DARDEN URGES AID FOR BRITAIN

Member of House Military Committee Addresses Firemen.

Tuesday night was as President Coker described it, a "red letter day" for the Manassas Volunteer Fire Department. On this occasion there were present Hon. Colgate Darden, Congressman from the Second District of Virginia and a member of the U. S. House Committee on Military Affairs; also Prince William's representatives in the General Assembly, Hon. W. D. Medley, of the State Senate and Hon. E. R. Conner, member of the General Assembly from Stafford and Prince William Counties. Other noted honor guests were Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the 16th Judicial Circuit and State Fire Marshal F. G. Givens; from visiting companies; Washington, D. C., Fire Chief Stephen Porter and his aide, C. J. Pfeil; from Occoquan, President R. S. Hall and Chief Musselman; from Orange, Chief E. H. Rouse and Ass't. Chief Herndon; from Culpeper, Chief James M. Duncum, Jr., and Ass't. Chief Longbeam and from Warrenton, Chief W. G. Sedonstein and Lt. H. C. Fisher.

After Bruce Hynson and his associates had furnished the swiftest kind of a meal (as was the usual phrase used throughout the evening), President George Coker arose with his usual set of cheery expressions, the first of which was the introduction of Fire Chief J. Arthur Vetter, (who really made a speech this time) who in turn introduced the officers and men of the department (names at end of this article). Arthur showed a bit of wit, also, and got back at his President very neatly.

Taking over again, Toastmaster Coker (as he will now be termed) cited the achievements of the department in the past year. He stated that 44 rural and 29 urban fires during this period, in almost all of which the department had been quite successful or the fires had not been serious. He emphasized the lack of a water supply at most of the calls. He expressed great pleasure in the fire department and satisfaction at its record.

Mayor Harry P. Davis was then called upon the render remarks of welcome to guests which he did quite effectively. He praised the department for its work, especially at a recent fire in the suburbs when a fire practically out of control was held to the first floor of the building. President Coker, speaking again, gave thanks to Senator Medley and Delegate Conner for having legislation enacted giving members of the fire department police authority while answering and returning from fire calls.

The high point of the evening had then arrived when the toastmaster called on Commonwealth's Attorney William Hill Brown, Jr., to introduce the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Darden, who certainly does not look the part, is a veteran of the last World War, and he referred to conditions in Europe from the point of one with an experience eye. Coming at a serious moment, his address was naturally tinged accordingly.

He built up by use of staccato phrases and colorful word pictures, the world of today as it has developed in the past twenty-two years. He showed very graphically the direct relationship between the retreat of the Democracies in their efforts at sincere world peace and the advance of the world's greatest threat to civilization in modern times.

Repeatedly he stressed the fact of the gravity of the times, and that although the Americans are not warlike that their hope of peace lay in preparedness, both in production of armament and in training of effective military resistance. Repeatedly did he stress the fact that our surest resistance at this point lay in supplying England with the tools of war not in restricted quantities but without limit.

He described the methods by which the great Democracies put disarmament into operation and how territorial integrity of certain nations was solemnly guaranteed. How, after digestion had been made from these solemn pledges, that the great Democracies of Europe still accepted pledges from the totalitarian powers only to be driven to the point of warfare. How international law had been disregarded until today, the United States has no international law on which it which (Continued on page 6.)

FOR HOUSE OF DELEGATES

To the Democratic Voters of the Stafford-Prince William Legislative District;

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the House of Delegates from the Counties of Prince William and Stafford, Virginia, subject to the August 1941 Democratic Primary.

I wish in this connection to call your attention to my record during the last session of the General Assembly, with which you are familiar. I trust that it met with your approval, and, in the sincere hope that it did, I earnestly solicit your support in the coming primary election. In the event that I am again nominated and elected, I shall endeavor to the utmost to do all that is possible to promote the interests of the two counties represented by me.

Sincerely,
E. R. Conner.

MANASSAS HIGH IN FIRST PLACE

Basket Ball Honors Shared with Culpeper.

The Manassas High School boys' team, by beating the Culpeper team, are now sharing first place in the Virginia Literary and Athletic League of Virginia.

The local leather tossers put on as fine an exhibition of basket ball as any of the best previous teams. The Culpeper boys came to Manassas with the idea that they would continue their fine record of ten wins and one defeat. The Manassas boys made up their minds that this was the nite and proceeded to show the fans just how it was to be done. The local lads put up an excellent defense, allowing the visitors only two points in the closing seconds of the first quarter. They kept up their fine defensive work in the second quarter giving up only eight points in the entire first half and they collected seventeen points for themselves.

The second half started with a bang with the Manassas boys keeping up the hot pace that they set up. The team played as a unit, taking advantage of every break in the game and making every shot count. The starting quintet finished the game without a substitution.

The boys played a fast clean game making only eight fouls. They made seven out of fourteen free throws. The Culpeper boys played a swell game and displayed a good brand of sportsmanship.

Paul Kline was high scorer with four field goals and three from the free throw line. Robinson scored 8 points, Broadus 7 points, and Bowers 6 points. Haydon played a swell floor game, keeping his team on the go at all times and keeping up the fine defense. Johnson was high score for Culpeper with 8 points.

The High School lassies put on the some high class performance against the local girls town team. The high school girls playing one of their best games of the season walked away with the game to the tune of 33-17. The high school forwards put on a swell passing exhibition keeping possession of the ball most of the game. Frances Beeton was high scorer making 17 points, as many as the entire town team itself. T. Swank scored 10 points and N. Parrish collected 5 points. Brooks scored 15 of her team's seventeen points.

Coch Saunders used his second and third string players in the game following every member on the squad to participate. A. Swank, B. Parrish and P. Shippe did a swell job on the defense work.

Remember folks we have another game here this Friday nite at the high school gymnasium at 7:30. The Haymarket "Red Devils" will be the visitors and two fine performances are expected.

On Tuesday nite, February 18, the Falmouth teams will visit Manassas for another home game.

ST. VALENTINE DANCE

The P. T. A. of Lorton is sponsoring a St. Valentine's dance at Lorton School on February 14, from 9 to 1.

JOHN B. LYNN

Mr. John B. Lynn, age 87, died Sunday morning after several weeks' illness. Mr. Lynn had been a resident of this community for many years. A short service and interment was held at the Manassas Cemetery at 2 p. m. yesterday.

Walton Moore Is Eulogized in Halls of Congress

(From Congressional Record).

The Late R. Walton Moore: Mr. SMITH of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, it is my sad duty to announce with profound sorrow the death this morning of my predecessor in this body, the Honorable R. Walton Moore, late Assistant Secretary of State, and at the time of his death counselor of the State Department.

Few men since the founding of the Republic have been privileged to render more distinguished service to their country. Regarded for the past 50 years, as one of the most distinguished and able lawyers in Virginia, he took a leading part in the drafting of the present constitution of the Old Dominion. He served in this body as one of its most popular and leading Members for a period of 12 years. After his voluntary retirement to private life he was soon called again to serve the Nation as Assistant Secretary of State.

His outstanding achievements in that capacity, with his national reputation as a great lawyer, led inevitably to his selection as counselor of the State Department when that position was created.

His courtly manners, his personal charm, and retiring modesty won the admiration and affection of all who knew him.

No righteous cause was ever too trivial to engage his talented championship.

No task, however great ever daunted his stupendous intellect.

His passing leaves a vacant spot in the hearts of Virginians that will not soon be filled.

His family has lost a devoted brother, his church a devote and humble supporter, his community a beloved neighbor and friend his State one of her most illustrious sons, and the Nation a diplomat and statesman whose loss in this time of great crisis cannot be measured in feeble words.

It can be appropriately said of his passing, in the language of the poet, that he sank to rest—Like the sun at the close of a summer day, Gold tint with the effulgence of a well-spent life.

Mr. LUTHER A. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, as one who served on the Foreign Affairs Committee with the Honorable R. Walton Moore, I want to corroborate what has been said so well by the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Smith).

Judge Moore was a great lawyer. He was a great man. He was a man of brilliant attainments and achievement, and he was most lovable in his character; and his country sustains a great loss in his passing, and I have lost a friend for whom I had admiration and an affectionate regard.

Mr. EATON. Mr. Speaker, I can hardly believe that Walton Moore is gone. For 16 years he was one of the dearest friends I had in the world.

I admired him and trusted him as did all who knew him. As a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee he stood for everything that was American. His keen mind, his wide learning, and sound judgment gave to his opinions on public questions unusual force and influence. His going removes from public service in this country one of the noblest characters and one who was most faithful to his duties in private and public. In profound sorrow I lay this wreath of affection upon his grave.

SUPT. HALL URGES CONSOLIDATION

Says Small High Schools Are Too Expensive.

Dr. Sidney B. Hall, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, in submitting his annual report to Governor Price, this week stresses the necessity of consolidating smaller high schools and recommends drastic steps toward reducing Virginia's 1,925 one-room schools. He stated that there are 1,432 one-room schools in Virginia which still teach all seven elementary grades.

Dr. Hall states in this report that it is generally recognized that the small high school with enrollments of less than approximately 300 could not operate successfully, except at prohibitive cost. In consequence he recommends that school authorities make capital outlays only in terms of the proposed consolidation program, and that where facilities must be provided in existing small high schools they may be of an emergency or temporary nature only.

"We do not need more school buildings," Dr. Hall declared, "but we need a drastic reorganization in our school housing program, involving consolidation of elementary and high schools, transportation and space facilities in school buildings in which to house modern and comprehensive education programs. It is therefore recommended that capital outlays only be made in terms of such programs."

"Every effort should be made," Dr. Hall urges, to consolidate small high schools into larger units.

Dr. Hall concludes that in terms of work done and the present purchasing power of money that teachers' salaries have remained practically stationary since 1910.

FAMOUS SON OF FAIRFAX IS DEAD

Former Congressman Moore Universally Beloved.

To write the obituary of a man like R. Walton Moore, first citizen of Fairfax County, is no easy matter. Few men in this State have ever attained the heights which he reached. His fixed and simple purpose in life might be epitomized by the fact that he died within a very few hundred yards from the spot where he was born.

Thomas Moore, a veteran of both the Mexican War and the War between the States, and Hannah Morris, of New York State, and a descendant Lewis Morris, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, were his parents. Born February 26, 1859, he had almost reached his 82nd birthday. A severe spell of illness contracted during the Christmas holidays weakened him to the extent that a second spell went into pneumonia which he could not resist although he put up such a consistent struggle for life that the doctors were hopeful till the very end. With him at that time were his devoted sisters, Margaret and Helen. Two sisters, Miss Jennie Morris and Mrs. Susie Dorris preceded him in death. An other sister, Mrs. Edith Keith, widow of Thomas Randolph Keith, was not in Fairfax at the time.

Studying law at the University of Virginia after a high school course at Episcopal High, he began his practice of law the early 80's in the building recently put into service as the District Office of the Virginia Public Service Company. It was while he was here that he served a term in the State Senate. He held no elective office of note after that until 1919 when he succeeded the late Congress C. C. Carlin who resigned at the beginning of a term. He retired from this office almost twelve years, later, having acquired international fame and friendships.

While a bachelor himself he was quite fond of children, and early took an interest in school affairs. The public school system of Virginia had its entire growth during his years of public service. He was on the Boards of Visitors at the University and also William and Mary. At the time he accepted the office which he held at the time of his death, he was a member of the State Board of Education.

No less was his acknowledged leadership in matters historical. Certainly no man in the county ever had the same grasp of the history of Northern Virginia from the days of Captain John Smith down to the present moment. He loved his native heather with a fervor that was almost a religion to him.

Perhaps his most loved story was that of Mosby's famous raid on Fairfax courthouse when he went into the Rectory with five men and carried off the boastful Union General Stoughton. He had a grasp of language that enabled him to shift from an international discussion to some simple topic that interested the community and created a great love for him by all the citizens of Fairfax County.

His generosity was also one of his outstanding attributes. No charitable, religious nor civic enterprise failed to receive his attention. Some of the earlier activities such as engineering, health, fire protection can all bear witness to this fact. He literally gave thousands for the benefit of humanity.

Shy and rather reserved, he was hardly a politician. In fact, these qualities sometimes impressed strangers that he was "snobbish", something that hurt him very much whenever he realized that this was felt.

He loved his church and he faithfully attended services there. For many years he was vestryman and cer-

NEW ROAD WORK IS PROGRESSING

Surface Conditions Excellent for This Period of Year.

On Monday morning it was the pleasure of the Journal reporter to take a spin through the upper county with County Engineer Staggs.

Everything was found in excellent shape except for some bumpy areas that can hardly be eliminated on untreated secondary roads, particularly in winter. Nothing impossible was noted anywhere, in fact nothing even bad to go through.

A trip to the quarry showed the origin of much of the material used in road construction in that section. There is one strata of a peculiar sedimentary country rock that can be picked with ease and rolled into place with the road roller. Lower down there is an igneous rock excellent for patching and concrete work.

Care must be used in the oil content on black top treatment to prevent oil bleaching by the too absorbent material or the resistant type that does not allow binding so well.

The base on the Fairfax portion of the Centerville road is one example of this, the oil having gone down into the base so thoroughly that not enough remains to prevent the surface from peeling up. This base was not local rock.

New work on Route 15 has been brought from Gilbert's Filling Station on the Lee Jackson Highway to not so far from Haymarket. The road passes near that town, and also near Hickory Grove, passing directly through Woolsey. The intersection with the Lee Highway will be at a point about three quarters of a mile east of the intersection of the present road from Manassas to Warrenton and the Lee Highway.

Route No. 234 is bent at Catharpin toward Route 15 and intersects at a point a short distance north of Haymarket. This is yet under construction.

Another item of interest to the school people is the fact that the Wellington Road to Gainesville will be surface treated all the way through so that the buses will have the best travel available this coming year when the Haymarket High School will be transferred to Manassas.

The Journal reporter hopes to have the pleasure of another such inspection tour in the early Spring when other new work in the county will be visited.

KIWANIS CLUB REPORTS ON 1940 ACTIVITIES

A report on the activities of the Manassas Kiwanis Club was made by President Frank Sigman at the regular meeting of the club on Friday evening. It was quite interesting and certainly quite complete.

Col. Hutchison and O. D. Waters got off some bits of humor and oratory, with gently barbed shafts.

For the first time the club attendance average last year dropped below 90 per cent and continued illness of members this year is holding it down so far.

Ray Ratcliffe and his musical gifts are greatly missed during that worthy's absence in Florida.

tainly a "pillar" in more ways than one.

The funeral was held in this same edifice on Monday afternoon, with hundreds in attendance. The august presence of cabinet officers, emissaries from other lands, state and local officials of Virginia gave a fitting tribute to this great man. The officiating ministers were the Rector of Truro Parish, the Rev. Gray Temple and Dr. A. C. Zabriske, dean of the Episcopal Seminary, and a friend of many years standing. The pallbearers were Hon. Francis P. Miller, Major Charles Poser, former State Senator John W. Rust, James Keith and M. Carter Hall, a former law partner.

Interment was in the Fairfax Cemetery which is surrounded by a handsome iron fence, a gift of the deceased. The boy scouts whom he loved and aided, acted as a guard of honor during the entire services. Local police handled the large crowd very efficiently.

TELEPHONE IMPROVEMENT

Expenditures amounting to approximately $250,000 for the construction and installation of telephone plant and equipment in the state of Virginia were authorized by the directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia at their January meeting in Richmond, according to an announcement by R. C. McCann, vice president and general manager.

Approximately $78,000 of the amount authorized will be used to provide additional exchange and toll facilities at Portsmouth, Ocean View, Hampton, Lee Hall and Yorktown, to care for the growth of telephone service at these points.

Nearly $87,000 will be spent to provide additional long distance lines in the section between Richmond and Roanoke to care for the increased number of calls over this route. Installation to a private branch exchange and associated equipment for one of the company's large subscribers will require the expenditure of $17,500.

CHAIRMAN MAKES STATE T. B. REPORT

Many Areas Have Not Yet Reported on Special Fund Effort

While scattered returns only are available from the counties and cities in Virginia, early reports indicate that the 1941 "Fight Infantile Paralysis" Campaign was the most successful in the history of these drives. State Chairman John Galleher said at headquarters this week.

Last year a total of approximately $25,000 was obtained for this cause. Mr. Galleher believes this amount will be exceeded in 1941 by several thousand dollars. Some post-campaign parties are scheduled during February in various sections of Virginia.

"I am very grateful," Mr. Galleher said, "to all who have helped us in the campaign—editors, local chairmen, field workers, speakers, a great army of co-operative, enthusiastic laborers in one of the most worthy of all causes. Each year, as we become better organized and more thoroughly acquainted with the compelling objectives of these campaigns, the greater measure of success we attain. Again, I thank all concerned for their splendid work."

It is interesting to note, Mr. Galleher said, that, according to a report from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, not a single case of this disease which came to the attention of the authorities last year went untreated. This means, he stated, that, through the medium of a steady flow of dimes, voluntarily donated, a scourge is being attacked on every front.

MY NAME IS ARAM

by

William Saroyan

"My Name Is Aram" is a very humorous book which was written by William Saroyan and published by Harcourt Brace, and Company.

This book is the story of Aram Garaghanian who was born in California. His people were Armenians and from them Aram learned the Armenian language. He spoke English also. Aram grew up like any other poor American boy. In many ways he is very much like Tom Sawyer, for he skipped school, sassed his teachers, fought his cousin in school.

Although this book does not have a plot, it is very entertaining. The book is written as fourteen stories, but the same characters reappear throughout the whole book. This makes the book seem like a novel.

One of the funniest stories in the whole book is the one about the pomegranate trees. Aram's uncle Melik tries to grow pomegranates on a desert. He spends all of his money for this foolish purpose. The pomegranates cannot be sold, and Aram and his uncle eat all of them.

Other stories which are very funny are "The Journey to Hunford", "The Fifty Yard Dash", and "A Circus".

In order to find out what these stories and all of the others are about, read "My Name Is Aram". It is really a good book and very different from any other book. It is very humorous, and good reading when you want something that will make you laugh and entertain you for a couple of hours.

One part of this book which would probably greatly interest the students of Osbourn High School in that they have probably faced a similar situation is the part quoted below.

"Certain Presbyterian ministers, however, sometimes looked into a sea of young faces and said: 'You are the future captains of industry, the future statesmen, and I might say, the future poets. This sort of talk always pleased me because I liked to imagine what sort of future captains of industry pals of mine like Jimmy Volta and Frankie Sansor were going to make'."

This book may be borrowed from the Ruffner-Carnegie Library.

—Lillian Hope.

THERE SHALL BE FLOWERS IN ENGLAND

by

Alice Boorman Williamson

There shall be flowers in England,
Rich-nurtured by the blood
Of those who came to trample
Our blossoms from the sod.

After the deadly lightning,
After the storm of steel,
Rain shall come down from heaven
To cleanse and bless and heal.

Their broken swords our plowshares,
We till our earth once more:
There shall be flowers in England—
And fairer than before!

MARINES AND MUSKETS

Accuracy of rifle fire has always been a specialty of the U. S. Marines, who have won their full share of prizes for skill on the rifle range and elsewhere.

But it is a far cry from the modern high-powered infantry rifle to the old-fashioned muskets, which also were used to good effect by the sea soldiers in the days of Old Ironsides and other sailing frigates.

A wide variety of small arms were used in the early days of the last century, including the musket, pistol, boarding-pike, cutlass, bayonet, knife, dirk, or tomahawk. Each weapon had its use in the days when war vessels often fought at close quarters.

The musket, however, was the weapon of the marines. It was usually of the flint-lock, muzzle-loading, smooth-bore type and fired a ball of from one to two ounces. It was fairly accurate at 100 yards, could inflict a fatal wound at 200 yards, and had diminishing degrees of effectiveness up to a quarter-mile.

While loading a musket the sea soldier had much more to do than to insert a cartridge clip and manipulate the bolt, as is the case with most of the infantry weapons today.

In those days he had to bite off the bullet from the top of the cartridge so as to expose the powder. He then sprinkled a little of the powder into the pan of the gun, snapped the pan to, dropped the cartridge down the muzzle, rammed it home with the bullet on top, and then took aim and fired.

There were numerous occasions when the musketry fire of the marines proved to be an important factor in the winning of sea battles. Their marksmanship was highly praised by J. Fenimore Cooper and a number of other naval writers.

The Bible Thought and Prayer

If parents will have their children receive the daily Bible education, it will prove a precious heritage to them in later years.

In thee, O Lord, do I put my trust; let me never be ashamed: deliver me in thy righteousness.—Psalm 31:1.

R. WALTON MOORE

Some individual are born to power, some to fame, some to be dearly loved by their friends. Not many persons, however, are privileged to enjoy an endowment so comprehensive as to include all three of these precious gifts. It was, then, a rare destiny which R. Walton Moore fulfilled. By inheritance he received noteworthy talents; by tradition he was provided with an example for the employment of his faculties in public service. His time was turbulent yet it did not prevent appreciation of his labors. From the beginning of his career until its end, he earned success. His achievement predominantly was institutional, but it was not the less useful or the less gratifying on that account.

Mr. Moore died, as he had lived, a Virginia gentleman in the best meaning of the phrase. He was devoted to his native State beyond the capacity of ordinary language to report. Its history he mastered in meticulous detail. The Old Dominion never had a son more profoundly concerned to preserve the chivalrous spirit of the past. A similar observation might be made with regard to his reverence for the national community in which he found his greater opportunities. In the House of Representatives from 1919 to 1931 he was universally admired for his skill as a debater. He possessed a magic for the exposition of the strength or, perhaps, the weakness of pending legislation. A logician, a philosopher, impersonal but not selfishly detached, reserved but not stoically unconcerned, he was sought after by the wisest of his contemporaries. His colleagues esteemed him, but their attitude was characterized by a warmth unusual in Congress even among men closely allied in party circles.

He was seventy-four when he entered the State Department, yet no one thought of Mr. Moore as being advanced in years. His resilience was demonstrated by the zeal with which he approached a task. In the spring of 1939 he was young enough to be a passenger in the first roundtrip flight of a clipper plane to Europe and back. When he was persuaded to celebrate his eightieth birthday anniversary, he insisted that "you might call it a biological accident when a man reaches my age and still holds his mental and physical strength and youthful outlook." The theory so expressed was rejected by those who were familiar with the essential gallantry of his undisciplined soul. A scholar, an accomplished lawyer, an ardent patriot, a keen student of the theory of government and social progress, he was an ideal counselor on foreign affairs in the stress of a period of gravest concern to American civilization.

Washington always will be grateful to Mr. Moore for his interest in local problems. He was a neighbor who might have been a native, so helpful was his concern for the development of the District of Columbia as a residential area as well as in its role as Capital of the Republic. The bridges across the Potomac will be, in a certain sense, his monuments. It is not too much to suggest that they symbolize the value of his life.

McGUIRE—NELSON

Mr. and Mrs. C. Paul Nelson of Manassas and Huntington, West Va., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Nelson, to Mr. Charles Fenton Mercer McGuire, of Washington, D. C., son of Mrs. M. H. McGuire, a prominent family of Clarke County, Va.

The wedding will take place on the evening of April 26, at the home of bride and will be one of the social events of the early spring, because of the prominence and popularity of the young couple.

Miss Nelson is a graduate with high honors from Briarcliff Manor, New York, and of Randolph-Macon College, Lynchburg, and is now connected with the Geological Survey in Washington. Her charm will be recalled by all who saw her preside as princess at one of the Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festivals which were held in Manassas.

Mr. McGuire received his education at Kent School, Kent, Conn. and graduated in law from the University of Virginia. He is a member of the Cincinnati and the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity. He is now engaged in the real estate business in Washington.

LEGION DISTRICT MEETING

Arrangements are complete for the 8th District meeting of the American Legion, to be held on Monday, February 17. The meeting will be called to order in Osborn High School auditorium at 4 p. m. by Vernon
F. Kiblinger of Louisa, 8th District Commander.

Speakers will include District and State officers; E. E. Payne, 8th District Vice Commander, Sidney Weil of Alexandria, a Department Vice Commander and W. Glenn Elliot of Richmond, Department Adjutant.

There are 17 Legion Posts in the 8th District. Alexandria is the largest with over 400 members. Arlington is second with more than 200, and Culpeper third with over 100.
The Prince William Post has over 40 members at this time and expects to reach an all time high record, having signed up a number of new members this year.

Dinner will be served promptly at 7 p. m. by the local P.-T. A. in the High School gymnasium. About 150 guests are expected, including many women from Auxiliaries in a number of towns.

All veterans in the County are urged to attend this meeting, whether they happen to be members of the local Post or not.

The entertainment committee, M.
S. Burchard, chairman, has arranged a variety program to be given during the dinner. Everything possible has been done to make this an outstanding event on the Legion calendar.

ARTIFICIAL DAIRY BREEDING ASSOCIATION FORMED

A committee, including Wilmer M.
Kline, Elmer P. Hurst and O. R.
Hersch of Prince William County and Lee Fleming, Harry Wilson and A.
D. Stone of Fauquier County will meet at Warrenton on February 20, to prepare by-laws and membership agreements for the proposed artificial lairy breeding association to serve herds of interested dairymen of this area. At a recent meeting intense was shown and a number of dairymen from Prince William, Fauquier and Culpeper Counties indicated a desire to co-operate in the plan.

Some of the advantages of artificial breeding of dairy cows found from inquiries to successful artificial breeding associations throughout the country are:

1. Artificial breeding can be used to extend the services of a good proved bull to many times the number of cows giving dairymen an opportunity to make use of high quality bulls that they could not afford to purchase individually.

2. The cost and bother of sire service can be reduced in small and medium sized herds through co-operative use of well-selected centrally located bulls. In most cases the feed and labor expended on the bull or bulls kept on the farm can be used to keep an extra cow whose products should pay the cost of the artificial breeding service.

3. Dairymen who have more than one breed of cows can more readily and economically secure the services of a bull of the same breed and thus get away from mixel breeding, which causes reduced production and lower sales value in the heifer offspring.

4. The selection and use of superior bulls by such an organization stimu-lates interest in improved breeding methods and brings about increased production in the heifers grown out for herd replacements.

CROP LOANS NOW READY FOR 1941

Supervisor Beverley Lists Places of Conference

Mr. J. G. Beverley, Field Supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at Winchester, has just returned to his headquarters from Baltimore, Maryland, where he was called for a conference with the officials of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration.

Mr. Beverley reports that the purpose of the conference was to review the work in connection with loans made in 1940 and prior years and to discuss regulations and other information with respect to the program this year. Mr. Beverley states that the regulations will be in line with those of the past years. He also explained the fact that no delay will be occasioned from making loans early, since Congress now provides a revolving fund, and it is not necessary to make yearly appropriations.

Mr. Beverley reported that 125 farmers in his territory, which is comprised of Clarke, Fairfax, Frederick, Fauquier, Loudoun, Prince William, Shenandoah, Stafford and Warren Counties, obtained loans in 1940. Since the first crop loans in his territory were made, 1,975 farmers have received loans; and of these loans, a very satisfactory percentage has been repaid.

The purpose of this loan is to furnish credit to farmers for the purchase of seed, fertilizer, and other supplies, or for expenses necessary or incident to the production of cash crops for market, and in the case of farmers who raise livestock rather than crops, the loans are made for the purchase of feed or expenses incident to the growth of feed crops. It is the policy of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office to insist that their borrowers conform to practices approved by the Extension Service and, also, the Soil Conservation Program.

Loans of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office are primarily designed to serve at low cost that large group of farm owners and tenants who are experienced farmers, but who do not have sufficient collateral to obtain loans from the Production Credit Associations or local banks, and who at the same time do not need rehabilitation.

At the present time the maximum amount lent to any one individual is $400.00. A crop lien is taken as security in the case of crop loans, and in the case of feed loans, a first mortgage on the livestock is required. The rate of interest is 4 per cent. No inspection or service fees are charged.

Applications for loans in Field Supervisor Beverley's territory in addition to being taken in his office, Post Office Building, Winchester, will be received in the following places:

Clarke County: County Agent's Office, C. H. Bldg., Berryville.

Fairfax County: County Agent's Office, C. H. Bldg., Fairfax.

Fauquier County: County Agent's Office, C. H. Bldg., Warrenton.

Frederick County: Mr. Beverley's Office, P. O. Bldg., Winchester.

Shenandoah County: County Agent's Office, C. H. Bldg., Woodstock.

Stafford County: County Agent's Office, C. H. Bldg., Stafford.

Warren County: County Agent's Office, Main street, Front Royal.

Mr. Beverley will be at the office

FIREMEN'S BANQUET

it may safely rely when these nations who now overrun Europe and the far East seek world domination and the destruction of free men.

He showed how Japan had tricked the United States in the disarmament treaty by which the ratio really gave Japan supremacy in the Far East.

Describing this country, the speaker declared that "we are the beneficiaries of a system" which has enabled us to develop our country almost without interruption, and that while we are a peaceful people we have seen the great effort at world peace put into effect between 1919 and 1930 become a "horrible failure". Realization of this fact has caused gradual rearmament since 1934 especially in the past two years.

He revised the territorial aggression of the dictator nations and the struggle in Europe in the past eighteen months, climaxing with a burst of praise for the British Army and its achievements in the past year. Applause became quite frequent in the closing remarks when he exclaimed that "if there ever was need for patriotism and courage it is now—I have no critical fear—behind us we have an illustrious past and in front of us, a great future—we shall hand down to our children and our children's children the greatest country on earth and the greatest system of government".

Besides the guests named above there were present representing the county government Superintendent of Schools R. C. Haydon, Sheriff J. P. Kerlin, Trial Justice C. Lacey Compton, Health Officer Jackson, Principal Manassas Schools, R. Worth Peters and County Engineer C. W. Staggs, representing the city government, Town Manager W. F. Cocke, Town Clerk R. L. Byrd, Councilmen W. E. Trusler, O. D. Waters, and E. G. Parrish and Sergeants Thomas Marshall and Joseph Herring; Honorary members and guests, Reverends R. M. Graham, John W. DeChant, W. O. Luttrell, J. J. Widmer and A. S. Gibson; Doctors Stewart McBryde and E. H. Marsteller, Messrs. A. E. Jakeman, H. Thornton Davies, R. S. Hynson, A. A. Hooff, Arthur W. Sinclair, Stanley A. Owens, C. C. Fisher and J. L. Herrell.

The following officers and men of the local department answered to their names: Captain Sedrick Saunders, 1st Lieut. Floyd Vetter, 2nd Lieut. A. MacMillan, Secretary-Treasurer Warren E. Coleman, Leslie Bourne, Charles Mathias, C. W. Fitzwater, Roger W. Cross, John Roseberry, Maurice Smith, James Vetter, William Miller, Nelson Lynn, Robert Leith, Eugene Worley, Joseph Corum, Harry P.
