GOVERNOR HILL PRAISES CLUB

Describes Interesting Trip to Grand Canyon.

In commending the Manassas Kiwanis club members for their diversified activities which have made "this community a better place in which to live," Edwin F. Hill, Washington, D. C., governor of the Capital District, Kiwanis International, said "no recovery act is necessary in this area where there seems to have been no depression in Kiwanis service."

The officers and members of the club were praised for their interest in underprivileged child activities, vocational guidance, boys and girls work, improving citizenship, and creating a more friendly understanding between all citizens—rural and urban.

Activities such as these make men proud of their Kiwanis membership and encourage them to reach greater heights of service, the speaker said. Such activities, Governor Hill pointed out, are typical of Kiwanis clubs of the Capital district which includes Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

President Richard S. Hynson and the other officers were complimented for their efficiency in preparing and mailing reports promptly which, the speaker said, is of great benefit to the International and District secretaries. For the first six months of this year, the Capital district has led all other districts in being 100 per cent perfect in reports.

Officers and members of the local club were urged by Governor Hill to be present at the fifteenth anniversary organization meeting of the Capital district, which will be held as a field day at Bay Ridge, Md., August 29. When the district was organized in 1918, Mr. Hill said, there were only two clubs—Washington and Baltimore—in this area. Today there are fifty clubs, he said.

Proceedings of the recent international convention in Los Angeles were disclosed to the local club by Governor Hill. The convention, he said, was one of the most interesting international meetings of recent years.

Convention activities, according to Mr. Hill, were divided into four groups comprising different-sized club memberships. Inspirational speakers in charge of each group informed the officers and delegates on diversified subjects and gave those present a better insight into how they could best carry on these objectives in the areas served by the nearly 1,900 clubs in the United States and Canada.

Resolutions were passed unanimously by the officers and delegates of the convention, Governor Hill stated, indorsing war on narcotics, eradication of radicals and racketeers as twin evils, maintenance of adequate educational facilities, movements for adjustment of young people to present-day social and commercial conditions, and the promotion of closer relationship of country and town.

Capital district officers, the speaker said, were greatly pleased to have had the largest delegation at the convention from any district east of the Mississippi River. There were 37 officers, delegates and ladies present from the District of Columbia, Virginia, Delaware and Maryland. The Washington, D. C., club was awarded a banner for having the largest number traveling the greatest distance. That club, Mr. Hill said, was represented by seven people who traveled a total of 47,288 miles.

The Capital district delegation participated in a meeting at the Grand Canyon which was the first Kiwanis group ever to conduct a meeting in this great cathedral of nature. This meeting was held under the authority of the Kiwanis International Board of Trustees so that the members could keep up their attendance by attending an actual meeting en route to the convention.

Mr. Hill described the Grand Canyon as the greatest spectacle of nature that he had ever witnessed. The Grand Canyon, he stated, is a part of the Grand Canyon National Park, which was created by an act of Congress, February 26, 1919. This park includes 1,009 square miles through which the Colorado River flows for a distance of 105 miles. The canyon is from four to eighteen miles in width and is more than one mile deep, measured from the north rim, which averages more than 1,000 feet high-

RETURNS FROM CLERKS' MEETING

George G. Tyler, county clerk, was a prominent figure at the clerks' meeting which was held at Fredericksburg during the latter part of last week. Mr. Tyler says that he most enjoyed the talk given by Judge Embrey on the history of Fredericksburg and vicinity.

W. E. Elmore, of Lawrenceville, was elected president for the next year.

DAIRY FESTIVAL GAINS HEADWAY

Prospects Are Good for A Very Successful Event.

Plans for the Third Annual Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festival are rapidly progressing, and all indications seem to show that the festival, which will be held at Manassas on September 30, will again be a great success. Replies to letters and requests which have been mailed to various parts of the State indicate that there is a great deal of interest in the festival this year, and that whole-hearted co-operation may be expected. From Williamsburg the festival authorities have been notified that the College of William and Mary will probably again participate in the event and send to Manassas for the occasion several planes from its aeronautical school. The Alexandria Chamber of Commerce has notified Managing Director Cox that the Alexandria Dairy Products Co. and the Virginia-Maid Ice Cream Co. are being requested to enter floats in the great "Milky Way" parade. From the same source it has been learned that the matter of participation of the National Guard Company is to be taken up with the Captain of that organization.

The public will also be delighted to learn that the Richmond Blues have been invited to be present this year, and that they have accepted, and indicated a desire to send the entire battalion composed of 300 men. No one who saw the festival in 1931 can forget the impressive showing made by the Blues.

Managing Director Cox has also been in communication with a prominent firm of decorators of Chicago who will have a man in Manassas to handle the floats and other phases of the great parade which will be held.

NEW PASTOR FOR MANASSAS

The Presbyterians of Manassas and Clifton met in their respective churches Monday evening to choose a pastor for the two churches. The united ballot of the two congregations showed that Rev. John M. DeChant, of Philadelphia, had received a large majority of the votes cast. A formal call will be extended to him.

At the home of Mr. Frank G. Sigman a joint meeting of the sessions of two churches worked out a plan for services at these two towns and at Minnieville.

VISITING IN MISSISSIPPI

Mr. William Leachman is in Mississippi where he has joined Mrs. Leachman and the children who are visiting at her old home. They will return shortly.

er than the south rim.

The northern rim of the canyon is forested with trees and vegetation typical of southern Canada. The trees are pine, fir and spruce with glades of quaking aspen. The southern rim, according to Mr. Hill, has semi-tropical vegetation with yellow pine forests predominating the timbered areas.

The Grand Canyon, Mr. Hill said, was first discovered in 1540 by a party of twelve Spaniards on an expedition from Mexico. The first Americans to visit the Grand Canyon were a beaver trapper and his father, who viewed it in 1826. In 1888 a government party explored part of the canyon region and in 1899 a Maj. J. W. Powell made the first successful boat trip down the Colorado River, passing through the canyon.

SCHOOLS AND ROADS

While Virginia's public school system languishes in the depression which threatens sixty-two counties with school terms of less than a minimum of eight months, the State road program advances into the present fiscal year with a normal amount of funds and automobile taxes continue to hold their own in the face of declines everywhere else in State revenue sources.

This situation is sheer anomaly. Here we see two of the central government's chief functions operating at widely divergent levels and entirely because road funds are segregated and schools must be supported out of the general fund.

The problem is really deeper than a question of schools and roads. It is really a question of general fund activities versus segregated accounts which, it must be called, have grown far beyond what the framers of the original law ever expected.

With the growth of receipts from automobile taxes there has been an almost proportionate decline in general fund receipts—especially those from the tax on railroad gross receipts. Time was when the traveler rode the trains and as a result paid money into the general fund of the State. Now he uses his automobile and pays the tax into a segregated fund for a highly specialized service. Unless he falls within State income tax levels, this motorist citizen pays nothing directly to the support of general fund services which he enjoys.

Here is the key to the school situation; namely, that segregated funds in Virginia have gradually been drawing money from the general fund, and the State begins perforce to look for additional sources of revenue with which to carry out functions as important, if not more important, than the building of roads or the regulating of traffic on the highways.

To say that motor vehicle revenues should be used solely for the benefit of highway users is to argue that income tax collections should be spent by the State solely for the benefit of citizens with larger income. The State is a political and social unit and should not attempt to limit its services solely to those groups who pay the taxes.

The time is here now for the General Assembly to take stock of its central government tax structure and to guard against the mushroom growth of specialized services at the expense of other and equally important services.

What has been the occasion for Governor Pollard's economy order which had reduced the purchasing power to State employees to bare necessities and, in several departments, threatened the continuation of a minimum of service? Certainly not a decline in motor vehicle revenues. The occasion for this extreme economy program—which, incidentally, is open to serious doubt—is the falling off of general fund revenues.

State taxes must be considered as a unit and the services rendered by the central government should be regarded in the terms of their social value. To select from these services a single one and build a legal fence around it is bad government to the degree that such discrimination harms other activities to which the government is committed.

As matters stand at present, Virginia is ready to proceed on an annual road program with practically the same amount of money she had for such a purpose in 1929, whereas the public school system, lacking only $700,000, must face the year with the assurance that 62 per cent of her localities will be unable to provide even a minimum term of school.

Does this mean that roads are more important than a child's education? What answer to this question do members of the General Assembly have? —Times-Dispatch.

(The editors of The Journal thoroughly agree with this scholarly exposition from the Richmond paper. We said some of these things ourselves but we said them prior to August 1, because we were not afraid to open our mouths and speak.)

RESIGNATION REGRETTED

Judge McCarthy has reluctantly accepted the resignation of Judge Wheatley Johnson, of the Domestic Relations and Juvenile Court. Judge Johnson has given the county a great deal of valuable work but feels that he can no longer devote so much effort to the work of the office. A successor will not be appointed until the October term of court.

LARGE CROWD AT DEDICATION

Ceremony at Aden Greatly Enjoyed.

The dedication of the Calvary United Brethren church at Aden took place according to announcement on last Sunday. The cloudy day and the spirit of expectancy generated over long weeks of preparation, brought together more than 600 people for the occasion.

The Sunday school conducted by Superintendent L. J. Bowman, with an overflowing attendance, began the day. The morning worship service followed, with a message by the Rev. James W. Wright, D. D., originally of this vicinity, now pastor of the First United Brethren church, Harrisonburg, Va. After the morning service, a sumptuous dinner, provided by the community, was served in the basement of the new church. The dedicatory service proper was directed by the Rev. U. P. Hovemale, superintendent of the Virginia Conference, who brought the message of dedication preceding the ceremony. The services of the day were concluded with a message by the Rev. J. W. Brill, who was pastor when the former church, recently destroyed by fire, was dedicated.

The cost of the new building was approximately $1,920.00, all excepting about $540.00 being provided before the day of dedication. The liberal contributions and pledges on dedication day were sufficient to reduce the unprovided deficit to less than $100.00. Thanks are due not alone to the splendid building committee and to the local community, but to many citizens of Manassas and elsewhere, and to other people and groups not of our own communion, whose tolerant and liberal spirit made this achievement possible.

The building was begun under the pastorate of the Rev. A. L. Maiden, Ph.D., and completed under the ministry of the present pastor, the Rev. O. R. Kesner.

The dedication is being followed by a series of evangelistic messages by the Rev. Carl W. Hiser, pastor of the South Branch Circuit, Petersburg, W. Va.

HARRY M. LOVE ASSUMES DUTIES AT MANASSAS

Successor to Prof. Pullen Begins Agricultural Work.

Prof. Harry M. Love, who succeeds Prof. Pullen as agricultural instructor in the high schools of Manassas and Nokesville, has assumed his duties here and already has made many friends. Of pleasing personality and splendid scholarship, he will bring to the boys of Prince William County a friend who is intently interested in their welfare and success as future farmers.

Professor Love comes to us from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, where he occupied a responsible place on the faculty. He is a native of Lunenburg County and holds the degrees of Bachelor of Science and Master of Science, the latter having been conferred upon him last year.

He will have charge of the agricultural instruction in the high schools of Manassas and Nokesville and will also supervise the summer projects of his pupils. Under the plan each boy during the summer will be supervised in the application of the theories studied during the winter. The school studies are grouped around the supervised summer practice projects. This makes it necessary for all agricultural students to be able to have facilities for practical summer farming.

The Journal joins the county in extending a cordial welcome and in wishing him a successful and happy experience among us.

Canoes are paddling around the lower streets of Alexandria today as a result of yesterday's big storm.

MERCHANTS ADOPT CLOSING HOURS

8 A.M. to 6 P.M. with Saturday Closing at 10:30.

Gasoline Can Now Be Purchased in Manassas All Day Sunday.

Beginning last Monday morning the retail merchants of Manassas put into effect a uniform schedule of opening and closing their places of business. The time of opening will be 8 a.m. and of closing 6 p.m. except on Saturdays when they will remain open until 10:30. It is hoped that stores in the surrounding communities will also adopt a similar schedule.

The gasoline filling stations of Manassas have also perfected a plan so that gas can be purchased all day Sunday. The filling stations will take turn about keeping open Sundays. Under this plan one station will always be open that day and all the rest closed. The closed stations will post notices stating what concern will be open that day. For example, last Sunday Hynson & Bradford was open. This next Sunday B. C. Cornwell will do Sunday service and the other firms will follow in succession. These are Pence Motor Co., Minute Service Station, Manassas Service Station, Peoples Garage and then Hynson & Bradford again.

POLLARD PLAN IS REJECTED

October 3 Set for State Referendum on Repeal.

Without a single vote to the contrary the General Assembly of Virginia yesterday voted to hold the state referendum on Repeal on October 3. The delegates elected at this time will meet on October 25 to act on the question of ratifying the Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

If committee sentiment is to be taken as any indication of the attitude of the General Assembly, the plan advanced by Governor Pollard will be flatly rejected by the legislature. Other signs of apparent revolt against the Governor's proposals as outlined in his recent message are evidenced in the refusal of the committee to approve the $500 bond idea. However, the finance committee has retained the Governor's high tax proposal and has approved the excise tax of $3.10 per barrel on beer and one cent per bottle. Such a high tax is being opposed, particularly in northern Virginia. It is argued that this would take beer out of the popular-priced drink class and thus greatly reduce the amount of revenue that has been predicted.

In opposing Governor Pollard, several members have voiced the opinion that the legislature itself should guide the direction of the legislation to be enacted because the session was called over the strenuous objection of the Governor, who, it is argued, is not in sympathy with the prevailing viewpoint of the majority.

BENEFIT DANCE

A benefit dance will be given under auspices of the Catholic Women's Club of Prince William County on Monday, Sept. 4, at Conner's Hall in Manassas. Chaperones will be in attendance. An eight-piece orchestra has been secured. A door prize will be given and the dancing will be from 9:30 to 1:30.

CATHARPIN

The mothers of the Catharpin neighborhood are busy this week canning soup mixtures for lunch-hour use in the school during the coming term. Glass cans have been delivered at Alvey's store where they may be had at any time. The soup idea seems very popular as a health measure and is being generally adopted.
Then again, one never knows just where a "beginning may end." For the past year or two we have heard so much about "soup lines" and the millions who receive daily rations thereat and are dependent upon them.
This, then, may be the "stitch in time" to get them accustomed to it against the recurrence of these periodical depressions which seem sure to happen once or twice during one's lifetime. There's nothing like getting ready for things.

Mrs. Lelia C. Akers of Rock Hill
and Mrs. Etta P. Lynn of Catharpin, grandmother and granddaughter respectively, visited Washington last Sunday to make their official call upon Joyce Elaine, the new baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade T. Akers of that city. Congratulations are now in order and while bestowing them upon the parents do not forget the above "grand"-relatives who are just about as crazy over the newcomer as the parents themselves.

Mr. R. L. Anderson and daughter,
Dora, and Mr. C. H. Akers and family were among those who attended the O F A picnic on the Glatly farm last week.

Mr. Morris Polen has accepted the position of clerk in Alvey's store vice Homer Kidwell resigned to accept a position in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lynn and daughter, Elizabeth, visited Mrs.
Lynn's mother and other relatives in Manassas on Sunday.

The Woman's Missionary Society held its regular meeting at the church on Thursday last and about completed plans for the annual bazaar to be held late in October; the exact date not yet fully decided. This annual affair has always been the public event of the year and has become widely known and patronized by many from a distance. Last year Washington sent us over forty and our own County Seat friends never fail to brighten the occasion by their presence. It is hoped this year's event shall contribute as much to the social affairs of the neighborhood as to the financial affairs of the society; in fact the "social" side is as much an objective as the "financial." So all are invited to come and enjoy the occasion with us.

Things as they come about sometimes sound a little funny. For instance when the half-gallon glass jars were delivered at Catharpin for use as soup-mixture containers for the children it was explained that the Government furnished them free of charge but that they all would have to be cleaned since "some of them had been used for whiskey and the odor was still on them." This may sound a little strange to some and yet to others it might be all right.
From the present State-wide hurry to "undo" the amendment might just be the "popular" thing to put a little whiskey or beer into the children's soup mixture in order to acclimatize them to its use. Well, maybe yes! maybe no!

On Friday night last Catharpin turned out in full force to hear the Wheat Reduction program discussed.

This subject, like all other new things, has been cussed and discussed by all and singular of the farm population ever since the dailies carried the information that the Government was trying in some way to help the present depressed condition of all farm returns generally. The speaker of the evening was Prof. Harry M.
Love, instructor of vocational agriculture at the Manassas High School, who did an excellent job of it. So much depends upon the way a thing is presented as to possible results, but in this particular case the speaker was well chosen and if present indications mean anything, results will follow. Prof. Love's presentation of the marketing situation in general and of the world's wheat market in particular was so lucid and understandable that all who heard him have a far better, broader and more comprehensive knowledge of things than they ever had before. It is just such instructive talks as this one was that are so badly needed by our farm folk to keep them posted on the general "status quo" of things as they pertain to their line of activity. May we be able to hear more of them.

Mrs. E. N. Pattie and her daughter, Katharine, have been somewhat indisposed during the past week but much better as we now write.

There will be no preaching at Sudley on Fourth Sunday due to the absence of the pastor and family who are on their annual vacation.

Miss Mary Currell Pattie of Catharpin is now visiting her uncle, Mr.
N. C. Pattie of Falls Church.

The present conference year is rapidly drawing to a close and the Sudley circuit has great reason to be proud of the year's work and its accomplishments. The preaching has been par-excellent and everything in general moving along in good shape.
The pessimist has been discharged and the optimist installed and with a united effort we hope to close the year the way everybody would like to see it done. Let us do just that and be happy in our attainment.

BIG ROLE RESULT OF LUCKY "BREAK"

Because Tim McCoy happened to be thumbing through a batch of old Wampus Ball programs, Caryl Lincoln got her first leading role in a motion picture.

Back in 1929, when Caryl was running from one studio to another, glad to take any sort of an extra job, a flash of her stood out in a production like a beacon and attracted the attention of Wampus which, as everybody knows, is an organization of Hollywood publicity men who pick thirteen unknowns each year and predict for their ultimate stardom or featured roles.

So Caryl was picked as a Baby Star that year. But, although she obtained fairly good roles, nothing startling seemed to happen. She was getting nowhere and getting there fast until McCoy found her picture in the old program.

"There's the girl I want for my new leading woman," he said to a casting director. The rest was easy, much to the satisfaction of McCoy and the happiness of Caryl Lincoln.
Critics who have seen the young

HELP MAKE THE NEW DEAL A FAIR DEAL (contributed)

During the past few months most of us have felt it incumbent to digest more economic doctrine than, perhaps, one might reasonably be expected to assimilate within a score of years or even in a lifetime.

We have read and studied every possible enlightening thesis on the subject from which we might hope to clarify minds agog with the complexities of inflation, deflation, gold standards, foreign exchanges, price levels and what-not. What we learned yesterday, it seems, turns out to be wrong today and we have to begin all over again. It's not quite that bad, of course. It only seems so. That's because we have been trying to reach for knowledge which is beyond the power of any one individual intellect to wholly comprehend.

But despite the fact that we have at times felt that we were groping in a very dark woods with no sense of direction or compass to guide us, we have learned a lot. We couldn't be regarded as intelligent human beings if we hadn't.

One of the most important axioms that the past few months have taught us is the dependence we must place upon our fellowman for the continuation of our own welfare. That truth is the hub around which revolves the myriad of problems that have so troubled us. The other fellow's lot is our lot, figuratively speaking. We must share his loss or his gain—perhaps not immediately, but eventually.

We believe that the government was highly cognizant of this fact when it formulated and passed the National Industrial Recovery Act. The purpose of this Act is to make the "new deal" a square deal for Capital, Labor and the Consumer, by increasing purchasing power, reducing working hours, and reducing unemployment. It should curb unfair business practices, create business codes which, in operation, should allow business to conduct itself with more chance of a fair profit, but with less chance of an excessive profit and less chance of actual loss.

Our ills of the past three years have been brought on by an avalanche of contributing factors, among which were the ever increasing paroxysmic attacks upon the ranks of the employed and, almost as bad in an economic sense, the necessity for payroll reductions for those who still had jobs. This increased unemployment, which in turn depressed purchasing power, decreased consumption, decreased production—

John Doe's competitor, down the street, cut prices in the hope of attracting trade. John had to meet the competition and do the same. By the time they had chopped all the profit possibilities out of their respective businesses in this type of losing game, a great many of their employees found themselves out of jobs and those who were left had their wages reduced substantially. Multiply this hypothetical situation by the thousands of concerns in the country and you can appreciate the tremendous buying power represented in the great army of the unemployed. Estimate if you can the buying power cut off by reduced salaries and wages!

Already, under the stabilizing influence of the National Industry Recovery Act men are going back to work. The process of employment is slower than the process of release. It will take some months before the Act's full effect can be felt but psychologically it has already accomplished part of its purpose. People are feeling better. Business is picking up with this restoration of confidence and as the forward movement gains acceleration, even the most cynical will have to go along. We are headed at this writing for a more profitable era, but unwise and excessive speculation in securities and commodities should be checked. If the heads of industry and business assume a co-operative attitude, we can in the next few months go far toward the better times we have been seeking.

How can the merchant do his part? He should take an active interest through his local merchants with a view toward the establishment of a code of business ethics and operation that will allow him to make the profits in his business to which he is rightfully entitled.

He should resolve at once to stop trading on a hit or miss basis of beat the other's price.

He should have a heart to heart talk with his sales staff—inspire them, and make them understand that this is no ordinary year or summer. Because it is August, is no reason to relax in sales effort.

He should go into his establishment and be sure that it is operating efficiently. His employees there should be encouraged to keep an eye cocked for the service customer who might be a new prospect and to call a salesman upon the slightest provocation. Many a sale has been lost because some one just assumed that the prospect was not interested.

He should stop worrying about gold standards, inflation, deflation and the many other economic headaches and follow closely the code of business ethics which he should take part in formulating with his competitors for the good of all.

In short, the merchant who does these things now will be putting himself in line for future success. He will not only be holding a winning hand in the "new deal," but he will be playing it with intelligence.

DAIRY INVESTIGATION

(contributed)

It almost causes a fit of temper to attend the dairy investigation in Washington and hear of the enormous profits and salaries paid to the officers of some of the organizations handling our milk. Many of our dairymen are almost sweating blood trying to pay for new barns, and expensive alterations imposed upon them by the authorities who insist upon our people producing certified milk at a grade A price. It is most fortunate that there is a man of Mr. King's caliber as chairman of the investigation committee. Mr. Seal in charge of the legal end of it made a careful study of the subject by visiting many of the dairies for first hand information, and it is due to the knowledge of these two men that much information hitherto unknown is becoming available to our farmers. The people gasped when it was stated that one of the prominent dairy officials had received an annual salary of $180,000, which was later reduced to $108,000.00 or $9,000.00 a month. What these officials did to earn these high salaries is probably best shown in the organization and ramifications of an enormous organization, what might easily be called a milk trust. We are inclined to believe that the scrapped Sherman Anti-Trust law may have to be dug out of the scrap pile, and be polished and put into working order again.

That our dairymen are closely following these investigations is shown by the large numbers that attend the hearings daily.

It had been planned by the Farm Act authorities to allocate thirty million dollars to help the milk industry. One of the leading investigators made a statement that an industry that showed the enormous profits that were made by the milk organizations needed investigation rather than financial assistance. The producers feel that if they can get a square deal, and the six cent milk grade be eliminated they can get along. They fear that some one else than the producers may get a big share of the thirty million.

City people are mightily afraid that the process tax necessary to pay for this thirty million may add another added cent per quart to their milk and they feel that 13c is high enough.

When we hear of the many gallons of high priced skim milk that are said to be poured down the sewers, we think of the thousands of undernourished children in the city, whose future lives would be benefited by this wasted product. If there were any difference in the quality, and only the skim milk from the 6c milk went into the sewer it would not be so bad, but we must remember that the 6c milk and the 26c milk all come out of the same can. It is hoped that much good will come from this investigation.

FACE THE FACTS

Why worry about insurance when you can smile with us at the possibilities of property loss. Our rates are low—based upon the assessment feature.

Only once since 1869 have we had to call an extra assessment, and in the period from Jan. 1, 1920, to and including Dec. 31, 1932, the Company has paid out in fire losses over a quarter of a million dollars, without a contested claim.

We operate in twenty counties and serve over 3500 assured, giving them the benefit of mutual protection.

Our friends in Prince William are reminded that Mr. Tyson Janney, formerly of Occoquan and a former member of the Virginia House of Delegates, is President of our Company.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.

THE BEST MEDICINE: A merry heart doeth good like a medicine; but a broken spirit drieth the bones.—Proverbs 17:22.

BOARD IS BACK OF SCHOOL HEAD

The Board reacted and got behind Dick Haydon with a strong resolution on Tuesday urging our representatives in the State Legislature to do all their power to relieve the apparent catastrophe which will result from the thirty percentum reduction on the biennial budget.

State Superintendent Hall has already received the unanimous vote of the joint committee of education to frame such legislation as may be possible to bring forward no cut greater than 15%.

Professor Haydon believes that if this is brought about Prince William will be able to run its full nine months next year.

WANTS PRACTICAL ECONOMY

The Supervisors on Tuesday passed a resolution aimed at reduction of county expenses. One of the things brought up was the maintenance of unnecessary polling places. There was a distinct feeling that points established many years ago were now obsolete by changing methods of travel and that several such places could be eliminated.

Twenty-five freeholders in any magisterial district may memorialize the circuit judge who in turn may ascertain the general feeling in that district and discontinue the polling place if he sees fit.

SENSIBLE REGULATION

Our representatives in the General Assembly are at work on the difficult task of enacting satisfactory legislation in the matter of beer legalization. The problem is a complex one, particularly on account of the vast inheritance of bad feeling and irreconcilable viewpoints through the years past.

According to the viewpoint of Congress, in repealing the Volstead Act, beer is no longer legally an intoxicating beverage. It has become a soft-drink so far as the Federal Government is concerned. In Virginia, however, there has not been the same turnover in sentiment.

To some it would appear that those unable to stem the tide of liberalized viewpoint in the matter of liquor are permitting their resistance to find expression in high tax insistence. This is perhaps not a correct interpretation but a logical deduction.

High liquor taxation is a doubtful method of restraining intemperance. Particularly in northern Virginia would a high tax work hardship on account of the low tax levy in the District of Columbia. A high tax will result in the loss of so much revenue to the State and will be so much to the bootlegger's advantage that its feasibility becomes a matter of grave doubt.

Moderation is the great elixir for the liquor problem. The lack of moderation has unquestionably given the cause of prohibition a setback which will require many years to counteract. In taxation and in all aspects of the perplexing problem, it would be well to follow the good advice of Saint Paul who admonishes us in those priceless words, "Let your moderation be known unto all men."

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

On last Tuesday evening, Aug. 15, the Byars house at Emory and Henry College, Emory, Va., was the scene of an event of unusual interest. A miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Miss Olivia Athey whose marriage to Rev. John R. Carruth of Weatherford, Tex., will take place early in September.

The hall, reception room and living room were beautifully decorated with dahlias, gladioli and hydrangeas. The hostesses, Mesdames Allison, Henry and Armbrister, Misses Guley and Miller, with the guest of honor, Miss Athey, received the guests. Mrs. J. W. Hill served punch in the reception room, and from there they were directed to the living room where the entertainment consisted of piano solos by Mrs. L. L. Hillman, vocal solos by Mrs. Aker Williams and musical readings by Mrs. J. N. Hillman, jr.

The telephone rang and Miss Miller was called to take a telegram. She announced it was from Cupid, and gave it to Miss Athey who read aloud the message which was as follows: "Cupid has been tattling to many of your friends that you have a crushed and broken heart which only John can heal. These friends, who are loving and sympathetic, suggest you go immediately to the Callopan Hall where you will find tokens of consolation. Signed—Friends who love you."

Miss Athey led the way up the stairs, and to the beautifully decorated hall. Here she found in the center of the room a table on which a large artistically dressed doll-robe stood surrounded by many packages.

After the guests were seated, each package was opened and admired by Miss Athey and the guests. Following this Mrs. A. S. Withers read and dedicated to the honoree a poem "If." Refreshments, consisting of ice cream and home-made cake, were served, after which almost fifty guests reluctantly said good night.

WEINER ROAST AT DUMFRIES

The officers and members of Virginia Dare Rebekah Lodge No. 66 of Dumfries, Va., had a weiner roast Monday evening, Aug. 21.

It was at first planned to have the roast at the "Old Mill Dam" about a mile from the village, but the weather being very inclement, it was decided that we have the roast at the I.O.O.F. Hall.

Cards were played, then came the weiner roast, consisting of weiners, sauce, hot rolls, coffee and pickles. Then more cards.

The guests of the lodge were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Brawner, Miss Katharine Keys, Mr. Willis Sisson and Mr. James Williams.

The members of the lodge then journeyed to the lodge room where a most interesting meeting was held. They then returned to the basement playing card till a late hour, the ladies playing against the men.

A most enjoyable evening was spent. We are looking forward to our next meeting as the entertainment committee has promised a surprise.

C. K. Chapman, who lives near Herndon, was killed yesterday when a tree fell upon his automobile.

CANTOR PICTURE BIGGEST THING HE'S DONE

Promised by Samuel Goldwyn as the biggest as well as the funniest picture to come out of Hollywood this season, "The Kid from Spain" comes to the Dixie Theatre next Wednesday for three days.

It is the annual screen song-and-dance comedy of Eddie Cantor, succeeding his "Palmy Days" of last season and "Whoopie" of the year before. Eddie makes but one picture a year, saving his energy, his voice and his laughs for a single big effort.

"The Kid from Spain" is the story of a button-eyed lad, who, getting kicked out of school with his roommate for suspicious goings-on in a girls' dormitory, gets involved in a bank robbery and escapes to Mexico disguised as Don Sebastian II, the famous bull-fighter. He accepts the acclaim of a great fete in his honor, trying desperately to maintain his masquerade until the minute he is forced into the arena to fight the four bulls in the thrilling climax of the picture.

Goldwyn went to great pains to make the arena and its atmosphere authentic. Bulls were brought from Mexico and a hundred experts of one kind or another put it into operation. Sidney Franklin, the world's greatest bull-fighter, appears in the picture under his own name at the head of the procession of matadors, and later in an exhibition of his sport.

For the beauty and color of the arena and for the gala fiesta that precedes it, Goldwyn marshalled together seventy-six of the proudest beauties of the world, the most beautiful girls this side of heaven. Song, dance, music as well as laughter bring them into the picture and take them out.

Eddie Cantor's songs get their refrain from the effervescent, bouncing comedienne, Lyda Roberti, who seconds his comedy through the story. Others in the cast are Robert Young and Ruth Hall, John Miljan, Carol Naish and Stanley Fields.

Busby Berkeley staged the dances and production numbers, Leo McCarey directed the story, which was photographed by Gregg Toland. Alfred Newman was the musical director and Richard Day designed the lavish scenic effects and details of decor.

GOT HIS DESERTS!

"An old hardened criminal in the Minnesota State prison was asked recently what was the first step that led to his ruin, and he answered: 'The first step that led to my downfall was cheating an editor out of two years' subscription. When I had done that the devil had such a grip on me that I could not shake him off.' We are not printing this because we need money, but for your own sake. We don't want to see any of our subscribers in the same plight as that fellow. If you should owe some paper it might be well to pay up before such a thing does happen to you."—The Richmond Christian Advocate.

STEER WRESTLING ONE OF RODEO SPORTS THIS WEEK WITH STANDARD EXPO SHOWS

While Jupiter Pluvius and the big storm that has caused much damage to the eastern section of the country have reigned supreme and have caused the Standard Expo. Shows not to open so far this week, the last 3 days of their week's engagement will close Saturday night and tonight will no doubt prove to be the mecca for crowds of those seeking clean, and wholesome fun and amusement.

The show located on the Cross lot just beyond the town limits on the Warrenton highway is brilliantly lighted by hundreds of lights. There are shows, rides and fun booths and three sensational free acts given every night including the aerial Conollys performing on their lofty perches over 100 feet in midair. Among the many and varied shows is the Bar X Rodeo Wild West where for the balance of this week steer wrestling will be one of the attractions here.

Out west, they call the gentle sport of steer wrestling "bull-dogging." Under any name, it is the most dangerous, breath-taking event in the rodeo's blood-tingling contests. It carries more genuine thrills in one minute than an afternoon in a bull-ring. It lacks the cold brutality of a bull fight, and it is the human who takes the chances. Seldom in the history of rodeo has a steer been seriously injured in this kind of wrestling.

The cowboy wrestling, aided only by an attending hazer, whose sole duty it is to flag the steer and keep it running a straight course, plunges from a horse a full gallop and catches the steer by the horns. After bringing the animal to a full stop the wrestler must twist it down so that the steer rests on its sides with its four feet extended.

The arena judge will not drop his flag until the steer is down on its side with its feet stretched out properly. The lightest of these steers, which are used in the stampede and rodeo, weighs more than 900 pounds. Some of the cowboy contestants entered in this event weighs 116 pounds or less.

TWIN CITY GOSSIP

by Geo. Dent

(WOODBIDGE AND OCCOQUAN)

The great American tragedy: Schools close; World's Fair open; Is This Progress?

The World's Fair at Chicago is well worth seeing. A Century of Progress lay at our feet. The striving of man for a place in the sun may be read in the history of progress.

Civilization has a background of 12,000 years from the stone age to the Century of Progress. It was the song of the shirt until Howe gave us the sewing machine only 87 years ago. We wear a welt shoe and little do we think about the first welt shoe made by Goodyear just 62 years ago. We walk into a telegraph office and hand the operator a message, and in a few minutes it is delivered, thousands of miles away. Morse sent his first message: "What hath God wrought?" less than a century ago. Our Editors, Mr. Lamb and Mr. Wharton, were old enough to stop crying for a bottle of milk when Bell invented the telephone. The grandmothers of today were writing love letters when Edison made a machine that would talk. A year later 1878, while we were all ears listening to the talking machine, Edison invented the electric light. And the next year we turned on our electric light and for the first time we saw a gasoline motor (auto).

The trolley car is just one-half century old. Four years after we took our first trolley ride, Eastman gave us a transparent photographic film. Grover Cleveland had been elected to office for a second term when Tesla presented us with an alternate current motor.

The typewriter was not invented until 1873, and the single-type composing machine was asleep in the fertile mind of Lanston until 1887.

The heavier-than-air flying machine was a theory, and not a reality until 1903. This was the year that Prof. Langley spent at Wide Water experimenting with his flying "BUZZARD," or should we say non-flying BUZZARD. . . . The Wright brothers made their memorable flight at Kitty Hawk this same year. . . . The compound gas engine was not made until 1921. The moving picture machine was only a dream until Edison said "Presto" in 1893.

It was the U.S.A. that furnished the above century of progress, and thousands of other inventions. But a Century of Progress is world wide; let us step on foreign shores. When prehistoric man first fashioned a flint to fit into the palm of his hand, and to be used as a weapon, our century of progress was born. The inventor of printing blocks is unknown, date about 593, nationality, Chinese. Later in the tenth century, movable types were invented, and China has the credit. Europe did not get hold of the movable type until 1438. Cut metal were invented by Gutenberg, German, about 1450.

Kay, an Englishman, gave us the flying shuttle 1733, and Hargreaves, another Englishman, invented the Spinning Jenny—thirty one years later. The following year a son of the British Isles turned out a steam engine. In 1816 a Frenchman invented the stethoscope, and twenty-three years later another Frenchman invented photography.

Nobel, a son of Sweden, was the inventor of dynamite just sixty-six years ago. Marconi, from the sunny climes of Italy, invented wireless telegraphy (high frequency) thirty-seven years ago. Proud man has indeed brought miracles. And if time permitted we could go on and on into the realm of a Century of Progress.

We go back to the heading of this article. The Great American Tragedy: Schools Close; World's Fair Opens; Is This Progress. . . . If 77 of our counties in Virginia have to shorten their school terms, will it be in keeping with one hundred years of PROGRESS? Is it a good road for the movement of autos and trucks more important than a good school for our children? Up to a certain point (and that point is debatable) good roads are a necessity, beyond the debatable point; will it pay us to continue building roads when to do so will close our school house doors?

Our Free School System is a shield of democracy and a bulwark against ignorance. It is the power house from which knowledge emanates. A paramount institution of free people. Virginia faces a serious condition of affairs; our children are Virginia's future citizens; our duty is plain. Our last legislature refused to take a few paltry millions from the road fund to supplement the school fund. Wake up, O ye people! Virginia—what about your schools?

Dr. Barnhart, professor of sociology, Birmingham Southern College, has this to say: "We are coming to realize more and more that it is not race, primarily, which explains criminal behavior, but rather economic, political, social, educational and other environmental factors."

"Most crime is committed by illiterate or poorly-educated persons. The records of all penal institutions show that few persons have received more than a fifth grade education, and many have received no education whatever. . . ."

Will the shortening of our public School Term Represent a Century of Progress?

So far, the Public School Has Given Well Nigh Unparalleled Returns on Its Investment. . . .

It is penny wise and pound foolish to close the school house doors. Blind economy does not pay. . . .

"What a relief that sturdy body and those over-size brakes are. I won't have to worry a minute while you're on the way."

"Fisher Ventilation to make a breeze, Fisher body quietness to soothe the nerves. Isn't that a perfect hot weather combination?"

We didn't actually plan on elephants when we built the new Chevrolet. But we did choose bodies strong enough to support six tons of elephant, or anything else you can name. . . . Fisher bodies. . . steel bodies plus a hardwood frame. . . the same type used on all 12 and 16-cylinder cars. Steel alone, is not enough to make you as safe as we want you to be in a Chevrolet. A steel body, welded into a solid wall of protection plus resilient hardwood reinforcing the steel from following its natural tendency to buckle under pressure, makes the sturdiest body of all—the kind used on the Chevrolet, and on no other low-priced car. Get all you pay for when you buy a car. Demand the super-safety of Fisher steel-plus-wood bodies.

AGRICULTURAL NEWS

CONTRIBUTORS TO THE INDUSTRIAL LOCATION FUND

Some of us will, once in a while, take a "Long Shot" on the races. "Long Shots" and "Forlorn Hopes" are, sometimes, the making of history.

The following forty citizens of Manassas had enough sporting blood to stake $1.00 each to bring Dr. Geo. A. Bentley, of New York, to Manassas to tell us how and why he could place an industrial plant in this community, viz.:

E. G. Parrish, F. R. Hynson, Hunton Tiffany, W. C. Merchant, Wm. F. Cooke, C. E. Fisher, W. E. Dowell, Mrs. M. I. McDonald, J. H. Steele, C. H. Wine, G. B. Cooke, Conway Seeley, Dr. V. V. Gillum, R. S. Hynson, B. C. Cornwell, Sprinkle Bros., Newman & Trusler, J. L. Bushong, Prince William Hotel, F. R. Saunders, Prince William Farmers Service, Conner & Kinchloe, L. E. Beachley, Jenkins & Jenkins, G. R. Ratcliffe, Jas. E. Bradford, R. L. Sadd, A. A. Hoof, Eugene Davis, D. J. Arrington, Mrs. Wm. McCuen, M. J. Hottle, Mr. Carico, T. E. Didlake, W. L. Compton, Wm. Hill Brown, Jr., C. R. C. Johnson.

Like true sports, the foregoing citizens have placed their small stake on an unknown horse. The first heat has been run and these sports are convinced that their horse is possessed of good wind. What his staying qualities will be only the future can tell and the season is not yet closed. If before the close of the season he can win a labor employing industry for Manassas the "Long Shot" will indeed have made history. If their horse fades into oblivion, well, they are good sports.

DOCTORS' HELPERS' INSTITUTE TO BE HELD AT MANASSAS, VA.

The Virginia State Department of Health is offering an unusual opportunity in the form of a five-day study course given free of charge to colored midwives and women who are interested in raising the health standards of their own homes and communities. The institute will be held the week of August 28 at the Negro Organization Society of Virginia, Manassas, Va., and Dr. John D. Williams will be in charge. The course will include a study of questions relating to maternity care, home nursing, personal hygiene and community health, and a part of each day will be devoted to demonstrations of practical methods in the care of the sick. Mrs. Emily W. Bennett of the Virginia State Department of Health, under whose direction the institute is to be held, will conduct these demonstrations with the assistance of experienced nurses, and students will learn many ways of adding to the comfort and safety of their patients.

Room and board may be secured for $3.50 for the five days. For further information apply to Mrs. Emily W. Bennett, R. N., State Health Department, Richmond, Va.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

Inquiries have been made relative to the fruit crop. Owing to the unfavorable early spring, orchards located in localities with poor air drainage suffered severely from frost. This caused a spotted condition in fruit yields. Orchards not many miles apart varied from a good to a poor crop. Scab was severe, and blight caused considerable damage. Web worms were numerous in orchards due to the enormous numbers hatched on the wild cherry trees. Codling moth were quite prevalent. A few peach orchards are yielding splendid crops while others are failures.

COMMUNITIES TO CAN FOR SCHOOL LUNCHES

In order to provide hot lunches for the school children during the cold, winter months a series of community canning days have been arranged for. All people of the communities and patrons of the schools are asked to come out and help and to bring or send any quantity of following vegetables that are available: corn, tomatoes, lima beans, string beans, black-eye peas, carrots, sweet peppers, celery.

Hayfield community canning will be held at the home of Mrs. Ed Herring on Tuesday, August 29. This project is being sponsored by the girls of the 4-H club. Patrons are urged to attend. The canning will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

Buckhall School will accommodate the women of that community when they can for the school on Wednesday, Aug. 30. Women are asked to meet at 9:00 o'clock.

Women of Woodbine community will can at the home of Mrs. J. M.

WHEAT GROWERS ASKED TO FILE APPLICATIONS AT ONCE

Assistance Available at County Agent's Office.

The forms that have been distributed to wheat growers may at first seem rather complicated but by taking them page by page are not as difficult as they first appear. It is advised that these forms be filled in and returned to F. D. Cox, county agent, at the earliest opportunity rather than to wait and turn them in at the next community meetings. Assistance will be given to all needing help in making out their applications at the County Agent's office.

A letter just received from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration regarding the data to be obtained from threshermen and purchasers of wheat reads as follows:

"We recognize that in many cases it is impossible for farmers to furnish threshermen's certificates and certificates of sales. In such cases, of course, they cannot be required. However the certificates of disposal of each farmer should be filled out by him. This will be his report on what he did with the crop. The farmer unable to furnish records will be by no means excluded from membership."

New Rulings

1. On any farm where the wheat acreage since 1930 has been reduced to an acreage which brings the average acreage for the three-year base period 1930, 1931 and 1932 below what is considered reasonable for that farm may submit the five-year average acreage 1929-32 for the approval of the county allotment committee. If the 5-year average production for that farm is allowed, the actual 5-year production for that farm must also be used.

2. Any individual producer who has contracted to reduce wheat acreage on one farm and agreed not to increase on any other farm must use as the base period for seeded acreage on the non-contracted farm or farms the average for the years 1930-31 and 32 or the 1933 acreage, whichever is larger.

3. If an individual is operating as one unit separate tracts of land either owned by himself or rented from the same landlord, he may consider the total acreage as one farm, or if an individual is operating a single tract of land as two farms (for example, part under an established system of farming and part just being developed) he may consider them as two farms.

REPLACEMENT CROPS FOR WHEAT ACREAGE REDUCED THIS FALL

The Agronomy Department at Blacksburg recommends the following:

1. That the land be planted to crops to be turned under for soil improvement.
2. That they be planted to blue grass, red top, orchard grass, lespedeza, etc., for permanent pasture.
3. That the fields to be planted to wheat be prepared as usual for fall seeding but that the wheat be left off the contracted acreage and this acreage be planted to timothy this fall and that clover be planted on the same next spring.
4. That the contracted acreage be planted to rye or barley as companion crops for seedings of permanent pastures or clover removed for hay; and that the rye or barley be used for feeding horses or mules used in producing crops on the farm or for feeding livestock which produce products used entirely for home consumption.

WILLIAM ALLEN ENJOYS CHICAGO

William T. Allen, 16, of Nokesville, who won the junior state award in the miniature Napoleonic coach-building contest left Chicago this week end after attending the third annual convention of a national craftsman's guild in Chicago.

This four days' sight-seeing trip, all expenses paid, consisted of two days at the World's Fair and two days in viewing the major sights of Chicago, including a trip to the famous stock yards. A half day was spent in aquatic sports at the Edgewater Beach Hotel where the boys stayed while in Chicago.

One hundred and twenty other similar winners from the United States and Canada, all boys between the ages of 12 and 20, were feted and dined and addressed by famous educators and industrialists at the formal banquet held the first day of the convention.

KIWANIS FIELD DAY AT BAY RIDGE

Fifteenth Anniversary to Be Celebrated Aug. 29.

In recognition of the fifteenth anniversary of the organization of the Capital District, Kiwanis International, comprising clubs in the District of Columbia, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, a field day outing for officers and members of the various clubs and their ladies will be held at Bay Ridge, Md., August 29.

Featuring the meeting which will be sponsored by the Baltimore club under whose auspices the Capital district was organized August 29, 1918, will be an address by Rev. Dr. F. Berry Plummer, Hagerstown, Md., governor of the Capital District in 1931, on "Fifteen Years of Community Service." Edwin F. Hill, Washington, D. C., present governor, will preside at the meeting.

Sports committees of the various clubs are promoting a golf tournament to be held at the Annapolis Roads course during the afternoon. There will be bridge for the ladies at the Baur House pavilion at Bay Ridge with swimming and fishing for those who wish to participate in such sports. In the evening a shore dinner will be served. The after-dinner program will include a fellowship song fest with members of the Washington and Virginia delegations singing against the Maryland and Delaware rousers.

When the Capital Kiwanis District was organized in 1918 there were only two clubs in this area—Washington and Baltimore, according to district officials. Today there are 50 clubs carrying on aggressively the aiding of underprivileged children, sponsorship of boys and girls work and vocational guidance. The clubs in this district are also interested in better rural and urban conditions and improving citizenship.

All living former district governors have been invited to attend. The first district governor was Alfred G. Goodrich of Baltimore who served during the last half of 1918 and 1919. He was succeeded in 1920 by J. D. Hank, Jr., of Richmond. Robert W. Kime, Salem, Va., was governor in 1928. Governors Goodrich, Hank and Kime are deceased. Other district governors who are expected to attend are John J. Boobar, Washington, D. C., Julian Y. Williams, formerly of Alexandria, Va., now of Atlanta, Ga., Edwin W. Lintner, Wilmington, Del., Claude H. Woodward, Washington, D. C., J. Randall Caton, Alexandria, Va., Merle E. Towner, Baltimore, Md., Russell S. Perkinson, Petersburg, Va., Harry G. Kimball, Washington, D. C., Jesse H. Binford, Richmond, Va., F. Berry Plummer, Hagerstown, Md., and Henry A. Converse, Harrisonburg, Va.

Maxime Ducharme of Richmond was the first secretary. He resigned August 14, 1920 and was succeeded by Harry G. Kimball of Washington. Robert E. Turner of Norfolk succeeded Mr. Kimball October 14, 1923, serving in this capacity until his death, October 2, 1931, at which time John C. Aspinwall of Norfolk was appointed by the district governor to fill out Mr. Turner's unexpired term.

As W. W. Howard of Roanoke was elected district secretary at the Baltimore, Md., convention, October 28, 1931, and was re-elected at the Washington convention last year.

HIGH WATER DAMAGE

The gale and the heavy rain of yesterday took fairly heavy toll along the creek bottoms. Truck farmers are reported to have lost thousands in marketable crops and damage to growing stuff.

Bull Run went over the Centerville road for the second time since the new cut-off was built in 1930. Broad run took a veritable rampage and the western part of the county was shut off by high water. The bridge at Millford was reported under water last night for the first time in many years.
