REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

State Ticket Nominated at Lynchburg.

Headed by District Chairman W. W. Trusler, of Manassas, the local delegation attended the State Republican convention at Lynchburg, July 3 and 4, and assisted in selection of Republican nominees for the state offices to be voted upon next November.

The outstanding features of the convention were the nominations of Henry A. Wise for Senator, Fred McWane for Governor, Howell Royal for Lieutenant Governor, and Clarence Ahalt for Attorney General.

In the matter of platform, the convention endorsed repeal, with legalization of beer, favoring the Anderson plan of control, in case Virginia should vote for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Another outstanding plank of the platform is the adoption of a sales tax.

In his keynote speech, Henry W. Anderson directed his attack upon the election laws, the state tax system, high governmental costs, abolition of poll tax, reduction of taxes and he favored reduction of the membership of the General Assembly 50 per cent.

Accompanying Eighth district chairman, W. E. Trusler, from Manassas, were A. H. Roseberry, Warner Lewis and Noah Dove.

MAYHUGH SCORES FOR MANASSAS

Mason Mayhugh came off with the glory of Manassas at the Orange Firemen's meet on Tuesday, winning the one-man hook-up.

The day was perfect and a large squad went up to take part in the exercises.

Competition was even keener this year and the local company fell a little behind the remarkable showing made last year.

NORTHERN VIRGINIA GETS ROAD MONEY

Million Dollars For Culpeper District.

Hon. H. G. Shirley, State Highway Commissioner, has just stated that around a million dollars will be allotted to the Culpeper Road District, which includes Prince William County. The appropriation comes from the $7,500,000 industrial recovery fund of the Federal Government.

While no detailed information has been made public it is believed that a substantial portion of the money will go for the connection between the Arlington Memorial Bridge and the Lee Highway in Arlington County and the widening of the Jefferson Davis Highway in the vicinity of Alexandria.

MOVE TO PRESERVE

DRUG STORE

A move is on foot to preserve Leadbeaters Drug Store in Alexandria, founded in 1792, which has been closed since the death of Dr. Leadbeater a few months ago. The property is to be sold July 19, together with its historic relics, and collectors are very much interested.

The annual battlefield picnic will be held on the Bull Run Battlefield Friday, July 21, and will be an all-day session. Hon. John W. Rust, State Senator, will have charge of the program.

MACKS TAKE ON SEWANEE A. C.

Play on Swavelly Field Sunday; Play Haymarket at Haymarket on July 12.

The Sewanee A. C. of Washington will come here this Sunday to play the Macks. Very little is known about the strength of this team, except that the strong Ocoquan A. C. took them into camp earlier in the season.

Manager Bob Adamson seems confident that his charges will be able to take the measure of the "Sewanee River" boys from the banks of the Potomac. But you can never tell how strong an amateur team is going to be until the game is under way. For, the Eagles of Alexandria, whom the Macks were administering a sound drubbing Sunday before last, came back with a new flock last Sunday. The Macks thought that they would see a few familiar faces returning, but it was a very few. The Eagles were what is known as "loaded" when they got here last Sunday. And, what a whale of a difference it made! They just simply weren't the same team. It wasn't simply a case of better baseball playing, but, rather, of better baseball players.

When rain came in the first of the sixth, the Macks were on the short end of a 5-2 score, partly due to some ragged playing by the Mack fielders. Buss Polen was proving himself the same old masterful pitcher, but the team was suffering one of those slumping periods when everything they did seemed to go wrong. They were trying, but to no avail. But, next Sunday should tell a different story.

WILL VISIT ADEN COMMUNITY

Kiwanis Club to Be Entertained There.

The Kiwanis Club will go to Aden for its regular meeting this week, the place of assembly being the school house at that point. The 4-H club has promised to put on the program. Last week, Ed Conner closed his successful month by introducing Revs. Ryland, pastor of the Baptist church, and Goodwin, who has just concluded a very successful revival meeting here.

Mr. Goodwin spoke a little briefly but in a very interesting manner. It developed that he is a native of the county, being reared in Brentsville District.

HINE-CLARKSON

A marriage of much interest to many of this community took place at Trinity church, Vero Beach, Fla., at high noon on Wednesday, June 28, when Miss Mary Cordelia Clarkson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Sayre Clarkson, became the bride of Mr. Donald Franklin Hine, son of Mrs. F. E. Hine of Hemstead, Long Island.

White oleanders and periwinkles massed about the altar and chancel and the soft light of tall cathedral candles made an effective setting for the ceremony, which was most impressively performed by the Rev. J. Mitchell Taylor, rector of the church.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was lovely in her wedding gown of soft, white mousseline de soie, made on princess lines with short puffed sleeves, the skirt being gored with flare effect, and was floor length. Her veil of tulle was arranged in cap shape with a band of orange blossoms at the back, and fell in soft folds to the hem of her dress. Her flowers were water lilies and ferns. Mrs. Merrill Barber and Elizabeth Clarkson attended the sister as matron and maid of honor. Mrs. Barber wearing a gown of sheer white mousseline de soie with a delicate tracing of green, a small hat of white organdie and organdie gloves. She carried an arm bouquet of varicolored flowers. The maid of honor wore a girlish dress of Nile green organdie and carried a round bouquet of Shasta daisies.

The bridesmaids were Miss Ella Posey of Mobile, Ala., and Miss Josephine Hine of New York. Their gowns were of green and white organdie, organdie gloves with large cuffs and small organdie hats completed their costumes. They carried round bouquets of Shasta daisies. The ushers were Dr. E. B. Hardee and Mr. Merrill Barber. The groom had as his best man Mr. Robert Irwin of Boston, Mass.

There was a pre-nuptial program of organ selections and "O Perfect Son" was sung. Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches were used. Immediately following the ceremony a beautifully appointed breakfast was served to the bridal party and a few intimate friends at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Merrill Barber.

Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Hine left for their wedding trip to Havana, Mrs. Hine wearing a stylish costume of dark blue georgette with a small blue hat. Upon their return they will make their home at Garden City, N. Y.

The bride is affectionately remembered here, as a little girl, and is the granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Henry M. Clarkson. She was graduated from the high school of Penacola, after which she entered the Woman's College at Tallahassee, Fla., from which she was graduated in 1930, and is a member of the Sigma Kappa Sorority.

Mr. Hine comes from a very prominent family of Milford, Conn., and is a graduate of Yale University. The Clarkson family were among our best known and most popular residents, and it is hoped may ultimately return to their home here. They have made many friends in their Florida home, and prior to her marriage the bride had many charmingly arranged entertainments given in her honor.

A PROSPERITY HEN

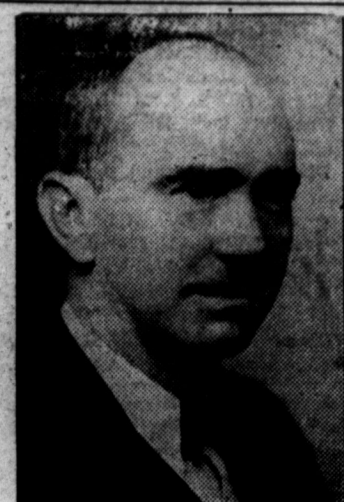

Mr. W. N. Merchant has a two-year-old Plymouth Rock hen whom he recently suspected of having a stolen nest. One morning she came up for feeding with twelve thrifty chicks. Wishing to bring her back to the chicken yard he carefully watched where she went with her brood and he found her headed for an overturned empty barrel. Peeping in the barrel he saw five eggs. Next morning she showed up with seventeen fat chicks and stayed around the house with her brood. She had gone back to hatch out the other five eggs. Mr. Merchant calls her his prosperity hen.

ORDERS FEDERAL PAY CUT CONTINUED

President Roosevelt yesterday ordered the 15 per cent pay cut imposed on Government employes from April 1 to June 30, continued until January 1.

He announced his decision was based on a study of Labor Department living cost figures.

At the time the cut was imposed, it was stated that should living costs increase sharply before July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year, there would be a modification of the cut.

State Senator W. Worth Smith, jr., will speak over Radio Station WJSV this evening at 9:00. The speech will last one-half hour and will cover the essential features of his platform.

Senator Smith Wins Fight for Emergency Legislation.

August 17 Set for Extra Session.

Governor Pollard has called a special session of the General Assembly of Virginia to meet August 17 for the purpose of enacting emergency legislation, particularly to legalize the sale of beer in Virginia and to set up the necessary machinery for holding a referendum on the question of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Since the inauguration of President Roosevelt, Senator Worth Smith has insisted upon the calling of a special session. On a number of occasions the Governor has issued statements declining to call the legislature, but rising insistence, particularly on account of the huge losses of revenue and business, has finally reached such proportions that the call has come.

The date, set at August 17, is said to be chosen in order to permit Governor Pollard to attend the Conference of Governors in California, of which he is chairman.

Two-thirds of the membership of each branch of the General Assembly petitioned the Governor and a majority have stated that they favor limiting the work to legalization of beer, authorization of a referendum on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, participation in the Roosevelt Public Works program, and emergency legislation recommended by the Governor.

PREPARATIONS MADE FOR STATE FIRE MEET

Sherwood T. Brockwell, North Carolina state fire marshal and an instructor at the University of Maryland fire college, has accepted an invitation to attend the conventions of Virginia State Firemen's Association and the State Fire Chiefs' Association of Virginia, which will be held in Harrisonburg on August 8, 9, 10 and 11.

Brockwell, a recognized authority on modern fire-fighting, will confer while here with members of the committee in charge of the organization of the 18 fire schools throughout the state that will be established by the League of Virginia Municipalities.

Other well-known authorities on fire fighting who will speak before the convention include Chief Howard Travers of the Baltimore, Md., Fire Department and Harold Baumes of the League of Virginia Municipalities. Chief Ross Davis of the Philadelphia Fire Department has also been invited to attend the convention and will probably be on hand.

For the past several weeks reservations have been pouring in and the committee in charge of arrangements expects this year's convention to be one of the largest of its kind ever held. At date 15 companies in the association, six bands and four drum and bugle corps have already made reservations and filed application blanks. Many companies from the Cumberland Valley Association are also expected to attend due to the fact that attractive prizes are being offered.

Mayor F. H. Wheeler, of Clifton Forge, is president of the Virginia State Firemen's Association and Chief R. S. Baughm, of the Norfolk Fire Department, is president of the State Fire Chiefs' Association of Virginia.

VIEWS OF COUNTY CHILDREN TAKEN BY RED CROSS NURSE

This little group, too, should all have been immunized against diphtheria. The two with touled hair have beautiful curls when nicely combed but the picture was taken just before the Saturday bath. They all get a good bath at least once a week, though some of our county children do not. The nurse always enjoys a visit to their house.

This little fellow who loves his kitty so much wants only a chance to do something in the world. He showed considerable spunk when he had to have anti-toxin injected with a big needle under his shoulder because his older brother had diphtheria. If the children in this family had been immunized against diphtheria before they were a year old this would not have been necessary.

The two babies in this picture are cousins. The one on the right is nearly a year older than the other. She is lively and full of mischief but has always been tiny. The little girl in the background is a little Beginner this year. The Kiwanis Club took care of an operation which prevents her going into school with a crippled right hand.
