grecian costumes come upon the stage. The pentathlon comprises leaping, running, wrestling, discus throwing and throwing the spear all of which sports have been handed down to the present day. They embrace all the works of the athlete—endurance, power, skill, vitality and health. To carry out the full effect of this scene the stage will be arranged with columns, arbors, children with garlands, Grecian dancers and statues.

From here we pass through the centuries of the dark ages when Beauty "hid her face in sorrow" amidst brutal war and bloodshed to the time of the rebirth of art in England in the days of Robin Hood. Here in this third episode we find Health and Beauty meeting at a great Festival where they are shown "a tiny slice of life out of the heart of Merrie England." There before their eyes is enacted a most charming English love story in which Ethelinda, waiting with the queen, inquiries of Duncan, the alchemist, what she can do to be beautiful and is told to drink milk. In this episode the girls of the Fredericksburg State Teachers College will appear first in old-fashioned costumes and then at the close will dance the Minuet.

The fourth and final episode brings the pageant to Piedmont Virginia. "Night," played by Miss Ann Bradford, appears to reign over the pasture fields. Then comes the parade through time—the woodcutters, the tillers of the soil, the sowers, the reapers, tobacco, grass and finally, the inhabitants of the pasture fields, the moon, stars, flowers, fairies, nymphs and butterflies. While the stage is in this position George Washington, father and promoter of agriculture in Piedmont Virginia, who is to be played by Mr. E. R. Conner, will appear. As the spirit of Washington, who fostered and encouraged agriculture in this section, he watches pass before him an evolutionary picture of the development of the dairy industry in Piedmont Virginia. In this procession will be included examples of the first cows imported into this country, carts and covered wagons followed by cows which were seen in Virginia at the latest and most improved breeds of that time and, finally, examples of dairy cows led by uniformed dairymen.

In the finale the chorus of Fredericksburg State Teachers College, led by Miss Epes, will sing "Virginia" and Miss Ellen Bisson who will interpret each episode in the pageant in dance, will come upon the stage as Triumph amid the singing of the "Star-Spangled Banner." This colorful and attractive pageant will take place at 11 o'clock immediately following the coronation exercises and will be a feature attractive enough in itself to make everyone who witnesses it feel that their day has been well spent.

HOSTESSES TO THE QUEEN AND HER COURT

Mrs. J. B. T. Thornton, assisted by her nieces, the four aunts of the queen, Mrs. E. H. Hibbs, Mrs. J. J. Davies, Mrs. H. T. Davies and Mrs. J. Jenkins Davies, are entertaining the queen and her court at a beautifully appointed buffet supper tonight at the spacious residence of Mrs. Thornton.

AIRPLANES TO PLAY BIG PART IN FESTIVAL CELEBRATION

Nothing is being left out in the effort to make the Dairy Festival in Manassas a great success. In addition to the ground celebration, there will be airplanes from various places circling over the town throughout the day.

Three planes are coming from the Mount Vernon School of Aeronautics near Alexandria. They will put on a special aerial circus at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Colonel Popp, head of the school of aeronautics at William and Mary College in Williamsburg, Va., is bringing up two of the school planes and will put on a special aerial exhibition some time during the day.

FESTIVAL DESIGNATED AS BI-CENTENNIAL EVENT

The Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festival, which is to be held in Manassas on September 30, has been designated on the official calendar of the state of Virginia as a Bi-centennial event and shall be the home-coming day for the people of northern Virginia. Arrangements have been made in the planning of the event for the inclusion of certain features which will express the Bi-centennial spirit.

As part of the Bi-centennial idea, the famous Monticello Guards of Charlottesville, Va., attired in their colorful colonial uniforms, will act as guards of honor to the queen. They will be present at all of the events which the queen attends.

A portion of the thirty-five floats which are to take part in the grand feature parade, "The Milky Way," will be the Bi-centennial floats. The Chamber of Commerce in Fairfax, Va., is sending six of these Bi-centennial floats and several other organizations are to have others here.

The streets of the town of Manassas have already been decorated with flags and lights. Part of the decorating is in the festive colors and part of it is done in Bi-centennial colors, flanked by red, white and blue runners and interspersed with American flags.

The marshals who will lead the different divisions of the parade are to be dressed in colonial uniforms. Mr. E. R. Conner and Mr. Melvin C. Hazen who are the chief marshals of the parade have arranged for some twenty-five horsemen of Hunt Clubs of northern Virginia, to perform this part of the celebration. A group of these marshals will lead each section of the parade.

SPECIAL NOTICE

All who by reason of special or official business will find it necessary to get through the line during the festival ceremonies should apply in advance at the office of the Town Manager.

DAIRY FESTIVAL OPENS FRIDAY

Manassas Crowded With Happy Throng.

On the morning of Friday, September 30, will begin the main part of the celebration. Activities will begin with a half-hour concert by the Quantico Marine Band at the scene of the coronation and pageant on the Portner estate. Promptly at 11 o'clock the coronation exercises will begin.

Miss Anne Elizabeth Davies, of Arlington county, Va., who is to occupy the throne as Regina II, Queen of the Piedmont Virginia Dairy Herds, will have as her guard of honor the famous Monticello Guards of Charlottesville, Va., who shall be dressed in their full colonial attire. Another most attractive feature of the Queen's procession will be the girls of the Glee Club from Fredericksburg State Teachers College, who will sing during coronation exercises.

The princesses, one from each of the participating counties and the District of Columbia, who will form a part of the Queen's Court are as follows: Princess-at-large, Miss Hil-da Peck of Floris, Va.; Princess Culpeper, Miss Sally Rattie of Culpeper; Princess Fauquier, Miss Charlotte Brown of Remington; Princess Fairfax, Miss Randolph Richardson of Fairfax; Princess Loudoun, Miss Mary Moore of Aldie; Princess Madison, Miss Louise Kathryn Renolds of Madison; Princess Orange, Miss Hope Robertson of Orange; Princess Prince William, Miss Esther Warren Pattie of Manassas; Princess Rappahannock, Miss Jessie Miller Jones of Washington, Va.; Princess Stafford, Miss Grace Moncre of Stafford Court House; Princess Spotsylvania, Miss Caroline Reid of Fredericksburg, and Princess District of Columbia, Miss Sylvia Meredith of Washington.

Others in the procession will include Reverend A. Stuart Gibson, rector of Dettingen Parish of Manassas, Va. General William D. Mitchell, who will crown the Queen; the two maids of honor, the Misses Catherine Gosnell and Virginia Bushong of Arlington, and the crown bearer, little Miss Anne Leachman Janney, of Alexandria, Va. The train bearers are the Misses Mary Elizabeth Kerfoot and Marjorie Jean Weaver, both from Arlington county.

Following the coronation a pageant, "Night's Pasture Fields," is to be presented by school children from the Prince William county schools. The leading parts in this pageant are to be taken by the Misses Ann Bradford and Mary Lynch, both of Manassas. A specially constructed stage, appropriately decorated and arranged for the presentation, is now under construction at the foot of the historic Indian tower on the Portner estate. Seating accommodations are also being provided here for the comfort of the spectators.

After the reception and luncheon for the Queen and her Court will come the spectacular and impressive parade, "The Milky Way," which will begin at 2:30. The parade will be more than a mile in length and will consume several hours in moving through the town. Each division of the parade will be led by marshals attired in colonial uniforms. Thomas place near Hickory Grove, was in the Journal office Saturday and stated that on August 1, a diamond-back rattler with nine rattles and one button was killed near her house and two weeks later another rattler with six rattles and one button was shot by her husband at their kitchen door.

ESTEEMED COLORED
COUPLE MARRIED

At the home of the bride on South Main street, Mr. Henry Spear and Mrs. Alice Jordan were quietly married at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Rev. W. A. Hall performing the ceremony. Only the kin and intimate friends of the contracting parties were present. They will live in Manassas where the husband has a responsible position with the Southern Railway Company in whose service he has been engaged thirty years.

CATHARPIN

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Alvey visited Garfield hospital on Sunday where they called upon a friend who is undergoing treatment at that institution.

Mrs. Sue C. Swart, who has been in Washington for some time past, has returned to her home near Sudley where she will remain for some weeks recuperating.

Mrs. Keller Grayson and daughter of New Baltimore were callers at the Alvey home, Catharpin, on Friday of last week.

Mrs. A. H. Compton and Mr. and Mrs. Windsor Demain of Alexandria and Miss Nan Cather of Washington attended services at Sudley last Sunday morning.

Many in the neighborhood seem to be suffering from colds and throat trouble presumably augmented if not caused by so much dust which after the passing of a car seems to fill the air like a fog. This section is now suffering from the dry spell of the past few weeks.

Mrs. Jennie McIntosh and son, Luther, took birthday supper with Mr. Palmer Smith and family last Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bradley of Clinton, Md., friends of Mrs. J. W. Alvey, were Sunday visitors at Catharpin on Sunday.

Mr. Walter Polen and Mr. Rossiter of Washington were callers at Lynnhaven last week.

Mrs. Metz and her daughters, Misses Lulu and Grace, her son, Mr. H. Elmer, and her granddaughter, Miss Louise, all of Manassas, were callers at the L. L. Lynn home on Sunday afternoon.

Last week this column said: "Don't miss this," and many did not. We refer to services at Sudley last Sunday morning when the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Swecker, preached from the text, "Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting," applying the ten commandments as the measuring weights. It is doubtful if Sudley ever heard a more far-reaching discourse on any subject. Sudley has never had a year's preaching like unto this one just closing.

Dinah's quilting party set a new record last week when they finished two quilts in one day. About fifteen members of the Sudley Missionary Society accompanied by four fried chickens, salads, sandwiches, pies, cakes, coffee, tomatoes and another thing or two which we have forgotten, assembled at the church and got off to an early start when needles and tongues got busy and everything went merry as a wedding bell all day only stopping long enough to do justice to what might properly be called a banquet had it been served in courses. The "cats" is (or "are" if you prefer) always a great feature of these occasions which occasions all seem to enjoy immensely.

The work of grading and widening the road from Stone House to Catharpin is progressing rapidly and the appearance of the whole neighborhood is being changed and improved. In places the fences had to be taken down which in itself was a relief since many of them were not noted for beauty, neither were they noted for their perpendicularity since the stakes seemed to point in every direction except straight up, and not by any means excluding the horizontal. Some of the old hills with their projecting rock ledges which have been bumped over and hurdled ever since the dawn of creation are now eliminated and the thing was done so easily and quickly that it leaves one in a stupor when he tries to explain why they had never been fixed before. But one redeeming feature of the human race is the fact that we do not stop long to pity ourselves over past events no matter how uncomfortable some of them may have been but willingly trot along under the new regime and make the best of it. The old resident of not more than 20 years ago would hardly know the community in places where he to return the numerous water courses which have furnished the "aquapara" to fill many a carburetor are now flowing peaceably under bridges; hills cut down and hollows filled up and uniform grade established. The only thing now needed is a few donations of land so that corners may be rounded or eliminated entirely; then surely we should be happy.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETIES HOLD MEETING

The Woman's Missionary Societies of the Baptist churches in Group No. 5 will hold an all-day meeting at Broad Run Baptist church near New Baltimore, on Wednesday, Oct. 5. Miss Blanche Sydnor White, who is state corresponding secretary of the W. M. U., will be the principal speaker at this meeting. Miss White is a pleasing and earnest speaker and all who can are urged to attend this meeting.

QUICKSAND A TRAP FOR FILM PLAYER

"Up to his neck in trouble" is the way Bob Custer describes his recent experience while enacting a role for Big 4's "The Scarlet Brand," showing at the Dixie Theatre next Saturday.

The cameras were set up and Custer rode out for half a mile and turned to face the cameras. Within hailing distance, as he galloped forward, J. P. McGowan, the director, his assistant, technicians and crew noticed that Custer and his horse had stopped. They knew that Custer had not fallen—he is far too good a horse man for that! They were apparently sinking!

Custer fired two shots into the air to gain attention; already he was buried to the waist!

An emergency group of ten men, with ropes and other paraphernalia, rushed to help Custer.

NOKESVILLE

Speaking of elections, there is a very important one coming off next Tuesday night, Oct. 4, when the Brentsville District Community Association meets. This is the night when officers and committeemen for the coming year will be selected.

As far as we know all the candidates are running on dripping wet platforms, since they believe, like our illustrious presidential candidates, that the best way to keep men sober is to set liquor before them and invite them to dive in. Our good candidates believe of course that the only way to have perfect law enforcement is to repeal all the laws especially murder laws, prohibition laws, and traffic laws, because they tend to take away the personal liberties of a great number of our good American fools—pardon me—I mean, citizens.

Especially commendable is the belief of our local "office-seekers" that we should take the taxes of the hard-working people and turn it over to any mob of tramps and dead-beats who sit down and patriotically demand that the government bankrupt itself to feed them, because they fought in some ancient war for a month or two. They also believe that the government should be glad to depreciate the value of the American dollar for such a worthy cause and they wish to suggest that the next time our Capitol is visited by such honorable gathering, Congress evacuate all government buildings, including the Capitol and White House, and invite the visitors to make themselves at home. In order that they might have some amusement it would be a good idea to also have all the policemen lined up so that the playful patriots can toss bricks at them.

All jokes aside, folks, there will be important business to discuss and dispose of. President M. J. Shepherd has provided for an hour and a half of extraordinary entertainment by Mr. True of Salem, Va., a magician of the first rank. This program is free of charge. You can't afford to miss such a treat.

THE COST OF BOOZE (contributed)

Dear Sir:—Will you kindly print in your paper an answer to the letter which appeared in The Post of Saturday, Aug. 20, 1932, on whiskey made from one bushel of corn. The following is an estimate of one gallon made from 10 pounds of sugar, five pounds of chicken manure, one can of Red Devil lye, one ounce of kien pepper, one quart of wood alcohol, and sold by bootleggers from 12 years old and up, in our present day.

One gallon of whiskey sold for $28.00 from the above material.
The farmer gets nothing.
The government gets nothing.
The railroads get nothing.
Equipment maker gets nothing.
The drayman gets nothing.
The saloon keeper gets nothing.
The customer gets poisoned.
His wife gets in trouble.
His children go to the bad.

"MILLION DOLLAR LEGS" HITS LAUGH HEIGHTS

Opening next Wednesday, Oct. 5, at the Dixie Theatre is Paramount's Olympiad farce, "Million Dollar Legs," said to be one of the most insanely funny pictures ever filmed. Not even the various comedies in which the Four Marx Brothers have appeared reach so high a pinnacle of sheer, unadorned buffoonery as this picture, according to advance reports.

It is laid in the mythical Republic of Klostokis, where all the men are named Angela and all the men George; where it is a jail offense not to kiss a pretty girl; where the runners are so fast that they trip over frightened rabbits and have to hurdle fleeing deer; where the women are so beautiful that all the men find it totally impossible to keep their minds on their work—except the president, who is a woman-hater.

Jack Oakie, as the "clown prince," is the man who leads Klostokis to a thrilling victory in the Olympics. To W. C. Fields, Andy Clyde, Ben Turpin, Hank Mann, George Barbier, Hugh Herbert and little Dickie Moore—all tried and true farceurs—has been entrusted the rest of the comedy. Such beauties as Lydia Roberti, Susan Fleming, Geneva Mitchell and Nadine Dore cheer on the noble athletes—and how! Edward Cline, whose comedy experience dates back to the days of the old Keystone Kops, directed "Million Dollar Legs."

JOHN STANLEY BARR

Uncle Johnny, as he was known by his many friends, at Dumfries, Va., and elsewhere, died on June 26. Uncle Johnny was born on Dec. 1, 1875.

He entered the Bell System service when a lad of twenty summers and retired on September 1, 1930, after which he continued to live at Dumfries where for twenty-nine he had been stationed as a section line man. As a section line man, he was always ready to serve when the call came.

Now that the last clear call has summoned him, we extend our sympathy to his family.

F. S. Oliver,
Clerk of the Long Lines of the Bell System, a telephone company.

PILGRIMAGE TO CATHEDRAL

On Saturday last, the members and workers of Trinity church school, under the supervision of Superintendent F. R. Hynson and Rev. A. S. Gibson, rector, journeyed to the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul (Mount St. Alban).

On arriving an expert guide took them through the buildings and thoroughly explained everything.

The group also toured the grounds of the cathedral.

In the early afternoon, a picnic lunch was enjoyed in the Zoo grounds. The party viewed the various animal exhibits before returning to Manassas.

It has been just twenty-five years since the Bishop of London came to Virginia as the special guest of Bishop Gibson, father of the rector of Trinity church. While here, he consented to give the address at the dedication ceremonies in connection with the laying of the cornerstone.

VIRGINIA PUBLIC SERVICE DECLARES DIVIDENDS

Dividends on the Preferred Shares of the Virginia Public Service Company for the third quarter, ended September 30, 1932, and payable October 1, 1932, were declared at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the company held in the Alexandria offices, Tuesday, September 27, it was announced Tuesday by F. W. King, executive vice-president.

In making the announcement, Mr. King said, "it is particularly gratifying to announce during these unusual times that the Virginia Public Service Company is able to maintain its unbroken record of regular dividend payments. Extraordinary efforts on the part of the officials and the employees were largely responsible for the maintenance of this excellent standard."

An increase in the kilowatt-hour consumption by the customers of the company, particularly by the textile mills of the territory served, is an indication that perhaps we have reached the point where we can look forward to an upturn in business recovery.

An additional favorable factor, Mr. King mentioned, was the growing use of electricity in the home. The sale of electrical appliances by the company through its own efforts and sales programs in co-operation with the electrical dealers of the territory showed a definite increase during the past two months. A proportionate increase in the coming months is anticipated.

It is a duty to read the Bible, and a right to read the Bible. —Proverbs 1:10

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.

GOD IS GRACIOUS:—Thou

art a God ready to pardon, gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness.—Nehemiah 9: 17.

WELCOME

Tired but happy, the officials of the Piedmont Dairy Festival have brought the second celebration to a successful close. No efforts have been spared to improve the initial enterprise of last year. All that is needed now is a big crowd and a day as pleasant as today.

Now a word to our visitors. It may seem superfluous to say that you may find a cordial welcome. Manassas extends that to you any time. On this special occasion, however, we are particularly glad to see you because you are joining hands with us to promote our most important branch of the farming industry. The town and its stores are open to you. Make yourself as completely at home as those who dwell among us. We hope that some of you will like it so well that you come out and take a hand in the basic industry of mankind.

The second dairy festival will be a thing of the past in another twenty-four hours. May you carry away with you the idea that the officials of the Piedmont Dairy Festival Association are trying to put across, and may its aims and ideals serve to bring your unsolicited aid another year when we have the Third Piedmont Dairy Festival.

ARE THEY WORRIED?

From the time the bonus army was fired from Washington by government armed troops, with the aid of tanks, torch and tear-gas, until the American Legion met in Portland, every attempt made, every word uttered by the President and his distinguished spokesmen, intended to placate the veterans, seemed only to add fuel to the flames of indignation and discontent. The climax came when the Legion, in the face of the President's violent personal protest, by an overwhelming majority voted in favor of demanding immediate payment of the bonus certificates.

Is this situation worrying the administration? Unquestionably it is.

It is realized that should the ex-service men of the country vote at the polls proportionately as their representatives voted at Portland it will constitute a considerable obstacle to overcome.

And added to this is the debacle in Maine, discontent in the Middle West, anarchy on the Pacific coast, and the enthusiasm with which Governor Roosevelt's speeches are being greeted everywhere.

And the New York Evening Post staunchly Republican, admitting that were the election held "tomorrow" the country would undoubtedly go Democratic.

It looks as though the Republican party would have to employ a good many de Priests to spread "whispered tales" before the tide is turned.—Scottsville News.

The first meeting of the music and literary sections of the Manassas Woman's Club met at the Parish Hall Monday, Sept. 26, at 2:30 p.m.

An outline of the year's work, "The Life of America as expressed in Her Songs and Short Stories" was most interestingly presented by Mrs. Walter Sanders who has made a life study of America's short stories.

Mrs. Gibson read "Night with Uncle Remus" by Joel Chandler Harris.

Hot tea was served at the tea table by Mrs. Bradford, Mrs. Broadus and Mrs. Carpenter.

VIRGINIA IS STILL THE HOME OF THE CAVALIERS

MISS ROSE RATCLIFFE.

One of the charming sub-debs of this season. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Ratcliffe of Manassas. Her ancestors came from Dumfries, Scotland, to Dumfries, Va., in the earliest days of the colonies and ever since her family has been actively identified with the social and business life of this section of Virginia. In the days of knighthood the Ratcliffes are frequently mentioned in the annals of chivalry with the Marrs and Duncans.

Much has been said of new people coming into Virginia and the scions of old residents selling their ancestral holdings and moving away but a brief excursion into any section of Virginia gives ample evidence that the controlling influence in the Old Dominion is exercised by the lineal descendants of the original settlers.—Alexandria Herald.

THE MISSES GIBSON.

Daughters of Rev. and Mrs. A. Stuart Gibson of Manassas and granddaughters of the late Bishop Gibson of Virginia. These young ladies are descendants of the Stuarts of Scotland.

CAPT. A. J. PYKE.
With his little granddaughter and her Pekinese.

MISS ELLA JESSE.

Another sub-deb of this area. She is the daughter of Hon. C. T. and Mrs. Jesse of Arlington county. Her lineage goes back through old Fredericksburg to the days of Bonny Prince Charlie and his cavaliers.

FERTILIZING SMALL GRAINS

(Prepared by Agronomy Department, V. P. L.)

It seldom pays to sow small grain in this state without fertilizer. These crops usually follow corn in the rotation, and since corn exhausts the soil of available plant food, small grain seeded after it without fertilizers usually gets a good start and often winter kills badly. An available supply of plant food favors a strong root development, which affords greater resistance to heaving during freezing and thawing of the soil.

If the grain is following a heavily fertilized crop of tobacco or potatoes, it need not be fertilized. On the other hand, when it follows general crops which are only lightly fertilized, fertilizing is entirely in order.

The kind and amount of fertilizer to use will depend upon the soil type and previous treatments. On the heavier clay soils which have been cropped in a good rotation, 200 to 400 pounds of superphosphate should give good results. On the sandy and shaly soils a fertilizer carrying 10 to 12 percent phosphoric acid and 4 to 6 percent potash should be used. On very thin soils, or where no rotation has been followed, a complete fertilizer, such as 12-4-4 or 16-4-4 should be used.

If the grain crop is seeded late, some nitrogen should be used, regardless of the soil type, to help establish the crop before cold weather sets in.

WHAT IS THE LIFE OF A TELEPHONE POLE?

Scientists in the Bell Telephone Laboratories are asking this question. Scientists are curious about so many things. This curiosity has developed the telephone, telegraph and radio—world-wide communication systems that bring pleasure to millions and millions of people daily.

In the operation and maintenance of telephone and telegraph systems poles are necessary to support the great open wire networks serving communities here, there and everywhere. Poles are not inexhaustible and have a limited life. Telephone scientists realizing that longer-lived poles would mean an enormous saving have begun experiments with creosote treated poles in proving grounds at three widely separated places; each being located in an area characteristic of great sections of the country in which telephone poles are used. These testing grounds are at Chester, N. J., Gulfport, Miss., and Limon, Colo., where approximately 1,000 short poles are being given exposure tests to determine their longevity under weather and soil conditions.

The Gulfport station, which was started in 1925, is located a few feet above sea level a short distance from the Gulf of Mexico. Here the conditions existing in swampy marsh lands will test the poles for those areas.

Limon, near Denver, is more than 5,300 feet above sea level, and is a reasonably arid area with corresponding low humidity. There is only an average of fourteen inches of rainfall annually as compared with sixty inches at Gulfport.

Chester is approximately 700 feet above sea level with forty inches of rainfall. The soil in each testing station is entirely different, but is typical of great areas in which poles are maintained.

In the early days of the telephone, poles were cut from trees that were naturally durable and were resistant to the attacks of wood-destroying fungi and insects. Hundreds of thousands of poles of cedar, chestnut, cypress, Douglas fir, juniper and redwood were utilized in lines all over the country without preservative treatment, and according to the engineers, many of them have made excellent life records. With the increased usage of poles and the corresponding scarcity of suitable timber it was necessary with the turn of the century that the art of wood preserving be formulated so this work is being spurred on by economic necessity and for the betterment of commercial enterprise.

DRAMA WELL ACTED

"Downstairs," John Gilbert's latest picture of which he is the author as well as star and in which his fiancée, Virginia Bruce, plays the heroine, is the interesting screen attraction at the Dixie theatre next Friday, Oct. 7.

The picture is noteworthy in that it returns to his fans the Gilbert of "The Big Parade" days—a Gilbert fired by enthusiasm for his own story, giving a dramatic performance as compelling as it is startling. For in "Downstairs" Gilbert has abandoned romantic types to play a villain of the darkest Von Stroheim order, a villain who is probably one of the most unusual but engaging characters yet seen in talkies.

The plot centers about a chauffeur, audacious, good looking and without conscience, who enters a European castle "downstairs" by way of the servants' hall and spread a sinister web of deception, trickery and intrigue that enmeshes the entire household—cook and countess, butler and baron alike.

The story has a particularly powerful climax which takes place in the great wine cellars beneath the castle where the butler wreaks a unique and horrible revenge on the philandering chauffeur in return for the latter's having brought dishonor on his wife. As sheer entertainment "Downstairs" is in a class by itself for this picture combines mystery, humor, tense drama and a terrific surprise finish.

WORLD WAR VETS

"The American Legion is absolutely non-political and non-sectarian. Each member shall perform his full duty as a citizen according to his own conscience and understanding.

"Like every successful organization it takes money to run it. The dues of this post are four dollars a year. Out of this comes a national per capita tax of one dollar, a state department tax of a dollar, and the remainder is for the use of our local post.

"Of the national per capita tax of one dollar, seventy-five cents pays for a year's subscription to the American Legion Monthly, the remaining twenty-five cents goes into the general fund, which is used for the support of Americanism work, etc.

"You will have a voice in the affairs of your post and as a member you will have representation in your department conventions, and in this way you will assist in establishing department policies."

Comrades Insko and Breckenridge were both called on for addresses. The former dealt with membership in the legion as a necessity and as a privilege. His address to the Legionnaires is quoted as herewith:

"A Legionnaire's coming to old Manassas means experiencing reawakened memories of the heroic deeds of America's greatest soldier, George Washington. It is as a soldier I visualize him riding at the head of our first first legion of fighting men, 'The Continental Army.' How well he served his country the whole world knows. At his journey's end, the sounding of taps heralded but the burial of a tired and sick body of a hero. His spirit did not die. It became posterity's heritage, and by posterity down through the years loved, cherished and revered no less than when encased in that manly physique which Divine Providence made the citadel of his soul.

"In a spirit of emulation of the conduct of George Washington as a man, a statesman and a soldier, the 8th District Council comes to Manassas tonight to extend greetings and to join with our comrades in carrying on the work of the American Legion in protecting and promoting the interest of America's ex-service men.

"On foreign soil and in foreign waters the World War was fought. Those of us whom fate decreed should return when peace was declared DID NOT FORGET—CAN NOT FORGET—our buddies who in the Allies' march to victory made the supreme sacrifice. Nor were we indifferent to our own needs in the matter of readjustment to the changed conditions we found on our return. Hence with the realization that the interests of the men of the U. S. fighting forces would be best subserved by co-ordination of ideas and co-operation in their practical execution—the American Legion was organized. It was made exclusively a soldier's outfit, and if the spirit of its founders is respected it will remain so until there is not one comrade left to answer roll-call.

"I do not think it can be said that the American Legion thus far has been unfair or unreasonable in its petitions to the Congress of the United States for enactment of laws creating benefits for ex-service men and their dependents. The American Legion is so organized, I am happy to say, that when finally it has been decided to call on our Government for help, our National Legislative Representatives have had presented to them the result of the combined thought of the entire membership of the American Legion and have been convinced of the justice of our claim.

"Comrades, it is nearly two decades since we were mustered out. Much water has gone over the dam during the intervening years. Many changes have occurred in the lives of us all. What the future is to be for the Legionnaire, his wife, his children, his dependents, we can only guess, imagine, surmise. One thing is certain, membership in the American Legion is a guaranty that he and his dependents shall obtain and enjoy the benefits available under existing laws to ex-service men."

"The American Legion wants and is conducting a nation-wide campaign to have every qualified ex-service in the United States enrolled as one of its members of its Posts located in his community. It is the only way we can hope best determine what the needs of the ex-service men are and what relation they bear to our status as honest, God-fearing, law-abiding citizens of the United States of America. Therefore, I beseech you, comrades, to do your utmost during the ensuing year to bring into your Post the soldiers in your community who, in the World War, on foreign soil and under the Stars and Stripes, fought to help to make 'the world safe for democracy.'"

Mr. Breckenridge's remarks follow: "The American Legion had its birth fourteen years ago out of the flaming cauldron of war. The ideals and purposes of the Legion, whatever it has accomplished, or hopes to accomplish, for the nation through a peace-time program of service, is the work of the same men who marched side by side as comrades in the defense of their flag and country. The entrance of America into the World War brought patriotism of our people to a white heat. The civilian populace wildly applauded the soldiers as they marched by; heads were sacredly bared when old glory past and every man rose to his feet and stood at attention when the band struck up a patriotic air.

H. G. BRECKENRIDGE.

"The men in the service were inspired with this same spirit of patriotism but in a more forceful and pronounced degree. There were giving to their country the greatest service any patriotic citizen can be called upon to give. They went to war to preserve American ideals and traditions and acquitted themselves well, bringing glory to the nation. When the war was over these men came home thoroughly imbued with the real spirit of American democracy. They gained from their war service a high appreciation of what it means to be an American citizen. But more than this—they brought back a vivid realization of the individual obligation which rests upon every citizen to insure the perpetuation of American institutions, established and maintained through the sacrifice of the blood of countless patriots.

"Recognizing the obligation of continued service in time of peace, the veterans set about forming an organization to give practical expression to this new conception of patriotism. With this tenet uppermost in the minds and hearts of veterans, the American Legion was formed for the primary purpose of translating the service its members gave in war into further usefulness in the time of peace. An organized program was formulated and since its conception in 1919 the Legion has engaged in various activities designed to promote a higher type of citizenship and to make America a better land in which to live. There is no organization engaged in a more honorable work than the Legion. It is actuated by the highest of ideals and by an honest desire to serve. The members of the Legion have no selfish motives, no hope of personal gain. Their only reward is the satisfaction that comes with the performance of a worthy deed.

"The Legion button is a mark of distinction. It identifies the veteran not only as one who has given local patriotic service in time of great national peril, but it distinguishes him as an outstanding citizen of the community who has subscribed to the Legion principles and who is willing to give of his time and effort to the furthering of the Legion's splendid objectives. The Legion has firmly established itself as one of the greatest patriotic forces this nation has ever known. As the picture of service in the World War fades more dimly into the past, so it is becoming more and more of an honor to be a member of the organization which is preserving those glorious memories and incidents of the war, prized so highly by every ex-service man."

"There is scarcely a community in the land today which has not in some way benefitted by the service of the Legion. A program of community service which has no precedent in our history was conceived by the Legion and put into practical operation. More than 10,000 Legion posts scattered throughout the country are engaged in carrying on civic betterment projects of all kinds. The program is far reaching, embracing a wide variety of activities. As the result of Legion initiative and leadership, many communities are now enjoying advantages they did not formerly have. This is indeed a vast field for endeavor and offers unlimited possibilities for worth-while accomplishments.

"The one activity which is nearest the hearts of all Legionnaires is the work in behalf of those who still bear the wounds and sickness of war. The care of the disabled has always been the foremost objective of the Legion and it will continue to be until every disabled man has been accorded justice and the best in the power of a grateful government to bestow. The Legion proposes to see that every disabled soldier obtains all the compensation to which he is entitled, that he receives the best of medical care and attention, and that he is given every opportunity to regain a useful place in society.

"Legislation, however, does not operate automatically for the welfare of the disabled man it is only the first step in the Legion's rehabilitation program. The self-appointed task of the Legion is to see that these laws are properly administered pertaining to the ex-service man. This entails a vast amount of labor and expense for many of the claims must be prosecuted individually. Government procedure is often slow and ponderous and months and even years sometimes elapse before the Legion is successful in having the claim of a disabled man satisfactorily adjudicated.

"Soon after its organization the Legion was astonished to learn that the government agencies for relief of the disabled veterans were not functioning properly. An effort was begun which finally terminated in the creation of the United States Veterans Bureau. As a part of this effort the Legion organized its present rehabilitation service which has since aided thousands of veterans in prosecuting their claims for compensation and in obtaining hospital treatment. The rehabilitation service is in current contact with all matters affecting the welfare of the disabled and it has been responsible for many improvements in the government's service.

"Many disabled veterans have been prevented from obtaining government relief because they were without funds, did not know how to go about the prosecution of their claims. Every Legion Post has its own rehabilitation officer whose duty it is to look after all disabled men in that community regardless of whether they are members of the Legion. Whenever a disabled man is found in need the post takes up his case and sees that his claim for compensation is properly presented and that he is provided with hospital care if necessary.

"The World War veteran who is in good health today should be a member of the American Legion if for no other reason than to show his appreciation and give his individual support to the fine work the Legion is carrying on in behalf of his more unfortunate comrades. For most of us the war has been over a long time but we must not forget that there are many veterans whose pain-racked bodies grimly remind them of the fighting every day. The ex-service man who takes out membership in the Legion pledges his aid and makes an individual contribution to this work.

"The Legion's rehabilitation service is becoming more important each year because of the increased demands being made upon it. It might appear to the layman of the uninform that the number of disabled men at this time, fourteen years after the war, would be decreasing. Instead the number of disabled is steadily increasing. The largest increase has been among those suffering from mental illness. It is estimated by experts that the peak of the load has not been reached, and will not be for some time. This means that the Legion's rehabilitation service will have to be correspondingly extended to meet the increased demands for service.

"The National Rehabilitation Committee of the Legion with offices in Washington, D. C., has continued to expand until now has approximately 57 persons. Of these 47 are employed in the Washington office and 10 in the seven field offices. Our Washington office which handles all types of claims and all sorts of inquiries and requests, is now organized into eight sections—Contact and Information, Legal and Insurance, Medical, Records and Files, Emergency Officers Retirement, Policy, Research and Historical, Claims and Administrative. There is a control unit set up in the Claims section which arranges hearing schedules for the various appellate groups of the Veterans Administration, etc.

"The Information and Contact section interviews callers covers the out-of-town cases in the four local government hospitals, and by means of special telephone arrangements direct with all government departments and independent establishments secures information in answer to all sorts of mail inquiries.

"The Legal and Insurance section devotes itself largely to insurance claims and guardianship matters and furnishes necessary legal advice to all sections.

"The Medical section is engaged largely in the presentation of appealed cases wherein involved medical questions are encountered. It also prepares briefs, keeps constant contact with the operation and development of the schedule of disability ratings and advises other sections on all matters.

"Files and Records section has custody of the 70,000 or more case files in the office where all are more or less active.

"The Claims section handles all types of disability compensation, death compensation, disability allowance, adjusted compensation death claims, and routine insurance claims, etc.

"If the American Legion abandoned all of its other activities the service we are rendering to the disabled and their dependents would well justify our existence. Obtaining justice for them is a problem that is ever increasing, and one that requires the constant and alert attention of our organization. This service we call rehabilitation work—it has always been and now is the most important of our activities. It is our greatest responsibility.

"Membership in the American Legion is a priceless privilege—priceless because it can not be obtained by any amount of wealth or influence—a privilege because it is an exclusive right enjoyed only by those who honorably served in the armed forces of the nation in the World War. Yet the Legion belongs to every American citizen as much as the army and navy belonged to them in the war time. As the years pass, membership in the Legion will take on a deeper significance. The Legion is today engaged in a noble movement which is surely bound for success as the homing pigeon is headed for his destination. In future years the Legionnaires will be outstanding in their communities for the good work they have done and for their splendid examples of citizenship.

"The Legion program provides a real challenge for every one who gave military service in the World War. The ex-service man who may be prevented from being actively identified in Legion work should at least pledge his moral support to his buddies in their great endeavor by taking out membership in this organization which is serving his interests. All men who staked their lives for the nation in 1917 and 1918 must again be united for the worthy objectives of peace."

Following Mr. Breckenridge's remarks, the district council convened briefly for a few minutes with the following: Alexandria Post, J. T. Preston and Mark Freeman Quantico Post, Messrs. Stepanof and Lloyd; Clarendon, Messrs. Cline and Weaver. The group elected Herbert Blunt of Alexandria Post as secretary.

The group then adjourned after most profuse thanks to their hosts. During the evening Mrs. Stewart Pattie, Mrs. John Hynson and Miss Eloise Compton sang a series of solos, duets and finally led the crowd in old war songs which were much enjoyed. Mrs. William Leachman played. Molly and Nancy Leachman also gave several numbers that were loudly applauded.

The place of the next council meeting was not fixed although the council said right out that they couldn't find a better place than Manassas. Comrade Insko was commissioned to correspond with several councils and thus fix the definite location.

DAIRY FESTIVAL
OPENS FRIDAY

are to play this part. More than thirty floats, commercial and artistic, are to be entered in the parade. Practically every leading business and all the prominent civic and community organizations in northern Virginia will be represented by a float.

School children from most of the participating counties are to march in the parade. Some of the schools are preparing floats as a part of their participation. A majority of the volunteer fire companies of Piedmont Virginia will be represented in another division of the parade. School, civic and service bands will be interspersed throughout the parading line.

This parade is expected to be the most colorful and exciting part of the celebration and will probably draw the largest part of the crowd. To make the affair complete, the main business street of Manassas is being decorated with flags, banners and strings of electric lights.

The closing and most strikingly beautiful episode of the entire festival is to be the Queen's Ball, at which the Queen and her Court will be in attendance. This is to be held in the Manassas high school gymnasium.
