Cake life easy

THERE's a hard way and an easy way to do almost everything.

Consider the item of making payments, for instance. You can do it the hard way by paying with cash - walking from place to place, risking the dangers of loss and theft, wasting time and effort.

Or you can do it the easy way by paying with checks. It will take but a few minutes to start an account here.

How the Indians of the West are taught to live and work under modern Come and enjoy an hour of worship conditions; how they are educated, clothed and befriended in a practical demonstration of Christianity by missionaries of the Church, will be shown by John E. Burleson, son of the late Rt. Rev. Hugh Latimer Burleson, for many years Bishop of the Missionary District of South Dakota. Mr. Burlesor also gives an interesting run-VAULT OF EXCEPTIONAL MERIT ning description as the changing scenes appear on the screen. This young layman, who has been showing his pictures in various parts of the Diocese of Virginia recently, represents the third generation of his family serving the missionary work of the Church. His grandfather, Solomon S. Burleson, as a doctor travelled westward from Massachusetts in a covered wagon, with his bride of 16, in ante-bellum days. He one day picked up an Episcopal prayer book, subsequently studied for the ministry, and labored as a medical missionary in Wisconsin for more than a quarter century. Five sons all became clergymen, one being the late Bishop Burleson of South Dakota. It is the Bishop's son who has translated the family spirit of missions into the field of motion pictures. He conceived the idea of a Society for Visual Religious Education, which he founded in Denver in April, 1938. Since then he has made several pictures and shown them considerably over a hundred times to more than 10,000 persons in sixteen Dioceses and missionary districts. He expects to make a picture of work in Alaska this summer and will return to the Diocese next winter to exhibit it under field board auspices.

CERTS TO START SOON

The National Symphony Orchestra will again give a series of "Sunset Symphony" concerts in the majestic setting of the Potomac Water Gate in the Nation's Capital. The decision to undertake these concerts this summer was announced by Dr. William McClellan, president of the National Symphony Orchestra Association. The first program will be Sunday, July 9. Twelve concerts will be presented OPEN EVENING & SUNDAYS during the six weeks season, six on Sundays and six on Wednesdays. Dr. Hans Kindler, conductor of the Na-tional Symphony, has been chosen as general musical director for the season and he will conduct at least two of the concerts, including the opening program. The cooperation of the National Capital Parks division of the National Park Service has been assured for the use of the unique concert site, Dr. of the District W.P.A., the acoustical shell, specially constructed for these concerts last summer, will be reassembled for use this year.

The possibility of presenting at least one opera performance at the Water Gate as part of this summer's schedule is under serious consideration. Prominent conductors will be ture if either chewing or sucking in- ists will be enlisted for the 12 concerts.
