PEANUT FESTIVAL A GALA AFFAIR

Northern Virginia Princesses Report Occasion Very Enjoyable

Miss Walser Conner of Manassas represented Prince William County as its princess at the National Festival at Suffolk, which was held Tuesday, February 28, and Wednesday, February 29. She substituted for her sister, Elvere, who was unable to attend because of illness. Miss Conner was accompanied by Miss Frances James who served as "Princess Arlington County" and Miss Phyllis Richardson, "Princess Fairfax County". The young ladies were driven to Suffolk, the world's largest peanut market, Tuesday morning by Mr. Edgar E. Rohr, who remained to enjoy the festivities with them and who acted as Miss Conner's escort. Miss James was escorted by Mr. James McLamore of Suffolk and Miss Richardson was escorted by Mr. Landis Small of Suffolk.

Upon their arrival in Suffolk the young ladies reported to the Chamber of Commerce, where they were given their official badges, programs and instructions and were assigned to homes of private citizens for the duration of their stay. Miss Conner was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Beamon and Miss James and Miss Richardson stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Birdsong. After luncheon with their hosts, they were taken on a tour of several of the peanut plants in the city, where they learned the process of the peanuts from the field, through the numerous picking, cleaning and grading machines to the huge rooms where they were finally inspected by hundreds of negro or white "pickers" who pick out the defective peanuts by hand, and on to the department where uniformed women bottle, cap and pack peanut butter as it comes from the crushing machine. They also inspected the section of the Southern Planters plant where peanut brittle is made and salted or bagged or canned. Here they were presented with bags of peanuts and told to eat as much candy as they wanted.

At 7 o'clock the young ladies and their escorts were invited to the Planters Club where a delightful buffet supper was served. Then they were introduced to the queen of the festival, Miss Olive Cawley of New York, a beautiful brunette and famous model, and to the festival officials and their wives. Following the reception, a dance was given for the princesses and their escorts. At intermission they were addressed by Col. M. S. Battle, representing Governor Price, who welcomed them to the festival. They were then entertained by Felix Adler, noted circus clown, and by a negro quartette.

Wednesday morning all of the queen's court gathered at the "Peanut Park", the city stadium, and received instructions for their part in the coronation ceremonies. Then they were entertained at an oyster roast and barbeque at the Planters Club and had their pictures taken by newspaper, Pathe movie and Life magazine photographers. The "Peanut Parade" started about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, with an estimated crowd of 11,000 lined along the parade course of several miles. The parade featured a dozen elaborately decorated floats, including the float of the queen and her aids of honor and two floats for the princesses, military units from the Hampton Roads area, a clown act headed by the "King of Clowns", and a dozen bands and drum and bugle corps. The floats upon which the queen and her court rode were decorated with azure blue and gold, and the queen was bedecked in a dress which was covered with peanuts and which weighed sixty pounds. The princesses wore evening dresses and wraps. At the termination of the parade at the stadium, the queen was escorted through the crowd down a long path of peanut hulls, past the reviewing stand of visiting notables, to a specially constructed throne, where she was joined by the fifty princesses representing the States of Virginia and North Carolina and various towns and counties of those states. Five thousand spectators in the stadium watched as Governor Price of Virginia placed a beautiful crown on the head of the queen and crowned her "Arachis Hypogaea I", meaning "Peanut Queen".

The "royal court" and escorts, Governor Price, Governor J. M. Broughton of North Carolina, the numerous visiting Senators and

RED CROSS NOTES FINE WORK DONE

Reports at Board Meeting Are Quite Encouraging.

Officials and Committee Chairmen of Prince William County Chapter, American Red Cross, met in Executive Session, January 31, at the residence of the Secretary, Mrs. E. H. Marsteller, Manassas.

Mrs. Wm. Lloyd, chairman, presided and is gratefully appreciative of the magnificent work accomplished throughout the County in the last year.

Encouraging reports were presented by the Junior Red Cross's activities; the Production Committee has met its quota of garments made and knitted; the Civilian Relief has in conjunction with the Welfare Board given fuel food and clothing to the county's needy, and is now engaged in having those repaired by the N. Y. A students to further aid in local work. The establishment of First Aid Stations on the major highways of Prince William is rapidly being completed under the chairmanship of Mr. R. C. Haydon.

A class of First Aid has been taught by an instructor from National Headquarters.

The new quota of garments has been accepted and will be shipped in the Spring to the evacuees in England.

Mr. O. D. Waters, Roll Call Chairman and Treasurer, presented his reports which showed the county had more than met the War Relief double quotas and the Roll Call for 1940 is the largest in the history of Prince William.

Mrs. Lloyd thanked the chairmen and asked them to carry to the various committees the hearty appreciation of the chapter for their untiring and generous activities in producing such valuable results.

GENE'S LUNCH MOVES TO NEW LOCATION

Mr. Eugene Mooney, who operated a lunch room on East Centre street for the past year, moved into his new quarters on North Main street last night.

"Gene" staged a colorful opening which was attended by a large group of friends and customers. The place is fitted out in the most modern and improved style, and represents a progressive step by a progressive young business man.

All day today he has kept a full quota of waitresses busy attending to the needs of the many who came to sample his wares. The accoutrements are sufficient to give the place a nice setting and to satisfy the desires of those looking for pleasant surroundings.

FINAL WARNING ON DOG TAGS

County Game Warden Brower is issuing a final warning to all owners of dogs in Prince William County whose dogs are four months of age or more that he will absolutely begin to enforce the penalty attached for failure to comply with the dog tax provisions immediately after publication of this memorandum.

Congressmen and festival officials were entertained at a cocktail party and buffet supper Wednesday evening on the palatial yacht of A. Obici, President of the Planters Nut & Chocolate Company. That night they danced in a large warehouse, among a crowd of six hundred, to the famous orchestra of Charley Barnett, which dance completed the two days of festivity.

The young ladies representing Prince William, Arlington and Fairfax report a "wonderful time". They returned to Manassas Thursday afternoon, loaded down with bags of peanuts for their friends, and full of praise for the people of Suffolk for their hospitality and cordiality. They do not hesitate to say that the first National Peanut Festival was a great success.

Miss Osborn gave a splendid lecture which covered the story of those arts from primitive beginnings down to the present day. The club feels privileged to have had as able and interesting a presentation of this important phase of civilization.

Mrs. Carper gave an instructive talk upon composers of our native state, concluding with an account of the life and work of our most distinguished musician, Mr. John Powell. Miss Armstrong of Nokesville played a selection from the works of Mr. Powell, and, at the close of the program, the audience joined in singing "Old Virginia", which was composed by a native musician, J. STOCK MARKET TO OPEN NEXT WEEK

Will Fill a New Field of Commercial Enterprise.

A new commercial enterprise that promises to be of great benefit to the farmers of Prince William, southern Loudoun, and Fairfax is the sale market constructed near the county line between Prince William and Fairfax on the Manassas-Centerville road.

The matter originated in the Prince William Chamber of Commerce and reached a climax when a group of farmers of Fairfax and Prince William organized a corporation. The details of the opening sales date are announced in other columns of this paper.

One of the things that farmers should bear in mind is the importance of supporting a venture of this kind right at the start. It gives all of them within reaching distance a better chance of selling their poultry, eggs and livestock than they have ever had before. To facilitate matters, arrangements may be made by telephone to have stock brought to and removed from the grounds on the day of sale at a very nominal cost. The call number is listed with the Manassas telephone exchange.

The stock yard, if it may be so called, is a modern frame structure, 88 by 120 feet in dimensions. It is very accessible from the roadway, and ample parking room is being arranged regardless of the weather. It is electrified and has all modern sanitary conveniences. An up-to-date lunchroom and second floor where are also the office of the office and the general business offices. The stairway leading thereto is very easy to ascend.

In capacity, several hundred head of stock may be taken care of and a large amount of poultry and eggs. In fact, most anything that a farmer desires to deal in will be handled, including machinery.

The auction sales room is directly in the center so as to be accessible from every portion of the building. In fact the whole design is very pleasing as well as very practical, and should prove a great aid to agricultural producers anywhere within twenty miles or more.

The sales manager is Mr. D. W. Garber. Officers, J. R. Eagle, President, D. W. Garber; Vice-President, Stanley A. Owens; Secretary-Treasurer, The other directors are as follows: M. G. Garber, Woodbridge; G. C. Russell, Woodbridge; T. P. Davis, Woodbridge; C. B. Fitzwater, Nokesville; G. W. Spinks, Nokesville; E. R. Conner, Manassas; I. J. Breeden, Manassas; O. J. Trenis, Manassas, and J. H. Eagle, Manassas.

KIWANIS CLUB ENJOYS SCENIC PROGRAM

An impressive motion picture in two reels was presented to the Kiwanis Club last Friday evening at the regular weekly meeting. This was done through the courtesy of Mr. Charles W. Alpaugh, with the assistance of Mr. Herbert Hibbs, who ran the machine.

The scenery was located in the Canadian Rockies. For three quarters of an hour, the club members basked in Canadian sunshine, played golf on the glaciers, and did other stunts.

Col. Hutchison breezed in amid the meeting, returning from the other extreme of the continent, looking so much the better for his trip. Father Jim, with visitors from his home waiting for him at the Rectory, could not stay to see the wonderful pictures.

The club expressed keen regret at the enforced absence of members still out from illness.

REPORT OF WOODBINE 4-H CLUB

The Woodbine 4-H Club met Tuesday January 21, at 1 o'clock.

The meeting was opened by the President Louise Wine. All members repeated the club pledge.

There were twenty-seven members present. The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll.

The members sang club song. Miss Webb showed them the correct way to make a bed. The meeting adjourned at 3:30.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Spirit" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 9.

The Golden Text will be "If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit" (Gal. 5:25).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord bless thee, and keep thee: The Lord make his face shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee: The Lord lift up his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace" (Num. 6:24-26).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spiritual living and blessedness are the only evidences, by which we can recognize true existence and feel the unspeakable peace which comes from an all-absorbing spiritual love" (p. 284).

VIRGINIA'S IMPORTANCE IN DAIRY INDUSTRY

Virginia's position in the dairy industry is vividly depicted in a new handbook issued by the Milk Industry Foundation. According to the book, MILK FACTS, 428,000 cows valued at $20,116,000 produced $15,635,000 in cash farm milk income for Virginia farmers in 1939. Production of farm milk in the state for the year totaled 674,000,000 quarts; creamery butter—7,035,000 pounds; cheddar cheese—57,000 pounds; ice cream—3,647,000 gallons.

The United States is one of the ranking milk using nations in the world with per capita consumption of fluid milk totaling 153 quarts a year, pictographs show. Milk and its products comprise over 25 per cent of the 1500 pounds of the principal foods consumed each year by the average American, the book says, with 45 million quarts of milk delivered daily to homes and stores.

Pictorial charts and figures show the importance of the milk industry to the country's economic picture and illustrate how milk costs less in the U. S. in minutes of labor. Diagrammatic charts illustrate how the annual milk supply of some 51 billion quarts is utilized.

Fluid or fresh milk for cities and villages providing the farmer's highest cash return, accounts for 29.9 per cent of the country's yearly production. Creamery butter takes 31.6 per cent, farm butter—9.2 per cent, while 11.7 per cent of the milk is used as fluid milk on farms where produced. In making cheese 6.3 per cent of the total milk is used, and 3.1 per cent and canned milks—4.5 per cent, according to charts.

A chart of the distributor's milk dollar shows 52.31 per cent going to dairy farmers for milk; 19.24 per cent to delivery labor; 8.21 per cent to delivery expense; 6.33 plant expense; 4.94 plant labor; 2.78 administrative labor; 2.18 administrative expense; 1.68 office labor; and profit 2.33 per cent, representing only a fraction of a cent per quart of milk.

"The production and utilization of milk have so increased in this country," says the booklet, "that today we are the greatest of dairy nations. Milk, butter and other dairy products annually create an output valued at 3 1/2 billion dollars."

"Facts about the cows and the farmers that furnish the milk, the distributors whose efficiency has made wide usage possible and the consumption of this 'most nearly perfect food' should lead to a clearer understanding of milk economics."

"One out of every fifteen families in the U. S. is dependent on milk for a livelihood. Milk is the largest single source of farm cash income, larger than cattle, twice cotton, three times wheat, five times tobacco. There are 25 million cows on three quarters of the nation's 7 million farms."

"Americans enjoy the best milk in the world and economical distribution, meticulous sanitation, pasteurization and other safeguards have made our milk supply a world standard."

NEWS EXCHANGES

New York... If it were possible to shout loud enough to be heard around the world, it would take more than 30 hours for the voice to circle the globe. By telephone the voice can travel the same route around the world in about one-quarter of a second.

Richmond... Virginia's state police teletypewriter system is proving its worth. A few minutes after the teletypewriter machine at headquarters tapped out a message for officers to be on the lookout for a car which had been stolen in Alexandria after two men had knocked its owner unconscious, Officer J. Stockholm... Swedish telephones may now be equipped with a simple and cheap device for indoor warnings of air-raid alarms. An electric door bell is attached to the telephone line and rings when the voltage goes above a certain point. This causes all alarm devices connected to the network to operate simultaneously. The alarm signal is of one minute's duration. A large number of units are now being installed in Swedish dwellings.

New York... One of the most unusual libraries in New York is the collection of current telephone directories maintained by the New York Telephone Company for the use of the public. Here are listed names, addresses and telephone numbers of all subscribers in the United States and most of those in the world. There are 2,200 United States telephone directories in the collection. The biggest single book is Chicago's. A staff of seven girls under direction of the librarian keeps the stock in order, waits upon the customers, and sends out new directories ordered by mail.

Chicago... Long distance telephone operators, in talking with each other, use more than 200 routine codes and abbreviations which help speed the service.

Parkersburg... A mid-western couple on their way to Washington, D. C., will remember Parkersburg, W. Va., for a long time as this is the place where a long distance telephone call to a Chillicothe, Ohio, restaurant located a lost pocketbook containing all their funds. Through the assistance of the local long distance telephone operators they were able to locate the lost pocketbook, even though the couple did not know the name of the restaurant or where it was located.

HUSBANDMAN ADVISES ON HOG FEEDING METHODS

Experiments show that the use of supplemental feed for hogs will reduce the total pounds of feed needed for 100 pounds of gain, and with hog prices rising, G. C. Herring, animal husbandman, Virginia Agricultural Extension Division, suggests that farmers can make better profits if they follow good management practices.

When corn is fed alone, it takes 630 pounds to produce 100 pounds of gain on pigs fed in dry lot. But the experimenters have found that feeding 40 pounds of tankage makes it possible to reduce the corn to around 400 pounds and still get the 100 pounds of gain.

Milk is our best protein supplement, Herring says, and two to three quarts per head per day is sufficient for a pig for weaning time to market weight. If milk is not available, four-tenths of a pound of fish-meal or tankage, or one-half a pound of 40 percent supplement, may be used.

Although the grains are basic in hog rations, they have different feeding values. A hundred pounds of wheat is worth more than a hundred of corn, by about 7 percent; but ground barley has only about 92 percent as much feeding value as corn, pound for pound. As pointed out, all grains need to be supplemented, as they lack muscle and bone building material.

A pig is capable of doing an excellent job of balancing his own ration if provided with palatable feeds. In this part of China they may be mixed and put in the feeder, it is better to place grains in one compartment and the supplemental feed in another. As the pig develops, a smaller percentage of protein in the feed is needed; and, if allowed to do so, the pig will make proper adjustment for this change himself.

Through pigs that are provided with some protein of animal origin and are on pasture may need no additional minerals, those under less favorable conditions should have a mineral mixture. Three parts ground limestone, three parts bone meal and one part salt is a satisfactory mineral mixture. This may be put in the feed at the rate of 2 pounds of the mixture to 100 pounds of feed; or it may be fed separately in a self-feeder or trough, preferably kept under cover.

Often, our thoughts go wandering to the grave, not far away, where lies the sweetest memory, that will "never" fade away.

Rest in peace, dear one your work on earth is ended,
Sweetly sleep your race is run,

OIL FOR THE LAMPS OF CHINA

Alice Hobart

"Oil for the Lamps of China", written by Alice Hobart, was published by the Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis, Indiana. In this story, Alice Hobart gives us a vivid and natural picture of the daily life led by that cultured and peace-loving race, the Chinese.

The main character, Stephen Chase, was sent by an oil company to sell their product to the people in the poverty-stricken parts of China. Back in America, he leaves a beautiful but selfish and thoughtless girl. They had planned to be married when Stephen got his vacation, but on the day of their rendezvous he received a telegram stating that she no longer loved him because there was someone else.

Naturally he was very heartbroken, and that night while he was in a restaurant, he was attracted by a plain but fascinating girl, who makes him forget entirely the girl back home. Finding that they have a great deal in common, they are quietly married, and he buys a little cottage near his work.

After suffering many defeats and discomforts, Stephen is rewarded for his services by a promotion, and he is sent to a better part of China. There are a few Americans there, and it is not so lonely. He makes good here, but just as he is at the peak of success, the inhabitants become plagued with the dreaded disease cholera. Most of the people go away, but Stephen and his wife stay courageously behind in order to administer to the sick.

Finally the disease is conquered and Stephen and his wife go to America. They are very glad to be back home, but find themselves longing for China. Soon after they go back to make their permanent home in China.

This is a story of true love and unconquerable courage, filled with sadness and hardships. It is like the soul of China, sad and pitiful, but as unconquerable as the roaring seas.

I would recommend Alice Hobart's "Oil for the Lamps of China" to anyone who is interested in a story filled with emotions and adventure.

This book may be borrowed from the Ruffner-Carnegie Library.

NORMA SHEARER, ROBERT TAYLOR IN PITT'S HIT!

The new romantic and dramatic team of Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor makes its first film appearance in "Escape", picturization of the Ethel Vance best-seller which opens Monday and Tuesday, February 10 and 11 at the Pitt's Theatre for a two day engagement.

Surrounding these two stars is a "name" cast of almost unprecedented brilliance, including Conrad Veditz, star of European films; silent film star, Nazimova; Felix Bressart and Albert Bassermann, who were outstanding figures of the Continental stage; Philip Dorn, young Dutch leading man; Bonita Granville, Edgar Barriar, Elsa Bassermann and Blanche Yurka.

Miss Shearer, who last scored in "The Women", now appears in the much-coveted role of Countess von Treck, American by birth but European by choice, who finds herself much against her will involved in the desperate attempt of American artist Mark Preysing to rescue his ex-actress mother, Emmy Ritter, from a concentration camp where she has been sentenced to execution. As Preysing, Taylor is given a characterization even more dramatic than that of his Capt. Cronin in "Waterloo Bridge".

Nazimova returns to the screen for the first time in fifteen years as Emmy Ritter. Conrad Veditz portrays the General, lover of the Countess and ultimate menace to Emmy's escape. Bressart is the stubborn but loyal family servant, Fritz; Bassermann the aged and fearful attorney, Henning, who refuses to help Mark; Dorn is Dr. Ditten, concentration camp physician who makes it possible for Emmy to be carried out in a coffin; Bonita Granville is Ursula, leader among the Countess's school-girls; Blanche Yurka portrays the brutal prison nurse. Mervyn LeRoy, who filmed "Waterloo Bridge", directed "Escape".

BLONDELL, POWELL STAR IN GAGA COMEDY FILM

Billings and cooings, interspersed with bickerings and snickerings, bliss punctured by the throwing arm of a wife who doesn't miss, a dotting husband emitting a note of agony when sister-in-law comes to stay for a while and occupies the other twin bed—that's just about what to expect in the way of marital goings-on in Paramount's new comedy-drama, "I Want a Divorce", opening Wednesday February 12, at the Pitt's Theatre, starring Joan Blondell and Dick Powell.

As might be gathered, the result of this state of affairs is embodied in the title of the picture, but that's getting ahead of several important things. One is that Joan and Dick are supported by a grand cast including Gloria Dickson, Frank Fay, Jessie Ralph and Conrad Nagel. And another is that Joan and Dick, who are happily married in real life, are extraordinarily well cast as a pair of young people who marry, live happily, and then face the problem of divorce.

To buckle down to the story of the picture for a while, it tells how Joan and Dick meet while testifying at the divorce action of Joan's sister, played by lovely blonde Gloria Dickson. Joan hates what she has done—helped her sister gain a divorce—and tells Dick so.

Joan goes to live with her sister. She becomes fed up with her sister's friends, happens to meet Dick one night. The two young people get along very well. After Dick has passed his bar exams, they're married, and settle down to live on a small income.

They go along in a blissful state for a while, their happiness disturbed only by the usual marital pranks, such as wifey reading his old love letters, starting a dispute about where he was on a certain night a long time ago.

All this leads to a climax when Dick, admonished by his wife never to consider becoming a divorce lawyer, does become one to help out an old friend, Frank Fay. Dick attains a reputation as a specialist in divorce cases, and there's plenty more hilarity and misunderstanding when Dick becomes so busy getting divorces for his clients that he has no time for his wife.

A picture of this nature, with all its emphasis on horseplay and good-natured fooling, necessarily demands well-paced, artful direction, and if the previous efforts of Ralph Murphy are any criterion, moviegoers can expect a fast-moving, cleverly handled picture in "I Want a Divorce".

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

He doth execute the judgment of the fatherless and widow, and loveth the stranger, in giving his food and raiment—Deut. 10:18.

MR. CONNER WILL CONTINUE TO REPRESENT US

It is with pleasure that we receive confirmation from Hon. E. R. Conner, of Manassas, that he will be a candidate this summer for re-nomination by the Democratic Party for the office of Delegate to the General Assembly of Virginia from Prince William and Stafford Counties.

Not in many years have we been more ably represented at Richmond than at the last Session, where Mr. Conner not only vigorously and effectively cared for the interests and welfare of the counties which he represented, but also rendered distinguished service to the State.

Rarely has a Delegate in his first term of office received the recognition accorded our present representative. Generally a new legislator has to find his way around during his first term, reaching his real usefulness in subsequent sessions, but Mr. Conner immediately received the consideration accorded veteran members of the House. Throughout the Session he was one of the most prominent and dynamic members of the Assembly, exhibiting an unusual ability of getting things done which seemed to be almost impossible under the pressure of a crowded calendar.

It is certain, therefore, that if Mr. Conner could do so well on his first mission to Richmond in our behalf, his second term will be marked with even more distinguished accomplishment in getting for us what we want, and deserve to have, at the hands of our State legislature.

In view of the universal satisfaction which exists in Prince William and Stafford Counties and the general recognition of What is the American System of Chartered Banking?

• Briefly it is 15,000 banks such as ours — most of them owned by local stockholders — each of them serving its community with the sincerity and helpfulness that comes with close association and common interests.

• It is a democratic system — supervised by the government but controlled by local owners. It is a good system — time-tested and proved — and we hope that it may long survive as a shining example of democracy at work.

NATIONAL BANK OF MANASSAS

Member of The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

his legislative record, there is little likelihood that he will have Democratic opposition, if, indeed, any opposition at all, even from the minority Party.

The condition of affairs in the world are not improving as the months go by, and there is every possibility that by the time the next regular session of the General Assembly of Virginia is called we will scarcely be thinking at all in terms of partisan politics. We will be concerned with National Defense, and it is certain that in Mr. Conner, we will have a tried and true Virginian of long inherited ideals, who will stand solidly for pure Americanism and most vigorously oppose all alien and Fifth Column efforts to cripple the security of Virginia and the Nation.

G. WALTER MAPP

We record with regret the passing of Hon. G. Walter Mapp, chairman of the State Fisheries Commission, and twice unsuccessful candidate for the Governorship of Virginia.

In his death Virginia loses an able and public spirited citizen who had the courage of his convictions and who often lost rather because the public had not yet accepted the basic ideas involved, than from any real danger in his proposals.

Mr. Mapp will probably longest be remembered for the able fight he made for the Governorship in 1925, largely on the issue with Mr. Byrd of bond issue roads versus pay-as-you-go.

Virginians were still old fashioned enough in those days to be unwilling to saddle heavy public debts upon succeeding generations, but who can say that he would not have received a more gratifying endorsement in these days of apparently unlimited expansion of the national public debt?

Also Mr. Mapp was widely condemned for his "quart-month" liquor law. He was too liberal! Yet today there is no legal limit to liquor purchase.

A successful politician interprets public reactions regardless of personal convictions. The unsuccessful politician may be more honorable, but may lose because his viewpoint is not in mesh with the geared thought of the general public. The fortunate politician is the one whose honest convictions happen to be tuned to the prevailing trend of public opinion.

At an opportune time Mr. Mapp's ideas might have captured the public approval. He was just politically unlucky, but he has constantly grown in the esteem of his fellow Virginians until his passing becomes recognized as an irreparable loss, particularly to tidewater Virginia where his services to the Commonwealth were especially valued.

COUNTY AGENTS COLUMN

LIME AND FERTILIZER OFFERED FARMERS FOR AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY OFFERED FARMERS BY FARM PROGRAM TO BUILD UP SOIL FERTILITY.

At a meeting of Prince William County AAA Committeemen at the County Agent's office, Wednesday, ways and means bringing about greater participation in the 1941 Agricultural Conservation Program and for assisting farmers in planning to earn their maximum farm allowances were discussed.

Although participation was large and benefits high as compared with other Virginia counties, the discussion brought out the fact that the Prince William farmers co-operating in the program could have earned an additional $16,164 in benefit payments had all taken full advantage of the help offered toward soil improvement.

The provisions of the 1941 are particularly attractive for the non-commercial wheat farmer. By special permission of the State AAA Committee, all non-commercial wheat farmers of Prince William County are permitted to obtain their full farm allowances in the form of ground limestone 20 per superphosphate fertilizer (the lime to be used anywhere on the farm and the fertilizer on pastures or meadows) by paying in to the county office only 5 per cent of the actual cost of the fertilizer or ground limestone. This 5 per cent is to take care of estimated administrative expenses. Any farm, regardless of how small it may be, may have 10 tons of ground limestone delivered directly to the field by truck or 3700 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate delivered to the railroad station, if the wheat for 1941 harvest does not exceed the usual acreage and the materials are applied to the land not later than June 30.

The total cash outlay is only $1.37 for 10 tons of ground limestone or $1.39 for 3700 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate fertilizer. Larger farms may obtain proportionally larger tonnage of lime and fertilizer by paying only 5 per cent of the actual cost of the materials.

Approximately $60,000 are available to Prince William farmers in the form of ground limestone, fertilizer or cash benefit payments, if all farmers take full advantage of the golden opportunity offered by the Agricultural Conservation Program to build up soil fertility between now and July 1, 1941, the close of the present Agricultural Conservation Program year.

C., president of the National Tuberculosis Association, will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Virginia Tuberculosis Association, which will take place in Richmond on March 13, J. Vaughan Gary, president of the organization, announced this week.

Dr. McCain, who is superintendent of the North Carolina Sanatorium for the Treatment of Tuberculosis, has chosen for his topic of discussion "How We may Care for Our Advanced Tuberculosis Patients", a subject which is serious problem in Virginia, according to Mr. Gary. "The cases of advanced tuberculosis patients presents an acute situation in Virginia," Mr. Gary said. "Of the large number who reach our sanatorium only a very few are in the early stages of the disease".

Other speakers at the annual meeting will include Mrs. Florence B. Breed, field adviser of the National Tuberculosis Association, who will speak on "The Program of a Tuberculosis Association", and Mr. Elwood Street, director of the Richmond Community Fund, whose subjects will be "The Tuberculosis Association in a Community Welfare Program".

One of the features of the convention will be, Mr. Gary announced, the award of two cups to affiliated organizations which made the largest percentage of gain in the 1940 Christmas Seal Sale Campaign. One award will be made to a county or small city, and the other to a city of more than 20,000 population.

MANY VIRGINIANS SEND AID TO ENGLAND

Residents of nearly thirty towns in Virginia are represented among the contributors to the American Committee for Defense of British Homes, 10 Warren Street, New York City, which is collecting small arms, ammunition, steel helmets, binoculars and stop-watches for the defense of British civilians in the event of invasion, according to C. Suydam Cutting, chairman of the committee.

The value of gifts received from Americans in all parts of the nation whose sympathy for the British cause has prompted them to contribute to the committee has reached well over $120,000, Mr. Cutting said.

Noting that contributions to the committee have been received from more than 500 communities in 46 States, he said that one of the cities from which the greatest response has been received is Roanoke which has accounted for 40 individual contributions.

"Many Americans wonder what they can do to aid Britain", Mr. Cutting said. "The American Committee for Defense of British Homes is an answer to that question, for thousands of Americans have firearms which, though impractical for military purposes, would be invaluable in the hands of a British civilian in defending himself against marauders. I wish to thank those citizens of Virginia who have responded so nobly to our appeal, and I hope that many of their neighbors will be inspired by their example to give us further help. The crisis is not over".

Mr. Cutting said that all contributions received by the Committee were being shipped promptly to England, adding that 225 cases have already been sent to the Civilian Committee for Defense of Homes in Birmingham, England, which is distributing the materials in England.

At the present time, the Committee is making a concerted drive for 5,000 stop-watches for the use of British roof-spotters in timing the speed of enemy aircraft, and last week made its first shipment of 100. The Committee also has shipped 1,000 pairs of binoculars for the use of the spotters.

Of the 222 local chapters of the Committee located throughout the country, Virginia is covered by three. The chairmen heading the chapters are Dr. W. W. S. Buter, Medical Arts Building, Roanoke; S. H. McVitty, Ridgewood Farm, Salem, and C. L. Snidow, Lynchburg.

COLORS GUIDE TELEPHONE REPAIRMEN IN SPlicing INTRICATE CABLE WIRES

If you want to be an installer or repairman of telephone switchboard cable, it might be wise to make certain you aren't color blind because colors play an important part in this job of maintaining equipment. Each of the hundreds, sometimes thousands, of wire circuits in the cable has its individual color or combination of colors in the insulation about the wires. These colors give the wire experts ready visual means of distinguishing one line from another. In addition, electrical tests make absolutely certain that the wires are in the right places.

According to the color code, used by telephone forces in all parts of the world, the circuits in the cable are indicated from the center outward by combinations of blue, orange, green, brown and slate, in that sequence. With these colors, however, three others—white, red and black—are used in that order to form the many combinations that may be used to distinguish the multitude of wires in a particular cable.

Some 339 of these combinations, for example, are used in Bell System switchboard cables of various sizes made by the Western Electric Company, manufacturing and supply organization of the system. Switchboard cable, of course, is but one of many types made by the company for connecting central offices, subscriber lines and long distance points.

Telephone Scientists Learn Odd Facts About Sound

Bell Laboratories scientists, in the course of continued research into the intricacies of telephone communication, have uncovered many amazing facts about sound.

Bell technicians have learned, for instance, that 500 people talking continuously for an entire year would produce an amount of energy which, if transformed into heat, would be about enough to heat a cup of tea.

A somewhat similar analogy can be drawn from the telephone transmitter itself. In the transmitter are tiny capsules of hard coal. It would take 500 of these minute particles to weigh a pound. The capsules serve as the translator of sound waves into electrical waves in the telephone system and do not, of course, burn. But if only one of them did burn, telephone scientists know that the amount of heat resulting would be sufficient to produce speech for about 15 years.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my dear cousin, Agnes Taylor who departed this life one month ago today, January 4, 1941.

Her home is sad and lonely,
We see the vacant chair.
With aching hearts they have laid away
The dear one to go up there.

The golden gates were opened,
A gentle voice said come,
And with farewells unspoken,
She calmly entered home.

Short and sudden was the call,
Of our dear cousin, who was loved by all.

The blow was heavy the shock severe,
We little thought her death so near.

The world may change from year to year,
Our life from day to day,
But the love and memory of you,
Shall never pass away.

Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days.

Sincere and kind in heart and mind,
Oh, what a beautiful memory she left behind.

By her devoted cousin,
Freida Hoffman.

OCOQUAN
AND VICINITY

Mrs. Douglas Calhoun of Lorton entertained several of the younger women of the community at bridge at her home on Tuesday.

Mrs. Thomas F. Joyce of Occoquan spent several days visiting relatives and friends in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. B. W. Brunt of Occoquan has returned home after spending a couple of weeks vacation in Southern Maryland. She is now in condition to fight her weight in wild cats.

There will be a dance at Lorton School on February 14, sponsored by the P. T. A. All are welcomed to a very pleasant evening with us.

There will be a meeting of the Occoquan High School Alumni on Thursday evening, February 13. Come all and learn what your association is doing for you and for the school.

In the report on Directors for the Fairfax County Firemen's Association Directors for the year 1941, the names of the TWO appointed from the O-W-L-Fire Department of Occoquan were omitted. The two from Occoquan are: Messrs. John A. Musselman and Elmer Riley. With regard to the Prince William County Board of Supervisors not giving any financial aid to the Occoquan Company; it may be rightly stated that most of those members have signified their willingness to grant this company financial aid; but a small minority raise such an objection that nothing has been done to give this company county financial aid. The Supervisors from the lower section of the county would gladly grant the necessary financial assistance, but have always been blocked by a few in the upper section of the county.

We trust and hope those will see the light soon. There is no doubt but that all the insurance companies would reduce the rates of insurance in the entire county if we had proper fire protection. It is up to the members of the Board of Supervisors to assist in getting the county this proper FIRE PROTECTION.

All young men interested in talking a first aid course are informed that Mr. John A. Musselman of Occoquan will start such a course in the near future. He is desirous that all who desire to take the course contact him so he will know how many to provide for, and to make the proper arrangements for the meetings. It is his intention to hold SCHOOL two nights a week, of about TWO hours each. Those who satisfactorily pass the course, will be given certificates showing they have qualified. This is a worthy project, especially for young men. Being qualified in first aid, may be the cause of you saving a life, and perhaps many lives in the course of your existence. Mr. Musselman recently graduated and is fully qualified to instruct classes in first aid. He is to be commended in volunteering to give his time teaching others.

The young people of Pohick Church and Community are starting what is going to be known as "A Mite Night", with the first get together meeting on Thursday evening, February 13, at 8 p. m. Those meetings are to be social affairs for all the folks in the community to get together and have a social evening. There will be entertainments arranged, and refreshments will be served. There will be a small admission fee. Every person in the is welcomed to those meetings. Those who may be away from their own homes, are specially invited to come and get better acquainted with our community. We believe such a social gathering, will be very beneficial to all who attend, and will also bring community spirit and benefits to those who may not be able to attend very regular.

The Pohick Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. T. F. Joyce in Occoquan on Wednesday, the 5th. There was a very large attendance. Those good women are doing excellent work, and they all seem to thoroughly enjoy it. May God reward them for their good work.

TRAGEDY OF THE MAINE

Twinkling lights flashed fitfully over the waters of Havana Harbor where the U. S. Maine lay peacefully at anchor on the night of February 15, 1898.

Over the quiet reaches of the harbor came the musical notes of "Taps", destined never again to be sounded by the young marine who was performing one of his last official duties for the day.

Suddenly a terrific explosion all but disintegrated the vessel. Death, agony, horror, flames, smoke, gas and water took their toll as the forward part of the ship catapulted upward in a searing flame. More than 250 men lost their lives.

In the moments that followed, discipline was superb. Every able-bodied member of the crew did his part in rescuing those not fatally injured, even though threatening flames and minor explosions still harassed the warship.

Private William Anthony, of the Marine Detachment, at the time of the explosion was the orderly of Captain Charles D. Sigbee, who was in his cabin. The lights were instantly obscured and the compartment filled with smoke. There was immediate and intense darkness.

Although he knew that the ship was about to sink, Anthony groped his way through the darkened passage of the doomed vessel to find his captain. Instinct urged him to seek his own safety. The call to duty proved stronger.

Eventually he stumbled into Captain Sigbee in the darkness and said: "Sir, I have to report that the ship has been blown up and is sinking".

until the ship was abandoned.

Small wonder that Captain Sigbee wrote later that Anthony's action was a noble one that he considered an honor to call to the attention of the Navy Department.

LAST VETERAN DIES

IN SOLDIERS' HOME

"Colonel" John Wesley Blizard, a former courier for General Stonewall Jackson and the last survivor in the Confederate Soldiers Home in Richmond, is dead.

The 97-year-old soldier took part in many of the major battles of the War Between the States, and had his horse shot from under him at Second Manassas. He was at Chancellorsville when his hero, Jackson, was killed, and recalled his appearance vividly enough to criticize the statue, unveiled at Manassas Battlefield last August, which he declared made the general look "about sixty years old".

Following Colonel Blizard's death, Governor Price announced that the Budget Division would investigate the present status of the veterans' home, which under an act of the General Assembly passed in 1934 would become the R. E. Lee Camp Confederate Memorial Park when no longer needed as a soldiers' home.

Bell Laboratories Play Important Part In Progress Of World Science

Talking Pictures, Television And Transmission Of Photos By Wire Cited As Outstanding Discoveries Of Research Organization

Sixty-five years ago there was no telephone, but there was a telephone laboratory. In a corner of a Boston workshop Alexander Graham Bell was investigating speech and hearing and was devising apparatus and methods for the electrical communication of intelligence. The outgrowth of these laboratory experiments was the telephone and the world-wide system we have today.

From two men—Bell and Thomas A. Watson—the telephone laboratory personnel has grown to thousands; from a small space to large buildings; from simple tools to the complete equipment which modern scientific progress has made possible.

A review of the activities of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, research organization of the Bell Telephone System, for the past fifteen years shows that in 1925 your neighborhood movie theatre was a palace of silence. The Laboratories were responsible for the talking motion picture. The Bell System served, directly, about half as many telephones as today. Long distance calls totaled half the present number and were much costlier. Radio network broadcasting hadn't approached its present dimensions. The first commercial transatlantic radiotelephone call was yet to be made. Air mail pilots were bumping along in the clouds, but operation of luxury passenger airliners in constant communication with ground forces was a job for a later date.

Among Bell Laboratories discoveries was the transmission of pictures, announced by the Bell System in 1925, and which has had such a profound effect on journalistic methods. In 1926 two-way transatlantic radiotelephony became a fact. A year later, the first commercial transatlantic call was made to London. That infant scientific marvel, television, also was announced in 1927. Later came aircraft radio development, which has been so important in the evolution of this newest branch of the transportation industry. At about the same time came ship-to-shore and coastwise radiotelephone service for all kinds of craft—from ocean liners to fishing boats. The Bell Telephone Laboratories were literally taking telephone service to land, sea and air.

Still another of the accomplishments in which the Laboratories has played an important part, has been the extension and growth of teletype service. Aeronautical authorities and police have found teletype networks particularly useful in their activities.

The developments of the Bell Telephone Laboratories which relate to ordinary telephone service have been just as significant, if not as spectacular as those previously mentioned. For example, there have been many new types of power plant equipment, some of it made necessary by other laboratories' inventions such as the coaxial cable and carrier systems.

Such a record made in the relatively short time of fifteen years is striking proof of the tremendously significant part played by the Bell Telephone Laboratories in the development, improvement and expansion of the nation's telephone industry, and in the world of science in general.

12th INFANTRY VISITS BATTLEFIELD HERE

The Twelfth U. S. Infantry, stationed at Arlington Cantonment, visited the Manassas National Battlefield Park on January 24 and 25. The trip was arranged by Lieut. Col. E. V. Behan, and an advance visit made by Captains J. D. Lawlor and J. M. Churchill and Lieutenants W. M. Preston and R. Moushegian. Forty-eight officers and 457 men composed the two detachments. In both cases the battalions carried their own cooking facilities, and ate lunch in the park. With the assistance of National Park Service personnel the troops followed on foot the course of the two battles. It is of interest to note that Col. Franklin, of the Twelfth Infantry, was present at the First Battle of Manassas, and that the regiment was in the Second Battle.

"MISS BERTHA"

Miss Bertha Gray Robinson, 71, long a well known figure in Orange life, and editor of the Orange Observer for nearly 50 years, died in the University hospital, Charlottesville, to which institution she was admitted as a patient January 8, following a fall in her home in which she sustained a broken hip.

The death of "Miss Bertha", as she was universally known, came as a shock as well as a surprise to the community, where her condition was not regarded as serious.

Exceedingly active to the last, Miss Bertha had traveled extensively in Virginia as well as other places, and was widely known throughout the state, particularly in the newspaper fraternity. Some 20 years ago she completed a term of 22 years as secretary of the Virginia Press Association. Her paper was considered a link with the past. She was commissioned by Governor Westmoreland Davis in 1921 to represent Virginia at an international meeting held in Honolulu.

Funeral services were conducted from the Preddy funeral home Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m., conducted by Rev. Chas. V. Covell, rector of St. Thomas' Church, followed by burial in Graham Cemetery. Pallbearers were R. L. Blankenship, J. H. Gillum, T. G. Taliaferro, H. C. Loneragan, Severn Nottingham, jr., and Earl Thayer.
