

P.W.A. FUNDS FOR SCHOOL REPAIRS

Estimates for Nearby Counties Given.

Virginia's county elementary schools need major repairs and additions due to obsolescence or consolidation which will cost $3,008,292 and school officials hope to have the item approved as part of the public works relief program, it was said this week as President Roosevelt allotted $124,387,659 for projects.

All PWA offices have applications for non-Federal projects. Under the new plan for decentralization, these applications will be examined in the various States by PWA lawyers, engineers and finance examiners. Thus it is believed that applications can be forwarded to Washington practically ready for approval so as to permit speedy creation of jobs.

Numerous projects already have been outlined to the NEC at Washington and it has been indicated that some of them will be approved by next week. Most of them are included in the $80,000,000 to $90,000,000 program under which 50,000 jobs are expected to be created for Virginians.

In addition to the $3,008,292 for major repairs and additions, the survey produced estimates of necessary minor repair, which would cost only $907,308.

The survey of county schools, made by the State Department of Education in collaboration with the State Planning Board, was begun in August, 1934, and is said to have been favorably regarded by Federal officials.

The estimate of needs for counties in this section of Virginia are said to be as follows, in which the first item is for minor repairs and the second for major repairs:

Fairfax, $63,625 and $297,000; Fauquier, $3,600 and $13,500; Louisa, $10,490 and $50,900; Madison, $17,000; Prince William, $18,140 and $37,000; Arlington, $13,450 and $25,500; Caroline, $14,964 and $13,500; Culpeper, $8,815; Spotsylvania, $8,150 and $800; Stafford, $17,625 and $4000.

CHILD BEATER ESCAPES WHIP

Alexandria Crowd Disappointed as Culprit Loses Nerve.

Harry Gregory, sentenced in Alexandria to his choice of a year in jail or a public whipping, decided upon the lashing and a sizable crowd gathered Wednesday in Alexandria to see the sentence of Police Judge Duncan carried out.

Convicted with his nineteen-year-old wife of having brutally beaten a three-year-old child which the couple had secured for adoption, the husband decided upon the whip; but when two buggy whips had been set aside by the captain in charge as too lenient and a heavy bull-whip selected, Gregory went into a huddle with his attorney, it is stated, with result that he reconsidered his previous decision and elected to serve a year in jail.

The incident had aroused widespread interest throughout the State and Judge James R. Duncan was the recipient of many expressions of approval of his revival of a form of punishment held by estimable people in great numbers as suitable for punishment of brutality to little children.

MISS SPEIDEN ENTERS TAINS FOR MISS BALL

On Friday evening, June 21, Miss Virginia N. Speiden entertained at a small dinner party at her home in honor of Miss Gladys Athaline Ball. The house was tastefully decorated with a variety of garden flowers while the table decorations were white. Guests at the dinner included Miss Ball and Miss Janet Trusler of Manassas, Miss Margaret Bell of Richmond, Mr. E. Russell White of Springfield, Va., Mr. Stanley Owens and Dr. R. Terrell Johnson of Manassas, and Mr. G. Edward Foreman of Washington, D. C.

After dinner the guests were delightfully entertained by some interesting moving pictures that were photographed and projected by Mr. Foreman. The most outstanding feature was a film of nature scenes in color.

U. D. C. MEETING

The Manassas Chapter, U. D. C., will meet Wednesday, July 3, at 2:30 p.m., in the Parish Hall.

STATE ROAD PROGRAM MAY LAST INTO WINTER

Virginia's road program, including the elimination of grade crossings in many sections, probably will be "pushed up well into the winter" because of Washington's delay in clarifying the regulations governing the use of Federal money for highway construction, according to Henry G. Shirley, chairman of the State Highway Department.

Usually most contracts are let by July 1, but in the last year or two the work has been carried on late in the winter as a means of giving relief to many persons who otherwise would be jobless during the cold season, Mr. Shirley said. He added that that might be the reason for the present delay in Washington.

SAD ACCIDENT AT LAKE JACKSON

James Bean Dies While Swimming.

The Bradley neighborhood was deeply shocked Sunday afternoon when word was received of the death of James Bradley, age 17, who apparently died of some unknown cause while swimming in Lake Jackson.

In company with his brother William and a friend, Edward Weeks, he was swimming in deep water when he collapsed and sank. It is stated that Mr. Weeks made a great effort to save his friend, nearly losing his own life.

Upon receiving word in Manassas, representatives of the Manassas Volunteer Fire Department hastened to the scene, where, in the meantime, the body had been recovered by Earl Cox and Harry Whitmer.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at Bradley Church by Rev. J. Murray Taylor and burial was in the Bradley cemetery. The deceased is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bean, and by six brothers and sisters, all of whom have the deepest sympathy of many friends in their deep bereavement.

G. W. SHIRLEY

Mr. G. W. Shirley of Waterfall died at his home near Haymarket last Friday at the age of 84.

He was born Feb. 22, 1851, at Little Georgetown, Fauquier County, son of James Sidnor and Elizabeth DeNeale Shirley.

Just before the War between the States his family moved to Prince William County. While he was much too young to take part in the war, he was old enough to be vividly impressed by the events of that period.

He distinctly recalled one occasion when "Stonewall" Jackson and his staff stopped at his home to allow the General to take a nap. He recalls that the staff waited outside while "Stonewall" rested. This was just before the Second Battle of Bull Run.

On October 7, 1875, he married Toy Annette Smith, daughter of James and Anne Moore Smith of "Hagley." Of this marriage there were three children by whom he is survived: Mrs. Henry Thomas of Clarendon, Mr. Herman Shirley of Cristobal, Panama Canal Zone, and Miss Margaret Shirley of "Oakshade."

The funeral was conducted Sunday at the Antioch Baptist Church of which he had been a member since boyhood. The officiating minister was a former pastor, C. Wirt Trainham, now at Marshall. Interment was in the old church cemetery by his wife who passed away twenty years ago.

Mr. Shirley was one of those rare old-time Christian gentlemen whose influence in Prince William County has helped to keep high the standards for which our county is noted. His life was a model for the younger generation to use as a guide in their dealings throughout life.

Of his immediate family he also leaves a brother, Mr. J. W. Shirley of Warrenton, and a sister, Mrs. J. T. Simonds of Washington, D. C.

CLERGYMEN ARRIVE SAFELY IN ENGLAND

Friends of Rev. J. Templeton will be glad to hear of his safe arrival in London, England, after rather a rough voyage. He found congenial company on board in the person of the Rev. Peacock of Norfolk.

England offers a sort of "Happy Hunting Ground" for clergy, as the demand is never supplied. They both look forward to greater enjoyment in the work, and perhaps more recognition of intellectual qualifications in their native land. Virginia seems inclined to radiate "Virginia for Virginians."

RELIEF WORKER ADDRESSES WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. Butler, who is a member of the Manassas area staff of the Virginia Emergency Relief Administration, spoke briefly to the members of the Woman's Club on Wednesday afternoon, June 12, concerning the relief program and policies.

She pointed out that a relief program for the unemployed in a rural community is a vital necessity; that it represents an effort on the part of the administration to deal with the problem of keeping the various elements in a rural community from being any further disturbed. The administration of relief in this area, except for the program in the cities, has as its ideal the preservation of the farm community as it is. It is an effort to give employment, until normal times return, to small farmers and their families who represent one of the most important resources of the community—namely, available man power. Only a small proportion of the people on the relief rolls in the area are victims of the lack of regular employment. Mrs. Butler illustrated by various examples the differences that exist between families on the rolls in the country and those in the city where men and women depend for their entire livelihood on wages paid to them for full-time labor. Here in Prince William, Fauquier, Fairfax and Loudoun, the counties which comprise the Manassas area, many of the workers on relief are those men and women who formerly were called out for part-time work on farms and gardens during that prosperous past when it paid to run farms and gardens to the limits of their capacity. The work earnings of these people supplemented the living they made from the land; sometimes the average amount of cash handled during a year was pitifully small but it was money enough for the things the land could not supply. With it groceries were purchased, the doctor was paid, and clothing was bought. It is this margin of necessary cash which the families in this area lack and which the Relief Work projects aim to supply during these troubled times of unemployment.

Since February of this year the Federal Emergency Relief has done away with the "dole"; no families are now accepted in which there is not some employable member who can be put to work. When a family situation has been investigated and a family is accepted for relief the head of the family, or the employable member, is scheduled to work for a certain number of days each month. How much work he is given is determined by the size of the family, the extent of its needs, thoroughly taking into account the amount of outside work obtainable. Visits of reference are made to members of the community in order to discover what the family needs, but primarily to discover how much of this can be earned by jobs outside the Emergency Relief Project.

Mrs. Butler emphasized that the Emergency Relief Projects are run only to give work to those for whom a necessary amount of other work cannot be found. Governor Peery has instituted a drive during the month of June for the rational development of families on the relief rolls. He wishes to mobilize all the forces in the community to get men and women back into normal jobs.

The Relief Office in Manassas has always been a reemployment center. Mrs. Lewis has been very successful in her efforts to find employment for relief workers. She has always emphasized that a relief program is only a temporary measure and she has very capably served as an intermediary between employers and men and women who need work. Mrs. Butler appealed to the members of the club to continue to apply to the Relief Office when they are in need of workers no matter if only a day's work is offered. Every day helps. It brings the relief family that much nearer to self-support. It is only through the concentrated efforts of the community that workers can be taken from the relief rolls. The meeting closed with the acceptance of this suggestion to use Mrs. Lewis' office to the fullest extent in an intensive drive to reduce the relief rolls in the community.

NAMED ASSISTANT PARK DIRECTOR

Kiener Appointed to Succeed Roberts at Richmond.

Tyler B. Kiener, who for two years has been technical advisor to the park division of the State Conservation and Development Commission, this week was appointed by the commission to the office of assistant State park director to succeed H. K. Roberts, who resigned recently to become a regional park director for the National Park Service, with headquarters in Atlanta. R. E. Burson is the State director of parks.

The commission approved the suggested purchase by the Federal Government of approximately 30,000 acres of sub-marginal land in Prince Edward and Cumberland Counties, to be turned over to the State for forestry purposes, game preserves and recreational centers.

Chairman Wilbur C. Hall explained that while the National Government is prepared to buy up a great deal of unproductive land for such uses, it will not acquire any without the sanction of the State.

Mr. Kiener, the new assistant State park director, is a native of Charlottesville, 35 years old, and a graduate of the University of Virginia. Although he has been attached to the park bureau for two years he has actually been in the employ of the National Park Service. His present appointment makes him a State official.

BROOKE P. GOCHNAUER

Mr. Brooke P. Gochnauer, a prominent and popular citizen of Upperville, died Tuesday at his home there after a long illness. Funeral services were held at the house on Thursday with interment in Lakeview Cemetery.

Mr. Gochnauer was sixty years old, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Gochnauer, of Upperville. Mr. Gochnauer was a merchant and druggist. He was a director in the Peoples National Bank, Warrenton. He was for some years secretary of the Upperville Colt and Horse Show, succeeding his father in this position. He was a man of sterling qualities and highly respected in the community.—Fauquier Democrat.

Mr. Gochnauer is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Dick Hynson of this town.

HOSPITAL FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN SEEKS AID

The Crippled Children's Hospital of Richmond, Va., requests the housewives of the rural districts of the State to save surplus canned goods for the hospital. The hospital has sixty beds and every bed is free and any crippled child in the State, under fourteen years of age, whose parents are unable to pay for hospitalization, is welcomed here. The canned fruit and vegetables given in the past by friends throughout the state have been of the greatest help in running the hospital.

The hospital will be glad to furnish cans to anyone who has surplus fruit and vegetables to can for them. Drop a card to Canning Committee, Crippled Children's Hospital, Richmond, Va., and the jars will be sent to you.

LIFE SAVING FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Young People Urged to Register at Once.

Mr. Edwin Beachley returned this morning after an intensive training period at the National Aquatic School held by the American Red Cross at Annapolis, Md.

Mr. Beachley was the recipient of a special scholarship sponsored by the boys and girls committee of the Kiwanis Club, Red Cross and friends.

This committee is working out a plan to give free instructions in swimming and life-saving to girls and boys who live in and around Manassas. The first of these classes will be held Friday, July 5, at Lake Jackson, in the pool owned by Mr. Alpaugh who has generously donated its use for such purposes.

Those wishing to enlist are requested to see either the instructor, Mr. Beachley or Mrs. W. L. Lloyd, chairman of the local Red Cross chapter.

Only those properly registered and approved will be able to take this course which is furnished at no cost to the entrants. This matter comes at a time most opportune, for Manassas witnesses only last Sunday a tragedy which might possibly have been avoided through instruction which the boys and girls committee has now made possible.

GRADUATES FROM BRIDGEWATER

Harley and Holler Were Honored Students

Among those receiving the Bachelor of Arts degree at the fifty-fifth annual commencement of Bridgewater College, which was celebrated recently, were Chester I. Harley and Orville O. Holler. Mr. Harley is the son of Mrs. Mary F. Harley and Mr. Holler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis O. Holler. Both of these young men are graduates of the Manassas High School.

Although these young men were serious students who made splendid academic records they found time to participate in student activities. Mr. Harley was president of the Y.M.C.A., business manager of Ripples, a member of the United Student Volunteers, Clericus, Glee Club, and Monogram Club. Mr. Holler was editor of the Junior Issue of the B. C. Bee, business manager of the B. C. Bee and editor of Eagle Handbook. He was a member of the Y.M.C.A., the faculty-senior club and the baseball squad.

Mr. Holler has been identified with the Journal staff at Manassas for a number of years and upon graduation accepted a permanent position with this newspaper.

SPECIAL MUSIC TREAT

On Monday evening next at 8 p.m. a choir consisting of fifteen young people of many nationalities will play and sing religious music and give experiences which have been very helpful to many congregations in other cities. This is an opportunity for Manassas to hear Christ exalted. No one should miss this opportunity to hear the saving power of Christ. The entertainment is free, everyone is invited.

MOTOR VEHICLE OFFICER TO BE HERE ON JULY 11

Deputy Motor Vehicle Counselor, James Clarke, who regularly visits Manassas every other Thursday, will be unable to keep his regular appointment next Thursday on account of the holiday traffic. He will be in next July 11 and again on July 18.

COMMERCE GROUP TO NAME SCRIBE

Local Business Man Believed Logical Choice.

The County Chamber of Commerce as organized last month seems to be getting under way very nicely and its next regular meeting is scheduled to be at the Town Hall Tuesday night, July 9.

Mr. C. C. Cloe of Triangle, who has been selected for president of the Chamber, has announced a number of committees but as yet a permanent secretary has not been selected. It is thought that someone of the business men will act in that capacity as there are not yet sufficient funds available to employ a full-time secretary.

Mr. Cloe and his associates are business men who want to promote the commercial welfare and general progressive outlook of the county.

The need for such an organization brought forth an effort in 1928 which was rather shortlived, probably due to a misunderstanding of its functions.

The membership of such a body should come from all over the county in order to promote good fellowship and to eliminate any possible political boundary lines.

Mr. Cloe is very hopeful for the possibilities of the newly organized Chamber but his hopes will not bear fruit unless he gets county-wide, generous support and co-operation.

There is a distinct field in Prince William County that may be aided by a commercial group and this will become apparent if the Chamber has the proper means of advancing its claims to usefulness.

CHURCH ELDER GIVEN RECEPTION

Last Friday evening Presbyterian Church at Clifton Station was a scene of a memorable ceremony. The occasion was the recognition reception given to William H. Richards of Clifton Station whose thirty-seven years as elder makes him one of the oldest officers in the Washington Presbytery.

The church was beautifully decorated and over one hundred guests were present. Among the prominent visitors were Rev. Parke Custis of Riverdale, Md., Rev. McCloud of Washington, Rev. J. H. P. Strohm, and mother of New Jersey and Elders Morrison of Washington, D. C., Brown of Herndon, Va., and Bushong of Manassas.

37 years ago Mr. Richards was seven years ago Mr. Richards was installed as elder in the Eckington Presbyterian Church, Washington, D. C., by Dr. George S. Duncan, pastor. Since that time he has held that important place in the church and has labored cheerfully and faithfully to advance the kingdom of God.

Dr. Duncan, who is now professor of Egyptology and Assyriology at the American University, Washington, came to pay a high tribute to this little man of Gibraltar-like faith. There were a number of brief addresses from elders, ministers and friends, with whom he had been associated. Two former student pastors, who served Clifton in the summer-time, were present. A fine solo was rendered by the Rev. John Strohm, Riverdale, N. Y. A men's quartette was another pleasing feature of the delightful program. Mr. Howard West, speaking for the Clifton Church, presented Mr. Richards with a book, and Mrs. Richards with gardenias as tokens of love and high esteem in which they are held. Mr. J. L. Bushong made a few appropriate remarks.

A few days before the reception, Mr. Richards received an invitation to attend a reception given in his honor and was thoroughly amazed as the program developed to see so many of his old associates. So due to his great surprise, he was spared a speech. After the program Mr. and Mrs. Richards had a chance to greet each one. Miss Ruth Richards, the Rev. Mr. Custis and the Rev. Mr. Strohm, and Rev. DeChant completed the receiving line. Delicious refreshments were served to the host of friends, who gathered to pay tribute to this fine character.

POLITICAL RALLY

There will be a political rally at the O. F. A. Hall at Independent Hill on Saturday, July 6, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting is being sponsored by the O. F. A. and the 4-H Club. Refreshments will be on sale at that time.

FAREWELL SPEECH OF JEFFERSON DAVIS

On page nine of the Journal this week we are printing by request of certain members of the Southern Memorial Association the farewell address of Jefferson Davis to the U. S. Senate when Mississippi joined the Southern Confederacy. It is peculiarly fitting at this time to recall what the Southern chieftain had to say on the subject of State rights and the ideals of true democracy.

DEATH OF CUSTER

General George A. Custer, who ordered the massacre of a group of Confederate prisoners of war near Front Royal during the War between the States and was himself slain with all his soldiers by the warriors of Sitting Bull at the battle of the Little Big Horn fifty-nine years ago today, was shot down by mistake, survivors of the famous battle told Barron Brown, an artist who has been painting portraits on the Standing Rock reservation in North Dakota.

According to the story the Sioux warriors told Brown, Sitting Bull had ordered that the life of Custer be spared because of an earlier friendship, but an stray Sioux bullet brought him down after the rest of his command had been killed. "His death was inadvertent," Chief Little Soldier and other survivors of the engagement are reported to have informed the artist, who claims to have broken down the stony silence of the red warriors regarding the details of the battle.

Without presuming to question the veracity of the artist, it is in order to point out that the story has a most improbable background of fact. There is no record, so far as we know, of any previous friendship between Sitting Bull and Custer. Even if there had been, Custer was intent on wiping out the entire band of Sioux, including Sitting Bull, and it was scarcely in Indian nature to show him mercy under such circumstances. Add to this the fact in all his subsequent long life that the famous Indian chief, and intimate association with white men on friendly terms, never advanced such a claim in his own behalf and the improbability of the story is apparent. Many fanciful stories have been written about the Little Big Horn battle but the actual details of the fight were probably never made known by the Indians. Subsequently they told the white man whatever stories served their purposes best at the time. The only indisputable fact is that Custer and his entire command was wiped out by the overwhelming number of their foes. As for the story told Barron Brown, it is probably on a par with the Barbara Fritchie yarn and Sheridan's ride to Cedar Creek.—Northern Va. Daily (June 25).

Dear Sir:
 An address made in the House of Representatives on May 14 by Representative Mall G. Underwood of Ohio, chairman of the committee on invalid pensions, should be interesting to every veteran regardless of what war he or she may have served in.

It would be well for every veteran to have a copy of this address and study it carefully then write Mr. Underwood your opinion of his views on veteran legislation. I shall quote herewith a few paragraphs from Mr. Underwood's address:

"For a great many years pension law after pension law has been written into our statutes with no regard to the pension system as a whole. This resulted in a hodgepodge of inequalities; a system satisfactory to no one. Our veterans complained of its inequalities and uncertainties; our taxpayers of its cost and inefficiency. The law applying to any particular case is lost in a maze of statutes and regulations; to find the correct answer is difficult and expensive. In many cases the correct answer is evidently never found out and these cases come up again and again for rerating and redetermination."

"The Economy Act was applied to this situation. Many of the old laws were untouched and some of them were reenacted by it. New rules and regulations were added and the uncertainties increased. This act and the rules and regulations issued under it became the law of the land on March 20, 1935. The Economy Act was admittedly enacted with the greatest of haste in the face of emergency. That there are inequalities in the kind and character of benefits extended to the veterans of different wars under present laws is undeniable. Veterans are thrown together in their organization meetings, work, and social life. They are familiar with the patent injustices that exist, hence dissatisfaction and complaints increase."

"Looking back over the old reports of the Bureau of Pensions, I find from 1891 to 1894, inclusive, they had the largest number of employes at any one time in their service. This large number of employes for that service is a surprisingly low figure of 2,009. At that time they were paying pensions based on service rendered during the Revolutionary War, our early Indian Wars, War of 1812, War with Tripoli, Mexican War, Civil War, and various Indian campaigns. They were, even with the low rate of pensions paid at that time, disbursing $140,000,000 annually direct to veterans and their dependents. The 2,009 employes received -2,508,810 average salaries during those years. The entire cost of operation, which includes medical service and supplies, equipment, field service, and maintenance, averaged only $4,898,665 for those years."

"In 1898 the peak of Civil War pensions was reached, when the Bureau had 745,822 Civil War veterans on the pension rolls and a total number of pensioners of 993,714. It disbursed $145,000,000 with only 1,836 employes, who was paid $2,281,710 in salaries. The expense of the bureau for that year was $4,114,000."

"It is interesting to note that from 1868 to 1931, inclusive, when the old Bureau of Pensions was consolidated with the present Veterans Administration, although the bureau disbursed more than eight and one-half billions of dollars in the form of pensions to veterans and their dependents the cost of maintenance and expenses of all descriptions for the operation was only $152,957,460.46."

"According to the report of the Administrator of Veterans Affairs for 1934, there was in June a total of 838,855 veterans cases on the rolls. This includes the living veterans and the dependents of our deceased veterans, representing the total of all those drawing pensions. Under the present system, it requires 34,890 employes to take care of these cases. There is approximately one person on the Veterans Administration pay roll for every 24 cases on the pension rolls. I ask you to remember that in 1898 the old Pension Bureau had 993,714 cases on the rolls, yet had only 1,836 employes, or approximately 1 on the pay roll for every 542 on the pension roll."

"Drawing further comparison between 1898 and 1934, cases on the rolls have decreased 15.5 per cent and the number of employes handling the work has increased from 1,836 employes to 34,890, an increase of over 1,800 per cent."

It would seem from the figures given by Representative Underwood that a vast field for economy is opened. The Veterans Administration has a standing army of employes greater by 10,000 than that of our regular army before the Spanish American War. The Veterans Administration should apply to its own standing army of employes what it did to the veteran under the "New Deal."

There is now paid annually for salaries in the Veterans Administration $55,000,000 to 34,890 employes.

AN APPRECIATION

On Sunday afternoon the writer attended the funeral of Mr. Geo. W. Shirley of Oakshade, at Antioch Baptist Church of which he had been a member and deacon for many years.

A large and representative congregation was in attendance and Dr. C. T. Herndon of Warrenton conducted the service.

It was noticed as he proceeded with the service, that behind him the picture of his father, the Rev. Thaddeus Herndon, pastor of Antioch Church for 50 self-denying years seemed to be looking on.

With the singing of the closing hymn the funeral procession proceeded to the grave in the cemetery adjoining the church where all that was mortal of a truly good man was laid to rest. As his pastor for some time, the writer recognized in Mr. Shirley a force for unobtrusive righteousness in all his dealings. It can be said of him as it is said of David the King, "When he had served his own generation by the will of God he fell asleep." Of the gracious family circle who so often refreshed his spirit the writer notes that only three remain, viz: Miss Mary Shirley, Mrs. H. H. Thomas of Ft. Myer Heights, Clarendon, and Mr. W. H. Shirley, of Panama Canal Zone.

The enforced absence of Harmon was tenderly and deeply regretted.

Thomas D. D. Clark.

Early Virginia Auto License Tag

Here is one of the first automobile license tags issued in Virginia. It was sent in 1906 to I. M. Cannon, of Manassas, and was good for the life of the car. The registration card (below), enclosed with the plate, was the only identification the owner possessed. The license is being held by Mrs. M. G. Turner, of the Nichols secretarial staff. GOODNESS AND GLADNESS

In the 32nd chapter of Exodus we have the story of a day which the Hebrews set apart for the worship of Jehovah. It is somewhat surprising to read that after they had performed the formal acts of worship they "sat down to eat and drink and rose up to play." This, however, does not imply any irreverence or undue levity on their part. It does mean that their communion with God brought them a degree of spiritual uplift and happiness which was bound to find expression in some outward form.

A careful reading of the Old Testament shows that the Hebrews derived much joy from their religion. Think of the happy times which they must have had in connection with their religious feasts. They found delight in the journey from their homes to Jerusalem, in the social contacts with kinsfolk and neighbors, in the view of the Holy City with its palaces and its temple of marble and gold and in the freedom of the sojourn in the booths which they erected on the surrounding hills.

The joyousness of worship is prominently presented in their hymns as you will discover by reading Psalms 27, 84 and 122. David is not referring to heaven but to the present life when he says, "In Thy presence is fulness of joy."

Naturally the thought is more prominent in the New Testament. A volume might profitably be written on the joyousness of Jesus. In His very last discourse we hear Him saying to His disciples "These things have I spoken unto you that my joy might remain with you and that your joy might be full."

It is a strange thing that Christian people should ever allow themselves to lose this note of joy. It is well that we have outgrown the severity and gloom of our Pilgrim fathers. They were indeed good men, but somehow failed to take in the normality of the Christian life, and forgot that Jesus mingled naturally and happily in the social life of His day and was denounced by narrow critics as "glutton and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners."

IRISH-SCOTCH FAMILY FEUD IN NEW FILM

A human, down-to-earth and robustly humorously story of a self-made Irishman and a Scotchman who were the best of enemies, Paramount's "McFadden's Flats" comes to the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Monday and Tuesday, with Walter C. Kelly, "The Virginia Judge," in the leading role.

Andy Clyde, popular screen comedian, is cast as the Scotchman and the friendly enemy of Kelly, who has arisen from hodcarrier to the builder of the grand new McFadden tenements.

When McFadden's project is faced with ruin, Clyde comes to his aid secretly. But Clyde and his unconscious beneficiary still carry on the old feud although their youngsters, Richard Cromwell and Betty Furness, are romantically inclined about each other.

Undes the illusion that he is wealthy, Kelly sends his daughter off to finishing school to acquire the manners of a lady. When the girl returns completely changed it seems as though the romance is broken and there will be a breach between the families.

But all turns out happily in the end with the two ancient enemies united and happy in the engagement of their respective offsprings.

HERNDON BLANKS MACS 5 TO 0, BEANS GRANTING BUT FOUR HITS

Game Protested, Macs Claiming Herndon Used Ineligible Player.

The Macs, whose bats have proved just so much surplus baggage for the last three games, ran into another flock of good flinging Sunday and suffered their third straight loss.

Beans, the Herndon hurler, allowed but four hits and handed the Macs their first shutout, the score being 5 to 0. Dreifus, who pitched for the Macs, also turned in a credible performance but his defense weakened in the sixth, allowing three unearned runs to cross the plate.

The Macs managed on three occasions to get a man as far as third, but in each instance two men were out and Beans retired the next man to hold the locals scoreless. In the third Buckner beat out an infield tap to Chaconas but was forced at second by Godfrey. Godfrey stole second, went to third as Butcher tossed out Lynn but was left stranded as Butcher also took care of Brenner's roller. Dreifus walked to open the sixth, was sacrificed to second by Vetter, took third on an infield out but Godfrey rolled out to Butcher. The Macs' last threat came in the sixth, when with one away Brenner doubled to left and went to third on an infield out. Vetter, however, rolled out to Chaconas to end the Macs' last threat.

Dreifus turned back the visitors for the first five innings allowing but two scattered hits but ran into difficulty in the sixth. With one out Ross singled to center but Brenner with a double play in sight dropped Risler's roller. Murphy forced Risler at second but Butcher doubled to left for the first score and when Poland's hot smash bounced past Wurdemann, two more runs scored. The visitors added another pair of runs in the ninth, Beans singling past first and taking third as Ross doubled to left.

A wild pitch let both runners score. Following the game, the Macs filed a formal protest when it was discovered that Herndon had used a player named Abbie Clark under the name of Butcher. President Buchanan's decision as to the protest has not been received. If the protest is granted the game will probably be forfeited to the Macs, giving them five wins as against three losses for the season.

OCOQUAN GRAYS WIN & LOSE, PIGSKIN ANGLE IN BRIGHT, NEW RUNYON STORY

The Ocoquan Grays made their best showing of the year on Saturday when they barely lost by a score of 5 to 4 to a picked Manassas team. The game, as originally scheduled, was to be played with the second Manassas team. Manassas "Macs" were to be excluded but when the game started, Vetter, Lynn and Wurdemann, all regulars or members of the Manassas first team, were playing. These three collected five of Manassas' 7 hits. In the 9th inning, with the score tied, it was Wurdemann's single and F. Vetter's triple that won the game for Manassas. So, it is easy to see that "loading-up" was profitable for the Manassas second team.

The Grays deserve credit in that they were playing a game, minus 3 of their regular team and against experienced players and after all victory isn't everything. The Grays could have "loaded up" too but they didn't.

These two teams play a return game on Swavely Field on Saturday, July 6. There may be a different story then, Manassas.

Wade Breen pitched well for the losers allowing 7 bingles as against 8 by Spaine of Manassas and Green-wich.

On Sunday the Grays trounced the supposedly strong Fort Hunt Rangers, 16 to 6. "Dick" Shepherd, starting his first league game as a pitcher, stood the Rangers on their heads, striking out 13. He was never in trouble. In the 5th inning the Grays shelled Hawes from the mound and continued their hitting spree against "Dazzy" Vance who throws them from the wrong side. The Grays batted around in this inning. After this, Shepherd coasted to victory. The Rangers are supposedly sluggers but they could garner only 8 hits off "Dick." Some fans doubted "Dick's" ability to stop the visitors but when the game ended, every person on the field (except Rangers) was patting him on the back.

Hinton, besides doing a capable job of catching, banged out a triple and single in three trips platerward. Marshall got 3 for 5, Pearson 1 for 2, Reid 2 for 4, Selemman 1 for 3, and bespectacled "Jim" Sisson, 2 for 5, led the Grays' attack. Kelly also tripled, driving in two runs.

Pusey led the Rangers with 3 for 5. Come to Nokesville Saturday, where the Grays play the Nokesville A. C. at 2:30.

On Sunday the Grays travel to Clarendon for a game with the Cardinals. Due to an error, it was stated last week that the Grays were under new management. The team is being managed by Charles Marshall and he will continue to manage. He has added new material to the team and all he needs for the Grays now is support of the fans!

What happens when four "hard citizens" muscle in on football and use racket methods to win games is seen in the comedy climax of the new Damon Runyon picture, "Hold 'Em Yale," at the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Wednesday and Thursday.

With Patricia Ellis playing the feminine lead, Cesar Romero, William Frawley, Andy Devine, Warren Hymer and George E. Stone act the members of Runyon's Broadway gang who use persuasion and "persuaders" to make the "Yales" win over the "Harvards."

The boy's interest in football comes about in a strange manner. When a dizzy little heiress is left on their hands by the Lothario of the gang, they try to capitalize on her by making her father pay for her release.

But papa wants no part of her and intimates that the only way they can unload her is to marry her to a certain boy at Yale who wears glasses, owns a Phi Beta key and hates football.

In order to arouse her interest in the boy, Larry Crabbe, the "hard citizens" move into the Yale Bowl, take charge of the game against the "Harvards," finally get the boy in and marry him to the girl.

SCOUTMASTER BIBB EXPLAINS SCOUT WORK

Manassas Journal, Manassas, Va. Gentlemen:

I am asked by a number of people if the Boy Scouts organization is not military. I would like to say that the organization is not military nor anti-military.

As an organization the Scout Movement is not military in thought, form, or spirit, although it does instill in boys the military virtues, such as honor, loyalty, obedience and patriotism. The uniform, the patrol, the troop and the drill are not military tactics; they are for the unity, the harmony and the rhythm of spirit that boys learn in Scouting. It is in the wearing of the uniform and doing of things together as scouts that they absorb the force and truth of the Scout Law, which states "A Scout is a friend of all, and a brother to every other scout."

While the spirit of Scouting is not militaristic, the experiences of the last year have completely demonstrated that outdoor scout training with its cooking, camping, hiking, signaling, map reading, wireless, electricity, knowledge of woodcraft and ability to care for oneself in the open helps immeasurably in fitting a man for the duties for a soldier. While Scouting as a teen-age boy program very properly is not militaristic from a technical standpoint, it is, however, patriotic, as proven by the wonderful record of scout nation-wide, civic war service.

R. O. BIBB, Scoutmaster.
TWO STARS SCORN "DOUBLES" TO GET FILM HAZARDS

Never in their thrilling screen careers have Rex Bell or Ruth Mix, featured, with Buzz Barton in "The Tonto Kid," coming to the Dixie Theatre in Manassas tomorrow, employed "doubles" to perform the hazardous screen stunts for which they are famous.

Their work in "The Tonto Kid" is no exception to Rex Bell's and Ruth Mix's unbroken rule that all thrills and death-defying stunts in any of their pictures shall be done by anyone but themselves.

In "The Tonto Kid" the major thrill consists of a runaway stage coach drawn by four spirited western horses, which, while Ruth Mix is seated inside the coach with Rex Bell, run away. While Ruth Mix climbs to the driver's seat, as the coach crashes over steep mountain roads, Rex Bell climbs on the backs of the two horses nearest the stage coach, grabs the flying reins and brings all four horses to a sudden, dramatic stop.

-:- Confederate Memorial Address and Speech of President Davis -:-

(The following very appropriate speech and the farewell address of President Davis to Congress are printed at the request of a number of our readers. We are very happy to give space to both).

Synopsis of Southern Memorial Day Address Delivered by Former Governor Charles Hillman Brough of Arkansas at Manassas, Virginia, June 3, 1935.

"I very deeply appreciate the honor of the invitation extended by your splendid president, Mrs. C. M. Larkin, to deliver the annual Southern Memorial address at historic Manassas, in Prince William County, where on July 21, 1861, there was fought the first notable battle of the War between the States, and where in the second fight in August, 1862, the Union Army was again defeated in the Second Battle of Manassas by the brilliant Stonewall Jackson, after which Robert E. Lee, the greatest and most stainless captain of all time, 'victorious in all save fortune,' invaded Maryland. The Ladies Memorial Association of Manassas, organized May 25, 1867, with Mrs. Sarah J. Fewell, president; Mrs. Hannah Lindsay, recording secretary; Mrs. B. D. Merchant, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Sallie Johnson, treasurer, and Miss Mollie Weeden, sub-treasurer, having for its objectives 'the care of the graves of the heroic dead and the instruction of the rising generation as to the sacred duty of remembering and carrying for the graves of the loved and lost,' is perhaps the oldest in the historic Commonwealth of Virginia. Mr. W. S. Fewell, the father-in-law of the first president of the association, donated one acre of land to be used as a Confederate cemetery, and in 1868 two hundred and fifty bodies of Confederate dead, who died in adjoining farm houses and hospitals were reinterred within the enclosure. No bodies from the Manassas battlefield were brought to this cemetery, as they were taken care of by the Groveton Association. In 1873, the General Assembly of Virginia unanimously passed a bill introduced by Hon. George C. Round, a brave Union Veteran, whereby the life members of the association were constituted a body corporate under the title of the Confederate Memorial Association of Manassas.

"It is said that all man kind loves a lover, and that all man kind and woman kind loves a fighter. How much more should Virginia love her illustrious sons, who in the wars of America Independence, of 1812, the Mexican War, the War between the States, the Spanish-American War, and the World's War, battled for the immortal principles of liberty and democracy, and died that we might live, and suffered that coming generations might be free. O, Virginia, storm child of American independence, whose baby rattle was war's musketry and drums, whose lullaby was sung by cannons to the sonorous music of embattled hosts, how oft have willing sacrifices been laid upon thy altar, how drenched has been thy garb with the blood of those who have dedicated their lives to liberty!

"No defense is needed to-day in the lengthening shadows of seventy-five years of eventful history of the immortal cause of State's Rights for which our heroes in gray with hearts of gold battled heroically from 1861 to 1865. The facts that the Constitution was a compact between sovereign states and that a compact violated on one side released the other contracting party; that the great exponent of enlarged power under the Federal Constitution, Daniel Webster, argued that the South had a legal right to secede; that Horace Greeley, the foremost Abolition editor of his day and generation, conceded that the South had a moral right to secede; and the illustrious statement given to the press Friday by our colorful, courageous, humane, and great president, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, to the effect that the recent unanimous decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, declaring the basic principle of the N. R. A. unconstitutional, had vested practically all power of administration and recovery in the states and had stripped the Federal Government of that authority which the President deemed necessary to effect National Recovery—these, and myriad more arguments and concrete instances, eloquently vindicate the position taken by our Southern forefathers in establishing the Southern Confederacy. May I remind those of the present generation that the South fought from 1861 to 1865 not to perpetuate the slavery of the black but to safeguard the liberty of the white. If the thesis of Dr. Grant, of Columbia University, is true, as set forth in his thought-provoking book entitled 'The Passing of a Great Race'; and if Arthur Brisbane, the highest paid and most widely read newspaper man in the world, is evenly approximately right, in their contentions that the Anglo-Saxon and Nordic races had dominated civilization in ancient, medieval and modern times, and that there were only four out of one thousand commanding characters in all history who were not of the Anglo-Saxon and Nordic races, then it logically follows that the position of the South with reference to the negro race was sound and justified by the facts of history.

"We of the South to-day thank God that the last tear shed over the bier of the Southern Confederacy has crystallized into a signet gem, betrothing the love of the New South to the brotherhood of American states! and, on the honor of a chivalrous people who can be the bitterest of enemies and yet the warmest of friends, we to-day pledge allegiance to one nation, one people, and one flag. At the same time we have no apology to make for the noble band of Southerners who followed Lee and Jackson, Longstreet, Stuart, Forest, Pickett, Beauregard, Johnson, Earley, and the Hills, and scores of other illustrious captains, who battled for a 'Lost Cause,' baptized as it was in the blood of countless sons and hallowed by the sufferings of as pure and lofty a womanhood as the world ever produced.

"It is worthy of note that the idea of decorating the graves of our heroic dead originated in the beautiful soul of Mrs. Williams, of Columbus, Mississippi, in 1866, and, appealing as it did to Mrs. John A. Logan, the wife of a great Union commander, was adopted by the Congress of the United States in 1869, and is now celebrated throughout the Nation on May 30 of each year in all save eight states of the Union. It is also worthy of note that this sacred day, June 3, is not only Confederate Memorial Day, in all of our Southern States, but is observed in nine of the former Confederate states, including Virginia, as the birthday of President Jefferson Davis, the revered chief of the Southern Confederacy.

"May we treasure the priceless traditions committed to our keeping and ever and anon rekindle the vestal fires of liberty and democracy. God grant that the traditions of the Old South may be an incentive to the progress of the New, and let us all exclaim with one acclaim, 'Henceforth Old Southland, we look up to thee,

Not down at other lands;
Arise, arise, be not proud
Be humble and be wise.
And bow thy head to the Great Unknown Supreme One
Who on high
Hath willed that as a land
Dixie shall never die."

Speech of Hon. Jefferson Davis, on Withdrawing from the U. S. Senate, Jan. 21, 1861.

"Mr. Davis: I rise, Mr. President, for the purpose of announcing to the Senate that I have satisfactory evidence that the State of Mississippi, by a solemn ordinance of her people, in convention assembled, has declared her separation from the United States. Under these circumstances, of course, my functions are terminated here. It has seemed to me proper, however, that I should appear in the Senate to announce that fact to my associates, and I will say but very little more. The occasion does not invite me to go into argument; and my physical condition would not permit me to do so, if otherwise; and yet it seems to become me to say something on the part of a State I here represent, on an occasion so solemn as this.

"It is known to Senators who have served with me here, that I have, for many years, advocated, as an essential attribute of State sovereignty, the right of a State to secede from the Union. Therefore, if I had not believed there was justifiable cause; if I had thought that Mississippi was acting without sufficient provocation, or without an existing necessity, I should still, under my theory of the Government, because of my allegiance to the State of which I am a citizen, have been bound by her action. I, however, may be permitted to say that I do think she has justifiable cause, and I approve of her act. I conferred with her people before that act was taken, counseled them then that if the state of things which they apprehended should exist when the convention met, they should take the action which they have now adopted.

"I hope none who hear me will confound this expression of mine with the advocacy of the right of a State to remain in the Union, and to disregard its constitutional obligations by the nullification and secession, so often confounded, are, indeed, antagonistic principles. Nullification is a remedy which it is sought to apply within the Union, and against the agent of the States. It is only to be justified when the agent has violated his constitutional obligations, and a State, assuming to judge for itself, denies the right of the agent thus to act, and appeals to the other States of the Union for a decision; but when the States themselves, and when the people of the States, have so acted as to convince us that they will not regard our constitutional rights, then, and then for the first time, arises the doctrine of secession in its practical application.

"A great man who now reposes with his fathers, and who has often been arraigned for a want of fealty to the Union, advocated the doctrine of nullification because it preserved the Union. It was because of his deep-seated attachment of the Union—his determination to find some remedy for existing ills short of a severance of the ties which bound South Carolina to the other States, that Mr. Calhoun advocated the doctrine of nullification, which he proclaimed to be peaceful—to be within the limits of State power, not to disturb the Union, but only to be a means of bringing the agent before the tribunal of the States for their judgment.

"Secession belongs to a different class of remedies. It is to be justified upon the basis that the States are sovereign. There was a time when none denied it. I hope the time may come again, when a better comprehension of the theory of our government, and the inalienable rights of the people of the States, will prevent any one from denying that each State is a sovereign, and thus may reclaim the grants which it has made to any agent whomsoever.

"I, therefore, say I concur in the action of the people of Mississippi, believing it to be necessary and proper, and should have been bound by their action if my belief had been otherwise; and this brings me to the important point which I wish, on this last occasion, to present to the Senate. It is by this confounding of nullification and secession, that the name of a great man, whose ashes now mingle with his mother earth, has been evoked to justify coercion against a seceded State. The phrase, 'to execute the laws,' was an expression which General Jackson applied to the case of a State refusing to obey the laws while yet a member of the Union. That is not the case which is now presented. The laws are to be executed over the United States, and upon the people of the United States. They have no relation to any foreign country. It is a perversion of terms—at least it is a great misapprehension of the case—which cites that expression for application to a State which has withdrawn from the Union. You may make war on a foreign State. If it be the purpose of gentlemen, they make war against a State which has withdrawn from the Union; but there are no laws of the United States to be executed within the limits of a seceded State. A State, finding herself in the condition in which Mississippi has judged she is—in which her safety requires that she should provide for the maintenance of her rights out of the Union—surrenders all the benefits (and they are known to be many), deprives herself of the advantages (and they are known to be great), severs all the ties of affection (and they are close and enduring), which have bound her to the Union; and thus divesting herself of every benefit—taking upon herself every burden—she claims to be exempt from any power to execute the laws of the United States within her limits.

"I well remember an occasion when Massachusetts was arraigned before the bar of the Senate, and when the doctrine of coercion was rife, and to be applied against her, because of the rescue of a fugitive slave in Boston. My opinion then was the same that it is now. Not in a spirit of egotism, but to show that I am not influenced, in my opinion, because the case is my own, I refer to that time and that occasion, as containing the opinion which I then entertained, and of which my present conduct is based. I then said that if Massachusetts, following her through a stated line of conduct, chose to take the last step which separates her from the Union, it is her right to go, and I will neither vote one dollar nor one man to coerce her back; but will say to her, God speed, in memory of the kind associations which once existed between her and the other States.

"It has been a conviction of pressing necessity—it has been a belief that we are to be deprived, in the Union, of the rights which our fathers bequeathed to us—which has brought Mississippi into her present decision. She has heard proclaimed the theory that all men are created free and equal, and this made the basis of an attack upon her social institutions; and the sacred Declaration of Independence has been invoked to maintain the position of equality of the races. The Declaration of Independence is to be construed by the circumstances and purposes for which it was made. The communities were declaring their independence; the people of those communities were asserting that no man was born, to use the language of Mr. Jefferson, booted and spurred, to ride over the rest of mankind; that men were created equal—meaning the men of the political community; that there was no divine right to rule; that no man inherited the right to govern; that there were no classes by which power and place descended to families; but that all stations were equally within the grasp of each member of the body politic. These were the great principles they announced; these were the purposes for which they made their declaration; these were the ends to which their enunciation was directed. They have no reference to the slave; else, how happened it, that, among the items of arraignment against George III, was, that he endeavored to do just what the North has been endeavoring of late to do, to stir up insurrection among our slaves. Had the Declaration announced that the negroes were free and equal, how was the prince to be arraigned for raising up insurrection among them? And how was this to be enumerated among the high crimes which caused the colonies to sever their connection with the mother country? When our constitution was formed, the same idea was rendered more palpable; for there we find provision made for that very class of persons as property, they were not put upon the footing of equality with white men—not even upon that of paupers and convicts; but, so far as representation was concerned, were discriminated against as a lower caste, only to be represented in the numerical portion of three-fifths.

"Then, Senators, we recur to the compact which binds us together: we recur to the principles upon which our government was founded, and when you deny them, and when you deny to us the right to withdraw from a government, which, thus perverted, threatens to be destructive of our rights, we but tread in the path of our fathers when we proclaim our independence, and take the hazard. This is done, not in hostility to others—not to injure any section of the country—not even for our own pecuniary benefit; but from the high and solemn motive of defending and protecting the rights we inherited, and which it is our duty to transmit unshorn to our children.

"I find it myself, perhaps, a type of the general feeling of my constituents toward yours. I am sure I feel no hostility toward you, Senators from the North. I am sure there is not one of you, whatever sharp discussion there may have been between us, to whom I cannot now say, in the presence of my God, I wish you well; and such, I am sure, is the feeling of the people whom I represent toward those whom you represent. I therefore feel that I but express their desire, when I say I hope, and they hope, for peaceable relations with you, though we must part. They may be mutually beneficial to us in the future, as they have been in the past, if you so will it. The reverse may bring disaster on every portion of the country; and if you will have it thus, we will invoke the God of our fathers, who delivered them from the power of the lion, to protect us from the ravages of the bear; and thus, putting our trust in God, and in our firm hearts and strong arms, we will vindicate the right as best we may.

"In the course of my services here, associated, at different times, with a great variety of Senators, I see now around me some with whom I have served long; there have been points of collision; but whatever of offense there has been to me, I leave here—I carry with me no hostile remembrance. Whatever offense I have given, which has not been redressed, or for which satisfaction has not been demanded, I have, Senators, in this hour of our parting, to offer you my apology for any pain which, in the heat of discussion, I have inflicted. I go hence unincumbered of the remembrance of any injury received, and having discharged the duty of making the only reparation in my power for any injury offered.

"Mr. President and Senators, having made the announcement which the occasion seemed to me to require, it only remains for me to bid you a final adieu."

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

By F. D. Cox

Saving Lespedeza Seed.
There is likely to be a local demand for all Korean lespedeza seed threshed in the county this year. When threshed, the crop has made good seed yields in the county. No extra parts and very little adjusting is needed when using the ordinary separator. Two tons of seed were brought in from outside the county by one farmer alone last spring. Clipping off the weeds will help to make a cleaner seed crop for next fall.

Holstein Field Day.
Virginia Holstein breeders and dairymen will hold their annual summer meeting on Thursday, July 18, at Minneborya farm in Chesterfield County, near Richmond. An interesting program is being arranged.

Jersey Field Day.
The annual Jersey breeders field day program will be held on Thursday, July 11, at Bloomsburg Jersey Farm, near Spotsylvania Court House. A program has been arranged that will be of interest to all farmers and dairymen.

Short 4-H Short Course.
Prince William boys who attend the annual 4-H Short Course at V. P. I., July 22 to 27, will have the opportunity of enrolling for courses in beef cattle, sheep, dairy, swine and horse husbandry, soils, crops, poultry, farm engineering and gardening. This year's short course is arranged with particular consideration of the practical interests of the attending 4-H delegates.

Bang's Payments Increased.
A $5 increase in the maximum Federal indemnity payment for grade cattle reacting to the official tests for bang's disease, bringing it up to $25, has been announced. For purebred cattle, the maximum indemnity of $50 remains unchanged.

AAA Non-Compliance Rare.
Corn and wheat surveys of Prince William contracted farms show only five having more than their allotted acreage.
