CLOE URGES HELP ON 234

President of Association Appeals for Co-operation.

I am appealing to those who are interested in the hard-surfacing of route 234. A lot of good earnest effort has gone for naught, for the reason it has not been backed up by the people as a whole, who are interested in this highway.

It is your duty to join this Association and contribute to this worthy cause. Send one dollar for a membership fee to Mr. Frank P. Moncure, Treasurer, Stafford, Va., or to Mr. W. F. Cocke, Secretary, Manassas, Va.

We want your moral support as well as the small contribution. If we can go before Mr. Shirley and his commission with a list of all the people interested in route 234, I feel sure that we will get action. There is no individual or committee who can do more than has already been done, without a more united backing. We need you individually, and until you get into action, we are helpless.

Now, let's see how many are sufficiently interested in route 234 to join this Association.

C. C. Cloe.

HIGH SCHOOL PATRONS LEAGUE

The regular meeting of the Patrons League was held in the high school on Thursday, March 18. Owing to the inclemency of the weather and the resultant muddy condition of the parade ground, it was impossible for us to review the drill of the high school boys which had been planned.

Mr. Jack Ratcliffe gave a most interesting talk of the activities of the Boy Scouts which reflected great credit on his leadership. Miss Hannah Calhoun told of the work being done by the Home Economics Department in preparing girls to take care of their own homes in the future and Miss Dorothy Rollins and Miss Virginia Boley gave in detail an outline of the work in the 1st and 2nd years. The talks by the girls reflected credit on their own abilities as well as on the training received. Miss Calhoun stated that it is difficult to conduct the work under present conditions which are not exactly those of a home and urged us as parents and patrons of the school to get behind a movement for the erection of a Home Economics Cottage. She stated rather emphatically that she believed it can be done if we start now. Aside from the needs of the Home Economics Department, it is common knowledge that conditions at the high school are so crowded that the rooms now occupied by that department are very much needed for other classes. It was voted that Mrs. Robert Newman and Mr. Peters confer with the School Board to see what can be done.

Reports from various committee chairmen were heard and there was quite a discussion as to the advantages and disadvantages of having one League to represent the patrons of both the Bennett and high schools. The question was left open for further discussion.

N. B. SHUMATE

Mr. N. B. Shumate died at his home in Bristow, Va., at 9:30 a. m. March 11. He had only been sick a few days.

Mr. Shumate was born in Fauquier County September 2, 1855. He moved to Bristow thirteen years ago. While here he has made many friends who deeply regret his passing.

Sixty-two years ago he married Mrs. Sue Reed who is left to mourn his loss.

Mr. Shumate is survived by the following children:

Mrs. Teresa Vespman and Mrs. Nettie Orton of Lancaster, Wis., Mrs. Janie Carter of Washington, D. C., 2 sons, Spurgeon of Maryland and Breck of Brentsville. There were 20 grandchildren and three great grandchildren, and also two step daughters, Mrs. M. L. Soutter and Mrs. J. P. Manuel, both of Bristow.

Funeral services were held at the home. The Rev. Estes officiating on March 13.

He was laid to rest at Elk Run in the family lot.

Mr. Shumate will be greatly missed.

ROAD FUND ALLOCATION

Clarendon Firm Gets Alexandria Bridge Contract.

Tentative allocations of road funds for the fiscal year starting July 1 were completed this week by the State Highway Commission which arranged for hearings in about three weeks. Allocations for individual projects were made, Commissioner Henry G. Shirley said, but district totals could not be tabulated for several days.

Funds available for distribution were roughly the same as last year—$16,487,389, he stated. This amount was allotted from gross receipts of $19,500,000 after paying away administration costs of the Division of Motor Vehicles, interest, streets in communities, gas tax funds, rent and other charges.

Deductions from the gas tax, license fees and other revenues to $3,012,610 last year for the "overhead" charges and other expenditures authorized from highway funds.

Fewer changes than usual appeared in the allocation, Mr. Shirley indicated, and were in accord with the commission's policy, announced last April, of giving the "maximum road service to the largest number of people with funds available."

Six road construction projects contracts also are awarded by the commission. Totaling $429,133.90, they included a $155,374 bridge over the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railway tracks at Alexandria on Route 1, which was awarded to the Northern Virginia Construction Company of Clarendon and Alexandria.

ANOTHER CHAMPIONSHIP FOR MANASSAS

The Manassas girls added to the glories of the local school by annexing the county championship last Friday evening in a hard fought contest at the Haymarket gym.

As usual, Misses Beeton and Davies were the scorers, hanging up nine and eight points respectively. For Haymarket, their forwards hung on doggedly against the short end of the score. Miss Robertson accounted for four tallies and Miss Clarke, six.

The line ups were as follows: Manassas: Forwards—Davies and Beeton; Center—Beane; Side—Center—Hoof; Guards—Woodyard and Lloyd. Haymarket: Forwards—Robertson and Clarke; Center—Howard; Side—Center—Ankers; Guards—McDormant and McGuin.

NOTICE TO FARMERS

J. Gray Beverley, Field Supervisor, will be at the office of Mr. Frank Cox, County Agent, Post Office Building, Manassas, Virginia, on Wednesday, March 31, from 9:00 a. m. until 1:00 p. m. for the purpose of taking applications for loans under the Emergency Crop Loan Act.

Farmers desiring these loans should apply on that date.

Farmers Who Did Not Receive AAA Benefits Last Year Must File Work Sheets Now

Farmers Wishing to Co-operate Must Report by March 31.

Farmers in the East Central Region who did not take part in the farm program last year and who who desire to participate in the 1937 Agriculture Conservation Program, are asked by the East Central Division of the AAA to file work sheets for their farms not later than March 31st, County Agent H. B. Derr announces.

Those farmers who participated in the program last year need not file work-sheets this year. However, if any change has been made in the size of the farm, or if the producer is operating a different farm in 1937, he should notify the county office immediately of such change.

The worksheets for farmers taking part in the program for the first time in 1937 will show the 1936 acreage of each separate crop and land use on the farm.

Under the program this year, the county office will furnish each farmer a statement showing crop bases, the number of acres upon which payment can be received for diversion, and the amount of the soil-building allowance for the farm. From this information farmers can determine early in the season approximately the amount of payment that can be earned under the program. They will be able to plan their farming operations so as to fit the program to the needs of their farms and at the same time qualify for full payments.

Farmers are being urged to file worksheets prior to March 31 so that necessary information about bases, crop acreages, and the soil-building allowance for 1937 can be furnished by the county office in sufficient time to be of greatest use on the farm.

CHURCH GROUPS HONORS MISS SPEIDEN

Miss Virginia Speiden, whose marriage to Mr. Lewis Carper will take place in April, was the honoree of a reception and gift shower given by Margaret Barbour Bible Class Manassas Baptist Sunday School at the home of Mrs. R. M. Jenkins last Friday evening.

In the receiving line with the hostesses were Mrs. Richard Marshall Graham, wife of the Baptist Minister; Mrs. P. L. Proffitt, class president, and Mrs. L. L. Lomas, class teacher.

The appointments were lovely in their spring-time simplicity of yellow, white and green, golden daffodils, fragrant carnations and soft candle-light.

The small members of the families of the Class expressed loving tribute to Miss Speiden with song and flowers and did the honors of the occasion in a graceful presentation of a large and exquisite bride's basket heaped and overflowing with gifts of friendship.

Those participating were Fannie Pickrel, guardian of the basket; Tommy Beane, song leader, who made the presentation; Dolly Virginia Lomas, Martha Ann Graham, Bettie Lee Jenkins, Lois Cornwell, Charlotte May Herndon, Lea Mylander, ribbon bearers; Jackie Weatherall, who had the high privilege of being escort to Miss Speiden and presenting her with an armful of flowers.

Surrounded and assisted by these charming little people who looked like dainty fluttering butterflies in white with yellow winged ribbons, Virginia, as she is affectionately known by her friends, made a charming picture in her pale yellow frock and back ground of flowers and music symbols (C & S) which gave a sweet page to memory for the more than fifty guests.

"Love's Old Sweet Song" by Rev. R. J. Graham, accompanied by Mrs. Pickrel at the piano and Grieg's Spring Song violin solo by Mrs. John Broadus accompanied by Miss Speiden were exquisite. These preceded the shower and sounded the note for all that followed.

The refreshments, as usual by Manassas ladies, were quite delicious; green and white ice cream, cakes and mints. They were beautiful and delicious, spelled with capital letters.

All in all, it was a delightful evening with many good wishes for future happiness and "love still unexpressed."

BOY SCOUTS ENTERTAIN

Jack Ratcliffe Gives Demonstration for Kiwanis Club.

The Kiwanis Club had a splendid opportunity to view Troop No. 1, Prince William County unit of the Boy Scouts of America at its regular meeting on Friday evening last.

Those present as guests of honor of Al Hoof were Scoutmaster R. Jackson Ratcliffe, assistant master Herwin Ritter, and scouts Billy Vamison, Howard Cooksey, Everett Onell, Roger Cross, Jr., Richard Hayden, Jr., Guy Bowers, Leonard Lomas, Jr., William Knox, Harry Blakemore, George Oleyar, and Frank Browning, Jr.

The troop staged a pseudo hospital scene that brought groans from behind the curtain (a tablecloth) and many laughs in front of the proscenium curtain.

Later the scoutmaster introduced the members individually. With assistant Riffert leading, they repeated the scout oath, all being at formal salute. The elements of scout principles were also recited by a group of seven of the squad.

Following this delightful performance, the Kiwanis elected as delegates to the annual meeting at Indianapolis, Col. Robert A. Hutehison and Hunton Tiffany, with Dick Haydon and Ray Ratcliffe as alternates.

DUDLEY MARTIN GOES TO TRIANGLE

Manassas Man Takes Over Chevrolet Agency There.

Residents of southern Prince William will be greatly interested in the announcement carried in this issue of the Journal to the effect that Dudley J. Martin has taken over the Chevrolet agency at Triangle.

The progress which this young business executive has made in this area has been exceptional. As a mere lad, he made connections with automobile dealers at Warrenton and Washington, Va., serving them as salesman and general field representative.

After several years, the Rappahannock county boy saw a chance in the growing development in the country more to the eastward, and in the October of 1924, he established affiliations with the Manassas Motor Company. This proved his home for a more successful period of progress and a reserve for the future steps he was destined to take.

Romance overtook him in the person of Miss Mattie Athey, daughter of Winfield S. Athey, the charming young bookkeeper in the same auto company, and in December, 1927, they became Mr. and Mrs.

In the June of 1934, Mr. Martin made a progressive change by joining the firm of Hynson and Bradford, as a partner. He has proved his efficiency not only on the local horizon but in a national way as well, for when the opening at Triangle became a possibility, the Chevrolet Motor Company was only too glad to have him as an individual dealer in a growing and prosperous location.

So on March 19 (Friday last), it became known that rumor was correct and that a new firm had been born in the county, the D. J. Martin Chevrolet Sales and Service, with headquarters on the Jefferson Davis Highway at Triangle.

Certainly his friends here can only wish for him the same degree of success with which hard work and perseverance have already crowned his brow.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin and Jackie, Jr., are the sort of folks that any community is pleased to have in its midst. It is the expressed hope of all that he will maintain his residence in Manassas.

Haydon, Harvey Steele, Eula Holt Merchant, Raymond Ratcliffe, Allison Hoof, Frederick Hynson, Thomas Broadus, Joseph Lyon, Robert Smith, Paul Cooksey and Miss Margaret Lynch.

A very pretty wedding of much interest to Woodbridge and vicinity took place last Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock when Miss Madeline L. Dawson and Mr. Elmer C. Riley were united in marriage.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. John Morrison of the Methodist Church at the bride's home which was quite tastefully decorated.

The bride who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lindsay Dawson, was very attractively dressed in gray with green accessories and wore a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Carl Rosencrans, of Washington was matron of honor and was attired in blue and wore a corsage of gardenias. The groom had for his best man, Mr. Richard Carter, of Woodbridge.

Following the ceremony the young couple left for a short wedding trip. Both Mr. and Mrs. Riley attended school at Occoquan High, and will make their home in Woodbridge where they have many friends. Mr. Riley is employed in the General Accounting Office in Washington.

SKATE RHYTHMS INSPIRE NEWEST DANCES, STYLES

The problems of making a musical picture wherein dances, music and costumes had to be keyed to the rhythm of ice skating, specifically the incomparable skating of champion Sonja Henie, who makes her screen debut in "One in a Million," the Twentieth Century-Fox spectacular musical smash at the Pitts Theatre next week are varied and many during the filming of the picture.

Song writers, dance directors, and designers used to pursuing and adapting their inspirations within the sanctums of their own offices found that procedure of no avail and only solved the technicalities by accompanying Sonja to her practice rink to become familiar with the intricate rhythms of her art.

Occupying ringside seats there were Lew Pollack and Sidney D. Mitchell, who are responsible for the music and lyrics of this spectacular production, and who turned their melodies to the click of Sonja's skates.

From another vantage point, Director Sidney Lanfield and Jack Haskell, who staged the dances, scanned each graceful movement, seeking harmonious dance steps to be taught an ice ballet of eighty skating dancers, who will support the Queen of the Silvery Skates.

Costume Designer Royer, and his sketch artist watched with pencils poised, hoping to incorporate in the lines of a costume the animation of this indescribably graceful artist.

In addition to Sonja Henie, Adolphe Menjou, Jean Hersholt, Ned Sparks, Don Ameche, the Ritz Brothers, Arline Judge, Borrah Minevitch and his gang, Dixie Dunbar, Leah Ray and Shirley Deane are also featured in "One in a Million." Leonard Praskins and Mark Kelley wrote the screen play. Raymond Griffith acted as associate producer.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

By word is a thing made real, and a light into our path.—Psalm 119: 105

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.

THE SOURCE OF LIGHT:
The entrance of thy words giveth light; it giveth understanding unto the simple.—Psalms 119: 130.

THE TEXAS SCHOOL EXPLOSION

The Nation was shocked a few days ago by the news that four hundred and fifty lives had been lost in a fearful explosion which wrecked a large consolidated school at New London, Texas.

No less shocking have been the revelations which have come to light during the investigation of the catastrophe. It seems that in Texas they have no State safety-code regulating the use of high pressure steam, gas and electricity, nor any suitable laws requiring proper fire-escapes. Apparently, it is a prevailing practice in the oil field districts to surreptitiously tap near-by pipe lines. Private homes, schools and even churches appear to be using "bootleg gas" in great numbers. Other schools are now being found where similar explosions could take place. At least, press reports from the scene of the accident, and accounts of debates now being held in the Texas legislature indicate that such an unbelievable situation exists.

Sufficient pressure will now be brought to correct this condition, and laws will be enacted along the lines of those in operation in Virginia. Here we require rigid inspection and high standards of equipment, and while at times we feel restive under the many restraints imposed upon us by State Law and Town Ordinances, yet such accidents as these reveal the wisdom of these regulations.

It is very sad, however, that hundreds of happy young lives should have been sacrificed because of the lack of adequate safeguards in the use of a public utility.

SOWING SEEDS OF CIVIL WAR

Our forefathers were among the wisest of men. They established a form of government which was based upon the experience of all mankind in the art of self government, and which has been taken as a model of democracy throughout the world. They devised a form of national control which maintained three branches in perfect balance and the government which they established has succeeded when this balance has been maintained and it has failed when this equilibrium has been upset.

Living men still remember a fateful contest between the Executive and Judicial Branches which terminated in the War between the States. At that time a general assault was made upon the integrity of the Judicial Branch and the northern States declined to be bound by decisions of the Supreme Court. The Constitution was a sacred contract. Since the North would not be bound by its provisions, the South exercised the reservations made when the Constitution was ratified and withdrew from the compact.

Today it is possible that we may be witnessing the beginning of another fateful contest between the Executive and the Judicial Branches of our Government. We actually see the Executive Branch, through its Department of Labor, temporizing with "sit-down strikers" in their defiance of orders of the Courts. We hear the Secretary of Labor saying that the rights of "sit-down strikers" have not yet been tested.

These are dangerous seeds to sow in our body politic and should the C.I.O., succeed in organizing all working people, the inevitable result lies in the direction of organized bloodshed to again test the Constitutional right of the possession of private property.

Ocoquan, Va.
Editor, Manassas Journal

Dear Sir:

Some writers claim that Damascus in Syria is the oldest town in the world; others maintain that Thebes in Egypt is the oldest. Be that as it may, they antedate the advent of this little town of Ocoquan by a brief period. In 1865 there were 185 inhabitants, 39 houses. Today there are 216 inhabitants, gain of 31 in 72 years. To this phenomenal growth may be ascribed its transition from a rural community to an urban settlement. There are 148 white residents and 68 of a non-descript color, varying from pale ecru to a rich Santa Dominga mahogany and then merging into an Honduran obony. An intoxicated man on the street here would be as great a curiosity as a five legged calf endeavoring to disentangle its legs from the folds of rope which entangled them. A strikingly noticeable characteristic of the place is the long lived people.

An autoist reports that in passing through Ocoquan he observed an old grey haired man sitting on the curb, sobbing. He could not restrain his curiosity but alighted and approached the old man. The old man informed the autoist that his father had just whipped him. "What had you done to incur his punishment?" "I sassed my grandfather," said the old man.

Returning to his car the autoist soliloquized, "Am I the land of Mo?" There is no town hall, neither a place to detain a prisoner. Through the courtesy of the merchants the judiciary meet in their stores for a "hearing" and if the prisoner be convicted, and a jail sentence is imposed, the prisoner is hustled into a borrowed car and dispatched to the county seat, 20 miles distant. This method of procedure both facilities and expedites matters. It also reduces the current expenses of the municipality to its lowest possible minimum. The system of running the town is strictly supposititious. The town is supposed to have a Mayor and a Council for there is no one here who has that territory, and but few the inclination to enquire into this.

One is not out of one's adolescence until well within the 30's. An octogenarian or nonogenarian is spoken of as getting on in years, but when one shall have rung the bell at the century post they say "Il est arrive"—i. e. He has arrived.

A VANISHING ART

THE totem pole, symbol of achievement among families of the West Coast Indians of North America, is disappearing. The art of carving and painting, with native dyes, these picturesque monuments to valor and legend, now is known to so few of the older members of Pacific Coast tribes that both the United States and Canadian Governments have taken steps to preserve all authentic totem poles in their respective territories.

Except for some museum pieces, totem poles are unknown to people who live east of the Rockies, but they are items of intense interest to tourists and travelers to Alaska. The shaded portions of the map (inset) show where the best examples are now to be found.

The layout illustrates two excellent examples of this vanishing Indian art. Right is a splendid totem pole at Sitka, Alaska, and below is a strange animal designed by an ancient native of Kitwanga, B. C., to guard his village against intrusion by evil spirits.

SENSATIONAL DANCER LEADS

75-PIECE BAND IN TAP TEMPO

"Born To Dance," which comes to the Pitts' Theatre next week Monday and Tuesday, March 29-30, is hailed as the season's most lavish pot-pourri of music and dancing. Produced by Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer the vehicle presents the dynamic Eleanor Powell as its star and just about runs the entire gamut of rhythm.

In all there are more than 250 dancers and more than 200 instrumentalists and singers in this new production with a nautical background with music and lyrics by Cole Porter, for several seasons Broadway's number one tune and lyricist.

Miss Powell, whose versatility and appealing personality won her stardom in a single picture, "Broadway Melody of 1936," introduces fourteen varieties of dance steps. In one number she does a medley of six different types of dancing in as many minutes. She even leads a 75-piece band with taps and makes her twinkling toes compete with the drummer's most expert rolls and beats.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Matter" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 21.

The Golden Text was "I have declared, and have saved, and I have shewed, when there was no strange god among you: therefore ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, that I am God" (Isaiah 43: 12).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Teach me to do thy will; for thou art my God: thy spirit is good; lead me into the land of uprightness" (Psalm 143: 10).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When the sick or the sinning awake to realize their need of what they have not, they will be receptive of divine Science, which gravitates towards Soul and away from material sense, removes thought from the body, and elevates even mortal mind to the contemplation of something better than disease or sin" (p. 32).

OUTSTANDING CAST SUP-PORTS MISCHIEVOUS MISS

Laughs from the land of cotton, songs with Southern charm and Harlem pep and romance under the moonlight magnolias highlight Jane Withers' hilarious and tuneless new Twentieth Century - Fox triumph, "Can This Be Dixie?", opening next week Wednesday, March 31, at the Pitts' Theatre.

With the irrepressible, peppery and ever dynamic Jane demonstrating her versatility and winning new laurels in a picture that surpasses even the best of her past hits, the film is a combination of hilarious fun, lilting music, fast-moving dances and rollicking comedy and the fun really shines all the time.

Slim Summerville heads the outstanding cast which supports "Ginger" Jane including Helen Wood, Thomas Beck, Sara Haden, Claude Gillingwater and Donald Cook.

The picture opens with Slim and his niece, Jane, putting on a medicine show for the darkies on Claude Gillingwater's run-down plantation. They are selling a hair-straightener which goes over big, but the darkies have no money with which to purchase it. Gillingwater saves Slim and Jane from the sheriff and they, in turn, save him from Donald Cook, who holds a mortgage on the plantation which he threatens to foreclose unless Helen Wood, Gillingwater's granddaughter, marries him.

There appears on the scene Thomas Beck, a young northern lawyer, and he and Helen go for each other in a big way. Gillingwater expects to recoup his fallen fortunes by winning the forthcoming $50,000 Derby with his racehorse, Stonewall Jackson. But Cook orders the sheriff to catch the horse. Jane persuades Slim to draw a phoney check on the "Bank of England" for a supposed interest in the horse, which Cook accepts. In order to raise money to cover the check Jane takes the plantation darkies to New York where they click on an amateur program. In the meantime Helen despairingly agrees to marry Cook and the ceremony has started when Jane rushes in with the money to cover the check. Beck replaces Cook as the bridegroom.

To raise money to enter the race horse, the plantation house is turned into an eating place with fine Southern food and featuring Gillingwater's famous juleps. But Stonewall Jackson loses the race and Cook starts his foreclosure. In the nick of time Beck arrives with a Northern millionaire who wants to sell the juleps in cans. He pays Gillingwater an advance of $10,000.

BLAST KILLS 500 IN TEXAS SCHOOL

Search Debris for Mangled Bodies of Children, Dead and Dying.

New London, Tex.—Workers are still searching the wreckage of the London Consolidated school for more bodies to be added to the toll of the worst school disaster in the world's history.

Hundreds of students were literally blown to bits in a gas explosion which demolished the richest rural school in America ten minutes before the boys and girls would have been dismissed for the day. Estimates placed the total dead at about 500.

Gov. James V. Allred immediately declared martial law, and sent all state highway patrolmen to the scene, which is 12 miles north of here. National Guard troops were ordered out as the entire populace of the neighborhood thronged about the school hysterically waiting for the bodies of their loved ones to be dragged forth. President Roosevelt promised every aid from the federal government.

At the time of the mighty blast fifty or more mothers were attending a Parent-Teacher association meeting in the school gymnasium, a separate building several hundred feet away from the main structure. Hearing the rumble of the blast, they rushed to the windows in time to see a hail of debris flying through the air and the big building collapsing upon their children.

Mothers Race to Aid.

Screaming hysterically, the mothers raced across the campus and with their bare hands clawed at the debris trying desperately to reach the children whose cries could be heard from beneath the crumbled structure. Nearby oil fields, some of which could be seen from the school grounds, shut down and frantic workers rushed in to try to rescue those who still remained alive.

The terrible force of the eruption sent the mangled bodies of boys and girls flying through the air like they were rag dolls. The brick walls were blasted out. The roof raised in the air and then fell back on to the mass of crying and struggling humanity. Bricks were hurled more than a quarter of a mile.

Dismembered bodies lay all around on the school lawn. Some were decapitated. Others had limbs missing. Some of the children still were alive.

The scene quickly became one of extreme confusion. Hysterical women fainted, shrieked, and prayed, kneeling on the grass.

Many parents, the women either screaming hysterically or silently sobbing, ran frantically from one body to another, seeking their loved ones. There were gasps of horror and occasionally a woman slumping to the ground in a faint, indicating she had found what she had fearfully hoped she wouldn't.

Mutilation of the bodies made their tragic task increasingly difficult. One couple hovered over the form of a little boy, his face and body so mangled and bloody they couldn't be certain if he were their son.

"Must Be Jim," Mother Cries.
"O, it's Jim, it must be Jim," sobbed the woman. Picking up one of the little victim's feet, she argued hysterically with her husband. "Gee, it's his tennis shoes," she cried. "I remember he asked to wear them to school this morning."

"No, no," her husband replied, almost happily. "Jim changed into his other shoes when he came home for lunch."

"O, merciful God, he may still be alive then," the mother cried as they got up and hurried away to scan other little bodies.

For a few minutes after the roof caved in, leaving jagged remnants of wall standing like the ruins of a medieval castle, flames shot out above the wreckage. But the building was of fireproof construction and the blaze, having almost nothing to feed upon, soon died out. It was well that it did, for nearby communities have only small fire fighting forces.

The narrow roads to the school, situated between the oil field communities of London and New London, unincorporated hamlets, soon were clogged with a stream of vehicles.

More than 15,000 persons assembled at the scene in the next few hours, either anxious over the fate of their relatives, to help in the rescue work, or sightseeing.

Call Doctors and Nurses.
Every available ambulance, doctor, and nurse in all surrounding towns were summoned by telephone and radio. As far away as from Shreveport, La., came doctors and nurses by airplane, sent by the American Red Cross.

Thirty doctors and seventy-two nurses, twelve of them from the Red Cross, came from Dallas. Accompanying them were twelve ambulances, twenty-five embalmers, and five hearses.

All sorts of vehicles—laundry trucks, private cars, ambulances, and what not—sped to the scene, and were used to carry the bodies away. But, with no one in authority and hundreds of persons wrought up to a frenzy, many of the cars soon were entangled in a hopeless snarl.

Because of this situation, Governor Allred ordered all state highway patrolmen on duty in the district to hurry here and take command.

All available Texas Rangers and highway policemen also were being rushed there from Dallas, Houston, Austin and Tyler. Fingerprint experts were sent from Austin on the possibility they might assist in identifying the bodies, many Texas school children having been finger printed.

Find Few Survivors.

Five hundred workers from the oil fields arrived at the wrecked building soon after the explosion and leaped into the ruins. But there were few survivors for them to rescue, and their main work was carrying out bodies.

Later an additional 1,000 men went to work on the debris. In the early stages they passed up the bodies of those obviously dead in the hope of finding those in whom there might be life.

Three hundred and sixty bodies were taken by ambulance, truck, and every possible conveyance to Henderson. Dozens of other bodies were taken to Kilgore, Overton, Ark. Troup, Longview, and Tyler.

While waiting for the arrival of sufficient vehicles to move the great number of dead the bodies were carried from the wreckage and laid in long rows on the lawn.

Mothers and fathers dragged the bodies of still more victims into the school gymnasium until the vehicles came back for more loads. There the children and their teachers lay, side by side, many of them unidentified.

Few Injured Will Live.

The superintendent, who saw the school disintegrate before his eyes, said that of the 770 odd children and teachers believed to have been in the building, not more than 100 escaped death. Many of the injured who were removed from beneath the tons of steel and concrete, he said, were so badly injured that they could not live.

Most of the younger children, attending the nearby grammar school, had been dismissed before the disaster occurred and were out of harm's way. Some were playing about the yard, however, and saw the school building collapse.

Mrs. Evelyn Hooker, a welfare worker for Rusk county, in which the school is located, and a friend, Mrs. William C. Roberts, were driving past the school at the time the explosion occurred.

"I looked up," said Mrs. Hooker, "just in time to see the top of the building suddenly rise in the air. It seemed that the whole building moved up and the walls were flung out. A black pall of smoke appeared to hover over the building."

Clothing Torn Off.

"Then we saw the children. O, it was terrible. Some of the smaller ones, who must have been playing in the yard or were in the entrances of the building, ran into the streets. They were bleeding and crying horribly. Their clothing had been torn off many of them."

A. W. Waldrop, physical education teacher at the school, was conducting a class in physical education on the grounds shortly before the blast. He left the class momentarily to enter the building. At that moment the explosion occurred.

One of the first to reach the scene was R. K. Carr, an employee of the Tidewater Associated. He dashed into the wreckage and carried out the body of a little girl. It was his daughter.

variety, and free from mold or discoloration. The ears should be bright and glossy in appearance and have butts which have broken off clean with out shreds or stringiness.

Grains should be hard, plump, well-shaped, smooth and glistening. Grains from each year should be opened to ascertain the condition of the germ. A healthy germ is plump, creamy white, waxy in texture and cuts firmly. Cobs should be inspected and ears having discolored cobs not used. Cobs showing discoloration indicate disease.

The final step is to make the germination tests of the shelled corn. Samples will be forwarded from the agent's office for testing or may be mailed directly to the State Department of Agriculture, Richmond.

Wins $1,000 a Year For Life

Miss Petal Lee, of Williamsburg, Virginia, winner of the grand national prize of $1,000 a year for life in a recent soap contest, is shown at the microphone in Williamsburg, telling a nationwide audience what she is going to do with her prize money. Undecided definitely what she will do with all of her first $1,000, she indicated she would spend some of it in traveling to places she has longed to visit. Miss Lee is a native of Williamsburg and is one of the hostesses who conducts visitors through restored buildings of Colonial Williamsburg.

LEE AT JACKSON'S GRAVE

I've a picture in my attic hanging on the dingy wall,

And I often go to see it, when the evening shadows fall;

I lift it from the rusty nail, and brush the dust away,

And there I see a soldier, in a uniform of gray,

Strewing flowers o'er a lost one—marvel not that he should weep,

Hearts tho' stone must needs have melted,

Where such men as Jackson meet. At the margin of the picture, just above the classic mold,

There appears a faint inscription on the canvas gray and old;

Faint inscription, faded title, reminiscent of the brave,

And the heart must ache that reads it,

"Lee at Stonewall Jackson's Grave." Seems a phantom voice speaking, and I hear a faint "Goodbye"

Then across the somber stillness 'zephyrs hear the sweet reply,

"O Jackson I am watching 'neath the shadow of the tomb,

But Jackson I'll be with thee, where eternal roses bloom."

I saw thee in the valley, where the vapors killed the sun.

As gorgeous as old Austerlitz that charmed Napoleon,

O that beautiful May morning on us, ambient sunbeams fell,

Fell upon our last fond meeting, O my comrade fare thee well.

But in spirit I was with thee, felt thy throbbing heart a-tune

To the song of Shenandoah rippling, 'neath the silver moon.

With thee on the eve of battle, when the camp fires lit the sky,

And the soldier in his bosom pinned his sweetheart's last good-bye.

At the sounding of the reveille when the shell around thee screamed;

I beheld the empty saddles, where the belching cannon gleamed.

Yes, I saw thee in the valley where the blood the verdure kiss'd

Bivouacked 'neath the starlight, there my soul was keeping tryst,

"O Jackson, I am watching where the myrtles round thee creep

But Jackson I'll be with thee, where none sorrow, and none weep."

There at Chancellorsville I saw thee, raised to Heaven thy cherished name,

When thy charge on Hooker's right engulfed it in a sea of flame; But thy fatal reconnoitring, when thy comrades knew thee not, There thy should received the summons, and thy noble self the shot; From thine own the valley thundered, O forgive, they did not know Would that thou hadst died in battle, with thy face against the foe, Welbourn, Welbourn, he is falling: See, he drops the bridle rein Lend thy shoulder—Blood upon it? Thou art honored by the stain: O fatality, thou myst'ry, why should love destroy her own? Little wonder that the blunder turned their loving hearts to stone. I saw thee reeling from the saddle, saw thy last forgiving glance. As the trusty arm of Morrison, bore thee to the ambulance. Heard thee give the last stern order, that thy death with glory crowned,

"To the front and hold your ground sir, Pender, you must hold your ground."

"O, Jackson, I am watching where the fading roses lie,

But Jackson, I'll be with you, where the roses never die."

But tomorrow there is Hooker who shall that valiant foe?

Thou art sleeping comrade, sleeping, who shall cope with "Fighting Joe?"

Oh, tis God's, whose loom is weaving, and it weaves the fate of man; Who th' inscrutable shall fathom, who devise th' omniscient plan?

Not a sparrow falls without Him, not a hair numbered is;

Thou art fallen, thing the honor, infinite omniscience His.

O my Pythias, there at Round Top, Gettysburg had need of thee,

But thine ear heard not the summons of the rolling reyeille;

For He heard thy last petition as thy comrades 'round thee pressed—

"Let us go across the river 'neath the shady trees to rest."

Thou art resting, O my loved one, and the birds their requiems sing,

But I'll meet you o'er the river, where war tocsins never ring.

Now the sword is sheathed forever, that upon the shield of fame,

Carved thy deeds of peerless valor, and inscribed thy deathless name,

"O Jackson, I am watching, Taps no more shall sound for thee,

But Jackson, I'll be with you, when the 'Last Taps' sound for me."

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN Good Seed Corn

It is not too early to think of corn planting, especially with reference to the selection of good type and high germinating seed corn. A little extra care in the selection of seed may mean the difference between a poor and a money-making crop. Good seed corn in addition to aiding in the production of higher yields, also produces more vigorous seedlings, which are better able to withstand unfavorable weather conditions that may arise at planting time. For those who did not select their seed earlier and must now take it from the crib, it is highly important to select ears which are heavy for their size, typical of the

SUNRISE SERVICE

PORTNER LAWN

Manassas, Virginia

BEGINNING AT 5:30 A.M.

Sponsored by

THE MANASSAS
MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

A GREAT EASTER SUNRISE SERVICE

The Ministerial Association of Manassas will hold an Easter Sunrise Service at the platform of the Dairy Association on the Portner Lawn next Sunday morning. An excellent program is being arranged for the occasion. The address of the morning will be delivered by a distinguished visitor. This should be a very largely attended service and doubtless will be, and continuing year by year, will become the most popular occasion of the year.

Easter Dawn Services have been held in many sections of our country for years. Perhaps the most popular and largely attended is the one conducted by the Moravians at Winston-Salem, North Carolina. This service begins about 1:30 o'clock in the morning and continues until around 8:00 o'clock. It is held in the old Moravian Cemetery, and is conducted by the Moravian Bishop and large choirs all dressed in white robes. There have been as many as 50,000 persons present. Special trains run from various parts of the south and east to this service. Another service is that conducted by the Christian Endeavor Union in one of the parks of Pittsburgh. This service is attended by many thousands. In this service the Knights Templars in full uniform attend in a body and form a cross on the hillside, while their chanters sing the great Easter anthems. In Roanoke, Virginia, the Altrusa Club sponsors the service, assisted by the churches of the city. It is held in the great park. Street cars and busses are all routed by the park and thousands attend. The Temple Chanters and massed choirs of the city furnish the music and some prominent speaker brings the address.

It is our hope that people throughout the entire country may find their way to the service here next Sunday morning—5:30 o'clock, and thus honor our risen Lord and claim him King Eternal and Almighty Father, the Savior of Men.

OUTDOOR EASTER RITES

How America celebrates the resurrection of Christ, with stirring outdoor ceremonies taking place from coast to coast, is told in a story appearing in next Sunday's Star. At sunrise Easter morning worshippers will gather atop mountain peaks, on canyon rims, beside serene lakes, upon the desert and in city parks.

Nowhere will services be so impressive as in beautiful natural spaces supervised by the National Park Service, the story reveals. In Washington, where the President and Mrs. Roosevelt will lead the Nation in celebrating the day, a choral group of 250 singers will present an Easter sunrise concert at the Sylvan Theater.

Lenten Talks on the Parables of Jesus

by Dr. James T. Marshall

SPIRITUAL RESERVES

"Five of them were wise." (Matthew 25: 2). The Parable of the Ten Virgins is a picture of life. The wisdom of five of these bridesmaids is seen in their making provision for a possible emergency. They brought with them not only lamps but extra oil for use in the event of the bridal procession being delayed. The folly of the other five is seen in their disregard of such a precaution, and as a result of their negligence they failed to gain entrance to the wedding feast.

This truth finds illustration in every phase of our experience. On last analysis health is not so much a matter of freedom from germs or strain as of our building up enough physical reserve to enable us to overcome these enemies. The wealth of a merchant is not to be estimated by what he has in the show window, but by what he has in the warehouse.

True happiness is altogether a question of the extent of our intellectual and spiritual reserves. It is never found by those who pursue pleasure for its own sake, while it is the natural possession of those minds are stored with the treasures of thought which have come down to us through the ages. Jesus showed little concern about the externals of life. "The Kingdom of God," He said, "is within you." The real millionaires are not the men who can write a check for a million dollars. Many such are pitifully poor. The rich man is the man with a richly furnished mind, who loves books, music and art, and such cultural reserves that he can spend an evening in solitude without being bored.

It is an interesting fact that small men are disposed to be talkative while many great men show a certain dignified reserve. William the Silent was so called, not because he was sullen or morose, but because he knew how to be silent when silence was best. We may say the same thing of our late President Calvin Coolidge. It is not hard to estimate the shallowness or depth of a public speaker. The shallow man gives us the impression that he is exhausting all his resources and is telling us all he knows. The deeper man gives the impression that he has reserves of information yet untouched. It was said of Phillips Brooks that he made his hearers feel that if he were to let himself loose he would overwhelm them. The same thing was true of Daniel Webster.

Think of the mental and spiritual reserves which made possible the great character of David Livingstone. He preferred to die alone in the African forest rather than accept Queen Victoria's invitation to return to England and spend his last days in ease and luxury. Like his divine Master, he could say, "My meat is to do the will of Him that sent me."

Those who store up such reserves of character will be able to stand up under disasters and disappointments which will crush weaker men. Our spiritual reserves are not complete until we taken God into our hearts and learned what it means to be "more than conquerors through Him that loved us."

This is true preparedness. "Stand then in His great might, With all His strength endued; And take to arm you for the fight The panoply of God."
