MANASSAS, VIRGINIA. THURSDAY, SEPT. 18, 1941.

SUBSCRIPTION $1.50 A YEAR

SECRETARY KNOX NAMES EDITOR

R. D. Wharton Designated To Supply Information.

At the suggestion of Secretary of Navy Knox, Mr. R. D. Wharton of Manassas has been made Navy Editor, to help the Navy in giving ambitious local young men information about the opportunities the "Two-Ocean Navy" offers them for technical training and advancement as they serve their country in its emergency.

According to an announcement made public in Washington, a limited number of additional men between the ages of 17 and 50 will be given a chance, by enlistment in the Navy or Naval Reserve, to get to the top, with big pay, in jobs which by their aptitude and as a result of examination they show themselves fitted, from among nearly 50 different trades and vocations. These include such callings as aviation machinist, dental technician, photographer, diesel engineer, radio technician, electrician, welder, storekeeper, and baker. Enlisted men may also qualify for commissions as officers.

Beginning this week the Navy plans for a limited time to accept new qualified men for training. These men will be sent to one of four Naval Training Stations and may have a chance to go to a Navy Trade School even before assignment to the fleet. During this period they will be given regular Naavy pay and the Navy's free schooling is valued at hundreds of dollars.

"Never in the history of the United States has there been greater opportunity for loyal young Americans to their country and build their futures than right now," said Secretary Knox.

In outlining the many advantages offered by enlistment in the United States Navy, Mr. Wharton, Navy Editor of the Journal said, "It is possible for a bright young man to increase his pay seven times during his first enlistment and he can earn as much as $126 a month. This monthly figure is actually worth much more when it is remembered that the man has few living expenses and is provided with the finest of medical and dental care.

"You have all your food and lodging, and also your original outfit of clothing provided by Uncle Sam free," Mr. Wharton continued. "In addition there are free sports and entertainment—even to the latest Hollywood pictures. On top of this you get free travel and adventure in colorful places—a thing few civilians can afford.

"When you consider the size of this country and the fact that the Navy will select only 15,000 applicants a month from many times that number throughout the United States, the quotation, 'Many are called but few are chosen,' will apply to local young men interested.

"Navy men are a 'hand-picked' lot. Candidates must be men of more than average intelligence and ambition, of fine moral character and must have the written recommendation of at least two local townspeople."

As Navy Editor, Mr. Wharton has just received from Washington a supply of free illustrated booklets for all men interested and, in addition, will welcome inquiries from young men who wish to look into the new and greater opportunities the Navy now offers for training for future civilian careers as they serve their country now in its emergency.

NYA STUDENTS HOLD FIRST ANNIVERSARY DANCE

To celebrate the first year of their stay in Manassas, the State Vocational School here is holding a dance here tomorrow evening (Friday).

A fine orchestra has been secured for the occasion and a good time is promised everyone.

The vicinity has welcomed already the splendid efforts made by the boys and their instructors to make themselves felt in community projects, and their dance will unquestionably be patronized liberally.

By popular request, the Otterbein Guild of the Buckhall U. B. Church, will present again, "The Lady Minstrels from Dixie," at Buckhall School House, Friday, September 26.

"BUY AT HOME" TALK FEATURES KIWANIS MEETING

A talk of "Buying at Home" was given at the Kiwanis weekly meeting on Friday.

The meeting tomorrow evening will be featured by talks by past presidents of the local club.

CIVILIAN CORPS PLANS COMPLETE

Will Be under Supervision of Virginia Defense Council.

Completion of the organization and plan of operation of the Civilian Protection Corps of the northern Virginia Regional Defense Council was announced last Monday by Gardner L. Boothe, chairman, following a meeting of the council's executive committee in Alexandria Monday.

The plan for the civil guard force has been in formulation for two now that the regional civilian registration has been completed and the volunteer registry made available to the council, Lyman Kelley, chairman of the Civilian Protection Committee, will proceed to recruit the corps to full strength in every community in the area.

The Civilian Protection Corps, according to Mr. Boothe and Mr. Kelley, is the organization designated by the Defense Council as the responsible official agency to exercise the function of a civil guard force until it becomes necessary for the Virginia Protective Force to take over. The Civilian Protection Committee is to set up as to make it an integral part of an organization now being planned by the Virginia State Defense Council to operate on a statewide basis.

Units of the Civilian Protection Committee will remain in the territory in which they are organized; its members will act as auxiliary foreman, air raid wardens and undertake guard duty when ordered to do so by state police and military authorities.

Mr. Kelley, regional chairman, has urged all members of the corps to bear in mind that their task is to give protective aid to all victims of any major disaster, to work in close co-operation with the American Red Cross Disaster Committee in the event of a major catastrophe in which the Red Cross is giving disaster relief, and to act as a guard of life and property and assist in maintaining order whenever the necessity arises.

In cases of emergency arising within the territory members assigned to guard duty are subject to control and regulation of the duly constituted state and police authorities until such time as they are relieved of duty by state or federal troops. Members will not have the privilege of arrest but will be furnished with insignia showing their authority to act in the capacity of guards and to distinguish them from other citizens.

Mr. Kelley has ordered all county and division chairmen to exercise extreme caution in selecting the personnel of the corps and stresses the fact that it will be a well disciplined, carefully regulated organization, subject to the control of the regional council until such time as the state police authorities deem it necessary to call it into service. The membership of the organization is not secret but publicity as to its activities will be carefully supervised by the Regional and local chairmen, and will emanate from the Regional Council office.

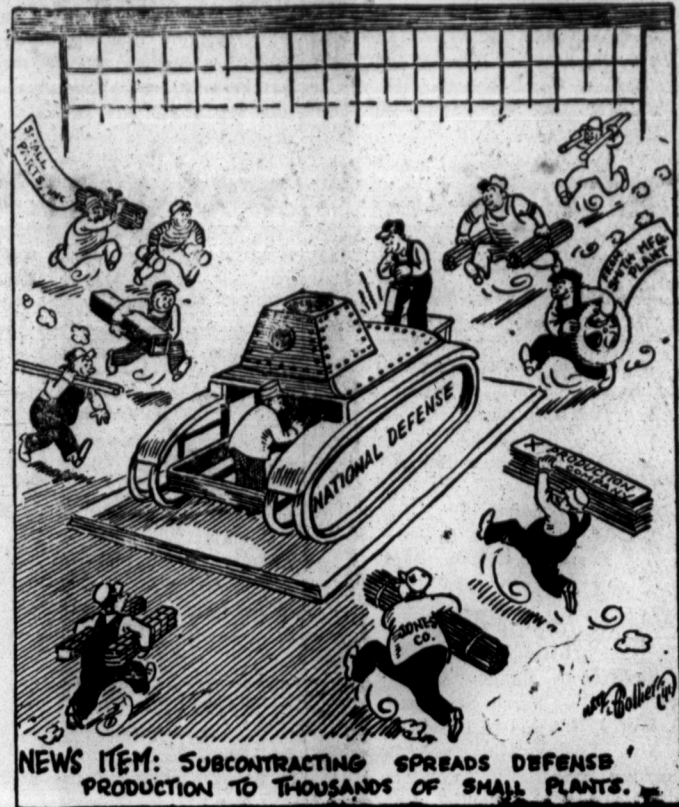

Air Raid Warden details will be organized in the thickly populated areas whose duty it will be to protect civilians in the event of air raids, prevent the curious from entering danger zones and assisting in rescue work when necessary.

Major Everett Hellmuth, chairman of the State Guard and Civil Defense Committee of the Council, Mr. Kelley, Mr. Boothe and others will take part in the formulation of the state wide plan now being undertaken by the Virginia Defense Council.

RODEO AT FRONT ROYAL

The Front Royal Remount Depot has decided to stage a Rodeo and Gymkana on Saturday, September 27, at 2 o'clock p.m. Daylight Saving Time. This event will be a wholly non-profit venture conducted for the benefit of the many Depot charity organizations as well as to assure an even more successful Horse Show in 1942.

Included in the day's events will be bucking horses, steer riding, calf roping, and wild cow milking. In addition to this, the much discussed theory of whether a horse can jump higher than a dog or vice versa will be put to the acid test, and it promises to be an extremely entertaining exhibition.

There will be some contests between the soldiers stationed at the Remount Depot, such as jumping and mounted tug-of-war.

The stock which will be used in the Rodeo is all drawn from the large and famous string of Bob Folette, and in it are included some of the most famous bucking horses and steers that the East has ever known.

For the dog versus horse high jumping contest, the Depot has been fortunate in obtaining one of the best jumping dogs in the South to pit his jumping prowess against a horse selected for his ability from the many horses on the Depot.

With such a schedule lined up Saturday afternoon, September 27, promises to be a day long to be remembered by those who attend.

MOORE GROUP MAKES REPORT

Re-Organization of State Agencies Considered.

The legislative commission authorized at the last session of the General Assembly to study reorganization of the various State government agencies this week submitted its findings to Governor Price for consideration of the next General Assembly were approved and others rejected, particularly the proposal to transfer the Division of Motor Vehicles to other departments.

The Commission also opposed the consolidation of the Conservation, Fisheries and Game Departments into one agency, recommending instead that the chairmen of the three department constitute a committee on co-operation and co-ordination of their respective activities.

Specific recommendations, in the form of an 8-point program were as follows:

(1) The discontinuance of the Virginia Industrial School Board and the Virginia Industrial School Board for Colored Children and the transfer of their powers and duties to the State Board of Public Welfare.

(2) The establishment of a Department of Mental Hygiene and Hospitals.

(3) The organization of a Department of Corrections.

(4) The total abolition of the fee system as a method of compensating sheriffs and sergeants.

(5) The creation of a departmental committee on co-operation and co-ordination in the Department of Conservation and Development composed of the chairmen of the Virginia Conservation Commission, the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries and the Commission of Fisheries.

(6) A rearrangement of the terms of the members of the three commissions comprising the Department of Conservation and Development, so that the term of the chairman in each case shall be coincident with that of the Governor making the appointment, and the terms of the remaining members four years with two expiring every two years after the first appointments. This also involves a reduction in membership of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries from seven to five.

(7) The transfer from the Department of Agriculture and Immigration to the Department of Health of the administration of the laws relating to the inspection and sanitation of hotels, restaurants, filling stations and tourist camps for the protection of public health.

(8) The repeal of the abortive central mailing room law of 1927. (The central mailing room was never established, but the law requiring it still is on the statute books).

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Matter" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 21.
The Golden Text will be "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world" (1 John 2:15).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thus saith the Lord, thy Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel; I am the Lord thy God which teacheth thee to profit, which leadeth thee by the way that thou shouldest go. O that thou hadst hearkened to my commandments! then had thy peace been as a river, and thy righteousness as the waves of the sea;" (Isa. 48:17, 18).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Every step towards goodness is a departure from materiality, and is a tendency towards God, Spirit" (p. 213).

A SABBATH'S EVENING'S THOUGHT

Another day is drawing to its close,
The sweet eventide of a Sabbath day;
Have we done our part as our Saviour would?
In aiding our brother on th' narrow way?
Our brother's keeper—do we do our part?
(It's a sacred trust—which we seldom own)
In foreign lands and the isles of the sea?

Many have not been blessed, as we have been Heavenly blessings of innumerable count
Have we done our part as our Saviour would?
To just how much do we really amount?
—Eva Everett Davison.

MARINES MAY FLY MOTORLESS PLANES

Motorless planes may soon be a part of the equipment at U.S. Marine flying fields. The Marine Corps has already assigned Lieutenant E. M. Mallory to the Motorless Institute at Chicago for training.
After gliding for a total of 25 to 35 hours during approximately two weeks of training, Lieutenant Mallory received a certificate as a qualified glider. Besides having his motorless plane towed behind powerful aircraft, he did some soaring and tested various launchings with the aid of a winch, automobile and pulley.

Following the completion of his training a number of other officers and enlisted men of the Marine Corps will be schooled in this hitherto rather neglected form of air navigation, even though the art of gliding is an old one.

Most American aviators are convinced that gliding has a place in military flying, especially after learning the success of the Germans in their earlier campaigns in Belgium and France, and in taking the island of Crete.

Experiments in gliding were made in the first half of the 19th century, and such experiments have been accelerated in recent years.

Their silent approach to an objective and the fact that no fuel is required add to their value as flying craft. Some gliders have flown over 465 miles, and have reached altitudes upward of 22,400 feet above the starting point.

Virginia Farmers Find That it Pays to Use More Lime

TONNAGE RECORD OF AAA FARMERS:

1936	-	-	-	182,684
1937	-	-	-	291,102
1938	-	-	-	393,473
1939	-	-	-	416,062
1940	-	-	-	567,552

Lime, as a soil-building practice, is being used by farmers in every county in Virginia. Travelers see lime piled in fields, see it being spread, or see evidence of its having been spread, in practically every community.

Farmers who participate in the AAA program have made remarkable progress in this soil-building practice since 1936. The tonnage increased from 182,684 the first year to 291,102 tons in 1937—393,473 tons in 1938—416,062 tons in 1939—567,552 tons in 1940. Preliminary figures indicate that the tonnage used in the 1941 program year, which ended June 30, will be a substantial increase over 1940. These figures do not include lime used outside of the AAA program.

In spite of the progress that has been made, it is estimated that Virginia farmers annually use only about one-third of the tonnage they should use to maintain their soils at the proper chemical condition for the most efficient plant production. Experiments have revealed that every $1 invested in lime used under proper conditions brings a return of at least $3. Lime increases the growth of soil-building legumes and grasses, and benefits come from the improved yield of other crops that follow the soil-building crops in the rotation.

Lime is again available to farmers under the 1942 AAA program, which began July 1, 1941, and will close June 30, 1942, and may be used in earning soil-building payments in approved practices. Since it has proven its worth by demonstration, and farmers may order it through their county associations with the minimum trouble and have the cost of the material deducted from payments earned on the farm, the AAA committee believes that there will be increased use of lime each year.

Producers who prefer to buy lime from commercial sources rather than request it through the program, get equal credit for its use.

For those who obtain it through the program, says the committee, the most urgent problem is for farmers to get and apply lime at an early date. Agronomists say that any time you can get it on the land is a good time to apply lime. It has been found that lime applied on a sod is just as effective as when applied on plowed land. If more farmers will get the materials on early, there will be less likelihood of delays in delivery in the customary rush fall and spring seasons.

A MESSAGE FROM YOUR RED CROSS REPORTER

The significance of the Red Cross Roll Call this year must already have penetrated the consciousness of every American. In discharging its obligations to our armed forces, in National Defense participation, and in extending War Relief wherever conditions permit, the American Red Cross is performing services that commendably account for every membership dollar entrusted to its administrators.

In Pr. Wm. County Red Cross activities have been vastly expanded during recent months and the local Chapter needs the support of every citizen in the county to carry on its public health, educational and disaster preparedness and relief projects.

As of June 30, 1941, War Relief to the value of $47,087,052 has been extended to other countries by the American Red Cross in which is included supplies valued at $25,327,822 purchased by Federal Agencies for distribution by the Red Cross.

An average of six vessels each week carries Red Cross supplies to Great Britain and the amount of relief made available to the British people by and through the American Red Cross is $25,340,353 to date. Although no shipments have been made to France since April 17th, up to that time $4,737,615 went to her aid. However supplies of milk, vitamins and clothing are being distributed to children in Unoccupied France and limited quantities of medical supplies are distributed generally.

Aid to Finland amounted to $2,383,131 but there have been no shipments there since May 29th. Relief operations in China, and particularly in Free China, are being conducted on an ever-increasing scale where wheat, rice and medical supplies are being distributed, a great portion of which is laboriously hauled over the Burma Road and $2,936,124 have been expended for China's relief. Other miscellaneous relief operations have included $391,113 to Greece, $75,000 to Yugoslavia, $2,183,014 to British East through Cairo, and $1,821,568 to Spain. Prisoners for War are being supplied with food, clothing and comfort articles toward which $267,647 have been spent.

RED CROSS EXTENDS PROGRAM FOR COLLECTING BLOOD

There is an urgent need for blood donors in this area to meet the transfusion requirements in 26 Naval Hospitals and in Walter Reed Hospital in the District of Columbia. During July 800 donors willingly gave their blood to help the men serving our country. The Navy is appealing now for 1,000,000 donors and the call will soon be heard as well from other branches of the service. Any man or woman in good health can answer this appeal!

"BLOSSOMS IN THE DUST" NEXT PITT'S ATTRACTION

Inspired by the life of Mrs. Edna Gladney of Fort Worth, founder of the Texas Children's Home and Aid Society, who has devoted thirty years to child welfare and has found happy homes for more than 2000 babies, "Blossoms in the Dust", starring Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon, opens Monday and Tuesday, September 22-23 at the Pitt's Theatre for an engagement of two days.

Filmed in Technicolor, the picture reveals for the first time the full beauty of the red-headed, green-eyed Irish actress who rose to stardom overnight with her memorable performance of "Mrs. Chips" in "Good-bye, Mr. Chips". Now, as Mrs. Gladney, she has been given another tender, warmly human role of equal brilliance.

The most dramatic and heart-touching story ever brought to the screen, the picture opens in the gay, colorful Gibson Girl period of 1906, when lovely Edna Kahley meets falls in love with and marries Sam Gladney, played by Pidgeon. Mrs. Gladney becomes interested in child welfare when she observes the difficulties women workers in her husband's flour mill have in caring for their children.

Simply and quietly Mrs. Gladney goes about her chosen work of helping babies and assuring reforms in adoption laws. When Sam Gladney suffers financial reverses and loses the mills they move to Fort Worth, where Mrs. Gladney rings every doorbell in Texas in order to secure funds to start a new home. The screen has never brought a more beautiful romantic story to the screen than this one of a woman who fell in love with 2000 babies.

THE LATEST THRUST AT VIRGINIA

For some time local county governments have been infested with various proposals to replace their present set-up with some kind of executive form which will operate to concentrate power and remove the electorate as far as possible from control of their own affairs.

In Fairfax County, if not elsewhere, it was broadly intimated during the progress of these campaigns that some very un-holy influences were at work to utilize these periods of agitation to further their own Un-American objectives.

Optional forms of managerial county government have been on the statute books of Virginia for some time now, and they are not being widely regarded with favor throughout the State. Apparently they have outlived their purpose and usefulness and a new device, following the pattern which has been widely publicized as used by those who seek to destroy public confidence in local government, has come into vogue.

It is called "The City-County Consolidate". Somebody named John A. Rush has written a book on the subject and he devotes a special chapter to the situation in Virginia, where it is claimed the only "Free Cities" exist. The new plan would consolidate governmental machinery of "free" cities with the counties in which they lie. Just which county, however, Alexandria lies in is not solved, and we believe that both the citizens of Virginia's Free Cities, and of the adjacent rural areas are very well satisfied with the present arrangement, which would operate in some places to permit the county to swallow the city and visa versa.

All these crack-pot schemes are unquestionably born of a determination to destroy the good will now existing in the areas described and to undermine confidence in local self government and we hope that all such, including "The City-Consolidated" idea will be effectively squelched by the next

MODERN EFFICIENCY

OUR CONCEPTION of efficiency changes with time. Armies used to win victories with horses and sabres. Now they use tanks and machine guns.

FARMER'S SCRAP METAL

The County Agent in Henrico County has discovered that there are approximately 100 tons of scrap metal scattered about on the 1,300 farms in the county. The discovery was made in connection with a survey of the needs of agricultural machinery conducted under the auspices of the Agriculture Defense Board. Most of the metal was in the form of discarded machinery and farm tools left lying in out-of-the-way places and being gradually eaten by rust.

It would be interesting to know how much old metal could be picked up in this way on farms throughout Virginia. If each of the 100 counties in the State had as much scrap metal as Henrico has, it would amount to 10,000 tons, which is a lot of scrap. Metal is valuable now, and it would probably pay a farmer to collect scrap in a pile and sell it. What is even more important, it would help, even in a small way, to supply one of the Nation's most vital defense needs. —Northern Virginia Daily.

CONGRATULATING THE FREE-LANCE STAR

The Free-Lance Star is to be congratulated upon its recent refusal to publish the views of an esteemed citizen on a subject of public interest because the letter was too long.

"Six pages", the editor says, "of single spaced typing is more than we can accommodate. 4500 words on any subject, pro or con, requiring four and a half columns of space and many hours of composition and proof reading, is more than any person should expect even of an accommodating newspaper".

"If this gentleman, for whom we entertain the highest regard personally although disagreeing with his views, will condense his article or abbreviate it or re-write it in a reasonable length it will be published".

That goes for us too. So many communications, worthy of publication, have to be rejected for want of time, space and expense of printing, when the writer could certainly reach the public if he would only appreciate the necessity for being concise and brief.

COMMITTEE RAISING HOSPITAL FUNDS

A campaign to raise funds for the enlargement of the Mary Washington Hospital is under way at Fredericksburg and in this section this week.

The Fund Committee is seeking $200,000 in order to carry out plans to increase the hospital's normal patient capacity from 75 to 140, and to enlarge and modernize the institution so that it will be adequate in every way to completely serve the needs of this section of Virginia.

It is hoped that a government grant for $100,000 may be secured and that the people of this section will subscribe the remainder.

The Mary Washington Hospital was built in 1898 and subsequently was several times enlarged. During its existence it has had as patients many persons from this section.

THANKSGIVING INDICATIONS

Among the many interesting signs that summer is about to end are current evidences that our annual Thanksgiving Day will be duly celebrated. We always know that we will have a Thanksgiving Day and we always have a great deal to be thankful for, but recently we have experienced more or less difficulty in discerning what Thursday in November should be recognized.

Last year some States celebrated the last Thursday, some the third Thursday, and some both, all due to a decision by the President to move the holiday up a week. Virginia officially followed the White House.

This year an Associated Press dispatched quotes our Governor as saying on September 15 that he would again follow the President's lead in proclaiming November 20.

But the White House, according to published statements, has announced that the President this year will return to the old last Thursday in November.

Anyway we are certain that there will be a Thanksgiving and that we have more to be thankful for this year than any nation in the world, and at least we ought to be thankful for the prospect of a good old Thanksgiving on the traditional day.

We wish to thank our various correspondents for sending their notes early this week.

WORLD WAR VETERAN
LEADER OF MARINES

Some 60,000 U. S. Marines are under the leadership of Major General Thomas Holcomb who, for more than forty years, has performed a variety of military and naval duties in all parts of the globe.

From far-off China to the battlefields of France and from the Philippines to the West Indies, his service has covered nearly every sort of an assignment which could be given to a Soldier of the Sea.

Born in Delaware, he entered the Marine Corps as a young lieutenant in 1900 and almost immediately won fame as a rifeman, receiving a gold medal and becoming the world's champion long distance rifle shot in international matches fired at Ottawa, Canada, in 1902.

Later he began the first of three tours of duty in China, where he served a total of seven years and became an authority on Chinese problems while he learned to speak the language fluently.

Following a variety of other assignments, he went to France in 1918, where he commanded the 2nd battalion of the 6th Marines in a number of engagements from Belleau Wood to the Meuse-Argonne.

For conspicuous gallantry and leadership he was awarded a Navy Cross, Silver Star with three oak leaf clusters, Purple Heart, Legion of Honor (France), Croix de Guerre with three other medals.

We wish to thank our various correspondents for sending their notes early this week.

THE BRITISH IN WASHINGTON

There are more Britisers in Washington in Washington today than at any time since 1814. About 3,000 employees of the British Government are in the Capital of the United States, of whom 1,000 or more are British citizens. There are R. A. F. pilots, scores of girls in the women's auxiliaries of the services—the W. A. A. F., the W. R. E. N., and the A. T. S., who arrived by clipper or bomber ferry. How these britisers carry on and the important work they are doing is told in an illustrated feature article appearing next Sunday in the Washington Sunday Star.

FREDERICKSBURG PREPARES FOR DOG MART

Entries for Fredericksburg's annual Dog Mart which had its origin here nearly two and a half centuries ago—already are beginning to pour in and indications are that the event will attract both participants and spectators this year in greater numbers than ever before.

The Mart is to be held on September 26, approximately two weeks earlier than usual, on the James Monroe High School campus with Edwin A. Gibson as general chairman.

It will begin at 9 A.M. with a bench show for all classes which will last until noon. Following the show a parade will take place in which the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps, Boy and Girl Scout Organizations, costumed Indians from the Pamunkey Reservation, the dogs and their owners and military units from Fredericksburg and the nearby A. P. Hill Military Reservation, are expected to participate. In the afternoon the auction proper will begin with the sounding of the auctioneer's ancient bell used in pre-Revolutionary days to summon slaves on the nearby farm of Mrs. Washington, George Washington's mother.

The dog mart had its origin in 1698 when the white settlers of this section agreed with the Indians to declare a truce for one day each year in order to meet to buy, sell, and trade dogs.

The spot chosen for this meeting was in Leesland, which now is Fredericksburg, and the white man and the Indian came together on peaceful terms, laying aside their arms for the day. This custom continued until the outbreak of the Revolutionary War at which time hostilities became so intense that it was deemed unsafe to continue this practice.

The dog mart was revived in 1927 by the Chamber of Commerce and has continued to be an annual event each year attracting dog lovers from the entire surrounding sections as well as those from distant points. Last year more than 5,000 persons attended the mart.

NOW THE HIGH LINE'S HERE

By Frank J. G. Duck, Secretary
Farm Electrification Bureau

POULTRY housing often includes a hen house, incubator room, brooder house and feed room, all of which may or may not be under one roof, depending upon the size of the flock.

The hen house requires light for the normal work of the farmer and also to increase winter egg production by extending the daylight hours. As the cost of the necessary lighting is low, every egg producer should have his hen house properly lighted. Usual practice is to use one 40-watt bulb for each 200 square feet of floor area, the lights being equipped with shallow dome reflectors and hung just high enough above the floor to illuminate the back roosts.

Dimming equipment or an auxiliary lighting circuit can be provided where lights are used to stimulate egg production during winter months. The former is preferable as it imitates the slow fading of daylight and thus allows ample time for the hens to roost. The auxiliary circuit, using 10- or 15-watt bulbs which give a dim light when used alone, is turned off after allowing sufficient time for the hens to roost. Each system may be controlled by a time clock or manually. Many poultry raisers eliminate the need for dimmers or auxiliary circuits by turning on the lights early in the morning and off after daylight.

The arrangement of the incubators will determine the outlet locations in that room, as light should be provided on their front surfaces. In other parts of the room, if it is large, general lighting is necessary. Shallow dome reflectors, mounted close to the ceiling, may be used with 25-, 40- or 60-watt bulbs. The switch controlling the lighting should be at the doorway. If the incubator room is located under the hen house, an outside light—controlled from the head of the stairs—should be installed.

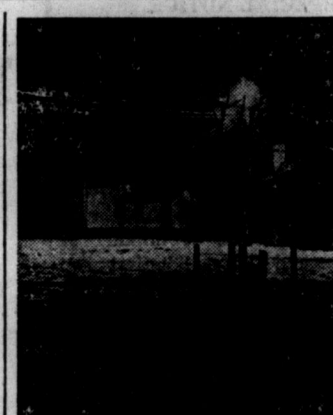

Usually, one 25- or 40-watt bulb—mounted close to the roof—is sufficient for the brooder house. A special branch circuit is required for the brooders. Where the roof is low, convenience outlets for electric brooders should be directly overhead. In some cases, heavy-duty receptacles should be used and, in all cases, your electrical contractor should install wiring of sufficient size to carry the current load represented by one or more electric brooders.

If the bins in the feed room are sufficiently large, they should be individually lighted by 25-watt bulbs. Otherwise, the best arrangement is to have a unit opposite alternate bin partitions. Lights should be controlled by a switch at the point of entrance. Branch circuits, with suitable power outlets, should be provided for the operation of motor-driven equipment used in feed grinding, mixing, etc.

The lighting of a small machine shop, which contains a work bench, forge, anvil, grindstone and smaller tools, should be designed to provide good local illumination for the individual jobs—in addition to some general lighting. For the latter, a 100-watt bulb in an RLM reflector at the center of the ceiling, with a switch at the door, should be sufficient. The size of the work bench naturally determines the number of lights needed for close work. Each should consist of a 100-watt bulb in a direct bowl reflector having a pull switch. The large shop and machine shed need only be lighted as storage spaces unless they are put to more specific use.

Suitable branch wiring circuits should be provided for the permanent motor-driven equipment of the machine shop, with two or three convenience outlets for the operation of portable tools such as electric drills and the like. The latter should be provided with extension cords of the type that will withstand hard usage and of sufficient length to reach various parts of the shop. All extension cord lamps should have a wire guard.

For protection against thieves, as well as from walking into or tripping over unseen objects in the dark, it is both desirable and necessary to have an adequate system of yard lighting. A little light goes a long way on dark nights. For that reason, only three lighting units are required for the effective lighting of the average farmyard—one at the house, one at the barn and one at the garage. Yard lights should be at least fifteen feet above the ground and equipped with flat dome reflectors. The height is necessary to allow a wide spread of light as well as to enable a person to see beyond the lamp. Without reflectors, much of the light would escape uselessly upward.

Bulbs of 100-, 150- or 200-watts should be used, and the holders should be of the weatherproof type. Although it increases the wiring cost somewhat, for greatest convenience it is recommended that the yard lights be controlled by three- or four-way switches. With the former, it is possible to turn the lights on and off from both the house and another point, say the barn. With the latter, they also can be controlled from an upstairs bedroom—particularly desirable when prowlers are about.

If you will insist that your farm home and buildings be lighted and wired in accordance with the recommendations briefly outlined in this series of articles, your electric service will yield the utmost in comfort, convenience, safety and profit for years to come.

(This is the last of a series of nine articles on the proper wiring and lighting of the farm)

HARRISONBURG PREPARES FOR TURKEY FESTIVAL

Harrisonburg and Rockingham County will again pay tribute to the turkey, the bird that brings over a million dollars annually into the county, when the third annual Rockingham Turkey Festival is held in Harrisonburg, Virginia on October 9 and 10.

Faced with the task of making this year's Festival even a greater celebration than those of past years, Festival officials have been busy for the past six months setting the stage for the event which is expected to attract more than 100,000 persons to Harrisonburg. Last year's event drew a record crowd of 75,000 persons for the second day alone with at least half that number attending the first day.

Preparation for the coronation ceremony in which Pretty Jacquelyn McWin, of Waynesboro, Va., winner of the Miss Virginia title, will be crowned Queen Rockingham III, got under way yesterday with the announcement from headquarters that Mrs. Lawrence Hoover would head the coronation committee. The coronation will be held on the broad campus of Madison College, and according to present plans the ceremony will be more colorful and larger than those of any previous year.

Meanwhile preparations for the Grand Parade on the second day of the event indicate that this highlight of the Festival will find a record number of floats, bands and other colorful units in the line of march.

Rehearsals for the "Turkey Follies of 1942", a brilliant musical revue, produced by the Seydell-Stiles production Company of New York, will get under way next week. Three presentations of the revue will be given during the Festival.

A firemen's and mummies' parade and children's patriotic and entertainment features will make the two days and nights of the Festival a gala celebration.

EMPLOYMENT OFFICE FILLS MANY JOBS

Employers of Alexandria, Arlington, Fairfax and Prince William Counties were assisted in locating workers to fill 908 jobs in August, 1941 according to the report submitted by Carter W. Friend, Manager of the local office of the Virginia State Employment Service. This is an increase of 52 per cent over August, 1940 when 663 placements were made. For the period of January 1 through August 31, 1941 the local office made 6910 complete placements, an increase of 44 per cent over the same period in 1940 when 4799 placements were recorded. According to the present trend in volume of activities the office will greatly exceed the 1940 total of 8152 placements when an all-time yearly record was made.

482 men and 426 women were placed in employment in August, 1941. Of these, 456 were placed in regular jobs. In addition, the office referred 68 persons to federal jobs and sent 15 others to jobs outside of its operating area. 72 visits to employers were made by members of the office staff.

With the increase in employment opportunities, more workers will be needed and all persons seeking employment are urged to register immediately at the office located at 301 King Street in Alexandria. This office serves the employers and workers of Arlington, Fairfax, and Prince William Counties and Alexandria City.

We wish to thank our various correspondents for sending their notes early this week.

WILD LIFE CONSERVATION
IN THE OLD DOMINION

August 26, 1941 will go down as a redletter day for Game and Fish Conservation in Virginia.

In the Capitol at Richmond, on the invitation of the Game Commission, the members of the Advisory Council for Game and Fish Conservation met with the Governor and the Commission in the common interest of Game and Fish Conservation in the Old Dominion.

Previously, at the request of the Commission, the hunters and fisherman of each county and city had chosen a representative on the Advisory Council for a year. So that over a hundred men were present to represent them at this all important meeting.

The meeting was opened by Chairman Nolting of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries who introduced Governor Price. The Governor gave a splendid talk and a lot of good advice on game and fish conservation. Chairman Nolting next requested Laurens D. Handy, member of the Commission, to outline some of the aims and activities of the Commission, particularly as applied to the Virginia Bob White (A copy of this address was supplied each member of the advisory council).

Chairman Nolting, having previously invited the Council to be the luncheon guests of the Commission at the John Marshall Hotel, then appointed James Taylor Robertson of the Richmond Times Dispatch as temporary Chairman to take charge of the organization of the Council.

Mr. Robertson after having his appointment confirmed unanimously by the Council, instructed the members of the advisory council from each Congressional District to select a Chairman from their district, and those nine chairmen would form a nominating committee to bring in a slate of Officers after luncheon.

After luncheon the nominating Committee, after careful consideration submitted the following to the Council: for President, Ben Temple, Rosegill Farm, Urbans.

Vice-President, Jordan A. Pugh, 3rd, Norfolk.

Secretary, C. G. Jackson, Hot Springs.

This slate of officers were elected for one year.

President Temple then took charge of the meeting. A resolution was introduced, and after considerable discussion, was passed making the Chairmen from each Congressional District (who had served as Nominating Committee) a member of an Executive Committee consisting of these nine men and the three officers who had just been elected.

The Executive Committee therefore becomes the agency through which the problems of the hunters and fishermen are taken up with the Game Commission. It was pointed out and all agreed that this in no way bridge the rights and the responsibilities of each member of the Advisory Council, but was a necessary expedient for a more effective presentation to the Commission of the problems.

The above organization enables all hunters and fishermen in Virginia, through suggestions to their Advisory Councilmen and District representative on the Executive Committee, to have their part in assisting the Game Commission in the great task of making the Old Dominion the best Game and Fish state in the Union.

Talk it over with your member of the Advisory Council, and LET'S GO.

The member of the Advisory Council for Prince William County is Mr. O. O. Holler.

BOBWHITE QUAIL
RESTOCKING BEGINS

This fall's game restocking is under way, and already 3250 bobwhite quail have been released in the State this season, it was learned from the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries. About six thousand birds will be released in Virginia this fall, and several thousand more will be put out next spring.

A new record in game restocking was made last year when over ten thousand bobwhites were liberated by the Game Commission. A still larger number of birds will be restocked during the current fiscal year, according to C. F. Phelps, the Commission's Superintendent of Game Propagation.

Other game species will also be restocked this year. A large number of turkeys have been raised at the Game Commission's wild turkey farm located on the Cumberland State Forest. The turkeys raised this year will soon be released in forested areas in Virginia where turkeys could survive if brood stock were present.

Plans are being made for continuing the deer restocking which has been under way in many western counties for several years. Several large deer herds are being built up in areas where native deer were exterminated many years ago.

A new rabbit management project is to be inaugurated this fall. Several thousand rabbits will be trapped in counties where these animals are plentiful and released in areas where rabbits are scarce. A number of raccoons will also be trapped and moved to sections of the State where the 'coon supply is not satisfactory, and plans have been made for experimental trapping and restocking of beaver.

CURING DIPHTHERIA

"Diphtheria under one name or another can be traced back for more than 2000 years. If not properly treated it is one of the most fatal of all communicable diseases. The germ causing diphtheria was discovered fifty-seven years ago. Six years later researchers Vonberhing in Germany and Kitasato in Japan produced an antitoxin in the blood of animals which neutralized the poison produced by the diphtheria germ and rendered this poison harmless. The discovery of this antitoxin led to many studies which have resulted in present methods of producing antitoxin and in its administration. Antitoxin markedly has reduced the diphtheria death rate", states Dr. I. C. Riggan, state health commissioner. "Diphtheria is a specific and infectious disease. It is highly contagious.

The germs may be transmitted from one person to another by direct or indirect contact. Contaminated articles such as common drinking cups, clothing or any materials that have been in close association with an infected person may carry the germs. Milk supplies may be contaminated by persons ill with the disease or by healthy carriers of the germ.

"The first symptoms are those of an ordinary sore throat usually accompanied by a sensation of chilliness and perhaps aches in the back and legs. In mild cases the early symptoms may not be of sufficient severity for the child to go to bed.

"For more than 30 years antitoxin treatment has been available for the treatment of diphtheria. If given in time antitoxin cures. If antitoxin is administered during the first day of the disease nearly 100 per cent recovery. When this treatment is not made available until the second day deaths are about 5 per cent. Percentages of fatalities when antitoxin is administered on the third, fourth, fifth and sixth days increase in proportion.

"It becomes apparent, therefore, that delay in diagnosis and treatment are the real death allies of diphtheria. To fight them successfully, parents should promptly send for the family physician if a child is sick and has a sore throat. In such cases if the illness actually is diphtheria, science is in a strategic position to fight. In any event, it is life insurance for the child at its very best."

ANNUAL MEETING AT HISTORIC ST. PETER'S

The society for the Restoration of St. Peter's, New Kent, will be held this coming Sunday, with services beginning at 11 A.M.

Dinner will be served on the grounds at 1 P.M., and the business meeting at 2:30.

St. Peter's is one of the colonial churches being brought back into excellent condition through the efforts of Dr. Brydon, historiographer of the Diocese, and for many years its treasurer.

Like so many other Virginia churches it was shamefully treated during the War between the States. The church was not actually put into use until about 1700, although there was a very live congregation as early as 1690 composed of planters for many miles around.

Samuel Winston Lacy, clerk of the court of Kent County, is treasurer of the present organization. His address is Tunstall, Virginia, and any one whose forebears attended this church is not only eligible but urged to join at an annual membership fee of only $1.00.
