TOBACCO FESTIVAL AT SOUTH BOSTON

Miss Westwood Byrd Will Be the Queen.

The National Tobacco Festival, at South Boston, Va., will be held on September 25, 26 and 27. In the heart of the great tobacco growing section, this event has been organized at South Boston to attract attention of the world to that prosperous section of Virginia in the same manner that the annual Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festival advertises the greatest industry of northern Virginia.

On the afternoon of September 26 a gigantic parade will be staged at South Boston, in which will be entered hundreds of floats representing many industries and communities throughout the State. Wherever possible the tobacco industry and its contribution to the prosperity of Virginia will be the theme of parade entries.

Miss Westwood Byrd, daughter of Senator Harry Flood Byrd, will be the queen. Attending her will be a lovely court composed of maids of honor and princesses selected to represent the various communities participating in the big event.

Representing Prince William County will be Miss Rose Ratcliffe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Raymond Ratcliffe, of Manassas.

Although plans have not been completed, it has been announced that a band concert will be held the first day and a big tobacco pageant will be staged at 8 p.m., followed by a square dance at 10 o'clock. The second day, following the parade, there will be the crowning of the queen, with appropriate ceremonies, after which she will select her favorite maid.

Speakers of national prominence will be featured and the indications are that the event will create world-wide attention and be widely attended, not only by Virginians from all sections of the State, but by folks from many sections of the nation.

CLUB TO URGE STATE AID FOR UNDERPRIVILEGED

At the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club held last Friday night, Mr. W. F. Cocke inaugurated the proposition to have the club sponsor some sort of a meeting relative to securing state aid as a matter of providing competent quarters and assistance for underprivileged children as a state-wide proposition.

To support his argument Mr. Cocke called on Bob Hutchison and O. D. Waters to address the club which the gentlemen did with enthusiasm. O. D. took time out long enough, however, to give the New Deal a quasi defense, with Ted Didlake as the object of his boatwright.

On motion of Arthur Boatwright, the club authorized President Hunton to appoint his committee which would draft resolutions to be placed before the capital district meeting in October. Hunton appointed the three who had spoken along these lines, namely, Messrs. Cocke, Waters and Hutchison.

After an ineffectual attempt to seek "family night" the club decided to give it one more trial and this will be tomorrow evening.

GOOD ORCHESTRA PROMISED

Miss Mary Lynch, chairman of the music committee, has announced that she has obtained an excellent ten-piece orchestra to furnish the music for the Junior Woman's Club dance, which will be held Friday night, September 13, at the Manassas High School gymnasium.

With the selection of the orchestra, Miss Walser Conner, chairman of the dance, reports that final preparations have been completed. The entire Junior Woman's Club will constitute the floor committee and a number of chaperones will be in attendance. Aside from the town crowd, a number of people from Alexandria, Washington, Warrenton, Culpeper and nearby towns are expected to attend.

WORK FOR LATE GARDENS

The summer drought has left little prospect for fall vegetables in the average Prince William garden. The scarcity is going to be pronounced unless those who have not sown greens take advantage of recent rains and plant such greens as kale, turnip salad, spinach and lettuce now.

Swiss chard and kale carried over from spring planting should be thinned and tough leaves cut back.

Good quality in leafy vegetables is

CONFEDERATE VETERANS HOLD NATIONAL CONVENTION

Lee's army marched in memory Tuesday as a feeble remnant of the gallant gray-clad host converged in Amarillo, Tex., for its 45th annual reunion, more than 70 years after the stars and bars of the Confederacy were furled.

From every part of the southland the veterans gathered for what may be the last meeting of the U. C. V.

First business sessions of the U. C. V. were held Wednesday morning. The principal questions to be decided were whether another national reunion will be attempted, and whether the southerners will meet with the Grand Army of the Republic in a joint session at Gettysburg, Pa., in 1938.

The Southern soldiers will not accept any invitation which does not allow them to march under the Confederate flag. The G. A. R. finally yielded and the invitation to meet with them in 1938 was accepted.

It is estimated that the total number of surviving Confederate veterans now is approximately 7,000.

W.C.T.U. ELECTS MRS. EMBREY

Local Chapter Entertains Gifted Speakers.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met with Mrs. D. R. Lewis in August at which time "Light Line Day" was observed jointly with mission work.

Miss Hazel Saunders and Mrs. L. A. Cocke were guest speakers. Mrs. Saunders gave a very interesting talk on her missionary work with the mountain people of North Carolina. She spoke of the great beauty of nature—the grandeur of the mountains which seemed to give courage and strength, and felt that all this beauty had helped these mountain folks to receive the high ideals she and others were endeavoring to instill in them. She told of the inherent goodness of these mountain dwellers, shut away from contact with modern ways of living. She said there was much we could learn from them, and she generously said she had received as much from them as she had given.

She spoke first of their courage. Their primitive way of living presents many difficulties which they meet courageously and overcome.

She spoke next of their loyalty, not withholding help from even a former enemy if in need. Next their hospitality. Always ready to share with each other and with the stranger.

Miss Saunders told incidents concerning the school life, and also that the inadequate school building had been replaced with a much better one used also for a church.

The W.C.T.U. feel assured that this noble work and worker will be crowned with abundant success. For "ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

Mrs. Cocke spoke on both temperance and missions. She deplored the present prevailing condition, and felt that our dependence as a nation is not centered in God but in man.

Mrs. Cocke, whose daughter, prior to her marriage, was a missionary teacher in Korea, gave many interesting reminiscences of her work there as related by Miss Cocke. She told of the special courtesies accorded the guest in their homes, not always enjoyed by the guest—the food served—seated on the floor and many other strange customs.

Mrs. Cocke also told the beautiful but pathetic story of the work accomplished by a friend as a missionary to Korea. Although suffering from an incurable disease she still carried on, and with courage and cheerfulness finished her work and returning to her home in Georgia finally succumbed.

The election of officers was held at the close of this meeting, which resulted in for president, Mrs. Embrey; vice-president, Mrs. R. L. Sadd; recording secretary, Mrs. Gorrell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Harrell; treasurer, Miss Kinchele.

A number of comfort bags made by Mrs. Lewis were filled by the members and handed in to be sent to the soldiers and sailors of which work Mrs. Lewis is director.

After closing song, "Lead On O King Eternal," Mrs. John Broadus at piano, we were dismissed with the Aaronic benediction.

dependent on quick growth. An application of fertilizer (25 lbs. to 1000 sq. ft.) 5-8-5 or 4-12-4 will hasten growth and improve quality of leafy vegetables.

Macs Swamp White Star Nine Under Twenty-Hit Attack to Win By Score of 18 to 0

Dreifus Continues Effective Mound Work Allowing But Three Hits.

With Dreifus holding the White Star nine safely at all times, the Macs raked Rector's offerings for twenty hits, winning easily with an eighteen-run margin. Included in the Macs hit total were a pair of doubles and home runs by Woodard and Vetter. Blackwell and Kite led the attack, each connecting safely four times while Vetter had three and Sheedy and Buckner two each. After the second inning the issue was never in doubt, it being merely a question of whether the necessary five innings could be completed before rain rendered further play impossible. Rain did halt the proceedings at the beginning of the fourth but after a delay of about twenty minutes play was resumed.

The Macs scored a pair of runs in the opening inning as a result of a hit batsman, a pair of singles and an error and three more came across in the following inning on a walk, a pair of singles and a double by Vetter. Woodard's homer accounted for another in the fourth and then the Macs turned the game into a rout in the sixth scoring seven times. Kite, up twice in this inning, hit safely both times. Four hits, including Vetter's home run, and a pair of walks accounted for five more runs in the eighth to raise the total to eighteen.

The visitors were able to get but one man past second during the afternoon. Turner opened the second with a single to left, stole second and advanced to third on a wild pitch. He was stranded, however, as Dreifus fanned the next three batters.

AKERMAN TO TAKE FORESTRY WORK

Will Conduct Demonstration Forest of University.

Professor Alfred Akerman, who has taught forestry at the University of Virginia for the past eight years, will leave his post on the faculty this week to take charge of the university's demonstration forest of 3,300 acres in Brunswick County.

He will be succeeded on the university faculty by Chapin Jones, who was State forester for 15 years. Professor Jones was appointed the university's first professor of forestry in 1915 and continued in that capacity until 1928. For the past several years he has been in charge of educational work in the State service.

The Brunswick County forest, which will be used for experimental work and student instruction, came into possession of the university in 1933 as part of the gift of the late Dr. Walter M. Seward of New York and Virginia, an alumnus of the medical class of 1886. Dr. Seward's total bequest was valued at nearly $250,000.

While research work is already under way in the timber tract, plans have not been completed for its operation in connection with student instruction.

Before coming to the university, Professor Akerman was with the Federal forest service and the State service of Virginia, Georgia, Connecticut and Massachusetts. He studied at the University of Georgia, Yale and Tuebingen.

Professor Jones is a graduate of Vanderbilt and Yale. He served in the Federal forestry division and was assistant forester of New Hampshire and Maryland.

DUMFRIES WOMEN STUDY PATTERNS

Dumfries Home Demonstration Club will hold its September meeting on Thursday, September 12, at 1:30 o'clock, at the school building. Plans for the fall flower show and the second scoring of grounds will be taken up. A full attendance of members is urged. All women of the community are invited.

The topic for study at this meeting is "Using the Foundation Pattern."

NOKESVILLE LADIES TO DISCUSS FLOWERS

The September meeting of the Nokesville Home Demonstration Club will be held at the club room on Wednesday, September 11, at 1:30 o'clock. Mrs. J. O. Bittle will have a demonstration on Flower Arrangement and Miss Sarah Pitts will talk on Foundation Patterns.

Mrs. W. R. Free and Mrs. Robert Nelson are serving as hostesses for the meeting.

Women of Nokesville community are cordially invited to attend.

With one away in the fourth, Turner and Woodward both walked but Reynolds drilled into a double play, Vetter to Sheedy. Harrison reached second in the eighth on Vetter's error but Garman rolled out to Sheedy, unassisted, to end the visitors' last scoring chance.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT WOODBRIDGE

Melvin Posey Killed in Auto Smash.

Melvin Posey, age 23, an employee on the Corbin Thompson Dairy Farm at Woodbridge, was instantly killed Sunday morning when the car which he was driving collided with a large truck on the Jefferson Davis Highway. Herbert Boxley, colored, an occupant of the Posey car, was injured. Both men were taken to the Marine Hospital at Quantico, where Posey was pronounced dead and Boxley treated for his injuries, which consisted chiefly of a broken arm and lacerations.

Funeral services were held for Mr. Posey at the Woodbine Baptist Church at Canova. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Jane Posey; four sisters and one brother.

ACTIVITY OF OFFICERS REDUCING ACCIDENTS

A notable falling off in traffic accidents, particularly of the kind occasioned by reckless driving and by intoxication has been noted in connection with the increased activity of state and local officers.

The larger number of arrests is viewed not so much as indicating an increase in violations as it does a greater efficiency in enforcement of highway regulations.

Officers C. C. Wittner, of Woodbridge, and J. W. Clarke, of the State force, have been particularly helpful in reducing the traffic hazards in the Dumfries area. Among recent convictions in the police court at Manassas are the following, who received a fine of $100 and costs. Judge Brown suspended sentence of 90 days in jail, upon payment of fine: Cornelius Grinage, of Stafford, and Edgar Hartman, of Quantico, convicted of driving under intoxication. Robert Flannagan, of Occoquan, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Brown for driving with improper license.

Forfeiting collateral in Judge Brown's Court were Bryant Faw, of North Carolina, and C. A. Gregory, of Arvonica, Va.

VIRGINIANS TO PAY 2 MILLION ON INCOMES SEPTEMBER 15

N. B. Early, jr., collector of internal revenue for Virginia, is preparing to make income tax collections amounting to approximately $2,000,000 September 15, he announced this week.

Collections during August, he lamented, showed a decrease from last August. The total was $12,682,011.88 against $13,025,745.84 for August, 1934. Individual items for August, this year, are: stamps, $11,264.04; income, $96,817.41; miscellaneous, $777,528.80; processing, $488,133.53; distilled spirits, $8,957.30; unclassified, $46,503.40.

At a called meeting of the officers, directors and committee officials of the Piedmont Dairy Festival Association last night at the town hall, there was a generous response in attendance, all counties and committees being represented in spite of the very inclement weather.

President Hynson called for detailed reports of activities and the most encouraging announcements were made.

The next meeting of the working committees will be held at an early date subject to call of the president. It is deeply anticipated that all committeemen will be present at all meetings and help boost the Dairy Festival this year.

JUDGE COX TO HEAR CONTEST

Walton Contest Transferred to Disinterested Court.

Judge Frederick W. Coleman has ordered the transfer of the primary election contest suit brought in Spotsylvania Circuit Court by H. H. Walton, defeated candidate for the State Senate, to the Circuit Court of Chesterfield County where it will be heard before Judge Edwin P. Cox.

Judge Coleman removed the case from his jurisdiction because of his relationship to S. Bernard Coleman, Democratic nominee for the Senate, who defeated Walton by a majority of 14 votes in the August 6 primary. Judge Coleman is a second cousin of the nominee and a double first cousin of his father, C. Richelieu Coleman.

Walton, through his attorneys, former State Senator George Allen, of Richmond, and Senator W. Worth Smith, jr., of Louisa, brought action to have Coleman's nomination declared void, alleging that the primary was an "undue election" with "false returns" and citing instances of alleged irregularities in the voting and charging that money and intoxicating liquors were used in Coleman's behalf.

The charges were vigorously denied by Coleman's counsel, who termed them as "spurious" and "scurrilous." Coleman is being represented by C. O'Connor Goolrick, W. Marshall King and Frank M. Chichester, all of Fredericksburg.

Judge Coleman declined to disqualify himself and ask for the designation of another judge to try the case as suggested by Walton's counsel. Notice was served on Judge Coleman that counsel for Walton would apply to the Supreme Court of Appeals at Staunton September 10 for a writ of prohibition in the case because of his relationship to the contestee.

Judge Coleman decided that it would be improper for him to decide the case and removed the proceedings to Chesterfield County.

PARALYSIS CASES DROP FROM 39 TO 31 IN WEEK

Further proof that the Virginia outbreak of infantile paralysis is on the wane was shown by the weekly morbidity report of Dr. G. Ford McGinnes, State epidemiologist, which showed 31 cases for the week ending Saturday as opposed to 39 for the previous week.

Meanwhile, the State Health Department reported three new cases for the day, all in Albemarle County, and announced that this was not a net addition of two cases to the State's total because a Lynchburg case reported Tuesday had been reported twice.

At the same time the City Health Bureau reported one new case in Richmond, which has not yet been added to the State figures. It is that of a Negro girl 19 months old who is at St. Philip Hospital. Only four cases are now in quarantine in Richmond, as one was released this week.

HEALTH WORK LEADERS MEET

On Friday, September 13, at 2 p.m. there will be held in the Parish Hall in Manassas a joint meeting of the Nursing Activities Committee and the Tuberculosis Association of Prince William County. This will be the first meeting of the committee since June and a full attendance is urged, both of committee members and Tuberculosis Seal Sale chairmen. Important tuberculosis problems will be discussed and anyone interested in this and other phases of the work of the Public Health Nursing Service is invited to attend the meeting.

MISS SPEIDEN NEW U.D.C. HEAD

Local Chapter Will Urge Lee Memorial Stamp.

In spite of the inclement weather a goodly number of U.D.C. members gathered in regular session Wednesday afternoon at the hospitable home of Mrs. T. J. Ashford. The assistant hostesses were Mrs. C. M. Larkin and Mrs. Lucy A. Larkin.

With Mrs. Lomas presiding, the usual business routine followed. A silk flag was presented to the chapter, a gift from Mrs. Elizabeth N. Weedon and was accepted with thanks by Mrs. Lomas on behalf of the chapter.

The registrar's report showed that six new members had been added by application and one by demit during the fiscal year.

A letter from the State president, Mrs. Severn Nottingham, was read in which she stated that the annual convention would be held in Roanoke on October 2 to 5 inclusive. Each chapter is requested to secure pictures of monuments and inscriptions there on that have been erected in their respective counties. Mrs. W. A. Newman was appointed to see after this work before convention time. The three objectives stressed by Mrs. Nottingham are Stratford, Raines Educational Fund and the Jefferson Davis Historical Foundation. The chapter has paid its full quota to these and has met all other required obligations.

The following delegates to the Roanoke convention were elected: Mrs. L. L. Lomas, Mrs. R. A. Hutchison, Mrs. T. J. Ashford, Miss Isabelle Hutchison; alternates, Mrs. E. H. Nash, Mrs. R. L. Byrd, Mrs. E. H. Hibbs, Mrs. E. B. Giddings.

The chapter decided to participate in the Dairy Festival parade. Mrs. Maud Kinchele, Mrs. R. S. Hynson, Miss Nolie Nelson and Mrs. E. B. Giddings are the acting committee.

Mrs. Newman read a letter from Senator Rust saying that a marker had been placed at the Henry House and suggested that if the chapter (Continued on back page)

FEDERAL AID FOR 50,000

State-Wide Program May Total $70,000,000.

Early approval of virtually all Virginia's program to provide 50,000 jobs on emergency Federal-aid projects of various types was forecast this week by John Gallaher, NEC director for the State and co-ordinator of agencies as William A. Smith, WPA director, said he had about $19,000,000 worth of projects "in the lap of the gods" awaiting approval and about $15,000,000 of PWA projects was expected to get under the wire by Friday noon, date line for such projects. Altogether, Mr. Gallaher said, it appeared that the whole State-wide program would call for expenditures aggregating approximately the $70,000,000 forecast last June.

Director Smith recently announced tentative allocations for the work on low type secondary roads on which hand work could be largely used. Jobs for 23,458, of whom 21,113 would cost the State Highway Department $500,000 and the localities $185,000, it was estimated.

In addition, there is the State highway program itself, calling for expenditure of $13,500,000 in State and Federal highway and grade-crossing projects—the largest program ever planned for any year. This program would give 5,300 more jobs, it was estimated. Up to a few days ago, the PWA had submitted to Washington 60 applications, were examining 15 more and had 40 others described as being formulated when the 13 new ones came in.

White collar jobless are in mind for use on surveys suggested by the National Resources Board to the PWA. Among the subjects suggested for surveys are: public construction needs, clarification of land tax records, land use type and taxes, springs, inventory of natural resources, stream pollution, battlefields, unclassified analysis, soil type, etc. Already in Washington are projects which would supply work for about 6,000 persons under a public health program, it was estimated.

In addition to the program mentioned, there are numerous Army and Navy projects already under way in Tidewater Virginia and pending in this and other sections.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Christ Jesus" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 1.

The golden text was "The law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ" (John 1:17).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God" (Matthew 16:13, 16).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "It was now evident to Peter that divine Life, Truth, and Love, and not a human personality, was the healer of the sick and a rock, a firm foundation in the realm of harmony" (p. 138).

MRS. SALLIE F. KING

Mrs. Sallie F. King, widow of the late Frank P. King, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. B. Pettit, in Alexandria on Tuesday, August 27, after a lingering illness.

Mrs. King, who was over seventy years of age, was well known in this community, having lived here during the early years of her married life and frequently visited here at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Cross. She had many friends both here and in Alexandria, where she was known as a kind neighbor and loving mother.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Alexandria Temple Baptist Church, of which the deceased was a member, her pastor, the Rev. Ryland Dodge, officiating.

Interment was made in the family lot in the local cemetery, where a large gathering of friends and relatives and beautiful floral tributes gave further evidence of the high esteem in which she was held.

The deceased is survived by her aged mother, Mrs. Mary F. Heflin, of Woodhall, Ill.; six brothers and three sisters, all of Chicago, Ill.; four daughters, Mrs. Emma Cross, Manassas; Mrs. Fannie Donaldson, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Bessie Partlow and Mrs. Lucy Pettit, Alexandria; three sons, Thomas F. King, Asheville, N. C.; William, Alexandria, and George, Washington, D. C.; thirty-nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

WHEN THE SLIPS GET BY

The typographical error is a slippery thing and sly,

You can hunt till you are dizzy, but it somehow will get by.

Till the forms are in the presses it never stir or peeps,

That typographical error, too small for human eyes,

Till the ink is on the paper, when it grows to mountain size.

The boss stares with horror, then he grabs his hair and groans;

The copy reader drops his head upon his hands and moans—

The remainder of the issue may be clean as clean can be,

But that typographical error is the only thing you see.

DRY CLEANING AND DYING

Condensed from The Family Circle
by Paul W. Kearney

In New York State recently a frugal housekeeper filled a pan in the kitchen with enough gasoline to clean a blouse. Taking what she considered adequate precautions, she was careful not to have any open flame in the kitchen and she made sure to have the windows open so as to ventilate the place. As she worked on the blouse, her maid went down to the cellar to look at the furnace, leaving the door ajar. And before she got back upstairs there was an explosion which wrecked the house, killed four people in it, and sent three others to the hospital.

With its proclivities for trouble, and with the carelessness with which it is used, gasoline probably gives us more freak fires than any other single cause. I wish every housewife in the country could see the demonstration frequently staged at the officers' college of the New York Fire Department. A fireman lays a handful of cotton waste, barely moistened with gasoline, in the higher end of a sloping sheet-iron trough, 20 feet long, and the demonstrating officer places a lighted cigarette lighter at the opposite end. In about 30 seconds a blue ball of flame the size of your fist suddenly pops up around the cigarette lighter and with amazing speed rolls all the way back the uphill path to the cotton waste, which bursts into fire at the contact.

Not more than a tablespoon of gasoline is used and none of it runs down the trough, yet it is ignited by a tiny flame 20 feet away. And since the same thing could be done at 20 yards or 20 rods, the moral for the housekeeper is obvious: Don't use gasoline (or benzine or naphtha) in the home for any reason whatever. Because no matter what precautions you take, you can't make it safe!

The firemen's demonstration emphasizes some of the reasons why. First, gasoline is dangerous because it freely gives off an invisible vapor. Because it is heavier than air, this vapor seeks the lowest level, so as soon as you open a gasoline can in your kitchen, the vapor begins to flow over the sides and down to the floor, where it follows the prevailing draft. If, in the course of its flow, it happens across an open flame—a pilot light or even live coals in the ash box of the stove—the cigarette-lighter trick is reenacted on a large scale. The amazing ball of blue flame appears from nowhere, runs back along the invisible vapor column to the vapor's source, and a flash fire or an explosion instantly follows. Even being touched by that rolling fire ball on its return passage will burn you badly enough to send you to the hospital.

What the test doesn't show is that this vapor, when properly mixed with air, is a high explosive at least equal in power to dynamite. Since only a few spoonfuls of gasoline produce enough vapor to drive your heavy car up the steepest hill, you can readily deduce that it doesn't require much of that vapor to blow you right into kingdom come!

But you never use gasoline near an open flame?

All right, consider another case. A mother was cleaning with gasoline late one afternoon. Her daughter, entering the kitchen, observed that it was growing dark and switched on the electric light. Before she could take her hand off the switch, there was an explosion which blew both of them through the side of the house into a vacant lot 30 feet away. The switch had sparked.

Again, in Richmond several years ago a trusting householder went to work with gasoline and mineral wood to clean his waxed floors. That afternoon the firemen responding to an alarm found the home a roaring furnace. They rescued the father and mother out of an upstairs window and sent them to the hospital to recover from their burns, but their infant son was burned to death.

We could continue to cite cases like these all day: cases where gasoline vapor was exploded by a fire nearly 100 yards distant; cases where the scuffing of a shoe, the rubbing of a pair of gasoline-soaked gloves, or even the mere pouring of gasoline from one can to another, generated a static spark which exploded the vapor with losses of from one to 20 lives.

Of course, many householders realize these dangers in a vague sort of way but still continue to use gasoline for various types of cleaning because they "take the proper precautions." This is pure piffle, because not one in 100 knows what precautions to take—to say nothing of how to accomplish them. Obviously, you cannot clean with gasoline without allowing it to vaporize, for as soon as you open the can to pour some out, it immediately begins to mix with air. According to the U. S. Bureau of Mines, a gallon in an open tin in a room 21 x 10 x 10 feet. On that basis a teaspoon of gasoline can put you in your grave.

When the relative humidity is right, a spark from a cat's back or from a thick rug is sufficient to touch off the vapor. Large dry-cleaning plants use expensive automatic machines to test the humidity continuously and to moisten the air when the danger point of dryness approaches. It would be interesting to know just how "careful" housewives measure and control the humidity of their kitchens!

FILM BARES CANADA'S REPLY TO AMERICAN GANG METHODS!

How native Canadians handle American gangsters, who have the temerity to invade the snow-covered territory of Hudson's Bay, and how murderous gangland's contempt for law is answered in the northern provinces of the dominion is graphically described in James Oliver Curwood's "Wilderness Mail," starring two-fisted Kermit Maynard, which will be the featured attraction next Friday and Saturday, September 13 and 14, at the Dixie Theatre in Manassas.

In "Wilderness Mail," Kermit Maynard portrays two roles, that of Keith, a newly promoted corporal in the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, and Rance, the corporal's brother. Corporal Keith is tortured and killed by a group of American gangsters, masquerading as fur trappers. Rance takes up the trail, wreaking swift and terrible justice on the murderers.

"Wilderness Mail" is a fighting picture. From the moment Kermit Maynard steps within camera range, his personality and hair-trigger capabilities as a fighter with fist, bludgeon and gun dominate every scene. There's a sweet romance, too, skillfully woven into the story fabric of "Wilderness Mail," but it is subordinate to the basic structure of this picture, which is action and more action.

The principals in Kermit Maynard's supporting cast are Fred Kohler, Paul Hurst, Doris Brook, Syd Taylor, Dick Curtis and Nelson MacDowell.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a precious heritage to them in after years.

WHOSOEVER WILL: For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

—Romans 10:13.

EFFECT OF N. R. A. CRACK-UP.

Advocates and opponents of the old NRA eagerly sought the early August business reports, as they offered the first opportunity to size up the effect of the Supreme Court ruling declaring the NRA unconstitutional. The June and July reports were considered too early to furnish any really enlightening information.

From the point of view of the NRA advocates the figures proved disappointing. It was their hope and expectation that the end of the blue eagle would prove the beginning of confusion and chaos.

On the other hand, in the major industries there has been no wholesale firing of employees and little or no reduction in wages. There has been no general cut-throat competition in prices. Prices have risen slightly but the heaviest increases appear in farm products which were not under NRA management.

Apparently the explanation lies in the strong consumer demand. Employers did not find it necessary to lower their prices nor to cut wages. The ruling of the Supreme Court so clarified the situation, and increased the confidence of business in general, that production has expanded with both the employer and employee as beneficiary. —Winchester Evening Star.

WHAT'S A GENTLEMAN

Nobody else in the world will agree with Elsa Maxwell's list of "the world's ten greatest gentlemen," or with her definition of a gentleman. But her characterization of a gentleman challenges basic principles of human conduct on which it is possible for intelligent people to get together.

"He cannot support a family," explains this "author's hostess famous for her unique parties," because "that is hard work, leaving no time for politeness. He cannot be an artist, because people painting pictures are egotists. He cannot be an author. Authors tell the truth sometimes. That is rude. He must not dress as well as his valet, because a too carefully dressed man is full of vanity. He cannot be a member of royalty, because no gentleman can allow beautiful women to curtsy continually before him."

And so on, with the conclusion.

System to your saving

System in your business cannot be attained unless you utilize the facilities of a safe and friendly bank.

The Peoples National Bank of Manassas on that the authoress-hostess has "never met any gentleman." Her guests will appreciate that.

It may be as profitable as a crossword puzzle or a bridge game to do a little thinking about this matter and figure out for oneself what makes a gentleman—or a lady.

Plenty of us might agree that the family man or woman is more apt to possess the real qualities of gentility than the unattached person. Family life is the greatest of human civilizers and training schools, and it can survive only through habitual practice of courtesy, forbearance and generosity.

THE SAME TUGWELL

Last summer when Rexford Guy Tugwell was being examined by the Agricultural Committee of the United States Senate prior to his confirmation as Under-Secretary of Agriculture, his answers to the senators' questions were evasive, indirect, and meaningless. His replies gave the impression that he was attempting to cover up some past statements.

Several weeks ago Representative John W. Boehme, Jr., Democrat of Indiana, wrote Mr. Tugwell, who is now Resettlement Administrator, concerning reports that his agency was planning to set up furniture factories in competition with private one. Following his usual custom, the Columbia Professor failed to answer Mr. Boehme's first, second and third letter. He finally replied, but in such an indirect way that little information could be gained. The Indiana Representative at last wrote Professor Tugwell suggesting that his letters "showed a spirit of evasiveness, which is indeed commendable."

Apparently the many newspaper comments and sharp senatorial remarks regarding his obviously evasive answers last June, have had no effect upon the professor.

Incidentally, the Tugwellian philosophy of "planned economy" means, first, governmental regulation of all business and then government operation of all business, and then in the words of Professor Tugwell himself, "It has already been suggested that business will logically be required to disappear. This is not an overstatement for the sake of emphasis; it is literally meant." Possibly this is what Mr. Tugwell desired to keep hidden when the Senate Committee questioned him.

But he should not be judged too harshly for his evasiveness, for when one considers his ideas, it is apparent that he has good reason to keep them in the dark as much as possible.

To the Editor of The Manassas Journal, Manassas, Va.

When one considers the area of Great Britain, 120,000 square miles, including England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, less than half the area of our Texas with its 265 square miles, and then realize that one-sixth of the world is owned or controlled by this island, we cannot help admiring her status in affairs of the world, her bulldog tenacity, and the jealousy she has ever maintained in retaining her possessions.

An Englishman can leave his island, circumnavigate the globe, and return home without losing sight of the English flag or of planting his feet upon foreign territory. Let us make the itinerary with him. Leaving England we pass down the Atlantic to Gibraltar where the English flag greets our gaze, and where Redcoats are visible in the distance patrolling the ramparts. Since 1704 this impregnable fortress has flown the English flag.

In that year Admiral George Rooke of the British navy defeated the allied forces of Spain and France. A number of attempts have since been made by Spain to reconquer it with signal failure.

Leaving Gibraltar we steam Eastward, arriving at Malta where we again meet the English flag and see many Redcoats. We find many English families here, and though hospitably entertained we must leave for Cyprus, farther up the Mediterranean. Again the English flag and the Redcoated soldiers greet us.

Now for Alexandria, Egypt. Here is truly a cosmopolitan city. Every language and dialect may be heard, but old England is well represented, for she holds a protectorate over Egypt.

At Port Said we enter the Suez Canal 100 miles in length, then upon entering the Gulf of Aden we anchor at Aden. England again is in evidence, the English flag flying, English soldiers in their redcoats strolling about.

Now, after leaving the town and its terrific heat, we enter the Indian Ocean heading for the Island of Bombay, stopping at Colombo, Ceylon, again the English flag. We shall take a railroad ride of 500 miles to Calcutta, visit Madras, then to Shanghai, China, by steamer to Hong Kong which is as thoroughly English as any English town. We have now been in Europe, Asia and Africa, but we have not been away from the English flag or English influence.

We now wish to return to England without patronizing railroad or steamship outside of the English flag. We therefore upon landing in America at Vancouver, British Columbia, take the Canadian Pacific Railway, and after traversing the North American continent for 3000 miles find ourselves at Halifax, Nova Scotia. We take a steamer there for Liverpool and after rolling 5 days on the old Atlantic find that we are still in England, that we have circumnavigated the globe, that we have been in all the geographical divisions of the world but we have not succeeded in getting away from the English flag, the flag that was planted in this dear old state in 1607, in Massachusetts in 1620 and it was children of her own blood that compelled her to furl it here, not foreigners. I may add that this itinerary has been made by me, and is fresh in mind.

Very respectfully,

Geo. Davis Duty Selectman.

RELIEF WORKERS

GET EMPLOYMENT

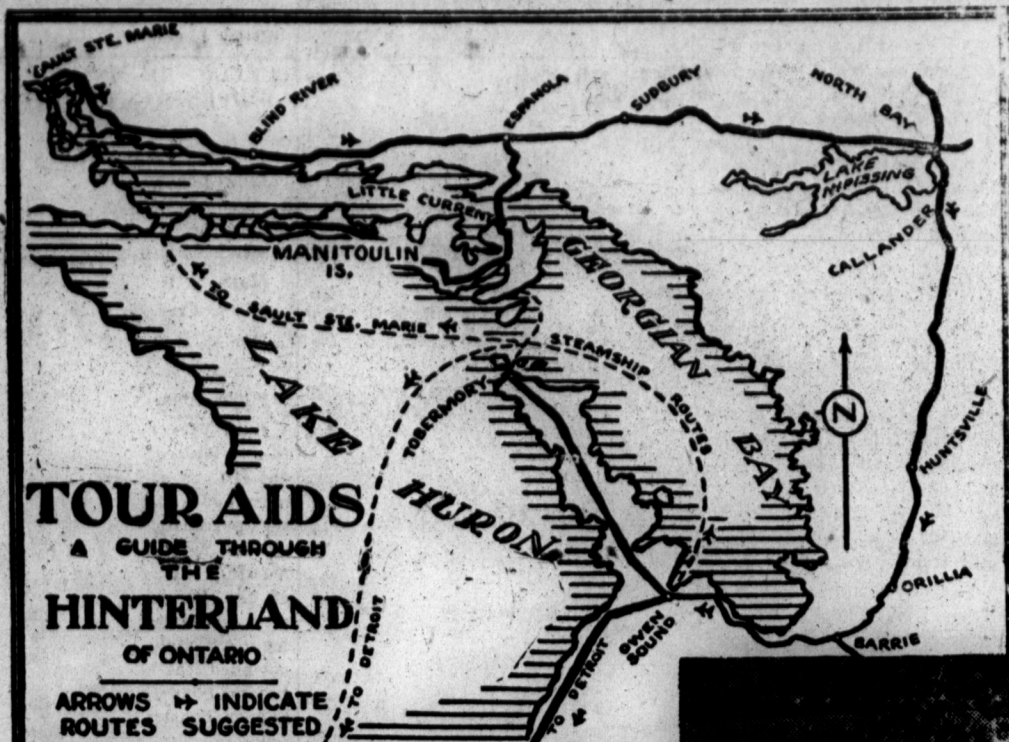

Five hundred men from Virginia's relief rolls were put to work on State highways this week, it was announced by Henry G. Shirley, State Highway Commissioner.

Mr. Shirley said these men would be employed mostly on pick-and-shovel work in the maintenance division. More will be added from time to time until jobs are given to 5,300 unemployed.

Meanwhile, the State Highway Department continued to mark time waiting for Federal approval of the giant, $13,500,000 highway work-relief program submitted last month.

Tentative approval has been given to parts of the program, but there are no projects yet which the highway department can go ahead and let contracts on. Mr. Shirley said he was afraid the program would be held up in Washington for some time yet, although it has passed the district engineers of the Federal Bureau

ARROWS → INDICATE ROUTES SUGGESTED

HERE is a motor trip of almost a thousand miles that cuts through the heart of the great forested playground of Northern Ontario. It begins at Sault Ste. Marie and swings almost due east to North Bay, through fine fishing country. At North Bay it turns abruptly south past Callander where the famous Dionne Quintuplets reside, through the Lake of Bays and the Muskoka districts to Barrie. There the route swings west to Owen Sound and up the Bruce Peninsula beside Georgian Bay to Tobermory, a picturesque fishing village. From there, if desired, a ferry can be taken to Manitoulin Island, one of the loveliest bits of scenery in Canada or return can be made to Sault Ste. Marie by steamship from Owen Sound. A further alternative is offered by proceeding southward from Owen Sound along the shore of Lake Huron to Sarnia which is opposite Port Huron, Michigan, or to Windsor which is across the St. Clair River from Detroit. The photograph shows the lock of the original Sault Ste. Marie canal which was built only to accommodate canoes in the fur trading days.

A NOVEL OF THE OLD SOUTH

By H. J. Eckenrode

The story of Buck Musgrave, Southern gentleman, who devoted himself, before the Civil War, to the serious pursuits of life, particularly horse-racing, cock-fighting and hard drinking. The searing changes which the War brought to this son of the Old South, and his changed outlook in the Reconstruction period are presented with dramatic force.

The author is State Historian of Virginia. He knows and understands the people of whom he writes, and he treats of the Musgraves as well as the "poor whites" with honesty and vigor. The manners and customs of the time just before and after the Civil War are presented from a fresh viewpoint in this fine novel of the life, loves and adventures of Buck Musgrave, who betrayed his traditions, but found a renewed and finer life under a new code.

OLD CHURCHES OPEN TO PUBLIC

Virginia Diocese Arranges Interesting Tour.

Tours to forty-four historic Episcopal Churches in Virginia, virtually all of the original 250 Colonial churches of the Commonwealth to remain standing, will be offered the traveling public on September 29 and October 6 and 13, in the first organized church tours of the State ever attempted. The tours will be a part of The Virginia Autumn Travelogue, a consecutive series of events beginning with the National Tobacco Festival at South Boston on September 25 and continuing through the anniversary celebration at Yorktown, on October 19. Governor George C. Peery is chairman of the Travelogue movement.

Arrangements for the church tours were made by Dr. G. McLaren Brydon and Miss Mary Goodwin, historiographers of the Episcopal diocese in Virginia. These included constitute the thirty-eight churches of Colonial days owned and used by the Episcopal church and a number of others which have passed into the hands of other faiths.

The Colonial churches in Virginia constitute one of the most interesting and appealing groups of Colonial buildings now in existence. Most of them are situated in rural sections, remote from towns and with their venerable age and antique interiors speak of the life of passing generations.

The Church of England was established by law in the Colony of Virginia and its parishes covered the colony. At the time of the revolution there were nearly 100 parishes with 250 churches and chapel buildings. All of these still in existence are in the section of the state east of the Blue Ridge and most of them are in the Tidewater section.

Virginia churches are of two styles of architecture, the rectangular building and the cruciform, with many small variations. The earlier churches were rectangular. Bruton Church in Williamsburg, erected 1710-15 is the earliest existent specimen of the cruciform church. St. Paul's Church in King George County, erected in 1766, is a square cruciform with all four arms of the same length.

Under the ecclesiastical law of England every Colonial church in Virginia was erected due east and west, with the chancel in the east end. The main door was at the west end, with the font usually placed in a pew space just inside that door. The pulpit was never placed in the Chancel. In the earliest churches it was always on the north wall of the church for the reason perhaps that according to a belief among the early Jews, intimated in the Psalms and in the Book of Jeremiah, when God spoke to man He spoke from the north. In some of the later churches the custom was abandoned and the pulpit placed on the south wall.

Under the changed conditions of modern life the colonial church buildings have been modified to some slight extent. For instance no Colonial church had any provision at all either for heating or for artificial light. The congregation wore their wraps to keep warm in winter. There were no lights because the law of the colony forbade meetings at night. Because of the constant importation of African slaves every household was expected to remain at home after dark in order to protect his family from the constant menace of a slave insurrection.

Arrangements have been made to invite all making the tour to attend church services and schedule of these services is being worked out for all churches in Virginia. Special committees will show the churches to visitors and tell something of their history.

history.

In early days there was a time set in the service for official notices, the reading of Governor's proclamations, new laws requiring to be brought quickly to the knowledge of the people and other matters of importance. It was the one regular opportunity for scattered neighbors to meet and discuss neighborhood affairs and problems. It has been said that in the difficult years just before the Revolution, resistance to Great Britain was begun and fomented in the Vestry meetings of the various parishes. From these meetings it spread to the churchyards where the service. Because of such conditions the old church buildings are more intimately connected with the common life of the Colonial period than any other class of buildings now in existence.

Churches to be included in the tour, include:

Vicinity of Alexandria—

Christ Church, Falls Church, Pohick Church.

Around Fredericksburg—

Lamb's Creek Church, St. Paul's and Vauter's Churches, Aquia Church.

Richmond—

St. John's, Fork, St. Peter's, Westover and Hebron (the latter now a Presbyterian Church).

Petersburg—

Blandford, Merchants Hope, Saponoy and ruins of Lawnes Creek church.

Williamsburg—

Bruton, Hickory Neck, Jamestown, Grace, St. John's, Abington and Ware Churches.

Norfolk—

St. Paul's, Trinity, Glebe, St. John's, Old Brick (St. Luke's), Donation and Eastern Shore Chapel.

Eastern Shore of Virginia—

Hungars and St. George's Churches.

Scattered locations—

Little Fork Church in Culpeper County, Hebron Lutheran Church, Madison County and Old Stone Church on Timber Ridge near Lexington.

MAESTRO, RAFT CO-STAR

IN HIT COMEDY MOVIE

Starred with George Raft in his second film, Ben Bernie together with his lads appears in "Stolen Harmony," coming to the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Monday, in his best clowning and musical mood.

The picture, featuring a new score by those wizards of the keyboard, Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, blends music with comedy and closes on a dramatic note.

Ben Bernie, in "Stolen Harmony," leads his lads and lasses on a transcontinental barnstorming tour on a large bus.

One of the members of the band is Raft, an ex-convict whom Bernie has given a job in an effort to help the lad go straight. When money is missing things look bad for Raft, but Grace Bradley, also a member of the troupe, persuades him to stick it out and clear himself.

Enroute between towns, the band is kidnapped by a gang of desperadoes who intend to use the bus for their get-away. Raft sees his chance and takes it. He makes the criminals believe that he is one of them, then by a desperate ruse outwits them and turns them over to the police.

Direction by Alfred Werker, the man who directed "The House of Rothschild," gives to "Stolen Harmony" smoothness, consistency and pace which heighten the entertainment value of the novel plot.

The principals leave nothing to be desired in their performances. Outstanding in minor characterizations are Iris Adrian, Goodee Montgomery, Lloyd Nolan and Charlie Arnt, whose romance with Iris Adrian furnishes a satisfactory minor comedy note.

NATION'S MOST FAMOUS HISTORICAL PHOTOGRAPH COMPLETELY IDENTIFIED

A controversy waged for over sixty years is brought to a close with acceptance of identification of figures appearing in what is generally regarded as the Nation's most historic photograph, the committee sponsoring the annual Robert E. Lee Week festival. Culminating in the invitation Lee Monument ball to be given Aug. 30 at the Greenbrier, the festival will be held the entire week of Aug. 25 in White Sulphur Springs, West Va., where the photograph was taken in 1869.

The identifications accepted by the committee are the result of many years' research by Leonard L. Mackall, well-known authority on Leeana, who lives at 217 East 34th St., Savannah, Ga. His report submitted to the committee is substantiated by documents and other old photographs, leaving no room for doubt that each of the historic personages appearing in the film is now properly named and as such will be accepted as authentic at one of the ceremonies at the Lee Week celebration.

Although the photograph has been reproduced many times since 1869, never in recent years, and probably not for at least fifty years, has the photograph shown names correctly, either in newspapers, magazines or historical works, according to Mackall, who in his report says: "In 'The Photographic History of the Civil War,' edited by Francis Trevelyan Miller, the photograph is described as 'Soldiers and Citizens: Robert E. Lee With Former Union and Confederate Leaders After the Armies' Work Was Done.' Beneath the Confederate General, Gary, is identified as the Union General, John W. Geary. General Lawton is mistaken for the Union General Lew Wallace! In another work General Conner is described as General George H. Thomas of the Union Army. In an important history issued within the last two years, in which the photograph is reproduced, of all those standing only General Beauregard is correctly indicated, the other seven names being wrongly placed and also partly incomplete or entirely inaccurate."

According to the now accepted identifications, subjects seated in the photograph, commencing from the left, are 1) Blacque Bey, Turkish Minister to the United States, 1867 to 1873; 2) General Lee; 3) George Peabody of Massachusetts, philanthropist; 4) W. W. Corcoran of Washington, philanthropist, donor of the Corcoran Gallery; 5) Judge James Lyons of Richmond, Va., lawyer, member of the House of Representatives in the "first Confederate Congress, 1862-4, intimate friend of Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States of America."

All subjects standing are Confederate Generals. Commencing from the left, 1) is General James Conner of South Carolina, attorney general of that State under Wade Hampton; 2) General Martin W. Gary of South Carolina; 3) Major General J. Bankhead Gruder of Virginia; 4) General Robert D. Lilley of Virginia; 5) General Beauregard of Louisiana; 6) General Alexander R. Lawton of Georgia, appointed Quartermaster General of the army of the Confederate States when wounds received at the battle of Antietam prevented his return to active service; 7) General Henry A. Wise of Virginia, Governor of Virginia during the period of John Brown's raid; 8) General Joseph L. Brent of Maryland, who died in 1905, last survivor of all Americans in the photograph.

(Note—In line 9 of final paragraph General "Gruder" should be read as General Magruder)

CATHARPIN

Haile Selassie — Someone please pronounce that for us, will you?

Mr. William Henry Dogan, Jr., of Groveton, Va., was a caller at Lawn Vale Thursday evening of last week.

Mrs. Mary Pringle League, and daughter, of Chase, Md., spent several days with her grandmother, Mrs. Mary E. Wilkins, of Sudley, over last week-end.

Mrs. Carrie Fetzter Swift, of Washington, was a Belle Farm visitor one day last week and was accompanied home by Master Gordon Pattie who will visit his sister, Mrs. Mary P. Briggs, and enjoy the sights of the Capital City for a few days.

Announcement is made that preaching services will be resumed at Sudley next Sunday, September 8, and continue regular schedule until the close of the year. Sunday school, however, will not be open until probably on the 22nd. This will be three days earlier than the quarantine will be lifted, but the year is so near out that we need the last two Sundays to finish up the year's reports.

Dr. H. E. Pickeral has been blood-testing the several herds of dairy cattle in the Catharpin neighborhood. Some losses have been sustained but ere long all herds will be 100 per cent clear.

Feeders are now beginning to stock up on their fall and winter cattle for the feed lots. Mr. W. Holmes Robertson has just returned from Georgia and Sapaloe Island and expects a large shipment to arrive this week. While in the South he visited a large sheep ranch where the owner has them by the thousand and keeps them only for their wool.

Mr. Henderson Supplee, of Hampton, N. J., is spending a few days this week in the Brower home at Lone Oak.

Mrs. W. Holmes Robertson and daughter, Frances, were Washington shoppers on Friday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Sowers and daughter, of Washington, are spending the week-end and Labor Day with Mrs. Sower's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Griffith.

We have just learned that "Ababa" is pronounced Ah-wah-wah. Perhaps this will help you with Haile Selassie.

Mrs. Audrey McIntosh Munday and little daughter, Barbara Lee, of Washington, are visiting their aunt, Miss Sallie McIntosh, where they expect to remain during the present week.

So many times in conversation one hears the remark "Well things are not like they used to be." Then they will go on and narrate the differences and show wherein we have lost or gained by the transition. The older group generally concedes that we have suffered a distinctive loss by our departure from many of the old-time habits and customs, which the younger generation of today know nothing about.

Just recently, in conversation with one of the older ladies of the community, one who in her younger days had been used to many social gatherings wherein whole families, oft times, gathered around the festive board in neighboring homes, happily mingling together and an evening spent in conversation by the older ones, plays for the children and some love-making, beaming smiles and other fascinating ways and means known only to the intermediates, were indulged in; all to the entire satisfaction of those involved, which meant that the whole community was satisfied and as they were homeward bound, their thoughts turned forward to the next time they should meet.

Well that was some 25 years ago. No automobiles were in the neighborhood, no movies to attend and people were wholly dependent upon neighborhood activities for their social entertainment. The church also was a fruitful source of enjoyment since it was there that one could count upon seeing his neighbor, friend or best girl or boy friend, if for no other reason than to receive a repetition of the smile allocated to him or her at the last community-feast. Thus these home institutions were enjoyable events since they were the vehicles for both secular enjoyment and Christian inspiration.

In regard to the community feasts, we so well and graciously remember when the Old Stone House Good Housekeeping Club was in the heyday of its existence; how those good ladies used to hold their annual banquets to which all connected families and friends were invited and where table after table would be loaded to capacity with "The fat of the land." The largest room was always allocated to the banquet table where table after table would be filled with invited guests, appetites sated and all had their turn at the festive board.

Among other instances of the "Old Days" might be mentioned the Catharpin Good Housekeeping Club which was organized 24 years ago and which organization still exists and is proud of the fact that it is the oldest housekeeping club in the county, being addressed during its very earliest days by Miss Ella Agnew, a State official, and later by other noted people from out of the county. This organization combined literary programs along with its housekeeping proclivities also served banquets and gave entertainments, all to the delight and enjoyment of the club and its friends. While the club still exists and regularly organized, it has lost much of its momentum of other days; nevertheless it still lives in a modified town. These, however, are samples of some of the "Old Time" activities when each housewife prided herself on her culinary ability and her art in making her home a pleasant place in which to live.

As we recite these habits and customs which have passed, the question naturally arises "what have we in their place?" and how are they influencing life in general as compared to the habits, customs and institutions of the "Old Days"? This is a question often asked but rarely answered, yet the asker always has in mind something that seems to be troubling him.

Since the consolidation of schools the "Community Spirit" has been removed from "The little red school house" and literary societies, debates, school entertainments and property pride is now a thing of the past. These activities always elicited great interests among the people of the district and their loss is more than we sometimes think. Well, what is the gain? This has to be answered on the principle that "One man's loss is another man's gain." What the parent has lost the child has gained in better educational facilities. In this case we are compelled to let the one balance the other and go 50-50 on the deal. There might be some argument—both ways—on this decision, but you can decide it your own way and we shall not dispute your decision.

While we are working under a new dispensation, as it were, in so many ways, there is one thing that must never be lost sight of, that is—the closer the family keeps together, the better for all concerned, both children and parent; and conversely the more they are separated the farther apart they grow until neither child nor parent influences the other as they should. Since the advent of the automobile, transportation is so easy, long distances are reduced to their lowest terms, time is no longer a factor, and the impulse of young people to get together and off by themselves is the all-absorbing idea; and to help along, the movie offers a destination. So with these now ready at all times, one can readily see how the "Old Time" home gatherings under parental care are fast losing out. It now seems we are confronted with a condition and not a theory. The fact is that the "Old times and ways" are gone never to return, so there's no use wasting time discussing them only as a matter of history. The "New Times" are here and the thing to do is to learn how to keep up with them and handle them. We can no longer cut our crops with a sickle; tho' it used to be done when the acreage was small. Things are changing and changing rapidly, but unfortunately, we, the older generations, are not changing with them. We often hear the remark that "Children do not obey their parents like they used to." To carry it a little farther, neither do the parents nor the older people obey their church as they used to. So we all seem to be in a kind of slump and in need of somebody to straighten us out.

"Virginian," Greatest Outdoor Film, Returns with All-Star Cast Headed by Gary Cooper

Four of filmdom's most prominent actors are starred and featured in one of the greatest outdoor-spectacle classics—"The Virginian," coming to the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Wednesday. They are Gary Cooper, Walter Hutson, Richard Arlen and Mary Brian.

Each has had phenomenal success in the years since the picture was produced, but their performances in "The Virginian," the first all-talking outdoor romance, made these stars the favorites they are.

Gary Cooper, who recently appeared in "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," plays the role of "The Virginian." Walter Huston, veteran of the stage and screen, is seen as "Trampas," the ring-leader of the cattle rustlers in the play. Richard Arlen is "Steve" and Miss Brian is cast as "Molly Wood," the school teacher with whom The Virginian falls in love.

"The Virginian," a novel by Owen Wister, was first published in the 80's, and was acclaimed at that time as the great American novel. Many leaders in American literary circles maintain that it is still the greatest American novel ever written. It was rewritten for the stage by Wister and Kirk LaShelle and, as a play, it earned widespread renown, bringing immortal fame to a number of actors who played its title role in packed houses all over the country.

In 1929, Paramount Pictures brought "The Virginian" to the public in a new and more engaging medium—a medium that gave this romantic theme a fuller scope and a much more realistic treatment. The picture has been revived and its repeated successes in theatres all over the country have proven that it is still the great American classic.

Banks Listen

about their neighbors.

BANKS are interested in business men who are well spoken of because of fair dealings, courtesy, good service, quality products or fair prices, for these make a business grow and prosper. In time these business men will find use for new or increased borrowings from their bank and give useful employment to its loanable funds.

More than this, the good name which brings deserved success to those who render varied business services to the Community is the keystone of sound credit.

This bank hears many good words about its business neighbors. It deems them an essential element in the strength and safety of the loans which it has made to many of them to facilitate their business operations.

Mitzi Stars In The Kitchen, Too

By Barbara B. Brooks

NOW that Mitzi Green, child star of the movies and vaudeville, has reached the advanced age of 16, she has put away her dolls and roller skates and is going in for more grown-up activities. Mitzi has such a sunny disposition that she gets a lot of fun out of whatever she is doing. She says, however, that a lot of her keenest enjoyment comes from cooking—and that may seem a very commonplace pursuit to most people.

Cooking isn't commonplace to Mitzi, though, for, being on the road so much of the time, she has few opportunities to do an apron and grab a mixing bowl. But when she does she proves that her talents are not confined to the stage and screen. One of her specialties is waffles, and you never saw or tasted more delicious waffles than Mitzi's. It seems she picked up the trick of making them with bran. What a rich, crisp, nut-like flavor they have! After you have tasted the first one you want more and more. Mitzi is a generous little soul, so she shares her recipe with us. Here it is:

Mitzi's Bran Waffles
1 1/4 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
2 eggs (separated)
1 tablespoon melted shortening
1 cup milk or more
1/2 cup all-bran
Sift together the dry ingredients. Beat the eggs until light, separating the whites and yolks. To the beaten yolks add the shortening and part of the milk, and mix this with the sifted dry ingredients. Add all-bran. Beat thoroughly and add enough more milk (or water) to make a smooth batter about as thick as cream. Fold in the whites and cook in hot, greased waffle iron. All-bran butterscotch refrigerator cookies are another appetizing bran delicacy, and to show that I'm as generous as Mitzi here is my recipe for cookies:

All-Bran Butterscotch Refrigerator Cookies
1 cup butter
2 cups brown sugar
1 egg
1 cup all-bran
3 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Cream butter; add sugar gradually and beat until thoroughly mixed. Add egg and all-bran. Sift flour with baking powder and add to the first mixture. Shape into roll about 1 1/2 inches in diameter, wrap in waxed paper and store in refrigerator until firm. Cut into thin slices and bake on ungreased cookie sheet in hot oven (425° F.) about 10 minutes.
Yield: 7 1/2 dozen cookies, 2 inches in diameter.

was interested in marking other historical spots to please advise him and he would be glad to co-operate. It was decided to ask Mr. Rust to have one placed at Liberia, the headquarters of Gen. Beauregard.

Mrs. Weedon, chairman of building committee, reported having written cards to members of the chapter requesting them to save a penny a day for a year as a contribution to the chapter memorial hall and had received some very encouraging replies.

Mrs. Maud Kincheloe announced a rummage sale for Saturday, the 14th, in Conner's Hall for benefit of building fund.

Mrs. Margaret Lewis, chairman of remembrance committee, reported that Mrs. John T. Coleman, widow of a Confederate veteran, observed her ninety-fourth birthday on August 28. During the day friends and neighbors called with gifts of flowers and fruit. Among these was a beautiful bouquet of gladioli, accompanied by a card bearing birthday greetings from the chapter.

At the request of Mrs. B. Ferguson Cary, division historian, the chapter delegated Mrs. Weedon, corresponding secretary, to write to Postmaster General James Farley and Virginia Senators and representatives urging them to have issued a Lee postage stamp to commemorate the dedication of Stratford on October 12.

The chapter decided to purchase Dr. Matthew Page Andrews' new book, "Virginia, The Old Dominion," accepting a pre-publication offer, for the high school library.

Mrs. Newman, in her historical program, read from the Southern Historical Society papers, published in Richmond July 1876, a letter from Gen. Lee to President Davis, offering his resignation, after the battle of Gettysburg, and President Davis' reply in which he intimated it would be impossible to find a greater General than Robert E. Lee. She also gave some highlights gleaned from the radio broadcast from Amarillo, Tex., where the Confederate Reunion is in progress, some of which are the following: "Colors That Never Ran," "The Flag That Will Never Be Furl," "The Confederate soldier was lauded as a man of great character—no greater contribution to the history of the world, from North, South, East, or West, has ever been greater. Tribute was also paid to the greatness of the Confederate women."

The nominating committee presented the following names for chapter officers: President, Miss Virginia Speiden; first vice-president, Mrs. L. L. Lomas; second vice-president, Mrs. Lucy Washington; third vice-president, Mrs. Guy Allen; fourth vice-president, Miss Mary E. Connor; recording secretary, Mrs. R. A. Hutchison; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth N. Weedon; treasurer, Mrs. R. L. Byrd; registrar, Mrs. Fred Dowell; historian, Mrs. W. A. Newman; recorder of crosses, Mrs. Hebe Jackson; custodian, Mrs. W. A. Newman.

Mrs. Lomas retired from the chair with many regrets, as she had received hearty co-operation from officers and committees. She expressed her loyalty to the chapter and the cause it represents, and turned over the gavel to Miss Speiden, assuring her of her support and co-operation in the new administration.

Mrs. Lomas warmly thanked all her committees for their faithfulness, especially Mrs. Margaret Lewis, chairman of the remembrance committee, who has been so liberal with her time,

LANDSCAPING ON ROADS PAYS WELL

Artistic Work Appeals to Many Tourists.

When you drive along U. S. Route No. 1 from Washington to Fredericksburg, or any of several main arteries in Virginia, and see a nicely terraced stretch of terrain rising back from the road, do not throw up your hands and wonder why in the world the State "tosses away all that money." That's gold in their hills.

You have the word of Harold J. Neale, landscape engineer of the State Highway Department, that the expenditure is repaid many times over in dividends flowing through three distinct channels:

"Our $73,000,000. tourist business is due in no little part to the fact that today's motorist can travel smoothly over beautified Virginia highways. No one wants to spend a day driving to one of our exquisite shrines only to have the impression received there destroyed by a trip home through unsightly landscape along rubbish-littered roads."

"It takes more than a smooth strip of highway to send people home saying what fine roads Virginia has. The background must blend. A view that jars upon the senses disturbs the pleasure of a journey as much as a series of bumps that bruise the body—if you will pardon the alliteration."

Mr. Neale's highly trained mind is the scientific dynamo behind the forces that work beside Virginia's highways—and that is no mean assignment.

The State secures easements on the property bordering either side of an important highway, and to the landscapers goes the care of this ground as well as the construction of drainage ditches and other more prosaic work.

It is highly important that land immediately beside a road be turfed—a process which tends to hold solid shoulders, facilitate drainage and keep roadside hills from tumbling into the highways. This work alone saves thousands of dollars annually in repairs and rebuilding that would be otherwise necessary.

Last, but by no means least among the three dividends, is that of increased property values. In addition to the increased spending of more and better pleased travelers over the highways, the land alongside immediately jumps in terms of dollars and cents when roadside improvements lend their enhancing influence.

As an illustration, Mr. Neale points to the phenomenal transformation brought on in Westchester County, New York, by the simple device of constructing parkways and flower plots.

"Assessed value of property in Westchester County before beautification work was instituted stood at $600,000,000," Virginia's landscaper declared. "Over a period of 12 years, with the expenditure of $100,000,000, property values there have jumped to $1,750,000,000—an increase of ONE BILLION, ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY MILLION."

After such big-money talk it seems beside the point to mention a little thing like the wayside picnic areas Virginia is developing. Mr. Neale's landscapers, however, are on the job, making the public realize that a State highway has scenic possibilities and is something more than a mere piece of concrete to ride over.

and her beautiful flowers. The hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Beulah Larkin, served delicious refreshments, and the social hour was thoroughly enjoyed.

Set Motor Assembly Speed Record

A NEW record for assembling the 237 parts of the 1935 Ford V-8 Engine was established recently in a demonstration in Baltimore, Md. by Ernest Hapke, (left) and Jack Kredell. They did the job in 7 minutes and 22 seconds. Previous record of 7 minutes and 45 seconds was set at C. W. of Progress, Chicago.

HOT LUNCHES TO BE SERVED SCHOOL CHILDREN

The health value of the hot dish for school children is now unquestionably recognized in school communities of Prince William County. Some plans have been made for the preparation of vegetables for these lunches in most communities of the county. Due to the continued drought vegetables have been scarce and actually little canning has been done for this purpose.

With the improved weather condition there should be a surplus of vegetables suitable for soup mixture. Since the surplus is not to be great in most gardens it is desirable that a large number of people make small contributions.

In Greenwich, Woodlawn, Brentsville, Hickory Grove, Catharpin, and Bethel schools patrons and friends are asked to contribute soup mixture or canned tomatoes. This canning is to be done individually and sent in upon request from the respective schools.

In Buckhall, Manassas, Haymarket, Woodbine, Hayfield, Joplin, and Aden communities canning days are being observed. Anyone wishing to help with the hot lunches in these communities may send in surplus vegetables on the day specified. Canning dates will be announced later.

ADEN

Mrs. Judson Herring has returned to her home after spending a month with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Jones, of Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hershey, of Lyon Park, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dowell. Miss Frances Hummer has returned from a pleasant vacation at Cedarhurst, Md.

Mrs. Jane Harpine and Mrs. Joe Smith were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Swank.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Smith spent a few days at their farm and visited some of their many friends in the community. We are always glad to see them.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett and little daughter, of Washington, D. C., visited Mrs. Frank Hummer last week.

Roy Herring, of Washington, D. C., had the misfortune to fall and break his arm while visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Herring. Canning day at Aden proved a busy day and a successful one. Ninety-one quarts of soup mixture and vegetables were canned.

Those who had the privilege of attending the all-day service at Asbury on Sunday were much pleased with the two splendid sermons preached by Rev. G. E. Pope of White Post, Va. The music being a special part of the day's program was given by friends from Alexandria and by local talent.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wolf and little daughter have returned after a two weeks' visit to Mr. Wolf's home near Hagerstown, Md.

Miss Kathleen Kerlin is visiting her brother, Mr. Lee Wine Kerlin, in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. James J. P. and David Kerlin excelled in entertaining the Kensington Club on Aug. 29. It was a very delightful meeting and a very busy one. The September meeting will be held at Miss Minnie Smith's home in Bristow.

Mr. Dorsey Wright is quite ill.

THE WORLD AROUND US

By

O. J. Schuster

OVER EIGHTY MILLION AMERICANS attend the movies each week, according to records published recently, and about 30 million of these are under 12 years. The influence of this agency for good or evil can hardly be over stated. Were the movies run by the service motive instead of by the private profit motive their educational value would be tremendous.

THE HOUSEWIVES OF DETROIT take direct action to make their talk effective. They recently went on strike against high meat prices, picketed all the meat shops they could find and persuading would-be customers to refuse to buy meat until prices were reduced. Similar strikes were staged in other parts of the country. It is a type of adult education thru doing.

DR. L. R. ALDERMAN of the FERA in Washington says there are 12 million illiterate adults in the United States. In addition to these there are other millions who are not counted as illiterates and yet cannot read a newspaper intelligently or write or speak understandingly. Adult education is greatly needed. This country is far behind many of the other countries of the world in this respect. Adult education on a large scale is carried on in Turkey, Russia, Switzerland, Denmark, Norway and other countries and the results show that men and women past 60 learn as readily as do children of 10.

THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE is developing an effective agency of adult education among the farming population of the United States. This agency is in the form of open forums held in thousands of counties thruout the country more or less regularly. Schoolhouses, courtrooms, halls, fairgrounds, private homes are used for these meetings and farmers are learning to get on their feet and discuss economic and political affairs vital to their interests. The Secretary of Agriculture and his aids wisely insist that those who act as leaders in these open forums must avoid all dogmatic instruction and measure the success of these adult schools by the amount of free active participation by means of questions and discussion taken by the farmers themselves. The farmers ask questions of each other, discuss them, bring to the meetings extracts from reports and surveys to back up their views, and weave their own personal experience into the discussion. The leaders limit their part in the open forums to preserving the essentials of parliamentary procedure and to answering such questions as are referred to them.
