ATTEND FARM SHOW

Messrs. Albert Roseberry, Wilmer Kline, C. L. Jacobs, Cliff Bear, Walter Sadd and Prof. Fishbaugh motored last Thursday to Harrisburg, Pa., to attend the Pennsylvania State Farm Show, which was one of the largest and most successful of recent years.

Mrs. Lizzie McCoy Colvin

The death angel entered our home at 2 o'clock on the morning of January 14 and took our dear and sainted mother to her Heavenly Home to be free from the pains and suffering she bore with such patience and child like faith. The loss of her eyesight soon after being bedridden 15 months ago was a blow from which she never rallied, though she never lost interest in the home, church or community.

Always ready to listen to the sorrows of others and speak words of cheer to the broken hearted, a mother to all that came under her sheltering roof from the humblest to the greatest. That warm welcome and bright smile was always there to greet you. Peace and contentment were what she loved most.

She was born near David, Fauquier County, Virginia, May 17, 1854, the daughter of John Thomas McCoy and Sarah Elizabeth Shelkett McCoy. At the age of 5 years, she moved with her parents to her grandfather Shelkett's farm in upper Stafford County where she grew to young womanhood. Being the only child living, two others dying in babyhood, her parents gave her the best in home training and education. Not only a girl of bright and broad mind, she grew to be a noted beauty, which traces time could not erase entirely.

A young soldier by the name of John Calhoun Colvin who had served his country faithfully and made his way back home without surrendering, met this queen young lady whose grace and charm captured his heart as the yankee never did.

It was not long until this young soldier found himself face to face with a squad of admirers who were also trying for the hand of this young girl who was the idol of her parents' hearts. But like all brave and courageous soldiers he won out, and on the 26th day of November, 1872, they were married at her home in Stafford.

After a honeymoon spent in the Capital City, they came to Prince William County, the home of his father (George Colvin) then known as the Foot's Estate.

Here they settled 66 years ago, and with good management and hard work they made this place a pretty home and a productive farm from a thin, war-scarred home.

It is a sacred place to their children as it has been in the family over a century.

From this union eight children were born. Three are dead, those living: Miss Florence May, George, M. Nokesville, Va., Mrs. W. C. Read and Charlie L., Catlett, Va., and Miss Callie, Rochester, New York.

The funeral was conducted at the home on the 16th by her ministers. Born in a Methodist Home and bring a member of that church for nearly half century, the pastor, Rev. C. W. Mark, had officiated at Father and Son's Funeral in 1921 and 1922. He was assisted at this time by Rev. Charles Clarkson and Rev. Murray Taylor, a friend of the family.

The Pall-bearers were her five grandsons and cousin, Joseph Read, Wyatt and Philip Colvin, all of Washington, D. C., Woodrow and Sidney Colvin, Nokesville, Va., J. W. Maddox, Ruby, Va. The flower girls were her 3 granddaughters and a young girl in the family: Lorna Read and Genevieve Colvin, Washington, D. C., Emma Colvin and Hazel Fritter, Nokesville, Va.

Honorary Pall-bearers were: J. E. Marshall, M. A. Bell, W. H. Herndon, W. B. Kerlin, McDuff Green, L. J. Bowman, I. O. Heflin and McDuff Bridwell.

The body was lovingly laid to rest in the Old Foot's Cemetery under a bank of flowers where sleep four generations of the Colvin family.

—Her Daughter, Florence.

CLUB TO SPONSOR SPRING CONCERT

Mrs. C. R. C. Johnson Address
Music-Literature Section

The Music-Literature Section of the Manassas Woman's Club enjoyed an interesting and instructive meeting on Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. F. R. Hynson. Mrs. William Lloyd was hostess.

Mrs. Dennis Baker, the Music chairman, talked on Symphonic Music, giving a sketch of the life of Franz Liszt, a Hungarian pianist and composer of great note. To illustrate music, Mrs. Baker played a recording of "The Magic Flute" by Mozart with Toscanini conducting the orchestra.

Mrs. R. C. R. Johnson, the guest speaker, made a wholly delightful talk on "Distinguished Books of Modern Times." The subject field being so large she divided the books Historical, Biographies, Doctor's Books, Fiction and Poetry. Mrs. Johnson and her talk was very thoroughly enjoyed.

Miss Eugenia Osbourn spoke for a few minutes on the wealth of literary material there was to be found in the High School Library. She very cordially invited everyone to come out and see for themselves at any time the library was open. Miss Osbourn brought out the fact that the aim of the Women's Clubs was cultural as well as social.

Mrs. Stuart Gibson announced that the Reading group would meet at the library on Thursday afternoon, January 26, at 3:30 and invite anyone interested to be there.

A committee was appointed by Mrs. Baker to decide upon a concert to be sponsored by this club in the Spring—chairman, Mrs. Dennis Baker; Mrs. Lewis Carper, Mrs. John Broadbush, Mrs. William Lloyd, Miss Sue Ayres, chairman of the Section and Mrs. Worth Peters, secretary.

QUIZ AT MEETING IS INTERESTING

P.-T. A. Group Sees Exhibit of Art and Manual Training

The Manassas Parent-Teacher Association met in the High School auditorium on Thursday night, January 19. At the close of the short business session, Rev. DeChant gave an account of the board meeting of the State Cooperative Education Association which he attended recently.

The meeting was turned over to the program committee, Mrs. J. Dennis Baker, chairman. Mrs. Baker presented Bonny Lynn who played three delightful numbers on the grand piano. Miss Bonny was given generous applause. Rev. R. M. Graham sang some of Stephen C. Foster's southern melodies, Old Folks at Home, Massa's in de Cold, Cold Ground, etc.

Then Mrs. Baker called Mrs. Tipton, Mrs. John Broadbush, Miss Polen and Mrs. Graham to come forward and be interviewed in radio style. The asked for views on the relative importance of the home, the church, and the school, does the P.-T. A. help parents with child problems? Have parents turned over to the school the entire task of child training? And similar question. This proved to be a very interesting program, with teachers and patrons taking part in the discussions.

There was a large exhibit of art work and manual training projects from Bennett school. Miss Osbourn invited the group to inspect a special collection of books dealing with Confederate times and heroes. All of these features combined to make a most interesting meeting.

On the reading of a booster letter in the Valley District, the local council decided to pattern one like it and to distribute the same to the secretaries of the councils of this District (Number 5) for individual distribution to prospective members.

The booster meeting will be held at the same time as that of the local district meeting which will be held at Bull Run Council Hall on the evening of March 30th. The Daughters of America will also be invited to take part in this meeting.

LINCOLN DEFEATS HAYMARKET

The Haymarket High School Girls lost a hard fight to Lincoln High here Friday night. Carroll of Haymarket proved to be high scorer. The last half was a very close affair and it ended with the final score 16 to 14 in favor of the visitors. The score was tied in the last quarter but in the last three seconds Lincoln made the final goal. R. Ellis and Dunn (guards) played an exceptionally good game. Each player played an excellent game.

The Haymarket Bulldogs lost an odd game of basketball to the "Tallboys" from Lincoln by 36 to 15 in the Haymarket gymnasium. All of the heavy scoring being done in spurts, although Lincoln spurted to a large lead in the first half, they were held on even terms during the later half by the Bulldogs.

Welsh, forward of Lincoln was high scorer with a grand total of eighteen points. The Lincoln Boys scored heavily in the first part of the game to take a lead of 25 to 4 at halftime. Between halves Coach Moore must have injected some spirit into his boys because during the later half they played the "Tallboys" in better than even terms out scoring them 11 to 10.

Application for emergency crop and feed loans for 1939 are now being received at P. O. Building, Winchester, Va., by J. G. Beverley, Field Supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration.

The loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers whose cash requirements are small and who cannot obtain credit from any other source. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1939 crops or for the purchase of feed for livestock.

As in the past, farmers who obtain emergency crop and feed loans will give as security a first lien on the crop financed, or a first lien on the livestock to be fed if the money borrowed is to be used to produce or purchase feed for livestock.

Where loans are made to tenants, the landlords, or others having an interest in the crops financed or the livestock to be fed, are required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of approved loans will be mailed from the Regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at Baltimore, Maryland.

J. G. Beverley, field supervisor, will be at the county agents office, P.O. Bldg., Manassas, Va., Wednesday, February 1, 1939, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. for the purpose of taking applications for said loans. Farmers desiring to apply should do so at above stated time and place.

A BOOK

TO READ

by Clarence Wagener

Whatever else the iconoclasts may be able to destroy, the glories of the Greece that was seem safe. Of such superlative worth were the accomplishments of ancient Hellas that perhaps nothing else we learn in school leaves as enduring an impression upon our minds.

Idealism? Yes, just that. And, truth to tell, the man in the street is considerably more of an idealist than he lets on, or than he gets credit for being.

This same man in the street must every now and then wonder what, if anything, the Greek of today has in common with the Greek of olden times when Greece was something other than an insignificant little nation of the Mediterranean. Surely there are certain fundamental characteristics of that once great people which have prevailed through the centuries. But talking with a waiter or fruit-peddler or bootblack of Greek extraction who happens to be living in this country isn't likely to provide the desired information. There is a way to get it, though: read "Forever Ulysses," by C. P. Rodocanachi; translated by Patrick Leigh-Fermor (Viking Press, N. Y., 1938; 315 pages).

First, a word about the author. At the age of sixty, after dabbling in polo, yachting, government and plays, Rodocanachi, an Alexandrian-born Greek, tried his hand at novel writing. And shout it from the house-tops: IT'S A GEM!

It is said that Rodocanachi has made and lost fortunes in business; fought for Greece against Turkey; was military attaché in London during the World War. All of which is easy to believe once you've read "Forever Ulysses."

We have to take the author's word for it when he says his story of THE Greek is fiction. But so realistically is "Forever Ulysses" written, and with so plentiful an interweaving of accounts of personages and prominent events of the past few decades, that the reader frequently says to himself, "This must be based on actual happenings."

The hero, namesake of the most illustrious of literature's wanderers, is born into dire poverty. Starting as a guttersnipe, after multitudinous experiences Ulysses ends as . . . but you should have the fun of finding that out.

It matters not how much or how little history you have had or can recall, as far as the entertainment value of "Forever Ulysses" is concerned. Simply bring to the book a readiness to go adventuring. After reading five or six pages you'll be a goner. It's that kind of novel.

JOPLIN

The community was saddened by the sudden death of Hilda Abel. Hilda has lived in the community for twelve years and was liked by everyone who knew her. It was learned that Hilda was sent to the store for groceries. A number of children were close by sleigh riding and she decided to go over and join the others. Hilda got on the sleigh for a ride and went down at such a terrific speed that it was believed she must have lost control of the sleigh and ran into a tree. She suffered severe injuries and was rushed to Alexandria hospital, where she didn't linger but just a short while. She was laid to rest in Dumfries cemetery on Monday with Rev. A. H. Shumate officiating.

The community extend their deepest sympathy to the bereaved family. Mrs. Lucy Crow and Mrs. Florence Slingerland made a business to Manassas on Monday.

Mrs. Dora Keys and Kathleen Liming have returned home where they have been visiting their father in Tennessee.

We are glad to know that Mrs. Jane Carter is better after having a severe fall on New Year's Day.

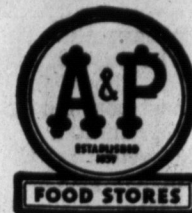

Mrs. Ida Abel had as her guests on Sunday, Mr. Frank Liming, Mr. Philip Abel and son, Willard, all of Maryland.

Mr. Frank Williams, of Washington, called on his sister, Mrs. Eva Anderson, on Monday. He also called on friends in Fredericksburg. Mr. Estler Slingerland visited Mr. E. H. Williams on Sunday.

We are sorry to know that Mr. Joseph Abel, of Triangle, is in Alexandria hospital suffering from an injured eye.

Mr. J. T. Anderson continues ill at his home near Triangle.

The Word of God

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.

Why are thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God; for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God—Psalms 42:11.

THE PASSING OF A PROMINENT RESIDENT

We regret to announce the death of Miss Sallie Lane Lewis on January 19.

Miss Lewis was a beloved resident of Prince William, who through a long life of usefulness and loving kindness endeared herself to all who knew her.

Five generations of her family lie interred in the Lewis cemetery on Rosemont Estate.

We extend our sympathy to the family.

THE NATIONAL DEBT

If the history of nations is carefully studied with special respect to the state of national treasuries immediately preceding Declarations of War, it will be noted that financially embarrassed leaders of nations have frequently turned to war to keep themselves in power, and to relieve the existing financial strain.

We are younger than most of the really great nations of the world, and our form of government may even still be regarded as an experiment. Our forefathers were great students of national experiences and they based our system to a large extent upon the lessons taught by previous national failures.

In contradiction to the theories of governmental finance laid down by those who founded our nation and carried it through its prosperous days, we are apparently beginning to drift down a path which has certainly ruined governments of the past, and which could become our undoing, unless this course is changed.

Our national debt has reached staggering proportions. And what is still worse, the size of the national deficit seems to cause little or no concern among those responsible for our national financial program. This would seem to indicate that possibly those who really know the situation believe that this debt will never be repaid, and that, therefore, it should be forced to the highest possible figure before final repudiation.

It would seem that there are still too many people in this country who cherish old-time ideals of national honor to permit such a shameful catastrophe; but in the face of a national emergency of sufficient gravity, they might readily be swept aside.

A war furnishes the setting for such a seemingly impossible situation. The shock of such a horrible contingency could easily sweep away all substantial obstacles to repudiation of the national debt, and we believe that unless our obligations are kept within payable bounds, that bondholders of the United States Government will some day be faced with this eventuality.

LEXINGTON GAZETTE ISSUES SPECIAL EDITION

A special edition of the Lexington Gazette, of which Thomas J. McSpadden is the publisher and Lewis Jones the editor, was issued last month in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the settlement of the territory which later became Rockbridge County.

The edition, containing more than 80 pages, traces the early history of the Lexington section of the Old Dominion, with special emphasis placed on the numerous pioneer families. Several months of research by the Gazette staff brought to light many odd bits of unpublished history, which are contained in the edition.

The issue was illustrated with many photographs dating back to the early days of Lexington and Rockbridge County.

We congratulate our neighbor on this fine work.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Love" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 29.

The Golden Text will be "How excellent is thy loving kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings" (Psalms 36:7).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up. Doth not behave itself unseemly; seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil; Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; Beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things" (1 Cor. 13:4-7).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Rabbi and priest taught the Mosaic law, which said: 'An eye for an eye, and man shall his blood be shed.' Not so did Jesus, the new executor for God, present the divine law of Love, which blesses even those that curse it" (p. 30).

MARGARET FITZHUGH

Margaret Marshall Fitzhugh, a life long resident of Burke, died in the Alexandria hospital January 20th. She had been ill only a few days.

The daughter of the late James Marshall and Mary J. Fairfax Marshall, was born October 26, 1856.

In her girlhood, she spent most of her life in the home of her uncle the late John A. Marshall, and it is in this community that she became an exemplary wife, mother, sister and neighbor.

Kind generous and sympathetic she endeared herself to all.

In life's quiet paths of duty are the highest and noblest deeds done, and she lived the beautiful life of love and service, which has left a proud heritage to those who knew her and loved her.

In February, 1876, she married Samuel Mark Fitzhugh. Of marriage the following survive: Mrs. John T. Blincoe, James Marshall Fitzhugh, Harry Fitzhugh and two grandsons, Golden Blincoe and Mawbury Blincoe, of New York City.

The funeral was held in the community Sunday School Hall, on Sunday afternoon, Rev. Herbert Donovan, of the P. E. Church, Fairfax, officiating, interment in the Fairfax cemetery.

COUNTY AGENTS
COLUMNWHY FERTILIZE AND LIME PASTURES?

When a pasture is properly fertilized and limed, several things may be expected to happen.

1. The more undesirable grasses and clovers come in and crowd out weeds and undesirable grasses.

2. Pasture growth starts earlier in the spring, holds up better during the dry summer months and continues later in the fall.

3. The quantity of feed on each acre is increased. This permits more animals to graze on the same land or the same number of animals to get more feed.

4. The phosphorus and lime content of the grass is increased and animals are protected against mineral deficiencies.

5. The protein content of the grass is increased.

Pasture is one crop that costs nothing to harvest. The cattle and other livestock furnish the necessary harvesting machinery and labor.

HOG FEEDING

Hog feeders using tankage, hog supplement feed or fishmeal with grain alone. Middlings do not furnish the additional necessary protein when fed with grain alone.

CARD OF THANKS

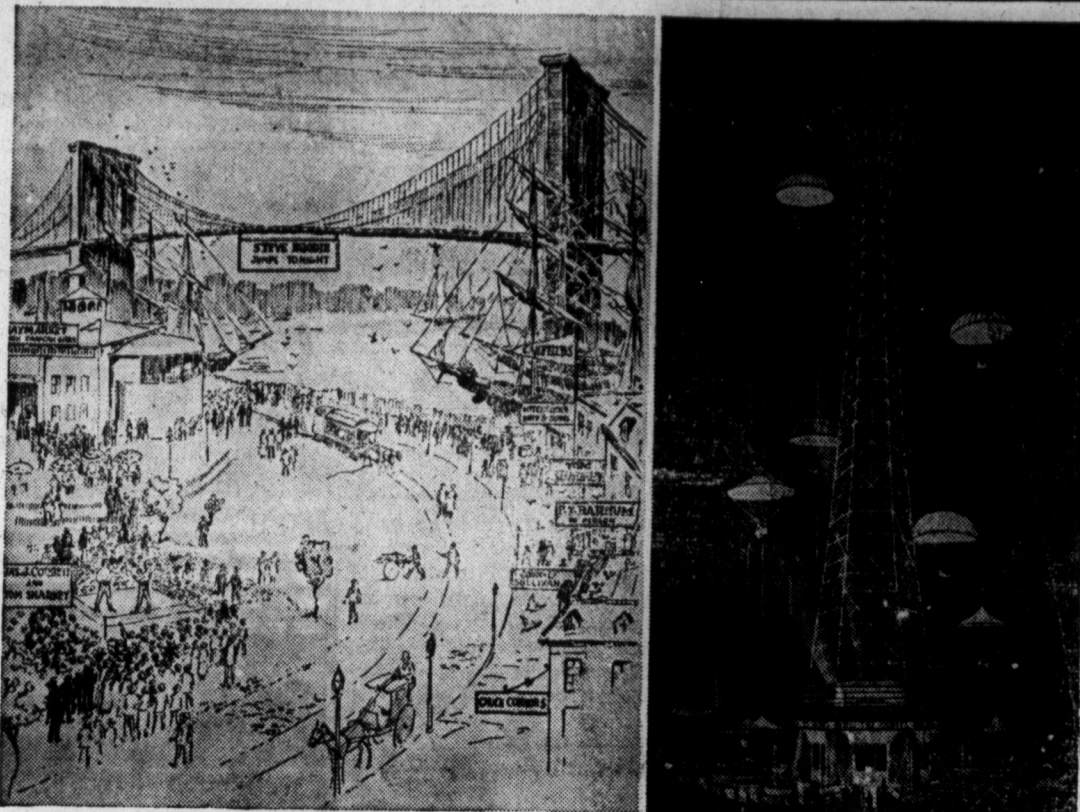

The family takes this means of publicly thanking our many friends for their thoughtful acts of kindness and beautiful floral tributes in the death and burial of our dear mother, Mrs. Lizzie M. Colvin.
