DAIRY FESTIVAL WIDELY KNOWN

Publications Throughout Nation Comment on Virginia Event.

For a month preceding the Fifth Annual Piedmont Dairy Festival, a series of articles describing the developments in the preparations for the program were carried by every daily and weekly newspaper in Virginia. In addition, through the cooperation of the Associated Press, the United Press, International News Service, the Central Press and other news syndicates, national attention was drawn to the program and the local dairy industry by articles in the leading newspapers of the entire country. Through the untiring efforts of Miss Walser Conner, chairman of the press relations committee, all means and agencies by which this objective might be reached were drafted into use.

Editorial,
Dairymen's League News, New York, Oct. 29.

In the famous Piedmont Section of Virginia, and in the historic town of Manassas, 20,000 people on October 11, paid homage to the dairy farmer and the dairy cow. It was the fifth annual Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festival. Young farm boys from ten counties of this fine Virginia dairy belt took part in the judging contests prior to the parade. School children presented a pageant called "Around the Clock with the Milkman." Well groomed dairy cows took part in the pageant. The parade included floats and bands of all kinds, agricultural and civic organizations, 4-H clubs, Future Farmers of America, Boy and Girl Scout troops, and herd and breed exhibits. It was over two miles long.

Yes, and there was a Queen, her court and last but not least an air tour of the surrounding dairy region in a dirigible and in planes provided by the festival committee. The whole idea of this affair is to promote and increase the use of dairy products and it's a bang-up good idea. It ought to be done in other sections. Editorial New York Dairymen's League News, Oct. 29, 1935.

A third of the cover page of the current issue of the Virginia Farmer, a monthly publication devoted to the interests of the rural people of Virginia, was given to a very complimentary account of the recent dairy festival. Included in the account were the following comments: "A (See FESTIVAL, page 7)

Miss Gardiner is quite talented and has many interesting things to talk on. It is hoped that every member of the league will be present at this meeting.

ACTIVE SALES BY RED CROSS

Membership Drive Reported Successful.

The Red Cross Roll Call drive was off to a good start on Monday, Nov. 11. Workers were busy soliciting memberships in the business section of the town and in homes throughout the county. The largest single membership received in the campaign so far is from an individual and is for $25.

Rev. John M. DeChant, the Roll Call chairman, announced the following memberships received from local organizations: Manassas Ministerial Association, $10; Trinity Episcopal Church, $10; Presbyterian Church, $10; Manassas Lodge A. F. & A. M., $5; Junior Woman's Club, $10; Manassas Woman's Club, $5; Bethlehem Club, $5; Haymarket Woman's Club, $5; Prince William Homemakers Club, $2.50. Additional organization memberships will be announced next week.

Some Roll Call workers report from ten to twenty memberships already secured with the drive only four days old. They have told the chairman that people are glad to respond and that a fine spirit prevails in the county with regard to the work of the Red Cross.

Seventeen years after the Armistice the American Red Cross is still carrying out its obligations to veterans of the World War. Last year 286,984 veterans and their families received Red Cross aid. This includes help in presenting claims to the government for war-time injuries; material relief, which is often needed while the claim is being settled; care of the families of men in hospitals; and many other types of service.

More and more school children are seen wearing Red Cross buttons with the words "I Serve." This means that the schools of the county are enrolling in the Junior Red Cross.

The chairman requests all Roll Call workers to make at least partial reports to him not later than Wednesday, Nov. 20. We must keep before the goal of 650 memberships for Prince William and remember that Red Cross needs $650 to keep its local work at the point of highest efficiency. Join.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LAUNCHES MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

BEST RECORD BY DUMFRIES CLUB

The women's achievement day on November 7 was the most successful one yet held in the county. After viewing the exhibits the group assembled for the program which was opened with the invocation by Rev. W. M. Compton.

Mrs. J. F. Hale, chairman of the Advisory Board, then asked for the roll call of clubs. This was responded to by home demonstration presidents who gave interesting reports of the year's work in their respective groups. Reports showed that the groups as a whole are responsible for community as well as home-making activities.

Bethel, Nokesville and Dumfries were named by Miss R. Belle Burke as outstanding in work of the year. First place was given to Dumfries group which has doubled its membership during the year, earned an outstanding record in the sanitation campaign, and provided social activities for the community. Nokesville Club had to its credit a goodly list of welfare activities, securing a home economics department for the school, twenty-four members earning the pins.

Miss Sarah Pitts, home demonstration agent, on reporting on activities of 4-H clubs and home demonstration groups, told of 206 rooms having been improved; 104 in which walls, woodwork, or floors were reconditioned; 113 pieces of furniture reconditioned and 140 rugs and chair seats made; 1871 new garments made and 405 remodeled; 134 homes improving home grounds, and 36,510 containers filled for home use and more than 1400 for school lunches.

Girls working in the 4-H clubs prepared 2432 dishes, planned, prepared, and served 1817 meals, and canned 8967 quarts of fruit and vegetables. Reports on 7 poultry projects showed a profit of $684.50 while members learned poultry management. Twenty-eight boys and girls took part in the garden work and report a profit of $839.71 in vegetables raised for home consumption.

In telling of the sanitation campaign, Miss Pitts reported 109 outside toilets built or remodeled; 21 septic tanks and 26 sinks installed; 66 houses screened.

Miss Grace Frysinger, U. S. Extension, was the guest speaker and gave a very interesting talk on the "Present Challenges of the Home." Miss Jesse Mae Conner with Miss Virginia Speiden as accompanist sang "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair" with a great deal of charm and sweetness.

A very interesting part of the program was a review of house dresses costing less than $1.00. The three first places went to Nokesville Club; Mrs. E. E. Hale first; Mrs. Arthur Sines, second; Mrs. T. B. Flickenger, third.

Miss Alice Crutchfield, agent Fairfax County, presented the following exhibit prizes. The judging was difficult due to the splendid quality and quantity of the exhibits. Mrs. Norman McManaway of Manassas as-

Head of State Conservation.

HON. WILBUR C. HALL

A NOTABLE CONTRIBUTION

Speaking last night before the faculty and students of the State Teachers College at Harrisonburg, Hon. Wilbur C. Hall, Chairman of the Conservation Commission, made a very notable contribution to public knowledge of one of our most important state activities.

As we are this month celebrating Conservation throughout the nation, the address of the distinguished head of our important state conservation department is particularly timely and deserves the thoughtful reading of every patriotic Virginian.

The lack of public appreciation of the nature and the importance of conservation work has long operated to the disadvantage of the Commonwealth, and has enabled those who would exploit our natural resources to proceed too far with selfish utilization of the products of Nature.

The scholarly presentation by Mr. Hall deals with four aspects of conservation: The rise of civilization upon a foundation of natural resources; a brief summary of the growth of the Conservation movement in this country; a review of Virginia's natural resources and an outline of the work of our State Commission on Conservation and Development.

Next week it will be our pleasure to present to our readers the text of this address in full and we believe that all who read this valuable contribution to Conservation thought will derive not only great pleasure but much profit.

Manassas-Prince William Organization Endorsed by Prominent Citizens.

The final plans for the fall membership drive of the Manassas-Prince William County Chamber of Commerce have been completed, according to Mrs. Janie Abel, chairman of the membership committee. The drive will open with the meeting at Nokesville tonight and will end on Saturday, November 23.

A representative of The Journal has interviewed quite a number of prominent citizens with the idea of getting their opinion of the Chamber of Commerce in Prince William County; what its possibilities are; what they think of the work that has been done and whether or not a membership in the Manassas-Prince William County Chamber of Commerce is a sound investment.

Dr. George B. Cocke, druggist and president of the fire president, said, "I think the opportunities for the Chamber of Commerce in Prince William County are unlimited. It is something that has been needed in the county for a long time and should have the support of every merchant in the entire county."

G. Raymond Ratcliffe, banker and civic leader, had this to say. "I am heartily in favor of the Chamber of Commerce. It is something that every progressive community needs. However, like any other business, money is required for its operation and a great deal cannot be accomplished without the support of the entire county. I believe any one investing in a membership is making a sound investment."

W. E. Trusler, business man and councilman, when asked what he thought of the Chamber of Commerce in the county, replied, "In my opinion the Chamber of Commerce is a great thing. Very little can be accomplished without organization and united effort. We should support this organization wholeheartedly. (See COMMERCE, page 4)

KIWANIS NAME KINCHE- LOE AS NEW DIRECTOR

The Kiwanis Club held its regular meeting at the hotel on Friday night with Hunton Tiffany in the chair.

As the directors had just promoted Frank Sigman to be secretary to succeed Jim Bradford, it was necessary to nominate another director for 1936.

In spite of the keen competition of a few weeks ago there seemed to be no other entrant for the honors besides one J. C. Kinchehoe who was unanimously given that honor.

The new director had promised a program which was derailed somewhere along the line and Ted gave a brief resume based on a study he had made several years ago for a Battlefield Trail passing through Prince William.

This gave rise to comment on the meeting which was held this past Monday at Culpeper in the interest of the Skyline Drive. A number of the members stated that they would be in attendance. Bill Cocke, Ray Hall and several did actually go and Bill Cocke was named to represent the Town of Manassas in the Skyline Association.

After considerable informal discussion the meeting adjourned until its time Friday evening.

C.C.C. ENGINEER GUEST OF WOMAN'S CLUB

The November meeting of the Woman's Club was held in the dining room of the home economics department on Wednesday with a full attendance. Reports from the various committees were given and much interest gathered from them.

Mr. Griffin, projects director of Camp 25 at Triangle, told of the educational side of the work in camp, telling its objectives and also how the club could be of help to the boys in these camps, especially in showing personal sympathetic interest by visiting the camps, and giving suitable literature.

Mrs. Cooksey reported briefly the luncheon given Mrs. Lawson by the Cameron Club of Alexandria.

Mrs. W. V. R. Seltzer, of Bethlehem, Pa., spoke most interestingly on International Good Will, stressing the human interest, interspersing her talk with many humorous anecdotes of her experiences in many foreign countries.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses of which Mrs. A. S. Gibson was chairman.

CATHARPIN

Miss Elizabeth McIntosh, who has been confined to her home for the past several weeks suffering from indigestion and general debility, is reported somewhat improved and able to be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Onley and daughters and Mrs. C. F. Feuchsel and sons of Clarendon, Va., were Oakwood callers on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Briggs and daughter of Washington were Belle Farm visitors over the week-end. Mr. Briggs is now on the Police force of the Capital City.

Mrs. Fred H. Collins, who has been a patient in the Blue Ridge sanatorium, Charlottesville, Va., for the past year or more, is now at home for a week's visit with her family and friends much to the delight of all concerned. She will return to the institution on Saturday of this week for further treatment. Hulda is what very properly may be termed a "patient patient"; always assisting herself and keeping in good spirits. Her many friends are glad to have her home again even for the short time she is able to stay.

Mr. O. E. Newman's "Who Remembers" made mighty interesting reading in his recall of the "Days of Old" which have long since been forgotten by the older generations and which were never known to the younger; and what a busy place the old town of Manassas must have been with all her mills, shops, factories, quarries, brickyards, saloons, hotels, tanneries, etc., employing more people in those days, perhaps, than are being employed today. Reminiscences are always interesting but more so when compiled by one having first hand knowledge. We almost shudder to think of how tired Mr. Newman must have been after helping to fold those 400 papers; and what a wearisome job it was for Charlie Fisher to always be shaving spokes with a spokeshave; and how people must have imbibed to keep those six saloons going.

But we are just wondering if that "box" of matches might need a little checking? or perhaps we are farther back in the Neanderthal period or a little too modern to coincide with this particular time. The first matches we remember came in "blocks" consisting of a block of wood, match length, and about 1 inch square, split partially down into about 144 matches and the free ends coated with brimstone, and each match being split off as needed. The "striking" was a matter of precaution; the fumes being neither healthful nor pleasant.

But the thing that set Catharpin "by the ears" was when baseball was mentioned. You know that once upon a time, Catharpin licked the Washington team, and, to save her life, she can never forget it. The whole article was interesting and instructive.

On Thursday, November 21, the truck from the Gaithersburg Home will be at the Gainesville parsonage to receive any and all donations of fruits, vegetables, canned goods, or anything that may be offered for this laudable purpose. Last year Sudley received high praise for her abundant donation. Make this one just as good or better.

Well, the country is saved again. Catharpin went to the polls on election day and informed the world just who should administer the laws in both the State of Virginia and the county of Prince William, and when the new-officers shall have subscribed to the "Oath of Allegiance" and taken their "seats," the people have the assurance that things will be well cared for by their elected representatives during the next quartette of years, at least. Of course, Catharpin did not do quite all of it; a few other precincts happened to do a little voting that day but they didn't amount to much, you know.

In speaking of the Oath of Allegiance or the Oath of Office, we are reminded of the controversy in some States regarding teachers being required to take the oath as well as other officials and employees in public service. At first thought this seems reasonable but it is objected to and some refuse to comply. The oath, which being interpreted means a promise to "support the Constitution of the United States and the laws of the State in which they are being employed." Certainly this, for any patriotic citizen, should be no barrier or hardship; but there must be something behind it all because laws, rules and regulations are only made when the necessity doth appear. Our impression has always been that the teachers, as a class, were the most patriotic citizens of which a State or Nation could boast, and, of course, should be, they having to do with the country's children. Have some of them proved false to their trust? Have they been slipping in something on the side such as Communism or something? Evidently something has happened which has been considered by the school authorities as inimical to the best interests of the object sought by education. A preacher, by nature, should be patriotic; but if not, it is our belief that no oath will make them so. Hence just better not employ.

In many cases an oath of office is treated as of such minor importance that it seems almost a sacrilege to administer it. If an officer of any kind, with uplifted hand, takes an oath to support the Constitution of the United States and the laws of his State, it is supposed to mean just that—nothing else, yet too often this oath is violated and the saddest part of it all is, that it is done unashamed. So we are led to the conclusion that if a teacher who is lacking in, or does not have the proper patriotic stance, or found to be using the position to propagate anything other than a pure, moral, educational uplift, it were better not to employ, since any one so inclined, would probably give but little heed to any oath that might be administered.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Pattie of Belle Farm and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Alvey of Catharpin attended the banquet at Haymarket on Monday night given under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge of that city.

Mr. Charles F. Brower, jr., of Purcellville, Va., paid the home folks a visit on Sunday last.

:- WHO REMEMBERS :-

To the Editor, Manassas Journal:

I never pass the fine high school of this little place; a building that would be creditable to a town counting its inhabitants by the thousands, that my mind does not revert to the school days and the schools of the early 70's. In nothing has been such strides of progress made as in our schools, the system of teaching and the school buildings. How many boys and girls are there in old Prince William who would be willing today to walk in deep snow, slush and mud four and five miles to school when the highest one could attain in mathematics was the old familiar "single rule of three"; multiply second and third terms together and divide by the first. One of my earliest teacher never tired of drilling this formula into our youthful minds, always, however, paraphrasing it by: "If a herring and a half costs a cent and a half what will 12 herrings cost?" Boys and girls sat on the same benches, and what glorious times we had in spelling matches, and there were fine spellers in those primitive schools, and parsing in grammar was considered essential to one of the tender years of ten.

It was in the year of 1867 that a family from New York established itself here in our village. Brinkerhoff was the name, one of the early families of Manhattan. Mrs. B. was the mother of two children, Charlie was of my age. She opened a school exclusively for girls, but I was so attached to Charlie and so in love with Mrs. B. that unknown to my parents I attended her school. She was a highly cultured lady, taught singing, rhetoric and dancing. Her mother, Mrs. Thayer, spoke four languages, English, French, Italian and German. I was at home, a refined cultured family, and I was in love with my beautiful teacher. Mrs. B. insisted upon the strictest deportment in her school; one in passing in front of another was required to say: "Excuse me" or "pardon."

One day a number of us youngsters seated in common on a long bench was passed by a big, rawboned girl, whose name was Salena Davis, without asking to be excused. Mrs. B. silently seated at her desk observed this disobedience, and called to her to go back and ask pardon of us. The girl did so, but with a vengeance, for she took one end of the bench, lifted it and spilled us youngsters upon the floor, saying as she did so "Catch me begging pardon of a lot of brats." It was Salena's last day at our school.

Mr. B. remained in New York and upon questioning his son, Charlie I learned that Mr. B. who visited his family at intervals would go out in the country and gather sticks, fashioning them into presentable canes, taking them to New York City and disposing of them as souvenirs of Mt. Vernon, Washington's home. Charlie naively said, "Pa makes more money on canes than Ma does teaching."

At the time of which I write this little village had no church building, but an old building which was the property of the "Sons of Temperance," an order long since in disuse. I recall quite clearly one of the earliest preachers, a Rev. George W. Lightner, a typical old Virginia Circuit Rider. He could both pray and fight with force, a tall, rawboned muscular man who required no assistance in keeping order however rough the assembly may be. He especially denounced profanity, and in his sermon said that he never heard of but one instance where it might be called justified.

He then relates that an old Methodist preacher in crossing the Atlantic encountered a terrific storm, so severe that he could not remain in his berth. He finally sought the captain and asked, "Capt., do you think the ship will sink?" "No," said the Capt. "Don't you hear those sailors' cussin'?" When they cuss like that there is no danger." The old preacher went to bed, but the storm grew worse, he finally managed to reach the deck, groping his way forward to the fore-castle where were the sailors, he listened. Then, down on his knees, with uplifted arms, the preacher said: "Thank God they are still swearing."

Dear old preacher Lightner; the mourners' benches, four-squared gospel are things of the long ago. Once when inducting a revival near Fredericksburg, he gave a bully the choice of a whipping or a conversion. The bully chose to be converted.

Very respectfully,
Geo. Davis Duty Seelman,
Occoquan, Va.

WHO REMEMBERS?

Prince William was formed in 1730, from Stafford and King George. It is about 35 miles long, and 12 wide. The Potomac forms its eastern boundary. Pop. in 1840, whites 4,867, slaves 2,767, free colored 510; total, 8,144.

Brentsville, the county-seat, is situated 101 miles from Richmond, and 33 m. of Fredericksburg, in the heart of the county, at the head of Occoquan River. It is a small village, containing 3 stores and about 20 dwellings. The county buildings are handsomely situated on a public square, containing 3 acres. Thoroughfare and Liberia are small places in the county, containing each a few dwellings. Dumfries is situated on Quantico Creek, near the Potomac. It was once the county-seat; but in 1822 the courts were removed to Brentsville, and the old court-house is converted into an Episcopal church. Dumfries is a very old town and once had considerable commerce; but from a combination of causes it has gone rapidly to decay, and many of the houses have been removed out of town.

Occoquan, situated near the mouth of a river of the same name, was established by law in 1804. It contains a large cotton factory, an extensive flouring mill, several stores, and about 40 dwellings. A handsome bridge is erected over the river at this place. The Occoquan here has a fall of 72 feet in one and a half miles, affording excellent sites for manufactories. This is the market for many of the most important shad and herring fisheries on the Potomac. The scenery around this village is uncommonly picturesque. (Miss Isabelle Hutchison's contribution to "Who Remembers," quoted from a valuable old book published in 1845).

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 10.

The golden text was "Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? who shall dwell in thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart" (Psalms 15: 1, 2).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson sermon was the following from the Bible: "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works" (II Timothy 3: 16, 17).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science separates error from truth, and breathes through the sacred pages the spiritual sense of life, substance, and intelligence. In this Science, we discover man in the image and likeness of God. We see that man has never lost his spiritual estate and his eternal harmony" (p. 548).

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN PRINCE WILLIAM COUNTY

(Contributed)

The Manassas-Prince William County Chamber of Commerce starts its fall membership drive today with the goal set for 350 memberships. This organization is a county-wide one and deserves the support of every citizen who is interested in the progress of the county. The Chamber of Commerce has a very definite program to follow and is putting forth every effort to bring about better business conditions in Prince William County, but this cannot be accomplished without the support and co-operation of every business man and woman in the county.

The leaders in the work of the Chamber of Commerce are giving freely of their time and means in an effort to place Prince William County in her rightful place in the commercial world and it is up to you to back these men.

Any improvement in business or otherwise, secured through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, necessarily must help, directly or indirectly, every man, woman and child in the county. It has never been said that the people of Prince William County were willing to sit back and let someone do the work and then come in for the benefits. So, support your Chamber of Commerce with your time and means and have a part in the progress of Old Prince William County.

TO THE PORTSMOUTH STAR

Our Portsmouth colleague, the Star, is so confirmed in its suspicions of some dark political conspiracy against Virginia voters that we have no inclination to attempt to change its outlook. If it chooses to suspect that Virginia public men and Virginia newspapers which do not agree with it are in rank collusion for some undisguised purpose, let it continue to suspect. That is its privilege.

However, as a matter of record, we wish to say that the Star is shooting in the wrong direction when it asserts that "The favored Richmond News Leader was evidently furnished with a statement of the state administrative program that is to be presented—for public consumption—as the incoming general assembly of Virginia meets in biennial session in January."

If The News Leader is "favored," it is in a staff of reporters who seek to anticipate as well as to develop the news. Reasoning that the General Assembly should not permit certain agencies of the state government to remain, as it were, suspended in air. The News Leader urged in an editorial article on October 25 that administrative reorganization in Virginia be taken up at the next session. On the 29th, without any previous consultation whatsoever with The News Leader, Senator Byrd advanced the same idea in his address at Charlottesville. Reporting that speech the next day, The News Leader referred to previous recommendations for improving the machinery of state government and listed certain of them that doubtless will be considered again. That is the unsensational background of what the Star blazes as a "Programme Fixed." — Richmond News Leader.

Commerce

Chas. C. Lynn, farmer and member of the county board of supervisors, said, "The Chamber of Commerce is doing a work in the county that will be most beneficial. I sincerely hope that this organization will have the support of everyone in the county."

J. Carl Kincheloe, business man and dairy farmer, is quoted as saying, "I am behind the Chamber of Commerce one hundred per cent. I believe it will be able, with the proper support and co-operation, to do a fine piece of work."

R. S. Hynson, a lifelong resident of Prince William County and prominent business man, when interviewed, said, "As I see the matter of the Chamber of Commerce, I just cannot understand how we have ever done without it. It is true that we have made advances but I am sure that, had we had an active Chamber of Commerce during the past years, we would have been just that much farther ahead. To me a community without a Chamber of Commerce is like a ship without a rudder. I know of nothing that is more worthwhile to this county than the active Chamber of Commerce that we have."

C. C. Cloe, president of the Chamber of Commerce and business man from the lower end of the county, when reached by telephone, said, "I have always been in favor of unified effort and co-operation. So much more can be accomplished in this way than by individual effort. It is my desire to see every civic minded man and woman in Prince William County invest in a membership in the Chamber of Commerce."

Dr. Wade C. Payne, of Haymarket, said, "The Chamber of Commerce is just what we have needed in Prince William County for a good many years. Where there is unity there is strength."

B. W. Brunt, president of the Bank of Occoquan, said, "I know of nothing that a man could invest in and get the same results as he can from a membership in the Chamber of Commerce."

William F. Cocke, town manager of Manassas, had this to say. "I have lived in Prince William County for seven years and during that time I have been daily impressed by possibilities for the upbuilding of the county which could be developed only through a Chamber of Commerce or like organization. Now that we have a real Chamber of Commerce, with an efficient secretary in charge of its affairs, I feel confident that in the future we will avail ourselves of all such possibilities as may present themselves."

E. R. Conner, merchant and livestock dealer, gave the following statement: "I think the Chamber of Commerce, with the proper backing of the people of the county, is one of the best investments that we can make."

J. H. Burke, merchant and councilman, said, "The Chamber of Commerce is entitled to the support of every citizen of the county. It is doing a fine work."

Frank D. Cox, county agent, who is always interested in the affairs of the county, states, "There is a need for a county-wide organization that will bring all people, regardless of their business or profession, together into one strong unit, working for the interest of the county as a whole. Farmers alone or business men alone cannot go as far working separately as they can by working together. I believe that the Manassas-Prince William County Chamber of Commerce provides this need and that it will do much toward improving the county, if given the support that it deserves."

Thos. H. Lion, civic leader and commonwealth's attorney, made this colorful pageant presented by Prince William County school children showed what happens "Around the Clock with the Milkman." The several episodes, following weeks of intensive training under the direction of Mary Cabell Callaway beginning with "Dawn" and closing with "Night" effectively and artistically traced through tableaux and dances the daily routine of the milkman. Well groomed cows of the leading breeds also had their part as well as modern vehicles used in milk transportation. The dairy cattle judging contest held in connection with the festival brought together 150 farm boys representing 18 vocational high schools and ten counties of the dairy belt in one of the best contests of its kind ever staged in northern Virginia.

Festival

Dr. J. C. McDowell, chief of dairy improvement investigations, United States Department of Agriculture, has been requested by Hoards' Dairyman, a national dairy magazine published at Fort Atkinson, Wisc., to supply them with an illustrated account of the Dairy Festival to be used in an early issue of the Hoards' Dairyman.

"The Larro Dealer," trade organ of the Larro Milling Company, Detroit, Mich., in the October issue, carried a picture of one of the floats with the following summary: "The Fifth Annual Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festival was held on October 11 at Manassas, Va. This festival, an annual affair in which eleven Virginia counties co-operate, was organized in 1930 and has done a great deal to promote an increased consumption of milk and dairy products, educate the public as regards the health and food value of these products, and has also stimulated a greater interest in dairy herd improvement."

The Maryland Farmer, Baltimore, Md., has donated its entire front cover for the past three years to the Dairy Festival announcements.

The last issue of the 4-H Handbook, published by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Chicago, Ill., and distributed to some 200,000 4-H club members and leaders, carried a picture and description of a prize winning dairy float entered in one of the dairy festival parades.

The October issue of State Department of Agriculture Bulletin gave liberal space to the announcement of the program.
