GRADUATE CLASS KIWANIS GUESTS

Students Play, Sing and Dance
For Their Hosts.

The graduating class of Manassas High certainly gave the Kiwanis Club an enjoyable evening. Due to the post-graduate date of the affair only about two thirds of the class were present, along with their class room teacher, Miss Emily Johnson, and, of course, connected with schools nothing is complete without the presence of Miss Eugenia.

In his address of welcome to the grads, Mr. O. D. Waters recalled how the late George C. Round introduced legislation which resulted in the establishment of the first public high school here in 1905.

Later Mr. R. S. Hynson gave an interesting resume of the development of school work here, and Hon. E. R. Conner topped off with some reminiscences of his early days at the old Ruffner School.

Col. Hutchison gave some humorous side lights on the educational accomplishments of his conferees, as to how some of them had not even learned how to write yet, etc. Miss Eugenia was introduced and spoke briefly and entertainingly.

Mr. Lewis Carper brought in some fine young musicians who played several instrumental numbers, plus an excellent solo.

After this Miss Alice Swank, president of the class, introduced her class mates, who rendered two group numbers, with Mrs. J. P. Royer at the piano.

Group singing was also indulged in, with Mrs. Kitty Baker leading. Incidentally, the educational hit of the evening was a hula-hula number, with vocal solo, as arranged and personally put on by Mr. Tomyns Monahan, vice president of the class. He really got the biggest encore of the evening.

W. E. Trusler was unanimously named vice president in place of Mr. C. C. Lynn, who resigned.

FORMER RESIDENT HONORED AT DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. George L. White of near Grand Saline entertained for H. H. Renninger at a dinner Sunday. Five of Mr. Renninger's blind friends attended the dinner, along with thirteen other guests.

Mr. Renninger, an employee of a Chicago bank before going blind several years ago, has lived in Manassas, Va., since his forced retirement, but this year on his annual visit to Texas he decided to cast his lot in the largest state in the union. Of an unusually cheerful disposition despite his blindness, he is a most welcome newcomer according to all who know him.—The Grand Saline Sun, May 29, 1941

MODEL AIRPLANE EXHIBIT

Reports of the Press-By Club Airplane exhibition, held last week in the Presbyterian Church, indicate that it was a success. This was the first show of its kind and enthusiasm was such that plans were made to hold another show sometime next fall.

PLANT GARDENS FARMERS URGED

County Nutrition Program Now Under Way.

Miss Leona M. Kline, chairman of the Prince William County Nutrition Board, announced today, that the organization of committees, and the canning demonstration to be given at the Grange Hall, Haymarket, by Mrs. Gladys Ayres, on Friday, June 20, at 1:30 p.m., are the beginning of a series of meetings and demonstrations to be given in a county-wide drive for better nutrition, and conservation of food. Miss Kline stresses the importance of food conservation in every way possible to meet the needs of each family.

The drought has broken, and there is still time to plant a late garden. Most vegetables can be planted through the month of June, and many later. With the anticipated rise in food prices, no one can afford to let anything in the garden go to waste.

Better selection of food is very important. Statistics show an appalling number of people suffering from the lack of nutrition from improper or insufficient food. This in itself is proof of the need of more serious attention to a proper diet the year around. Enough food goes to waste each year to correct this condition.

The strength of the nation depends on the home. Let each of us do our part for National Defense by building up the health and strength of our family.

Many families do not can a larger food supply on account of not having enough jars. We would like for everyone who has a surplus of jars of any kind to bring them to the Farm Security Administration Office in the Hibbs & Giddings building, or call 95-F-21, and well send for them.

After finding and opening the attractive and useful gifts, the guest of honor led the way to the dining room where refreshments were served.

CANNING DEMONSTRATION AT HAYMARKET

Friday afternoon, June 20, at 1:30 p.m. in the Grange Hall at Haymarket, Mrs. Gladys Ayres of the Ball Jar Company will give a demonstration on the latest methods in canning fruits and vegetables, announces Miss Kline of F. S. A., Miss Webb, county home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Daffan, D. R. W. case worker. The public is invited to attend.

Since the defense slogan for Virginia rural families is "Produce Your Own Food", this is a real opportunity to learn the latest methods in canning fruits and vegetables for winter use.

It is estimated that 75 quarts of canned fruits and vegetables (not including preserves, pickles, jellies, etc.) are required for each person to supply needed vegetables and fruits during the winter months.

See Mrs. Ayres, the demonstrator, Friday afternoon at the Grange Hall and learn easier ways to accomplish this goal!

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Is The Universe, Including Man, Evolved By Atomic Force?" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 22.

The Golden Text will "The Lord is a great God, and a great King above all gods. In his hand are the deep places of the earth: the strength of the hills is his also" (Ps. 95:3,4).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Therefore, behold, I will proceed to do a marvellous work among this people, even a marvellous work and a wonder: for the wisdom of their wise men shall perish, and the understanding of their prudent men shall be hid" (Isa. 30:14).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures"
by Mary Baker Eddy: "Either Mind produces, or it is produced. If Mind it first, it cannot produce its opposite in quality and quantity, called matter. If matter is first, it cannot produce Mind. Like producer like. In natural history, the bird is not the product of a beast. In spiritual history, matter is not the progenitor of Mind" (p. 551).

NOKESVILLE

training at Camp Lee, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs.
G. M. Colvin, Nokesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Ruffner, Mrs.
J. A. Bell and Mrs. Jessie A. Skates
of Washington, D. C.
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ross Hooker have announced the marriage of their daughter Ruth to Mr. Stuart Ashby McMichael to take place at the church of the Brethren in Nokesville, Friday, June 27, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

OCCOQUAN AND VICINITY

Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher of Lorton announce the birth of twin daughters, on June 11. Congratulations.

The following families have moved into Mr. Harvey M. Janney's new apartment building in Occoquan. Mr.
and Mrs. Myron Lynn, Mr. and Mrs.
Roger Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas
Bowden, and Mr. and Mrs. Caskey.
We welcome those folks and hope they will live happy in Good Old Occoquan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose J. Petellat and family spent the week end sight seeing in Southern Virginia.

Dr. Herman F. Jennings, our general Pharmacist of Occoquan, has returned after spending the past week visiting friends and relatives near Purcellville. Mrs. Jennings and son Wesley will return to Occoquan later on.

General Edward A. Osterman and Colonel William C. Harlee of Washington, and Senator Henrick Ship-stead of Minnesota were Sunday callers on Capt. and Mrs. Joyce in Oc-
coquan.

The result of the Occoquan Town
Elections on June, was as follows:
For Mayor, Thomas F. Joyce, re-elected; For Councilmen, John A.
Musselman, B. W. Brunt, H. L.
Mooney, and R. S. Hall, re-elected, and
S. H. Sealeman, elected.

To the Citizens of Occoquan: The members of your Council and your Mayor whom you re-elected, appreciate your confidence in them as shown by your votes. We trust now that you will continue that confidence by giving us all aid and assistance possible in carrying on our duties. Nothing you could do would show your assistance more than, PAYING YOUR TOWN TAXES AS SOON AS THEY BECOME DUE. Without your taxes we are unable to do much. You will also be helping yourselves by paying your taxes before any PENALTY is added. Also, all taxes not paid by July 1, will carry interest at the rate of 6 per cent until paid. They will also be entered on the delinquent TAX BOOK if not paid by July 1. We take great pride in reporting that all 1939 taxes were paid in full, except one small piece of property, and that is listed as delinquent and will always be a debt against the property until paid. We pray and hope no one will have to be listed as delinquent in 1940.

At this time when places for recreation and amusement for the soldiers in our nearby camps are so badly needed; it is proper to mention that an area of the Reservation near Joplin, is well suited for this purpose.
Last week, Mr. C. C. Cloe, of Triangle; Mr. Charles R. Fenwick, of Arlington; Mr. C. C. Coyner, of Fairfax; Mr. Martin Green, of Alexandria, and Capt. Thomas F. Joyce, of Occoquan, went over this area in company with Mr. Ira B. Lykes of the Department of the Interior. After inspecting the area with the view of turning part of it into a recreation area for our soldiers and marines, we are convinced that there is no better site in Virginia, and the expense of developing it would be very small.
By building a DAM a 140 acre lake could be built where fishing, swimming and boating could be had.
There is also an excellent site for several baseball diamonds; tennis courts, and every imaginable mode of recreation and amusement. For you who have not travelled over this park area, do so and you will get the surprise of your life. We have such a lovely park area so near us and do not know about it. Boost this project to your congressman and others, and we may be able to get it developed. There are great possibilities in this area. After the present emergency is over, the development of this area would give recreation which we are much in need of to our citi-

Doctor William H. Ellison and wife of Santa Barbara, Cal., are visiting at the home of Capt. and Mrs. T. F.
Joyce in Occoquan. Dr. Ellison is going to teach in New Jersey during the summer months, and Mrs. Ellison is going to stay with the Joyces.
Mrs. Ellison is Mrs. Joyce's sister.
Your scribe recommends to everybody who desires to keep up with the news in Prince William County to get the Journal.

"LOVED ONES AT REST"

A tribute of love and devotion to the memory of my dear departed loved ones, who just a few years (and months ago), were called from their earthly, homes, to their heavenly homes above.

Father, and mother, Albert L. and Margaret A. McAllister, sister Mary
A. McAllister, and Lula E. Florence, brother, Rufus E. McAllister, and loving son, Willie L. Russell.
Though, they have gone, I still feel them near,
They will never be forgotten, by the one, who loved them dearly,
"Their loving daughter, sister, and devoted mother".

GEMS OF THOUGHT SERVICE Thought

The key to every man is his thought. Study and defying though he look, he has a helm which he obeys, which is the idea after which all his facts are classified.—Emerson.

It is thought, and thought alone, that divides right from wrong; it is thought, and thought only, that elevates or degrades human deeds and desires.—George Moore.

By purifying human thought, this state of mind permeates with increased harmony all the minutiae of human affairs.—Mary Baker Eddy.

If, instead of a gem or even a flower, we could cast the gift of a lovely thought into the heart of a friend, that would be giving as the angels give.—George MacDonald.

At Learning's fountain it is sweet to drink.
But 'tis a nobler privilege to think.

BUY COAL NOW

With world conditions as they are today, no one can foresee what may happen next week, let alone
two or three months from now.
But one thing seems fairly certain. An expanding labor shortage, increased burdens on transporta-

Today you can buy coal at CASH PRICES much

Rev. and Mrs. Clark Hannon Wood attended the Virginia conference school at Lynchburg, last week. Plans are being made to conduct a Vacation Bible School at Sudley.

The program in celebration of Church School Day will be given at Sudley next Sunday morning, June 22, at 10:30 o'clock.

A wedding of much interest to the people of this community was that of Mr. Max Collins, Jr., of Triangle, and Miss Gertrude Carney of Woodbridge, which occurred June 7, with Rev. W. O. Luttrell of Manassas officiating. Mr. Collins is well known in this section, being born and reared near Sudley. He and his very lovely young bride have the good wishes of a host of friends in this section. They will make their home in Triangle.

Mr. Frank Lee Hoffman, who has been quite ill with undulant fever, is reported to be much improved.

Mr. Emmett Pattie is slowly convalescing from his recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Clary are visiting at the home of their sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Alvey. Mrs. Clary is somewhat indisposed at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Pattie and sons, Gordon and Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. John F. Pattie and family of Triangle were guests of Officer and Mrs. Raymond L. Briggs in Washington last Sunday.

George Spencer died very suddenly at her home near Fairfax early last Sunday morning of a paralytic stroke. Before her marriage she was Miss Savilla Fox. The funeral services were held at Sudley Church Tuesday afternoon. In the absence of our Pastor, Rev. Wood, the services were very beautifully conducted by Rev. John M. DeChant of Manassas Presbyterian Church. She is survived by her husband, six daughters and three sons and a large number of relatives and friends who attended her funeral. The interment was made in the family plot in Sudley Cemetery, beneath a mound of beautiful flowers.

On Friday afternoon, we attended the sad occasion of Mrs. Leith Sloper's funeral, whose death occurred so unexpectedly early Wednesday morning at her home near Manassas. She was before her marriage, a Miss Carrico, and was the lovely young mother of eleven little sons and daughters. The services were conducted at Sudley by Rev. John M. DeChant, and interment, made in the adjacent cemetery, was in charge of George D. Baker and Sons. Many beautiful flowers covered her grave. The young husband and little children have the sympathy of many friends and relatives in this section.

Private Norman A. Stamm of Fort George G. Meade, Md. visited friends in this community during the week end.

LOG of the U.S. MARINES

MARINES' NEW BASE HAS SIMILAR NAME

Much of the Uncle Sam's mail has been going to the U.S. Marines at Marines. By mere coincidence the names of these military men and that of a post office, which lies within their newly acquired base along the New River in North Carolina, are identical.

Named after two brother who settled there more than fifty years ago, the village has a number of other namesakes elsewhere in the United States. There is a Marine in Illinois, another Marine in Kentucky and a Marine City in Michigan.

Adding to the seagoing nomenclature of the nation one may find a Mariner in Maine, a Mariners Harbor in New York and a Sailor Springs in Illinois, not to mention a Blue-jacket far from the sea in Oklahoma.

Naval branches of the service, however, have no monopoly in the postal directory. Towns named Soldier flourish in Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky and Pennsylvania and there is a Warrior in Alabama.

Further evidence that Uncle Sam is not especially pacifistic is shown by the fact that there are at least three Fiftes, two Drums, a Rifle and two Cannons in the United States.

half the usual yield of wheat and orchard grown which was damaged by the drought in the spring. However the rains came at last, and the corn crops are flourishing.

Cadets J. Worthington Alvey, Jr., and Wilson Decker of South Orange, N. J., who have just completed their sophomore year at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, have been the guests of Cadet Alvey's parents at Catharpin, before returning to Blacksburg to attend summer school.

Miss Gladys Ayres, an expert on canning, will be at the Grange Hall at Haymarket, Friday afternoon, 1:30 o'clock, June 20, to teach the very latest methods in canning. Every one is most cordially invited to be present, and earnestly requested to attend.

THE SEA WOLF IS POWERFUL DRAMA

The management of the Pitt's Theatre has announced that their next scheduled attraction will be "The Sea Wolf", starring Edward G. Robinson, Ida Lupino and John Garfield. The film version of the world-famous novel by Jack London was produced by Warner Bros., who have given us such recent hit action movies as "Santa Fe Trail", "High Sierra" and "They Drive By Night".

"The Sea Wolf" is considered one of the first American "realistic" novels. Published in 1903, it was an immediate best-seller, and has continued to hold its popularity with successive generations of readers, long after many later best-sellers have been forgotten. It is the powerful story of Wolf Larsen, the epitome of all the fighting, killing, roistering and vicious men of the sea fleet. The men who sailed with him on "The Ghost" seldom lived to relate their experiences. His shanghaied crews learned what it meant to be completely under the mental and physical power of the inhuman captain. Onto this hell ship come a girl, a man, rescued from the wreck of an San Francisco ferry boat. She is a fugitive from justice, he is a sensitive young author. Once aboard, they find themselves prisoners. The man is put to work as cabin boy, the girl, desperately ill is indifferently cared for by the ship's drunken doctor. She wins the sympathy of one of the young sailors and they plan to be married if they can ever escape from the ship.

The young author strikes up a sort of half-friendship with Larsen, learns the Captain's carefully guarded secret—that he is subject to periodic attacks of blindness. Some of the sailors make an unsuccessful attempt to kill Larsen, and after this episode, tension grows worse on "The Ghost". The girl, her sailor, the author and another of the men on the crew decide to risk everything in an attempt to escape in a lifeboat. After drifting for days, their supplies exhausted, they sight "The Ghost" again. She is sinking. The young sailor goes aboard in a desperate effort to get some supplies. He is gone so long that the others follow him. The author goes to the Captain's cabin, learns that he is in one of his semi-blind states. He finds out that the sailor has been locked up in the galley, but as he attempts to leave Larsen levels a gun on him. To reveal the dramatic outcome would deprive audiences of some of the thrill of its very unexpectedness.

"WAGONS ROLL AT NIGHT" TO SHOW AT PITT'S NEXT

Wednesday, June 25, new picture at the Pitt's Theatre will be "The Wagons Roll At Night", starring Humphrey Bogart, Joan Leslie, Eddie Albert and Sylvia Sydney. The picture, produced by Warner Bros., the same studio which made the thrilling film, "They Drive By Night", was directed by Ray Enright.

"The Wagons Roll At Night" is the exciting drama of reckless men and women who live in a city on wheels, with new adventures turning up at every bend of the road. Bogart plays the role of the tough and impregnable owner of a carnival. In his troupe are the worldly-wise fortune-teller, Florina, played by Sylvia Sydney, and Matt, small town boy who joins the troupe and becomes the lion-tamer, played by Eddie Albert. Like most "hard guys", Bogart has a soft spot, which he guards carefully from the members of his troupe. It is his young convent-bred sister, played by Joan Leslie, for whom he maintains a comfortable country home, where she is looked after by an old couple. His careful plans for keeping her away from all contact with the carnival folks go awry when Sylvia drives Eddie up there to recuperate from a battle with the "cats". Before Bogart learns of his whereabouts, Eddie and Joan have fallen deeply in love. He endeavors to break up the romance, but when he sees how impossible that is, he tries another method for getting Eddie out of the way. The results are fatal—but for Bogart, not for Eddie.

LEW AYRES & LIONEL BARRYMORE AT PITT'S NEXT THURS.

Daring operations and a malpractice suit form the pivot of the dramatic story in "The People vs. Dr. Kildare", latest of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's medical-detective romances with Lew Ayres, Lionel Barrymore and Larane Day, coming next Thursday and Friday, June 26 and 27, to the Pitt's Theatre.

A new guest star appears with the Kildare "Family", in the person of pretty Bonita Granville, who as an injured ice skating star gives young Dr. Kildare the toughest test of his prowess so far in the series. Dr. Kildare, played by Ayres, is forced to perform an emergency operation on Miss Granville following an automobile crash, and when she convalesces she develops a paralyzed leg, apparently ending her career as an ice skating star. Her attorney sues, charging malpractice.

Aided by his preceptor, Dr. Gillespie (Lionel Barrymore), the young doctor turns detective, clearing up some of the evidence that appears damaging and falling on the clog to the real trouble, an obscure hereditary spinal derangement.

Dr. Gillespie makes an eloquent plea to the jury, reminiscent of Barrymore's award-winning speech in "A Free Soul", which brings about the solution of the problem.

Both Ayres and Barrymore rise to dramatic heights in tense sequences in the picture, and a new comedy figure appears in Red Skelton, comedy hit of "Flight Command". Graphic operations and other hospital detail mingle with countless comedy episodes relieving the tenses drama.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

God commendeth his own love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.—Romans 5:8.

CALM BEFORE THE STORM

The mightiest military machine of modern times is making no news these days while minor skirmishes are going on along the edges of a seething caldron.

Hitler apparently realizes that he cannot at this time hope to accomplish his necessary invasion of England and it is obvious that he is staking his fortunes upon destroying the lifeline to England before American aid can reach its gigantic possibilities.

In the meantime, it would seem that Hitler is beginning to believe that the interval may be utilized to advantage by taking a bit out of Russia. He sorely needs the supplies he might be able to bludgeon from his bloody handed "friend", Joseph Stalin, in plenty of time to launch the expected invasion attempt by August.

A parallel project, of course, is the present attempt to sabotage American defense manufacture by strikes. So far Adolph Hitler has been eminently successful along this line, as evidenced by the millions of man-hours already lost.

Almost too late the President is moving to check Hitler's well planned sabotage here, and in its final analysis the question of American aid in time to be effective really depends upon how deeply the New Deal has compromised itself with radical labor, which has cunningly secured control of the vital "bottle-necks" of defense production.

DEFERMENT OF OLDER MEN

The United Senate this week approved the Army's suggestion that Draft Boards defer men past 28 years of age. The amendment would not change the present law requiring classification of all men from 21 to 36, but if in the opinion of the military authorities them-ves the older men are not needed at this time, certainly the President should be granted the authority to defer them.

Men from 28 to 36 are supposedly well established in their life work and in a great many cases, in fact in most cases, their personal sacrifices in leaving their business and professional responsibilities to engage in a year of training is all out of proportion to the requirements of the present emergency, and we hope that the House also will approve the measure at once and ease the situation for about seven million men of the nation who are at present more useful at home than in the Army.

MARINES CARRY SLANG TO MANY LANDS

The lingo of the United States Marine is something few foreigners have been able to master.

The story's told here that in the last World War a Frenchman was billeted with a group of Marines and became more or less accustomed to Marine Corps slang.

"Shove off" in the Marine Corps means depart, leave, scam, absent oneself, and just plain vamoose.

Well, a Marine once asked the Frenchman, "Hey, Frenchy, did you see the skipper anywhere?"

"Oui, Monsieur, oui", the Frenchman came back, "he what you call pushed over".

A teaching unit of suggested activities for elementary, junior high and high school pupils is being presented this summer to students in the State teachers' colleges by the Virginia Tuberculosis Association.

"Lighthouses of Science" was written by Anita D. Laton, Ph.D., research associate, Bureau of Educational Research, Teachers College, Columbia University, and it is published by the National Tuberculosis Association. Copies of it are available upon request to the Virginia Tuberculosis Association, Atlantic Life Building, Richmond.

According to Miss Leslie Combs Foster, executive secretary of the Virginia Tuberculosis Association, copies of "Lighthouses of Science" will be furnished local schools this fall by the city and county tuberculosis associations and committees.

The theme of these teaching programs, which are distributed annually by the Virginia Tuberculosis Association for the benefit of class room work, is usually based on the theme of the Christmas Seal to be introduced next winter.

The 1941 Christmas Seal, Miss Foster said, rings the happy scene of a lighthouse, despite the dark and cold of its surroundings. "The purpose of the lighthouse", she pointed out, "is to bring vessels into port safely and to warn them of rocks of other dangers. The purpose of the Virginia Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated associations is to use the best scientific knowledge of our time to guide people to greater health and happiness and to warn them of dangers. A HISTORY OF MANASSAS

HISTORY OF MANASSAS AS WRITTEN BY MR. GEORGE C. ROUND AT THE REQUEST OF THE EDITOR OF THE MANASSAS JOURNAL AND PUBLISHED IN THE JOURNAL MAY 21, 1897.

(Given to Journal by Mr. R. Jackson Ratcliffe)

"The Editor of the Journal requests me to write a history of Manassas; I will attempt it with the special understanding with each reader, that anyone who observes an error therein will inform me of the same; to the end that I may be able at some future time to re-write this history correctly.

Up to the middle of the 19th century, Manassas has been, for a period, to me unknown, a quiet and romantic Gap in the Blue Ridge. At some time in the distant centuries, Manassas was probably an Indian name, but to whom or to what the name was originally applied or what was its signification are interesting questions, as yet unanswered by the North American mythologist.

If the Indians were descendants of the Lost Tribes of Israel it is a possibility that some of the descendants of the Patriarch Manasseh found and cultivated the fertile valleys of Fauquier and Warren that lie adjacent. The order of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons must cherish some conceit of that kind among their traditions, for they call their organization "Manasseh" Lodge.

Gen. Wm. H. Payne, who is authority on Indian nomenclature as well as Railroad law, tells me the original pronunciation was "Manassa". I can testify that all old people of my acquaintance who were reared in this vicinity, so pronounce it. The Yankee disposition seems to be put on at the end of the proper names. Even the name of your historian has been thus tampered with and he is pluralized as Rounds, though he is really singular. This singular tendency to pluralize and even to reduplicate the pluralization was illustrated to me when in 1890 I was at Swansy, Mass. hunting up my own family genealogy. I inquired of the "oldest inhabitant" concerning persons bearing the name of Round or Rounds. He astonished me by saying that he had lived there eighty years and had never known a single person by that name. I told him he must be mistaken and I named two farmers in an adjoining locality.

A sudden light broke in on the venerable man's features as he exclaimed "Oh, there are plenty of Roundses". This shows that if some wandering Jew had located himself in the Gap, it might have been designated by neighbors as "Manasseh's Gap" and then shortened to "Manassa's Gap". The way would then be open for some profane iconoclast to rudely knock out the apostrophe and the word would become Manassas.

There is a tradition afloat corroborating the Israelitish origin of Manassas. Mr. Wm. S. Fewell informed me that an old Frenchman named Manassa formerly lived in the Gap, and gave his name thereto. Others say it was an "Old Jew" who lived there. We can reconcile these two stories by supposing he was a French Jew. But Gen. Payne here comes in with his iconoclastic sledge hammer and informs me that this whole matter was thoroughly ventilated in 1861, and the "old Jew" theory was utterly exploded. He further says that "Massanutton Mountain" lies near "Manassas Gap" and he has no doubt they both have a common Indian origin. So until a better theory arrives your historian will pronounce in favor of the Indian derivation of the name.

In the year 1850 the secluded and quiet Manassas evidently became restless for fame, and on March 9, of that year by act of the General Assembly the name was given to a branch railroad to run through the counties of Rockingham, Shenandoah, Warren, Fauquier and Prince William. When the road began building, the point where it diverged from the main line of the Orange & Alexandria Railroad was naturally designated as "Manassas Junction". In 1853 the said branch road was completed and about that time the Post office then called "Tudor Hall" was changed to "Manassas Junction" also.

In 1861 Manassas again became still more ambitious and suddenly leaped into immortality as a Battlefield.

"Mid flame and smoke, and shout and groan and sabre-stroke, and death shots falling thick and fast

As lightning from a mountain cloud," the name of Manassas resounded throughout the world. Not satisfied with this, in 1862, the plains of Manassas furnished a second and greater battlefield to history, and the only instances on record where two great armies fought twice on exactly the same ground with lines of battle exactly reversed.

Your historian will pass over for the present the important era of the war. Manassas belonged, during that time, to a distinct nationality called "Mosby's Confederacy". If the distinguished Chieftain, who now lies sick at Charlottesville, recovers, who ruled this land in those dread days, I hope he will write for us a history of that small and lively Kingdom. Col. Mosby once complimented your historian by saying that I was the man who ought to write a Guide-Book for tourists visiting Manassas. Such a book is needed and I will agree to undertake to carry out his suggestion if he will first carry out mine.

Immediately after the war, the name of the station and post-office was changed by striking out the "Junction" and both have been since known as "Manassas". In 1869 on the Reconstruction of the Old Dominion, the same name was given to a township and school district about eight miles square.

Subsequently about 1875 an amendment was made to the State Constitution, materially modifying the township system and the township has been since then known as "Manassas Magisterial District". The said magisterial and school district is bounded on the North by Piney Branch and Pageland Lane; on the East by Bull Run; on the South by Occoquan Run; and on the West by Broad

STEWART'S MESSAGE
(Excerpt from Graduation exercises at Maryland U.)

Dear Brothers,
We find ourselves at the close of another successful year and I would like to take this opportunity to pay tribute to our retiring Steward, Clayton Libeau, better known as "Fuzzy". In the past two years that he has been Steward many needed improvements have been made in the House as a result of his very efficient management. A few of these were new dining room chairs, new rugs and curtains for the living room and the refinishing of all the floors.

Though very busy with the Steward's activities, "Fuzzy" did not limit himself to them alone. Look behind anything going on for the Fraternity's benefit, and you would find him with both shoulders against the resisting problem walls pushing with all his might. He has done a fine piece of work and is doubly worthy of all of our congratulations and tribute.

Fraternally,
David Northam,
Steward.

FOR DEFENSE

A VITAL PART of making America strong is to make Americans stronger... with the food they need. Vitally aware of this are the thousands of trained and experienced people who are engaged in the nation's great food industry—the farmers, who produce the food; the manufacturers, who process it; and the grocerymen, who distribute it—proudly working in the best way they know to supply the energy necessary to do the big job.

AMERICAN WOODS REPLACE BRIER FOR PIPES

Hitler's blitzkrieg is producing a small revolution among pipe smokers in this country. With the collapse of France, the supply brier root has stopped and pipe manufacturers are again turning to American Woods, says the U. S. Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, Wis.

The laboratory research men point out that American woods make just as good pipes as does the foreign brier. The chief reason the majority of smokers use the brier pipe is that they have practically been brought up on that kind of a pipe and it is accordingly hard to wean them over to the American woods.

Because a similar shortage of brier occurred during the first World War, the Forest Products Laboratory is frequently being consulted in regard to substitutes for brier as well as to the seasoning of the different kinds of American pipe woods. One of the substitutes is mountain laurel root, an easily obtained wood, which mountaineers of western North Carolina and West Virginia are now busy collecting. California wild lilac, madrone, rhododendron, and apple also produce good burls for pipes, equal in workability and beauty of grain, and equal or better in smoking qualities to imported brier. Another handsome burl wood is the mountain mahogany of the Sierras but the wood is hard to cut on a lathe and that may make it too expensive to work. Applewood, probably more largely used in cheap American pipes than any other wood, ranks high because of smooth working, ability to take a high finish, and fair resistance to burning.

One of the principal problems in using American woods for pipe making has been the seasoning of the blanks without undue losses from splitting and warping. Making the finished pipes fire resistant during the "breaking in" period has been another problem. Wood experts at the Forest Products Laboratory deem it probable that research will shortly reveal a process of seasoning these woods with practically no losses due to degradation and at the same time will make them fire resistant and at a cost that can compete with the brier blanks. One the pipe-smoking public becomes thoroughly familiar with American pipe woods it may be unnecessary to again turn to the imported wood after the present emergency.

INDIVIDUAL DEVELOPMENT THROUGH SCHOOL—COMMUNITY LIFE

By Guy Bowers
 (Delivered at High School Graduation Exercises)

Mr. Peters, Honorable Guests, Fellow Graduates, and Ladies and Gentlemen, I have been given the honor of telling every one here tonight what we graduates have obtained from our eleven or twelve years of school life. We seniors, should and do greatly appreciate our chance of having been given a basic education which will help us to fit into the community life of which we are about to become an active part. Our appreciation is doubly (or more) increased when we compare our innumerable chances and opportunities with those of youths of other lands. America is the only place left in this world where an education in practical points of living and an education in how to get along with your fellow man would be of any use to its owner. The more we look across the ocean and see the refugees of the war-torn hemisphere, the more we want to shout with pride and love for our country, "Thank God, I was born an American and that I can expect to live in that grand old American way."

We can not thank, individually, each of you who have contributed in any way to the rounding out of our education, but we, the graduates of this school, wish to express our deepest appreciation for everything you have done for us.

During these past years we have been developing toward the goal that all students strive so hard to reach; that goal is graduation. We have reached it and we earnestly believe we have accomplished a great deal. As we are about to receive those all important diplomas, our thoughts turn back to those things that stand out during our period of development.

All of us have seen a baby grasp his father's finger; this ability to grasp, along with the knowledge and ability to cry when dissatisfied, are about the only visible learning that is present in the child. These hands slowly develop until the baby can grasp any object he wants; in this manner the hand has been so adapted that it has become the most useful instrument he has. That cooing voice developed until it could form words, and those sprawling legs developed until they could support its owner. The first six are truly the greatest years of development years of our lives. During those years the home greatly influenced our lives for that time and all times to come.

At the end of the first years of our lives, we were taken from our play to what most of us thought of as the toil and drudgery of school life. We had to readjust ourselves to our new surroundings new friends, new happenings. Though our first teacher taught us the three R's, reading, riting, and rithmetic, she also taught us one of the most important lessons of our school life, to associate with our fellow pupils and to respect their rights. It was the patient work of our elementary school teachers that developed our character to what it is today. For the first six years, school is merely a continual adjustment to and advancement of what we had learned in the first grade. School was not taken seriously and new things were far enough apart to give the old one time to sink in before a new one came along. During these years we are really what you might call "Americanized." Whether we realized it or not we had learned through actual practice at school and at home what it meant to live as an American, and we learn through example and practice how to respect God, our country, and our fellow men. These three are the most important characteristics that go together to make the true American.

The seventh year in school was the first crowded year of studying we conquered. This was the first year anyone came to us to talk of the future, but only a precious few even took time to listen to what was said. This was one of our many mistakes. Then dawned the first year of high school; another adjustment had to be made. New responsibilities were placed upon our shoulders, and we found a certain sense of pride and self-satisfaction in high school life. After the thrill of being a member of high school wore off, school began to drag, and we took on some unexplainable dislike for the place possibly because though school did become a bore, we were unconsciously developing our minds and bodies. Agriculture, industrial art and home economic classes added greatly to the already highly developed hand. Physical education and athletics added tremendously to our physical development and to our personality. Nothing can add more to the development of one's personality than actual association with his fellow students.

The second year and the first half of the third year rolled by with the same unconscious development. Then, near the middle of the third year, we awoke suddenly, realizing that we were soon to become seniors and possibly graduates the next year. Those talks for the past four years on preparing for the future finally sank in and we began to wonder if we had taken the right courses in high school. We thought, and hoped for the best.

Upon entering the senior year, we were serious, and we undoubtedly reached the peak of our school career. After graduation became a realization, all seniors, undoubtedly, looked back to their school days and cherished many things that could never be brought back. After thinking of the pleasures of school we turned serious and thought of how we had developed through the years. In graded school we had begun to learn the three R's along with our important education in Americanization. In high school we moulded our hands into perfected instruments, we had learned how to type and to handle tools properly along with numerous other things.

Our minds have been trained to the point that they are now smoothly working instruments. Through our education our minds have been rounded out until they can adjust themselves to surrounding situations. We have learned to respect and to love God, our fellow man, American ideals and America. We have learned to laugh, cry, play, shout, honor, hope, and to use our hands and minds and bodies for the benefit of ourselves. This is how we develop through school life from a baby that could only scratch and cry when dissatisfied.

When we look to the future we realize that we are now on our own and that we will no longer have the protective covering of the school and community. We realize that while we were in school the entire community served as a protection for us from all possible approaches. It was as if we were in the middle of a sphere with the outer edge of that sphere representing the community. The community protect the youth while they are in school, but this protection wears through at the completion of school. At this time we are left in the open, free to be attacked from all sides. This adventure into the world is the first real test of the knowledge and skill obtained in school. The people of the community have much to do with our success or failure.

We, the graduates of Osborn High School, are thankful to have received an education of America ideals, instead of an education in war as youth of other countries, are now to become an active part of a community. None of us are old enough to vote, but every one of us is old enough and intelligent enough to see and to understand our duties as good citizens.

You, who have gone before us, are the ones to whom we look. We ask only that you give us the same splendid examples and opportunities that were given you when you graduated from high school. We are completing high school, but we are only commencing to live without protection from the community. You set the example; we will follow.

A HISTORY OF MANASSAS

The first public free schools in Prince William County were started in Manassas in 1869. The first public schoolhouse built in Prince William County was the one now standing at Backhall, three miles to the Southeast. There are now ten public schools carried on in Manassas district, six white and four colored. Of these there are at Manassas village, situated in the center of the district, a public graded school for white children, employing three teachers, and a school for colored children, employing two teachers. Besides the public schools there is a Seminary for white pupils, and an Industrial school for colored pupils, each of these registering about 100 yearly. There is also a Catholic Industrial school located in Manassas district, about four miles from the village. The public school board of Manassas, organized December 12, 1870 with the following members: John T. Leachman, John H. Butler, and George C. Round. The first county Superintendent, under the public school system, was Maj. Wm. W. Thornton. To this genial and public spirited man, who died in 1884, the people of this district and county owe a lasting debt tax collector, treasurer and captain of gratitude. It was owing largely to his councils and management that the first Summer Normal school, ever held in Virginia for the benefit of the counties of Northern Virginia, was held at Manassas in August 1878.

On the 2nd day of April, 1873, Manassas became a town corporate, by the Act of the Legislature of Virginia. The territory incorporated included about one-half mile square, and lies on both sides of the great line, known as the Southern railway. The first council consisted of H. B. Varnes, G. W. Hixson, C. L. Hynson, G. C. Round, L. H. Newman, W. S. Fewell, and R. C. Weir. The first mayor was Robt. C. Weir; the first Clerk, George C. Round; and the first Sergeant, Jacob R. Hornbaker.

The writer of this article had the honor of writing the Charter of the town, which was not patterned from any existing charter but was specially framed for the specific object of making the simplest and least expensive form of town government. The Mayor and Councilmen served without compensation. The Sergeant combined the duties of a peace officer with those of a road master, of the fire company. The Clerk performed the duties of Assessor, and had the enormous salary of twenty-five dollars a year. Under this simple form of government the town continued to improve. There never has been a single year in all its history but witnessed some substantial growth. The streets have good stone sidewalks and shade trees, and there are six public wells.

There are eight churches in the corporation and five in the district of Manassas outside. The first sermon preached in Manassas after the war was by Rev. Levi H. York of the Methodist Episcopal Church, soon thereafter Elder Leachman of the Primitive Baptist Church preached in his own house built on Main street. A small chapel was built by the Presbyterians in 1867, under the auspices of Rev. Joseph E. Nourse of Washington. The Episcopal Church was founded under the labors of Rev. John McGill about 1871 and soon afterward the Primitive Baptists, under the head of Rev. Joseph L. Purritt, built a church one mile South of the depot. The Presbyterians built their stone church in 1874. The Catholic church was built in 1878 by Rev. J. J. Donohoe; the Baptist Church by Rev. T. A. Hall in 1889; the Methodist Episcopal Church South by Rev. J. H. Kuhlman in 1892, and the Lutheran Church under the pastorate of Rev. J. K. Eford in now in process of construction. The German Baptists built their church two miles west of the village in 1895. The colored Baptists built their church in 1879. Rev. Marshall D. Williams has served them continually for 25 years. The Old School Baptist (colored), likewise have a church outside the corporation.

A Good Templars Lodge was organized, in 1868 by Rev. Levi H. York, and was originally known as Fidelity Lodge No. 9. On its reorganization it was designated as Shakespeare Lodge No. 786.

The Free-Masons organized a Lodge February 15, 1875. Its first officers were: Worshipful Master, George P. Wright; Wardens, B. D. Merchant and Charles E. Brawner; Deacons, Wm. C. Merchant and Barton A. Beal; Secretary, George C. Round; Treasurer Richard M. Weir; Tyler, Charles G. Bennett.

About 1870 an agitation sprang up for the removal of the Courthouse to Manassas. The question was voted on by the people in 1872 and again in 1888 in accordance with special Acts of the General Assembly. On both occasions Manassas was defeated by about 50 votes. It is safe to say that at both elections a large majority would have been in favor of removal but for the fear of damaging leading citizens of the county resident at Brentsville, who had made a strong canvass at both elections against removal. In August 1892, a third election was held and the vote was largely in favor of removal, and the first court was held in the new Courthouse on New Year's day, January 1, 1894.

The removal of the Courthouse and the growth of the town made some changes in the charter necessary and February 19, 1894, a new charter with enlarged powers was passed by the General Assembly. The only debt on the town is for $3,000 worth of bonds issued to assist in building the new Courthouse.

I will here endeavor to picture to the readers of the Journal antediluvian Manassas as it stood on the rise of ground near the present site of the Catholic Church, before the deluge of the war devastated these fair plains. In those days the town, as laid out by Mr. Fewell, after the war was simply an adjacent cornfield and cow pasture.

When the main line of the railroad was built about 1850, the post office was established called "Tudor Hall", which was, I presumed the first name of the railroad station. William Brawner was postmaster and railroad agent, and also kept a store and hotel. He had a partner named John F. Johnson. Mr. F. J. Cannon subsequently started a store near the present site of Prescott's spoke factory. He was bought out by W. C. & B. D. Merchant, and the store was removed to the site of W. Hill Brown's brick residence now on the corner of Fairview street and the railroad. There was a blacksmith shop kept by Mr. N. Woodyard on the corner near the house of Miss Kate Hooe, and near by was a shoemaker named Wm. Manley. Thos. Ellicott was the wheelwright near Merchant's store and Dr. Dow from Connecticut kept a Seminary near the place where Mr. John W. Prescott now resides.

Altogether there were half a dozen families, within a territory now occupied by 1,200 people. The nearest houses which withstood the deluge of war were Mrs. Foley's, on the Quarry road; the Liberia mansion, a mile distant; and the stone house on the Mayfield estate of Mr. John Hooe. During the war many temporary buildings were erected by the military but none survived that period.

If I can safely venture further into the antiquities, I will advance the opinion that the first settlements within the present territory of Manassas District were in what is known as the Bradley neighborhood. The oldest house which was standing with in the memory of persons now living was the Bradley house, which occupied the present site of the Limstrong house, and was torn down about 1850 by Samuel Wolverton. Nearby still stands the Cockrell house which must be nearly 100 years old. It is said that the old Bradley house was at one time a wayside tavern and that stages from the South to the North used it as a stopping place. I cannot understand however by what route they came or went. Neither do I know for what reason the house was called Bradley. The brick house where Mr. Hazen lives, and sometimes called the Bradley house, must have been built early in this century. Before 1850 a store and post-office were kept by Mr. Wm. L. Weir in a building one-half mile east of the Liberia mansion. Later Mr. Weir removed his store and post-office to Milford Mills, now occupied by John R. Hornbaker.

When the Tudor Hall post-office was changed to Manassas Junction about 1853, W. Brawner remained postmaster till the war and as long as Gen. Beauregard's force remained. During the occupancy of the country by the Union army, George W. Roseberry was postmaster and Alex. H. Roseberry his assistant. They were relieved of their duties by Mr. Stonewall Jackson in August, 1862. In 1865 John T. Keys was made postmaster. He was succeeded in 1867 by Col. H. W. Cunningham and he by R. W. Merchant in 1869. George C. Round was appointed in 1871 and resigned in 1873 and was succeeded by Mrs. L. A. Pine who served until 1882. The subsequent officials in charge of the post office were Samuel Martine, George N. Florance, Robt. C. Weir, Isaac P. Baldwin and Mrs. M. H. Davies. The office is now a Presidential office.

The first building erected in Manassas after the war was built by John T. Keys who opened the first store therein in 1865. This building was erected directly in the middle of Main street on the R. R., but was subsequently moved and now stands a few rods to the West of Main street on the R. R. The next building was the Manassas Hotel, now the Goodwin House. It was built and run by O. P. Chappell who also brought the first saw mill here after the war and sawed the lumber for the first schoolhouse and for many other buildings. At the same time the Eureka house on the present site of the Cannon House was built and run by Sumner Pitts. Messrs. Chappell and Pitts both sold out soon and the former Hotel was operated by Harvey B. Varner and the latter by Wm. S. Fewell for some years. The next stores after Keys were opened in the Manassas Hotel building by F. J. Cannon and L. B. Butler, and third one in the Eureka house by W. C. & B. D. Merchant. The latter subsequently opened in the building now occupied by A. J. Silling, the first building built expressly for merchandising purposes. G. L. Hynson and Philip Weinberg soon after bought out Cannon & Butler and Mr. Hynson has continued at or near the old stand for about thirty years. A livery was started by James Woodyard in 1867, a lawyer's office in 1868 by Geo. C. Round, a tin shop in 1869 by A. L. Davis, a sumac factory in 1868 by E. B. Gates, a grist mill for corn by a Mr. Tyson of Maryland; a wagon shop by Bradfield and Hixson; and the first blacksmith shop by John Miles, an ingenious colored man.

Dr. Carter Berkely was the first physician, who was followed by Dr. Alexander, Dr. Lauck and in 1873 by Dr. B. F. Iden. The first private school was opened by Miss Sarah Jane Newcomb in a small Presbyterian chapel torn down about 1876, which stood on the N. W. corner of church and East streets. The first public school was taught in the Methodist Episcopal Church by Miss Estelle Greene.

Manassas is not only the Capital of Prince William county but is fast becoming the chief town of Northern Virginia. As it was a strategic point during the war, it gives promise of becoming a strategic point in time of peace. It is already the largest place between Alexandria and Culpeper and it is becoming a serious rival to those thriving cities. It is the center of the 8th Congressional district and of the 11th Judicial circuit. For several years both our Congressman and Circuit Judge have resided here. Political business, educational, and religious gatherings of this part of Virginia find this a most convenient place of assembly. The town has entertained successfully a Summer Normal school, the Virginia Conference of Methodist Preachers, the Washington City Presbytery, several large Baptist Associations, as well as two large Farmer's Institutes and many republican and democratic conventions. All this naturally brings us business as well as entertainment and instruction.

There is one peculiarity about the population of Manassas. It is especially cosmopolitan. Hence, the "Johnnie Rebs" and "Yanks" live side by side in peace. The two newest and widest avenues opened at the time of the building of the new Courthouse are called Grant and Lee. Here are new comers from Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio, Iowa, Kansas, California, England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, Scandinavia, and New Zealand. There is no surplus of colored population as in some sections of the South. To speak approximately, the people who live, say within two minutes walk of the depot, might be divided, like Gaul into three parts, each nearly equal in numbers. One-third consists of the old residents of the county and their posterity; one-third of Northern or European immigrants; and another third colored people. Whatever friction there may have been in the past, they now live in peace and harmony.

It is frequently remarked by strangers that Manassas resembles more a Western village than a typical southern town. This is, no doubt, because everything is new here. The war swept our plains clear of all rubbish as well as our valuables, and whatever there is here except mother earth and the embankment of the Southern railway, has been placed here since 1865.

With a mile of switches between the village and the junction there is plenty of room for manufacturing shipment and transportation. The largest enterprises now in operation are—

- 1st. The Mayfield and Yorkshire Brownstone Quarries.
- 2nd. Prescott's Spoke Factory.
- 3rd. The Manassas National Bank.
- 4th. Taylor & Brown's Planing Mills.
- 5th. Libeaus' Brick Works.
- 6th. Bull Run Nursery.—Metz & Bro.
- 7th. Cockrell's Nursery.

The man who rewrites this history in 1925 will record that Manassas has quadrupled its resources of money and muscle during the first quarter of the 20th century.
