GOOD TIMES AT TOBACCO FETE

Additional Attractions Being Listed Daily

Tourists search Georgia in vain for "Tara" plantation, an estate in fiction only as the author of "Gone With The Wind" intended. But on September 8 and 9, these tourists will reach plantations in fact in Southside Virginia while attending the National Tobacco Festival at South Boston, Virginia. These home have never been open to the public before and possibly will never be again, since this is a new venture of the National Tobacco Festival dependant upon the brave hospitality of local plantation owners. In the days when "southern hospitality" made its name, travelers were few, but on the two days of the festival it will be strained to the utmost, as a queue "lines up" at each door anticipating rare entertainment.

This entertainment will consist of not only being received in the quaint parlors by hostesses who are descendants of the builders of each of the homes, assisted by negro mamies whose ancestors were slaves there, and by young ladies in heirloom costumes, but also of characteristic native entertainment at each. At "Berry Hill" and Black Walnut, musicians in Empire and early ante-bellum costumes will sing and play Kentucky Home, "The Last Rose of Summer", and Stephen Foster songs by request. At "Green's Folly", the Silvertone Quartette, which has grown celebrated in three states during its ten years of spiritual singing, will sing at eleven and two o'clock. The entrance hall here, once used as a courthouse, will this year become a hall of history for all Southside Virginia. Three other counties, Prince Edward, Charlotte, and Mecklenburg, will join with Halifax in exhibiting the collective heirlooms of their people. There a quaint barouch and a gig will convey visitors to "Seaton" across the road, where three negro brothers will clog dance on the grounds. In the afternoon at "Black Walnut", pickaninies reminiscent of "Topsy" will sing.

Few will be able to pass up such a menu as is provided under a Colonial roof for its Plantation Dinner: Virginia ham, beaten biscuit, fried chicken, black-eyed peas, and scalloped tomatoes, watermelon rind pickle, batter bread, Sally Lunn muffins, floating island custard. Afterward is advised a stroll up the hill to the quaint brick church and Masonic Lodge, where ancient Masonic heirlooms will be revealed behind the Georgian door which has been called "the most beautiful thing on the road between Richmond and Charlotte". At the recently restored church two ancient communion services and old Bibles will be of interest to antiquarians. Historians will delight in the handwritten sermons of the Reverend Charles Dresser, who preached there for years before he married Abraham Lincoln to Mary Todd.

At "Clarkton", which is open all day Friday, will be the acre of plantation entertainment. There at 10:30 a.m. only, will be a unique marionette show. Miss Elise Clark, an artist, makes and dresses her fascinating puppets and has trained tobacco workers on her place to manipulate their strings. St. Thomas' Church will serve early lunch on the grounds, giving ample time to drive back to South Boston for the afternoon parade.

WILL CONTINUE RELIGIOUS WORK

County Council Has Enthusiastic Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Prince William County Council of Religious Education, held at Sudley Church last Sunday, was one of the best attended meetings in years. Rev. Guy West, of Roanoke, spoke on the subject, "The Big Opportunity before the Church Today." This, he said, is the effort to build a better Christian and a higher type of Christian living. The Church is judged by the lives led by its adherents.

Mr. E. T. Fenwick, of Falls Church, made an inspiring and at times humorous address on The Value of Cooperation. Rec. Minor C. Miller spoke on Religious Trends in Modern Life.

The Council decided to continue its program of Week Day Religious Education in the public schools, which has been operating for the past two years. Miss Emma Perkins, the teacher and director of this work, will not return this year. The executives of the Council are interviewing prospective teachers, and will make their selection soon. Miss Hazel Saunders will continue as part-time teacher.

The officers chosen for the year are Rev. John M. DeChant, pres.; Charles R. McDonald of Catharpin, vice-pres.; J. J. Conner, treas., and Mrs. L. J. Bowman, secy. A budget of approximately $1,100.00 was announced, $100.00 of which is for support of the State Council, the remainder to be used locally for Week Day Religious Education.

A Finance Committee composed of persons from each District was appointed and will work with Mr. Conner, the treasurer. The Committee, together with quotas for the Districts, is as follows: Brentsville, Rev. N. J. Miller, Mrs. L. J. Bowman, Mrs. J. M. Keyes, $260.00; Coles, Ray Wood and W. C. Wine, $25.00; Dumfries, Mrs. H. E. Crawford and Mrs. McGruder Keyes, $65.00; Gainesville, Rev. W. F. Carpenter, Mrs. C. F. Cinclear, Henry Maddox, $100.00; Manassas, $500.00; Occoquan, Mrs. Harvey Janney, Mrs. Mildred Brown, $205.00.

The treasurer reported that all bills for the year had been met, and a small balance remained. This, together with the offering for the day, was sent to the State Council.

CARTER WARNER WORMELEY DIES IN RICHMOND

Carter Warner Wormeley, first and only poet laureate of Virginia and for the past 15 years director of advertising in Richmond and publicity for the State, died Tuesday at his home, after an illness of several weeks.

Funeral services for the "Bishop," as he was called familiarly by hundreds of persons in public life in Virginia, were held at 4 p.m. today at the chapel of the L. T. Christian Funeral Home, Boulevard and Park Avenue. The officiating minister was the Rev. Churchill J. Gibson, D. D., rector of St. James Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

Senator Byrd at Winchester last night expressed grief at Mr. Wormeley's death, which he said left a "void in the public life of Virginia that cannot be filled."

"With a brilliant intellect and an intense loyalty to his friends, he possessed the devoted affections of more Virginians than perhaps any living man," Senator Byrd said.

"Bishop" Wormeley's title of poet laureate was conferred upon him by the Virginia General Assembly in 1936. In bestowing the title upon the publicity director who often used his pen to sing praises of Assembly members, the legislators directed that the title should not pass to a successor.

"The title hereby bestowed shall not pass to a successor, but shall exist only so long as there is a 'Bishop' Wormeley to honor and adorn it," the resolution declared.

"Bishop" Wormeley was ill at the time the Assembly was meeting and was unable to attend the session as he usually did.

MOTIVES BEHIND THE PURGE

Democrats of the Eighth Congressional District of Virginia have settled the "purge" so far as the Washington attempt to unseat Hon. Howard W. Smith is concerned, but in Georgia, South Carolina and in Maryland a similar fight is now being waged with increased intensity.

Unquestionably there is much more behind the powerful effort now being made to replace loyal Southern members of Congress than a mere personal pique. The fact is that behind the truly gigantic effort lies a most powerful objective, rather well concealed, but nevertheless fully understood by students of Southern political and economic history, and, of course, perfectly apparent to the distinguished Senators and Congressmen who have had the courage and the patriotism to stand squarely in the path of those who are aiming directly at the very heart and life of Southern economic and social security.

There is really no essential difference between the materialistic motives underlying the present determination in Washington to "uplift" the South than those actuating the military invasion of the South seventy-five years ago. The real aim is to destroy our rapidly rising industrial prosperity and to stop the present tide of migration of Northern manufacturing enterprises into the South. In 1861 military force was used to accomplish this purpose, and the ensuing Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution, secured at the point of the bayonet, really had no such humanitarian object as the guarantee of newly acquired citizenship, as loudly acclaimed at the time. It is a matter of historical record that this Amendment was framed for the purpose of protecting the great Northern manufacturing and commercial enterprises then rapidly developing. The same underlying motive is behind the present determined effort to force a drastic Wage and Hours Bill upon Southern industry. Regardless of how loudly a "more abundant life" is stressed, the real objective is the closing up of Southern factories and the stopping of the present migration of Northern industry into the South where effective police protection is provided and where they can be assured of a reasonable return on the investment of their stockholders.

It is true that the South now presents economic problem No. 1 in Washington, but the actual nature of that problem is not being correctly presented. The real concern of the Federal Government is the astonishing recovery of the South from the fearful effects of the War between the States and its accompanying threat to the supremacy of Northern industry.

Standing in the path of this determined attempt to reduce Southern prosperity to the low level of the nation as a whole are these patriotic Southern Senators and Representatives now marked for the "purge". Unless they can be gotten rid of it will be almost impossible to inflict the injustices now aimed at us, and so far, it has been the verdict at the polls that they shall stay right where they are and not be replaced at the pleasure of the Executive.

MAYOR DAVIS TALKS ON CRIME

Town Manager Cocke scored his third hit as apogam committee when he introduced Mayor Davis as the guest speaker at the Kiwanis club on Friday evening.

On the previous Friday, when the club went to Stone House for its meeting, Hon. Branch Spalding was the orator, telling us all about the probable developments of the local Battle-field Park.

Last Friday evening, Mr. Davies used statistics from the Federal Bureau of Investigation to give crime data, both as of the present day and just a few years ago.

Mr. Davis made some interesting comparisons between the heavily populated metropolises and rural districts and the more sparsely settled sections of the south Atlantic section.

The club was delighted to see Dave Arrington back at his post. He had certainly been missed.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY GETS R. F. C. LOAN

The Interstate Commerce Commission has approved the application of the Southern Railway Co. for a loan of $11,795,000 by the Reconstruction Corporation and the extension of an R.F.C. loan of $12,475,204 maturing September 1.

The commission said that the company was not "in need of financial reorganization in the public interest at this time" and that it may reasonably "be expected to meet its fixed charges without reduction thereof through judicial reorganization."

The Interstate Commerce Commission said the new loan will be used to meet bonded indebtedness maturing September 1. The loan will be for five years and the extension for the same period, making the total indebtedness fall due on September 1, 1943.

Judge Smith in Town

Judge Smith was in Manassas yesterday afternoon. Groups of enthusiastic friends gathered around him at every turn. Manassas is still jubilant over the election returns.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS MEET TOMORROW

A criticism by the Virginia Democrat, official organ of the Young Democratic Clubs of Virginia, of President Roosevelt's intervention in primaries heightened interest today in the Young Democratic State convention in Richmond tomorrow and Saturday.

CHARLES ROBERTSON

Mr. Charles Robertson, age 74, died at his home near Bristow, Thursday, August 18th at 1 p.m. after a week's illness.

He leaves three children, one daughter, Mrs. Mary Walters, of Manassas, two sons, Raymond and Roberts, of Bristow; also three sisters and three brothers: Mrs. Parker Campbell, Mrs. Rufus Leadman and Mrs. Willard Frye, all of Washington; Messrs. James Robertson, of Washington, Ira Robertson, of Oakton, Va., and Edward P. Robertson, of Manassas.

He was laid to rest at the Robertson's cemetery at Bristow.

4-H CLUB BOYS TO PRACTICE AT ADEN FRIDAY

Boys interested in dairy cattle judging and demonstration team practice have been invited to meet at the Reading Bros. Farm, near Aden, Friday afternoon, August 26, at 2:00 o'clock. The local boys will meet with V.P.I. students who are trying out for the college judging team on dairy farms near Manassas and Fredericksburg on September 6.

Additional instruction will be given both groups at the Maryland State Fair at Timonium.

STATE POLICE WILL HELP IN SAFETY LESSONS

State police officers will help Virginia's public schools to instruct the young in safety.

Dr. Sidney B. Hall, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, said this week that an arrangement had been made with Col. Marion Battle, State Motor Vehicle Director, whereby superintendents and principals may call upon the officers to address assemblies of pupils on ways of avoiding traffic accidents.

These talks will be a part of the program of safety instruction which will be inaugurated in state schools this fall. Dr. Hall said this instruction would be "dove-tailed" with other work, but that it would amount to an appreciable part of the curriculum and that credit would be given for it.

The schools have long used a safety "bulletin," or paper round book, assembled by school men and financed by the American Legion.

The last General Assembly specified that safety should be taught, so the State Board of Education selected textbooks for use in both elementary and high schools grades.

The Legion "bulletin" and these textbooks will be used in classes.

The instruction will cover all phases of accident prevention, and will be designed to show children they "can have accidents in their own homes and own bathtubs, as well as on the streets and highways," Dr. Hall said.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF FISH AND GAME GROUP

An especially important meeting of the Prince William Fish and Game Protective Association will be held in the Manassas Town Hall, Friday, August 26th, at 8:00 p.m.

Prominent speakers on problems of the Association will be present and all members of the local and nearby clubs are cordially invited to attend.

GRANGE EVENTS PROVE EXCITING

The entire day was full of action and the dance at night proved to be very pretty and well attended.

Much merriment was occasioned by the slow automobile races. The Jousting Tournament was really the feature of the day and brought forth some splendid talent. The coronation address at night was delivered by "Senator" Ed. Conner, of Manassas.

The other winners in order, and the maids of honor whom they named are as follows: Charles Hurlburt, Betty Coe, of Arlington; Richard Hayford, Mrs. Willis Foley and "Uncle" Hamilton, Jean Kane, of Arlington.

The visitors from Kensington, Md., had an easy time defeating Middleburg by a score of 8-1.

The members of the Grange were much delighted at the success of the day and are extending thanks to those who cooperated and helped with the various events.

COUNTY OFFICIAL DIES SUDDENLY

Dumfries Supervisor Widely Known For Political and Welfare Work

The entire county was shocked at the sudden death of Mrs. Janie Cordelia Abel, Supervisor of Dumfries District, who expired at her home last Sunday evening after an illness of only a few hours.

Mrs. Abel was widely known throughout the County and State for her energetic activity in the Democratic Party and her devotion to welfare work and county improvement. She was a native of Lee District in Fairfax County, where she was born February 16, 1894, the daughter of James H. and Mary M. Beach.

In July, 1917 she married Mr. Clinton Abel, who survives, and in addition to her son, Clinton, Jr., she leaves four sisters and a brother: Mrs. Annie V. Greene, of Fairfax County; Mrs. Katie Harper of Detroit; Mrs. Stella Ubele, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Ida V. Haggard, of California, and Mr. Stanley Beach, of Washington, D. C.

Services were conducted on Wednesday at 2:00 p.m. on the lawn of the home by Rev. A. H. Shumate, pastor of the Dumfries M. E. Church, where the deceased had been an active member for twenty years. Burial was in the Dumfries Cemetery. The active pallbearers were Messrs. Wm. Hill Brown, Jr., C. C. Cloe, G. C. Russell, J. F. Williams, J. B. Amidon and W. W. Sisson.

The wide acquaintance and high esteem in which the deceased was held was attested by an unusually large gathering which included most of the officials of Prince William County and many prominent mourners from more remote localities. The floral tributes were especially beautiful and abundant.

The Honorary Pallbearers were Hon. Howard W. Smith and Messrs. Warfield Brawner, William Brawner, J. L. Dawson, Rev. J. Murray Taylor, C. B. Roland, Lester Huff, Hawes Davies, Sr., George W. Herring and Wheatley Johnson.

IMPORTANT MEETING AT BEDFORD, ENGLAND

The Walter Hines Page Chapter, D. A. R., was entertained recently by Mrs. Carpenter - Holland - Griffith, widow of the late Major Frederick Carpenter-Holland-Griffith, at her home "Biddenham Close," Bedford, England. This Chapter, which is named after the American Ambassador in Great Britain during the war, is a memorial and historical Chapter, the only Chapter in Great Britain of the "Daughters of the American Revolution". The D. A. R. has members and Chapters in a number of countries, and at this meeting of the Great Britain Chapter, members attended from Scotland, Germany, and the United States of America. Among those present was Mrs. Douglas Jenkins, wife of the American Consul-General to Great Britain.

The report of the Chapter's delegate to the Continental Congress in Washington U. S. A., as read, and it was announced that the D. A. R. magazine would, in future, be called the "Historical Magazine" and would be edited by Mrs. F. Parkinson-Keyes.

A presentation was made to Mrs. Carpenter-Holland-Griffith. One of the objects achieved by the D. A. R. in recent years has been the buying of Sulgrave Manor, Northamptonshire, the ancestral home of George Washington, as a memorial to him. Incidentally, half the money required to buy this estate was provided by the Walter Hines Page Chapter.

It is interesting to note that besides being the ancestral home of George Washington, Sulgrave Manor is also the ancestral home of Mrs. Carpenter - Holland - Griffith. — The Bedford Record (England).

Mrs. Carpenter-Holland-Griffith was Miss M. Rosamund Higginbotham, daughter of the late Cyrus A. and Althea J. Higginbotham, of Montvale, Virginia. She was known in Manassas, also as Mrs. Royston S. Noble, of Barcelona, Spain, before her marriage to Major Carpenter-Holland-Griffith. She frequently visited her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kasehagen, former residents, at their home on Grant ave., and is a member of the Manassas Chapter of the U.D.C.

A chicken supper will be held in the Creamery at Gainesville next Wednesday, August 31.

BEDTIME AT "SEATON"

Miss Joy Leigh defies the sandman to the large one, was made during the same period.

At "Seaton" will also be found an ancient French doll, anirons, gold china, gold and crimson vases, miniatures, and Hitchcock chairs that belonged to Adriana Relay Callow who is the mother of Mrs. Vassar, founder of the famous college at Poughkeepsie, besides numerous other relics making this old plantation home virtually a museum.

WATERFALL

Miss Margaret Shirley left on Tuesday morning for a week's trip in the Great Smokies, with Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. McCullough and son of Philadelphia. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. McCullough expect to spend several days in the neighborhood with relatives and friends.

Philip Thornhill entertained a few of his friends on Sunday afternoon, the eve of his twelfth birthday. Those present were Misses Florence and Rhoda DeWitt, Edward, Robert, and Carroll Wright, Robert Fogle, Richard Martin and Billy Lamberton.

The neighborhood seems to be a popular Summer resort for city dwellers. Most residences are filled to capacity with guests who greatly enjoy our mountain scenery, cool breezes and the Old Swimming hole.

The Home coming day at Antioch Church on first Sunday was largely attended and greatly enjoyed, also the services conducted by Rev. Knox of Falls Church, each night the following week. There were eight received for baptism.

We are glad to note that all of our churches have established this precedent in having these home coming days, where the fellowship of Christian love, is strengthened. Those who have gone out from us, return to the old home church. For this one day set apart to come together each year.

Mr. Randolph Smith is spending some time with his daughter, Mrs. Jean Barnes near the city, and is making extensive improvements to her home.

Mrs. Stuart Pickett spent last week visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles Sinclair at Aurora, Hills.

Mr. R.B. Gossom and Barton Padgett were delegates from Antioch to the Potomac Association which convened at Stafford C. H. last week.

Mr. Preston Smith attended the Sheriff's Convention in Staunton, Va., on Wednesday of last week.

In the matter of daughters, Eddie Carter, has nothing on our neighbor, Mr. Ralph Bell. The fifth Miss Bell arrived at his home on thirteenth. Cheer up Ralph. There is lots of truth in the old maxim.

A daughter is your daughter
All the days of your life
A son is your son, until,
He takes him a wife

CATHARPIN

Now listen! You know that old saying about "no news being good news?" don't you? Well I know you do, so we are going to capitalize on that word "good" and just say that Catharpin must all be good since neither she nor any of her people have done anything during the past week worthy of either note or censure; therefore her goodness must be the personification of excellence. We have raked and scraped every little nook and corner to find some little detail which by an exaggerated imagination might be woven into some kind of a verbal monstrosity, but so far our efforts were in vain; yes, really and truly in vain, if you know what that is. So when one is confronted by the impossible he should have sense enough to quit. But don't you know that lots of us do not possess that great qualification know as disarmament? Or the quality of mind which enables us to quit when we are through? Much less that deeper qualification which tells one he sometimes is through before he begins. Well, we have often felt that way ourselves, so we are now going to exercise what little since we have left and just stop!

Th young people's organization at Sudley has been putting on a program each Sunday evening for the study of Christian Education. These meetings have been both interesting and instructive. The program for next Sunday night will be conducted by the adults of the congregation upon the subject "Christian Education in the Home." A number of addresses will be heard and discussions on subjects of interest will be had during the program. The whole church membership is requested to attend. Christian Education is now the most important activity of the church at large and every denomination is making a major effort to meet the demands. Don't fail to come.

Sudley Church shone forth bright and cheerful as she welcomed the delegates to the annual convention of the Prince William County Council of Religious Education which was held at this church on Sunday, August 21st, 1938, with a very large attendance of delegates and interested workers from the county at large. The meeting was presided over by the county president, the Rev. John M. DeChant, of the Manassas Presbyterian church, in his usual delightful way. The personnel of the delegates represented almost every protestant denomination in the county, all united in an effort to provide "Christian Education for the children in the county and the State of Virginia." To many, perhaps, this statement may produce some sort of a "shock." If so, we are glad, for certainly the conditions as presented by the eminent speakers for the occasion are such as to arouse the interest of all churchmen in helping the children of the country, who are entirely without religious instruction, to receive some knowledge of a religious life.

The work of this Council is admittedly, one of the most important religious activities undertaken in recent years and must have the co-operation of all Christian people. "Why do you ask? What is it that has so suddenly thrust itself upon our attention?" In answer, we quote one of the illustrations recited by one of the speakers. "It was found that in a small country town of about 1000 people, there were 80 families who never attended church services of any kind at any time." From this you may draw your own analysis: among these families were many children, boys, girls and herhaps grown-ups, none of whom know anything of religion or of Christian training of any sort. The churches do not or can not reach them (?). Are they to be thus abandoned? They will soon be voters and then what?

The State, long since, has recognized the necessity of an intelligent citizenship, and accordingly has adopted compulsory attendance laws compelling children to enter school. The State however, may not give religious instruction, per se, hence this part of a child's life is void unless cared for by some religious agency. This is exactly what the combined effort of the different denominations is now trying to do through the medium of the Council of Religious Education. This to be accomplished by the employment of an all-time, well qualified Religious instructor, who visits the schools and conducts classes in religious education. This activity is yet in the embryo stage but is rapidly increasing throughout the State as fast as funds can be raised to employ teachers. This, then, is now before you. Don't fail it.

The first address to the convention was by the Rev. Guy West of Roanoke, Va., an evangelist, on the general needs of an awakened sense of responsibility on the part of parents with their church for the better training of their children. This address was par excellent and far-reaching in effect. The Hon. E. T. Fenwick of Falls Church addressed the audience on Cooperation which was excellent and well received. The last address was by the Rev. Minor C. Miller, State Councilman in charge of the work in general. After reporting fine progress thruout the State Mr. Miller closed his remarks by an eloquent deliverance on the "Five Trends" toward which we are heading and which must be avoided at any cost. All addresses were oratorically beautiful and sentimentally of the best.

There passed from among us in the prime of her life a very dear friend to all the community, a very good citizen and a true public spirited person, Mrs. Janie C. Abel of Dumfries, Va., in the forty-fourth year of her life. Mrs. Abel's death was very sudden. She was a member of the Board of Supervisors of Prince William County from Dumfries District. Was greatly interested in Roads, Schools, and everything that would in any way be of benefit to the community. She leaves her husband, Mr. Clinton N. Abel, and a son, Clinton, Jr. Our sympathy goes to her family and other relatives in this their hour of mourning. She was laid to rest in Dumfries cemetery, Rev. A. H. Shumate officiating. We will all miss Mrs. Abel. She could be contacted at any time and would do her best to get help for the Schools or any other necessary work for the benefit of the community.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER
If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in later years.

Hath the Lord as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the Lord? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams.—1 Samuel 15:22.

JANIE C. ABEL

In the passing of Janie Abel (for that is how we all speak of her) Prince William has suffered another shock in its official make-up from which it will not soon recover.

For years past there was not a civic, political nor church affair in which she failed to be a leading figure. Every soul in Dumfries District was well known to her and in fact most every one in the county.

For her loyal work in all things, she will long be remembered with genuine affection. Passing in the very prime of life, the height of tragedy is even greater and to her loved ones, the Journal joins in extending the most sincere sympathy.

There is an alleviating touch for those who mourn her to know that she was so much appreciated and so loved. We hope that this will help to assuage the grief that is so wide spread among her host of friends in northern Virginia.

MORRIS—ROBERTSON

Miss Nellie Robertson and Mr. Ollie Morris were quietly married, at the home of Rev. John M. DeChant, two o'clock Wednesday, August 24th.

The bride was becomingly dressed in powder blue, with navy blue accessories, and wore a corsage of talisman's roses and bridal wreath.

After the ceremony the young couple left immediately to visit the groom's parents and relatives in Charlottesville, Virginia.

After their return, they will make their home near Manassas. Their many friends wish them much happiness.

Province of Quebec, Vacation-Land Extraordinary

QUEBEC Province, so easily reached from the United States, is a fascinating vacation area. Montreal, with a million people and almost as many attractions, and the ancient city of Quebec, have at their door a vast provincial countryside with an unstage panorama of life as it was in French Canada nearly three centuries ago. Its ancient folklore and folk songs, its spinning-wheels and open-air ovens, its wayside shrines and innumerable churches—all these impress the tourist who is looking for something new and different. For here is pictured the life of peaceful French-

Canadian farmers who carry on the old traditions of France with loyalty to New France, Canada's Province of Quebec.

Fascinating Isle of Orleans on the mighty St. Lawrence River is so near Quebec City—it may be seen from the lofty tower of the Chateau Frontenac—that it attracts many visitors. Like life on Quebec's lower mainland and famous Gaspé Peninsula across the St. Lawrence River, the Isle is much as it was when French-Canada was young. Gaspé, from the Micmac Indian word "Gaspé," means the end, like Land's End in England. The peninsula covers 11,400 square miles and has been described as "a huge finger from the mainland reaching out (170 miles) into the Gulf of St. Lawrence." The Gaspé is reached by rail, steamship and motor car.

And the Laurentian Mountain region with its trout fishing in lakes and streams on the Labelle line of the Canadian Pacific, where big speckled beauties, brown trout, bass and other game fish are just waiting for the cast of a fly or proper bait! There's an expert in Canada, A. O. Seymour, Windsor Station, Montreal, who knows all about fishing in the Laurentians and everywhere in Quebec, and as the friend of all fishermen he will send free information that is helpful to old Ike Walton's disciples.

DOUBLE PASTURE YIELDS

Doubled pasture yields are possible under a system of liming, reseeded and treating with superphosphate, it has been demonstrated in five years of pasture experimental work at the Mt. Pleasant Iowa State Hospital Farm. While liming and reseeded alone produced a forty percent increase over untreated pasture, the addition of superphosphate produced another sixty percent gain.

LIME VERSUS SUPERPHOSPHATE FOR PASTURES

Many inquiries have been received as to which will do pastures the most good—superphosphate or lime? Virginia experiments have shown that either will pay by itself but that the best results per dollar invested come from applying both fertilizer and lime. Liming brings about a desirable soil reaction for the better pasture grasses and legumes and the fertilizer furnishes plant food for their growth.

TRIPLE SUPERPHOSPHATE FOR PASTURES

It is hoped that as many farmers as possible will use 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program Triple Superphosphate on pastures. On farms due a soil building payment, the only cash outlay will be for trucking the fertilizer from Baltimore.

Applications for Triple Superphosphate for fertilizing pastures are now being received daily at the county agents office.

HUGE TECHNICOLOR

FILM OPENS HERE AUG. 29 & 30

Starring Errol Flynn, the dashing young Irish star who has made such a phenomenal rise to stardom is Robin.

Olivia de Havilland, the petite and lovely star ho played opposite Flynn in "Captain Blood" and "The Charge of the Light Brigade," plays Maid Marian, his lady-love. Claude Rains is the villainous King John, Basil Rathbone plays Sir Guy of Gisbourne, Ian Hunter is King Richard the Lion-Hearted, and Patric Knoles, Herbert Mundin, Montagu Love, Melville Cooper, Alan Hale, Eugene Pallette and Una O'Connor have supporting roles.

Although the story has the same principal characters, it is far different from the tale employed by Douglas Fairbanks when he made a silent movie of "Robin Hood" some 16 years ago. Since it is a matter of debate whether Robin Hood ever lived in actuality, or was merely a legendary figure, there is much material, both mythical and historical, from which to tell the story of Robin Hood and his merry band.

Sherwood Forest, Nottingham Castle and all the other locales so familiar from song and story are beautifully recreated on the screen and the thousands of costumes and props are authentic 12th Century—the work of long months of research. Erich Wolfgang Korngold wrote the accompanying musical score.

HOLD No. 4—when messages like this began to flash along wires, railroading entered a new era of safety and efficiency. When trains met in the earliest days, a fight between the crews decided which train must back up to a siding and let the other pass. Then came a crude semaphore system. Station operators climbed to the top of a pole, surveyed the track with spyglass and flagged a train to go ahead. At night a ball with a light was used—origin of today's hand signal known to railroaders as "the high ball."

Followed then a complicated system of schedule rules, observed on the Virginia Central—a predecessor of Chesapeake and Ohio—until 1857. While this method was in force, one delay would throw the whole line out of gear. That trains in those days moved with any degree of promptness is a tribute to the skill and intelligence of their trainmen.

In 1857 the railroad contracted for a telegraph line from Richmond to Staunton, Virginia.

The story of the railroad is one of constant improvement. Standards of safety and service mount higher and higher. Today Chesapeake and Ohio, striving to give more to the traveling and shipping public and to the communities it serves, looks back to its first telegraph and other improvements which make modern railroading so safe and sure—and forward to unknown improvements which invention and devotion to an ideal must surely bring.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Christ Jesus will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 28.

The Golden Text will be "Thou, Bethlehem-Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall he come forth unto me that is to be ruler in Israel; whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting" (Micah 5:2).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined. For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The Mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace" (Isaiah 9:2,6).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christ, Truth, was demonstrated through Jesus to prove the power of Spirit over the flesh,—to show that Truth is made manifest by its effects upon the human mind and body, healing sickness and destroying sin" (p. 316).

MEMORIAL PEW DONATED TO PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The first memorial in the Manassas Presbyterian Church, which is about to be refurbished, is a pew which has been subscribed by the Boorman family in memory of their parents, Joseph and Clara Boorman. Mr. Boorman served as organist of the church for many years and also held, at various times, the offices of Elder, Trustee, and Clerk of the Session.

Mrs. E. D. Williamson, formerly Miss Alice Boorman, who is spending her vacation here, is enthusiastic about Mr. DeLong's plans for beautifying the church interior, having seen his fine work in the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church in Washington.

The church is inviting gifts to be designated as memorials to honor those, living or dead, who have had any connection with the congregation. Pews, choir stalls, baptismal font, communion table, lectern, pulpit, or pulpit chairs may be chosen for such memorial purposes.

LAUREL AND HARDY IN "SWISS MISS"

The inimitable, internationally beloved comedians, Laurel and Hardy, make their first co-starring appearance on the screen in more than a year in "Swiss Miss," a musical-comedy extravaganza laid in the Alps, which opens Wednesday, August 31, at the Pitts' Theatre as one of the most spectacular and pretentious feature-length productions ever turned out by the Hal Roach studios.

A cast of triking distinction supports the comedy kings in the new film, considerable interest being given the fact that the picture marks the debut on the American screen of Della Lind, hailed as one of Europe's most beautiful singing stars. Also combining a brilliant vocal and acting talent is Walter Woolf King who has starred in a long list of Broadway musical-comedy hits. Eric Blore, who has added gaiety to every picture in which he has appeared, is also featured in the cast of "Swiss Miss."

Five new songs are offered the public in "Swiss Miss," written by Phil Charig who has won fame both here and abroad, with lyrics by Arthur Kuenzer. The songs are "Yo-Ho-De-O-De-Lay-Ee-O," "The Cricket Song," "As Sure As There's a Sky Above," "Gypsy Song" and "I Can't Get Over the Alps." Also included are choral and ensemble numbers, with "The Mountain Shepherd's Dance" described as the Swiss version of "The Big Apple."

In "Swiss Miss," Laurel and Hardy appear as the mouse-trap salesmen about to rid the cheese-making country of its rodent population. At an Alpine inn they come upon a noted Viennese composer who is at work on a new operetta. His wife, an actress, has incurred her husband's jealousy because the critics give more attention to her singing than to his music. She follows him to the inn hoping for a reconciliation but he spurns all her advances. Laurel and Hardy, smitten with her charm and beauty, become hilarious foils in the ruse she employs to regain her husband's favor.

Novel routines, indigenous to Switzerland, are seen in the new picture. Flag-throwing is demonstrated by Franz Hug, champion of the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin. Bell-ringing, yodeling and the blowing of the Alpine folks included in the film. From Los Angeles county's colony of eleven thousand Swiss more than a hundred appeared as actors. In many instances they wore their own colorful costumes.

STEVENSON'S STIRRING

"KIDNAPPED" IS REAL

BIG-PICTURE TRIUMPH

From the world's great stories come the greatest motion pictures and "Kidnapped," which Robert Louis Stevenson considered his best, proves this axiom to the hilt next Thursday and Friday, September 1-2, at the Pitts' Theatre.

With the typical lavish hand that ear-marks all the 20th Century-Fox productions which come under the watchful eye of Darryl F. Zanuck, "Kidnapped" brings an array of fine motion picture thrills to the screen in a romantic adventure story.

Warner Baxter portrays in all his awashbuckling, vigorous best, the never-to-be-forgotten Alan Breck, fugitive clansman of the highlands. And Freddie Bartholomew, a size or two larger than when he last appeared so brilliantly on the screen, gives a fine performance to the role of David Balfour, the boy hero of the piece.

The story concerns Alan Breck's leading the clans in revolt against union of the North Country with George III's domain. David Balfour is the lad with the unscrupulous uncle who tries to keep the boy's rightful estate by having him kidnapped and shipped to America. The lives of Alan Breck and David Balfour cross at the point where the girl, fiancée of a lesser rebel, falls in love with Breck.

NEGRO EDUCATION IN RURAL DISTRICTS OF THE SOUTH Jackson, N. C. August 22, 1938

The negro public schools open in this part of the State, the middle of July, and close about the middle of September and remains closed for a period of two months. This arrangement is for the purpose of giving the pupils the opportunity to pick cotton and help harvest the peanut crop.

This place has a large brick elementary graded school for the white children and a five-room wooden building for the colored children.

The high school pupils are transported in buses to consolidated schools located in other towns—the white children to the town of Seaboard, the colored to the town of Rich Square.

The standard in the colored graded school does not appear to be very high. Robert Harris, a bright 13-year old colored boy, who attends school in the summer and picks cotton in the fall, is said to be best scholar in his class. As a side issue he acts as valet to a leading Jackson physician.

Robert writes a good hand, is fairly good at reading and spelling, but wonderful lacking on other studies. To test his knowledge of geography, I asked him to bound North Carolina. He knew Virginia was on the north and South Carolina on the South, but he couldn't recall what state (?) was on the East or the west.

Japan, he said, was larger in area than China.

In bounding the U. S., he was not certain but thought Canada was on the South and Mexico on the north. He showed me his geography and I found he is now studying South America and other foreign countries having finished the book about North America and the U. S., while in the 5th grade.

This 7th grade scholar seemed to be equally muddled on history. When asked who was the first president of the U. S., he replied promptly Abraham Lincoln. He knew Roosevelt is now President of the U. S., but did not remember the name of the President he had succeeded Gen. Grant, he said and Gen. Lee was both generals in the Revolutionary War.

Robert takes to school some seven or eight books furnished by the State. He is as intelligent as the common run of negroes you find this section.

His mother is a widow living in a three-room house with several other children and she is employed as a janitress at the public building here on the pay roll of the W.P.A.

Robert Harris is typical of other negro children in the rural districts of the South and in view of the "Schooling", he is now getting. I am wondering if there is not something wrong with our educational system in the agricultural sections whether it would not work to our economic betterment by discarding some of the present studies and substituting therefore practical training in agricultural subjects suitable to the environment.

I am wondering if it would not be better for these young negroes raised on the farm to be taught in addition to the "three R's", something about conservation of this soil and how to grow better crops rather than giving them a smattering of studies they are not allowed to become proficient in. The present system gives them but little encouragement to stay on the farm but fosters crowding into the cities.

THE WHY OF THE WORLD By Peter O'Rourke

The other evening I was sitting on my porch and looking down into the valley below the house. It was one of those dreary evening, with the entire sky overcast, and darkness coming on a full half-hour before usual.

On a table next to my chair I noticed a pair of yellow-lens sun glasses, and from some childish instinct, I know not what, I picked them up and put them on.

Suddenly the whole scene was changed, in the place of darkness there was soft light; the oncoming night seemed to be showed aside by some unseen force; the clouds were tinted as though from the rays go lovely evening sun. And all because of a pair of dim sun-glasses.

I finally took off the magic lens and let the world of reality return, with its somber shades and threatening skies. But the memory lingered—the memory of what great change had been wrought by such a little thing. And I began to wonder what there is that we cause use in our lives in place of the sun glasses to lighten the scenes of our spiritual lives; what can change the night of woe into the noon tide of cheerfulness; what can chase away the gloom of remorse, the dark spell of worry, the unbearableness of pain.

The answer came to me with alarming ease and was of amazing simplicity. I found that it too was at my service, just as the sun glasses. If I choose to use it, it will do new wonders for me, or if I want, I can discard it, as so many people do. Whichever may be the case, it means the difference between the soft light on one hand the blinding darkness on the other.

I think you know what it is. Its the light of my faith in all the things of good and honest living. I believe I can better express my idea in a little poem that I composed in a leisure moment.

"Here's the tale of a friend of mine
For whom the day is night
Because one day a fate unkind
Robbed him of his sight.

But his smile is warm like noonday sun,

Cards have been received from Mrs. Irene Woltz, who is visiting at several places in California. She is expected back about the end of next week.

And his heart is filled with same.
And when his time on earth is done,
He'll find new eyes above."
