

LADIES NIGHT IS MERRY EVENT

American-Canadian Week Also Observed On This Occasion

The entertainment and program committee of the Kiwanis club outdid itself last Friday evening to produce one of the most successful Ladies' Nights that the club has ever staged. Nearly a hundred were present as the printed list of guests will indicate.

American-Canadian week was briefly observed at the beginning of the evening by singing stanzas from America and God Save the King, and at the close of the program with appropriate prayers for continued good relation by Rev. R. M. Graham, while the American flag was held at "Present" by his little daughter, Katherine.

Col. R. A. Hutchison gave the address of welcome, one of his best. After the ladies of Grace Church (where the meeting was held) had served a most tasty and delightful repast, Song Leader, Ray Ratcliffe, led in group singing that was joined in very heartily by all.

Meanwhile, Miss Helen Lloyd had presented tiny corsages to all ladies present, which added to the color and gaiety of the occasion.

With "Dick" Graham as program chairman, one might expect some brain twisters, and they came on thick and fast. This time, Dick used a practically perfect alibi for all answers. In the first round, Edgar Parrish came out in the clear while in the second inning, Col. Hutchison won from a field of six on a run-off.

The young women's club contributed perhaps the richest number on the entire program. The chorus contained Mesdames R. J. Ratcliffe, C. M. Harris, W. S. Saunders, Paul Arrington, Conner Kinchloe and Misses Walter Conner and "D. D." Lynch.

Those old time songs and ballads were rendered with interpretations that showed some keen coaching. (Was that mocking bird worth listening to!) They received so many encores that the baby show was almost forgotten in the shuffle.

While the babies (ten hefty Kiwanians) were being properly attired, the toastmaster led in some animal noises. There were no repercussions from the nearby woodlands and farmplots so it must have gotten over successfully.

When those "babies" did appear, there were so many different aspects, that a real good laugh was had. The Gay Nineties Ladies acted as judges and after a period of at least ten minutes while the audience was treated to a medley of "infant" squawks and yells, choice for first place lighted on Mr. "Rat".

Remarks on American-Canadian week were given by Mr. Graham, and were a reminder of the splendid relations between people of a common race.

The singing of the state song was also joined in, (Carry me back to Ole Virginia) with the audience standing.

Throughout the evening, the president, D. J. Arrington, presided.

The following Kiwanians and guests were present.

Miss Lelia Montague Dowell, Miss Peggy Tipton, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Trusler, Mr. and Mrs. Alpaugh, Hon. E. R. Conner, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Roseberry, Mr. and Mrs. G. Raymond Ratcliffe, Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Graham, Miss Katherine Graham, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hynson, Rev. and Mrs. A. S. Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kerlin, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. ## I Like This Book

"A TALE OF TWO CITIES"
By Charles Dickens

"A Tale of Two Cities" by Charles Dickens is a story of the most exciting and bloody era in history, the French Revolution.

The two cities were London and Paris, and the main character was Sydney Carton, who gave his life for the person he loved. Lucie Manette and Mr. Lorry, an old friend of the Manette family, traveled to Paris to bring home Lucie's father, Doctor Manette, who had just been released from prison. Doctor Manette had been in prison so long that he had lost his mind, but after a number of years he was restored to his right mind by the loving care and devotion of his daughter.

Lucie met Charles Darnay, a young French nobleman, who had exiled himself from France. Soon after they were married, Charles was forced to return to France because of the beginning of the French Revolution. While he was in Paris he was seized by the mob, and thrown into prison, because he was a nobleman. The family, including Sydney Carton, arrived in Paris, only to hear that Charles was soon to be executed.

It is here that Sydney Carton shows his real courage, and his devotion to Lucie. Just before Charles was to make his last journey, Sydney exchanged places with him, and died at the guillotine, so that the husband of the woman he loved might live. Sydney Carton, who had always wasted his life, paid the supreme sacrifice to show his true self.

Charles Darnay and his wife finally escaped from bloody France, and spent their remaining years in peaceful London.

This is a story of true devotion and courage; it is, to me, one of the most exciting and interesting books I have ever read. There is a state of suspense and mystery from start to finish, and the dark past of Dr. Manette and Charles Darnay is not solved until the close.

This book is a literary masterpiece, and Charles Dickens shows his great ability as a writer more in this book than in any other book that he has ever written.

To a person interested in history, this book presents an excellent story of the French Revolution. It reveals all of its horrors, its unnecessary waste of human lives, and its great excitement and adventure.

This book may be borrowed from the Ruffner-Carnegie Library.

—Leonard Lonas.

Champions Fishing as Aid to Longevity

ANOTHER Methuselah?—Tony Accetta (left), five-time winner of the U. S. professional all-around bait- and fly-casting title, believes the sport of fishing to be a panacea for human ills. He maintains that every month spent in piscatorial pursuit adds a year to one's life. On this basis, Tony, now 45, should live to be more than 200 years old, if he never engages in another day's fishing, for he estimates that he has spent an average of four full months each year with a rod and reel in his hands since choosing his career at the early age of six, following an unsuccessful experiment in the transmutation of his mother's pet goldfish into gold. Tony concedes that barring accidents a person might conceivably attain immortality, if his theory is correct. Nevertheless, he was not averse to preserving a record of his skill for posterity when the opportunity was offered him of starring in "Let's Go Fishing", 2-reel sound motion picture that has been produced and is being distributed by the Fisher Body division of General Motors. Here, Tony and Art Neu, former champion of the National Association of Scientific Anglers, demonstrate one of the more beneficial aspects of the sport.

PLACEMENT OF CORN FERTILIZER

When corn is check or hill planted, the fertilizer should be dropped at the hill and not drilled. Hill applications are best placed in bands 6 to 8 inches long on each side of the seed and separated from it by 1/4 to 1 inch fertilizer-free soil and in a depth zone from 1 inch below to slightly above the seed level. For drilled corn, the fertilizer should be drilled uniformly in continuous bands in the same relative position as suggested for hill applications.

LIVE STOCK BREEDS LINKED TO LIME

The development of livestock breeds is traceable through the ages to those regions of the earth where the soil is now known to have been rich in lime. Our present-day breeds of livestock—cattle, sheep and hogs—as well as horses, trace back to lime-favored regions of the world.

The forerunner of the famous Arabian horse came out of southeastern Russia where the soil was well stocked with lime. The Arabian horse in turn reached their highest development on land well laden with lime. Out of the limey land of Flanders has come the Percheron horse; the chalky regions of England developed the Shorthorn cattle, the Southdown sheep and the Hampshire hog; from the limestone valley of the Clyde in Scotland, we have obtained the Clydesdale horse. Here in America, the Ky. Thoroughbred speaks for the wealth of lime in the pasture soils of the Bluegrass Region. Success of cattle breeding in eastern Tennessee and other areas rests in a large measure upon the nutritious forage of its limestone valleys.

These historical facts hold a lesson for present-day farmers.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

Despise thou the riches of his goodness and forbearance and long suffering; not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance? But after thy hardness and impenitent heart treasure up unto thyself wrath against the day of wrath and revelation of the righteous judgment of God; who will render to every man according to his deeds.—Romans 2:4,6.

STUDY OF VIRGINIA

State agencies, through an allotment of approximately $177,000 by the Rockefeller-endowed General Education Board, will make extensive scientific studies of land use, population and small industries in Virginia—a program in which the University will play a prominent part.

In announcing the allotment, Governor Price said the studies would be the most elaborate ever made in the South. The grants are $90,000 to the State Planning Board for a population study, $48,000 to the University for the support of a bureau of industrial research for a study of small industries as a means of providing jobs for persons unable to earn their living on farms, and $38,400 to V. P. I. for a thorough inquiry into the subject of land use in the State.

In the words of the Governor, the bureau of industrial research at the University "will seek to ascertain how well selected new small industries can be set up to provide employment near their homes for those boys and girls who are shown by the population study to have little prospect of earning a living on farms in those small communities that have a very high birth rate. With this study of population and small industry is to be linked a more detailed investigation by V. P. I. of the best use of land."

This is to be a timely and important investigation on a vital question. The research when completed should offer a far clearer picture than now exists of the needs and opportunities in Virginia's agricultural and industrial life.

Dear Sirs:

We take this opportunity of expressing our interest in the item in your last paper in regard to restocking the counties with quail. Hoping our board of supervisors will see fit to make an appropriation for this county, also that the young quail not be hunted for at least two years. After this winter there are but few birds and when the two years are bag limit of not more than six should be allowed. We have been very much concerned in regard to the quail for several years, and no one knows in this forgotten end of the county more than we do, the hunting that is, done without permission and without hunting license, and whole flocks wiped out. It would be well to teach the farmers as well as their friends from other parts of the county, the real value of the quail, the bugs and weed seed, they destroy and the call of the Bobwhite should be music in the farmers' ears instead of the sport to kill, and the waste of gun powder. We would be glad if the board of supervisors would take this up, and really do something. The amount spent would certainly be more benefit to the farmer. Those many things that come before them (Board of Supervisors) from month to month.

'NORTHWEST PASSAGE' COMES TO SCREEN WITH STAR CAST

Bringing to the screen Kenneth Roberts' adventure novel which was the largest selling book in the nation month after month, "Northwest Passage" opens at the Pitts Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, May 6 and 7, with Spencer Tracy starred and Robert Young and Walter Brennan in leading featured roles.

Filmed entirely in Technicolor, and made after six weeks of work in the wilds of Idaho and several weeks of studio filming, "Northwest Passage" is reported to be the greatest story of physical fortitude ever attempted by the screen.

Following the novel which first ran in the Saturday Evening Post before becoming a best-seller, the picture tells the story of a courageous, hardy band of Rogers' Rangers who in 1766 set forth on a secret mission to wipe out a village of marauding Indians. Among the Rangers are Robert Young as Langdon Towne, a young artist, and Walter Brennan as Hunk Marriner, a seasoned woodsman.

Battling against unbelievable odds, the Rangers lug heavy boats over mountains, trek for days through treacherous swamps, cross a river torrent by forming a human chain, attack and wipe out the Indians and then start a starvation forced march home. Their ranks depleted by Indian attacks and forced to eat lizards and owls, they fight their way back to safety.

STAPLES DENIES JACKSON'S MOVE

Stands Pat On Former Rulings Regarding Salary Increases

Attorney General Staples has denied that the Governor has authority to increase the salary of a constitutional officer during the officer's term of office.

The denial, filed with the State Supreme Court, was embodied in a joint demurrer and answer to the petition of Raymond L. Jackson, secretary of the Commonwealth, for a writ of mandamus to compel the State comptroller to restore the $1,000 a year slash in his salary made during the 1940 General Assembly.

In his petition Mr. Jackson asked that the Comptroller be ordered to pay him at the rate of $5,000 a year from September 1, 1939, the date he was granted a $1,000 salary increase by Governor Price, instead of the $4,000 annual rate for which he accepted the office in February, 1938.

He said the increase was granted him because of the extra burden of work imposed upon him both by the Governor and the General Assembly, and contended also that the office of the secretary of the Commonwealth is a statutory and not a constitutional office, that it is part of the Governor's office and that, therefore, the Governor has authority to increase his salary.

The attorney general admitted that extra duties had been imposed upon the secretary of the Commonwealth, but said the Governor had no authority to increase the salary because Section 83 of the Constitution provides that "the salary of each officer of the executive department shall be fixed by law, and shall not be increased or diminished during his term of office." (The executive department under the Constitution is composed of the offices of the Governor, the lieutenant-governor, the secretary of the Commonwealth, the State treasurer and the auditor of public accounts.)

Mr. Staples took the same position during the General Assembly session when he was asked by State Senator William M. Tuck for an opinion on the validity of the increase in Mr. Jackson's salary made by the Governor. Comptroller LeRoy Hodges then notified the secretary of the Commonwealth that he would be paid thereafter on a $4,000 basis and he asked return of the extra $458 which Mr. Jackson had received in payment at the rate of $5,000 a year from the time the salary raise became effective.

We wish to thank our various correspondents for sending their notes early this week.

Careers in Engineering
By R. T. Strohm

OTHER things than the techniques of engineering long have been considered important in the education for that profession. Many leaders of the profession have been outspoken in insisting that a more liberal viewpoint be adopted in training and background. Dr. C. R. Mann of the Carnegie Foundation tabulated more than 1,500 replies from practicing engineers to whom he addressed the question: "What are the essential qualities of a successful engineer?" The results showed an average estimate of 41 per cent character, 17.5 per cent judgment, 14.5 per cent efficiency, 14 per cent understanding of human nature, and 13 per cent technical knowledge.
There has been much agitation directed at broadening the curriculum. During the last two decades there was hardly an engineering college in the country which did not materially reduce the technical content of its curricula in favor of more economics, political science, and literature.
It is no longer possible in the school and college course to do a complete job in preparing young men in both engineering and technical training. Both the engineer and the technician are needed. Many a boy who has talent for using tools mistakenly believes that he has aptitude for engineering. Aptitude in mathematics, reasoning power, imagination and physics are far more likely to denote engineering talent.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

by Constance Willis,
3rd year
(Northern Virginia Regional High School)

Can high school student efficiently run the government? They most certainly can. All schools should be glad to have a student government. It's a big responsibility but most students are willing to work.

Student Government is the democratic way of running a school. A council elected from the entire student body is in charge of governing all students. If a rule is broken, the offender is brought before the council for trial.

This council could also purpose changes in school discipline and organization.

The student government idea is an excellent way of training boys and girls for the job of running their communities when they are older.

This citizenship training afforded them is an important aspect of student life.

Taking orders from our superiors is accepted as a matter-of-course, but learning to obey our equals is something they must all learn. In no better way can we get experience in conducting a democratic government than through this plan.

If we are punished by a group of students rather than by teacher, we are most likely to realize that the punishment is more fair or just.

The huge responsibility of teachers punishing students is placed upon the council. Therefore we must select able people to make up this important council.

Most students believe our school is making rapid progress running on such a plan. We readily agree with these students but, there is one thing that must not be overlooked. If we expect to make this plan a success, everyone must co-operate. If we don't work together the plan, will be a failure.

With team work government is not government but, student regulations. A thing which will make for a happier more profitable and fuller student participation.

It is our important duty to make plan which has existed here on M. I. S. campus for its second term. It's president for present is Mr. George Alexander. One who is very capable of being president but owing to the fact this is his last year with us we are now electing our next president from the Junior Class.

It is further ordered that a certified copy of this order be transmitted to the Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, Richmond, Virginia, and it be published for two successive weeks in the Manassas Journal, Manassas, Prince William County, Virginia.

SPECIAL FARM PROGRAM FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Many farm boys and girls in Prince William and Fairfax counties will be enabled to participate in 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America, junior educational and demonstration farm projects, during 1940 through Farm Security Administration loans under new regulations announced by W. H. Goodall, Jr., County FSA Supervisor, Hibbs & Gidding's Building, Manassas, Va.

"All young people enrolled in these junior farm groups, and whose parents are among FSA borrowers in these counties, may secure loans of not more than $75 for purchase of a calf, sow, poultry or other young livestock, as well as seed, plants and fertilizer, for projects approved by the county extension agent or Smith-Hughes instructors in charge of the projects."

"By Making loans available to young people with no other source of credit, the program is expected to boost the interest of farm boys and girls in farm life and create business responsibility at an early age. The sponsorship of useful farm projects by boys and girls on the farm will also contribute by example to balanced farming and better farming practices which are main objectives of Farm Security Administration borrowers."

Loan applications must be made to the county FSA Supervisor and approved by the project leaders. Security on loans will include a note signed jointly with parents and chattel or crop mortgages, with interest at five percent.

Group action is one of the methods used by Farm Security Administration borrowers and their neighbor farmers, to make their labor more effective and to put their farming operations on a sounder basis.

"The basis of FSA's lending program is a sound farm management plan for every individual farmer,"

Mr. Goodall said. "Many times, however, services and facilities for successful operation are too expensive to be justified for an individual farmer. The logical step, many of our borrowers agree, is to arrange for joint use of the service."

The formation of co-operative groups for purchase of equipment and facilities eliminates two handicaps the farmer might otherwise have, first, inferior equipment or sizes, if forced to purchase them himself; and second, inadequate arrangements for needed services where he decides not to buy the equipment but tries to borrow it or arrange for custom work.

According to a state-wide report, Mr. Goodall said, the Farm Security Administration has made many co-operative loans for such things as sire rings, harvesting equipment, lime grinding plants, canning outfits, marketing services and dairy herd improvement activities.

Loans for simple services may be made to a master borrower or to a number of joint borrowers for services to themselves and neighbors. They should be organized on a maximum basis, Mr. Goodall pointed out, to keep down the cost per unit and to extend the benefits to the largest possible number of borrowers and low-income farm families in need of such facilities. Of course, before the application for a loan of this kind is approved it must be shown that the service is not only desired but that the income from it will cover expenses and repay the loan, including a low rate of interest.

While the service is primarily for Farm Security borrowers, other farmers in the same community may join in the group, to make the service a successful enterprise.

Mr. Goodall added all the details of the FSA's community and co-operative services, such as description of the services, security rate of interest and terms of repayment are available at his office in Manassas, Va., in the Hibbs & Gidding's Building.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Everlasting Punishment" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 5.

The Golden Text will be "The way of the Lord is strength to the upright; but destruction shall be to the workers of iniquity" (Pro. 10:29).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting" (Gal. 6:7,8).

The Lesson-Sermon includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy: "We cannot escape the penalty due for sin. The Scriptures say, that if we deny Christ, he also will deny us. Divine Love corrects and governs man. Men may pardon, but this divine Principle alone reforms the sinner" (p. 6).
