CLUB PRAISES RETIRING HEAD

Loving Cup Presented to Mr. Hooff.

Manassas Kiwanians ushered in the New Year very, very pleasantly last Friday evening while they were also inducting Dick Hynson into the president's chair. The truth of the matter was that Al Hooff had made such a good executive that the club just had to blow off about it.

For the entire year, right from the first night, President Al had been right on the job, with so much energy and enthusiasm that it rapidly became very contagious. Al is correspondingly modest, so much so that it was about the hardest night he had in his whole career as president of the Manassas Kiwanis Club.

Frank Sigman read what Bob Hutchinson termed "the best report of its kind that he had ever heard." In part we reprint it herewith:

"The Achievement Committee notified President Hooff some time ago that it intended to put the Manassas Kiwanis Club in the CAPITAL DISTRICT Achievement Contest. However, I do not know whether the accompanying report is in accord with the rules of International Kiwanis or not.

"A noteworthy thing as evidence of efficiency is the harmony that exists within the organization and in talking to President Al recently, he expressed himself as deeply and feelingly appreciative of this harmony. So deeply does he feel it that, reluctant as he was in undertaking the presidency, he is almost as reluctant in relinquishing it. He is deeply grateful, too, for the high average attendance of the members. There are very few men who did not embrace every opportunity to be present. Indeed they made every effort to do so. He feels this particularly because he is chairman of the attendance committee of the Capital District and wants Manassas to set a good example to other clubs.

"Another good sign is that in spite of the times, the club has lost very few members, and instead has added three good members. However, it is possible that the treasurer has difficulty in meeting the club's obligations.

"It has seemed the policy of the club to meet only at its regular meeting place. When it has varied from this rule, it has been for a good reason and has secured good results.

"The club has not seemed a club by itself alone, but has kept in touch with its neighboring clubs—Alexandria, Fredericksburg and Washington. President Ed Hill has seemed almost as much a member of this club as of his own and did not usually come unaccompanied, but used his resources for our advantage and pleasure.

"It is hard to see how the plan that is put forward by the program committee—that of dividing the responsibility for the entertainment and instruction of the club among several members each month—can be improved upon. Each little committee feels proud of its work and the little sense of rivalry between the committees and even among the members helps to make the club more efficient. I do not have in mind all the good programs put on, but there were several notable ones and we didn't always have to go outside to get them either. Fire Marshal Lauber of Washington with an almost national reputation spoke on the causes of fires and on the psychology in connection with fires. Dorsey W. Hyde, secretary of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, told us of 'Washington, Your Neighbor City.' He gave us much to think about concerning our national capital. Lieut. Bibby of the USN gave an interesting and historical talk on diving. Edwin F. Hill addressed us concerning the telephone. Being information director of the C. & P. Telephone Company, he knew what he was talking about. His subject was 'Ancient and Modern Methods of Communication.' Harry P. Davis gave us valuable information concerning the 'Trial Justice Plan' of administering justice; members of the faculty of the Swavely School, the president himself, Mr. Gill, Mr. Schwartz and Mr. Leinbach all brought forward valuable and entertaining ideas. Mr. Cocke gave us a talk on civic improvement for our community.

HOOVER CAMP FOR VIRGINIA

President Deeds Rapidan Site to Carson as Trustee.

The gift of President Hoover's Rapidan summer camp to the State of Virginia, ultimately to be incorporated in the Shenandoah National Park, was announced yesterday by Chairman William E. Carson, of the State Commission on Conservation and Development.

The President enclosed with his letter of conveyance a deed to the property situated in Madison County near Luray.

The deed was drawn in Carson's name as trustee to be transferred to the Federal Government as soon as the state is prepared to deliver the park as a whole to the United States.

The Hoover property embraces 208 acres, including the tract where the President's cottages were built and the site of the Hoover mountain school, as well as the 164 acres of fishing preserve.

Receipt by Chairman Carson of the President's deed to the mountain estate made famous by the visit of many high national and world figures marks the culmination of a purpose announced several months ago by Mr. Hoover and previously hinted by him as early as 1929 when he was criticized for using marines from Quantico for certain construction projects on the place.

The summer camp will be incorporated in the Shenandoah National Park and will add another attraction to what bids fair to be the nation's greatest scenic playground.

DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY MEET

Mrs. Gillum, assisted by Mrs. Margaret Lewis and daughter, Miss Katherine, delightfully entertained the Daughters of the Confederacy Wednesday, Jan. 3.

The president, Mrs. Robert Hutchinson, presided and twenty-eight Daughters and two visitors, Mrs. Ryland and Mrs. Lawman of Roanoke, were present. The exercises were opened with the Lord's Prayer, followed by a prayer by Mrs. C. E. Hodges.

After the minutes were approved and the reports of standing committees heard, Miss Nelson reported having sent eight Christmas baskets to veterans and their wives.

Among the letters received, the most valued was one from a Daughter in her ninety-second year, Miss Lou Moxley, a real daughter of the sixties and one of, if not the most loyal daughter of Manassas Chapter.

The important business of the chapter was arranging plans for Jan. 19, Mrs. Richard Hynson being appointed chairman, after which Mrs. Humphrey Hibbs, historian, presented her program, consisting of papers on Lee and Jackson, read by Mrs. Robert Hutchinson and one on Jackson prepared by Mrs. Brown and read by Mrs. Fred Dowell.

As usual refreshments were served which were refreshments by all. The meeting adjourned to be the guests of Mrs. Robert Smith in February.

home of Mrs. C. J. Gillis. The demonstration on "Wholesome Fruit Dishes" will be given by Mrs. John Sweeney and Mrs. Nimrod Lightner, leaders for the foods project. All women of the community are invited to attend the meeting.

LOCAL ATTORNEY WINS TWO CASES

Both of State-Wide Interest.

This morning R. A. Hutchinson, local attorney, received two telegrams from H. Stewart Jones, clerk of the Supreme Court of Virginia, stating that two cases in which he was attorney had been decided in his favor.

The first is a matter of interest to all court clerks throughout the State. Up to last year, clerks had always been paid a fee of ten cents for each name recorded from the list of delinquent land sales which had been verified by the Circuit Court.

Last year, this was refused on a ruling by the Comptroller that the State was not liable inasmuch as there was no longer any state land tax.

The clerks association of the State accepted this ruling and none had filed claims this January. In the meantime, Mr. Hutchinson filed a mandamus last September to force the State to pay Mr. Tyler his 1932 claim. This matter was finally passed on this morning, and hereafter all circuit court clerks will be paid directly from the State treasury for such services.

The other matter in which Mr. Hutchinson was successful grew out of a suit which he and Mr. Dillake filed in behalf of S. W. Whetzel, administrator of Grant Whetzel, one of the four boys killed by a Southern railroad train on the afternoon of March 10, 1929. The opposing counsel were Messrs. John S. Barbour, F. S. McCandlish, Hawes Davies and W. Hill Brown, Jr.

The amount involved in this case was $5,000. It first came to a hearing in June, 1930, but was declared a mistrial after nearly a week's hearing, owing to statements made by one of the jurors.

In October 1930, the circuit court awarded the amount asked for, and Judge McCarthy refused to set aside the verdict of the jury. The matter then went to the Supreme Court where it was heard in March of 1932 before five judges. This court later decided to have a rehearing before the entire bench. This took place in November.

The decision came over wire this morning, and both of the plaintiffs' attorneys are busy accepting congratulations on their hard-won victory.

SALLIE DILLARD LARKIN

A telegram received in Manassas Monday announced the death of Mrs. Sallie Dillard Larkin, widow of W. W. Larkin, a prominent attorney of Lynchburg.

Mrs. Larkin was the daughter of Gen. Terry Dillard of Amherst and a sister of Judge William Dillard.

She is survived by two sons and two daughters, W. W. and Thomas D. of Washington and Misses Dillard and Maude Spotswood of Lynchburg.

Her many friends and relatives here where she has often visited will regret to hear of her demise.

BYRD FOR SENATE CAMPAIGN STARTED

According to Richmond news dispatches, an organized effort to persuade former Governor Harry F. Byrd to become an active candidate for the United States Senate is taking shape in the state.

Meanwhile, the dispatch said, the possibility of Senator Carter Glass being offered the portfolio of Secretary of Treasury appeared to increase, but there remained also the strong possibility that Mr. Glass will choose to remain in the Senate.

Supporters of the Byrd-for-the-Senate movement, the papers said, in all parts of the state are urging the former governor to announce his candidacy now for 1934 when Senator Claude A. Swanson's term expires.

The dispatch states that Senator Swanson may be offered a cabinet post and if so, there is more probability that he will accept than that Mr. Glass or Mr. Byrd would accept a similar offer.

VIRGINIA AUTO TAGS FOR 1933 ON SALE MARCH 15

Virginia 1933 automobile license tags are not on sale and can not under the act of 1932 be placed on sale until March 15, T. McCall Frazier, director of the division of motor vehicles, said.

Mr. Frazier added that the public apparently is well posted upon the fact that the 1932 license period was extended until April 1, and that there have been only a few applications for 1933 licenses. New cars in Virginia are being issued 1932 licenses, the fee being one-fourth the annual fee for the remainder of the period.

Police and motor vehicle authorities of other states have been officially notified that Virginia tags are good until April 1.

Commenting upon the troubles into which some of the citizens of North Carolina found themselves in Virginia and Maryland when their 1932 tags expired while they were away for the holidays, Director Frazier said that no official complaint came from the Carolina authorities on whose information the cars were stopped and temporarily impounded according to law. He said that his records show no evidence that any Carolinians were fined.

After the arrests the Carolina authorities extended their license period from Dec. 31 to Jan. 10.

DOG TAGS

February 1 is the dead line for purchasing dog tags. After that there is a penalty.

State Senator from Louisa County.

ENDOWMENT FOR FORESTRY SCHOOL

Seward Estate of $250,000 Goes to University of Virginia.

By terms of the will of the late Dr. Walter M. Seward, of Brunswick County, Va., his entire estate, valued at $250,000, goes to the Forestry School of the University of Virginia at Charlottesville.

Dr. Seward was a graduate of the Medical School of the University of Virginia. Under terms of his will his entire timberland holdings become available for scientific and demonstration purposes in advancing the science of forestry in Virginia, where so far very little progress has been made.

The Forestry School at the University of Virginia was founded in 1920, but for eight years only offered one course, not largely attended. One term, only six students enrolled for the course. In 1928 a full time professor was secured for the work permitting enlargement of the forestry work to three courses—silva culture, forest management and forest policy. The present bequest will permit Professor Alfred Akerman to greatly enlarge the usefulness of his forestry school.

MARRIAGE RECORD

Jan. 10 — Elden Hale and Roxie Breeding.

Hon. James Hefflin Urges Candidacy of Senator from Louisa.

Forceful Radio Address Last Night Indicates Growing Demand for Worth Smith.

Over the radio from Richmond last night came a forceful address by Hon. James O. Hefflin, of Hopewell, nominating State Senator W. Worth Smith, of Louisa, for Governor. Facts were presented and figures quoted indicating a growing demand for him to become the standard bearer of the great masses of the people of Virginia and to announce his candidacy for Governor.

The address contained so much matter of peculiar interest to the overburdened taxpayer and unemployed citizen, that it is here reproduced in full:

There is an old saying, worthy of full faith and credit, that the power to tax is the power to destroy. The destruction incident to the power to tax is in full progress in Virginia today, and is meeting with but scant recognition. This condition applies with special force and with necessarily disastrous consequences to the tax on real property in the state.

Under the tax segregation system in Virginia all real estate has been segregated or set aside for local tax purposes only, and under the same system other classes of property, which were more easily assessable and more assured of profitable returns were segregated to the state. The state has thus been able to collect its taxes from railroads, franchises, insurance companies, banks, stocks and bonds, money and income, and other like classes, and at the same time demand of the localities that they make a substantial assessment of the valuation of real estate and levy a substantial tax thereon in order to meet local needs and to meet the state's requirements for public school purposes, with the result, partly brought about by hard times, that the localities find themselves in the position of not being able to meet the obligations thus imposed because of non-payment of taxes, with the consequent threat of closed schools. In this connection it is to be borne in mind that the last quinquennial assessment was made before the tremendous decrease in values was experienced in Virginia. I do not wish to be understood as criticizing the so-called segregation system of taxation. In theory it is sound and just. The fault lies in the distortion of its true spirit and intent in its application by the central government in saying to the localities in one breath that it surrenders all real estate for tax purposes to the localities, and in the next breath indirectly laying down the ground rules by which real estate shall be assessed and the tax thereon levied.

Any threatened curtailment of education facilities properly meets with instant opposition of all our people. Illiteracy is to be deplored and avoided almost at any cost. With a complete recognition of this fact and a full realization of its unhappy consequences it is suggested that existing conditions, if allowed to go unchecked, and indeed, in the absence of a prompt and efficient remedy, are pregnant with a danger to our governmental structure far more grave than illiteracy. This latter danger lies in the loss of the homes, real estate holdings and real estate investments of our people through an inequitable and unjust tax burden. The farmer cannot pay his taxes. The real estate owner in our cities and towns is in little better plight.

CATHARPIN

The vicinity of Catharpin certainly has great reason to be thankful for the services rendered by the postman on this route since not a single day was missed during the almost unprecedented fortnight of snow, mud and everything that makes travel disagreeable and hazardous. We wonder just how he did it, but "do it he did."
Probably many have forgotten that the Catharpin route is one of the old
"Star" routes which were established some years ago and which makes deliveries every day in the year except Sundays. All the modern R. F. D.'s make deliveries every day except Sundays and holidays, and since holidays are becoming more and more numerous there are many days upon which the R. F. D. fails to appear;
so we are fortunate to be a "star router and hereby thank the carrier for his very faithful services especially during the past two weeks.

Our "sick list" is steadily improving; roads are being put back in good condition; cars are becoming an every-day occurrence instead of a curiosity; telephone lines are standing up beautifully; so while hibernation was practiced so were also the vocal cords and all is well insofar as we know.

Mr. W. Holmes Robertson has been quite busy of late delivering lambs to market from his flock of over 200 feeders which he had shipped in from Chicago some weeks ago and reports well satisfied with the experiment.

Mrs. Mary Pattle Briggs and little daughter, Patricia, are visiting Mrs.
Jos. H. Swift in Clarendon this week.
Mrs. Nellie Sanders Clary after a two weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs.
J. W. Alvey, and a lively little toss-up of several days with the flu returned to her home in Lawrenceville, Va., last week.

Many truck loads of livestock have left this neighborhood during the past several weeks on their way to Washington or Baltimore for delivery to market. The big trucks of E. B.
Roland & Bros. of Haymarket are very familiar sights these days as they contribute very largely to the traffic of this community. If one were to hark back but a few years he would be amazed at the great change
a short time has made in its traffic.
As late as ten years ago large droves of cattle were seen almost daily as they were driven from train to pasture and from pasture to train for shipment. This is now all changed;
instead of driving miles to the train, loading and waiting several days for delivery to be made, a truck drives up to the barn, loads up such as are ready for market and in a few hours delivery is made, money in pocket and home in time to feed. This new system is much more advantageous to the feeder since he can deliver only such as ready for market without having to make up a car lot of good, bad and indifferent. Many truck loads are composed of cattle, sheep, hogs, with a few chickens, turkeys and perhaps eggs thrown in for good measure; thus the producer is brot into close contact with the market and is saved much delay. It seems everything is in a new transition;
the farmer is closer to market and in a better position than ever before to reap the benefit of his own production. He has everything in abundance and can produce whatever is needed;
the thing now for him to do is to control his own business instead of having someone else to do it for him.
He now has the advantage of the best education right at his door or at the door of the school bus. There is just one more "transition" for him and that is from the "clod-hopper" state to the business man's state which is easily within his reach right at home.

As soon as he can control his own product wisely than he can control his own destiny. We remember very vividly some years ago when Oscar Hutchinson, Joe Lewis, Gus Di Keriga and others would come riding along each wearing one of those huge, high-crowned, broad-rimmed black hats with not a dent to mar the symmetry of brim or crown, to buy cattle, sheep, hogs, or what have you? Almost invariably upon arrival their first remark would be "Well the market was not so good yesterday, hogs and cattle both off." Then we began to get weak in the knees. That is now all changed; buyers no longer visit the neighborhood; delivery is made direct from "farm to market" in many cases by the producer himself in his own truck; thus again an old institution—the cattle buyer—has passed along with the sickle and the grain cradle;
each in his day-needed but modernity has caused him to become obsolete.

IMPROVING

Rev. W. A. Hall is reported as improving slowly, much to the pleasure of his many friends.

DUMFRIES

Mrs. Nora Keys is confined to her room with gripple.

Mrs. W. S. Brawner is improving after several weeks' illness.

Schools have reopened after the holidays. The children seemed happy to again be in harness.

The Woman's Missionary Society
met this week at the home of Mrs.
A. H. Shumate. New officers were installed.

A good many men are getting employment through the new office of Mr. C. C. Cioe on the road construction.

Mrs. Geo. Abel is quite ill. Mrs.
Harry Winfree is still in the Alexandria hospital recovering from a major operation.

SILVER TEA

give a "silver tea" in her new home Friday, Jan. 20, commencing at 7:30 o'clock. Special music will be ar-

START THE NEW YEAR RIGHT

At this time when we all think of "turning over a new leaf," and profiting by past experience, will you consider very carefully the planning of your 1933 cropping system? The successful producer of crops must plan far in advance. This does not mean just from year to year, but also for years to come.

A well-balanced cropping system is the farmer's best aid to economy and profitable production. It is the basis of soil productivity and proper management. Spot the farmers in your community who follow a systematic well-balanced rotation and then compare these farms with those of the haphazard farmer. Can you help but marvel at the difference?

On your new leaf for 1933 bend the list with a resolution to do better and bigger planning with regard to the cropping system on your farm.

"THE MASK OF FU MANCHU"
COMES TO DIXIE THEATRE

"The Mask of Fu Manchu," filmization of Sax Rohmer's famous mystery story with Boris Karloff in the role of the sinister Asiathe wonder-worker, is the attracting coming to the Dixie Theatre next Wednesday.

Thrills of every sort, from the uncanny laboratory where artificial lightning and a mysterious "death ray" are created, to grim Oriental torture chambers are among the bizarre thrills of the plot which starts in the series Limehouse section of London and shifts to Egypt and the Orient.

An important cast appears with Karloff, including Lewis Stone, Karen Morley, Charles Starrett, Myrna Loy, Jean Hersholt, Lawrence Grant and David Torrence. The picture was directed by Charles Brabin who will be remembered for his effective work on "Beast of the City."

The plot of "The Mask of Fu Manchu" deals with the quest of a group of English scientists for the hidden tomb of Ghengis Khan, the great Asiatic ruler who almost conquered Europe. Dr. Fu Manchu also seeks this tomb in order to seize a buried talisman, proclaim himself the reincarnation of the leader and start an Asiatic uprising against Europe.

Nayland Smith, Scotland Yard detective, is pitted against the wily Oriental. Fu Manchu captures and tortures Sir Lionel Barton and the detective who are trying to find the hiding place of the sacred relics. He has a huge robot, controlled by a mysterious ray, which he plans to use in his uprising. The Oriental's daughter becomes infatuated with Terry, the young assistant of the scientist, and through this friendship Fu Manchu is defeated.

The dramatic thrills include the kidnapping of the scientist and his shipment to Shanghai in a mummy case, the weird torture of the bell, the torture of the spiked room, the great Feast of the Mongols, the hurling of the man-made lightning, the test of the sword of Ghengis Khan, the adventures in the strange laboratory of Fu Manchu and the rescue of his victims. Hundreds of extras appear in the many spectacular scenes of the picture.

EXTRA SESSION NECESSARY

There is very little doubt now that an extra session of Congress will have to be called by Franklin Roosevelt shortly after assuming the Presidency. Only the most optimistic could possibly have believed that it would be possible for the "Lame Duck" session to accomplish anything worth while along the lines demanded by the people in the November election. In the whole history of national legislation there is very little on record to the credit of "Lame Duck" achievements.

A large membership of Congress very properly steps out of office at the end of this session. This session has no mandate to carry out and is burdened with too little responsibility. The pity is that we have to have a final session of Congress after a national election. A constitutional amendment doing away with these wasteful and fruitless sessions is now before the legislatures of the various states and its adoption seems highly probable.

The Democracy of America takes charge on March 4. They will find the ship of state in sad condition. It is full of leaks and its supplies of foodstuffs and vital necessities for a long and successful voyage have been sadly plundered by a pirate band, which in its inhuman greed has all but sunk the ship, not appreciating that they also would go down. It will be a gigantic job to restore order and safety, but we will have a man at the helm who is capable of doing all that a great mind and big heart can do in this national emergency and the whole world wishes him success.

A RETURN OF BUYING?

If we may be pardoned for turning for a moment to the commercial aspects of Christmas, it occurs to us that in addition to all its fundamental meanings this season may have ushered in a return to buying. Many people who have gone for several months or years without buying the things to which they were entitled and which they could afford have discovered that buying is not a lost art after all.

The occasion for purchasing gifts for friends has doubtless opened the eyes of many people to the things which the "buyers" offers the wise spender. Many people, we feel certain, have in their quest of holiday gifts discovered things which they wanted for themselves and which they did not know could be obtained at such satisfactory prices. Others have decided that some of their gifts call loudly for other articles. The inevitable ties and socks of the man may call for a new suit or a new hat. The new desk may make a new chair inevitable. And so it goes. Then, of course, there have been cash gifts which must be quickly translated into articles of merchandise. It is not impertinent to hope that this Christmas has meant an increase in consumption generally, for the return of normal conditions depends largely on just such a development. — Petersburg Progress-Index.

To the Farmers of Prince William County:

If you have read The Manassas Journal of January 5, you noticed an ordinance that was proposed and ordered published in accordance with the provisions of Sec. 2743 of the Code of Virginia, 1930, regulating and controlling the operations of hog farms in Prince William County.

Is this ordinance proposed in the interest of a few wealthy visitors or transient residents, whose delicate sensibilities might be offended by many of the smells to which every real "dirt farmer" and his wife must get accustomed? Or is it in the interest of those who have to make their living out of the farm?

Article 1 of this ordinance states that you cannot feed more than fifty swine over three months old, for commercial purposes, on garbage. Could anyone in the hog business feed less than fifty when they are only selling for three cents per pound? With as much poor land as we have in Prince William, I think we should be permitted to feed 5000 hogs if we wanted to do. I have 130 hogs in one feed lot weighing from 60 to 140 pounds which would be valued at about $300. Could I buy grain at the present prices when hogs are 3c per pound and make a profit? It can not be done; but I can buy garbage at $1.50 per ton, delivered, and make a small profit. However, if this regulation is adopted, I will not be permitted to make use of this on 500 acres of waste land which I have been paying taxes on with scarcely any reductions at this time of depression.

Article 2 states that no hog farm shall be located, operated, conducted or maintained within three-fourths of a mile of any residence, place of business, school or etc. unless the operator first obtains the written consent of 75 per cent of the property owners, said consent to be filed with the Board of Supervisors, and they to grant a permit.

This last clause is quite plausible, but in case there were some fanatics or cranks in the locality, what could you do? This matter should be left entirely to the Board of Supervisors, unless it proves to be a nuisance. In this case, the one annoyed will always have some recourse.

Article 3 states that no hog farm shall be operated within 1 mile of a public highway. I think that should depend entirely on the highway, as there are a number of highways over which only a few wagons or cars pass in a day. That should be left to the Supervisors in the district.

Article 4 is perfectly rational. It provides for all garbage to be hauled in water-tight cans or trucks adequately covered which should be done.

Article 5, in my opinion, provides rather severe punishment for violation of any of the above-stated articles: $50 fine, or imprisonment in jail for 30 days, or both, as the magistrate may decide.

I want to say that if all of us were Congressmen, lawyers, doctors, or other professional men, perhaps we would not want to feed hogs, but when the delinquent tax sales are closing in on the taxpayer he should be permitted to feed hogs, skunks, or anything else that he can make an honest livelihood, and the professional men, who are not subjected to the real hardships known so well to working farmers, should lend him a helping hand rather than to handicap and hamper his progress.

The people in Fairfax County who have been feeding hogs have realized considerable money, but now Fairfax is gradually becoming a suburb of Washington, and building up rapidly so let the hog raisers come to Prince William County, take over our waste and, buy our farmers' hogs, fatten them for market, and then buy more that will at least give us a market for our pigs.

I have too much confidence in our board of supervisors than to think that they will allow a law like this to be passed. Let us back them with a good delegation on January 23 and give the taxpayers a chance to express their views relative to this proposed ordinance.

E. R. CONNER.

Editor, Manassas Journal:

I note in your valued publication that the Board of Supervisors is calling a hearing on the proposition of passing an ordinance regulating commercial hog farms.

I think this ought to be done at once. As I see it the present question is more of a garbage disposal problem for the City of Washington than a business enterprise for our local farmers. Only where city garbage can be delivered by rail and handled by necessary machinery can there be any profitable hog feeding from city garbage and such a project holds little or no interest to the average farmer.

Many big cities have ruined the surrounding country for many miles with their nasty garbage disposal schemes, all calculated to get rid of city filth at reduced cost.

I think that a wide-spread knowledge that Prince William hogs are garbage fed would do the county much more harm than the slight profit made by someone favored with an inside contract to feed city filth to unsuspecting hogs.

Nobody in the county feeds hogs in large enough numbers to come under this regulation at this time so far as the writer knows and I believe some kind of an ordinance ought to be passed.

CLUB HEARS NEW POETRY READING

Prof. Swavely Reads New Selections.

The program of the regular meeting of the Manassas Woman's Club was in charge of the Music and Literary Section under the direction of Mrs. Gibson. Mr. Eli Swavely gave as the main part of the program many interesting and humorous readings of "New Poetry." His readings were supplemented by a brief history of the development of poetry since 1400. Mrs. Hatcher, Miss Gladys Ball and Miss Speiden entertained with musical numbers. The Music and Literary Section needs special recognition for their ability in giving to the rest of the club such a delightful program.

The regular business of the meeting was brief. Reports from the chairman of the music section on the success of the community Christmas tree and singing as well as a note of appreciation to all that so willingly helped to make this a noticeable seasonal affair.

Mrs. Waters and Mrs. Johnson were hostesses for the last meeting of the Garden Section at which Mrs. Cooksey gave a talk on "Rock Gardens" from her own experiences.

The Civilian Relief Committee reports the work of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is now under way and its benefits are already being felt. The chairman urged that every member be reluctant in giving money to "house to house" callers for outside charities; for so much is needed, and so worthily distributed here in our own community.

Plans are now under way for a card party to be held at Swavely School Feb. 14 in the evening. Each member and friends that enjoy cards are invited to buy tickets that will soon be on sale.

The tax of fifty cents for the General Federation Council meeting at Richmond is now past due. This tax is being paid to Mrs. R. S. Hynson.

The meeting was adjourned in order and a social hour was enjoyed by all while refreshments were served by the hostesses.

WATERFALL

We're wishing all Journal readers a happy and peaceful New Year. We had a very happy, if somewhat moist, Christmas, up here in our little village at the foot of the Bull Run Mts. Our roads are such an improvement over roads of former years that we are still "on wheels" and in touch with the world.

Bro. V. H. Council preached at old Antioch Sunday morning. His text was Phil. 4:11. "I have learned in whatsoever state I am; therewith to be content." His sermon was most comforting, and just what we need, in these distressing times. We had a unusual congregation, supplemented by several of "our folks" from Washington.

Annie and George. Fish were among our visitors, and later were dinner guests of Flora Smith. Annie's mother, Tillie Pickett, was also a guest, and, I believe, Phil Thornhill was there, too.

Annie has recently been installed worthy matron of her chapter of the Eastern Star. She was dressed in white satin, trimmed in crystal beads, for the occasion, and George, who has a knack of making things, made the gavel and the box for it, out of boxwood from old "Hagley," locust from the Enoch Foley place and walnut from the home of her grandfather, Philip Smith. He carved a reproduction of the home of her maternal grandparents on the lid, which is really good.

Mr. G. W. Shirley, who had a slight illness, just before Christmas, recovered in time to enjoy the holidays. One of his gifts which gave him especial pleasure was a copy of a book, written by his boyhood friend and playmate, C. E. Jordan, now of Panama. The book is largely reminiscences of boyhood days in Haymarket.

Florence Wayland with her two adorable children visited at "Mt. Atlas" during the week. Robert, Jr., on account of his recent arrival, was quite the center of attraction and Norma felt her nose very much out of joint.

Mary Pickett was ill during the week, and "Peggy Anne" was sick too, but both recovered in time to accompany the rest of the family to Nellie's to eat turkey dinner on New Year's day.

The folks at "Hagley" are well, I believe. Bob is recovering from a bad cold, caught from too much frolicking during the holidays. They are caring for a little boy, procured through the Welfare Society at Washington. He's not quite two, and he is pretty, with his big dark eyes and wistful smile. His name is Kenneth Burke, but we call him Billy.

We were shocked, along with the listening world, last Thursday to hear over the radio the announcement of the death of Calvin Coolidge. We liked the dignity of his funeral on Saturday, which was attended by the great of the nation, but we especially liked the simple services on Sunday; after "the captains and the kings" depart and when just the home folks gathered to do him honor; boyhood friends from back in the Vermont hills.

Lowell Thomas told a tale the other night about two "darkies." One said, "Mose, how come you all to be so banged up?" And Mose said, "I was talking when I oughta been listening." So that reminds me I'm talking when I ought to be mailing this letter; so so long 'til next time.

IN MEMORIAM

The mystic mantle of death — Like a shadowy veil Has been drawn over the silent form of Calvin Coolidge . . .

He lies upon his bier — Draped in the flowing robes of immortality . . .

A New Englander by birth . . . Sphinx like in his conversation; Honesty his life's policy — Wisdom garnered from a spiritual sense of justice . . .

Three score years And he gave to the world the best he had . . . Now silent!

Upon the rugged hillside of his much-loved Vermont

Where his beloved forebears rest in the City of the Dead, His earthly form will be pierced by the roots of the gnarled oak, And back to dust from whence he came To mingle with the elements . . . His spirit takes flight And wends its way To the Supreme Power, who said: "Let there be light . . ."

The north, south, east and west, regardless of political opinions, or religious dogma, stand in silence for a moment as a tribute to the Sage of Northampton . . .

"My life's work is done." Calvin Coolidge has joined the immortals . . .

SUMMARY OF ACTIVITIES OF BETHLEHEM HOUSE-KEEPERS CLUB FOR 1932

A pleasant and interesting year was enjoyed, notwithstanding the depression. No members were lost, either by death or transfer of residence.

Outstanding among the club's activities were a Japanese cherry tree presented to the Manassas High School, a generous gift to the library fund, donations of money for shoes for the school children and to needy families for groceries, a prize of $2.50 to Miss Pitts in the 4-H club garden work, five dollars to the Red Cross and garments made for the same cause, fruit and flowers sent to sick members, and three Christmas boxes sent to those in need of cheer.

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me."

HOLDS TAXES DOWN, CUTS NO SALARIES

Fredericksburg Holds Unique Record in Municipal Finance Circles.

Municipal employees and taxpayers alike are shedding no tears over their prospects for 1933.

On the contrary the Fredericksburg, Va., City Council assured them of a "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" by approving a 1933 budget which calls for tax and water rates that remain the lowest in the State, a material reduction in gas rates, and no curtailment in salaries or civic activities. Also encouraging, especially to taxpayers, is the fact that Fredericksburg has a lower percentage of bonded indebtedness than any other Virginia city.

Passage of the budget and the unanimous re-election of L. J. Houston, Jr., as city manager for the fourteenth successive year featured the final 1932 session of the Fredericksburg city fathers. The budget, outlining the expenditure of some $250,000, is but little changed from that of former years.

A $1.50 tax rate on a 50 per cent assessment, or 75 cents on full assessment, was retained, as was the water rate which also is the lowest in the Old Dominion. The rate on gas from the municipality owned City Gas Works was further reduced, making a total cut of 20 cents on gas during the past four years. The present gas rate, city officials, is among the three lowest in the State.

Although reducing the city tax rate 75 cents since the war peak, much in the way of municipal improvements has been accomplished in Fredericksburg during the past fourteen years. A recital of these, reading like a page from "Believe It Or Not," includes inauguration of a garbage and trash collection systems which experts agree is without equal in the United States, erection of a modern incinerator, erection of a filtration plant, asphaltizing of 98 per cent of the city streets, completion of sewage connections to more than 90 per cent of the homes here, construction of a new high school building with gymnasium and auditorium, reconstruction of the gas distribution and water works system, erection of an addition to the City Gas Plant, eliminating an eyesore and nuisance by covering over an open canal and building thereon a new street, erecting a new police court and jail, opening up and paving many new streets in new residential areas, and sundry other improvements of lesser importance.

Despite all these things and the reduction of the tax rate, Fredericksburg also has been able to decrease its bonded indebtedness by more than $200,000. At present the city enjoys a bonded indebtedness of but 3.32 per cent of its assessed value, a record that is unchallenged in Virginia. The municipal indebtedness of other Virginia cities ranges from 6 per cent upward. In order to attain this enviable position for the past fourteen years Fredericksburg has paid into its sinking fund an average of more than 4 per cent annually, as compared with approximately 1.5 per cent elsewhere.

The accomplishing of all these things bespeak a conscientious devotion to public service on the part of the City Council and all of its civic officials and employees.—Times-Dispatch.

Kiwanis Praises Retiring Head

"I should have mentioned Hon. John Gibbs of the National Bicentennial Commission. He said that there was but one country in the world where there have been no Washington celebrations. They are busy with their five-year plans."

Various Kiwanis objectives were observed by the Manassas Club by carefully prepared talks. One on the Constitution as an instance, several on underprivileged children. All-Kiwanis Night was observed at the president's home. Red Cross Night got its usual helpful talks. Kiwanis fittingly celebrated their eighth birthday. There were guests from various points. Of course, Ed Hill was here.

"Another phase of the work of the Manassas Club was the assistance in organizing and backing up the Boy Scouts of the town. A Kiwanis committee is responsible but an old scoutmaster, R. O. Bibb, actually is doing the work. A long column in The Journal is headed 'Farmers' Night a Real Success.' And it was.

"The 4-H Club from Nokesville gave us a good demonstration of what they are doing. The Manassas Fire Department were here at a banquet in honor of the victory gained by the team at Alexandria. In connection with education two things at least need be spoken of aside from our work in 'Kiwanis education' which was taken care of by a member or two. One of these is the definite interest taken by the club in helping to plan the life work of the students in the public schools. Well thought out talks were given at Manassas and at Nokesville. The other is the reception given to and the entertainment given by the graduating class of the Manassas High School. Our visits to other points brought at least one other entertainment here, that from a group at Aden. Armistice night was observed at Linton Hall by well-considered remarks from a local celebrity and from a minister, a Rotarian from Warrenton. It seems as if perhaps unintentionally but actually there was a father and son night in which two young men, one a graduate of the Naval Academy and the other completing his work at college, took a prominent part. The fathers tried to take it casually but it was a good deal of an effort.

"Among the remaining features was the interest taken in the now well-established Dairy Festival. Pictures of prominent members in robes and various regalia, on foot and on horse, got into the rotogravure sections of the metropolitan papers. If it were not for the interest of Kiwanians in this, it just would not go.

"Though money is not as plentiful as mud, several members found it possible and even enjoyable to plough their way to outlying districts to carry Christmas cheer to many children who would otherwise have had no chance to celebrate Christmas. There is no chance and no desire among Manassas Kiwanians to do otherwise at any time in the future.

"The work for underprivileged children deserves and must have a separate and supplementary report. Dr. Marsteller is well prepared to do this.

"Politics did not separate the members into bitter groups as it did perhaps elsewhere.

"Much of the success of the club has been due to the ladies who have acted as sponsors and furnished us with music. Real thanks are due Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. Stewart Pattie and Mrs. Will Leachman.

"No matter what the spirit has been outside the club, in the club there has been joy, cordiality, interest. Kiwanis is to be congratulated on the presidency of Al Hooff. Best wishes to Dick Hynson as he takes the helm."

Just about the time that adjournment was due, O. D. Waters solemnly removed his personage to the right vanguard and Fred Hynson suddenly hefted a large box and fired it at O. D., which O. D. muffed and the said receptacle fell to the floor with a sickening thud and smash of glass. Al turned pale for a second but the grin came right back as O. D. still more solemnly began the march to the center of the box, finally extracting an unusually handsome loving cup, with the club insignia and Al's name engraved thereon. O. D., the new V. P., got off a real nice little speech of presentation, and Dick who was then in the chair called a reluctant adjournment.

Al's last act of office was to ask for committee reports and good responses were made (even though Bob Hutchison insisted that Al had the wrong kind of a growth on his brain).

After all reports were in, Al turned over the badge of office to his old sidekick, Dick Hynson, and the new officer moved over one peg in very good form. He followed Al's precedent by naming all committees at once. They are listed herewith:

MURDERERS PARADISE

Your chances of being slain here in the United States are ten times those of an Englishman, for America now has twelve thousand killings a year, and the rate is rising. What are the causes of this alarming condition? Exaggerated sympathy for killers, lax law enforcement and public indifference are among the explanations put forth by Edmund Pearson, author and student of criminology, in an article in the Magazine of The Washington Star next Sunday, January 15.

Flu, gripe and bad colds have become as familiar expressions as "depression" has been for the past few years. Everybody has got um.

Mr. David Davis died early Thursday morning and was buried from Asbury church on Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Mr. Larrick and Rev. J. R. Frame conducted the funeral service. The body was interred in Valley View cemetery.

Mr. Davis has been a resident for many years and is well known in the county. He is survived by a wife and one child and a number of relatives.

TWELVETREES IN A NEW STAGE ROLE

Helen Twelvrees has, in her new film, gone back to her first love, the Broadway stage. She is a show girl beauty in "Is My Face Red?", the RKO-Radio picture at the Dixie Theatre next Friday, Jan. 20.

Although she does a snappy specialty with a group of handsome song and dance men for the production, her appearance in the stage sequences of the film is brief. Most of the time she is engaged in supplying her gumshoe columnist lover, Ricardo Cortez, with hot gossip and scandal tips and participating in a series of spine tingling adventures with him.

NOMINATES SENATOR SMITH FOR GOVERNOR

The assessment on all real property in the Commonwealth for the year of 1931 exceeded one billion dollars. The tax levy for the same year on the same property exceeded twenty-five million dollars. The delinquent list is steadily increasing and will continue to increase until there is a marked improvement in business conditions. Recently the press of the state carried the story of five hundred farms being listed for sale for delinquent taxes on the first Monday of this month in one of the smallest counties of this state. If this figure is multiplied by one hundred and due consideration given to the fair inference that a large number of farms were sold in the larger counties, and then add to this the parcels sold in the cities and towns, we are confronted with the astounding probability of the sale of seventy-five thousand or one hundred thousand pieces of real property being sold on the second day of January for taxes delinquent for the year 1931. It will be conceded that the delinquent list is increasing every year. What is the inevitable result? Unless some remedy is promptly applied the majority of our citizenry will be disastrously affected within the next four or five years. It is not sufficient to say that times will get better and that these properties may be redeemed from the Commonwealth or the land grabber. Equal consolation might be obtained from an admonition to depend upon fairy stories or Santa Claus, and neither fairies nor Santa Claus pay taxes.

In Virginia there should be no fear of either curtailment of educational facilities or legalized confiscation of the acres which our fathers cleared and tilled. We have always shown ourselves ready and able to meet any emergency, governmental or otherwise. The remedy for the ills from which we are suffering with respect to this tax burden on real estate, which cannot be borne, suggests itself and it is obvious. In the first place there must be a paring of governmental expense and activity, insofar as it operates as a burden on real estate until no further paring can be done, and in the next place there must be a just and proper shifting of the burden to those classes of property which can support it. Every citizen, regardless of his calling, should be interested in effecting this change, because it affects us all and goes to the real foundation of our welfare and progress. The final plan in all of its details and ramifications rests with the legislative body of the state. It would be presumptuous for any member of the General Assembly to advocate his individual idea of a "plan." A real plan, in all of its detailed application, should be the product of the combined thought and study of all of the members of the General Assembly. A movement to this end was recently made by Hon. W. Worth Smith. His suggestion met with considerable opposition on the part of a number of public officials and the present administration who feared the effect of immediate legislative action on their personal fortunes.

Relief from oppressive taxes was only one of many reforms which are sorely needed at this time by the people. Because of Senator Smith's stand on these public matters many requests have made to him to be a candidate for Governor of Virginia in the coming election. If no other reform than the one suggested is accompanied by him, his choice as Governor would be fully justified. His position with respect to the immediate adoption of necessary changes in existing laws to effect the savings of $300,000.00 annually in the public school system suggested by Doctor Hall, and the saving of approximately $750,000.00 annually as suggested by the Norris Committee further warrant his selection. In his public utterances he has mentioned changes and reforms which would effectuate an annual saving to the Virginia taxpayer, (principally the real estate owner) of about $2,000,000.00. He has recently declared in no uncertain terms that the people of Virginia are entitled to a new deal and this belief, unless all signs fail, is shared by a large majority of the people of Virginia, who not only believe a new deal is needed but who will doubtless join Senator Smith in an earnest and enthusiastic effort to bring it about.

And I now call upon him to become the standard bearer of the great masses of the people of this state and announce his candidacy for the Governorship.

COMEDY TWIST LIGHTENS NEW MURDER MOVIE

"Guilty as Hell," a murder story with a comedy twist to it, opens next Monday at the Dixie Theatre with Edmund Lowe, Victor Lagien and Richard Arlen in the starring roles.

It is an adaptation of the successful stage play of the same title which enjoyed a long run on Broadway last season.

Lowe and McLaglen, the battling pals of "What Price Glory," "The Cockeyed World" and "Women of All Nations," have the same types of role in "Guilty as Hell"—but they're not in the army, this time. Lowe is cast as a police reporter and McLaglen as a detective.

The picture opens with the murder of a woman. The audience sees the crime and the man who commits it. But Lowe and McLaglen, called in on the case, don't. The many bungles they make before finally straightening matters up produce many comedy situations.

Arlen is in the role of a young man, intimate with the slain woman before her death, who faces death by hanging, as a mass of circumstantial evidence piles up against him.

Adrienne Ames, socialite who turned to the movies has the leading feminine role.

Bank Statements Show Improving Conditions

Prince William in Better Condition.

Reports of the various banks of Prince William County published this week confirm the prevalent impression that business is definitely on the upturn. Increased earnings and general deposits show conclusively that the year 1932 was decidedly ahead of 1931 and sufficiently ahead as to indicate very little probability of any further decline.

Moreover the conservative policies adopted by the banking institutions to meet the necessities of the destructive depression which swept through the country and spread to foreign lands, have so impressed conservative business men in many lines of enterprise, that similar economies and retrenchments have been widely put into operation and have been found so desirable that their continuation after resumption of more normal conditions is most probable, on account of the greater margins of safety attained and the increased field of usefulness made possible.

There is plenty of money in Prince William. The accompanying bank statements definitely witness this outstanding fact. There naturally continues a decided conservatism in the matter of putting this money into circulation, but the fact that it is here insures a stability to all of our local enterprises far outclassing many less fortunate communities in other sections of the country.

HOOVER URGES BANKRUPTCY REFORM

President Hoover has made urgent recommendations to Congress for reform of the bankruptcy laws, whereby persons unable to pay would be given an extension arrangement and allowed an installment plan of paying creditors. The consent of the majority of the creditors, under the plan, would bind the minority and prevent them from closing up the business to the greater loss of all.

POLLARD CONFERRING WITH STATE HEADS

Governor Pollard called state department and institution heads to meet with him Monday on the matter of applying the ten per cent cut in appropriations ordered by the Chief Executive to become effective on January 1.

The conference was called to consider the various suggestions as to how the reduction should be applied. These suggestions, asked by the Governor, recognize that in some cases the entire ten per cent reduction must be absorbed by payrolls, while in other cases the reductions may be absorbed without affecting salaries.

It is apparent, that the Governor said, that no iron-clad rule is applicable to all the department. Conditions are too varied for that, he pointed out.

STATE BORROWS $500,000, BUT SAVES MONEY

Virginia is going to make money by borrowing some.

The state has borrowed $500,000 from the American Bank and Trust Company of Richmond, to tide the commonwealth over until automobile license taxes, previously paid by January 1, are paid this year by April 1. The loan carries an interest rate of 1.75 per cent.

Statutes require that state money be deposited at an interest rate of not less than two per cent, and therefore the unique situation arises that the state will be paying 1.75 per cent for the money, but when the loan is deposited it will draw at least two per cent.

The state received bids on the loan, some of them being as low as .87 per cent interest, but members of the board of sinking fund commissioners said they were not accompanied by assurances of giving security for state deposits required by law.

Fiscal officers said that while state revenues have fallen off greatly, the main reason for the four-month loan was the extension by the General Assembly of the date for payment of automobile license taxes.

U. S. TREASURY REPORT

Treasury receipts for January 9 were $8,809,480.98; expenditures, $41,019,142.50; balance, $459,488,181.20. Customs duties for nine days of January were $5,368,718.18.

PAY CUT AT UNIV. OF VA.

Faculty members and employees of the University of Virginia have received notice from Acting President John Lloyd Newcomb of a 5 per cent salary cut which has been made effective with the new year.

FEDERAL GOV'T HOLDS AXE OVER VA. FARMERS

Baltimore Land Bank Holds $39,293,633.

Information recently disclosed by the Federal Farm Loan Bureau in Washington indicate that unless some special legislation is enacted, the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore will be likely to become Virginia's most extensive, if not most beloved, landholder.

Although extensions have been granted to about one-fifth of the loans maturing, the figures indicate that unless suitable measures are substituted, wholesale foreclosures are in prospect.

The farm loan Bureau's report showed 11,160 loans of an unexpired balance of $25,256,769 outstanding in the State on November 30.

On the same date, 2,158 extensions totaling $405,373 had been granted. A total of 142 loans, aggregating $421,000 were granted during the first eleven months of 1932.

From the date of the Baltimore bank's establishment to November 30, the bureau said, a total of 14,481 loans were granted in Virginia in the aggregate sum of $39,293,633.

In connection with the granting of extensions, Paul Bestor, farm loan commissioner, also said:

"It should be stated that the banks are carrying thousands of borrowers with whom specific extension agreements have not been entered into, and the total obligations of borrowers now being carried by the banks, including both extended and unextended obligations is substantially larger than the $25,000,000 fund."

GO TOGETHER!

1933 will bring bigger returns to those who go forward prudently but confidently and courageously than to those who are held back by excessive timidity.

Let's make this a better year by having and showing faith in our neighbors, our community, our country. Opportunities are always open to those of clear vision, confidence, and determination.
