BAND CONCERT AT MANASSAS

Courtesy of the Commanding General Much Appreciated

In response to a suggestion conveyed last week to the Commanding General, the citizens here were able to enjoy two fine band concerts on Sunday, one at 3:30 and the other at 7:30 p.m.

The necessary arrangements were made in the Public Relations Office of the Third Corps Area by Maj. C. C. Westfall, whose place in the office at the Headquarters was filled during the concert by Lieut. Ed. Jones, of Falls Church, who is well known here through his accomplishments in the Young Democratic Club of Virginia.

As the order of Major General Parsons did not go into effect until after the Journal had been issued, it was not possible to publicize the concerts, but through the assistance of Mr. J. J. Davies, word was rapidly phoned around. His honor, Mayor Harry P. Davis, and Town Manager W. F. Coker gave their hearty cooperation and probably nothing so pleasing has ever been perfected so quickly.

The afternoon concert was by the 5th Infantry band of the Maryland National Guard, Baltimore; led by Warrant Officer Steinwald. The evening concert was by the 109th Infantry Band of the Pennsylvania National Guard, led by Warrant Officer W. O. Bonn. These two bands were winners in the Governor's contest held on Saturday.

Both concerts were greatly enjoyed by the townspeople who assembled rapidly as the music began. In addition to quite a gathering on the Court-house lawn, an unestimated, but undoubtedly large number remained comfortably in their automobiles, often parked at considerable distances, to enjoy the music, which was characterized by those qualified to judge, as of very fine quality.

Many citizens have asked the Journal to convey their thanks to the Commanding General for his gracious consideration in making it possible for them to enjoy these fine concerts.

Conductor Omar P. Steinwald, director of Baltimore public schools, comes from a long line of conductors.

The ancestors of Drum Leader, Sgt. Charles Saistmann, not only were great drummers but manufactured drums.

The drums used in the concert date back to the War between the States and one in particular has the history written inside.

Made in Baltimore, January 15, 1850, and repaired by Baucher in 1851, it's still in perfect condition. It was used by the famous Baltimore group until 1862 and was carried in almost all the battles of the War between the States. In 1863 at the Battle of Gettysburg it was ripped badly, but was later repaired and used in the Spanish-America War and also used by the old 5th Marines in the World War.

CUSTER SCOUT AT MANEUVERS

H. B. Lapham Saw Service Against the Indians

Khaki uniforms and the sound of the Army Band on Sunday afternoon brought back vivid memories to a fine old man who, back in the '60's, saw service with Custer in the struggle against the Indians.

Mr. H. B. Lapham, now residing at 3318 23rd Street, Cherrydale, Va., in Arlington County, was under the Custer for a year. With a prideful gleam in his eye and his eighty odd years forgotten for the moment, he lived again the battle at Wichita in which his forces suffered a hundred and fifty fatalities in an engagement with five bands of Indians.

A subordinate under Col. Crawford, later Governor of Kansas, Mr. Lapham received as his salary the sum of thirteen dollars a month. One thing that impressed him was the enormity of the plains, traveling for month in every direction without seeing a sign of habitation.

After his discharge, Mr. Lapham did Scout work, carrying dispatches through the Indian infested lands between Camp Supply, Oklahoma, and Forts Dodge and Hayes, Kansas.

Incidentally, Mr. Lapham is the only living charter member of Lake Beaton Lodge, Lincoln County, Minnesota, and Lewiston Lodge, Montana. For his fifty years with the Masons, he was given the badge by the Grand Master of Masons of Virginia.

NOKESVILLE WINS TWO

Nokesville beats Manassas and then takes the league leading Marshall team into camp. Both games were featured by the heavy bombing of the Nokesville artillery, making 15 hits off the hurling of Ward and Worley of Manassas and 16 hits off Marshall's star Sisk. Laws held the Manassas batters safely at all times while the Nokesville team piled up a safe lead for him. But for the fast work in the field by Crabill who pulled Nokesville hits out of the air for put outs the score would have been worse.

KIWANIS MEETS AT LAKE JACKSON

Rev. Hazel Describes Travel in France

While the battle was going on all round Manassas, the Kiwanis club retired to Charles Alpaugh's emporium at Lake Jackson to enjoy a quiet snack and feel the cooling breezes of Lake Jackson.

Rev. George Hazel, recently a tourist in France, gave a glowing picture of his travels. After this, Father Jim Widmer indulged in some poesy in German brogue. He really did it up well, and the program committee got a fine hand for its efforts.

The following members and guests were present: Rev. and Mrs. Geo. Hazel, Summit Point, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hynson, Rev. Stuart Gibson, Rev. Richard Graham, Mr. A. H. Roseberry, Rev. James J. AN ODD INCIDENT OF THE SIXTIES

One of the generals at 3rd Corp Headquarters tells a true story of an incident the War between the States and has a prize relic to verify it. His father was a colonel in the Southern Army and fought in the 2nd Battle of Manassas. He belonged to the Stonewall Brigade and came from King and Queen County. While sitting on his horse with his side to the enemy, a bullet whizzed under his horses stomach, and cut the spur from his boot, but left the officer uninjured. He recovered the spur and sent it along with a note to his family.

The note, now yellow with age and worn handling readers as follows:

"Please preserve this spur. It was broken from my heel in a boomshell at the 2nd battle of Manassas. Grease the bullet molds, take care of the opera glasses and the tube wrench. Darn my uniform pants where needed, have them washed and then hold them for further orders. Take care of my gloves and havelock. Miss Sue made the latter. Use the patent leather for any purpose you please.

The spur is somewhat like the modern spurs except that the roul is horizontal instead of perpendicular. It is made of steel but the years have replaced the sheen with rust. The officer to whom this relic belongs is very proud of it and delight in telling about of the incident. He asked however that his name not be associated with the story.

COOKERY PICNIC AT HICKORY GROVE

The Hickory Grove Home Demonstration club will hold an outdoor cookery picnic at Mrs. Jack Hunt's on Tuesday, 22nd of August, at 11:30 a.m.

Every member and family with guests are cordially invited.

Come and enjoy the day.

Boys, bring horseshoes, baseballs and bats, etc.

As this goes to press, one but has time to stop and gasp "Well done" to the doughboys who have been toiling and sweating in and around Manassas for the past ten days. It represents the first corps maneuvers and is so eminently successful that something permanent is certain to arise therefrom in the way of training.

The preliminary training period, which is featured by photographs on page two of this issue brought soft muscles into play and gave a toughening up so essential to the hard work of the past week. One thing that is so very commendable is the pride that the militia had in their ability to stop highly seasoned troops and while skillful moves dazed them at times they never lost heart at any time but kept straight down the line in a way that must have gladdened the seasoned veterans who watched their every movement with anxious eyes.

The reviews of Saturday, which were not only featured by the Governors but also brought the presence of the only wartime chief of staff, Hugh Drum were colorful to say the least. They showed for the first time to many just how a wartime regiment is lined up. When one recalls the great length of time previously taken for a similar number of troops to pass it was amazing that so many men slipped past the reviewing stands so quickly.

The spectacular raid on Friday night kept the entire community thrilled, especially the flares which brought the countryside into sharp relief.

Beginning Monday everything became shrouded with mystery as the entire body went on a war time basis as nearly as could be done without inconvenience to the civilian public. Rumors typical of wartime were everywhere and things happened quite often where not expected. It was natural to expect that the more highly trained troops with a high degree of efficiency and with a more than full complement of mobile equipment should stages plays that caught the greener troops unawares. The fine spirit of the letter, however, made up to a great degree what they lacked in training and the fight is still going on south of Manassas with reports that the Blacks will move in this afternoon unless properly repulsed. If they are, it will be a fine exhibition on the part of the militia.

In closing this report, your correspondent wishes to state that the uniform courtesy by both men and officers which was witnessed everywhere, although not unexpected, was a real pleasure. It has made possible an even greater degree of cooperation possible in the future and we all hope that the boys will visit us again next summer.

NOTES ON THE MANEUVERS

(By Robert Smith)

The aggressive 3rd Cavalry from Fort Myer stole the show on the first morning of maneuvers by pushing through Buckhall Church, over-running Blue outposts and raiding within a mile and a half of corps headquarters.

General Martin's "flying battalion" came to the rescue but not until the 56th Infantry Brigade command post on Signal Hill had been captured.

The object of the cavalry drive was to divert attention from parts of the line farther west, when Black tanks and armored cars were hammering the lines. Moving swiftly, the Black cavalry and motorized patrols took possession of all important bridgeheads and operated from there. As the Black troops were concentrating at Aden, enemy planes swooped down and sent them scurrying to cover, breaking rank. In the meantime, two Black Scout cars wiped out a company of the 116th Virginia Infantry south of Gainesville.

Southward, the Black 12th and 34th Infantry, supported by armored cars, drove the 2nd Battalion of the 109th Infantry about a mile along Route 614. Later, Company E, of the 110 came to the support and the Blacks were obliged to retreat, losing half the ground they had gained.

On Tuesday, the Guardsmen showed a reversal of form and handed the Blacks a thorough posting in a counter attack at Bull Run and also south near the Occoquan.

Contrasting with Monday's use of cavalry and tanks in efforts to crack the lines of the Guardsmen, mobile were used entirely to harass the enemy. This halted, somewhat, the double flanking attack of the Blues.

Again the 3rd Cavalry came into the active campaign, keeping the Blue 25th Division from crossing the Occoquan until nearly noon. He was supported by the colored troop F, 10th cavalry. Fort Myer and the tanks from Fort Meade. The 110th Infantry crossed the Occoquan on the double quick about noon and advanced about a mile and a half into Black territory. A scout cycle, which the out-post failed to stop, spotted the Guardsmen and reported to the Regiments. The Blues took to cover and later stopped short a three-tank drive by the Blacks.

Fort Myer's third Cavalry, which threatened the preceding day to win the war single handed, was driven back by heavy shell fire, thus permitting the 110th Infantry to cross Blands Ford and advance several miles into enemy territory.

General Maxwell Murray, commander of the invading Blacks, was forced to move his division headquarters several miles to the rear to avoid possible attack by a Blue raiding party.

Today's was probably the most serious fighting of the war, with about ten thousand troops mixing it in the vicinity of the Occoquan.

Despite inferior forces, the Regulars were holding the Blues to small, slow gains. The third Cavalry was forced to retreat but fought every step of the way.

Five Black tanks tried a thrust at the Infantry but were obliged to turn tail and run with nothing accomplished.

This failing, the Regulars employed machine gun fire and a cavalry charge, slowing up the Guardsmen considerably.

To cover the entire days activities in a few words would be just to state that the Blues from sheer force of numbers, advanced, but very slowly. Official opinion, however, is that the maneuvers were much swifter than they would have been in actual war.

REAL WAR

As the First Army Maneuvers at Manassas come to a pleasant conclusion, with no decision rendered as to which side won, real war clouds are rising again in Europe, with every indication that serious eventualities may be precipitated within the next two weeks.

SHADES OF "JEB" STUART

If our Confederate fathers still were alive in sufficient number to organize a patrol, they probably would march on field headquarters at Manassas to demand correction of some of the "reports" on the new campaign.

Well they might protest! More historical truth has been distorted during the maneuvers than a dozen writers could correct in a month. This morning, for example, there came an excited account of the manner in which Colonel George S. Patton, Jr., of the Third Cavalry, had "sent out a horse troop and (had) captured a brigadier general's outpost on the defending side." Whereupon this absurdity followed: "Stonewall Jackson did much the same thing in the Second Battle of Manassas in 1862. His men raided General Pope's headquarters behind the Union lines and carried off everything but the General himself."

If this has any meaning at all, it either is a crude attempt to summarize the march of Jackson to Bristow and Manassas Junction; or it is a vague echo of the march of Trimble and Stuart from Bristow to Manassas on the night of August 26; or else it is a travesty on Stuart's famous raid of Aug. 22 to Catlett's Station, where he captured General Pope's dispatch book and personal belongings.

Our guess would be that this last is what was in the "war correspondent's" mind, though, of course, Jackson had nothing whatever to do with Stuart's raid. As every old Confederate knew, Stuart asked permission of General Lee to make that dash in order to avenge himself for his narrow escape from capture at Verdiersville on the morning of Aug. 18. Stuart then had lost his plumed hat and his cape. He had determined to take Pope's coat in return. Lee was willing to give Stuart permission to make the raid not for the sake of the cavalryman's lost plumage but in the belief that a raid on Pope's rear might shake the Federal commander from his position on the upper Rappahannock.

All in all, it might not be a bad idea for war correspondents to read a little of the history of the campaign before they begin to draw analogies.

"CAREER" BRINGS "GATEWAY TO HOLLYWOOD" FINALISTS TO SCREEN

A significant drama of small town life in an average American village, "Career," comes to the Pitts' Theatre next Wednesday, August 23, with a notable featured cast including Anne Shirley, Edward Ellis, and the "Gateway to Hollywood" finalists, Alice Eden and John Archer.

"Career" deals with the complex affairs of a small Iowa town in 1933. Ellis is a kindly old store-keeper and leading merchant of the community, is concerned about the state of the nation and the condition of the town bank.

The banker's daughter and Ellis' son and the banker's weakling son and another girl form the romantic elements. However, the banker's wife is the girl Ellis himself was in love with when he was a young man, although he married another girl later.

The interweaving of these three romances; the collapse of the local bank; Ellis' stand against the mob that holds him responsible for its failure; his adjustment of domestic relations with his own wife while smoothing his son's tangled affairs; and his efforts to re-establish the bank as a going concern—all make for an absorbing, realistic, human photo drama.

Ellis is said to match his commanding role in "A Man to Remember," with his performance in "Career." Anne Shirley, as his prospective daughter-in-law, shares the principal romantic honors with John Archer, while Samuel S. Hinds as the unscrupulous banker, Janet Beecher as Ellis' wife, Alice Eden in a romantic lead and Leon Errol as the town's inebricate, complete the principal cast. Raymond Hutton, John Archer and Harrison Greene are seen in support.

The setting and atmosphere of a little Iowa village have been faithfully reproduced in "Career," contributing to the vividness of the story development. A production by Robert Sisk, "Career" was directed by Leigh Jason, and Dalton Trumbo wrote the screenplay from Bert Granet's adaptation of the Phil Stong novel.

SUSANNAH OF THE MOUNTIES' ABLAZE WITH ADVENTURE

A thousand savage redmen sweep down on the Mounties' lonely outpost! A gallant garrison fights against overwhelming odds! A lone woman finds love amid peril on a primitive frontier!

Believe it or not—this is what happens in Shirley Temple's latest 20th Century-Fox picture, "Susannah of the Mounties!" The famous story of "the old Northwest is a thrilling vehicle for the Number One star and it was selected by Production Chief Darrel F. Zanuck as a counterpoint to the fantasy of her last hit, "The Little Princess."

Garbed in calico and buckskin, Shirley Temple's is a real dramatic role different from anything she has done previously on the screen. Randolph Scott and Margaret Lockwood, the lovely star of "The Lady Vanishes," are featured in the romantic leads, while others in the large cast are Martin Good Rider, 13-year-old Blackfeet discovery who makes his debut in the film, J. Farrell MacDonald, Maurice Moscovitch, Moroni Olsen, Victor Jory and Lester Mathews.

William A. Seiter directed "Susannah of the Mounties," which opens on next Thursday and Friday, August 24-25, at the Pitts' Theatre. Shirley, the sole survivor of an Indian massacre, is adopted by Randolph Scott of the Mounties. The famous Police are trying to protect the construction of the great new railway from interference by the Indians.

Scott teaches the child a wonderful lesson in courage which bears her bravely through days of terrible danger.

Kenneth MacGowan served as associate producer for the screen play written by Robert Ellis and Helen Logan, from the story by Fidel La Barba and Walter Ferris, based on the book by Muriel Denison.

THE WORLD AROUND US

By

O. J. Schuster

"IRRESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT." That is the designation the United States News, a conservative but also a sincere and ably edited weekly, applies to the session of Congress which adjourned last week. In a fair and thoughtful editorial it criticizes the coalition of Democrats and Republicans who defeated the president's program by killing bills without doing any constructive work to correct the administration's policy.

ies over which they poured their political hatreds. As the editorial points out, the conservative coalition did not win one important item.

THIS SESSION OF CONGRESS did no reduce taxes, did not revise the Wagner labor law, did not balance the budget, did not revise the tariff upward, did not remove the power of the government to compete with business, although the conservative coalition cried loudly for these changes. The conservative Democrats—some of them decidedly reactionary—by uniting with the Republicans merely blocked action without themselves doing anything constructive to correct the evils of which they complained.

MERELY TO BE AGAINST a program or a policy is not only an appeal to ignorance and prejudice but it is in itself ignorance. The politician tears down, but the statesman is a constructive force who takes pride in building to carry out a definite and carefully worked out program. The statesman never stoops to take vengeance, never permits himself to indulge in bitter hatreds. He is serene, tolerant of opposing opinions and even the mistakes of others. The statesman measures his ability, his value to the nation, by the extent to which he helps to create better policies and more beneficial laws than the ones to which he is opposed. The politician may get mad and hurl brickbats at policies and men he dislikes; but the statesman is wise enough to know that hate begets hate, vengeance begets vengeance, and that both hatred and vengeance are unworthy of the truly civilized man.

IF A COMMUNIST TOLD the American people that their government "is not responsive to the will of the people" and urged that it should be changed he might be mobbed; but when the conservative United States News states the same thing and urges the referendum which would compel Senators and Representatives to yield to the will of the people not a voice is raised in criticism.

ism. If the government were changed as the "NEWS" suggests then such issues as the farm program, the wage and hour bill, old age pensions, labor benefits, tax measures, expenditures of PWA, etc., would be promptly submitted to the direct vote of the people in such a way that the voters could pass on each item separately—approve one or more and reject the others. To vote for or against them collectively has little or no value—it is just a political device that serves the interest of the selfish politician.

THE 1936 NATIONAL ELECTION gave the president the remarkable majority of 11,000,000 votes over his opponent, and the wholly unprecedented electoral vote of 523 to 8 for Landon. This overwhelming vote of confidence is all the more remarkable because the press, especially the big dailies, was almost united against him—as it is today. So it is very refreshing when a conservative weekly like The United States News, representing the business viewpoint, tells its readers our government "BOGS DOWN AT THE WRONG TIME" and should be changed so that the vital issues of the day be promptly submitted to a vote of the citizens.

EACH VOTER SHOULD give public expression to his views on important issues and policies. Democracy cannot function unless its citizens are tolerant of the views of each and all who give them expression. That is also the conviction of the "NEWS" for it prints at the head of every issue of the paper the fundamental principle of democracy as expressed by Voltaire:

"I WHOLLY DISAPPROVE OF WHAT YOU SAY BUT I WILL DEFEND TO THE DEATH YOUR RIGHT TO SAY IT."

...of many different kinds are constantly made along the 3,102 miles of Chesapeake and Ohio rails, to promote safety and speed in transporting passengers and freight through The Chessie Corridor. Signals, switches and a hundred other working parts of the railroad's plant are massive in form but delicate in operation. To keep them in perfect order, to spot possible troubles and delays before they happen, is the work of a small army of Chesapeake and Ohio inspectors. These men play a vital part in maintaining the railroad's "A-plus" reputation for dependability and on-time service for shippers and passengers...Yours is the protection afforded only by such constant inspections and efficient maintenance when you

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Mind" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 20.

The Golden Text will be "Who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counsellor? . . . For of him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever" (Rom. 11:34, 36).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Many, O Lord my God, are thy wonderful works which thou hast done, and thy thoughts which are to us: they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered" (Psalms 40:5).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The real jurisdiction of the world is in Mind, controlling every effect and recognizing all causation as vested in divine Mind" (p. 379).

QUIET TALKS ON RELIGION

BY DR. JAMES T. MARSHALL

BY HIS OWN HAND

Does God guide us, and how? To me life would be intolerable without an assurance that my times are in God's hands.

This is clearly promised in Scripture. Such promises are abundant in the Psalms such as the 23rd and the 121st while our Savior assures that He is with us all the days even unto the end.

It is important, however, that we should understand that there is no guarantee that He will never lead us into difficulties. Too many people entertain false hopes of immunity from trouble simply because they are Christians, and hence are led into complaining when affliction comes.

The military commander can promise to lead his men faithfully, but cannot promise them that will never lead them into danger. The school teacher guides his pupils, but does not relieve them from wrestling with their own problems. Intellectual difficulties are the means by which our power of thought is developed.

God's highest desire for us is that we become strong in character and strength never comes by coddling. The path of every saint has led him by a Gethsemane and a Calvary.

Sometimes mid scenes of deepest gloom, Sometimes where Eden's bowers bloom;

By waters calm, o'er troubled sea, Still 'tis His hand that leadeth me.

Nor are we to expect that God will relieve us of our responsibility in using our reason and conscience. He uses no mechanical or arbitrary methods to steer us in the right direction. This would be to treat us as morons or machines. A horse may be guided by bit and bridle, a ship by rudder and helm, but not so with a human being who is endowed with a mind and a soul. We should be on our guard against being drawn into a fanatical view of divine guidance which amounts to sheer fatalism. We have been given freed wills and intelligence and are responsible for our use of these gifts.

Nor are we to assume that we will never make any mistakes. To have an infallible guide is one thing; to have infallible guidance is quite another. Your road map may be absolutely accurate and yet you may misinterpret it or neglect to follow the directions which it gives you. So do not blame the map, or the person who handed it to you.

The same thing is true of our dealings with Providence. Our first duty is to try to ascertain what is the will of God in our lives. This is altogether possible to every one who lives in harmony with God, "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God." (Psalms 24:3).

There come times when we are honestly puzzled as to our course of duty, when we say to ourselves, "If I only knew just what God wants me to do I would cheerfully do it." What shall we do then? If we are really honest in saying this, light will surely be given. If we submit our problem and await His answer we shall not fail to receive the desired light. The fundamental question is whether we are sincerely trying to find out what God wants us to do, or trying to swing Him around to our point of view. Personal problems will give us little trouble if we can say with Paul

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my dear mother, Annie Thomas, who left me 3 years ago, August 6, 1936, at Minnieville, Va.

You have gone from me, dear mother, to our Saviour good and true.

You have won the heavenly glory Which is for us all to do.

Rest in peace, dear mother. Your pains are ended.

Sweetly sleep your work is done. You have gone where those who love you are coming one by one.

Mother, I think of you in silence. No one can see me weep.

But many a silent tear is shed. When others are asleep.

They say time heals broken hearts. But oh! it seems untrue for 3 years my heart has ached.

Dear mother, just for you.

Her Devoted Daughter, Anna M. Kendall.
