WILL PROMOTE ART INSTRUCTION

School Board Closes Neabsco School

The county school board held its September meeting on the 14th, with all members present.

Two progressive steps were taken. One was to encourage art work among the students of all schools, and Miss Ayres was authorized to purchase the necessary supplies.

Anyone who may have viewed the splendid exhibits made on the rather restricted set-up in the last year or so will appreciate the progress that can be made with the recent move made by the Board.

The Board desiring a better attendance has appointed Mrs. Virginia Lewis as "attendance" officer. She is not a "truant" officer but will serve to check up and cooperate with the school authorities in their efforts to improve attendance.

Some minor changes in bus routes were authorized.

The Board ordered the Neabsco (colored) school closed. The children will be transported to the new consolidated school at Cabin Branch, using the same buses which take the older children to the Regional High at Manassas.

A library was approved for the Home Economics Department at Occoquan High.

The School Board will again sponsor a dental clinic for both white and colored schools.

A large amount of routine business was also acted upon.

NATIONAL GUARD UNIT TO BE ENLARGED

The Strength of the National Guard in Virginia and other States will be increased about 20 per cent in accordance with a recent order issued by President Roosevelt, according to notification received by adjutant-General S. Gardner Waller, head of the Virginia guard. This action, General Waller said, would mean about 800 more men in the Old Dominion's unit. General Waller has notified Governor Price that physical examination of all officers of the Virginia guard, in line with secretary of War Woodring's request last April that this be done to "Vitalize" the Army and to purge it men unfit for war service, had been completed. General Waller said Virginia guard officers "are physically fit," that they "were given physical examinations by authorized physicians and surgeons prior to September 1," and that "any apparent physical disability has either been waived by the war department or else those physically disqualified have been discharged."

IDLE SHIPS MAY BE RECONDITIONED

It is reported from Washington that the Maritime Commission is considering the advisability of reconditioning many of the idle ships now lying at anchor in the James River.

It is stated that there are more than a hundred of these vessels, all of which could be put into service much more quickly than new ones could be built. They are said to be sea-worthy, but obsolete, so far as their ability is concerned to compete with newer and faster ships. However, of the submarine attacks upon world shipping should greatly reduce existing tonnage, then the shipbuilding industry would experience a great increase.

Virginia would benefit greatly from revival of this industry, as the shipbuilding facilities at Newport News and elsewhere are extensive and the materials they require bring business to many other manufacturing concerns.

MUSIC-LITERATURE SECTION TO MEET TUESDAY

The Music-Literature Section of the Manassas Woman's Club will meet on Tuesday night, September 26th, at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Lewis Carper. Mrs. W. F. Cocks will be assistant hostess.

Mrs. Ossie Tipton will speak on "Women's Work in the Field of Art from 1800 to 1900."

ENROLLMENT UP

School authorities report fairly uniform throughout county except from the section along the Jefferson Davis Highway, where the increase has been quite definite—another increase has been created by return of post graduates.

EDUCATION GROUP TO MEET NOVEMBER 21

The Virginia Education Association's annual convention will be held in Richmond November 21-24 instead of November 28 to December 2 as originally planned. Francis S. Chase, executive secretary, announced today. The change in dates was made because of President Roosevelt's announced intention to move Thanksgiving Day up one week and because the week-end holiday permits many teachers to attend the V.E.A. sessions.

NATIONAL GUARD AIDS THE POLICE

General Waller Explains Importance of Virginia's Military Force

Brigadier-General Samuel Gardner Waller, Adjutant General of Virginia, speaking at the annual convention of Police Executives at Old Point Comfort this week explained the usefulness of the National Guard in law enforcement and described this military group as the "strong arm of the Governor."

General Waller made many friends in Manassas during the recent military maneuvers here and his address this week pointed out many interesting and important facts concerning the Virginia National Guard.

While the Guard stands as a bulwark against danger, General Waller emphasized that before troops are sent to a troubled area, they must be requested by those in civil authority.

"The National Guard strives to be neutral and is neutral as between the employer and the employee," he said. "It preserves law and order, protects life, limb and property and gives to all citizens the rights to which they are entitled under the Constitution of Virginia."

General Waller pointed out that under an order expected to be issued by President Roosevelt within the next few years, the Virginia National Guard would be authorized to increase its strength 20 per cent, or approximately 800 officers and men. He also reported that it had received an allocation of 550 M-1 new automatic rifles, "the most modern automatic rifles in the possession of any army today."

The mobility of the Guard, he said, was shown during the recent Manassas maneuvers, when the speed of its motorized field artillery likewise was demonstrated. For three successive years Virginia has won the Hearst trophy against all comers in the National Guard of the United States.

Aside from other duties which it may be called upon to perform, General Waller said the Guard also stood prepared to render service in time of disaster and general emergencies.

"It is prepared, with the authority of the secretary of war, to furnish shelter, cots, and blankets to 6,000 people of Virginia in distress," he said.

AVERAGE INCOME IN VIRGINIA IS PLACED AT $1,754

The average family income in Virginia during 1938 was $1,754. The average for the nation was $2,088. Per capita income in Virginia was $343 in the nation, $483. These figures, announced by the research department of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, are based on a study recently made by the National Industrial Conference Board.

Virginians' income from private productive enterprise amounted to $719,000,000. For productive services rendered to the government $129,000,000 was received. A total of $48,000,000 was received from the government for work and direct relief, rental and benefit payments, and pensions and compensation for injuries. Other accountable income received from private sources amounted to $32,000,000.

Cash income received in the state totaled $843,000,000. Income received in kind is estimated to have had a value of $85,000,000.

REPEAL THE ARMS EMBARGO

Today, for the twenty-fifth time since the establishment of the United States, a special session of Congress is meeting for emergency legislation. Some of these special sessions of Congress should have never been called, but this is a justifiable circumstance, and the world awaits with an interest proportionate to the serious nature of the situation, to see what the United States will do concerning the Arms Embargo.

The ability of nations to maintain neutrality does not come from within. Neutrality is a blessing achieved through understandings built up as the result of bitter experiences of non-belligerents through many wars, and no single nation can set up self-defined regulations which are at variance with international law and expect its concealed viewpoint to be accepted to their disadvantage by great powers engaged in life and death struggle.

Our present arms embargo is at variance with the non-combatant rules affecting all other neutrals. Its continuation is stabbing to the heart the powers of Europe who are fighting to safeguard the principles of democracy which underlie our own system of government. We probably can maintain this embargo, if we are willing to fight for this new untried experiment, but if we really are determined to stay out of this fearful conflict we should repeal this arms embargo at the earliest moment consistent with a full unbiased consideration. There should be no filibustering nor limitation of legitimate debate. All aspects of the difficult problem should be discussed openly, and then the Congress should act with decision and true impartiality to restore international law as applied to neutrality.

WALL—MONCURE

Anne Stribling Moncure, daughter of Mrs. Henry Warwick Moncure and the late Henry Warwick Moncure, of Wide Water, and Mr. Hiram Ewing Wall, of Quantico, son of Mrs. Charles Clements Wall and the late Charles Clements Wall, of Richmond, were married on Friday, September 8, in Aquia Church, Stafford County. The Rev. Henry Heaton officiating.

The bride entered the church with her brother, Marion Waller Moncure. Her gown of white crepe de chine was her mother's wedding dress, with which she wore a white net finger tip veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Donald John Kendall, wife of Lieutenant-Colonel Donald John Kendall, United States Marine Corps, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a blue and silver lace dress and a blue-net turban. Miss Bessie Berkeley Wight, also a cousin of the bride, was her maid of honor. She wore a blue net dress and a pink net turban. Their bouquets were roses and delphinium.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Little Clifton, the home of the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Wall will make their home at Ravenswood, near Quantico, where Mr. Wall's banking interests are located.

GOOD WORK BY EMPLOYMENT AGENCY

Over 10,000 jobs have been located by the Alexandria Office of the Virginia State Employment Service for persons using its facilities during the period of January 1, 1939 through August 31, 1939, it was stated today by Carter W. Friend, Manager of the local office at 301 King Street, which serves the employers and workers of Alexandria, Arlington, Fairfax and Prince William Counties. This office is rapidly becoming the community employment "clearing house" for the people of Alexandria and adjoining counties where persons desiring employment can file a record of their qualifications and where, in turn, employers can locate persons who can perform their work.

Through increased use of the office by employers and persons desiring work and also by greatly improved conditions in the layout of its new office at 301 King Street, 5,105 placements have already been made in the first eight months of 1939 compared with 3,016 placements for the same period in 1938 (a 40 per cent increase) and 4,991 placements during the whole twelve months of 1938. Also this office holds a very enviable record in making one-tenth of all the placements in the whole State of Virginia during 1939. Below is a comparison of the monthly totals of placements:

January	372 500
February	184 429
March	197 750
April	424 572
May	478 869
June	474 802
July	357 592
August	530 592
September	536 591
October	550
November	462
December	427
Totals	4,991 5,105

WASHINGTON ECONOMIST DISCUSSES NEUTRALITY SITUATION

Mr. Paul O. Peters, of Washington, noted publicist and statistician of that city, was present at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club last Friday evening. He was introduced by Mr. C. A. Alpaugh.

Taking as his subject, "Peace, Profits and Neutrality," the speaker gave a very meaty talk on finances and the attending dangers surrounding certain governmental policies now in effect.

Touching on the European situation, he gave a rather gloomy picture of the possible evils that might arise in trade matters.

After his talk he was questioned closely on many matters. In all it was a very good program. Come again, Mr. Peters.

NEW STATUE IS PLEASING

Richmond Ladies View New Model of Jackson Memorial

According to press reports from Richmond the recent objections which were voiced against Joseph Pollia's first model of the memorial to be placed on the Manassas Battlefield have resulted in the preparation of a new statue, which is said to overcome the objections created by the first effort and which is said to have pleased representatives of the Richmond Chapters of the Daughters of the Confederacy who have viewed the one-third size reproduction.

The first attempt brought a storm of criticism from patriotic Virginians, members of the U.D.C., lovers of horses and a wide variety of critics who viewed the previous model from many different angles, but who all agreed that it did violence to both the immortal rider and his steed. It is stated that no Confederate soldier expressed satisfaction with the earlier conception of the great Commander.

The new statue is said to be more pleasing. Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee, Brauner of Richmond, is quoted in the press as stating that "The face of the model is more like Jackson's face, and the horse is better, as Mr. Pollia took out some of the lumps and bumps in it. The lines of the horse and rider lean forward, creating an impression of the horse and rider's standing as a stone wall, physically imposing. The cape balances the statue, increases the bulk of the rider as opposed to the bulk of the horse, and as it seems to blow back affords a spiritual quality, as if, one observer said, it were wings."

When it is finished and stands high on the hilltop of Manassas, it will be more than just another statue, and will suggest to the average American the strength and integrity of Jackson's character. In the future, when details of history are forgotten, it will be a beautiful and fitting memorial to Jackson."

THE WORLD AROUND US

By O. J. Schuster

AN ANTI-WAR PLEDGE has been signed by the leading ministers of the United States. In New York City alone 216 prominent churchmen affixed their names to a pledge never to support another war.

THE WORLD WAR, 1914 to the end of 1918, almost ruined Western Civilization. Here are some of its results: 10,000,000 soldiers, choice young men of all the nations at war, were killed.

The wealth destroyed in that war was beyond the mind's power to grasp. It was sufficient to have provided a well-equipped modern home and five acres of land for every family in the United States, Canada, France, Italy, and half a dozen other nations.

That war cost the people of the United States more than $40,000,000,000, a sum vastly greater than the amount the Roosevelt administration has spent on constructive projects that enrich the nation.

That war produced a crime wave such as the world had never before known. Even United States alone is more than $15,000,000,000—a sum several times as great as the cost of our national government about which there is so much howling.

There have been more wars since the close of the World War, the war that was to end all war, than there ever was before in a like period of time.

ALL BIG NATIONS grew large and powerful by plundering other nations weaker than themselves. The history of the British Empire is one continuous record of plunder in India, China, Africa, and other parts of the world. For 300 years she has dominated hundreds of millions of defenseless peoples, dictated how they should live.

"BECAUSE THOU HAST PLUNDERED many nations, all the remnant of the peoples shall plunder thee, because of men's blood, and for the violence done to the land, to the city and all that dwell therein. Woe to the people (or nation) that getteth evil gain."

That quotation from the Bible was heard by the president last Sunday as he sat in the little Episcopal church in Hyde Park and listened to the message delivered by its pastor, Rev. Frank R. Wilson. Perhaps it made Mr. Roosevelt recall that our own country has not been free from plunder.

"ANDY HARDY GETS SPRING FEVER" AT PITTS' THEATRE

Andy Hardy gets Spring Fever" will prove to a responsive audience at the Pitts Theatre Monday and Tuesday, September 25 and 26 that the Hardy Family series grow stronger with each picture. Never before has the family appeared more human, more appealing.

In this latest of the Hardy saga the family gets a taste of romance and drama. The Judge, portrayed in his usual splendid manner by Lewis Stone, becomes involved in a crooked promotion stunt which threatens the savings of the Hardys as well as of their friends. The irrepressible Andy, naturally none other than Mickey Rooney, quarrels with his girl friend, Polly Benedict, and falls in love with his beautiful dramatics teacher. The latter role is played by a newcomer, Helen Gilbert, who shows definite ability.

To win the esteem of his teacher Andy writes the play for his class show and wins the leading role in it. The young teacher in a moment of loneliness listens to Andy's boyish declaration of love and finds herself suddenly being asked in marriage by the lad. The Judge, despite his own worries, tries to talk Andy out of his infatuation but the latter won't listen. Finally, on the day of the play, the Judge turns a wise trick which saves all the money mulcted by the promoters and Andy discovers that his teacher is engaged to some one else. Only then does he come to his senses to realize that Polly is still, as always, his girl.

DRAMA NEVER GREATER THAN IN "STANLEY" HIT

"Dr. Livingstone, I presume?" Drama knows no more thrilling moment than when Stanley speaks these words to Dr. Livingstone in the heart of Africa, the climax of the adventure that thrilled the world. And now the most heroic exploit known to man may be seen in one of the most spectacular motion pictures ever undertaken, Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "Stanley and Livingstone."

Featuring one of the finest acting casts ever assembled, the opening of the 20th Century-Fox film on Thursday and Friday, September 28-29, will be a gala day at the Pitts' Theatre. Spencer Tracy, twice winner of the Academy Award, portrays the daring Stanley, crack newspaper man of the New York Herald. Starred with him are Nancy Kelly and Richard Greene, heading an imposing cast including walter Brennan, also an Academy Award winner; Charles Coburn, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, as Livingstone; Henry Hull and Henry Travers.

Into the perilous wilderness of unknown Africa one white man ventured to seek another, an impossible Herculean labor marked by innumerable, nameless terrors—but nothing could stop him! Such is the theme of the screen play by Philip Dunne and Julien Josephson, reaching a new high in script writing. Under the direction of Henry King (noted for "In Old Chicago," "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and "Jesse James") the film assumes a top position among the year's most notable screen achievements.

But there's more than thrilling adventure to be seen in "Stanley and Livingstone." The great reporter found Livingstone unwilling to be "rescued," and learned from the missionary-explorer a new, heroic meaning in life that sent him back to carry on the great work. "Stanley and Livingstone" is a picture not to be missed.

We wish to thank our various correspondents for sending their notes early this week.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

AVOID EXCESSES: Who hath woe? Who hath sorrow? Who hath contentions? Who hath babbling? Who hath wounds without cause? Who hath redness of eyes? They that tarry long at the wine? They that go to seek mixed wine.—Prov. 23, 29, 30.

IS SENATOR BORAH NEUTRAL?

The grotesque alliance, which has been effected between Adolph Hitler, of Germany, and Joseph Stalin, of Russia, has grouped together all Communists and Nazis throughout the world, and in the United States. We have long been accustomed to look askance at the Nazi movement here, but now it is important that we also subject Pro-Soviet advocates to severe scrutiny. Of these Senator Borah deserve our first consideration. He was the mainspring in postponing action of the last Congress on the Arms Embargo. He claimed that his sources of information on the European situation were more reliable than those of the United States Government and that he was convinced there would be no immediate outbreak of war. It would have been of immense value to our maintenance of neutrality to have been able to repeal this arms embargo before the outbreak of war, as urged by the President. The insistence of Senator Borah, however, provided the slender margin by which this important action was postponed. Previous activities of the Senator of a pronounced Pro-Soviet character cast additional doubts upon the integrity of his position as a disinterested "isolationist." It is a matter of published record that he once requested the A.C.L.U. (American Civil Liberties Union) to draw up legislation for him to submit to the United States Senate, and he was an outstanding exponent of recognition of Russia by the United States. Since recent events have merged Pro-Russianism and Pro-Germanism, the continued attacks of the Senator from Idaho on the military program of England and France, charging that they are "pulling their punches" against the Siegfried Line, are sufficient to justify a deepening suspicion that the Senator from Idaho is not so much concerned with keeping the United States out of war as he seems to be in giving aid and comfort and Germany.

M.

"Be it ordained that in pursuance to the authority conferred upon the Board of Supervisors of Prince William County, Virginia, by the provisions of Section 2743, Code of Virginia, to adopt ordinances to secure and promote the health, safety and general welfare of the inhabitants of said county, the Board of Supervisors of Prince William County does hereby adopt the following provisions regulating the disposal of human wastes and excrements in said county, prescribing the size and drainage fields of septic tanks and providing for a sanitary water supply at public places and providing punishment for failure to comply with said Ordinance.

Section 1. Every house used as a human habitation, every warehouse, every house, every public building, every recreation or tourist camp, transient lodging house or other place where human beings congregate or are employed in the County of Prince William, shall be provided (by the owner thereof) with a sanitary privy or other sanitary device for the catchment or receiving of human discharges.

Section 2. No person, firm or corporation shall construct, maintain or permit on any premises owned or leased by him an arrangement for the disposal of human excrement which may possibly endanger any source of drinking water or which allows flies to have access to the human excrement.

Section 3. No person, firm or corporation shall deposit any human excrement upon the surface of the ground or in any place where it may endanger a source of drinking water or be accessible to flies or animals.

Section 4. All buildings having flush toilets, discharging on the ground or into small streams or ditches, shall be provided by the owner with a septic tank or other approved sewage disposal plant.

Section 5. It shall be unlawful for anyone to install a septic tank in Prince William County, without first obtaining a permit from the County Health Officer, or his representative. The Health Officer or his representative shall determine the size and working capacity of the septic tank required.

The amount of subsurface drainage tile to be used shall be determined by the Health Officer or his representative at the time the permit is granted. In no case shall less than 200 feet of drainage tile be used.

The kind and amount of absorption material to be used shall conform with the regulations of the Health Department.

Section 6. Septic tanks and subsurface drainage tile shall be inspected by a representative of the Health Department, and approved before they are permitted to be covered.

"MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY" A YEAR IN PREPARATION

Proclaimed the greatest of all sea dramas, "Mutiny on the Bounty" opens Wednesday, September 27, at the Pitts' Theatre after being more than a year in production.

Aside from entertainment, it presents an authentic visual document of one of the most notable chapters of maritime history—the mutiny on the H.M.S. Bounty one hundred and fifty years ago.

In the annals of the sea there is no more fascinating story than that told of the Bouny which set sail from England in 1787, bound for Tahiti.

In charge was Lieutenant Bligh, a harsh taskmaster. Storms lengthened the voyage, food ran low and as Bligh's temper increased he raged at his underfed and embittered crew. The golden days that followed the arrival at Tahiti temporarily quited his men, but shortly after the start of the return voyage Bligh's tyranny brought rebellion to the breaking point and his men rose in mutiny.

Then followed adventures that have never since had their equal in naval history; Bligh and his eighteen loyal seamen sailing 4,000 miles in an open boat; escaped mutineers seeking refuge with their native wives; Bligh's return and the capture of several of the mutineers; another shipwreck and Bligh again in an open boat at the mercy of the sea on a 3,500 mile cruise; and the final naval courtmartial back in England with all its tragedy and faded hopes.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
"Reality" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientis, on Sunday, September 24.
The Golden Text will be "Since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him" (Isaiah 64:4).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord of hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass and as I have purposed, so shall it stand: For the Lord of hosts hath purposed, and who shall disannul it? And his hand is stretched out, and who shall turn it back?" (Isaiah 14:24,27).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind is the divine Principle, Love and can produce nothing unlike the eternal Father-Mother, God. Reality is spiritual, harmonious, immutable, immortal, divine, eternal. Nothing unspiritual can be real, harmonious, or eternal" (p. 335).

ANNIE G. ROBERTS
After an illness of six weeks, Miss Annie G. Roberts died in Rochester hospital, Rochester, Pa., on Friday, September 15, one week following her eighty-first birthday. Funeral services were held on Sunday with interment in the family lot in Pittsburgh.
Miss Roberts was the daughter of English parents, Henry and Mary Ann (Butterworth) Roberts, who came to this country on their wedding trip and decided to establish their home here. Mr. Roberts, a manufacturer and inventor of note, retired from active business in 1911 and, with his daughter, moved to Prince William, locating first at Compton Farm and later purchasing Tudor Hall, where they lived until his ill health forced them to return to Pennsylvania.
Miss Roberts in recent years had made her home with a niece in Washington and had frequently visited friends in Manassas. On several occasions she had attended meetings of the Bethlehem Good Housekeeper's Club, of which she had been a member.

Though a constant sufferer for many years, she kept a cheerful outlook on life and took an active interest in current events. Her gentle Christian spirit and charm of manner won her a wide circle of friends who deeply mourn her passing.

CANNON BRANCH REVIVAL

There will be a prayer meeting held at the Cannon Branch church house on Friday night. Eld. J. M. Kline will deliver the morning address on Sunday, the 24th, at 11 o'clock.

QUIET TALKS ON RELIGION

BY DR. JAMES T. MARSHALL
PRAYING FOR JESUS

"Prayer also shall be made for Him continually; and daily shall He be praised." A modern translation by Horace Howard Furness reads, "Ever pray for Him, and all day bless Him." All of us are familiar with the idea of praying to Jesus, but few of us have ever thought of praying for Him. How can it be possible for our poor prayers to add anything to His power and glory?

Isaac Watts' versification of the 72nd psalm expresses the thought thus:
For Him shall endless prayer be made,
And praises throng to crown His head.
A moment's thought will convince us that it is both proper and natural that Jesus should be among those included in our daily prayers. While we pray for our families and for our human friends we should pray also for our divine friend and companion.

We pray for Jesus whenever we pray for the advancement of His kingdom, and for the success of those purposes for which He gave His life. Parents, who have children away from home, starting life for themselves and beginning the struggle for success, are accustomed to ask God to prosper them in the things which they desire and for which they strive.

We pray for Jesus in like manner when we pray "Thy kingdom come." We pray for Him whenever we enlarge our vision beyond the bounds of our personal ambitions and desires and plead for His distressed children, for the poor, the suffering, the discouraged, for the millions of women and children who today are the victims of war's barbarism in China, Ethiopia, Spain and elsewhere.

We pray for Jesus whenever we link ourselves with those who live by the law of love, and dedicate every thought and effort to the bringing in of the glad time when there shall be peace on earth and good will to men. When we shall see the fulfillment of Isaiah's prophecy concerning our Savior—"He shall be the travail of His soul and shall be satisfied."

The naturalness and propriety of our praying for Jesus becomes more evident when we pause to think of His experiences while in the flesh. It is absolutely unthinkable that none of his kin or friends ever prayed for Him. Certainly Mary prayed for him every day. We must not overlook the reality of His humanity and the fact that His mother brought Him the Scriptures, praying with and for Him and taking him to public services in the synagogue.

I am sure that the groups of godly women who followed Him in His ministry in Galilee prayer for Him, as did also His apostles; and what shall we say of the multitude of good people who lined the Via Dolorosa on the morning of His crucifixion and saw Him fall beneath the weight of His cross; and of the loyal group of friends, including John the apostle and Mary Magdalene? Could such awe-stricken and heartbroken souls have done less than pray for their dearest friend in His hour of agony?

The world today by its wickedness and unbelief is "crucifying the Son of God afresh and putting Him to an open shame." It is a critical hour for Christianity. I would like to see the church on its knees in confession of sin and earnestly praying for the hastening of the day.

When o'er our ransomed nature
The Lamb for sinners slain,
Redeemer, King, Creator,
In bliss returns to reign.

TELEPHONE COMPANY PLAYS IMPORTANT PART IN RADIO PROGRAM TRANSMISSION

Chain Programs Carried from Originating Studio to Local Stations on Phone Circuits

At this very moment, all over the United States in numerous Bell System offices, men stand at rapt attention, watching dials to determine split second intervals before pushing many buttons of various colors. These buttons are used to control various sections of the broadcasting companies' national networks which interconnect the studios in the larger centers and the broadcasting stations located in every important city from Florida, Texas and California to New England and the northwest.

Even today, seventeen years after broadcasting began, many people still think that radio programs which are broadcast from one station are picked up by radio in another station for rebroadcasting. This has not been true even from the outset, for the first radio programs jointly broadcast from more than one station used telephone lines as a connecting link between the studios and the stations. From time to time during this period rebroadcasting has been used, but at the present time only a few cases of rebroadcasting using radio links remain, having been generally eliminated because of interruptions caused by thunderstorms and other similar natural interferences.

In Washington, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, territory served by The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies, the paths followed by the main networks of the National Broadcasting Company, familiarly known as the "red" network and "blue" network; the Columbia Broadcasting System's "purple" network; the Mutual Broadcasting System's "gold" network; and the Knickerbocker Broadcasting Company's "bronze" network, follow the routes taken by the long distance telephone cables. From the east the circuits from New York first pass through Elkton on their way to Baltimore, Washington, Richmond and the south. At Richmond a branch leads to Norfolk. Roanoke is fed from Greensboro. Wheeling and Fairmont are served by program circuits coming out of Pittsburgh. Parkersburg and Clarksburg are connected to the main network through Cambridge, Ohio.

In addition to the regular services furnished to broadcasting stations, throughout the year there are many special networks established. Often these special networks require the installation of special amplifiers where stadiums are located at remote points. The type of equipment which is used for broadcasting is determined by the user's requirement for fidelity of transmission. On the national hook ups, where both speech and music are transmitted, a wider frequency range is generally desired than on the net works which are used only for broadcast casting football games. To furnish this higher fidelity the circuit requires not only special amplifiers or repeaters which will pass the wide range of frequencies found in music, but also requires special treatment of the cable and open wire facilities so that distortion may be kept at a minimum. Special cable circuits and wires are set aside for these networks and are used for no other purpose. The loading coils which are used on these circuits occur more frequently along the circuit than on those which are used for telephone service. Special transmission correctors are associated with the repeaters at each of the offices in which the circuits are amplified.

Due to the importance of radio programs, since they serve millions of listeners, continuous monitoring at certain points is necessary. To many people this job would seem to be one of the most pleasant that is offered in the Bell System, but after one listens continuously to various programs for several months, radio loses a great deal of its glamour.

Between midnight and morning of a routine day in the program department the networks are tested, the amplifiers which are used on the circuits are checked for satisfactory tubes, and lines are observed for noise conditions. Measurements are made from the control terminal of each network to selected points along the networks at which radio stations are served.

Just prior to the opening of the first program in the morning, broadcasting companies transmit a test program which is checked through to each of the broadcasting stations that takes the first program. If satisfactory reports are received, the service goes ahead for the day. With the opening program, monitoring begins at the key points along the network and records are made of each interruption or each case noise which may be observed. At the end of the first period of broadcasting some rearrangements in the network may be required so as to add certain stations and to drop some. Such rearrangements are designated as "switches." A "switch," to be accurate, must be timed to the exact second and a cue for action must be furnished. The work done by those who switch radio programs requires extreme accuracy in timing and in action, since an error would affect millions of listeners.
